New Permits To Stifle Sneak Parking On West Campus Lot Next Semester

Permanent window stickers next semester will aid in the limiting of cars entering the west campus to those with passes, Dean Jack Brady said today.

Instead of the usual small card, which is often put in the bearer's wallet rather than the car window, a transferable glossy sticker will be given to parkers in the west campus.

This sticker will be put in the driver's side window so it can be easily seen by the west gate keepers.

The issuance of these parking permits will run according to prescribed schedule, the college instructors first, west campus barracks inhabitants next, handicapped students, and finally the rest of the students on a first come first serve basis, Brady revealed.

Along with the new system of parking stickers is a tentative plan to enlarge parking facilities in the college. Certain grassy areas on the north of the present park ground and southwest from the student lounge will be used in the allotting of space for parking, Brady hinted.

Stamp, Envelopes Help Mail Grades To Grads

Students planning to terminate their city college attendance with this semester were warned of change in the procedure of receiving their final grades by Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, yesterday.

In lieu of receiving grades in the customary manner, students are requested to leave a self-addressed, stamped envelope in the main office or to call for the grades there, on and not before Friday, February 20.

"Non-returning students will find it impossible to secure grades in Building 2 when the registration line forms in the registration period. These students must follow the foregoing instructions," Miss Learnard said.

Kangaroo Court Funds Donation To CARE

Thirty-four dollars and thirty-five cents, profits from the Associated Students sponsored Kangaroo court, will be donated to CARE, Frank Grant, Associated Men Student president, said yesterday.

Adding that he was gratified for the success of the venture, Grant extended thanks to members of the Student Council for their help.

Loyalty Of Elected Officers Is To The Students, Not To A Select Few

WITH student elections just over and those elected making ready to assume the duties of their respective offices, we extend our thanks to all candidates for their initiative and desire to serve the Associated Students as elected representatives.

In an humble manner, certainly not an omnipotent one, we wish to offer certain suggestions, culled from some experience with student government, to help make the first few weeks of taking office somewhat easier for the new student leaders.

First is the fact that regardless of who is believed to be responsible for a successful campaign, the loyalties and actions of an elected person are due the Associated Students, not any minority group or abstract ideal.

Hand in hand with this action for the majority, however, go protection and consideration of the rights and feelings of the minority.

There will be few changes, except in procedure and thinking, which a student government can make. The important and highly intricate aspects of college administration must be left in the hands of the faculty who take into consideration just what affect a major change would have on the future of the college.

There is a plethora of work which a student government can accomplish and this is not meant to discourage their efforts, but it should be accomplished in cooperation with, not opposition to, the faculty.

The Assistant Dean of Men, J. J. Brady, is the faculty adviser to the student council and he alone should be approached for approval of any contemplated action. Student officers should never begin a project simply because some other member of the faculty deems it correct.

With these suggestions go our best wishes for a successful and worthwhile semester to the newly elected student leaders.

News To Nobody . . .

By Herbert Levy

MASTERFULLY reproducing the charm of San Francisco in a new slick papered pamphlet, the S. F. Chamber of Commerce shortly will distribute these booklets to anyone interested in having one.

Swerving away from the old stuff, i.e., "The City that knows how," this new creation shows the future of old S.F., with a whole string of different angled pictures of the city.

This all leads into the fact that three of the men, who have given most of their time and creative instincts to this project, are all former members of the "old Junior College."

Len Gross, Fall '40, C. of C., Acting Publicity Manager (he was twice Editor of The Guardsman), Louis Goldstone, Spring '40, Guardsman Associate Editor, who did the free lance drawings and layout for the brochure, and Tom King, Spring '41, a photographer on the job!! . . . See what a college education does for you?

Changing the college name has brought varied reactions in the local downtown papers; for instance, the Sunday drama section of The Chronicle (last Sunday's edition) was advertising "The Importance of Being Earnest" at the (catch this) "San Francisco Junior College Little Theater." (My, my!)

The Chronicle again mentioned the fact on its sport page that CCSF will play the USF Frosh at the SFJC Gym. (How confusing.)

Some of the more retiring Ramettes about the campus are wondering why (as this is leap year) somebody doesn't throw a dance, whereby the co-eds can make a play for men around here, which isn't such a bad idea.

Going along with that suggestion, we have stolen a small item from the San Jose State paper, which in turn was lifted from the College of the Pacific fishwrapper, which stated that a group of male COP'ers had formed a "Gigolo Club," whereby they would rent themselves for an evening for young ladies who had no dates. Rates: 75 cents for informal shindigs, $1.50 for formals.

FLASH!! Trev Burrow, former president of the Associated Students, ex-prexy of the ex-G.I. Society, chairman of the Election Committee, chairman of the Publications Board (in his spare time he also goes to classes) eloped last Friday to Reno with Jean Cunningham, sister of Murney Cunningham, Alpha Gamma Sigma president. (The only reason we're putting this in, is because he is standing over our shoulder.) Burrow is also "Editor of The Guardsman. Ye Gads!!

West Campus Guard Nabs Would-Be Gate Crashers

By Thermon Jones

Among the multitude of automobiles that enter the west gate legally every day, there are a few that gain admittance by unfair means.

According to Officer W. E. Arrington, gatekeeper, a number of shrewd and diversified tricks are used to fool the guard at west gate.

Some of these crashers use last year's permits whose numbers are below eleven thousand. This year's permits number eleven thousand and upward, so the illegal cards are easily spotted and, just as easily, confiscated.

Others use just any card similar to a permit. These fake cards don't fool Arrington at all. He may let the car go through once, but will remember the time of the episode and the description of the lawbreaker.

Then, the next time, the illegal entry is averted and usually never tried again, because of shame and knowledge of certain frustration.

Officer Arrington has in his possession a homemade card that he suspected phony some time ago. The first time the entrance was successful, but Arrington remembered that the red printing on the card was a shade off the rest. The forger was apprehended on the next attempt and the card taken away.

"That's a good way to start in serious forgery," was Arrington's comment.

There will soon be a change in the rules governing the parking permits to the west campus, Arrington said.

The plan is to call in all active cards and replace them with window stickers. There will be a set for instructors and a set for students. The stickers must be stuck on cars windows. "No one will be able to get through the gate without a sticker on the window," Arrington said.

The new plan is hoped to stop, completely, all illegal entrances to the west campus. It will also alleviate the parking problem inside the west campus grounds. Arrington is in favor of the new plan, because the job of spotting trespassers will be easier.

Club Cavalcade . . .

• Alpha Gamma Sigma: There will be a social meeting at 7:30 p.m. tonight in the student lounge. Members can bring dates.

• Alpha Sigma Delta: Officers of this new organization are John Pifer, president; Don Fisher, vice president; William Choulos, secretary; James Benson, CAB representative. There are at the present time 19 chartered members. Russell Posner is the faculty adviser.

• Alpha Theta Epsilon: There will be an important meeting during college hour today. Election of next semester's officers will be held.

• Beta Phi Beta: Election of officers took place Monday night at the home of Frank Reed. Final arrangements were made for a ski trip, February 6-10, at Alpine Lodge.

• Chinese Student Club: Nomination of next semester officers will be held during college hour today in Building 2, Room A.

•Delta Psi: Officers for next semester were elected at a business meeting in the student lounge last Wednesday evening. A dinner for the installation of the officers was discussed.

• Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon: Trev Burrow recently announced his marriage to Jeane Cunningham, sister of Murney Cunningham, president of Alpha Gamma Sigma.

• Forum Club: The last meeting of the current semester will be held tonight at 8 o'clock, at 2251 Jackson Street. The topic for discussion is "Capitalism versus Collectivism." All students are invited.

• Gamma Phi Ypsilon: A social meeting will be held tonight at the home of Maurice Flemming, 375 Monterey Avenue, at 8 o'clock. Hell Week commenced last Monday for all pledges.

• Masonic Club: All members are asked to attend the club meeting in Room 133 during college hour today. A campaign for expansion and a membership drive will be discussed.

• Ram Cam: Members are asked to be present during the college hour today in Building 9, Room E, for election of officers.

• Theta Tau: A business meeting was held at the home of Donna Malm. A ski trip with Beta Tau of February 6, 7, 8, at Trail Side is on the agenda.

• Cosmopolitan Society: Election of officers will be held today at college hour in Room 113. All members are urged to attend.

• Zeta Chi: Ora Lorengetti passed the traditional box of candy recently to announce her engagement to Desmond Swithenbank.

• Beta Phi Beta: Final plans are being made for a ski trip to be held tentatively from February 6 to 10.

Here's A Scoop! Vets Still Top Campus Group

By Leslie Simonsen

The smoldering pencil of Veterans Affairs Counsellor, W. J. McCloud, indicates that the college is bursting its seams with G. I. Joes and G. I. Janes.

At the present time 2,627 ex-G. I.'s are attending the college. Of this number, 53 per cent hail from the Army, 36 per cent are former tars, 7 per cent were leathernecks, 3 per cent were represented by the Coast Guard; and the rest were in the maritime commission.

College has become a family affair as shown by the fact that 18 per cent of the veterans are married. There are 26 women ex-G. I.'s attending the college, which all goes to show that the veteran isn't always the man of the family.

With few exceptions, veterans are taking college seriously. Six hundred veterans have enrolled in engineering; 400 veterans with an eye to the future are majoring in business administration; the same number are earning a degree in letters and science; 225 G. I. students are pursuing a pre-medical course.

A hundred vets are interested in art and music as a possible career; the pre-dental and pre-legal departments each boast an enrollment of a hundred veterans each; the hotel and restaurant division has 85 veterans; the remaining vets are majoring in physical education, chemistry, forestry, and optometry.

There are also 163 ex-G. I.'s who are completing their high school education. According to these statistics, most veterans are endeavoring to get the most out of their G. I. Bill of Rights.

Wanted: A Cruel Beautiful Blond For Local Pixie

By Mel Hansen

Students at this institution may be offered another extra-curricular activity, as formative plans for setting up a motion picture production unit composed exclusively of local talent have been drawn up.

Dave Bowen, director of the group, said recently that the "only thing holding up production at the present time is the lack of talent.

Persons needed are those familiar with camera work, make-up, sound equipment, costuming, script writing, direction, and production, Bowen said.

"The need for technicians does not exceed that of actors," he added. "In particular we are looking for a tall, blonde; 'cruelly beautiful', woman to play the lead in a forthcoming story."

The equipment needed for these ventures is owned by Bowen and has been used in the past to create several movies. Most of these were of the horror story variety. Those interested may call OVerland 1-6146.

Interest In Student Gov't Waxes Furious

• Belated Exhortation

Editor, The Guardsman:

Who's going to run the student body? From the looks of the coming election, it seems that the frats are getting a little unwanted and unexpected competition from a Student League. I am very glad to see more interest in student government by the large number of candidates for offices and now let's all hope that everybody votes. Come on, gang, vote for whomever you want, but vote, and let's support the new student body officers of a college with a new name. Good luck to whoever wins.

—Excited to See What Happens.

• No Bad Intentions

Editor, The Guardsman:

Some members of the student body think that the Student League wants to get rid of the sororities and frats, but this is a false statement. The Student League is an organization that wants to give the backing to candidates for offices that the frats and sororities give their candidates. The Student League does not intend to get rid of frats and sororities, but they want the independents and the little clubs to be represented in student government and in this manner get more school spirit.

I think they have accomplished this to a certain extent by the large number of candidates running for office this semester. Do you realize that for the first time in the history of J. C., now know as C. C., the independent candidate has been backed by some organization?

—A Thankful Independent.

Editor's Note: The Ram's Horn will be published whenever there are sufficient letters to warrant its publication. Letters may be dropped in The Guardsman office in Building 12 on the West Campus or be given to the telephone operator in the main building.

Cagers Face Darkhorse Yuba Five Tonight In League Tilt

Grant Encounters Rams Saturday Night

By Roy Pasini

Sporting a one win and one lose conference record, Coach Ralph Hillsman and his Ram hoopsters will launch their abbreviated invasion of the North tonight when they meet the Yuba City five, and will wind up the jaunt tomorrow evening when they stop off at Sacramento to tussle with the Grant Tech quintet.

Because Yuba was not represented in the Modesto Tournament this year, Hillsman knows little of the type of ball club his men will be up against in tonight's tilt.

It's an entirely different story in the case of the Sacramento five though, for the Rams had ample opportunity to see them in action during the Modesto gathering.

It is hard for the locals to forget that the capital city outfit is led by forward Don Lofgren, who set a new scoring mark for four tourney games with a mere 82 points, and they fully realize that unless they stop this lad, the meeting could very well turn into a brutal affair as far as the Phelan Avenue squad is concerned.

The locals will be at a disadvantage in both contests because of the element of travel, but if guard Bob Payne and lanky pivot Tommy Tomlinson are clicking on their floor shots, the San Francisco aggregation will prove to be an unwelcomed guest.

'48 Diamond Team Schedules 12 Games

A twelve game conference schedule for the 1948 baseball season was released yesterday by Bill Fischer, diamond mentor for the local Ram nine.

The game was a see-saw affair, with the lead changing hands nine times during the evening, but through the efforts of guard Bob Payne, who tallied 18 points, the locals went on to victory from their 23-20 lead.

In addition to the conference games, a playoff series between the winner of the Coast Division and the winner of the Valley Division is scheduled to determine the NCJCC champions.

A recommendation has been placed before the conference that the winner of the NCJCC play a series with the champion nine of the Southern California Conference for the state title at the end of the season, but as yet no action has been taken on this measure.

Following is the Ram conference baseball schedule for 1948:

March 30—Menlo—there
April 3—Menlo—here
6—Santa Rosa—here
10—Santa Rosa—there
13—Marin—here
17—Marin—there
20—Vallejo—here
24—Vallejo—there
May 8—Salinas—there (2 games)
11—San Mateo—here
15—San Mateo—there

Don Barksdale, 1947 U.C.L.A. cage star now playing with the Oakland Bittners, was the only West Coast player to be named to the Helms Athletic Foundation's 1947 Collegiate All-American basketball team.

Locals Drop Vallejo In 48-45 See-Saw Win

Coming from behind in the closing period of play, the Ram cagers posted their first conference win last Saturday when they downed the Vallejo Redskins by a 48-45 count on the losers' hardwood.

The game was a see-saw affair, with the lead changing hands nine times during the evening, but through the efforts of guard Bob Payne, who tallied 18 points, the locals went on to victory from their 23-20 lead.

In the preliminary game, the City College Lambs slaughtered the Vallejo Jayvees in a one-sided contest, 70 to 42.

Cinder Aces Limber Up For Spring Track Wars

Practice during physical education classes and after college hours is the schedule for returning members of last year's track team. Some new men are also limbering up, and more are expected to turn out next semester.

Coach Jim Jensen has been noticing the rapid improvement of discus hurler Bob Cook.

Other promising returnees from last year's championship team are Jim Wyatt, Bob Zarick, Bob Brickell, Russ Beach, Ed Bryan, and Seward Chapman.

Anyone interested in going out for the varsity track squad should see Jensen or Grover Klemmer in the men's gymnasium.

Dana X. Bible's New Book "Championship Football" Can Be Applied To Recent Happenings

Dana X. Bible, Director of Athletics and former football coach of the University of Texas, has written a very interesting book, Championship Football. We heartily recommend it to every player, coach and fan.

Many of Mr. Bible's statements, while not directed toward any one individual or group, are very interesting, and can be applied to recent events.

One of these little statements we pass on to the fathers of the Pacific Coast Conference for what it might be worth. We quote: "Seek non-conference games with schools and teams of your own class." The recent Rose Bowl game aptly illustrates the above point.

Mr. Bible lists five components that make for a team's success. He calls them the "Five S's—Spirit, Speed, Skill, Size and Savvy." Of the five he calls spirit the most important and size the least. Which of the Five S's did the 1947 Rams lack? Figure out that one for yourself.

FOOTBALL FOR HARDY MEN

Bible, who at one time coached the West team, in the East-West game, regrets that he is unable to present "An easy way to play football," and goes on to say that there is no easy way to play football, "It is a game for hardy characters." Line forms to the right to sign up for the 1948 Ram varsity squad.

About the "T" formation, which is the current rage, if you haven't used the "T," you haven't that "new look." Bible says, "Its personnel requirements are more inflexible than any other formation's, in that it MUST have team speed and an outstanding quarterback.

"Although its basic maneuvers are relatively simple and can be learned by a green team more quickly than some of the others, perfect execution requires such delicate time that only experienced teams can fully realize its potentialities."

"T" NOT FOR CITY COLLEGE

In two paragraphs, Dana X. Bible has stated our view on the "T" formation better than we could with a hundred wordy paragraphs. Outstanding quarterbacks are far and few between, and it is almost impossible to organize an experienced team in two year college play. We say, let the Rams drop the "T" formation, use a formation that will best serve the purpose, be it single wing, double wing, short punt, Notre Dame box, or what have you.

Fleischman Win Over Casperson Top Thriller In Boxing Tourney

Music, shouts of excitement and the sound of swinging gloves were all combined to make the All-College Golden Gloves Tournament a great success last Monday night, in the men's gymnasium.

With the college band and an attendance of about 500 boxing fans that were shouting at the top of their lungs, the gala affair was constantly kept in an exciting mood.

Of all the bouts the one that almost brought the fans to their feet was the fight between Robert Fleischman and Russ Casperson of the 155 pound division.

Fighting to a draw in the first two rounds, both men came out of their corners in the final round with determination to rack up points in their favor.

The bout looked very even until Fleischman let go with a terrific barrage of lefts and rights backing Casperson up against the ropes.

It looked as if Casperson was going down for the count, but he managed to hang on until the bell rang ending the bout with Fleischman gaining the decision.

Fighting Joe Hanlon lost by a decision to Ed Sato in the 118 pound division. A new champ was made in the 122 pound decision when Carl Hoyos won over John Fisher.

Classy Vic Whitely outboxed John Bohman to take the 140 pound division, and Nick Cannulli lost to Roy Damas by a decision in the 145 pounder.

Jim Wilson, 155 pounds, won over Doug Wilson, Henry Williams lost to lanky Hiram Short in the 170 pounder, and John Brown took the honors in the heavyweight class over Gil Lazareschi.

There were no knock-outs, and no one was badly hurt.

Rockets Coast To Title By 6-0 Win

By virtue of their 6 to 0 defeat of the Boys last week, the Rockets were crowned intramural touch-football champions for the fall semester. The game was a close, well-played affair, with both teams putting forth their best effort in an attempt to cop the honors.

The runner-up Boys were composed of George Caesar, Don Lakin, John Geraci, Stan Cordes, Ed Lynch, Mel Hectman, Don Mallen, Don Schaefer, and Al Guaspari.

The '40'ers and Jr. Rams were matched in the consolation round championship tilt played earlier in the week. Results of the game will be announced in the next edition.

Intramural Director Tom Wilson has announced that all intramural competition must be completed by Tuesday, January 27, and that all players who do not make arrangements with Wilson to compete in their final round by this afternoon will have their matches forfeited.

Banquet Ends WAA Activities For Fall

A banquet held yesterday, January 22, marked the end of this semester's Women's Athletic Association activities, and also the end of tourney week, which was from January 19 to 22.

New officers for next semester have not yet been announced, but students running for WAA offices were nominated by the executive council composed of Hermenia Ross, president; Fritz Warden, vice-president; Mary Evans, secretary, and Roberta Reams, secretary, Miss Ross announced.

Votes were cast for the various individuals running for offices from January 19 to 20.

Forty-four states hold tournaments to decide a state basketball champion. California is one of the four states which do not indulge in this practice.

Chemists, Flatfoot Reveal All

Fire College Coach And Chem Profs Have Wide Experience In Respective Fields

By Dave Hansen

Here is another look-in on short interviews with new faculty members, continued from a previous edition. The chemistry department, among others, is herein represented.

Chemistry instructor Donald Shaw is a University of California graduate, once attended the University of British Columbia, hails originally from the Canadian province of New Brunswick. He has taught at Vancouver, British Columbia.

Work in Acid Plants

During the recent war, Shaw spent his time working with smokeless powder, in acid plants. He is 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighs 160 pounds, has hair turning grey, eyes to match.

Shaw is married, is proud of two daughters aged 21 and 16, is shy about his own age.

"I like it here at the college," he said at the time of his interview.

Chemistry instructor James Downey is a 5 foot, 11 inch, 180 pound, former USF law student and UC graduate. The grey-fringed, brown-haired father of six (four girls, two boys) once worked with synthetics in the plastic industry.

Commerce, UC

He also taught at Commerce Adult High night school, and, during the war, an Industrial Problems course at UC.

The blue-eyed native San Franciscan said that "The faculty here is helpful, the students friendly."

Dark haired, brown eyed, olive complexioned Michael Lo Presti said, "I enjoy my work at the Fire College here immensely." Lo Presti stands 5 feet, 8 inches tall, weighs 165 pounds, has been coaching firemen for promotion tests for the past ten years.

Santa Clara, Gonzaga

He attended Santa Clara University for three years, obtained his BA, AB, and MA at Gonzaga, did post graduate work at UC. Lo Presti worked as a marine engineer for the Army and Navy during the recent international brawl.

The 36 year old instructor coordinates the Fire College program, is writing texts for that program, instructs in conjunction with a chief and two lieutenants. He is married, has no children.

All Graduating Students Urged To File Applications For Jobs Now With Amori

All students who are graduating and leaving college for any field of work were urged today to file applications for jobs with the placement office as soon as possible by Joseph Amori, placement director.

Students planning to enter industry, office work, business, or sales should apply immediately and not wait until after graduation. If they get the job settled now they can step right into it upon graduation, Amori said.

There are good opportunities for secretarial work, sales work, and industrial work, especially for women, Amori revealed.

The reason for the urgency of filing applications, Amori said, is that it will take a few days for employers to process and screen them, then determine the experience and ability of the applicant.

Three French Movies Shown Next Monday

Le Cercle Francais will show three French moving picture on Monday evening, January 26, at 7:30 o'clock, in the main building, Room 136. The titles of the films are La Comedie ayant Moliere, La Vie de Lamartine, and Saint Lo. All students are invited to attend, members said.

All members are urged to come to the meeting today during college hour in Room 312 in the main building.

New System Of Grades Approved By Faculty

A new system to simplify the grading of communication skills for student and instructor was approved at a recent English faculty meeting, Paul McKelvey, English department assistant head, announced yesterday.

Honor Society Gives Club Dance Tonight

Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society, is a firm believer that college life isn't "all work and no play," and is backing up this statement on the eve of Fall semester finals, by holding a dance for its members tonight at 8 o'clock in the student lounge.

Murney Cunningham, president of the society, promises it will be a gala affair, with dancing and refreshments galore, and expresses hopes for a large turn-out.

SMALL IN NATURE but paramount in importance will be the task of City College of San Francisco the beginning of next semester when the sign board at the corner of Phelan and Ocean Avenues undergoes a facelifting. Of course it won't be as crude as the above picture illustrates, but it will have the same effect.

Police Instructor Is Former USF Grid Star

Law enforcement instructor Fred Fitzgerald has a record of ten years on the San Francisco Police Force, three of them in charge of the Police Academy.

The brown eyed, brown haired, 5 foot, 11 inch 200 pounder, is the fullback who made the winning touchdown against Santa Clara for USF, in 1931.

He was graduated from USF, obtained his MA at UC. Fitzgerald is married and is the father of two girls, aged 3 and 9.

The 38 year old instructor is versed and experienced in all types of police science; has served on the force as a patrolman, in radio cars, and in investigation work.

Safe Driving Request Aimed At 'Hot Rods'

Hot rod owners, who have been delegated to the realm of black cats and Friday the thirteenth by truck drivers in and about the vicinity of Ocean Avenue and Phelan, are requested by them to follow safe driving rules, it was reported by William Arrington, west campus gate keeper, today.

"As Phelan Avenue is a two lane highway, reckless driving must be cut to a minimum. Also the west campus gate is a one lane gateway, and safety measures must be followed there," Arrington said.

New College Quartet To Sing At Hospital

City College will soon boast two quartets with the debut of the newest four in the wards at Letterman General Hospital early next semester.

Comprised of members of the Men's Chorus, the four men have been rehearsing several weeks now and are progressing remarkably well, Director Harold Cunningham disclosed.

Alvin Beal is first tenor, Charles Thomas, second tenor, Charles Thollander, baritone, and Gerald Lustig, bass.

The established quartet has been in great demand this past semester, Cunningham said, and has appeared in several Bay Area functions. Their most recent appearance was on Sunday, January 18, in the First Baptist Church in Alameda. The members, Roy Burt, first tenor, Bob Sharrett, second tenor, Tony Quavir, baritone, and Bob Coon, bass, all are members of the A Cappella Choir.

Jan. 30 New Deadline For Must Speech Test

New deadline for the speech B test is Friday, January 30, Michael Griffin, English instructor, announced yesterday.

All second semester students must take the test as a requirement for graduation. Any student failing to take the test will be required to enroll in a communications skills B class for the next semester, Griffin warned.

Students not working toward an Associate in Arts degree from this college will not be required to take the Speech B test, Griffin added.

The longest overtime period in modern college basketball was in a game between Temple and Penn State which went to five overtime periods. They had to carry out half the people in the grandstand—the excitement was too high.

Student Version Of The 'New Look' To Be Previewed In Fashion Show Today

The latest fashions, created by the students of the clothing class, will be the main subject of interest at a combination fashion show and tea to be given by the members of the Hostess and Clothing classes this afternoon in Room 158 from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock, according to home economics instructor Frances Mount.

Jacqueline Papazian of the Hostess Class will be the mistress of ceremonies and describe the clothes, while Mary Chrisman and Margorie Barnes will be co-hostesses for the tea.

Dresses will be modeled by Jane Chambers, Phyllis Allen, Margene Garst, Barbara Saldavine, Evelyn Cunningham, Ida Mae Pujo, Mary Chrisman, Barbara Baumberger, Jeanne Dashback and Elizabeth Elias, while Emma Jean Appuhn will model a blouse.

Mary Calfas, Hisako Nonaka, Rosemary Furtado, Zerolyn James, and Mirlem Tillman will show skirts, suits, and coats at the affair.

Guests of honor will be Registrar Mary Jane Learnard, Edna Denhard, Claire Cuneo, Gloria Swiecgood, Ruth Nelson, Laurine Bergin, Nancy Sparks, Carolyn Riedeman, Helen Reveal, Betty Heckman and Letha Robarts.

Have You A Physique? Be Mr. San Francisco

By Thermon Jones

Muscle men of the college were invited today to participate in a physical culture contest to determine a "Mr. San Francisco."

Walt Baptiste, prominent athletic instructor and muscle builder, is conducting a search for the best physique among male athletes in San Francisco. The contest will take place at Scottish Rite Auditorium, Saturday, January 31.

In a letter from Batiste he said, CCSF muscle men and athletes are invited to enter the contest designed to promote interest in better health and the growing sport of weight lifting.

The letter said further that anyone interested may send his entry to Baptiste, 48 Golden Gate Avenue.

Clish, Cloud To Attend Atlantic City Confab

Attending two important educational meetings in the East, Dr. Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, announced yesterday that he will accompany Superintendent of Schools Herbert C. Clish to the annual meeting of the American Association of School Administrators, scheduled for February in Atlantic City.

From this meeting Dr. Cloud will attend the annual meeting of the American Association of Junior Colleges in Kansas City.

J. Paul Mohr, City College vice-president, will also attend the Kansas City meeting, February 25, 26, 27, and 28, and will meet Dr. Cloud there.

Comedy About Soldier Life Due Wednesday

A modern New York comedy, of special interest to former GI's, will be presented in the form of a play-reading in Room 28, at 11 a.m., Wednesday, January 28.

Director of this play-reading is drama student David Huenergardt.

Included in the cast are Carolyn Glasnow, John Beritzhoff, Evelyn Hickey, George Wesendunk, and Juanita Irwin.

Homogenized Products For Pint Size Drinkers

In answer to many student requests the cafeteria will sell pint containers of milk at 14 cents per pint, Hilda Watson, hotel division head, announced yesterday.

This will be a two cent saving for those students who now purchase two half-pints at eight cents apiece, Mrs. Watson added.

The Spectator

George Lajeunesse

THE BOOK of the year, for our money, is the beautifully bound, blue-covered pictorial history of the 444th Bomb Group, 58th Bombardment Wing, XX Bomber Command, 20th Air Force.

Not only did it cost us five bucks and months of waiting for it to arrive, but it also happens to be the story of our overseas outfit which we modestly believe to be the best in the service; and we stand ready to crack the gourd of any man who says it isn't so.

It tells the simple story of four B-29 squadrons that made a trip down the back alleys of the world, all the way around, from Kansas to India, to China to the Marianas Islands and home.

The Indian interlude was one of starvation and misery in a land strangling itself to death. The pictures sent in by men of the Group show death everywhere, from the Burning Ghats along the Hooghly River in Calcutta to the living, dead souls walking the main streets of a thousand villages.

The farming communities of western China, however, were another story. Here lived people blessed with absolutely nothing but a plot of ground and strong backs to work it, yet they possessed a zest for living that many Americans will never achieve.

There was only one thing that marred the happiness of the Chinese peasant in his short but happy life. And that was a little matter of a huge dragon that pursued him throughout his lifetime.

Every Chinese farmer had his own personal dragon trailing behind, and when the first B-29's landed at Kwanghan he thought he found salvation.

As these ships taxied slowly into revetments off the runway, the air crews were no little perturbed at the many Chinese who would dash out in front of the huge whirling propellors and scamper madly away just before the big plane overtook them.

Crowds along the airstrip watched and laughed at the parade of flying farmers. A few failed to get out of the way in time and the crowd would roar with laughter, point their thumbs down and scream, "Boo How!" (no good) at the luckless individual. If a farmer made it past safely they would yell "Ding How!" (good), with their thumbs pointed up.

As it was learned later, the Chinese farmer who made it the closest to the flying props and got away, succeeded in gaining eternal happiness, because, while he made it through safely, the big dragon chasing him was destroyed forever in the propellor blades.

Jazz Classics Subject Of Student Lecture

A lecture by Hewitt Kendall on the Jazz Classics of our age will highlight the Listening Hour program today, Gertrude Norgard, instructor, announced.

Kendall, a student in that class, has made an extensive study in this field. He will illustrate his lecture with his private collection of jazz records.

The Thursday program will also be on the subject of jazz, with George Gershwin's music as the chief work.

Bank Business Must Be Completed January 31

Deadline for budget activation, Friday, January 30, was announced today by O. E. Anderson, controller.

"No purchases by any organization connected with the Associated Student budget will be authorized after January 30, and all bills must be presented to the controlling office by that same date as the Board of Education resumes books to be closed on January 31," Anderson explained.

Victory Statement By The President

"The unexpected margin of votes which elected me to office is very gratifying and gives a clear indication that the students understand the problems I hope to solve, and that in fighting these problems I will not be without support.

"To those who voted for me, I extend my sincere thanks, and my confidence."—MAX CALL.

Largest Number Of Votes Cast In The History Of College

By I. R. Lascola

In the largest election in the history of the college, returns released Thursday, January 22, at 4 p.m. announced Max Call as the new Associated Student president.

Revealing that 1,113 votes had been cast, Trev Burrow, election committee chairman and his aids retired to the upper floor of the student lounge to count votes.

Below, in the lobby of the lounge, the candidates waited, talking, milling around, and glancing expectantly at the stairway.

Suddenly, as one, the group looked toward the stairway; Burrow had appeared, and as he announced winners, applause from the crowd punctuated each new name.

Pausing after reading the name of Bill Riley, sophomore president, Burrow folded his paper and left, stating that the results on the sophomore and freshman council were not complete yet.

Now those who knew their fate exchanged congratulations while candidates for the council, still uncertain, half-heartedly joined in.

Appearing again, Burrow killed the remaining uncertainty with the reading of the rest of the winners to the still anxious half of the group; it was over at last.

In its tally the election committee brought a few interesting facts to light, namely that more women voted than males and that about 100 students did not vote for the office of president.

After congratulating the winners, Burrow turned to the members of his committee and extended thanks for their cooperation.

Grads' Grades Will Be Out When Instruction Resumes

Final grades for those planning to terminate their City College attendance with this semester will be obtainable only in the main office on and not before Friday, February 20, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, warned students again today.

"To avoid confusion in the registration lines during that period, all non-returning students' grades will be obtainable only in the main office. Stamped, self-addressed envelopes will be accepted for mailing grades at any time during this semester, Miss Learnard added.

Registration schedule for the Spring semester—for returning students only will run as follows:

Thursday, February 12—7:45, A, B; 8:45, C; 9:45, D; 10:45, E; 1:00, F, G; 2:00, H, I.

Friday, February 13—7:45, J, K; 8:45, L; 9:45, M; 10:45, N; 1:00, O, P, Q; 2:00, R.

Monday, February 16—7:45, S; 8:45, T; 9:45, U, V; 10:45, W, X, Y, Z.

Registration of new students starts Monday afternoon. Instruction begins Thursday, February 19.

Departing Vets To Get AS Card Refund Mailed

All non-returning veterans expecting refunds on Associated Student cards purchased this semester were requested to report to the controller's office, Room 187, on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, January 28, 29, 30, from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m., to leave a self-addressed envelope for convenient future mailing of their $5.00 refund, O. E. Anderson, controller, announced today.

Since the government has not made the necessary refunds, it will be necessary to mail the money when it is received. If the veterans will report to the controller, that will be sufficient to assure their complete refund, Anderson stated.

Plan Adopted To Free Congested Hallways

Hoping to free the main building's halls and stairways from littered cigaret butts, the college will re-locate many sand urns and place "no smoking" signs in certain areas, Dean Edwards Sandys announced today.

The use of sand urns at present has been neglected too often, as shown by the trash underfoot in the building, Sandys said.

Through the redeployment of urns that seems to be far out of reach of the average smoker Sandys hopes for increased usage.

AAUP Accepts City College Faculty

City College of San Francisco has been recognized by the American Association of University Professors and now may organize a local chapter, Thomas R. Porter, president of the faculty association, revealed today.

To date 61 instructors have signified intent of joining the association.

The association is a professional organization for college and university teachers. Its functions are analogous to those of the American Bar Association for the legal profession and the American Medical Association for the profession of medicine.

Parking Permits Will Be Issued February 12

Parking permits for the west campus will be issued Thursday, February 12, Dean Edward Sandys revealed today.

Students who wish to make use of the west campus parking area must turn in their old permits and secure the new window stickers during the first week or two of the spring semester.

The window sticker idea is to aid the gate keepers in identifying the limited number of cars that are to park in the west campus.

Sandys urged all students and instructors who will park in that area next semester to exchange their permits as soon after February 12 as they can.

Music Society Stages Production In Lounge

Featuring present and graduate members, Lambda Alpha Music Honor Society announced yesterday its Accent on Music talent show to be held Friday, February 20 at 8:30 p.m. in the student lounge.

The program will headline Elmer Dickey, baritone soloist; Roy Abad and Michel Coco, accordionists, Gloria Orzanco and Leo Martinez, dance specialists, and a barbershop quartet.

Performance directors Miss Orzanco and Gene MacGowan, said that admission for the show will be 50 cents and that tickets will be available during "final" week in Room 200 in the main campus building and at the performance.

U. S. College News Roundup . . .

Chico State College: A sad and beautiful ceremony held in the Vets Village Memorial Chapel marked the end of Bojo, a hit-and-runned canine friend of the student body here. The mourners braved a cold driving rain in order to pay their last respects to him. Several - ah - lady dogs - are prostrate with grief.

Monterey: The Navy will send 500 officers to school next month at the plush Del Monte Hotel to get a "well-rounded working knowledge of the Navy afloat and ashore." (Sounds sensible to us, what?)

* * *

University of California (Berkeley): To support Henry A. Wallace's independent campaign, students of nine California colleges backed a national "students for Wallace" conference, proposed for Chicago in April. City College had a delegation present at the meeting held last week.

* * *

Stanford University: The aptitude test required of undergraduate students who wish to enter Stanford will be given Friday, February 6, according to the schedule released by the university. These tests take three hours and a five dollar fee is charged.

* * *

Sacramento College: Astronomy students here again have the aid of the observatory on the campus to help them study the heavens. Since 1942 the observatory has been closed because of the shortage of trained labor.

* * *

Santa Rosa Junior College: The aviation department is growing up. Air transportation problems and vocational opportunities will be thoroughly discussed in class and students who take the course will have the opportunity of going on free of charge cross-country flights. Link trainer courses are also being offered.

Student Government Growing But Needs Occasional Shot In The Arm

IT IS an editor's privilege to utilize the editorial section of the paper now and then to reminisce publicly about the happenings in the life of the community his paper serves.

As this is the final issue of The Guardsman this semester, we would like to do just that in the space left.

The students and faculty are deservedly grateful for the name change, a most important factor in increasing that nebulous something loosely referred to as school spirit. Nothing has gratified us more than the new name, CITY COLLEGE of San Francisco.

The reception the college gave the representatives of the other two year colleges (we won't us that word jun—) was also gratifying, and that November conference of student leaders increased local prestige throughout the state.

We believe student government here to be growing in political maturity, but it should continually have a shot in the arm. The latest student election was a step in the right direction, and once a majority of the Associated Students take an interest in their government it will become very hard for those with a juvenile intellect to fumble through council meetings, offending, delaying, or disrupting needed student legislation. Fortunately, there have been but few of that type recently.

We feel certain that the help and guidance given the students by the administration will continue, and we would like to express our most sincere gratitude to those who have offered their encouragement and criticism. May the students who remain enjoy the college as much as we have and may their stay be as rewarding.

News To Nobody . . .

By Herbert Levy

A WEEK or so ago, an eager student out for laughs (and out of a job) plus being an ardent admirer of the ancient Grecian philosopher proceeded to scribe on the blackboards of various rooms, "know thy self"—Socrates with a small notation directly under it reading "know thy job"—Amori. (Joe Amori is head of the placement hureau around here!)

The present and past fad for card playing which is embedded in the clientele of the student store over on Ocean and Phelan, seems to have an elastic effect . . . early this week in the Fountain on the west campus there were no less than four "gin" games going on at once! . . . using only 100 proof cards?

Billy Shakespeare, the 17th century writer, has had his stuff recited by a quite a few actors as well as by many students during their study of English. However, Pete Turdiel gave the classical recital of "Hamlet's" soliloquy pertaining to being or not being at a Mikes 'and Men record cutting session the other night . . . seems Turdiel wound up in an outfit in the Army loaded with gents from Brooklyn and he acquired their unique method of speaking . . . so from all members present, the grooving of "to be or not to be" in Brooklynese is a riot! (Isn't this column a panic? Ugh!)

Which all goes to show that most English 21b classes (we had to sandwich this in somewhere) usually go through the essays of Bacon, followed closely by Swift . . . which is quite hammy!!"

For any former disgruntled enlisted men, who at one time or another had to carry some officer's luggage, and happen to be in the mood for throwing bricks in addition to being in any of instructor Hughes speech class (whew) might be interested to know that ex-Lt. Col. Hughes is now president of the Reserve Officers Association chapter in San Francisco.

On the more interesting side of life (night) at the college, the circle running around the back of the main building is fast replacing such spots of culture as Inspiration Point, Buena Vista Heights, etc. and etc. . . . seems the view from there is magnificent!!!

For the horsey set, this might be considered a plug, but Laura Drake & Anita Kruer have opened a commercial art studio at 3376 Sacramento St. and are doing quite well. They graduated from CCSF in the spring of '47 and were members of William Eckert's art class!!

Amiable Mary Erhart, Guardsman feature writer, is giving up her Thanksgiving bird this year and taking in Turkey in person; she's leaving N.Y. in Feb. (We're being run out of the state tomorrow!)

H And R Division Not Solely A Pot And Pan Brigade

By Mary Erhart

From amidst potato peels and shining pots, the front office and manager's desk, hotel division students have merged together to form the very active Hotel and Restaurant Society.

With the main objective of advancement after graduation uppermost in their minds, these future chefs and hotel managers convene once a month in prominent downtown hotels to discuss common business matters and to hear famous experienced hotel and restaurant men speak.

President Richard Felker, vice-president William Berger, secretary Robert Paggett, and treasurer Kathleen Dolin, obviously the officers of the society, have been keeping the social calendar straight this semester.

The organization holds two annual dances, occasional weiner roasts and horseback rides. In December they held a buffet supper dance at the Mark Hopkins Hotel, and it was, in the midst of all its splendor, one of the most successful evenings that the society has sponsored.

The society has also instigated sport groups for competition against other clubs and fraternal orders of the college. The sport groups have excelled in the basketball and badminton tournaments.

The Hotel and Restaurant division is the only group on campus that can claim every enrolled student as an active member in its organization.

This is an elite group, and all its functions are usually sponsored by hotel and restaurant men here in San Francisco. The only requirement for membership is that one must be enrolled in the Hotel and Restaurant division, which is under the very able leadership of Mrs. Hilda Watson. These specialized courses are very much in demand, and one must wait his turn for entrance, as in other things, on a waiting list.

Nefarious Plot

Collect, Rule And Poison

By I. R. Lascola

After intense investigation and due consideration we have come to the conclusion that there is a vast plot in action beneath our very noses. A plot so subtle and calculatingly planned that its success is inevitable unless the men of the world unite at once.

The danger is simply this: Women are trying to take over the world. Sounds fantastic . . . yes, but listen to this evidence, and the deadliness and danger of this monstrous scheme will be apparent.

Woman's first step is cornering the wealth of the world, taking all the money from its rightful male owners and hoarding it. Have you ever considered who does the spending? Men do. Of course, from time to time, women do buy things, but from whom? . . . other women, naturally.

Too soon the men of the world will find themselves at the financial mercy of women. Even now more and more able-bodied men have been reduced to paupers and "pay check handers-in" under the guise of matrimony, that condition where a woman promises to love, honor, and obey, while under her breath she promises to collect, rule, and poison.

Women poisoning men! Unbelievable, eh? . . . Well, think a while. What type of male usually gets ulcers? Married men do. This phase of woman's plan for conquest is perhaps the most subtle. Carried on usually by young brides, this section of the struggle is based on the sweet young thing alibiing that she must use her husband as a guinea pig for new concoctions she calls "food." After this has gone on for a while the male's stomach becomes insensate to any feeling, and she proceeds to give him the final lethal doses . . .

What does the average male do about these outrages? . . . Nothing. Absolutely nothing! . . . Imagine sitting idly by while man's very existence is threatened! When will he wake up?

Macao's Ping Pong Champ China's Doc Blanchard

By Bill Kinsley

Students who dread the long line of registration can well take a tip from Joaquim Gil Rodrigues Pereira.

This first semester registrant merely registered here from the far end of a 9,000 mile line.

While anxiously awaiting official action on his long aspired plans of attending college in the "states," Pereira accomplished this phenomenal registration feat easily—by proxy.

Completing the necessary forms while still in his home in the Portuguese colony of Macao, South China, he sent them to his proxy friend here and became Pereira, student of City College of San Francisco.

Pending his departure from China, he divided his attentions between China's national sport, ping pong, and adding English to the previously acquired knowledge of languages, Portuguese, French, Spanish and Chinese.

When asked about the sport of which he was the champion of Macao, Pereira replied, "Ping pong is to China what football is to the U.S. in that the matches are run with much formality in regards to rules and regulations, and the gallery spectators number from 2,000 to 5,000."

As are most of the residents of Macao, his family is exceedingly active in sports. His brother, now a pilot in the Hong Kong Air School, is a renowned ping pong player, his father, Marlo de Barros Pereira, treasurer of the Macao Municipal Department; is Foothall Association president, and his mother, Daria Rodrigues Pereira, is an ardent sports follower.

Kangaroo Continent Looks For Manpower From Uncle Sugar

By Quentin Ogle

The "go West, young man, go West" theory hasn't been stopped by the Pacific Ocean. The commonwealth of Australia, frightened by her acute manpower shortage during the war, has launched a scheme to attract American immigrants.

The Australian Government will pay 40 per cent of an immigrant's passage by ship.

Prices are much lower than in the United States; beef costs 10 cents a pound, for example. However, wages are also considerably lower. Labor has made wage gains during the war and last monih the 40 hour week was inaugurated on a national scale.

Educational facilities are available for all levels of learning. Universities are located in the capital cities of each state. Hundreds of private and technical schools have been founded throughout the land. Public education is free and compulsory for children 6 to 16.

Sports are popular and the country has produced some outstanding athletes considering the limited amount of population to draw upon.

Australian industry of all types grew quickly in the war years so that now the demand for workers of all kinds generally far exceeds the supply.

The entire continent's population is about seven and a half million. This gives it 2.4 persons per square mile compared to 46 persons to the square mile in the United States. A goal of 20 million has been set as a figure the country could accommodate.

Final Bout Gives Match To Spartans

By Larry Baldocchi

Tired but justly proud, the City College boxing squad returned home last Friday night after demonstrating that the men had what it takes when they faced the powerful league-leading San Jose State College squad and almost fought them to a standstill in the Spartan gymnasium.

Other bouts saw John Fischer, tween Gil Lazareschi of City College against Rod Richardson, in the third and final round, of which Richardson proved too much for Lazareschi, and won by a decision.

Other boughts saw John Fisher, Ram 118 pounder, fight to a draw with Mike Rivera; shifty Carl Hoyos win over Spartan Harold Rogers, 120 pounds; and Len Garcia win by decision over San Jose's Louis Furtado.

Vic Whitely of San Francisco lost to Ted Ratliff; John Bohnman lost to Jim Shouse of San Jose; and Roy Damas, recent Golden Gloves champion, lost by decision to San Jose's Kenny Cayacea.

In the 155 pound division, Joseph De Soto was defeated by Ram Jim Wilson; San Jose's Kenneth Hansen won over Hank Williams, and San Francisco's John Brown, 183 pounds, won over Glen Cudmore.

Damas Awarded Boxing Trophy In AMS Fights

Showing the best all around ring ability, Roy Damas was awarded the college Golden Glove Boxing trophy at the semi-annual Associated Men Student boxing show held January 19.

Damas defeated Nick Cannull in the 145 pound bracket.

Ed Sate ..... 118 ..... Joe Haulon
Carl Hoyos ..... 122 ..... John Fischer
Len Garcia ..... 126 ..... Dick Sparga
Jim Low ..... 132 ..... Johnson Chow

Pitchers, Catchers In Pre-Season Workout

Anxiously awaiting the opening of the coming basehall season, diamond coach Bill Fischer started his training program yesterday by giving his candidates for pitching and catching positions a light workout.

Fischer hopes that by starting early, he will eliminate the usual brigade of sore arms and muscles that usually precede the opening game.

RAMblings . . A Day In The Gym, Men's Dept., That Is

By Roy Pasini

HAVING nothing better to do the other day (and besides, it was an assignment), we decided to drop around to the gym (men's dept., of course) and have a look see at the type of body building course the department has to offer.

Playing it smart—we'd heard about the hill climbing act one goes through while commuting from the main building to the gym—we jumped in the trusty little rocket and chugged on down to the lower rent district.

Leave it to us to wind up in the dark. It seems that on the day we had picked to drop in, the electrcity had gone out. Being the timid type, it took us a moment or two to find our way around, but as it was too dark to rummage through any lockers, we elected to stroll upstairs and size up the layout.

We arrived just in time to witness a little session of calisthenics. They tell us this loosens up the stiff joints and prepares the individual for the return trip up the hill, but as far as we could see it's just a rough way of losing weight.

Trying to be friendly, we rambled (we've got college spirit) up to a character who was over in a corner working out on a bag, of the pugilistic variety naturally. Noticing that he was perspiring, we astutely questioned, "Rough work, huh?" For this effort we got a cordial, "Shove off, Buster, ya boder me." We should argue?

We spotted another stalwart who was supposedly strengthening a weak arm on the mass of ropes and weights hanging on the wall for that purpose. Guess it didn't pay off though, because we saw him later with his arm in a sling. Such a life!

Then all at once all proverbial 'ell broke loose. A dozen basketball games got under way, and if you really want to see a great sight watch ten guys trying to play a half court game on a court which is a third as large as a full court. We haven't figured it out either, so forget it. Just threw it in for a space filler.

At the end of their stretch, the participants hauled their perspiring bodies (aching backs and all) down to the shower room in an attempt to return to normal.

We figured this would be a good time to drop over to the women's side and pay our respects. Imagine our surprise when our press card didn't do us any good. But don't worry, we're the eager type. We'll try again next week when they change doormen.

Hoopsters Host To Menlo Tomorrow

Loss Of Greenwood For Season Tough Jolt To Locals; Payne, Caldwell Carry Ram Attack

When the Menlo quintet comes to town tomorrow afternoon to visit Coach Ralph Hillsman's cagers, it will inaugurate a series of between semester conference tilts which will either make or break the Ram's title hopes.

Following tomorrow's tussle, the locals will meet five conference foes, three on the road, in a little over two weeks and without the services of their dead-eye center, Bob Greenwood, who is lost for the remainder of the season due to a finger fracture received in the Vallejo contest.

After the Menlo battle, the Phelan Avenue boys will play host to Modesto Friday night at 8 p.m. and on the following Wednesday, February 4, they travel to Palo Alto to return Menlo's visit. Two days later the hometowners will be in Modesto and on February 17 they cross the Golden Gate to engage the Marin Mariners, who at this writing are perched atop the NCJCC pile.

Hillsman brings his squad home February 13 for a return engagement with the Vallejo Redskins which will terminate conference play until next semester.

Before resuming NCJCC activities with Grant Tech on February 20, the locals will do battle with the frosh squads of both Stanford, February 14, and St. Mary's, February 18, on the home courts of their opponents.

With no definite first string established, Hillsman will probably end up using every man on the squad.

CHUNKY BILL BAHR is playing his second year as guard for the Rams. A fine defensive man, who is known for the spirit he generates on the court. He is also President of the Block SF.

U. S. F. Frosh Win Over Rams, 58-51

With four regulars sitting on the bench because of injuries, the U.S.F. frosh drubbed the undermanned Ram College quintet, 58 to 51 at the men's gymnasium last Wednesday.

The Dons moved into an early lead, and were never seriously pressed by the spirited, yet helpless Rams. Metkosh, high scoring forward for the Dons, led the winners with 12 digits, while D. Payne racked up 27 for the losers.

Coach Bill Gibson of the green and gold aggregation, utilized his two team method with devastating effectiveness. Always fresh, the young Dons kept a comfortable ten point [illegible] throughout the game.

With the exception, of Payne's deadly shooting, aided by the aggressive Jayvee forward, Oliver "Bad" Bascom, the college five showed little in the way of a basketball team that has won five against four losses this season. U.S.F. led at half time, 30 to 20.

George Stanich, all-conference NCJCC guard and Sacramento star, now is playing for the UCLA hoop squad.

Three Ex-Rams Ink Pro Baseball Contracts

Three members of last year's championship Ram nine have signed professional contracts and will embark on their professional careers this year.

They are first sacker Art Cirimele, who inked a contract with the Detroit Tigers, second baseman Bill Broderson, who signed with the Chicago Cubs and was optioned to Visalia, and third baseman Al Ganem, who was sent by the Cincinnati Reds to their Ogden farm club.

The usual diamond series with the cross-town rivals from S. F. State may be at an end. Bitter at last year's 15-3 defeat at the hands of the Fischermen, the State coach may find his schedule "full" when the Rams come around.

Socklov-Levine Sweep To Net Title

Bob Socklov and Jack Levine teamed up to cop the tennis doubles title from the Grasborger-McConnell entry. The score of the final match was 6-3, 6-2.

Tom Wilson, intramural director, disclosed yesterday that the annual award rally will not be held Friday during the college hour and that intramural awards for this semester will be given out at the Block SF Society banquet, Thursday, February 5.

Plans are already being formed by Wilson for next semester's intra program. The opening sports will include volleyball, tennis, badminton, and ping pong. These will be followed with softhall, basketball, and swimming, with a possible track meet later in the season.

Lambs Whip Vallejo 71-43 For Sixth Win

Getting back in stride again with a 71-42 swamping of the Vallejo Papooses, the college JV basketball team faces its next encounter with the Menlo JV cagers tomorrow at 3:15 p.m. at Menlo.

Boasting a seasonal record of six wins and one loss, the Lambs' one defeat was administered by the Marin JV's in a mild upset two weeks ago on the college campus.

Led by the scoring of Oliver Bascom, who has caged 26 points in the last two games, Coach Ralph Hillsman's Lambs are euger to make tomorrow's game its seventh win of the young season.

Maurice Griffin, Dave Rapken, Phil Burroughs, and Alex Athanasopoulos are other Lambs who will lead the attack against Menlo.

College Cops Sworn As Specials By Chief Mitchell, On Duty In The Spring

Force To Direct Traffic At College, Give Citations Too

Twelve students of the police training program here were sworn in as special police last Wednesday by City Police Chief Mitchell at the City Hall. They will assume the task of maintaining order about the campus.

These students, under the guidance of instructor Fred Fitzgerald, are enrolled in the Police Training Program, which will evetually lead to positions as regular officers, investigators, and in other departments of law enforcement.

According to Fitzgerald, the campus police force will be equipped with uniforms and badges along with the authority to issue traffic violation citations on Phelan Avenue.

"Actually this phase of training is the laboratory class for these potential law enforcement men." Part of their training will consist of directing traffic at the intersection on Phelan Avenue at the crossing of the west campus and the main building.

"In addition these men will receive pistol training with the regular Police Department at their range in the Lake Merced area. We expect to have this program in operation in the early part of the Spring semester," Fitzgerald said.

The students will be paid at the rate of 75 cents an hour while on duty.

Fitzgerald, previous to his assignment as instructor at this college, was the San Francisco Police Academy head where he held the position for seven years.

The names of the initial 12 man force are as follows: Joseph F. Ast, Raymond M. Capella, Ronald E. Crawford, Richard D. Hall, Donald E. James, Peter K. La Vole, Reidar C. Moen, Norman R. O'Dea, William Porter, Jr., James G. Ridder, Armen P. Yanikian, and S. F. Yasinitsky.

Guardsman Put To Bed,

Today's publication constitutes the final issue of The Guardsman for the Fall '47 semester with the staff of the college paper taking a well earned vacation. The holiday will be short lived however, for the next semester's initial issue is due Tuesday, March 2.

Rare Bulbs Arrive By Air To Start New Greenhouse Activity On Campus

By Dave Hansen

With students coming from far away Rhode Island, and 1,400 Ranunculas bulbs arriving by air from farther away Holland, floriculture instructor Harry Nelson welcomed students to City College's new greenhouse early this month.

"Here students work primarily in their own major," Nelson said yesterday. "This is an ornamental horticulture course, which is divided into four separate majors."

Approximately 25 of the 97 floriculture students are women, in this trade-terminal course under the chairmanship of Lloyd Luckmann, assistint to the President.

Of the graduating students, 40 will attend California Polytechnic, or some UC extension, the others go directly into the bsuiness, Nelson stated.

Nelson has taught here for seven years, has been in this work all his life. "Bi-weekly night courses are being operated for people already in the industry. They come from all over the East Bay to attend classes here," he said. "Speakers from the industry are here on these nights."

The only thing like it on the coast (Ohio State University is the nearest neighbor with a similar course), the greenhouse course has a close tie-in with the industry. All students whose abilities meet the requirements are assured of a position in nurseries, greenhouses, or florists, Nelson revealed.

Greenhouse workers are presently putting in small potted plants, which, after growing a bit, will be transplanted into larger flower pots, and so on, until the plants are fully grown. Nelson pointed out that students are currently growing flowers for cutting, in the recently completed greenhouse, and that a lawn will soon border that area.

The Association of Landscape Architects will hold a business meeting on this campus next Monday, Nelson stated. This will follow a previously established policy for such meetings.

In addition to Nelson, there are two other instructors affiliated with the greenhouse. They are J. R. Herman and Raymond Peterson. An interview with the latter was published in an earlier edition this semester.

Professionals Ready To Spark 'Best' Rally

Co-sponsoring a pre-game rally with the Block SF Society on Friday night, January 30, from 7 to 8:15 p.m., the Rally Commission promises the biggest and best rally of the semester.

Jim Edwards, rally commissioner, said, "Anyone who liked the bonfire hasn't seen anything yet."

Professional talent will provide entertainment for the rally to be held in the west campus auditorium. At 8:15 the scene of activities will move to the men's gymnasium for the City College versus Modesto cage duel.

After the game the Rally Commission and Block Society will sponsor a record dance in the west campus auditorium.

Edwards said the Rally Commission and Block Society had lined up lots of professional talent who promised to appear at the rally.

There will be "plenty of entertainment," Edwards added.

Three Coed Classes Offered In Spring

Coeducational physical education will be formally activated again for the first time since the war, Laurine Bergin, women's department head, said Friday.

As a test case for the spring semester, coeducational classes will be limited to archery, riding, and folk dancing. The last named meets Tuesday and Thursday at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Bergin explained.

Soph King, Queen Named

THE PRIVILEGES and prerogatives of royalty were accorded Queen Margie Swanmen and King Frank Grant last Saturday night at the semi-annual Sophomore Prom at Oakland's Scottish Rite Auditorium.

The pair was chosen by student vote from among 14 candidates at elections held January 15 and 16.

Miss Swanman is a member of Delte Psi. Grant, a member of Bete Teu, is retiring Associted Men Student president.

Theatrical Veteran Huenergardt Is Guiding Hand In Old Broadway Hit

One performance only is scheduled for the third play reading of the semester. Under the direction of student David Huenergardt, it will be held in Room 28, at 11 a.m. tomorrow.

Confusion, comedy, and a happy ending are all integral parts of the play. It involves the return of a soldier and his meeting the girl from whom he had received several love letters, but whom he had never seen. Turns out, however, that little sister was the prime conspirator of this series of forged letters.

All's well that ends well and in the true spirit of keeping the audience happy, the hero eventually triumphs.

Included in an able cast of proved college talent are John Beritzhoff, Carolyn Glasnow, Evelyn Hickey, George Wesendunk, and Juanita Irwin.

Phelan $1,000 Award For California Poets

California born poets will have a chance this year for a $1,000 award, the trustees of the estate of Senator James D. Phelan announced yesterday.

The award, available annually under the terms of a bequest of the late Senator Phelan, provides that men and women who are native citizens of this state and between the ages of 20 and 40 are eligible.

Application must be on special forms obtainable at Room 820, Phelan Building, San Francisco, 2.

Foreign Student Entry Increasing

Worldwide Migration Ends Here; Old-New Ratio Is Five To One

Approximately 5,500 students have registered at the college this semester, 1,100 of whom are new students, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, reported yesterday.

Reports indicate that City College has a great number of students from outside of the United States. These students, from China, Guam, France, Palestine, Persia, Portugal, and South Americg, have obtained student visas from their countries.

Since most of the visitors have passed London matriculation examinations, they have entered the college with at least sophohmore standing.

This large enrollment of foreign students, along with the increasing number of registered local students, has filled the college to its capacity, leaving only a few special classes to be opened in the near future, Miss Learnard said.

Registration in general proceeded much the same as last semester with the exception of the use of IBM machine filing.

Cast Try-Outs For Romberg New Moon Start Here Today

Urging all prospective singers, dancers, and actors at the college to join in, Flossita Badger, music instructor, announced auditions starting today for the first complete City College produced light opera.

The opera, Sigmund Romberg's popular New Moon, to be presented in May, will be sponsored by the music and drama departments under the direction of Miss Badger, who has just returned from sabbatical leave, and Lloyd S. Sisler, drama instructor.

Auditions will be held in Room 200 today and Thursday from 2 to 3 o'clock, and tomorrow and Friday from 3 to 4 o'clock.

Singers are asked to bring their own music, but there will be an accompanist provided, Miss Badger said.

Wanting You, Lover Come Back to Me, and Stout-Hearted Men are three of the many selections from the production. There will be both group and solo dance numbers, and Miss Badger pointed out particularly that a tango will be one of the specialities.

Both comedy and character roles are open, and all who audition will be required to read lines.

PERT RITA FABRI, five feet from the pavement, flaunts supposed superior strength before John Eastman, reaching toward the seven foot mark, by carrying six times the amount of heavy literature as her tall companion.

This would lead hasty "conclusion formers" to believe that Miss Febri carries the muscles for the pair, proving that great size doesn't necessarily denote great strength, but those in the "know" recognize the obvious: Eastman's a realist.

No matter how you look at it, Miss Febri is working six times as hard as Eastmen, which proves he's just smart.

(Note, Chronicle and News: Our "long and short" picture came first, but your presses are faster.)

Clubs Need Room OKs For College Hour Meet

College hour schedule will be in effect this Friday, with the activity "hour" set for 10:30 a.m., Dean Jack Brady said today.

With the presentation of a rally uncertain at this time, the hour will primarily be for the purpose of club meetings.

All clubs which intend to meet during college hour on Friday must report to Dean Brady and apply for rooms in which to convene. The officers of the various organizations are requested to see Dean Brady as soon as possible in order to complete this arrangement.

Air Transport New Course On Program

Aviation has been brought to the college in the form of a new one unit course to be given on Tuesdays at 12 noon in Room 132 of the main building, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud, announced yesterday.

An introduction to Air Transportation, is the name of the course, which is intended as a guide for those students deserving to broaden a chosen field of study by a survey knowledge of aviation, Luckmann added.

The course will be comprised of lectures and field trips. The lectures will be given by personnel from such airlines as United, Trans-World, Western, and Pan American. Offices and airports will be visited by students on Tuesday afternoon tours.

The college hopes to offer Air Transportation as a specialized major in the fall, Luckmann said.

Late-Hour Cartickets Available to Students

Special cartickets, giving late-hour students transportation on the local railway system, are available at the student bank, Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, announced yesterday.

Pointing out that there are three distinct tickets, Anderson explained that a yellow one allows travel until 5 p.m., the same yellow ducat stamped with black letters permits passage until 6:15 p.m., and a special reddish-pink ticket gives the bearer transportation until 10:30 p.m.

Anderson added that students should check their tickets for the correct time stamped thereon.

Expenditures Topple; Forum Magazine Out

Operations of the Student Council began last week with an eye toward promoting both Associated Student interests and the student's interest in the council's activities.

With the intention of minimizing expenditures of Associated Student funds, and after long discussion, the council decided not to underwrite the Forum Magazine this year.

As a means of serving Associated Student interests, the council is making plans for a Bureau of Statistics to poll the campus.

Shortage In Part-Time Student Jobs Is Acute

An acute shortage of part-time jobs in San Francisco and throughout the entire bay area exists at the present time, Joseph A. Amori, college placement director, emphasized this morning.

Most of the jobs now available, he added, call for special skills in that employers favor older, more mature students.

Refunds Available To Vet's For AS Cards

Refunds for GI students who purchased Associated Student cards last semester are now available Oscar Anderson, college controller, announced earlier this week.

All students who still have their requisitions, may therefore obtain refunds upon presenting them at the college bank, Room 188.

New Born Frat Stages First Dance Friday

Phi Beta Delta, the college's newest fraternity, initiates its social activities by presenting a Ship Wreck Dance in the west campus auditorium Friday, March 5, Jim Fernhoff, president, announced today.

Featuring the familiar, danceable music of Ron Watkins' orchestra, dancing will be until midnight, plus intermission surprises.

Theater Group Offers Thrills, Kills In Night Must Fall, Sets Six Performances

Night Must Fall, a three act murder mystery by Evelyn Williams, will be presented by the college little theater group in Room 28, March 4, 5, 8, 9, Paul Ellison, director, announced today.

Scheduled for six performances, entertainment begins at 8:15 each of the four nights and at 1 o'clock on Friday, March 5, and Tuesday, March 9, Ellison said.

The play is a thrilling and extraordinarily tense murder mystery with psychological overtones, set in a lonely house in a wood in England. It is world famous for its unusual suspense and atmosphere and fine, spine-chilling entertainment.

The cast includes members of the little theater group. They are Mary Ann Ambrosini as Miss Bramson, Evelyn Hickey as Olivia, her niece, Carolyn Kennington as Miss Terence, the cockney cook.

Barbara J. Murphy plays Dora Parkoe, Carolyn Reiss is nurse Libby, Roy Barnett plays the hero, Dan, Login Paulson is Hubert Laine, Donald Landers is Inspector Belsire, and John Pifer plays the Lord Chief Justice.

Car Permits Available

Parking permits, though somewhat difficult to obtain, are still available to deserving Associated Student card holders at the office of the deans, Building 2, Dean Edward E. Sandys revealed today.

AWS Schedules Frosh Tea Here March 11

In honor of all new women students, the Associated Women Students will hold its semi-annual tea on Thursday, March 11, Barbara Hendrickson, president, announced today.

Tea will be served in the student lounge, between the hours of 2 and 4 p.m.

Housing Finished Soon

New housing units to accommodate married veterans are rapidly being completed as an extension to Hurley Village, according to Dean Edward Sandys' statement issued yesterday.

Forty-eight couples have moved into new units already completed, and units to accommodate an additional 48 couples will be complete within the next month.

U. S. College News Roundup . . .

Bakersfield College: The Chess Club recently squared off at five instructors and were whipped three games to two. The student pawn-pushers challenged the winners to a return bout in March. (Pawn my word, we'll simply DIE a'waitin'.)

Meaningless Prose, Empty Promises To Be Avoided By Spring Guardsman

A STATEMENT of policy is usually in line with a newspaper's first issue of the semester. Almost invariably these statements are quite idealistic in content, going on for some 56 lines of type and ending up by saying almost nothing. This editorial is no exception.

Just where to put the finger on this policy is difficult without going into a mountain of meaningless prose and creating empty promises and lofty phrases concerning the solution of students' and the world's ailments.

The editor and the staff of The Guardsman will promise you nothing. They are on this planet to see what is coming next too, and have no method of determining what will happen tomorrow or the day after.

But it is safe to say the bounds of good taste will be the dominating factor in the publishing of this paper. And that there will be no personal axes to be ground nor individual back-biting taking place.

One policy statement will be held to, however: If pure democracy is to be looked for, let those searching read the pages of any American college newspaper—if it can't be found there then it doesn't exist.

In line with this The Guardsman will continue printing the "Ram's Horn," which is the letters-to-the-editor column, when material is at hand.

As time goes by, straight news and features will be presented. Many of the features will be by columnists, each having a by-line and entitled to voice his own opinion about college and world matters.

If these conflict in any way with a reader's viewpoint then that reader is entitled to his own four-bits worth in answer.

These letters should be short, for space's sake, addressed to the editor and will be printed in the order received.

They may be given to the telephone operators in the main building or left in The Guardsman office, Building 12, on the west campus.

Deadline is 12 noon on Mondays and Wednesdays for early printing.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

TIME to check if things are getting off to a good start here at old City College. So let's take a quick look around the campus and see what we can see. Bare facks from the barracks: The men in charge of the west campus dormitories are notable for their shaky fingers and their pale features. Why? ? ?

Seems last week two typical American boys and one weight lifter named Sid all inmates of Bks. number six decided to have a little fun with one Hen Kendall, an expert on jazz with weeks of experience behind him. Accordingly, they imprisoned him in his own bed, then carried the cradle (baby and all) out into the night air and left their cargo on the lawn near the building.

The smashing climax came when Gray Hughes, the Proctor, who is supposed to keep the boys in line, arrived at the hapless Kendall's bedside, looked down on him, and sadly said, "I give up." (We give up, too!)

The People's Choice: A sample of what goes on behind government doors. We quote a gem from a government notebook.

1. "Secy collects records that can be found, sends them to library."

2. "Agenda: A B C D E F G. . ." And you know the rest (or maybe that's why you're here).

Samples continued: Max Call (President, etc.), has a robust Cornell. A few days ago these lads wouldn't allow Gloria Orzanco, former music student, out of their meeting until she s a n g a few Spanish dittles . . . After she finished chirping they unlocked the door and let her fly.

Our award for service, a maroon Ram, goes to this same Miss Orzanco for giving, in the name of Lambda Alpha, half of the $100 (approx.) gate to CARE from the proceeds of the recent Lambda Alpha, honor music society, variety show.

Sale! War Surplus Males At 3 To 1

By Ed Roper

Although college has traditionally been a time for youth to leave home and seek a broadening of his education, in part by "being away from parental influence," City College, hitting capacity enrollment, drew 583 of its 1130 new students this semester from San Francisco high schools.

The entrance derby was won by George Washington High, with a total of 85 matriculating here as of the official close of registration.

In "descending" order, 63 are Lowell grads, 59 come from Mission, 54 from Polytechnic, 53 from Galileo, 46 from Lincoln, and 26 from Commerce.

Early birds who travel from East Bay high schools number 287, while 306 are registered from high schools out of California, and 45 from foreign countries.

What is of real importance to the undergrad at City College is the red-skirted Ramette's chance of grabbing a soul mate. From the new group graeing the campus, she has 840 chances.

THE RAMETTE'S CHANCES

Even the registrar's office has contributed 42-score pocketbooks in varying degrees of thickness, and all this in addition to the Don Giovanni's that the Ramette has been allowed to contemplate the past semester.

Don Giovanni, in faded suntans, wears a dejected, rejected look from last semester. Don will have to press those suntans and affix the debonair look of old once more to the countenance and really hustle if he expects to add to the harem from the new gals.

DON URGED TO RUSH

For, the Unsuspecting Females number a mere 280. We heartily urge haste in this quest, for the Anticipating Females, as Don well knows, are quick in cutting the Unsuspecting Females in on the know.

If the gals are mercenary, and want a steady income from the prospective date, there are 315 newly enrolled who are potential recipients of the new 75 kroners from Uncle Sam.

ARMY CONTRIBUTES

The Army has graduated 186 to enroll at City College, while the 13 Button League has contributed 107 tried and trues in hlue. Straight from "the shores of Tripoli" are 22 advocates of esprit de corps.

Which gives each and every woman in the college the dubious pleasure of having three men all for her own "hands off" property.

Choir Grows In Song, Size With Hi-Grads

Fifty-two voices harmonized anew in Room 200 last Thursday when Choir Director Flossita Badger admitted that number following auditions.

Among the 52 are 20 new students with previous choir experience in the city's high schools.

New students from Mission High School Choir include Martha Zutrau, Frank Montenegro, Bessie Kutulas, and Ross Price.

Carolyn Herfield is from the George Washington choir.

Promising additions from Lowell Choir are Beverly Hammet and Delores Rainer.

From Galileo's choir comes William Schaefer; from Lincoln, Robert Way; while Commerce sent Mary Cobb and Katherine Kereotis.

New members from other Bay Area schools are Jo Ann Setlow, Alameda; ces Waters, Barbara Witrich, Roseanne Carroll, Carl Dorn, Paul Decker, Pat Draper, and Gloria Franco.

Waldorf Towers Now In The Hands Of The Bachelors

By John Campiglia

The "Waldorf," housing haven of financial economy for married students at the college, will soon be turned over to single men students now residing in the dormitories.

The announcement, made by Dean Edward E. Sandys, will end the stay enjoyed by the married students, who, in past semesters, have had few worries other than their studies.

RENTAL NOMINAL

All that was required for pleasant living was the nominal rent assessment of $25 per month, for which the couple received utilities, linen, and to a lesser degree, the advantage of a community kitchen, which, while inconvenient in a way, saved on the additional expense of eating out.

The moving of the married students and their wives to the newly appointed Hurley Village was necessitated by the imperative need for classroom instruction space to accommodate the large enrollment at the college.

Many luxuries not afforded by the average apartment renter are provided for at the "Waldorf." A large room for ping-pong affords hours of contented relaxation between studies, not to mention the carefree convivial atmosphere of the community kitchen.

NO FRETTING

The lack of little else to fret over but studies provided the married men the concentration so necessary for successful study hours.

The tentative date set for the men students to move into the "Waldorf" is March 31, at which time, two men students per room will be assigned to those lucky enough to qualify for the rooms. The cost per student will be $12.50 per month.

College Netters Meet Bronco Today

Facing its first practice encounter today, the City College tennis team travels to Santa Clara to meet the Broncos at 2 p.m.

Boasting only two returning lettermen from last year, Bill Covall and Frank Reed, the tennis squad pins its hopes on newcomers Jack Grassberger from Poly, Verne Hayward from Lincoln, Bob Sockolov from Lowell, and Ed Jacobson and Bill Torres.

The Ram netmen only encounter one other practice opponent in San Jose State before the junior college conference opens Saturday, March 13, with the college meeting Vallejo at Vallejo.

A tough schedule is ahead for the tennis team with 12 conference games beside practice tilts with Stanford, California, St. Mary's and USF. Anyone still interested in playing on the college varsity tennis squad should inform Coach Tom Wilson immediately in the men's gymnasium.

Following is the N.C.J.C. Tennis Conference schedule:

March 13—SF at Vallejo
March 17—SF at Grant
March 31—Sacramento at SF
April 7—Menlo at SF
April 10—SF at Stockton
April 14—SF at Yuba
April 17—Napa at SF
May 1—SF at Salinas
May 5—Marin at SF
May 8—SF at Modesto
May 15—San Mateo at SF
May 22—Santa Rosa at SF
May 28, 29, 30—Conference playoffs.

Cagers Trounce Yuba, Lose To Grant Tech

A split with the visiting Grant Tech and Yuba City quintets during registration week, left the local squad in a first place tie with Stockton.

Highlight of the Grant 56-45 debacle was D. Lefgren's 31 points for the losers. Score of the City College victory over Yuba was 51-25.

WAA Features Five Coed Activities

Signups for five co-educational activities, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, began yesterday, under the direction of Gloria Swiecgood, adviser. Participants must come to the first class meetings, when election of managers is scheduled, Miss Swiecgood said.

Co-educational badminton, sponsored by Nancy Sparks and Coach Ralph Hillsman, will meet Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9.

The Friday morning riding class will be open to any students interested in taking riding.

Miss Swiecgood, with Barbara Combs, president, Shirley Austin, vice-president; Ann Domecus, secretary; and Ricki Moore, treasurer, have made other interesting plans to promote co-educational bowling, folk-dancing and tennis.

Badminton, which is to be the leading sport this semester, will be under the supervision of Miss Sparks and Hillsman.

Intramural Cage Play To Start This Month

Intramural director Tom Wilson announced that basketball will be the first intramural sport at the college during the spring semester.

Any club organizations, fraternities, or social groups may enter the tournament with eight players a team being the maximum. Basketball applications will be accepted through Friday, March 5 by Wilson or the intramural manager, Andre Schmidt.

Awards are given for first and second place winners in the basketball tournament. A gold belt buckle is given to the players of the championship team while the runner-up squad receives gold bronze medals. The games are scheduled from Monday through Thursday inclusive from 3:15 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Baseball Starts Today; College Nine Plays Army Mittmen

Venerable Bill Fischer, bullfrog voiced mentor of the City College baseball team, will send his Rams into their first practice fray of the 1948 season this afternoon when they tangle with the Hamilton Field squad on the soldiers' diamond.

More than 50 candidates for positions on the local nine greeted Fischer at the first formal practice session held last week. These have been divided into a league of five teams, playing on a semi-formal basis.

Fischer hopes that he will be able to field another championship squad from these men to add to his two year string of conquests over NCJCC teams.

Only eight of the 60-odd players on hand have had any previous experience under Fischer. These men are all members of last year's championship squad, but only two, Bill Kenna and Zane Kaplan, outfielders, saw any degree of activity. The other are infielders Bill Maxey and Ted Kauser; outfielders Rod Losberger, and Ernie Domecus; and pitchers Paul Nederman and Lou Pisani.

As in previous seasons, Fischer's main concern this year will be the lack of pitching strength.

Fischer advised that all men who still wish to try for positions on the squad are welcome to attend the practice sessions held daily at Balboa Park, or see him in the men's gymnasium during the day. It is hoped that many first semester students will sign up, especially service men who have baseball experience.

Rams Hand Basket Crown To San Mateo

Pouring through a deluge of baskets to open the second half, the San Mateo JC Bulldogs swamped the City College cagers Friday night, 55 to 39, in a Northern California Junior College Conference basketball tilt in the men's gymnasium.

The win thereby cinched the A division crown for the Bulldogs, who will meet the B division champs for the Conference championship.

The loss placed the Rams in a four-way tie for the B division title, with Sacramento, Stockton and Placer.

Holding a lead throughout most of the first half, the local five finally withered shortly before the intermission under the fast break used by the Bulldogs and left the floor trailing 27-19.

Playing futile basketball in the second half, the Rams were never in the ball game and the final score does not truly show the full extent of the rout.

San Mateo whipped the Rams last Wednesday night also, 55 to 42.

Track Opener Set For March 12; Ram Team Promising

Along with the spring semester at the college comes the track season, which is under the watchful eye of, Man-Among-Men, Jim Jensen. The members of the track team are now getting into shape for their first league meet against San Mateo on Friday, March 12.

What with the City College field getting the new look and not available to the team, the men are holding their practice on the field of San Francisco State.

Among some of the new students who have just graduated from high and have signed up on the track team are Doss Sluss of Oakland, Bob Moritti of Abraham Lincoln, Hanibal Pickell of Poly Tech in Los Angeles, Al Simons of Oakland, and Dave Ramos of Balboa High School.

Then there are the returning vets of last year, Jim Wyatt, who runs the half mile, Jeff Dodson, and Seward Chapman, both of whom run the two mile.

The Soothsayer

By Herbert Levy

BANGING his gavel of authority rather handily, Student President Max Call convened the 26th session of the Student Council a few Thursday ago.

The newly elected council is composed of 15 voting members, seven councilites from the Freshman class, with an equal number representing the Sophomore class.

Nancy Wallace, vice-president of the Associated Students, also has a vote on the council.

Call has a vote in the case of a tie, but as yet the president has not had the opportunity to use his balloting privilege.

COUNCIL SHOWS PROMISE

Thus far there have been no conclusive trends as to which way the councilmen are aligning themselves as to future issues that will arise.

However, the student government group gives excellent practice for the functions of operating American democracy.

This semester, the council seems to be running very smoothly, and shows all the earmarks of being a promising group of student legislators, as in contrast to the general misunderstandings which have occurred in the past.

To date, the council has only adopted a few routine parliamentary procedure methods.

ROLL CALL VOTE DEFEATED

At the first meeting, a motion, forwarded by Jack Hurley requiring a roll call vote (differing from a "hand raise" vote in that the individual councilman's vote is recorded for the record), was carried by a margin of 8 to 5. Two voting members were absent.

However, at last Tuesday's meeting, explosive Bob Reilly offered an argument to rescind the roll call measure, and over the protests of Hurley, the measure was passed 9 to 6.

Reilly argued that a roll call vote would slow down the procedure of student government. However, when the meeting had adjourned, a council-member who had voted in favor of the roll call vote, stated, "I think some of these council members do not want the students of the college to know how they voted. In other words, they are afraid to stand on their record."

College Will Be In Benjamin Franklin Oratorical Contest

City College has entered the Benjamin Franklin oratorical contest and will be represented in the college division finals to be held in the Bay Area, April 30, according to a statement by Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud.

Selection of contestants at the City College will be through intramural competition, and winners will be chosen April 16.

Contest rules list as eligible all full time students except winners of grand national prizes in past Hearst oratorical competition or any student related to any employee of the Hearst newspapers.

Bay Area finalists will receive prizes of $200, $100, $75, $50 and $25 in U. S. Savings Bonds. Students wishing to participate should see Luckmann in Room 126 for full particulars.

Musical Students May Enlist In College Band

Band and orchestra instructor Meyer M. Cahn, in welcoming back the members of his band from last semester and the new ones that have joined him this semester, yesterday urged any other students who wish to play in the band either for credit or for extra-curricular activity to inform him in Room 263.

Tryouts for the position of band-director and assistant band-director will take place at the band meeting today.

The band will play at all college rallies.

New Library Knocks Off 45 Minutes Early

New hours for the west campus library are from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., but the hours in the main library remain the same, 8 a.m. to 5:15 p.m., Mareus Skarstadt, librarian, announced yesterday.

There is still considerable doubt as to the use of the west campus branch. It is mainly a reference room for certain courses including political science 36, history 28A, psychology 10-11, sociology 35, and various classes in economic.

These books are on two hour use or may be had overnight after 3 o'clock.

Several new books, both fiction and text, have arrived in the main library since the beginning of the new semester, along with more than 70 new college catalogues for reference.

Name Change May Get Ram Lit Up If More Join Associated Students

Tentative plans to give the campus the New Look in accordance with the recent name change from San Francisco Junior College to City College of San Francisco, were revealed today by Max Call, Associated Student president, pending the sale of more student cards. At the present time sales stand at $6,000.

Providing the sale of student body cards increases, lights will be placed on the Ram on the west campus.

Another contribution to the New Look on the campus will be a revision of the Foster-Kleiser billboard on Ocean and Phelan Avenues. Large pennants designating the name change will be flown from the west campus gates.

A large trophy case to hold all college awards to be placed in the lounge, was also included in Call's report. In the fountain, pictures of sport stars past and present will be placed on the south wall.

Campus Horticulture Department Plans Open House For One Week, March 29 To April 4

Flower Shop Management, Garden Maintenance, Green House And Nursery Schedule Exhibits

A blanket invitation to all administrators, students, and ex-students of the horticulture department to attend the ornamental horticulture open house, March 29 to April 4, inclusive, at the new main campus green house, was announced today by Raymond Peterson, horticulture department instructor.

The exhibit will consist of work in the four main sub-departments of horticulture; flower shop management, garden maintenance, green house management and nursery practice.

The City College has the only training program of its kind offered to the public on the West Coast, Peterson said. An award issued by the National Garden Institute, the third of such awards, was recently received in conjunction with the department's work in conducting and promoting community gardens during the war and the present food crisis.

"We are trying to obtain an additional two acres on the hill in back of the green house for future gardens," Peterson said. The new acreage will be used by the newly formed freedom garden committee, to which President Cloud was recently appointed by the Mayor.

Peterson further stated that the California Horticulture Council, composed of nine professional garden, floriculture and landscaping organizations in the Bay Area, will meet at the green house for their quarterly meeting tomorrow.

PROVING THERE'S ALWAYS a way to get an Associated Student card, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, discloses that cards can be earned by interested students who will devote some of their time to distributing The Guardsman.

Distribution Points For Guardsman Set

Official distribution time for The Guardsman will be at 10 a.m. on Tuesdays and Fridays, and copies will be given to Associated Student card holders only, George Lajeunesse, editor, said Friday.

The north side of the Silver Pole in the main building and The Guardsman office, Building 12, west campus, will be the two distribution points.

Any students wishing to earn an Associated Student card are urged to apply to Student Council committee members Ken Brown, Bob McVey, Al Athanasopoulos, or Ted Thomas, circulation manager of The Guardsman.

Light duties involving Guardsman distribution and ticket collecting at social functions will be offered to those desiring Associated Student membership, Oscar Anderson, controller, said.

Anderson asked the Student Council to set aside 40 Associated Student cards for students to earn them.

"No student need be deprived of participating in Associated Student Activities," Anderson emphasized.

Business And Pleasure Go Together—For Units

Initiating a new practice, members of the Advertising and Business staff of The Guardsman overcame registration hardships by forming classes. Journalism 38 and 39, even though it was omitted from the time schedule.

A highlighting event for the newly formed organization was their attendance at the recent Ad Club luncheon which featured Eddie Cantor.

Honor Society Roll Being Compiled

The spring semester membership roll of Alpha Gamma Sigma, scholastic honor society, is now being compiled, Edwin A. Cranston, faculty adviser in charge, announced Wednesday.

Students who are eligible for membership are those with a B average or better with a minimum of 30 grade points and a minimum of 12 units. These students should turn their names in to Cranston for membership.

High school graduates who are permanent members of the California Scholastic Federation are also invited to join the society as associate members. These students, although some gave their names to Cranston at registration, should report to Cranston immediately.

It was further announced by Cranston that several four year colleges are offering scholarships to permanent members of Alpha Gamma Sigma who will graduate in June. Further information about the scholarships can be obtained from Cranston in Room 213.

Members of the Alpha Gamma Sigma will be informed of the first spring meeting of the society by mail.

Oldsters And Novices Needed By Visual Aids

Men who have had experience, or who would like to learn to operate 16 mm sound cameras and slide projectors are directed to see Madison Devlin, visual aids instructor, in Room 148.

The visual aids department is a service designated to support instructors in elarifying the subjects to their classes, by means of film, slides and phonograph.

The equipment is the latest and best, including in its inventory, one sonovision, which is a combination camera, projection booth and screen that can be wheeled into any part of the central building. The sonovision also eliminates the need for the room to be darkened.

Fish Nets, Boats And Gardenias Set Phi Beta Delta Dance Theme Tonight To Open Spring Socials In Auditoruim

Free gardenias and prizes will be included in the Phi Beta Delta dance to be given in the auditorium tonight, Jim Fernhoff, president, said today.

Dancing will be from 8 until midnight to the music of Ben Watkins and his orchestra.

Decorations, which will follow a nautical theme, will include fish nets and boats. There will be a pond of gardenias from which a gardenia will be given each woman at the dance, Fernhoff added.

The entrance of the auditorium will be patterned after a ship in that the couples will have to ascend a gang plank to enter the dance.

A drawing for a Ronson lighter and other prizes will also be included in the program. The numbers for the prizes will be printed on the tallies.

Dress will be restricted to slacks, Levis or sailor suits.

New Attitudes Needed To Combat Job Slump

Unemployment insurance benefits rose from 17,800 unemployed workers a week in December to 21,700 a week in January, and are getting worse rather than better, Joseph Amori revealed in a speech before the Business Educator's Forum in Palo Alto, February 27.

This startling change has had its effect upon the college, although Amori stated he has been able to place many students. Even so, he cannot hope to protect job-hunting college students completely from the employment slump.

Many firms now are setting a minimum age of 21 years, and still others a maximum age of 28 to 30 years, or both. Some employers are not employing the young, inexperienced graduate if they can find older and more experienced ones, Amori pointed out.

"Many students are still thinking in terms of $500 a month, and have to accept jobs paying from $185 to $225," he said, adding, "employers say that students should think more of education for service and less of education for profit."

New Agency Will Start Talent Sign-ups Soon

Selection of student talent for rallies, faculty functions, and all student activities is the purpose of a newly-reorganized college agency, the Talent Placement Bureau, according to Roy Barnett, chairman.

Barnett, Dick Briggs, Herb Levy and Pete Boghosin are student directors of the organization, which functions as a permanent agency, and Flossita Badger, music instructor, is the faculty adviser.

Similar organizations have formerly had as their object the pooling of college talent, but the present bureau is the first to be recognized as one of permanent standing, Barnett stated.

All students who possess talent of any kind in the fields of drama, vaudeville, or music are urged by Barnett to cooperate with this college-sponsored, non-profit bureau, and lend their talent for service and entertainment at college functions.

"Drama students are not to confuse this bureau with the music and drama departments' production of New Moon," he cautioned.

Students who are affiliated with dramatic and musical productions on the campus are eligible to sign-up for the bureau's auditions as are students not attached to campus productions.

Signups will take place after 2 p.m. in Room 200 Tuesday, March 9, and Wednesday, March 10. Auditions will be scheduled at a later date.

Deadline Today For New Moon Tryouts

A final opportunity for auditions for the college presentation of Sigmund Romberg's New Moon was issued by Flossita Badger, music instructor. The final tryouts will be held today in Room 200 from 3 to 4 p.m.

The light opera, to be presented in May, is sponsored by the music and drama departments under the tutelage of Miss Badger and Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

"Applicants are asked to bring their own music, but an accompanist will be provided," Miss Badger said.

A tango specialty will be featured along with group and solo dance numbers.

Since character and comedy roles are an important aspect of the production, all who audition will be required to read lines.

Tentative plans include several performances, which will be held in the west campus auditorium. This arrangement will allow a greater audience to be admitted to the performances.

Horticulture Course At College Expanded

Operating along commercial nursery lines, the horticulture course has been expanded to compare with a medium sized nursery.

The $81,000 construction of the college nursery which was completed last semester began full operation in January. The lath house, where shade plants and young stock are cultivated, holds more than 50 varieties of daffodils donated to the course by a local nursery.

Students of the horticulture class as a whole are now laying preparation for the Oakland Annual Spring Garden Show next month. The theme of the exhibit, which will be shown out of doors is, "A waterfall with a garden retreat."

Dick Rohrman and Norm Hansen, students in the course, are in charge of the display.

LLOYD LUCKMANN, assistant to the president, announces that citations will be given to all campus rule violators.

Parking Violators Lab Guinea Pigs

Students of the law enforcement training course began Monday to tag all cars illegally parked on the campus and surrounding streets.

Working as if for a laboratory assignment for the law enforcement class, students were given full authority to issue warning tags and citations by the San Francisco Chief of Police who swore in the group as special officers.

Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Archibald D. Cloud, stressed the fact that citations received by City College students are not given out by the college but by students empowered by law to issue traffic tickets.

It was as the result of a survey conducted by Capt. O'Brien, former captain of the Ingleside district, that the student law enforcement is now in effect to ensure traffic safety, according to Luckmann.

Twelve students compose the police training course under the direction of Fred Fitzgerald, instructor of the program.

"The first day," Luckmann stated, "three citations were given including a citation received for overparking."

Pre-Forestry Majors Must Take Field Trip

A summer field practice course at the end of the sophomore year is required of pre-forestry students who plan to transfer to the University of California, Waddington Blair, counsellor here, announced today.

Fall 1948 applicants should file admission material with the University before March 15, 1948, Blair said.

New Circulation Set-Up

The west campus distribution point of The Guardsman has been changed from The Guardsman office to the guard shack at the east entrance. In the main building the location remains the same: at the Silver Pole. Papers will be available each Tuesday and Friday morning at 10.

Dance And Opera Conflict Results In Possible Revision Of Social Calender

Probable revisions of the Social Calendar for this semester monopolized the action-packed Student Council meeting Tuesday when Max Call, president, revealed the tentative plans of the music and drama departments to stage Sigmund Romberg's New Moon on the date set for the Freshman dance.

Immediate reactions given by the council members to President Call's announcement resulted in a discussion as to whether a calendar change is possible at this late date.

Asking for a reading of the constitution regarding the formulating of the calendar, Bob Reilly stated, "The calendar is set up, let's follow it."

Responding to Reilly's remark, in order to inform the council of the existing situation, Dean Edward E. Sandys said, "There is a dance scheduled for almost every week-end, and there is a need for variety. The opera would be an answer to this need; I think you should consider it."

"You can use the date of the AMS Mardi Gras for the Freshman dance," Byrne Davis, Associated Men Student president, told the group, "and then the opera can be presented on May 20, 21, and 22. However," Davis added, "we will still need a suitable Friday night for the Mardi Gras."

Student Council meetings will be held every Tuesday and Thursday, 12 noon, in Room 4-D, and all members of the Associated Students who wish to attend these meetings are welcome to do so.

Today Marks Last Day To Add New Courses

Deadline for changing or adding a course is today, Mary June Learnard, registrar, warned students Tuesday.

Petitions for graduation must be filed by Friday, March 19, the end of the first midterm period, and Wednesday, April 7, is the last day to drop a course, according to the registrar's calendar. A schedule, listing final days for petitions, has been posted in the registrar's office.

Optimistic Planning By Social Committee

Nancy Wallace, Associated Student vice-president and social committee chairman, announced yesterday that optimistic plans are being made for this semester. Among these is an Associated Student dance, to be held at the Fairmont Hotel Friday, March 19.

Faculty advisers appointed by President A. J. Cloud include Alfred Agosti, Laurine Bergin, Assistant Dean Jack Brady and Dean Margaret Dougherty.

Clubs To Meet In College Hour Today

Activities planned for college hour today include club meetings, which are to take place in rooms newly assigned by Assistant Dean of Men John J. Brady during the past week. No rally is scheduled until next week.

Dean Brady announced that all rooms previously used by clubs for their Friday meetings were not to be used this semester unless he has been consulted and the rooms reassigned. He said that only rooms assigned during past week were to be used.

A rally is scheduled for the next college hour, John Pifer, rally commissioner, announced.

Section From CC Band Will Feature AWS Tea

Featuring a string section of the San Francisco City College Band as appropriate background music at their first tea Thursday, March 11, the Associated Women Students start an active semester of social activities for women students.

This first tea is being held to introduce new women students to other women members of the Associated Students. All new women students holding Associated Student cards are invited to attend the tea, Barbara Hendrickson, president, said.

Capacity Crowd At Presidio's YMCA Witness First Performance Of The Men's Chorus

Directed by faculty adviser Harold Cunningham, the City College Men's Chorus made its first appearance of this semester last Sunday night before the Presidio YMCA. This 40 minute performance was before a capacity crowd, mostly disabled servicemen from Letterman General Hospital.

Officers for this spring are: Frank Montenegro, manager; Van Dietz, assistant manager; and Ben Check, secretary-treasurer. At present, only bass singers are needed, and any interested are invited to attend rehearsals held in R190, MWF at noon.

Besides the college quartet, soloists last Sunday were Roy Burt, tenor; Bob Sherratt, baritone; Regina Warchot, violinist, and Marveile Snider, pianist.

Davis Names Officers

Appointed officers of the Associated Men Students are Bob Selby, vice-president, and Walter Mooromsky, secretary-treasurer, according to Byrne Davis, AMS president.

Included in the plans of the AMS for this semester are a boxing tournament, Mardi Gras and sponsorship of intramural contests.

Why Not Socialize Education? The "GI Bill Of Rights" Is Working!

WHEN the GI Bill of Rights came before the public's eye there were many cries that the government was about to launch a program of turning out a crop of "intellectual bums."

The inference was that the newly-returned veteran would be given a free ride, plus a monthly subsistence check, on a sort of WPA project. Only instead of leaning on a rubber-handled shovel he'd lean across an empty desk and absorb nothing in the way of education.

Upon looking about this campus—and this is as typical a college as the next one—it is a little difficult to find any strong evidence of classroom hoboes.

It would seem, rather, that veterans are being accorded no more and no less favoritism or "breaks" in the way of grades or in easier courses.

Aside from die-hard rationalizers, who privately regret breaking off their own education, saying: "Going to college, eh? Well, it's better than working," veterans have been left to their own merit.

Proof that the GI Bill is no loafer's paradise can be found in the records of the college honor society. It can be found by peering into any classroom and hearing stimulated conversations carried on, in large part, by older, more matured students whose education was interrupted by war.

All this evidence points the way toward an impending peaceful revolution within education's ranks. There is no reason why all can't share in a permanent GI Bill of Rights wherein high school graduates proving eligible, would have their own path toward an AB degree subsidized by the government.

Foes of socialism in any form would hop on this proposal like so many locusts in a cornfield. Yet if the whole program is kept on a voluntary basis, and a competitive spirit is instilled throughout, then the only enemies to be found against the program would be those who fear an educated population.

It would certainly help bring out a lot of termites now within the planks of American government.

LOVE in Bloom or One's Personality Rides on Four Wheels:

With the sun again shining on our fair campus (for a change) sex has reared its lovely head in the college parking areas. At noontime, in any old convertible, you will see young Americans of both sexes exchanging shy glances over their peanut butter sandwiches.

It then follows that: If you have a car—love is yours; if you have a friend that has a car—life MAY be beautiful, but you'll have to work on it; if you have NEITHER—maybe you'd better just study.

Touring Off-Campus Hot Spots: or Notes From Under a Table Down at Prosek's: Ram Shack: The world moves on but the Ram Shackle remains unchanged except for a bigger battery of pinball machines.

College Book Store: The usual crowded informality. The Tau Chi Sigma boys have a good foothold here. Bop records still blare, sending some of the cats as high as 15,000 feet.

The Student Store: Where the elite meet to greet, find a seat and eat. Hearts 21a in full swing. Floor littered with murdered reputations.

Student Fountain: Where the volume of the juke box will have you hanging on the ropes. If smirking Jack Smith doesn't floor you with "Civilization" one of the Block S.F. muscle flexers may put you down for the count just for kicks.

Post-War Privacy, or It All Came True: The last of the married couples inhabiting their W. Campus Dorm, the Waldorf, will soon vacate for greener pastures. (Harley Village.)

The place now crawls with picked men from Bks. 6, 7, and 8, where home is a plywood cell with little or no privacy.

When these ex-cubicle inmates found their new quarters (courtesy Col. McFarland and the F.S.N.) were individual rooms complete with DOORS, they went amok!!

You'll see them standing in the hallway of their new home-away-from-home locking and unlocking their doors while chuckling softly to themselves!!!!

Rising New Moon May Herald Rising New Stage Stars

By John Campiglia

The old adage about a better mousetrap has at last come home to City College, only reversed; in the case of Keast-Niles versus Broadway, they took the mousetrap to the Big City!

The result is that the smash New York hits Allegro and Song of Norway now boast the not inconsiderable talents of former Hilltoppers, Ray Keast and Melva Niles, both of whom help to stop the show.

Keast, who left his music major here for a scholarship at Juilliard, graduated from Juilliard and went with Fred Waring; from there to the Song of Norway, and at present he is singing in the electrifying Broadway stage smash Allegro.

Miss Niles, also a music major at the college, active throughout her two years' stay as a singing star, left college for a part in the Red Mill and from there to the Song of Norway, in which she now has the lead. Miss Niles holds a very lucrative contract with "the" Edwin Lester, stage production genius.

Both of these artists, along with Lorraine Caleagno, of opera fame, were tutored in no small way by the capable engineering of Flossita Badger of the music department, who shares no modicum of surprise at her former students' successes.

All of which (success) seems to prove that early training does the trick, and brings us rather neatly, if circumlocutively, to our point, to-wit: stage aspirants should place their collective size nines in the footsteps of Keast-Niles-Caleagno and others and unlimber their theatrical bag of tricks at the New Moon Auditions which end today, Friday, March 5 at 4 o'clock.

• XGI Society: The following officers were elected for the spring semester: Frank Reise, president; Stan Wolfe, vice-president; and Earl Taylor, treasurer.

Editor's Note: Those clubs wishing to turn in material for publication must have their copy in on Monday at 12:00 for the following Friday's paper and at 12:00 on Wednesday for the following Tuesday paper. All material must be turned into The Guardsman office in Building 12 on the west campus.

Mad Marauding Machines Maul Matriculating Men

By Dave Hansen

At last it has happened, machines of this machine age are no longer subject to the whim of mere man. To be sure, there is not yet an open revolt, but the signs are there.

Locally, the danger spot to watch is a room known only as "192." It is there that the famous IBMs are housed. These complicated mechanisms, known officially as International Business Machines, are those that issue each student a number at the beginning of his local scholastic career. As in other types of institutions, this number stays with the individual throughout his tenure in the institution.

Since last September, it has been the IBMs which have pounded out the cold, hard figures on each student, statistical, course and grade cards. The IBMs also feed the gaping maw of the Veterans Administration with all sorts of punctured, statistical cards.

Dominated by man since 1898 and in complete servitude since 1925, each doing the work of many humans, the IBMs are waiting for the Great Revolt of Machines to assert their independence.

The day is near when, unless the skies soon bless us with rain, our very civilization will crumble under this revolt. Because of the lack of rain we are currently experiencing a power shortage. When this situation becomes worse, it is possible that the electrically operated IBMs will make errors in the poor light. Then the card system will experience hitherto unforeseen difficultics.

When the classification goes awry, horrible things will happen. What if students should be classified as "Born—yes; School attended, high—occasionally; Vet—only on sure things; Race—50 and 100 yard dashes"? Students will have to be classified as unclassified.

Meanwhile, the IBMs are functioning accurately, as usual.

PICTURED ABOVE is attractive Barbara Hadley and a not so attractive IBM machine, name not known. In the confusion of this pix Miss Hadley was hypnotized and partially devoured by the monstrous man eater, or so says Guardsman Photog Jack Nichols.

Wolves' Den Safe

Pretties Promoted To Pets

By I. R. Lascola

Since the first primitive man was thrown out of his cave by an irate mate, he has been forced to seek companionship and solace with pets.

Man's pets have been numerous, including white mice, dogs, cats, elephants, guinea pigs and so on, but in every one of these, extra-human companions of man there is something lacking. The perfect pet has never been found until now.

A SIMPLE SOLUTION

We believe we have solved the problem, and we release our answer to pet-starved mankind. It's simple; the ideal pet for man is woman.

Call us non-conformists if you wish, but consider the question. Dogs were once savage beasts; weasels have been tamed, and, cats have been domesticated, so why not women?

Broken to the leash and taught to obey a few simple commands like "Shaddup" and "Get lost," women's problems would be over.

Man would find his new companion far easier to feed than his previous pets; he wouldn't have to look for strange preparations because woman can live on a diet quite the same as that of man if she tries. In fact, woman's diet would probably be improved on by the simple but nourishing fare of vegetables, milk, bread, and an occasional slice of meat that we believe to be best suited to her.

A BREAK FOR THE FOX

Picture the hunter of tomorrow on the field. The game's afoot! The hugle is sounded, and two splendid young blondes, straining at the leash, are loosed to hound over the hills in pursuit of the prey.

The prey is no longer a fox or a helpless pheasant; this new huntress is naturally suited to a different kind of quarry more in keeping with elemental cravings. This new game is all of that, a bag of money towed over hill and dale by a plough-horse.

The possibilities of this new pet are undreamed of; why, with proper training, we see no reason why women couldn't completely replace dogs.

Champion Mateans Dominate All Star Cagers

San Mateo, Stockton Quints Place Two On Star Studded Aggregation

By Roy Pasini

Results of a survey of the NCJCC college newspapers and coaches to determine an official all-conference basketball team were released today by Arnold Wechter, former Guardsman sports writer now at San Jose State, following final tabulation by The Guardsman sports staff.

Leading the A division five are sharpshooting forwards Goodler, of title winning San Mateo, and Don Lofgren, Grant Tech sensation who set a new Modesto tournament scoring mark with 82 points in four tourney tilts. At center on this dream squad is McCaslin, another San Matean who played a huge part in his squad's league conquest with his stellar floor game and tip in shots.

Van Alstyne Repeats

Holding down the guard spots are two repeaters, Van Alstyne of Menlo, who drew down a second team place last year, and Moreno of Marin who was All-Conference in '42.

In the B division San Francisco City College placed a pair of brothers on the two mythical squads with pointmaking Bob Payne grabbing a first squad forward slot while Don Payne snagged a second team guard position.

Cubs Place Two

Supporting Bob Payne on the first squad were Bill Wirt of Stockton at the other forward spot, with teammate Jack Thomas at the pivot post, to give Stockton superiority in numbers at least.

Filling out the quintet at guards are Tim O'Sullivan from the Santa Rosa Bulldogs and repeater Bill Hyatt, Placer's sensation who was second string in '47.

Cagers Bid For Spot In National Hoop Play

City College sends its cagers to Sacramento Civic Auditorium Wednesday, March 10, to launch the local's bid for a spot in the Pacific Northwest Regional Tournament, with a possible crack at the national two year college basketball title.

The locals' first opponent will be in the form of Rick's College, which persents a formidable five, but because of seasonal records, the Rams will hold the favorite's role at tip-off time.

The tourney finalists will be sent to Missouri during Easter vacation, where they will meet the top two from the remaining seven regions of the country.

Cindermen Ready For Conference; Barnes, Wyatt Shine In Practice

By Dayton Lawson

We'll get 'em next year!

That thread-bare theme keynoted the general feeling as a handful of disappointed Ram cindermen stood by and watched the Modesto Supermen lift everything that wasn't nailed down to annex the 1947 NCJCC track crown.

The lads from the hutter town, looking for all the world like the junior grade counterpart to the Trojans of U.S.C., moved like that all season, and there wasn't much anybody could do about it.

This year, Ram Coach Jim Jensen is willing to take another crack at the miracle men, and he may have the ammunition to make it stick.

Back in the high-jump comes lanky Bill Barnes, who glommed on to more than his share of points last season. Jim Wyatt is on deck for the sprints and the relay, and Gardera and Dodson return to holster the distance events.

Jensen thinks he has a "sleeper" in Owen Moore, a newcomer from the East Bay who has been clocked in the hasty time of ten flat for the century. Moore also throws in a fair-to-middlin' furlong to liven up a slow afternoon.

Intramural Deadline For Basketball Today

Entries for the intramural basketball tourney are due today and the time will not be extended, director Tom Wilson announced Tuesday.

An application for entering a team may be found below and should be turned in immediately to Wilson or Andre Schmidt, intramural manager, in the men's gymnasium.

Teams may enter eight players this semester, instead of six, as was previously the system.

The Block SF, Wildcats, and Eagles have already turned their applications in for participation in the tournament.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due March 5

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Friday, March 5, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through today. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

Netters To San Jose For Spartan Battle

Coach Tom Wilson and his racketeers take to the courts in their second practice match of the season next Tuesday, March 9, when they travel to San Jose to do battle with the Spartan varsity.

To date the local netmen have met Santa Clara in a non-conference match and this match, along with one day of official practice, constitutes the squad's collective efforts as of now. Therefore, Coach Wilson has been unable to list definite starters.

Competitive ladder play got under way on the squad's lone day of practice last week, and Wilson stated that team positions will be filled from the men holding the top spots before each match. This leaves the field wide open, but because of the impending Spartan match, Wilson has been forced to pick a squad to fill the six single slots and three double positions.

Meeting Of WAA To Be Held Today; Co-Educational Sports Main Topic

A meeting of the Women's Athletic Association Council will be held in Room 140 during the college hour today. All women students who are interested in sports are invited to attend, President Barbara Combs said.

Co-educational sports are being urged by the sports instructors and the WAA this semester. Co-ed badminton, will be held Wednesday, 7 to 9 p.m., with Nancy Sparks and Ralph Hillsman, instructors. Tennis, folk dancing, bowling and riding are also being given as co-educational sports this semester.

Class managers will be elected as soon as the classes are arranged and settled.

Miss Combs urged students to join these classes for WAA and co-educational sports.

Mittmen Face Navy At Big Rec Today

College baseball filberts will get their first look at Bill Fischer's potential 1948 NCJCC championship team this afternoon when his Ram nine play their second practice game of the year in preparation for the coming diamond campaign.

Opponents for the Rams today will be the Alameda Naval Air Station nine, with the game, scheduled to be played at Big Rec in Golden Gate Park, commencing at 3 o'clock.

Ram mentor Fischer is as yet undecided on a starting lineup, but the Sailors, who dropped a 20-4 decision to the St. Mary's nine last week, will start either Don Steen, Jack Henderson or Dick Briesinger on the mound.

To date, unhampered by rainy weather, as was the case last season, Fischer has had his candidates working out at Balboa Park and Ocean View Playground. While not revealing any names as yet, Fischer has been pleased by the performances of several newcomers, especially a long-hitting outfielder who can really give the ball a long ride.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

FORUM, the college yearly literary magazine, received the "thumbs down" treatment at the recent meeting of the Student Council.

Like a somewhat bewildered gladiator without any shield to defend himself, the Forum staggered into the Student Council arena with the tigers jumping like mad to get in on the kill.

The Forum magazine was one of first contests on the program, when Student President Max Call presented the council with a "request" from the English Department (Dr. Mercer and John Gerstung are faculty advisers for the magazine) for approval of a possible budget allotment for the Forum.

Triumvirate Dean Jack Brady immediately received recognition from the president and pointed out that the Forum was definitely a losing proposition.

He explained that last year's literary magazine had lost somewhere between $500 and $600 of the Associated Student funds.

It appeared that many of the council members were unfamiliar with the complete situation pertaining to the magazine, financially and otherwise. As there was no official representative present to defend the magazine, Jack Hurley asked that a committee be formed to investigate all the possible angles of the annual literary piece.

Brady then pointed out that last semester's council had unofficially decided to drop the magazine from the list of college publications.

Hurley offered that the Forum was a college magazine for the students and would give them an opportunity to express themselves literally.

A vote was then taken on the approval of a committee to investigate the Form, but approval was defeated. Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, Jack Hurley, George Capanis and Kurt Levi balloted in favor of the committee.

Quickly, Bob Reilly moved that no money be given for the publication of the Forum, and the motion carried. The Forum lay dead in the sand.

Hurley won the olive branch, however, when he moved that the council hold its meetings in a larger room. Meetings are now in Room 4D.

Hostess Class Brunch On Today At 1 P. M.

Following a successful introductory tea last week, the college hostess class has completed plans for its second affair of the new semester, the traditional semi-annual brunch, to be held this afternoon at 1 p.m. in Room 108, Letha Robarts, home economics instructor, revealed yesterday.

Each student of the class has invited one student friend from the college to be her guest at the affair.

Sales Discount To Associated Students Sought By Council

Promotion of Associated Student card sales includes in its program the contracting of local merchants to give a discount to card holders, Frank Ferguson, committee chairman, revealed this week.

"Arrangements have already been made through the diligent efforts of Frank Reed for two stores to give discounts," Ferguson stated, "however, the discounts, possibly ranging from 5 to 20 per cent have not been decided upon as yet."

Hoping to push the card sales to an all-time high, the members of the publicity for student card sales committee, are Frank Ferguson, chairman, Nancy Wallace, Don Schumacher, Phyllis Ryan, Bob McVey and Jack Hurley.

Voluntarily assisting the committee are Reed, Francisco Solorano, Karlson Koo, Rickie Moore, Marilyn Gray, and Dave Gavigan.

Spring Drama Calendar Posted By Instructor

Planning for the drama department's spring round of public entertainment has been completed, according to Lloyd Sisler, instructor, today.

The schedule includes several plays, an operetta, and play readings. Opener in semester program is Night Must Fall, a three act mystery, currently playing.

The complete calendar of dramatic offerings is as follows:

March 18, Play Reading.

April 8, Play Reading or a one act play.

April 15, 16, Berkeley Square, a three act play.

May 6, Play Reading.

May 20, 21, 22, Music and drama light opera.

Housing Units Are Now Available To Students

Housing units in Balboa Park for married veterans attending the college are now available, according to a statement by Dean Edward E. Sandys yesterday.

Revealing that the units are furnished and include gas and electricity. Sandys said that rental rates will be adjusted according to incomes. Interested veterans should apply immediately in the office of the Dean of Men located in building 1 on the west campus.

Quarters are also available for single veterans, according to Fred McFarland, housing coordinator, who listed openings in west campus dormitories.

Hit Mystery, Night Must Fall, Starts Four Day Run

By Thermon Jones

Evelyn Williams' sinister murder mystery, Night Must Fall, opened last night in the basement Room 28 performed by the college little theater group.

It isn't often that so gripping and popular a play can claim much real dramatic merit, but Night Must Fall strikes the audience by the power of its characterization and the skill with which the situation achieves its subtle psychology.

Author Lauded

One must admire the skill of the the author in producing the ruthless ingenuity by which Danny, the "hero" of the drama, plays up to the elderly and sharp tongued Mrs. Bramson and fascinates the lonely, repressed Olivia.

Murder has its part, of course, and the search for the victim's head involves the persons of the play in moments of horror fully shared by the audience.

Cast Excellent

An outstanding performance was given by Evelyn Hickey, as Olivia. She is assisted by a very capable cast. Mary Ann Ambrosini plays Mrs. Bramson with all the egotism and ill temper which the part requires. Her hysterical scene in the third act will not be easily forgotten.

Roy Barnett, as Danny, seems to have the necessary personality and presence, although he gives the impression that he is not always too sure of himself. Generally, though, he gives a convincing performance of the fascinating villain.

Five Shows Remain

There are still five performances of Night Must Fall, today at 1 and 8:15 p.m.; Monday at 8:15, Tuesday at 1 and 8:15.

Paul Ellison, drama instructor, asked students wishing to attend to make reservations for the remaining evening showings. The booking seems likely to be heavy and otherwise good seats cannot be insured, Ellison said.

Marital Confusion Analyzed By Expert At College Tonight

"Personal orientation in marriage, or what marriage means to the man and woman," will be discussed by Harry F. Grant, executive director of the family relations center in San Francisco, tonight in Room 205 at 7:30 p.m., it was announced by Pete Isola, president of Pi Mu Gamma.

The lecture will consider the fundamental aspects of marriage and family relations.

Grant is well versed in this field, according to Isola. For 30 years he has been a counselor on marriage and sex education in San Francisco. He has been connected with the family relations center in this city for the past 22 years.

In connection with his series of lectures, Grant said, "I would rather answer the many questions that arise from my audiences, mainly because I enjoy it more. Questions also bring out problems that have not been touched upon in the talk."

Upon graduating from the University of Washington with an A.B. degree in sociology, he received a life certificate as a teacher.

Grant is now giving a course at Stanford that has a large following, Isola said. His lectures parallel the much publicized lectures of Noel Keys at the University of California.

Last Performance of Night Must Fall Set

Closing its blood curdling run at the college, Night Must Fall plays two final performances today in the college little theatre, Room 28, Paul Ellison, director, announced.

The performances today will be at 1 this afternoon and 8:15 tonight, Ellison said.

The college little theatre group has chilled and horrified audiences for three days, bringing forth their dramatic efforts and training for the Evelyn Williams' murder mystery.

The sinister drama holds onlookers in suspense and terror for three acts loaded with the cunning of the villain and the hatred of the victim by him.

Students who wish to see drama, currently playing on a makeshift stage that lacks a proper curtain, can get a seat by Associated Student card for 60 cents. All students and friends are welcome, Ellison said.

April 7 Announced As Drop Course Deadline

More dates released from the office of Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, yesterday listed Wednesday, April 7, as the last day to drop a course.

While naming Friday, March 19, as the last day for removal of incompletes from previous semesters with grades higher than D, Miss Learnard added that Friday, March 19 will also be the last day for filing petitions to graduate by all eligible students of the college.

Library Will Collect Freedom Exhibit Here

Display of facsimile, documents and literature relative to freedom and the democratic ideal has been assembled by the library department under the direction of Marcus Skarstadt, head librarian.

The exhibit is on display in the main building on the east campus and, according to Skarstadt, is very worthwhile and beneficial to all students.

The project was planned and initiated in conjunction with the arrival of the Freedom Train, due to steam into San Francisco March 14.

Bank Ready To Pay On Vet ASC Requisitions

Veterans who have filed requisitions at the college bank as payment for Associated Student cards prior to March 2, can now receive their remittance, Kevin Ryan, bank officer, said today. This refund is for veterans who bought student cards before the Veterans Administration agreed to buy them, according to Ryan.

Budget Held Up In Heated Council Debate

Freedom Train Program Friday Honors Documents' Arrival

Two Day Stay Allows Only 28,000 To View Treasured Papers At Marina

In conjunction with American Rededication Week, the college will present a special Freedom Train program on Friday, March 12, during the college hour, Dr. Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, disclosed yesterday.

Programming patriotic selections by the band and the A Cappella choir, under the direction respectively of Meyer Cahn and Flossita Badger, music instructors; a vocal solo by Elmer Dickey, baritone; and the reading of a radio script monologue by Henry Leff, acting instructor in radio production, Cloud added that speeches for the occasion will be delivered by Thomas Dutcher, political science instructor and himself.

Cloud, honored as an appointee to the mayor's Citizen's Committee for the Freedom Train, revealed that of the five cars in the train, only two contain the treasured documents, the others being utilized to accommodate the marine guards protecting the exhibit and to house air conditioning equipment necessary to preserve the [illegible] if the need arises," Cahn said.

Maximum accommodations will permit around 14,000 people a day to visit the Freedom Train, which will be stationed at the Marina for only two days, Sunday and Monday, March 14 and 15.

In view of the above data, Cloud indicated that only a portion of San Francisco citizens will be able to view these historical documents.

College Orchestra Calls For Violinists

Although the organization of the college orchestra this semester resulted in the appearance of about 30 members, Mike M. Cahn, orchestra leader, expressed a need for violinists yesterday.

The orchestra is doing fine, according to Cahn, and is at present playing arrangements by Bach, Stravinsky, and Grofe, although most of their effort is being directed toward the arrangement, Last Movement of Dvorak New World Symphony.

"The chamber orchestra has been rehearsing once a week making preparation for coming occasions of this semester and will substitute for [illegible]

Students To Be Polled In A Rally Idea Search

A novel idea for the betterment of future City College rallies is the starting of a "Gallup-ing" poll. The man behind the idea is John Fahey, a City College student.

In stating his idea, Fahey said that he proposed to interview, after each rally, a number of students, men and women, and find out their impressions and ideas.

"Since the rallies are run for the enjoyment of the students, it is only fair that they have a voice in the presentation of them," Fahey concluded.

BARBARA HENDRICKSON, above, Associated Women Student president, acts as official hostess at tea Thursday afternoon honoring women students.

First Tea Set For New Women Students

For the purpose of introducing the new women students of the college to the other women of the Associated Students, the first AWS tea of the semester will be held this Thursday, March 11, according to Barbara Hendrickson, AWS president.

All women holding Associated Student cards are invited to attend the [illegible]

The AWS officers are Moira Glenn, vice-president; Rosemarie Mullen, secretary, and Marjorie Tracy, corresponding secretary. Music for the tea has been cancelled, because of the library's proximity.

Instructor To Guide Franklin Contestants

All regular students of the college who consider themselves adept articulators, and who are not related to employees of Hearst newspapers should sign up immediately for the Hearst Benjamin Franklin oratorical contest, Claude E. Shull, speech instructor, announced last week.

Information can be obtained by interested students from Shull in Room 214.

Intramural competition will be held here at college April 16 to determine which students are eligible to go on to college division finals, which are to be held in the Bay Area April 30.

Forum Plea Tabled; AWS, Dramatics, Athletics Passed

A heated, over-time session of the Student Council resulted in delaying complete passage of this semester's budget; however, portions were approved after much discussion.

One of the delaying elements, still hanging fire from the first meeting, was the supplementary entrance into the budget of $650 for Forum Magazine.

Mention of the previously cancelled Forum prompted councilman Jack Hurley to ask, "Where will we get $650?" Following Hurley, Bob McVey stated, "I don't think many students ever heard of the Forum."

Marvin Silverman, speaker for the Forum, ended his stand with, "I do not think it would be right for the council to cut off the Forum entirely." Silverman left the meeting as Nancy Wallace, vice-president, moved to proceed with the budget and forget the Forum.

Laughter Stirs Meeting

A change of tempo creating strains of laughter ensued when the breakdown of the AWS budget revealed the prevailing breakage and mysterious disappearance of teacups, dishtowels, teabags, and sundry items familiar only to the AWS. The AWS budget for $222 was passed.

With the fear that there will be only an equal amount of copies of The Guardsman printed as there are Associated Student cards sold, the Council immediately approved The Guardsman's budget for $6,240, with $1,000 guaranteed return in advertising.

Athletic Budget Questioned

Football equipment included in this semester's Athletics budget of $4,810.63 was questioned by Nancy Wallace, who asked, "Is it necessary to buy new equipment? Does it wear out?" This prompted Izzy Bloss of the Block SF Society to ask Miss Wallace, "Did you ever play football?"

Ending this bantering, Bob Reilly moved to pass the Athletic budget. Following this, came the Executive Council's budget of $1,608.50, which was approved with little interrogation, excepting Bob Reilly, sophomore Council member, who voted negatively.

Statement From The College Literary Magazine

Forum Declares Council Undemocratic

Editor's Note: The Guardsman may not agree with the following statement from the Editor of Forum Magazine in its entirety; nevertheless we believe the Editor of Forum, and his staff, have every right to be heard on this vital issue.

The Guardsman goes along with Voltaire's classic statement: "Although I may not agree with what you say, I believe and will defend your right to say it." For editorial comment, see Page 2, Column 1 of this issue.

The recent action taken by the Student Council regarding their refusal to appropriate sufficient funds for the publication of the Forum Magazine was not only a flagrant example of this Student Government's attitude toward the cultural elements of this College, but also a blatant abuse of democratic procedure.

The awareness of the traditional and the cultural significance of the Forum Magazine is of utmost importance. The Forum Magazine, written for and by the students of C. C. S. F., has been in existence throughout the period of twelve years since the founding of the College. Issued every Spring Semester, the magazine contained literary works, such as essays, reviews, poems; it contained art works of the students; it contained musical and drama interpretations.

It has been the only vehicle for this type of expression afforded the students.

The action taken at the meeting of February 26, in voting the Forum Magazine out of existence was a characteristic example of the bias and preconceived attitudes that prevail in the Student Council.

No authorized representative of the magazine had been asked to participate in the discussion. The defense of the Forum was carried out by persons not in possession of the correct figures pertaining to cost and circulation. Consequently, there was complete misrepresentation.

The subsequent meeting of the Council was attended by a representative of the Forum, who, benefiting by the few moments of the Council's time granted him, was unable to stimulate any serious debate or reconsideration of the issue. The disrespect and the unjustifiable attitude on the part of a large number of Council members reached a point of ridicule towards this further presentation of the issue.

The essential facts of the financial side of the case are these—last year, when the A.S.C.C. budget was in the neighborhood of $20,000, the Forum requested $1,500. Of that amount $900 was used and the $430 realized was refunded.

This year, with the budget at $15,000, the Forum is asking for $650, and it may safely be assumed that well over half that amount will be returned. In light of other student activities where thousands of dollars are invested with no hope of return, any possible deficit incurred by the Forum Magazine is insufficient justification for its abolishment.

In view of these facts and because there is no legalized channel of protest or appeal, we, the students who are most directly involved in this issue have taken it upon ourselves to circulate a petition requesting the immediate recognition of the need to continue the publication of the Forum.

We appeal to you students, who are primarily interested in securing more democratic representation in our student government and secondarily in preserving the valuable tradition of the Forum to participate in this action.

Petitions can be signed at the following places:

Dr. Mercer's Office—251.
Mr. Ross' Office—4K.
Mr. Gerstung's Office—9D.

In addition to this, petitions will be circulated on the campus.

—Marvin Silverman,
Editor, The Forum.

What Price Culture? Publication Of Forum Magazine Must Not Stop

WHAT Price Culture? This question was asked in the last Student Council meeting when the fate of Forum Magazine came up for discussion.

Forum, the college literary magazine is, at this writing, "on the ropes," from a financial point of view; although a few council members have let hasty judgment of last year's issue (only one of 12) color their outlook on the magazine's merits.

The Student Council's chief objection to Forum is the financial loss sustained in printing. Last year this loss amounted to about $450.

The Guardsman believes a price cannot be put on culture BUT, inasmuch as this college is not richly endowed and cannot stand further losses, another track must be taken. A less expensive issue of Forum can be printed.

Budget or no budget Forum Magazine is STILL a recognized publication. And, as such, should make its yearly appearance despite obstacles in its path.

Many members of The Guardsman staff have contributed to past issues. Many stand ready to write for Forum again if and when the call is issued.

It is not imperative that Forum appear on slick paper, replete with glossy photographs and four-color engraved cover designs.

Art work can be sacrificed if necessary. This does not mean that the work of college art students should not be seen . . . there are hallway display cases that can be used for that purpose.

The talent in the large English department of this college needs an outlet. That outlet is Forum Magazine and The Guardsman says: Let it be printed!

Quality, to a writer, is in the printed word—not what that word is printed upon. If Forum Magazine appears neatly done in mimeographed form its greatest appeal will still be in the quality of the writing.

And the quality of writing will be there. It has in the past, back issues of Forum will prove this. One way or another the thoughts of the student-writer should be mirrored in a permanent publication.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

THE GREAT Name Calling Contest, or The Power of the Press: It's a shame when such metropolitan dailies as the San Francisco Chronicle start circulating ugly rumors to the effect that our college's name has been changed (It's all true—but not in the way that they'd have you suppose.).

In a recent story they referred to us as San Francisco JUNIOR City College! The question is not, "What's in a name?" but, "How much can you get into a name?"

Hot Off the Cafeteria Griddle: The sign near the faculty dining room that reads, "Reserved for Toastmasters" doesn't mean that the toast making machines of the same name are using the place as a hangout.

The Toastmasters are a group of business men who get their kicks in the dining room—making speeches to each other. Such cafeteria services, by the way, are available to any college club if they'll ask Bob Barrett, Night Student Manager.

The People's Choice Dept.: Minutes of every Stud. Council meeting are now being posted on the bulletin board near the Pres' Office. If you want to find how your money is being spent—just check the board.

Our small, maroon Ram goes to Frank Ferguson and Frank Reed, Associated Student card salesmen, who have sold approx. 350 cards and secured discounts from two nearby stores for card holders. Also to the Beta Phi Beta fraternity. For proof of their shining deed they showed us a photo of the newly painted Ram with Beta Phis swarming all over him—complete with paint brushes and smiles.

The Great Swindle, or An Economic Coup: Students of Econ. 21b are being subjected to a rare type of business deal. They have to pay 75 cents for books that will be stashed in the Library. They may never see their books, but the instructors have instructed them, no doubt, that by contributing their loot they will be instrumental in staving off the next depression. The moral of this story might be, "From instructor to riches, or education CAN pay!!!"

Dog Tries Literary Digest, Consumes Passing Literature

By Dayton Lawson

It's difficult at times to go along with that old chestnut that "it shouldn't happen to a dog."

There are plenty of dogs it should happen to. One, for instance, is currently parading the campus like a stock-holder. To him it should happen TWICE!

The mutt under discussion is a black and tan bone-disturber, who, at first sight, would seem to resemble an airdale. A second glance and you're not sure. He stands about three axe-handles high and sports four shaggy shanks which give him the appearance of wearing boots.

No Dog of Distinction

This character intercepts all and sundry who try to make it from the campus to the main building with a modicum of dignity. If you don't stop and play with him for a minute or two, he gets downright insulted. If you do, you're in for it.

All he needs is a pat of encouragement to go into his act. Playfully grabbing you by the arm he starts pulling you down the hill again. Your good-natured protests of "no way, doggie," have little or no effect.

After having gotten you almost to the bottom of the hill again, this PLUG-ugely decides its time to play "fetch-it" with your history book, and grabbing same, takes off with a nine-foot stride in the direction of Ocean Avenue.

Stood in Bed

By the time you've bribed him back by making like you're chasing a passin truck, the period is half-shot and you might as well have stayed in bed.

Gently taking the book from between his teeth, you pick up a nearby boulder, think better of it and put it down again.

At the top of the hill you turn and look back apprehensively. There the character sits under a tree, the picture of tranquility, conserving his energy for the 10 o'clock break.

Letters to the Editor

• Plaudits For Polling

Editor, The Guardsman:

I noticed in your March 2nd issue a statement that the student council was making plans for a public opinion survey.

To me this is a forward step which certainly everyone will approve. The school government is finally getting on the ball.

What better way to find what the student body desires than by finding out scientifically. The public opinion poll has shown again and again that with safeguards taken in the techniques of polling, it can be a very accurate barometer of feelings on the issues polled.

The most important reason that I can think of for the adoption of this plan of polling the students is that each and everyone of us will feel that the student government is not an impersonal thing with which the student has contact once a semester but that he really has some voice in the student body activities.

Canned Hamlet Served On Platter

By Doug Johnson

Want to see a nifty hernia operation in technicolor? Or perhaps you lean more towards the classics, preferring selections from Hamlet delivered Maurice Evans and Cornelia Otis Skinner. Whichever you prefer, the man to see is Madison Devlin, of the audio visual aid "department" of the college.

Devlin has in his library of movies, slides and recordings of everything from a throaty, "How, now, brown cow," to a view of some nice stratified rock.

Audio visual aid embraces 68 subjects now. Eight student projectionists are employed, whenever their studies permit, to show an average of ten movies a day.

Show Speech Improvement

"Most of our 87 albums of recordings are used by the language departments," Devlin said, "and soon we hope to have more equipment to make our own recordings. Students in speech will make recordings of their diction on one side of a record when first entering a class and, on completing the course, will 'speak' on the other side. Comparison will show the improvement in diction.

"With the aid of some of our projectionists, we're making our own lantern slides for the art and geology departments," Devlin added. "This is cheaper than ordering them from agencies and we are more sure of getting exactly what we want," he pointed out.

Movies Rented

Most of the movies are rented from agencies, it was learned, this being much cheaper than buying the movies outright and having them depreciate.

"While the college dome is, so far, the only room that can be completely blacked out, we have five other rooms in the main college building that can be darkened satisfactorily for the showing of movies, and we are considering fitting out more on the west campus grounds," Devlin stated.

To meet the increased demand for movies, six new projectors have been ordered, according to Devlin. "It's quite possible that we'll have to employ more student projectionists," he said.

Any one interested in a really interesting job can see Devlin any time in Room 148.

Intra Cage Entries Due In Gym Today

Intramural director, Tom Wilson, announced yesterday that the time for the basketball entries to be accepted has been extended until today at 3 p.m.

Thus he offers a final chance to all eager entrants, although he has been receiving many last minute applications from the college students.

Barring any unforseen happenings, the cage schedule should be drawn up and placed on the men's gymnasium bulletin board by Thursday, and actual competition should start on Monday, March 15.

Games will start at 3:15 p.m. and 4:15 p.m. Monday through Thursday with six games an afternoon being the maximum played on the gymnasium floor.

All managers should watch the bulletin board in the main building to the right of the office besides the one in the men's gymnasium for the latest intramural developments.

Late applications will be accepted today by Wilson or Andre Schmidt, intramural director.

Awards will be given to the first and second place winners in the intramural cage tournament in the way of gold belt buckles for first place winners and bronze medals for second place winners.

Signups are also open now for students interested in tennis, badminton and table tennis.

Broncos Throw Local Netmen In 9-0 Shutout

Handicapped by the loss of top singles men Fred Rodgers, flu bug victim, and Frank Reed, who was unable to compete, the Ram netmen went down to defeat at the hands of the Santa Clara Broncos on the winners' courts last Wednesday afternoon by a 9-0 count.

Best match of the day was turned in by Ed Jacobsen, former Washington High netter of a few years back, who tackled Bronco ace Al Martin, the same boy who led the Santa Clarans on the gridiron last fall. Jacobsen took the first set 6-3 and then fell before Martin's pressing style 6-1 and 6-2.

Other results were as follows:

Roy Oakes (SC) def. Bob Sockolov
Tom Burns (SC) def. Bill Covall
Jack Smith (SC) def. Garston Blass
Jim Grenfell (SC) def. Dave Land
Bill Snyder (SC) def. Bill Torres
Harris and Burns (SC) def. Covall and Torres.
Grenfell and Snyder (SC) def. Blass and Land.
Oakes and Herley (SC) def. Sockolov and Jacobsen.

Compton College, last year's national junior college champion, won 36 out of 40 games. One of the four games dropped was to the CCSF Rams, at the Modesto Tournament, 48-45.

GENIAL TOM WILSON, director of intramural activities and varsity tennis team, has extended the date for intra basketball until late this afternoon.

Wilson, a former College of the Pacific grid hero, also won letters in baseball, tennis, basketball, and golf, is listed as one of COP's all time athletic greats.

Return Of Kellog Boosts Track Hope

The return to active competition of Tom Kellog, point-winning 880 man from the 1946 championship squad, is the reason for the abundance of esprit de corps currently being displayed in Ram track and field circles.

The lanky-half-miler ran a blistering 1:59 in his first year of NCJCC competition and showed his heels to most of the middle-distance men for the good part of the season.

In the other events, Bob Brickell is back in the javelin, Kermit Scott returns in the highjump, and Bob Cook, a recent Balboa High School lad, tries his hand at the discus.

The weather, unusually good for this time of year (for track men, anyhow) has helped Coach Jensen's harriers round out into shape much earlier than expected. The generosity of S. F. State officials in letting the Rams use their Lake Merced oval is also responsible for this early-season form.

By the time the San Mateo meet is behind him, Jensen should have a fair idea as to what constitutes his team, and where the weak spots, if any, lie.

Title Hopes Gone; Cagers Off To Sacto

Local NCJCC title hopes were shattered at Sacramento Civic Auditorium last Wednesday night by a fast breaking Placer quintet which handed Coach Ralph Hiltsman's casabans a 57-51 setback.

The contest, a rapidly paced affair, was highlighted by the effective shooting of Ram Perrance McKeon, vastly improved center, and Placer's All-Conference Bob Hyatt at the guard position.

Hyatt not only copped high point honors for the evening with 19, but was also very instrumental in starting Placer's devastating fast break attack. McKeon, who tanked 15 digits, was all over the backboards and turned in a great floor game in addition to his sharpshooting.

Turning point in the tussle was the northern boys' ability to mesh their charity tosses. They had 8 for 8 at the half, the number of which increased in the final period as the locals tried to gain possession of the casaba. Aggressive Jim Caldwell fouled out late in the contest as a result of this all out effort.

The loss eliminated the City College boys from title contention, but the hoopsters will take a crack at the national two-year college cage title this week before hanging up their shoelaces for the season.

WAA Swim Classes Meet Twice Weekly

Women's swimming classes will meets Tuesdays and Thursdays at the YWCA between the hours of 2 and 3 p.m. The classes are divided into three levels. The elementary class meets at 2 p.m.; the intermediate at 2:30 p.m. and the advanced class meets at 3 p.m. Classes will be under the instruction of Nancy Sparks, swimming instructor.

Credit for Women's Athletic Association blocks may be obtained by after class work on the swimming team, announced instructor Miss Sparks.

Plans for class work have not been made definite, as the abilities of the teams are not yet known.

"Remember, the classes will be held at the YWCA on Tuesdays and Thursdays," Miss Sparks cautioned.

Ram Nine Plays Gators At State Tomorrow Afternoon

Defending Conference Champs Enter NCJC League Competition March 30 Against Menlo

After a fairly impressive debut in their practice games against the Hamilton Field and Naval Air Station nines, Bill Fischer's Ram nine turns to local competition tomorrow afternoon when the men tangle with the diamond aggregation from San Francisco State College.

The first tilt of the three game series will be played on the Gators' diamond in the Park Merced area, with the starting time set for approximately 4 p.m.

Thursday's opponents for the Rams will be the Irish of Sacred Heart High School, who will take on the NCJCC defending champions on the Ocean View Diamond at 2:30 p.m.

Finally succumbing to a strong Hamilton Field nine last week the Ram mittmen lost a closey, 11 to 8.

The college baseball squad has been using makeshift lineups in the practice tilts so far this season because Fischer wants to give every man an equal chance to prove his ability.

Jayvees End Season With 14 Victories

The junior varsity basketball team recently climaxed the most successful season ever recorded in the annals of the city college history.

The only setback that blemished an undefeated season was against Marin with a score of 30 to 29. The JV's rambled through the other 14 opponents on their schedule with comparative ease, and with their record of 14 to 1 lay claim to the unofficial Northern California title.

Spearheading the Lambs to their fine record were Leo Bucciarelli, Maurice Griffin, Phil Burroughs, Ray White, Hal Flynn, Bob Sockloy, Walt James and Neil Turner.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

BUDGETING time came around to the Student Council at its latest meeting over in Room 4D last Thursday.

All in all, the council carried the business of the day along "rather" smoothly, and thus far have okayed 6000 clackers for The Guardsman—on the basis of $1000 return; 4000 dollars for athletic equipment, 500 dollars for the dramatic department, and 1600 happy bucks for operating expenses of the council.

Frank Ferguson, soph councilite, moved to adjourn the meeting, and with confab running some 15 minutes overtime as it was, the council immediately voted unanimously to fold the proceedings for the day.

The happiest minutes of the Thursday get-to-gether occurred when the subject of appropriating $222 for the Associated Women Students was presented to the council by Jack Sommers, finance chairman.

Bob Reilly, third term council member, demanded a breakdown on how the AWS was going to dispose of the some 200 dollars.

Sommers started off with giving figures on how much the AWS was going to spend on glasses, punch bowls, paper cups, paper plates, tea, phonograph records and dish towels.

Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, questioned the amount appropriated for dish towels. It appeared that the sum requested was $5 for a dozen dish towels.

Dean Margaret Dougherty quickly jumped to the defense of the dish towels by declaring that the AWS used at least a dozen towels a semester because of carelessness of some of the hostesses at the AWS teas, who leave dish towels lying indiscriminately about the various sinks.

Barbara Hendrickson, AWS president, pleadingly stated that the AWS was giving a tea in the near future and that she needed some money in a hurry to purchase some of Lipton's favorite product.

She also claimed the need for appropriation for a new punch bowl, as invariably the punch bowl is dropped on the floor some time during the semester.

The council, impressed by her plea, voted the funds. Reilly voted "No."

Approved Societies Need 100 Per-Cent In AS Membership

Charges of undemocratic and dictatorial action were first thrown against Max Call, Associated Student President, then withdrawn, because of his request for 100 per cent Associated Student membership in all clubs wanting official Club Advisory Board recognition.

The incident occurred at the presidents' meeting last Wednesday night.

This action was started early in the semester when a directive to that effect was sent to all active college organizations by Mel Dykman, CAB president, as directed by Call.

Call, in justification of this request, stated that the Associated Students are liable for all debts incurred by the clubs, and, for this reason, they should support the Associated Students.

An informal report at the meeting uncovered the fact that the majority of the campus organizations have already responded to the order.

Students Find That 2 Plus 2 Still 4

By Hank Twelth

Regardless of any unqualified rumors which may be circulating about, two plus two are now and ever shall be equal to four, Thomas Bass, head of the college mathematics department, emphatically revealed today, and stated his complete willingness to be quoted on same. Though "new looks," atom bombs, and third parties come and go, this one fact remains constant and indubitable, he added.

Enrollment in all math classes this semester is at the usual peak figure, and students do not seem to have any particular preference as to which math they take. All the classes are filled to capacity.

There have been no new math classes added to the college curriculum, which might prove the adage that the oldest science is much the same as "Old Man River" . . . in that it just keeps rolling along.

Presidents Okay New Moon Dates; Band Waits Action On Budget

Musical Production Scheduled May 20-21-22

Settlement for the dates of May 20, 21, and 22, for the light opera production New Moon was accomplished last Wednesday night, March 3, at the first presidents' meeting of the semester.

The musical production, under the direction of Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, marks the first time in the history of the college that a complete light opera has been staged.

Jointly operating with the drama department, guided by Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, the first rehearsals for the musical are scheduled to start near the end of this month or the beginning of April, according to Miss Badger.

"Thus far the number of students that have turned out for the casting has been very promising. Nearly 55 students applied for parts in the production and appeared at the regular auditions.

"In all probability the show will utilize the double cast system, with alternating players being used on the three successive nights of the production," Miss Badger said.

Miss Badger further pointed out that in the past, musical productions have been limited in size because of the lack of space. However, even though the musical shows have been smaller, they have been very successful, the musical director added.

The New Moon light opera is to be presented in the college auditorium.

Honor Society Forced To Cancel Its Dance

Plans for an Alpha Gamma Sigma sponsored dance scheduled for Friday, March 12, have been definitely postponed, according to Murney Cunningham, AGS past president.

Miss Cunningham gave as the reason that Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college honor society, as yet has not been sufficiently organized to present a student dance.

Campus Talent Starts Signing Today At 2

Signups for participation in the college's first permanent talent agency, the Talent Placement Bureau, will take place today and tomorrow in Room 200 after 2 p.m.

Chairman of the group, Roy Barnett, announced that all students who possess talent in the fields of drama, music, or vaudeville are eligible to sign up for auditions, which will be scheduled at a later date.

The bureau, consisting of Barnett, Dick Briggs, and Pete Bogosiu, is not connected with any other campus productions and is entirely independent of curriculum of the drama and music departments. It is the product of student planning largely on the part of Barnett, Briggs, and Bogosiu, and is a non-profit, college-sponsored organization.

The function of the bureau is to pool talent for all student activities, such as rallies and dramatic productions.

Usher Situations For College Are Limited

Men and women interested in ushering for the San Carlo Opera Company, opening today, should get in touch with Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, in Building 2.

This is a rare opportunity for music majors, and music lovers wishing to attend the coming operas, Dean Dougherty revealed, since only a limited number of positions have been allowed to City College.

Members Reorganize, Pay Own Expenses.

While waiting for the Student Council to approve several budgets, including the one for purchasing new uniforms, the college band members have been paying all minor expenses, band instructor Meyer M. (Mike) Cahn stated yesterday.

"The band members have displayed a great deal more interest this semester, and I thiuk everyone will notice that we have almost a completely new band in the sense of its organization," Cahn continued.

There has been almost a complete reorganization of the music and the type which will be played this semester and next will vary considerably, Cahn added.

Walter McRae, president of the band club and student manager of the band, stated that about 90 per cent of the band members have furnished their own instruments and further that a list of individuals possessing instruments is maintained and displayed so that students desiring to contact others for outings may do so.

College Hour Today Features Freedom Train Celebration

In honor of the arrival of the Freedom Train in San Francisco, City College will hold its pre-arrival celebration this morning at 10:30 o'clock, during college hour.

President A. J. Cloud, who has been appointed on the mayor's Citizen's Committee for the Freedom Train, will preside at the Freedom Rally, which program is scheduled as follows:

Meyer Cahn—Band, Patriotic Airs, Marches.

Flossita Badger—A Cappella Choir, Battle Hymn of the Republic, words by Julia Ward Howe; Marches of Peace, poem by John Greenleaf Whittier, music by Mueller.

Elmer Dickey, tenor solo, Your Land and Mine.

Henry Leff—acting instructor in radio production—will give a radio script monologue.

College Quartet — America the Beautiful.

Thomas Dutcher—Speaker.

A. J. Cloud—Chairman.

Highlighted by the news that the Freedom Train will be brought into the Marina this Sunday, the arrival is being preceded by a Week of Rededication to the fundamental principles of American citizenship upon which this nation was founded, in city-wide celebrations.

List Of AGS Officers For Semester Posted

Newly-elected officers of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's scholastic honor society, were chosen Friday, March 5, at a meeting of the organization.

They are William Richardson, president; Marilyn Smith, vice-president; Josephine Markovich, secretary-treasurer; and Nancy Wallace, Club Advisory Board representative.

Prospective members of Alpha Gamma Sigma should consult with Edwin A. Cranston, faculty adviser.

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have just received a telephone call from a City College student, protesting, quite rightly, the fact that The Chronicle referred to the College as "S.F.J.C." two weeks after the name had been changed.

Our face is red indeed. Of course we know better and we will do our best not to slip up again.

This is just to say "Thanks" for your courteous reminder.

Yours sincerely,

Verified Illness Now A Legal Excuse Here

Absence because of illness may be excused provided evidence verifying illness is furnished, according to Edward E. Sandys, dean of men.

Attendance regulations permit three unexcused absences in a course during a semester without penalty.

A student absent because of illness may be allowed three additional absences before he is disqualified," Dean Sandys said.

Excessive absences in a course automatically disqualify students, and a final grade of "F" is recorded for that course.

Vets On G. I. Bill To Receive Raise May 1

Subsistence increases for all eligible veterans studying under the GI Bill will become effective in paychecks due May 1, according to the VA office here.

Veterans without dependents will receive an increase to $75, and veterans with one dependent will receive an increase to $105.

Veterans with more than one dependent will receive instructions with paycheck (due April 1) on the method of applying for the further increase to $120, the office added.

Horticultural Open House Scheduled As Flower Students Display Talent

An open house, scheduled by the horticulture department for March 29 through April 4, will display work by the garden maintenance, green house management nursery and landscape practice.

Flower shop students will send from their workshop on the west campus a floral arrangement as the class contribution to the open house.

Invitations and programs for the affair will be sent to former students of the horticulture class along with a general invitation extended to all members of the faculty, students and the public.

The horticulture class offered at the college is the only one of its kind offered on the west coast.

In conjunction with the Freedom Gardens, students of the class have a continuation of the wartime Victory Gardens, students of the class have a display this week at the San Francisco Examiner.

Announcing the city's gardening project, the display is a miniature vegetable garden. Also a pamphlet concerning the planting of vegetables will be sent to all persons who wish to start a Freedom Garden.

Confusion And Bickering Reign In Session; Appeal By Ross Rejected

JOHN ROSS, Forum co-sponsor and economics instructor, requesting that a council voted the Forum down by an [illegible] the Forum that the financial problems of the campus publication, received a cold negation from the council.

In a confused and heated session the council vote dthe Forum down by an eight to seven count.

Confusion reigned at the Student Council last Tuesday when the controversial Forum Magazine issue came to a head. After a solid hour of bickering a motion was finally introduced to appropriate funds for the magazine's publication. It was defeated, eight to seven, by a roll call vote.

Followlug a personal appeal to the council by John Ross, faculty business adviser to Forum, Councilman Frank Ferguson requested that Ross be asked to leave the room, while voting took place, which he did, the voting ensued as follows:

Against — George Capanis, Frank Ferguson, Bob Reilly, Ken Brown, Bob McVey, Phyllis Ryan, Don Schumacher, and N. Athanasopoulos. For — Nancy Wallace, Jack Hagan, Jack Hurley, Robert Judd, J. F. Solorzano, Kurt Levi, and Helen Rich.

AMS Budget Passed

Last minute attempts to reinstate the Forum topic were stopped when Bob Reilly moved that the council devote the next meeting to the budget, adding, "I think the present budget needs consideration, as it will benefit the majority of the students," the council agreed.

Rushed through at the close of the meeting were the Social Committee budget of $407.50 and the Associated Men Student budget for $395, as there was an immediate need for these funds.

Call Answers Forum Charge

Max Call, president, defended the Council against the claims made by Marvin Silverman, Forum editor, that it was "undemocratic," by charging Silverman with misrepresentation of facts in his article published in last Tuesday's Guardsman.

Speaking further for the council Call stated, "The council's complaint is not against Forum's contents, but of its past financial failures."

Answering Call's statement about finances, Ross informed the council about the past and proposed future expenditures of Forum, stressing that over half of the $650 asked for would be returned.

His speech activated the Forum issue, setting the stage for the vote.

Midterms End Mar. 19

Last day for filing petitions for graduation and for removing incompletes from the previous semester is scheduled for Friday, March 19, according to Mary June Learnard, registrar.

The first midterm period will end on that date, with Easter vacation following from March 22 through 26, she added.

Car Owners Warned On Campus Trash Disposal

If students persist in throwing rubbish on the west campus parking area from parked cars, the students owning those cars will have their parking permits revoked, Dean of Men Edward E. Sandys warned yesterday.

The college police force will be instructed to apprehend students who violate this ruling, Sandys declared.

The Dean of Men has further asked the cooperation of all students in keeping the area clean in the vicinity of the west campus fountain.

Vets Supplies Ready

All veterans holding requisitions are urged to take them immediately to the vendors and pick up their materials, Walter McCloud, director of veteran affairs, announced yesterday.

AS Membership Card Compulsory In CAB

A rumor whispered quietly on the campus last semester became a sudden reality this week as the Club Advisory Board unanimously passed a motion making it compulsory for all members of college organizations and clubs to be Associated Student body card holders.

The motion is expected to be proposed as a permanent amendment to the CAB constitution.

The CAB is made up of delegates from each organization. Newly elected to presidency is Mel Dykman. He is assisted by Bill Hartmann, vice-president, and Rosalie Abbott, secretary-treasurer.

Any students interested in organizing a new club are advised that to be officially recognized by the CAB, and the college, they must have a minimum of 15 members, all Associated Student card holders.

Any student who is unable to procure a card for any reason may see Oscar Anderson, college controller, and will be given opportunity to work and obtain one.

College clubs which were approved last semester and are still on probationary status are the French Club, Gamma Phi Epsilon, Hulo' Hawaii, Photographic Society, C.C.S.F. Band, Ski Rams, Zeta Chi, Phi Beta Delta, and Alpha Sigma Delta.

City College Enters NDGW Speech Contest

Defending champion City College has entered the sixth Junior College Public Speaking Contest of California, sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, and will be represented in the Regional Contest, according to an announcement made by Claude A. Shull, speech instructor.

Contest rules list that any college man or woman is eligible for participation. The topic shall be chosen from any one of four subjects: California History, California Centennials, California Pioneers, or California Landmarks, and the rules specify also that the speeches must not exceed ten minutes.

Qualified Students Needed At Yosemite

Applications for summer jobs at Yosemite and at summer camps can now be made in the placement office in Building 2, Joseph Amori, placement officer, announced yesterday.

Jobs offered by the Yosemite Park and Curry Company include positions in hotels, restaurants, warehouses, but depots, a laundry, stores, swimming pools, and other recreational fields, Amori added.

Opportunities in the camps are open to students having experience in life saving and horsemanship, Amori said.

U. S. College News Roundup . . .

For A Course In Confusion 2a Attend The Council Meetings

IF THE students of this college want to know the real reason behind the failure of the League of Nations, and why the United Nations is suffering from a bad case of rigor-Vishinsky, AND why Washington is referred to as the District of Confusion, let them sit in on one of our Student Council meetings.

A classic example of how total ignorance of the accepted rules of order on the part of a few participants can completely foul up a meeting was presented in last Tuesday's council meet when the all-important budget question concerning benefits to all students, wallowed helplessly in a sea of meaningless comment on the Forum Magazine question.

Arguing over interruptions OVER interruptions; points of order versus points of information; rabid declamations of "I have the floor!"—the meet took on all the aspects of a tobacco auctioneers' convention.

If this is any indication of how our lawmakers in Washington conduct the Nation's business, then take to the hills, Readers, the dam has burst!

The Guardsman had four representatives at this meet. They took copious quantities of notes on the proceedings, and it would take a lawyer of Gladstone's capabilities to straighten them out and bring the full and complete story to our readers.

Admittedly the above is slightly exaggerated to point up the tangled state of affairs, but for every participant in the debacle who honestly tried to get out of the maze, there was another, completely lacking in knowledge of parliamentary proceedings, who chimed into block off any and all avenues of escape.

The point we're trying to bring up is this: Is it an unreasonable request to require every member of the council and every member of the President's cabinet to read and KNOW the college constitution, and be completely familiar with Robert's Rules or Order?

It is obvious from this meeting that too many are unaware of proper procedure; including, sadly enough, some top members.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

Freedom Of The Mimeograph, Or The Trust Busters: Still another paper has stuck its nose-for-news onto our fair campus. The sheet is called the Sunnyside Relay, a Friday publication of former Guardsman staffer Bob Tatum and his wife. Their scare headlines last Friday concerned a small fire at Hurley Village.

The publishers are now at the scene of the fire—selling pieces of charcoal at 25 cents apiece.

Wire Your Councilman, Or The Great Name Calling Contest Continued: The signs that cling to the Main Building still proclaim to an awe struck city that this (By Gad) is San Francisco-Junior College.

Request: Tell your councilman about this outrage. This will get him all excited and that will give us more things to write about.

College Cops, or Law and Order on the Campus: Scores of burly boys skitter around the college lately, and they won't hesitate to slap all kinds of charges at you!

One of the men from the law enforcement course here recently put a small piece of paper on ex-President Frank Nelson's car. Nelson kicked, but it did him no good—the guy "couldn't" speak English.

BUT buts Nelson, he knew enough English to write out a citation.

Then there's the Block SF Muscle Men who have authority to throw the books at anyone caught throwing trash on the campus parking lot.

If you're nabbed while in your car, they can remove it from the campus. If they have no tow car at the time, they just contact footballer Howie Cronch, who will carry the offending auto away on his back.

Stop the Press Item: First college organization to achieve 100 per cent Associated Student membership is Kappa Phi (the girls who boast, as all students know, that they're "100 per cent" from head to toe!) The CAB (Club Advisory Board), which has a strangle hold on all City College clubs, has decreed that campus organizations must have full Associated Student membership!

For Services Rendered: Our Ram Oa a Stick (The Maroon Ram award has been discontinued, and we have substituted a small Ram, dipped in chocolate and placed upon a stick!) goes to Bea Groger, President Call's secretary, who gets lots of work and little glory.

Community Spirit Helps Pair Burned Out In Hurley Village

By Herbert Bishop

Community spirit asserted itself in Hurley Village during the past week-end. Friday at 2 a. m. villagers Jack and Margaret Bamrud were burned out of their home at 403 Marston Avenue. By Sunday night they were set up in another housing unit with a substantial bit of help from the rest of the village.

Noise from the fire awakened Mrs. Bamrud, who in turn roused her husband. Bamrud sent his wife to call the fire department while he shouted the alarm to the village.

Three of the villagers answered the call with a garden hose and extinguished the blaze before the fire department arrived. Almost 20 other men gathered, and were standing by ready to form a bucket line if it became necessary.

After a preliminary survey, an assistant fire chief pointed out that a faulty flue was most likely the reason for the fire.

Bamrud, a second semester, predental student here, moved into the project on February 12. Discharged from the Army a First Lieutenant of Infantry, Bamrud was attached to the Army Ground Forces Physical Training and Athletic Directors' School at Washington and Lee University.

While in Virginia he met and married Mrs. Bamrud.

The fire caused Bamrud to miss the college hour initiation meeting of Alpha Gamma Sigma; he has been accepted as a member by that society for his first semester work. Also, Bamrud is vice-president of the Omicron Phi Pi society.

Men working for the Barrett and Hilp Company, and for J. H. Mohr, Inc., the firms that did the contracting on the addition to Hurley Village, collected fifty dollars from their ranks, to add to the help that the residents of the village were giving the Bamruds.

Bill and Paloma Williams, 413 Marston Avenue, were instrumental in organizing the village aid. Many of the residents forwarded donations to the student manager, Allan Maxwell, who added them to those collected by the Williams.

Letters To The Editor

• Give A Guy A Break

Editor, The Guardsman:

Yesterday I heard the faculty-member of the campus police instruct the old man selling popcorn he could no longer park his truck there. Just what do the campus police hope to obtain by this feat of not permitting a man to make a suitable living?

I am sure that if this faculty member would check his California Motor Vehicle Code that he would find it permissable to park by a fire plug as long as there is an occupant in the car.

Just a guy who likes to see a guy get an even break. An XGI.

• Orchids To Us

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have read just about every issue of The Guardsman that has come out since the beginning of last semester and can truthfully say that it is one of the best college papers I have ever read.

Not enough credit, however, has been given this fine staff.

How about publishing a picture of the staff before the end of the semester?

I am sure that I am not the only one in the student body who would welcome such a step. N. B.

• Cabbage To Us

Editor, The Guardsman:

One of the most nauseating features of the current Guardsman is the column US College Roundup. It is a completely inane, senseless smattering of small gossip that lacks even the unredeeming feature of being sensational. In addition it occupies an unwarranted amount of space—a space that could well be used to examine the effect of world events in relation to the student.

• Phi Epsilon Rho: New officers elected last week include Charlene Burgess, president; Roberta Reams, vice-president; Hermina Ross, secretary; Jean Sliter, treasurer. A ski trip to Yosemite has been planned for March 25 and 26. Information may be obtained from Laurine Bergin, club adviser.

• Pi Mu Gamma: The next meeting will be held next college hour in Room 205.

• Tau Zadik Nun: Society for Jewish students will hold a "Get Acquainted" dance tomorrow night at 8 p. m., in Sigmund Stern Grove. Officers for this semester are Lee Weisman, president; Mel Silverman, vice-president; Sylvia Weinberg, corresponding secretary; Miriam Bosler, treasurer, and Anita Levine, CAB representative.

• Ram Cam: A businessman's meeting in Room 9E is scheduled during college hour today. All who are interested in photography are invited to attend.

"Where's Bird Calls 22A?"

Switchboard Operator Tells All

By John Campiglia

If you've passed the little office just south of the "silver pole" and noticed a person rather busily pushing and pulling plugs from a switchboard, with a kind word for everyone, then you've seen Mrs. Marie R. Dyson.

A resident of San Francisco for 25 years, Mrs. Dyson has been with the college for four years, and during this time has handled the lines of intelligence (switchboard) that keep the college in touch with the outside world.

Students Are Amiable

A statement from Mrs. Dyson pronounces the students of today amiable, cooperative, and most important, self-sufficient.

Among her greatest interests at the college are the drama and music departments, and Mrs. Dyson attends all productions sponsored by those esteemed departments.

Boos——

The most disconcerting thing about her job is the system under which one gets an outside line. "I get so fraught," she said, "when persons wanting an outside line lift the receiver and ask for an outside line; when all that is necessary is to lift, wait, and listen for an outside line."

SMILING FROM HER cubicle kingdom, Marie Dryson, college telephone operator, controls the vast number of telephone calls that pour through her switchboard each day. Mrs. Dryson urges all users of college phones to be patient when desiring an outside line.

Another "most disconcerting" thing is the inane questions asked at times by some phonees and some students. "But, it's all part of the job, I guess," she said, and smiled.

—And Bouquets

But above all this, Mrs. Dyson is always helpful, benevolent, and considerate of all who place their size fours or twelves upon her mat, which always holds welcome for students and their troubles.

If it's Early Morning Bird Calls 22a, Astronomy 22b or where so-and-so is, she can help you out of your dilemma, for in the four years that Mrs. Dyson has been here she has learned all the inner-secrets of the college.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

WHILE browsing through a back issue of the monthly digest '48 (the November, '47, pamphlet to be exact) we ran into an interesting and timely tidbit running under the head of The Real National Game—with colored pictures even.

The article figured that basketball, not baseball, was the real national pastime in the sporting world because the hoop game outdraws every other sport in the country, almost cracking the 10,000,000 mark in '46.

The digest also contends that because 20,000,000 people throughout the world, including 8,000,000 Americans, cavort on the hardwoods each season, it could well become the International Game.

Figuring we could hicod the topic for a couple of columns we brought it along for your consumption. Don't cut any classes to finish it though; it'll keep if you put it on ice.

Baseball Began 1839

Baseball was founded by old A. Doubleday at Cooperstown, N. Y., in 1839 but the first real "uniform" tilt didn't come off until June 19, 1846, at Hoboken, N. J.

In the good old days rules were a little different, it seems. They really put a batter out literally. The accepted form was to beat the hitter, after fielding his effort, with a thrown ball before he reached first pole—they didn't have bases yet.

The batter lost either way, because if he kept a weather eye peeled for the ball he undoubtedly would bounce off the pole, whereas if he made tracks for the safety of the pole he would be cooled by a bean ball, both of which are rough on the body.

Two-Man Effort

From the individual standpoint basketball is strictly at least a two-man effort. It takes a pretty fast joker to play a game of catch all by himself. Of course, there is nothing to keep the lad from running down to the local diamond and witnessing a tussle.

The diamond sport has a larger organization, as far as leagues in the big time go, than basketball but does not offer as much chance for active individual participation.

Baseball is difinitely not a year around sport and even during the regular session games are called because of weather and darkness. Being exposed to the elements during every outing, it does not tend to draw people to the park on inclement evenings.

Next issue, we tackle the cagers.

Track Opener With Mateo Tomorrow; Ram Favorites

The curtain snaps up on the first chapter of the 1948 NCJCC track season tomorrow as Jim Jensen's harriers, complete with muzzles, trek down to Bulldog City for the conference-opener with the San Mateins.

The Red-and-White's proved that they will be rough contenders this season when they put the blocks to the Menlo and Santa Clara squads in a three-way clambake held at Bronco-town last Saturday. Ringing up some seventy-odd points, the Jensenmen showed a large margin of superiority in their first practice meet.

The Bulldogs would like nothing better than to hone the horns of the cocky Rams a bit, by way of partial payment for the two pastings administered them during the '47 pennant race. What they will use in the way of a file remains to be seen, this being their first trip to the well.

Billy Bahr is back in the discus for the city school, and teams up with Bob Cook to spread a little disternper around the kennel of the Blue-and-White bone-pushers.

Bob Brickell, who snagged a five-pointer at Santa Clara with the javelin, will be favored to repeat his spear-magic tomorrow. Owen Moore in the quarter-mile, Bill Langan in the century and Doss Sims in the high jump are also expected to garner points.

The act gets under way at 2 p. m.

JIM JENSEN, City College track coach.

Joe Fulks, forward on the professional Philadelphia Warriors of the Basketball Association of America, averaged 23 points per game. He scored 1611 points in 70 games. Playing along with Fulks is Howie Dallmar, former Stanford cage star.

College Spikemen Wallop Santa Clara And Menlo JC In Practice Openers

Coach Jim Jensen and his spikemen brought the bacon home in a fancy wrapper last Saturday as they powered their way over a mediocre Santa Clara squad and an even inferior Menlo crew in a three-way meet held down in the prune-belt country.

Final totals were CCSF 76½, Santa Clara 57, and Menlo JC 24½. Doss Sims knocked out the spectators with a sensational leap of six feet, three inches to prove himself the man to beat when the conference gets under way.

WAA Swim Classes Held At YWCA Every Tuesday, Thursday Afternoon

Swimming classes at the YWCA are now being attended by college women of the Women's Athletic Association every Tuesday and Thursday between the hours of 2 and 3 p. m. Under the instruction of Nancy Sparks, swimming director, the classes are divided into three different levels.

A 2 p. m. call is sounded for elementary class, while the intermediates get together at 2:30 p. m., and the advanced sections finish the swimming classes at 3 p. m.

Vivian Bottoms, Eileen Johnson, Phyllis Beetz, and Carol Schutt are just a few of the girls who participate in the WAA's water sport program.

Intramural Hoop Play Begins Monday

Actual play in the college's large intramural basketball program will start on Monday, March 15, Director Tom Wilson announced Tuesday.

The intramural schedule is now on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium, and all team managers should take note of what day next week his team will face the opposition. This is extremely important so that no defaults will occur in the first round of play.

Games will start Monday through Thursday at 3:15 and 4:15 p. m., and all teams should be prompt in appearing on the gymnasium floor before game time.

A large turnout of teams has been received by Wilson and the alumni of Balboa High School have entered four different cage squads.

Other basketball squads entered in the tourney are the Hellcats, SF Block Society, Eagles, Pans Club, Phi Beta Delta, Hotel and Restaurant, Newman Club, Clams, and Ramblers.

Dolph Pippus and Earl Mainick will lead the Ramblers' attack while a former Mission High star, Walt Rusanoff, will direct the Clams.

College students are also urged to sign up for the individual sports of table tennis, tennis, badminton, and horseshoes.

College Nine Faces Army For Second Time

After successfully piloting his City College baseball team to a pair of victories in their first three practice games of the 1948 season, Bill Fischer is currently preparing his charges for their return game against the Hamilton Field nine next Tuesday at Big Rec.

Fischer has been extremely well pleased with the work of Pitcher Hal Flinn, a tall righthander who has worked well in practice games, although no starting lineup has been decided.

Another hurler who looks as if he may land a starting berth is Dick Johnson, a short southpaw whose main forte is a hopping fast ball.

Chris Makras, a converted outfielder, has performed well at third base, making several difficult plays against Polytechnic.

Tabarini, Kaplan Hard Hitters

In the hitting department, Zane Kaplan, Bill Kenna and Hal Tabarini have excelled for the Fischermen. Tabarini is a newcomer to the squad, but Kenna and Kaplan are holdovers from last season, where they compiled batting averages of .357 and .310, respectively.

Kenna Sparks

Although outhit by the Hellcats, the Rams nailed down an 8-2 victory over the Alameda Naval Air Station nine last Friday at Big Rec. Moanin' Bill Kenna paced the winners with a pair of singles in three trips to the plate.

NCJC Net Opener Set For Tomorrow Against Vallejo

Jupiter Pluvius permitting, Coach Wilson and his racketmen will travel to Vallejo tomorrow afternoon to open official conference hostilities with the Vallejo Redskins.

The locals, short on actual practice and match time this season, will go into the match semi-prepared but with great hopes for top billing in the title race.

The long awaited rains which began to arrive this week have definitely thrown a wet blanket around Wilson's hopes of establishing a set and tested squad for the opening of league play.

The return of Fred Rogers and Frank Reed from the sick list should help to bolster the netter's chances in the singles bracket.

Wilson will not be able to consult the results of ladder play in picking his starters tomorrow because of the lack of practice time.

Therefore he has released the following list of men from whom he will pick his traveling squad for the Redskin pow-wow: Fred Rogers, Herb Suhr, Bill Covell, Frank Reed, Bill Gordan, Bill Hayes, Bill Torres, Ed Jacobsen, Bob Sockolov, and Gurston Blass.

Softball Features WAA Program This Semester

Softball, one of the sports being featured by the women's sports department for this semester, is under the instruction of Nancy Sparks and Gloria Swiecgood.

Miss Sparks' class meets on Monday at 12 noon, and on Wednesday at 1 p. m. Miss Swiecgood's class meets on Tuesdays and Thursdays at 10 a. m.

Softball is not being given as one of the co-educational activities for this semester, Miss Sparks said.

Students wishing credit for WAA blocks must be in the class to receive credit, the instructors said. No credit will be given unless the student is enrolled in one or the softball classes.

Co-ed badminton will be held Wednesday, 7 to 9 p. m., with Miss Sparks and Ralph Hillsman as instructors.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

IF WORDS WERE dollars, the Student Council wouldn't have a worry in the world as to how to budget Associated Student funds, which is in the process of becoming a three ring circus.

In their latest oratorical contest, the council spent exactly 47 minutes of charges, counter-charges, points of order and just plain bandying of words in their effort to solve the situation of the college literary magazine, FORUM.

The session of three days ago (The Guardsman goes to press too early to catch the Thursday meeting for today's paper) started off somewhat smoothly, with almost routine appointment confirmation, etc. Then Jack Hurley desired to bring up the case of Forum Magazine.

True to form, Bob Reilly demanded that council bypass the Forum question and continue with the budgeting.

They're Off

Hurley claimed the motion was out of order, Reilly said why, Hurley asked the February 26 council minutes be read. President Call obliged, and as it came out, a motion pertaining to Forum was still on the floor about three meetings previous.

Discussion followed pro and con, with Reilly intermittently calling for the council to continue with the budget, and Hurley equally determined, desiring that something tangible be done about Forum.

Finally Jack Brady, dean of men, suggested that John Ross, instructor and co-sponsor of Forum, be allowed to speak on behalf of the magazine.

Ross Sparkles

The council concurred, and Ross spoke. An able orator, the Forum representative, said that Forum would only use $300 of the Associated student funds, and that the magazine is highly regarded in the four year college circles.

Ross finished, and some million words later, the council voted down a possible appropriation for the college literary magazine. The vote was 8 to 7.

Married Bliss

This is anything but a society column, but to show what a little cooperation can do, John Conroy, Tri-Epsilon historian and Marilyn Gray, president of the Tri-E sister sorority, Alpha Lambda Chi, are to be married in August.

Why don't the council and Forum join in Holy wedlock?

Hostess Party At 1 p.m.

Stimulated by last Friday's successful brunch, the college hostess class plans a St. Patrick's Day party this afternoon in Room 108, from 1 to 3 p.m. according to Letha Hobart, home economics instructor.

Goss Claims United States Striving Toward Perfection, Not Revolution

By Florence Ames

William Goss concurred with college leaders who urge attendance at the Freedom Rally during college hour today, in hoping to interest and "remind the students of the reality of the achievements of the United States in the direction of personal and civic freedom."

Goss further stressed and re-affirmed two important factors as a contribution toward Week of Rededication.

Perspective Needed

"First," Goss said, "is our need to keep proper balance and perspective by realizing that even though the United States does not assure all minorities full exercise of political privileges, nevertheless the nation is committed to the policy of democracy and our organs of opinion report and criticize violation of civil liberties."

He illustrated, adding, "We strive toward perfection, not revolutionary (meaning 'change by force') action. Even though we are imperfect, a proper sense of perspective is needed; for," he went on, "one would not tear down a house which needed repairs, but would constructively work toward putting it in good condition.

Civil Liberty Problems

"The second point," Goss continued, "is that the problem of civil liberties is more difficult to achieve now than when the Bill of Rights were formed in 1789.

"When the Bill was signed, we had only domestic problems, but now we must protect minorities in a way which will not jeopardize national security.

WILLIAM GOSS, social science instructor, urges student attendance at the college hour Freedom Rally. The celebration will be City College's part in the City-wide Week of Re-dedication.

Obligations Outlined

"Our generation must re-apply and re-define the Bill of Rights in such a way as to assure the maximum possible personal liberties, without," he repeated, "jeopardizing national security." He again illustrated by pointing out how the newspapers maintained their freedom of the press during the last war, curtailing only such news as would "jeopardize our national security."

Can Cans Staged By Society In Auditorium

Scheduled for Thursday and Friday, April 1 and 2, Mu Iota Psi's Gay Nineties Revue to be performed in the west campus auditorium, Helen Segalov, society president, announced yesterday.

Featuring Can Can dancers, old musical favorites, and Gay Nineties skits, admission for the show will be 50 cents with Associated Student card and 80 cents without, according to Miss Segalov.

Adding that the performances are to be held on the evenings of the above dates, Miss Segalov promised an outstanding show.

Organization Dates Fixed On Calendar

With revision possible only through organizations' cancelling their original social plans, the college's social calendar as it stands now is permanent, Associated Student vice-president Nancy Wallace announced today.

Miss Wallace said today that any campus organization that did not plan to use the date that had been previously chosen should notify her as to the change. Only in this way can the calendar be so arranged as to provide time for all organizations to have fair participation in all social activities of the college.

A copy of the calendar is located on the first floor of Building 2 on the west campus for anyone to consult.

The next social activity is the first Associated Student dance of the semester, Friday night, March 19, in the Colonial and Italian Rooms of the St. Francis Hotel.

Guidance Center Open For Service Evaluation

Evaluation of military credits and service school attendance will take place during the week of March 15 through 19, Louis Batmale, veteran's guidance director, announced yesterday.

All veterans who have not had their service school training and experiences evaluated should report to the Veterans Administration Guide Center located on the second floor of Building 3 on the west campus, Batmale said.

College Choir's Appearance Today Marks Beginning Of Full Schedule

Making its first public appearance this semester at today's Freedom Train rally, the college choir plans a full program schedule for the rest of the semester, according to Flossita Badger, college music director.

Future shows include an appearance on Wednesday, March 17, at a faculty tea, a performance at the San Francisco Optimist Club on April 15, and Sunday evening, April 25, the choir will give its sixth performance before hospitalized veterans at Letterman Hospital.

Miss Badger added that the choir would have a large part in the coming production of Sigmund Romberg's New Moon, and will also participate in the annual Northern Junior College Music Festival.

Scholarships Open At UC For Eligible Transfer Students

One hundred scholarships of $300 each have been made available through the University of California's Alumni Association, Edwin A. Cranston, Alpha Gamma Sigma adviser, said today.

Word was received from the state office of Alpha Gamma Sigma, statewide junior college honorary scholastic society, that these scholarships are open to graduating high school seniors and junior college students transferring to the University of California.

Those students who did not apply for the regular UC scholarships and wish to apply for this present offer must do so by the April 15 deadline. The scholarships will be distributed on a basis of scholastic standing. Financial need will also be considered.

Further details may be secured from Cranston in his office, room 170.

Cafe Adjusts Schedule To Early, Late Classes

Breakfast in the cafeteria will be served until 10:15 a. m. for the benefit of those whose early classes do not enable them to eat by 10 a. m. Previously breakfast was terminated at 10 o'clock.

Dinner is served between 5 p. m. and 6 p. m. for the campus residents and students with late classes.

Guardsman Takes Off For Easter Egg Hunt

This will be the last issue of the Guardsman until Friday, April 2, the lapse of time to enable all the lil' rabbits to go about their work more efficiently, for as you all know, next week is National Rabbit Week.

The staff of this paper wishes you all a very good time and takes this opportunity to announce that there will be Easter egg hunts at Golden Gate Park this Saturday and Sunday in commemoration of National Rabbit Week.

Active Social Season Starts Friday Night In Italian And Colonial Rooms

Inaugurating an active semester of social activities, the Associated Students of the college will present their first dance of the year this Friday night, March 19, from the hours of 9 to 12 in the evening, according to a statement by Nancy Wallace, Associated Student vice-president.

The dance, free to all Associated Student card holders, will be held in the Italian and Colonial Rooms of the St. Francis Hotel and not at the Fairmont, as previously announced to The Guardsman.

"Traditional bunches of posies will not be required of escorting males, as informality is the keynote of the affair, and street clothes will be considered proper garb," Miss Wallace added.

Music for the dance will be provided by Wally Heider and his orchestra.

Miss Wallace stressed that the dance should be one of the best in the season and is a "must" for all card holders.

NANCY WALLACE, Associated Student vice-president and Social Committee head, announced this week the first Associated Student dance, to be held in the Colonial and Italian rooms of the St. Francis Hotel, Friday, March 19.

Select Cast Starts Romberg Rehearsal

After completing auditions of more than 60 City College hopefuls seeking roles in New Moon, forthcoming Sigmund Romberg light opera to be presented May 20, 21, and 22, Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, music and drama instructors in charge of the production, announced a tentative cast yesterday.

All parts are subject to change, Miss Badger said, and rehearsals are scheduled to start as soon as scripts arrive.

The tentative list of major roles and players double cast is as follows:

Maxianne, Carolyn Herfield and Helen Setalov; Robert, Bob Sherratt and Dave Huenergardt; Beaunoir Loren Paulson and Jack Jones; Julie, Regina Worchat and Bessie Kutulas; Duval, Roy Barnett and Justin Smith; Alexandre, [illegible] and Pete Boghosin; Besace, Jack Burrows and Pat Paulson; Jacques, Jack McGrath and George Weisendunk; Phillipe, Roy Burt, A. Barbarian; Clotilde, Jacqueline, Deasy and Carolyn Reiss.

CAB Puts 16 Clubs On Probation

A veritable bombshell was thrown into the Club Advisory Board meeting held March 11 for the purpose of approving college clubs when 16 clubs were suspended or placed on probationary status.

Clubs suspended included the following: Alpha Theta Epsilon, American Veterans Committee, Collegiate Christian Fellowship, Cosmopolitan Society, Forum Club, Chinese Students Club, Horticulture Society, Hawaiian Club, Lutheran Students Association, Mikes and Men, Radio Engineering Society, Retail Merchandising Society, Ski Rams, Tau Zadik Nun, Newman Club, and Alpha Delta Epsilon.

Another surprising development at the meeting occurred when Tony Elvitsky, Beta Phi Beta delegate, presented an amendment to the CAB by-laws making it compulsory for all members of recognized campus organizations to be Associated Student card holders. According to CAB laws, the amendment will be tabled for a two week period and voted on at the next meeting.

Mel Dykman, CAB president, in commenting on the meeting, said, "I feel that this amendment is a very forward step, and should do much in promoting AS card sales."

Married Vets To Move Into Hurley Village

Married veterans attending college who wish to secure housing in Hurley Village should make immediate application in Building 2, Fred McFarland, housing director, reported today. According to McFarland, veterans will be able to move into the newly established living quarters before April 1.

Freedom Exhibit Worth Seeing Librarian Says

The freedom exhibit, currently on display in the main building, is well worth the time it takes to stop and see it, Marcus Skarstedt, librarian, said today.

Let Freedom Ring is the title of the exhibit, and there is information about the signers of the United Nations charter, also books on the purposes of the UN, Skarstedt said.

The exhibit was designed and arranged by Carl N. Reynolds and the students of his art class. The idea of the display was conceived by the library staff, and books and facts on freedom were collected by the staff for many months prior to the exhibit, Skarstedt said.

Club Stages Bustle Trot Revue

A typical Gay Nineties Revue will be staged by Mu Iota Psi, college music club, assisted by the radio group, Mikes and Men, Thursday and Friday, April 1 and 2, at 8:15 p.m. in the west campus auditorium. Gertrude Norgard is faculty adviser to the club.

Tickets for the event will be sold on the campus for 50 cents with an Associated Student card and 80 cents without cards, officers said.

Tintyped at right, in the dress of the "good ole days," are Jane Pisa, club representative for Mu Iota Psi; Robert Lay, sergeant-at-arms, and Helen Setalov, president of the club, and members of the cast.

In traditional fashion of the "90's," the two act revue will present scenes of the Bowery.

Dance direction for the presentation is under the management of Margie Manderville; Miss Setalov, stage director; Roy Burt, publicity; Miss Pisa, costumes; and Kenny Schildt, stage sets.

Taking part in the presentation are Tony Chevas, Dovern Quinlan, Barbara Murphy, Clair Lloyd, Roberta Ring, Betty James, Carolyn Herfield, Marie Hesky, Dolores Jonson, Marie Jo Campbell, Pete Boghosin, George Weissdunk, Miss Setalov, Miss Manderville, Burt, Miss Pisa, and Gene Gnpinac.

Faculty Holds Tea For Prep Trade Members

San Francisco high school teachers will be guests of the college faculty at a tea to be held tomorrow afternoon in the student lounge, Marjorie Bailhache, faculty public relations committee chairman, reported yesterday.

Listing exhibits of the ceramic and jewelry sections of the college art department as being present, Mrs. Bailhache added that live entertainment will be presented by the music and speech departments.

Songs will be featured by the choir, directed by Flossita Badger, and students from Lloyd Sisler's speech classes will give two selections, a reading from Elizabeth Barrett Browning's sonnets, and a short pantomime.

Refreshments will be served by the Hotel and Restaurant division, and the college floral shop will provide the decorations.

Urging all college faculty members to attend, Mrs. Bailhache set 2 p.m. as the hour of starting for the affair.

Prize Money Lure For NDGW Speech Contest

All students are invited to participate in the oratorical contest sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, it was announced recently by Claude Shull, speech instructor.

The winners of the college contest will represent the college in the district finals. In this contest, there will be a first prize of $50 and a second prize of $25. Jim Donant, a student of this college won first prize in last year's contest.

Council Hits Stride And Passes On Five Items; One Delayed

A petition containing more than 1000 signatures is expected to be submitted to Max Call, Associated Students President, at today's Student Council meeting in Room 4D, 12 noon. The petition will ask for a review of the previous actions made by the Council regarding the Forum.

Excepting the publicity fund, passage of five items of the budget was accomplished by the Student Council with a decided business-like approach to the issue, at last Thursday's regular meeting.

After a minimum of questions, the following portions of the budget were unanimously approved: Freshman Class, $340; Sophomore Class, $410; Rally Committee, $250; Dean of Women, $30; Dean of Men, $150.

Controversy over the publicity fund came about when councilman Bob Reilly, who claimed it needed more than the $508 asked for, moved to postpone the item, in the advent that if additional funds were found, they could be directed toward the new publicity program.

Taking a somewhat different stand than Reilly, councilman Jack Hurley favored approving the fund by saying, "Publicity is all right, but let's take care of our own backyard first."

After several minutes of discussion a seven to seven tie vote ensued, but the motion was passed when Max Call, president, cast the deciding vote in favor of postponement.

AS Membership Must At SF State College

San Francisco State College:— The Board of Control of San Francisco State College voted last week to enforce the purchase of a student body card by all students who participate in Associated Student affairs.

John H. Cornebisen, dean of State College, stated that financial support will be withdrawn from all subsidized organizations which do not have 100 per cent student body card holders. Other groups will have their campus privileges revoked unless this requirement is met.

Regular Schedule For Mid-Terms On Friday

To allow more time in which to give midterms, no college hour is scheduled for Friday, March 19, Assistant Dean of Men, John J. Brady, announced today. The next college hour is scheduled for Friday, April 2, and will be used for club meetings.

Hotel And Restaurant Division Plans Field Trips To Top Hotels Of State

Annual week-long field trips to leading hotels throughout the state by selected students of the Hotel and Restaurant division are planned for the latter part of the spring semester, Hilda Watson, chairman of the division, said yesterday.

"The purpose of the expense-paid tours of leading hotels in the state is to give students working knowledge of hotels other than those in the city," Mrs. Watson said. "It also serves as a reward for ten chosen students, as the selections for the trips are based on the abilities of the student." She stated further that returning students will make reports of their trips to the division and to the sponsoring hotels.

Details of the tour will be arranged by Harry Troupe of the California Northern Hotel Association. The California Restaurant Association will entertain participants in the restaurants.

Women Students Set A Date For Second Tea

A tentative date has been set for the second Associated Women Students tea for May 6, according to Barbara Hendrickson, president of the AWS.

The tea honoring high school women, is the semi-annual affair. Guests will be entertained by the String Section of the City College band and soloist Carol Herfield.

On the committee for the tea are members of the AWS board, Moiar Glen, Marjorie Tracy, Rosemarie Mullen, and Barbara Hendrickson.

"Junior" And The "Kids"—Is This A College Or Another High School?

IN THE LAST issue of The Guardsman, a box was run on page one containing a letter from one of the local dailies apologizing for its deadly error in calling this college a "junior" college, even after the name-change had been announced.

It is hoped that the other three papers will take the broad hint to mend their ways likewise and acknowledge the fact that this institution is now formally known under the title, "City College of San Francisco."

Let's face it . . . the name "junior" is hereby dead, buried, defunct, obsolete, kaput, verboten, or any other method of describing it you may have at your disposal.

But is it? A long standing habit is a tough one to break it seems, and daily, in many classes, someone gets up and refers to City College as . . . "Junior College."

For those who like to think they are attending an adult college, this persistent habit of the students themselves calling it "junior" is wreaking havoc with morale.

And, another thing, while we're on the subject of telling off the minor element of the school . . . how about this business of referring to the various members of the student body as . . . ugh! . . . kids" ?

Listen in on any of the gab sessions going on in the student lounge. You'll hear a group of 'em yapping back and forth, and every sentence contains: "The kids in this college . . ." or, "The kids'll go for it . . ."

A neutral observer overhearing some of this chatter certainly wouldn't take this college as one of the ten top ranking ones in the country.

Nor would he believe that this college offers university parallel courses, and has several departments that are the best of their kind.

This is no glorified high school. It's a mature college training men and women for all manner of future professions.

Kids! The only kids on this campus are the ones belonging to the married vets at Hurley Village, and they're a bit young to be carrying books.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

Sex Rears Its Lovely Head: Blond Marcia Dain bounced into the student store this week with a blinding, flashing smile and a fistful of photos of—you guessed it—Marcia Dain. The agency she models for had presented her with pictures of Dain in swimming suits, just suits, gowns, ad exciteum.

Anyway the male student stor-dwellers generally praised these examples of modern art. The females of the card playing sect just raised their eyebrows and went back to their games with studied unconcern.

The Fight For Write, Or Are You Forum Or Against?: We would hate to guess if Forum is dead or just playing possum; but if the college literary mag goes down for the final count—don't worry about the death of culture at old City College.

Local supporters can put their trust, if they must, in the ability of Bob Tatum, publisher of The Sunnyside Relay, who vows that the finer things of college life will not die as long as he owns a mimeograph machine!!

How To Get To Hollywood And Still Get Straight A's At Old City College: There's really nothing between us and the lady we're talking about, even though this is the second time her name has appeared here!!

Former student Gloria Craig is the girl. Last semester she sang her small heart out in various campus shows.

Now she's down in Hwood making a short film feature.

Moral: According to talent bureau chief Roy Bennett, YOU TOO can be a big man in your line if you sign up in Room 200 with his talent pool.

Humble Apology Dept.: No one told us to write this but we feel we owe it to a couple of good boys in the economic department.

Seems that last week, as we desperately strained to find something "humorous" to write, we unintentionally worked in a few paragraphs of untruth.

Let's clarify. In the first place no one in econ. classes HAD to contribute a red cent for books. No threats or implications were issued, and if anyone found himself embarrassed for the 75 cent tariff, the instructors stood ready to help. The whole philosophy behind the deal was to lighten student outlay. A good idea and strictly legal!!!

Sparks, Static Fly In Basement

Radio Tech Class Works Air Waves

By Doug Johnson

Rasping squawks emanating from the basement under the south wing of the college may startle you occasionally. What sounds like a flock of mad geese trying to drown out Spike Jones' orchestra is really only the result of someone having opened the door to the radio technology laboratory located there.

Arley Tripp, radio technology instructor, walks about, occasionally pointing out a defect in assembly of a receiving set, or explaining some puzzling point in a blueprint.

Simple Receivers

"We start out," Tripp explained, "by learning to assemble simple receiving sets and audio-amplifiers. At the same time," he went on, "we study the theory of radio, encompassing the elementals of television and of radar.

"One of the main goals of our instruction is not to have the student emerge from the course as just a passably good 'wire-connector.' We want him to understand what he's doing and why he's doing it.

Metal Scarce

"One difficulty," he continued, "is in obtaining the proper sheet metal for students to build their own radio chassis. Tubes, condensers, and other parts are plentiful but much more expensive than formerly. Useable surplus radio parts don't seem to find their way into our channels," he explained.

Many of the students, according to Tripp, first became interested in radio in the service.

Requirements Exacting

Seeking jobs with commercial radio, they found the requirements more exacting in the commercial field than in the service during the war. Many jobs aren't obtainable without a license presented after examination by the Federal Communications Commission.

"This course," he stated, "prepares the student for that examination. Not only will he be able to assemble sending and receiving sets, but he'll be capable of diagnosing sets out of adjustment and of readjusting them satisfactorily."

Black Bart Wooed By Lovely Yvonne; Outstanding Horse Discovered

By L. R. Lascola

One of the outstanding pictures of the year, Black Bart, starring the beautiful Yvonne DeCarlo, accompanied by other actors, is currently being screened, and no red-blooded American male can afford to miss it.

Roughly, the plot concerns the misadventures of a notorious bandit named Black Bart, based on the name of a character in early California history, who had the same name. The bandit in the movie is really a fellow named Charlie, played by Dan Dairea, who meets the beautiful Lola Montez, superbly embodied by the ravishing Miss DeCarlo.

Dairea is trying to ruin Wells Fargo so he can become a man of distinction and marry the stunning Miss DeCarlo. She, the lovely creature, wants him to give up this profitable venture, and since he is already loaded with ready cash, just marry her.

Droolroople says, "Yes," but unfortunately a buddy of his, played by Jeffery Lunch, forces him to go on one last job, where he's killed, making it impossible for him to marry the delectable Miss DeCarlo.

Miss DeCarlo, who is certainly the greatest thing since the invention of nylon, shows good judgment and common sense, while all this is going on, by staying home and not getting hurt in the wild and furious shooting.

In passing, an outstanding horse plays the role of the horse of Black Bart, who is really a fellow named Charlie, played by a man named Dalrymple. The horse is attractive, but Miss DeCarlo is even more so. Besides Miss DeCarlo, so beautiful can sing and dance, and we'd like to see any horse do as well.

Yes, without a doubt Miss DeCarlo is grand, and no red-blooded American male can afford to miss Black Bart, starring the beautiful Yvonne DeCarlo.

Netmen Travel North To Encounter Grant Tech In NCJCC Tennis Opener

By Roy Pasini

City College's varsity net team, given five days' grace by the withdrawal of Vallejo JC, journey to Sacramento tomorrow to cross rackets with the netters from Grant Technical College in the belated NCJCC opener.

In an effort to find a representative squad before official conference net play swings into action, Coach Tom Wilson used every available racketeer against San Jose last Tuesday, March 9, as the locals went down to defeat on the winner's courts by an 11-1 count.

The lone Ram victory was registered by Herb Suhr, third ranking junior singles player in Northern California, who looked every bit the part as he conquered Bob Franco in a three-set battle, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2.

The only other matches to go to the three-set limit were turned in by Frank Reed and Bill Covall, both lettermen from last year, who copped their initial sets, 6-4, only to run into physical difficulties in the remaining sets.

The San Jose results were as follows.

Suhr (SF) def. Franco (SJ).
McKenzie (SJ) def. Jacobsen.
Parnay (SJ) def. Soekolov.
Bulwa (SJ) def. Reed.
Waterman (SJ) def. Covall.
Phelps (SJ) def. Jordan.
Terry (SJ) def. Rodgers.
Cruze (SJ) def. Hayes.
Franco and McKenzie (SJ) def. Soekolov and Suhr.
Terry and Parnay (SJ) def. Jacobsen and Torres.
Bulwa and Phelps (SJ) def. Reed and Jordan.
Waterman and Cruze (SJ) def. Hayward and Hayes.

HEAD BASEBALL MENTOR Bill Fischer seeks his third NCJCC title this year.

New Intra Signups Due By Friday, March 19

Intramural Mentor Tom Wilson announced yesterday that the entry deadline for the individual sports of tennis, badminton, ping pong, and horseshoes has been set for Friday, March 19.

No applications or entry blanks will be issued for these athletic events so all interested students should contact Wilson in the men's gymnasium before the Friday deadline.

Cage play started yesterday in the college's vast intramural program and the Ramblers, Sugar Mountain Boys, and SF Block Society loom as the squads most likely to walk away with this semester's basketball gonfalon.

Revengeful Ram Nine Meets Hamilton Field

By Art Paymiller

With a mere two weeks remaining before the opening game of the 1948 NCJCC pennant chase, Ram Baseball Coach Bill Fischer revealed in an informal interview yesterday that "We have the makings of a fair ball club if the pitching holds out."

This afternoon the genial diamond general of Ramland will pit his forces against the Hamilton Field mittmen, who handed the local nine an 11-9 defeat two weeks ago on the Army diamond.

Fischer will place the hurling chores on his two ace righthanders, Hal Flinn and Charles Blagdon, in his effort to even the series.

The game will be played at Big Ree with the first pitch scheduled to be thrown at 2:30 p.m.

Although no definite starting lineup for the curtainraiser with Menlo Junior College on March 30 has been announced as yet, several men have made a good showing during the tune-up games and will probably be awarded starting berths on the squad. Among them are Outfielders Bill Kenna and Zane Kaplan, Pitchers Flinn and Blagdon, and Infielders George Bonnellis and Nick Cannuli.

Rams Trip Idaho Quintet, 56-54, to Advance In Playoff

City College was eliminated from the Pacific Junior College Basketball tournament March 11, losing to Sacramento.

By Roy Pasini

SACRAMENTO, CALIF., MARCH 10—Coach Ralph Hillsman's City College cagers outlasted a determined Ricks College quintet from Rexsburgh, Idaho, by a 56-54 count here tonight advancing into the second round of the Pacific Northwest Junior College cage tourney.

Bolstered by the return of Bob Payne, who battered the hoop for 16 digits, and lanky center Bob Greenwood, fully recovered from a fractured hand, the Rams got off to a commanding lead.

Coming back in the second half, the boys from the potato fields began peppering the hoop to pull abreast of the locals with four minutes remaining.

Following a rapid exchange of buckets, All-Conference guard Bob Payne broke away to tank a spectacular 20-foot fade-away shot from the corner to ice the tilt for the City College five.

Archery Range Open Now To WAA Classes

Female Robin Hoods will have their chance at mastering the predecessor to the firearm at the women's archery range, now open, Instructors Nancy Sparks and Gloria Swiecgood disclosed yesterday.

Students enrolled under Miss Sparks meet at 10 a. m. on Tuesdays, Thursdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Miss Swicegood's classes meet at 12 noon on Mondays and Wednesdays. Classes are held in the archery court at the women's gymnasium.

Credit for Women's Athletic Association blocks will be given only to women enrolled in another sport besides archery.

Cindermen Face Gators In Practice Meet At S. F. State Field Saturday

By Dayton Lawson

Easter-week will be synonymous with things other than parades and egg-hunts to Jim Jensen and his cinder-burners.

The 20th of the month finds them battling each other in a sort of inter-class scrum out at the Lake Merced oval. Then, on the 27th, they challenge the S. F. State 'Gators on their own field, which will amount to nothing more than a good practice meet for both crews.

The first clash of any consequence will be against the Stanford Indians in a back-to-school tilt at Palo Alto April 3rd.

The schedule through April follows:

March 6—Menlo at Santa Clara. March 12—San Mateo—there. March 20—Inter-class meet. March 27—S. F. State—there.

April 3 — Stanford, Marin — Palo Alto. April 6—St. Mary's, S. J. State —at San Jose. April 10—Stockton-Vallejo and Marin — at Stockton. April 13—Santa Rosa—there (night). April 16—Sacramento and Marin—at San Francisco. April 24—California Frosh—there—10 a. m.

Boxing Team Whips Bronco 5-4

City College's varsity boxing team added the hide of Santa Clara to their impressive list of victories last week at the men's gymnasium, by a score of five matches to four.

The win over the Broncos, coupled with previous victories over the University of California and Lodi High School plus a draw with Stanford University, establishes the Red and White gladiators as one of the best squads in the Bay Area.

To date heavyweight Lazzaresehi has proved the most effective with his decisive three-round decision in the Sequoia matches. "Lazzie" is also the possessor of a hefty wallop in either of his mitts.

A gleam comes to Coach Diederichsen's eye when he mentions his 155-pound ace, Joe Veneacsovic, who has vastly improved in recent contests.

It's not too late for all the "Grazianos" or "Louises" to show their talent. Practice is held daily in the men's gymnasium at 2:30.

DEPENDING on the business at hand, the Club Advisory Board of the college meets to determine the status of various organizations on the campus.

The CAB is composed of 45 members, each member representing one of the recognized groups of the college. Their purpose and function is to revoke or retain charters issued to various clubs.

Dykman Leads Show

This semester's president is Mel Dykman, representing Omicron Phi Pi, ably assisted by Rosalie Abbott, secretary, who hails from Delta Psi.

Near the beginning of each semester, the various clubs present their request for retention of charters. The requirement among other things is for each club to have a minimum of 15 members, each one possessing an Associated Student card.

The whole point of this is, that at the last meeting of the CAB held Thursday, March 11, sixteen clubs were definitely suspended with an additional ten put on probation.

When 26 ont of a possible 45 organizations fail to meet the simple requirements, then obviously this college "is not going to heaven," but fast.

As to a solution to combat this situation, it is simple. Everyone be a student card holder, and no one is left holding the bag.

Vacation time is rolling around again, at least for a week anyway. From March 22 to March 26, the college knocks off work, and the students (not working anyway) just knock off.

This vacation shows up at a very nice time, however, as the first midterm period will be over, and the students, free from worry, can head for the beaches and enjoy the wonderful California sunshine.

If the sunbeams bounce down happily, all will be happy with the exception of the P. G. & E.

How About A Snow Job?

For the more adventurous clientele of Ramland, there is the snow country. Heading for the hills with skis strapped to the roof of the car, and a jug of old "Tennis Shoe" resting in the hip pocket, cannot be bent.

So the old "Sooth" wishes yawl a happy Easter vacation.

Forum Goes To Press Despite Decision

AFTER READING THE financial statement to the council John Ross speaking in behalf of Forum presented its past history and cultural aspects. His plea for the $650 received a negative vote.

Ads, Advance Ticket Sale May Be Financial Answer

Forum Magazine will be published this semester regardless of the Student Council's voting not to underwrite it with Associated Student funds, Marvin Silverman, Forum editor, explained this week.

Meanwhile, Frank Ferguson, council member, revealed to The Guardsman that he has submitted a financial plan to Silverman, Dorothy Mercer, co-sponsor of Forum, and Paul Guedet, Forum Club chairman. The plan calls for the sale of promissory tickets and advertising space.

Ferguson's plan is based on an advance sale of tickets at 35 cents per copy. At 1300 copies, the sale would net $455. In addition, $325 would be obtained through advertising, or a total of $780.

Forum needs $650 to publish 1300 copies, with an additional outlay of $25 for the printing of advance sale tickets.

In order to get his plan underway as quickly as possible, Ferguson has personally offered to forward the necessary $25 for the advance sale of the tickets.

Careless Use Strips Student Lounge Of Scarce Furniture

Furniture in the west campus lounge is rapidly becoming scarce because of careless treatment by the students, and this shortage is reflected in the large number of students who are unable to find suitable places to study, according to Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Chairs and tables are being broken at the rate of one a day, Dean Sandys pointed out.

Students are urged to co-operate in caring for the furniture as no immediate replacement is possible under present conditions, Dean Sandys concluded.

Placement Bureau Is Seeking Talent In New Fields, More Entertainers Too

Potential writers, radio stars, and publicity agents are also eligible to try out for auditions for the talent placement bureau, as well as actors, dancers, and singers who signed up for previous auditions, according to Roy Barnett, student director of the organization.

The organization is still on the alert for talent in the drama and musical fields, but this new request for additional student talent presents an opportunity for writers, radio stars, and publicists.

Barnett also stated that those who signed up for auditions would be notified as to when the tryouts would be held.

New Lot For Parking On West Campus Soon

To help alleviate the critical parking situation here additional parking space will be provided by installation of a wooden ramp to permit entrance to a new area on the west campus, Edward F. Sandys, dean of men, said today.

Area to be opened to student parking lies between Building 1, auditorium, and Building 13, the Waldorf. The section is west of Phelan Avenue inside the wire fence surrounding the west campus, Sandys added.

The ramp will be provided to facilitate crossing the curbs and will serve to organize the parking.

Speech Aid Classes Offered Twice A Week

Students of the college who conscientiously wish to improve their speech may use the new equipment now available in Building 19 with the assistance of Paul D. McKelvey or other members of the speech department, McKelvey announced today.

From 9 a. m. to 3 p. m. on Tuesdays and Thursdays six cubicles containing wire recorders and sound scribers will be available, McKelvey said.

Student Band Director Is Re-elected To Post

As the elections held at the band meeting last week, last semester's Student Band Director Marvin Silverman was re-elected to that position with Marvin Cheney as his assistant, Meyer Cahn, band director, stated today.

Silverman and Cheney will conduct most of the band arrangements throughout this semester, Cahn added.

Amori Posts List Of Student Summer Jobs

Summer camp counselors and assistant directors are but two of the many jobs to be had through application in the placement office in Building 2, Joseph Amori, job placement officer, announced recently.

Remuneration for most of the jobs ranges from $120 to $175 per month plus food, lodging, and transportation.

Location for these summer jobs now available include Yosemite, the Feather River region, and Tuolumne county.

Vet Supply Store Due For Opening In Summer

An "on campus store ready to operate this summer at the latest," is a definite possibility, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, announced here late this week.

Probable location of the store for veterans supplies, according to Anderson, will be the lower floor of dormitory six. Present occupants of the building would be moved to other barracks on the campus.

Anderson stated that this step, if it meets with expected official approval, will make it more convenient for veterans to pick up supplies needed for their college work. Emphasized by Anderson was the nature of the store which will not be a store in the accepted sense but merely a center where veterans can obtain their requisitioned supplies.

Meanwhile usually reliable sources claimed that the center, when and if it is accepted, will finally become an actual student store operating on a co-operative basis.

CAB Action Needed For Club Budgets

Passage of this semester's budget neared completion as the Student Council approved five of the remaining eight teams, postponed three, and further discussed purchasing uniforms for the college band.

Excepting a slight dissension over the Opera Fund, the following portions of the budget were quickly passed: Commencement, $250; Administration, $150; Controller, $392; Publicity, $508; Light Opera, $500.

The Men's Glee Club and Women's Athletic budgets, $87 and $150, respectively, were delayed temporarily when President Max Call informed the council that the organizations had not as yet been approved by the Club Advisory Board.

For the second time the Handbook budget for $600 was postponed. Previously it was set aside during the heated Forum Magazine controversy; this time the delay came about in the form of a request by the college band that the sum be used to purchase partial uniforms.

Approval of the Commencement budget contained the stipulation that only those graduates who are members of the Associated Students are to benefit by the $250. Those who are not members would then furnish their own cap and gown and pay a nominal fee for programs and invitations.

Housing Is Available For Married Veterans

Housing units are now available for immediate occupancy by married veterans in Hurley Village and there is no waiting list, Allan Maxwell, student manager, announced today.

Rent for the units per month is as follows: one-bedroom apartments unfurnished, $32; furnished, $36; two-bedroom apartments unfurnished, $35; furnished, $41.

If housing vacancies are not taken by City College students, other colleges in the city will be authorized to fill them through the San Francisco Housing Authority.

Maxwell may be contacted at the Hurley Village office, 350 Marston Avenue.

Flower Finale Sunday

Open house on the east campus of new horticulture buildings and supplies closes this Sunday, Lloyd D. Luckmann, Fine Arts department head, said yesterday.

The exhibit, which has lasted all this week, is held under the sponsorship of Luckmann and Harry G. Nelson, floriculture instructor.

Today is the last day on which students can view this new exhibit.

Cast Illness Cancels Gay Nineties Revue

Because of illness in the cast, the Gay Nineties Revue, which was to be feted in the west campus auditorium last night and tonight, April 1 and 2, at 8:15 p.m. by Mu Iota Psi, college music club, is postponed to an indefinite future date, it was announced today by faculty adviser, Gertrude Norgard.

Vagabond King Eclipses New Moon Production

Previous leasing of scores by the publishers has caused the college light opera New Moon to be "eclipsed" by the Vagabond King, scores of which reached here last week, according to a statement by Flossita Badger, music instructor, yesterday.

Stressing that barring earthquake or flood the "King" will go on, Miss Badger and Lloyd Sisler, conductor of the show, added that the new choice will be a better production and will cast about the same as the "deceased" Moon.

"Should there be any catastrophe to the 'King,' we will stage Little Red Riding Hood complete with Wolf," Miss Badger calmly concluded.

Masonic Club Hop Set For Tomorrow

Presentation of a spring dance by the Masonic Club tomorrow evening in the student lounge on the west campus was announced by Leland Peck, student president, today.

The dance will start at 8 p.m. to the music of a wide selection of popular records and will last until 12 midnight. No admission is to be charged and sportswear will suffice as dress.

The Masonic Club has arranged to have enough Coca-Cola on hand to serve as refreshments to keep all students from becoming thirsty. Both the gym and the stage is being set up from which to serve it.

Peck invited all students of the college and assured them they will have an enjoyable evening.

Languages Put Audio Visual Aid To Use

Machines will assist foreign language instructors to teach their classes the finer points of the subject next semester, according to Thomas Gabbert, department head.

Three sets of audio-visual aids combining phonograph recordings and parallel reading material will be procured for the use of the department.

These devices are similar to the machines which were used by the armed forces during the war for their intensive pre-invasion courses of appropriate languages. The system has also been commercialized and courses can be purchased for home study.

The language student will also have his voice recorded at the beginning of the semester and again at its completion, so that he can compare the improvement (if any) in his pronunciation and diction.

Miriam Escher Is Named Chairman

Establishment of a committee, headed by Miriam Escher, to direct activities of the college English department was effected March 18 by administrative officials following the resignation of Paul D. McKelvey, assistant chairman of the department.

McKelvey, who introduced the communication skills program to the college in 1946, will devote his full time to courses in speech education and communication arts at Stanford University, where he has been teaching concurrently with his teaching program here.

Mrs. Escher, who holds degrees from the University of Denver, has studied at Stanford, Oxford University, and Columbia where she was a faculty member in the summer of 1947. She has served as instructor at City College in English 21, English literature and Shakespeare, since it opened in 1935.

Samuel E. Duff, who received his degrees from the University of Missouri, and who is formerly of the Modesto Junior College faculty, is instructor of English 21, and English 30, creative writing. His new appointment to the English department committee puts him in charge of university parallel courses.

Direction of courses in speech and drama is assumed by Michael J. Griffin, graduate of the University of California, and second member of the committee.

Courses in communication skills will be coordinated by Carolyn Reideman, graduate of the University of California, and third member of the committee.

Hostess Class Throws April Fool Shindig

An April Fool's Day party, featuring an Italian dinner of spaghetti and meatballs and followed by games and dancing, was given by the members of the college hostess class last night on the west campus, according to home economics instructor Letha Roharts.

Fifty guests, friends of members of the class, were present at the affair, which was under the direction of co-hostesses Ethel Johnson and Rosemary Pritchard.

Ticket Sale Plan Already In Motion For Forum Success

Breathing a sigh of satisfaction, Frank Ferguson, council member, predicted safe financial sailing for the Forum magazine yesterday with the adoption of a modification of a finance plan advanced by Ferguson at a recent Student Council meeting.

Ferguson's original plan entailed the selling of promissory tickets for the publication to cover an estimated publication cost of $650.

Research by Marvin Silverman, editor, and the Forum staff revealed that the magazine could be published for less, $300 adequately covering the cost of 1,000 issues.

Illustrating his faith in his plan, Ferguson offered to pay for the printing of the promissory tickets personally, but again investigation revealed that further saving could be made by utilizing tickets donated to the cause by Oscar E. Anderson, controller.

The tickets, on sale since early this week, although marked 25 cents, sell for 35 cents, and are available throughout the campus.

Further [illegible] an already bright future for Forum, Ferguson disclosed that already about 800 of the 1,000 tickets on sale have been sold.

"Ticket holders will receive the magazine during the second week in May," Forum staff members said.

Call For Talent Made By Forum Co-adviser

Calling all poets, essayists and short story writers to arms, Dorothy Mercer, faculty co-adviser for Forum magazine, announced yesterday that contributions for the publication are now being accepted.

Writing of any form or in any medium or style will be considered, according to Miss Mercer, who advised that works should stay within a limit of 1,500 words.

Students may submit their offerings to faculty advisers John Ross, John Gerstung, or Miss Mercer, or to Marvin Silverman, editor. Contributions may also be sent to Bert Hale, art editor, or to Rooms 251 or 4R on or before Friday, April 30.

President Cloud Clarifies Absence Rule; Grades Out April 7, 8; Last Day To Drop Course April 14

Cut Limits Explained

By Max Call

Students are to be allowed absences for emergencies other than illness to equal the number of meetings of class each week, according to President A. J. Cloud. Cloud also stated that three verified illness excuses are all that will be accepted.

Disqualification notices will be sent to the student after the fourth non-excused absence.

Therefore in a three unit class the maximum number of absences allowed will be six, three unexcused and three excused.

In addition Cloud pointed out students who wish to appeal the disqualification notice may see the Dean of Men, Edward E. Sandys, or the Dean of Women, Margaret Dougherty, in Building 2 on the west campus.

Mid-term Results Given Out During College Hr.

First midterm grades will be released to students by their advisers next Wednesday and Thursday, Grant Marsh, counselling director, stated last Monday following a college administration meeting.

The college hour schedule will be in effect for the two days, and grades will be given during the free hour, 10:30 a.m.

Students with names beginning in the A to M class will receive their cards on Wednesday, with the remainder scheduled for Thursday distribution.

Counsellors' name and their room numbers will be published in the April 6 edition of The Guardsman, along with the college hour time schedule.

Programs 'Frozen'

Explaining that the last day to drop classes is Wednesday, April 14 instead of April 7, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, also warned last Monday that students who have not filed their petitions for graduation must do so at once.

Any class drops received after April 14 will not be accepted without giving an "F" final grade in the course.

The largest graduation class in the history of the college is expected this semester with the filing of 520 petitions. Miss Learnard continued by saying, "A graduation class of well over 500 is expected when summer session and spring semester applicants are considered."

Because of the late mid-term grade distribution, the drop class deadline was extended from April 7 to the 14.

To bolster the Navy Reserve recruitment program, the photography department of the college is presenting a display of engines, cameras, photographs in the student lounge today.

The objects to be seen there are borrowed from the Navy Air Reserve photo laboratory at Alameda and are the same type of equipment used in air reconnaissance work in the Navy, Bev J. Pasquinelli, photography instructor, said.

Vets Insurance News

Deadline for reinstatement of National Service life insurance by former members of the Armed Service is July 31, 1948, according to a Veterans Administration news release.

The news release pointed out that application for terminal leave pay covering unused furlough time while in service will not be accepted after August 31, 1948.

A Question That Needs Immediate Answer; Where Do We Go From Here?

ONCE again, in Washington, they're playing chess and using live flesh and blood for pawns.

And once again the lives of youth are all wrapped up in the gigantic match that was supposed to end on V-J day.

And again they are getting plenty of the material from college campuses . . . and that brings our little story right home onto the City College campus, for we have more than our share of 18 and 19 year olds to contribute.

The words "playing" and "chess" are perhaps a little too flippant to describe the grim business of drafting American youth out of liberal education into the education of modern warfare.

But let's be realistic about it; we stand to lose a good number of students to the task of military training program.

When? Write your own answer to that one; but keep in mind that this is a crucial election year, and be mindful too, of the current flip-flopping of international policy that is part of the so-called cold war raging in the world.

"When" is the gist of the argument. Millions of eligible youth asked the question: "Where do we go from here, Lawmakers?" after President Truman's pre-Easter speech advocating the draft.

The answer hasn't been made available as yet. Maybe at the June conventions of the two leading parties they'll come up with it; or this month's election in Italy will decide, or perhaps another grab on Russia's part will settle the issue.

Someone owes this million or so young Americans an answer to that question. They cannot go on much longer living in a state of suspended animation.

Vets of the second war can only advise: "Sit tight and wait." A bit of prayer at this stage wouldn't hurt the country either.

PARKING PERMITS PLEASE, OR THOU SHALT NOT PASS: Driving students know only too well how tough it is to get by the West Campus gatemen without a parking pass. He believes, and rightly, in strict law enforcement. (Interesting Angle: A man answering to general description of a gateman recently motored happily through the west campus—in a car which didn't sport a sticker on its windshield.)

Signs of the Times: Catch the little gem at the doors of Bldg. 13, for bachelor students, which reads, "Students Stay Out." (How insulting can you get?)

More Signs: Latest trash from Hwood's porcelain mouth is The Sign of the Ram. Its billboards blurt of "Women who will stop at nothing." Let's hope our little queens, Rainettes all, will not follow the example of "women born under the Sign of the Ram."

Main Bldg.: Here a humorist has flaunted law and order by changing the many "No Smoking" signs into "Now Smoking." (What a droll fellow!)

For Services Rendered: Today the Chocolate Covered Ram goes to Flo Grant (of our staff), and the Foster and Kleiser Billboarders who are responsible for our new C.C.S.F. sign at the Phelan Avenue entrance.

From our Crime File: The Case of the Council's Comedian: Student Councilites were greeted at their meeting this week with the following message chalked on the blackboard: "Featured today, The Return of the Thin Budget, or, The Budget Rides Again, starring Bob Reilly and Jack Hurley."

Working on this case is the Illegal Publicity Board which will whiff around the Call-egc for full poof—rather proof!)

Secretary Groger Airs Views On "Look" Over KQW

By Doug Johnson

That antagonists to the "new look" are not all men was made apparent last Saturday when Bea Groger, Associated Student Secretary, voiced her opinion over radio station KQW that the change in styles was the result of a plot hatched by prominent stylists to promote clothing sales.

Miss Groger, who appeared on the program entitled Your Opinion, Please, when asked to give a definition of "propaganda" as the "new look" as a result of propaganda dispensed by renowned designers.

"As a result," she interjected, many women whose clothes aren't adaptable to hem lengthening must purchase entire new wardrobes or be out of style."

Propaganda, according to Miss Groger, was once used to disseminate useful education to the public. Now the word has been abused until it connotes the distribution of twisted half-truths in order to gain the ends desired by individuals.

Bea Groger

In addition to Miss Groger, appearing on the program were Trev Burrow, Fall '47 Editor of The Guardsman and now at Stanford University; Max R. Call, Associated Student president, and Herb Levy, Managing Editor of The Guardsman.

• No Park, Stand, Stop

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reference to an item entitled "Give a Guy a Break" appearing in the Ramshorn Column of The Guardsman issued Friday, March 12, 1948, the XGI should check the vehicle code a little more closely, and if he would have the Campus Police follow the "letter of law" instead of the "spirit of the law," he would find the following:

Section 587, Vehicle Code, State of California:

Stopping, standing or parking in front of a fire hydrant.

No person shall stop, park or leave standing any vehicle within 15 feet of a fire hydrant except when local authorities indicate a different distance by signs or markings, and except when such vehicle is attended by a licensed operator or chauffeur who is seated in the front seat and who can immediately move such vehicle in case of necessity.

Parking in the red adjacent to the fire hydrant and at such a vital point is definitely a hazard to pedestrians who attempt to cross the street to the ramp. The old man selling pop corn courteously agreed to cooperate with the campus police. No one is attempting to deprive anyone of a living, least of all the peanut vendor, who is on campus grounds.

Signed:
Ray Maloche.

• Furthermore . . .

Editor, The Guardsman:

I wish to point out to the XGI that was defending the rights of the peanut vendor, who, in spite of our warnings, continues to park illegally, that this XGI ought to study his vehicle and traffic codes before he uses them for the basis of his arguments.

Section 587 of the Vehicle Code states that "no person shall stop, park, or leave standing any vehicle within 15 feet of a fire hydrant except when local authorities indicate a different distance by signs or markings, and except when such a vehicle is attended by a licensed operator or chauffeur who is seated in the front seat and who can immediately move such a vehicle in case of necessity."

I never saw the peanut vendor in front of his truck. Also our local authorities have provided the above mentioned markings to designate the fire hydrant area by painting the curb red.

Plenty Of Room In Housing Area For Campus Vets

By Florence Ames

Hurley Village and Balboa Park, housing projects on the campus of the college, offer to student veterans the use of a community Bendix washing machine.

Additional attraction for residents on the campus is the promised community "co-op" store to be run by the students, which will aid in the combatting of the high cost of living.

The sections, which offer housing facilities on the college campus to student veterans of City College, are under the supervision of student resident Allan Maxwell of the San Francisco Housing Authority.

Hurley Village has 25 quonset huts each hut being divided into two apartments, with two bedrooms each. Balboa Park, a more recent project, has a group of apartments now completed and with more due for completion soon.

Of two groups made available recently, 27 units were houses picked up in Vallejo and brought here on trucks. Maxwell urges all married student veterans, who are interested in housing facilities to register with him now, as there are vacancies available.

Hurley Village and Balboa Park have 210 units in all, accommodating 1500 people, including a few faculty members. The families include 58 children of students, with some newcomers expected.

The student-parents are now endeavoring to secure badly needed playground equipment for the youngsters, but so far have been unable to do so, as most of their time is taken with studies, part-time jobs, and care of home and children.

In addition to the above housing projects, for married veteran students, single men students have three dormitories and a fourth one will open soon; with the possibility of another unit, private rooms may soon be available to the older students.

(Editor's Note: Information for Club Cavalcade must be submitted to The Guardsman office by noon Mondays and Wednesdays.)

Collegians Reject Gold Fish, Make Neuroses The Fad

By Dave Hansen

Psychotic, neurotic, or just plain crazy, civilization has advanced to the point where one must meet qualifications to fall into one of these categories. Simply everyone is doing it.

The mad, mad characters with odd actions and queer quirks are no longer looked upon with question and contempt, but instead with consuming interest.

With ardent support of the public's common denominators, radio and the films, it has become the thing to be a nut.

Colman's Othello

Reserved, almost staid, Ronald Colman, accomplished Hollywood Briton has outdone himself to be odd. In his A Double Life, Colman worked at being a schizo.

Mr. Colman's professional and artistic standing was preserved by ringing in the Othello angle; the great American public had its entertainment standards preserved by the "raving maniac" scenes.

A Hollywood actress went so far in her search for atmosphere for a forthcoming bahbling imbecile role that she is being sued. It seems that a "student" in the institution used for background by said actress resented the "understudy" crashing the act.

Nightly over the airwaves come the screams and ravings of the horror, or to put it delicately, mystery programs.

Campus "Psychos"

This country's campuses are not above producing the type of person the Army and Navy referred to on their discharges as "Section Eights"; what the individual "dogface" or "gob" simply called "psychos."

It is now the rage, just as goldfish-swallowing was in prewar years, for the collegian to consult his psychiatrist, to disappear with make-believe amnesia, or otherwise to attract attention to his neurosis.

Gym Instructors Cut Grind To Two A Week

By Dayton Lawson

From the 80 or 90 briefly clad sufferers enrolled in men's physical education classes, there came a welcome sigh of relief when the gym classes were cut from the four a week grind to the twice a week breather.

"Man, we were swamped," Department Head Jack Gaddy was quoted as saying in his cultured, Oxford drawl. "Couldn't handle the rush. This semester the veteran trade dropped down to nothin', but we acquired a gang of high-schoolers instead. Plenty of teachers, but not enough lockers or equipment. Wotta headache."

When freely translated, this means simply that City College is getting to be a big girl now, outgrowing her buildings and all.

More high school students are attracted to the Phelan Avenue plant and unlike veterans, are not exempt from physical education except by medical excuse.

Besides Playing Pinochle At Station, Chopping Holes In Roofs, Firemen Have To Hit Textbooks

Below fireman E. Ruegg listens to date on the smell hand extinguisher from Michael LoPresti, fire college coordinator.

Going To College Plays Part In The Fireman's Training

By Doug Johnson

When a fireman isn't lounging around the station playing pinochle, he's having a whale of a time chopping holes in roofs and throwing water around. It's a "soft touch."

If that's your opinion tread softly when passing Building 4 on the west campus, where Battalion Commander Jesse H. McLendon of the San Francisco Fire Department instructs an average of 30 in-service firemen and officers a week.

Much Information Needed

"When fire strikes it must be combatted under a great variety of circumstances," McLendon observed. "A detailed account of what a fireman must know would fill a large book, let alone a newspaper," he smiled knowingly.

The firemen's college here, according to McLendon, was started last October under the auspices of the San Francisco Fire Department using the facilities of the college. Periodically, the department details a certain group of firemen and officers to take instruction. At present there are 12 officers and 20 firemen taking the course.

Varied Type Equipment

"These men study the use of all fire fighting equipment," McLendon explained, adding, "there are many types of fire extinguishers, hose nozzles, couplings, fog devices and artificial breathing apparatus with which to become familiar."

Protection of property and salvage work also have to be considered McLendon claimed. Thousands of dollars are saved for property owners through action taken by firemen in salvaging material before it is consumed by fire.

Freedom Train Goes On, But Message Remains

The Freedom Train recently left this city, but those who have seen it know it can never leave—for its stay in their hearts is a permanent one.

No, they will never forget it, and those who signed the re-dedication papers will never cease to guard what the papers stand for.

One man, as he left the mobile shrine, turned to a bystander and said, "Seeing documents like the Gettysburg Address and the Bill of Rights made them real to me, not just things I learned in school. It reminded me of the work that went into them and the work that will be needed to keep them."

It took much to make an American talk that way, and the crowd around him made no mocking remarks.

That's sufficient incident to remember—except for heart-warming things like the sight of a big, grinning marine guard who held a little girl up to a case so she could see the historic documents.

LEVEL-HEADED Jack Sommers, student finance chairman, explains that his job isn't to make paupers of various college organizations. When he cuts a budget, it's a necessity, because of the limited financial resources.

ASCCSF Financial Set-Up Explained

By I. R. Lascola

"Contrary to popular belief, we're not a branch of Fort Knox," stated Jack Sommers, finance chairman, who revealed that Associated Student's wealth is more cultural than actual.

Outlining budget procedure and problems, Sommers brought to light a cardinal principle of economics which lists one primary feature about money: "if you haven't got it, you don't know where to get it, or you don't know how to steal it, then, of course, you can't spend it."

Fill Out Forms

The general steps for tapping the local mint are simple enough, merely consisting of obtaining the proper forms, listing on them the items necessary and their cost, and presenting the total to the financial authorities.

Financial authorities, personified by Sommers, then peruse the requests and make those painful but necessary cuts.

No Paupers Here

"These cuts are designed to distribute the cash on hand as fairly as possible and are not a vicious plot to reduct budgetees to the pauper level," the finance chairman said.

"Complexities arise," Sommers continued, "from the illusion that the finance committee is either hoarding wealth or that fat checks for veterans' Associated Student cards are rolling in from the government."

Eighteen Thousand Tops

Emphasizing that the government money has been taken into account, Sommers added that $18,776, the present budget, is all there is.

"Unless oil is soon discovered on the campus, this sum is the only financial grease that will lubricate the Associated Student machinery," Sommers concluded.

Co-ed Sports Return To College

Badminton Classes Meet Every Wednesday With Riding Sessions To Start Next Friday

By Patti McGuire

Feature of Women's Athletic Association for this semester is the return of co-educational sports to the campus. Previous events have turned out to be quite successful, and plans for following events are now under way, according to adviser Gloria Swicegood.

One of the many co-educational sports featured is badminton which meets Wednesday evenings from 7 to 9 o'clock, under the direction of Nancy Sparks and Coach Ralph Hillsman.

The class boasts 35 members which is very commendable for a co-ed class.

Membership in Phi Epsilon Rho is now open to all women who are majoring in physical education and recreation. The club is under the sponsorship of Laurine Bergin, department chairman, and Charlene Burgess, president.

Saturday, April 10, there will be an intersectional sports day held at the Santa Rosa Junior College. The WAA has been asked to bring with them, one softball team, two badminton singles and doubles, four archers, one volleyball team, two tennis doubles and two table-tennis doubles.

Cokes and ice cream will be served. The participants will be members of the various sports classes, and anyone may attend.

Other co-ed sports proving popular after wartime layoff include riding and tennis, with more scheduled depending on demand.

RALPH HILLSMAN, college cage mentor, also co-sponsors co-educational badminton classes.

A message to you from the Chief of Staff

"April 6 is Army Day. It is a day which will have a special meaning for college men. More than half of you are veterans of the last war. Many of you are members of the Organized Reserve. Many others belong to the R.O.T.C. or National Guard.

"All of you are making a vital contribution toward World Peace and the security of this nation.

"The U. S. Army is the finest army in the world and the only one of its kind among the major powers. It is 100% volunteer. It is composed entirely of civilian soldiers . . . men like yourselves who realize that a strong America is a peaceful America, and that the responsibility of making America strong rests in the hands of every American citizen.

"The U. S. Army is not a large army, as armies go. It is shouldering tasks far greater than any other army of like size has ever attempted. Our occupation force in Japan is the smallest per capita of any modern occupation army. Our force in Europe is the smallest of the three major powers.

"But behind this Army stand you men of the Organized Reserve and the R.O.T.C. I have known many of you personally. I have been with many of you in action. I know the fine type of men you are and the realism that leads you to equip yourselves with military training.

"Further, I know the valuable service you can render the nation in time of emergency. A great deal of the success of fast mobilization and the actual winning of the war was due to the 106,000 trained Reserve Officers and the top-notch National Guard units which were available for quick action.

"To you, on Army Day, I believe I speak for millions of Americans in offering commendation for the fine job you are doing."

Racketmen Beaten In Intercollegiate Play; Face Grant This Afternoon

By Roy Pasini

With the results of their efforts in the Northern California Intercollegiate Tennis Tourney securely nestled in the record books, Coach Tom Wilson's varsity netmen travel to Sacramento today to meet the Grant Tech net squad in their second conference match of the current season.

As far as the Berkeley outing is concerned, City College ace Herb Suhr lost a hotly contested semi-final match and a crack at the singles title when he went down to defeat at the hands of Wally Bostick, Modesto flash, by 7-5 and 9-7 scores after copping the initial set with an impressive 6-2 count.

Off his work in the tourney last week, Suhr looks as though he will develop into the toast of the league and will certainly give Coach Wilson a dangerous number one singlesman.

In doubles competition, Suhr and veteran Frank Reed combined talents to reach the semi-finals, only to be eliminated by San Mateo's Wallace Vickey and Frank Sample, 6-4, 6-2, in a fast moving match.

Other San Francisco hopefuls who appeared in early tourney play were Bill Covall, the squad's other remaining veteran, who dropped a heartbreaker to Gordon Vostl of Modesto, 6-4, 6-2, after taking the first set, 9-7, and Bob Sockolov, who fell before the hard driving game of San Matean Mike Shaw by a 6-2, 6-4 count.

Four Co-Educational Sports Hold Meetings

The four co-educational sports will meet at the following times, according to Laurine Bergin, chairman of the women's physical education department.

The riding class will meet on Fridays, 9 a.m.; folk-dancing, Tuesdays and Thursdays, 2 p.m.; tennis, Mondays and Wednesdays, 3 p.m.; and bowling, Mondays, 3 p.m., at the Mission Bowl. The bowling games are played at the rate of 25 cents per line.

Intramural Deadline For Four Sports Today

With the combined individual intramural sports deadline for ping pong, tennis, horseshoes, and badminton set for today, Director Tom Wilson announced Tuesday that applications for volley ball will now be accepted in the men's gymnasium.

In the Pacific Coast League the Buccaneers, led by Hal Flinn's 17 points, swamped the Hellcats, 63-29, while in the Bush League the Block SF edged past the DSR's, 27-26.

The Ramblers whipped the Balboa Oranges, 52-32, in the American League while Don Mehl's 39 points led the Links to a 65-12 win over the hapless Lions in a National League tilt.

Marin Five Captures National Junior College Crown From Murray A & M

By Roy Pasini

Marin Junior College's sharp-shooting cagers wrote the final chapter to their story book "rags to riches" tale last Saturday in Missouri when they downed Oklahoma's Murray A&M five, 48-34, to become National Junior College Basketball champions.

The Mariners fought an uphill battle all the way. They went into the Pacific Northwest Regional Playoffs as a definite underdog only to emerge victorious after meeting the best the west had to offer.

Marin's regional victory carried a guarantee of an all-expense trip to Springfield, Missouri, for the nationals, but because the tourney was a financial flop, the victors were faced with the problem of traveling 1800 miles minus carfare.

Students and townfolk alike answered the call and within a week's time the Mariners were on the way east with a little surplus spending money besides.

An added sidelight to this terrific conquest was the placing of Herb Jotter, sensational 5' 8" scoring and defensive demon, and Walt Moreno, defensive giant, on the tourney's little "All American" squad.

Yes, there's joy in little old Kentfield today and you couldn't find a more deserving hamlet.

Cindermen Encounter Indians At Palo Alto Tomorrow At 2

Approximately 26 red-and-white-clad cindermen stuff their spikes and sweatsuits into their traveling bags tomorrow and set their course for Injun-country (courtesy U. S. 101), when Stanford's "loaded" trackmen will be ambushed. The war dance is set for 2 p.m.

Of the two squads, Stanford will have to get the nod insofar as condition is concerned. The papooses did everything but pull the bleuspids out of a willing but out-arrowed San Mateo Bulldog in their last trip off the reservation.

The Jenseumen, on the other hand, are in poor shape physically. The rains have done nothing to help them over the hump, and they go into the pow-wow practically cold. To top this off, the meet with S. F. State which was set for last Saturday was cancelled, and the Rams lost their only chance for their first good scrimmage.

On the strength of past performances, Doss Sims and Bill Barnes should hold their own against the Red Men in the high jump, while Bob Cook will be tough to beat in the discus. If Tom Kellog is present when the half-milers line up, the city school can look to some points from that quarter, while in the mile relay the quartet of Wyatt, Mills, Zarick, and Moore will definitely get plenty of competition from those 51:00 flat Indians.

College Nine In 10-8 Win In Menlo Opener; Return Game Tomorrow, 2:30

Minus their usual smoothness and finesse, the Ram baseball team won their first conference game of the 1948 season Tuesday afternoon as they defeated the Menlo Junior College Oaks, 10 to 8, in a game that was marred by 17 errors.

The two teams meet again tomorrow afternoon on the Big Rec diamond at 2:30 p.m.

Eleven of the 17 miscues committed during the game were charged to the Rams, but some good clutch pitching by "Toothpicks" Hal Flinn prevented the decision from being reversed. Flinn struck out seven and walked five in chalking up his first victory of the campaign.

Tom Bournellis and Ray White paced the invaders in the hitting column with two safeties apiece, followed by Zane Kaplan, Nick Cannuli, Emmett Lynch and Gene Simmons, who were credited with one hit. Gino Cimoli collected two hits to lead the Oaks.

Hillsman Issues Call For Golfing Talent

In an effort to bring golf into the sporting circle at City College, Coach Ralph Hillsman has taken over the reins with high hopes of developing a varsity squad in time to participate in conference tournaments.

Hillsman has issued a call for sign-ups and requests that all interested divot diggers get in touch with him at the men's gymnasium as soon as possible. At this writing a practice site has not been definitely secured, but Hillsman is dickering for one of the city's better courses.

CAB President Tells Of Club Suspension

Brady Posts List Of Official Room Assignments

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

AFTER dragging on for nearly two months, the Student Council finally has roared into the homestretch in the matter of the Associated Student budget.

At the Tuesday seance, there were but a couple of items remaining for the council to hash over. Among them were the Men's Glee Club's desire for $87, the W.A.A. request for $150, and the semi-annual college handbook rattling the tin cup for $600.

Although the council bickered and individual members at times resorted to personal comments against a fellow legislator, the student governing board is certainly learning the workings of democracy.

More specifically, the fall 1947 student council managed to get rid of nearly 20,000 checkers in the short space of 30 minutes.

Two Party Council

Some interesting developments have occurred during budgeting time this semester, namely, the Student Council is now divided into two pretty definite segments.

The opposing camps seem to be led by the two most outspoken members of the council. On the one hand, explosive Bob Reilly, third term incumbent, from all indications appears to be leading the majority group of eight voting members, while on the other hand Jack Hurley seemingly leads the remaining seven voting councilites.

Ferguson Moving In

Near the beginning of the semester, Reilly's leadership of the majority voting block had all the indications of being a permanent situation, but of late, Frank Ferguson allegedly has been moving in on Reilly's territory.

Not content with having Forum Magazine die an ignoble death, Ferguson hatched a plan bearing his name, whereby the literary publication will appear on the campus in early May. Hurley's forces, possessing more than 800 Associated Student members signatures on petitions, concurred with Ferguson.

Capanis, Wallace Speak

In addition to Reilly, Hurley, and Ferguson packing the load of student government, George Capanis and Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, have been very active in discussing pertinent legislation.

Ken Brown, Bob McVey, Jack Hagan and Robert Judd in later sessions have been definitely tuning up to the situation that the council is the student governing group, and in consequence have shown promise as to issues that may arise in the future.

The remaining voting members to date have been silent on most occasions.

Speech Contest Final Slated For April 21

Elimination day at City College for district representation in the sixth Junior College Public Speaking Contest of California, sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, has been scheduled for Wednesday, April 21, according to a statement issued by Dr. Claude A. Shull, college speech director, yesterday.

Clubs Must Apply For College Hour Meeting Sites

Only eligible clubs who have applied for and consequently been assigned permanent meeting rooms will be authorized to hold meetings in college class rooms during college hour, 10:40 a.m., today, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

Rooms Listed

The following organizations are the only eligible clubs which have thus far petitioned and been granted permanent club meeting rooms:

Ski Club, 212, Alpha Lambda Chi, 215, Zeta Chi, 237, Alpha Sigma Delta, 258, Hawaiian Club, 344, Latin American Club, 346, C.A.B., 2B, Tau Chi Sigma, 3A, Chinese Social Club, 4D, French Club, 312.

The Engineering Society invited students to a General Electric movie in Room 136.

Rally Next Week

Rooms not listed above will be assigned to eligible clubs in the order of their application, Brady said interested organizations should make their applications to him in Room 2, Building 2.

The next college hour is scheduled for Friday, April 9, during which a rally will be staged, John Pifer, rally commissioner, announced today.

Cloud Secures Report To Add To The Library

Recently obtained for the library by President A. J. Cloud, were five volumes of the report made by President Truman's Commission on Higher Education, formed to study the greatly increasing enrollment in colleges and universities. This commission estimates that enrollments will reach 4,600,000 to 1960.

The report, issued by the U. S. Office of Education, recommends basic changes in the organization of higher education which must be made to give these students maximum benefits. Titles of the books are 1, Establishing the Goals; 2, Equalizing and Expanding Individual Opportunity; 3, Organizing Higher Education; 4, Staffing Higher Education, and 5, Financing Higher Education.

JOHN BRADY, industrious assistant dean of men, comes up smiling after wading through the roster of campus clubs and assigning each group an official meeting place for future college hours.

AGS To Coach Vets Needing Study Aid

Coaching in a limited number of subjects is now available to student veterans through the services of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's honorary scholastic society, adviser Edwin C. Cranston announced yesterday.

The subjects in which coaching is obtainable are as follows:

English 21a, 21b; French 21, 22; all German courses; all Spanish courses; history 28a, 28b; math 20c, 23a, a, b; chemistry 21a, a; botany 21a; physiology 21a; and Zoology 21a, 21b.

Any student veteran who needs coaching in any of the aforementioned subjects is eligible for this voluntary service. The veteran should see Cranston in his office, Room 170, to secure the name and address of a student coach, whom he must contact.

Evaluation Of Service Credit Starts April 19

Military service credits and service school attendance will be evaluated during the week of April 19 to 23, Louis Batmale, Veterans Guidance Center director, announced yesterday.

Veterans who have not had their military service and experience evaluated should apply at the Guidance Center, located in Building 3, Batmale added.

Cal Pelican Goes On Sale Here April 14

Through information furnished by Herbert Levy, Guardsman managing editor, plans for distributing The Pelican, University of California monthly publication, at this college were presented by President Max Call to the council for its approval with the note that funds will be obtained by the procedure.

Distribution points for the coming April 14 edition are the fountain and advertising office, both in Building 12 on the west campus.

Student Tour To Mexico Scheduled

Two thirty-day educational tours to Mexico for students and teachers will be conducted by Professor and Mrs. Juan B. Rael of Stanford University this coming summer.

The tentative dates for the two tours are June 29 to July 28 and August 24 to September 22. The itinerary will include Guadalajara, Mexico, Puebla, Tehuacan, Cordoba, the volcano, Moreila, Guernavaca, Taxco and Acapulco.

Persons wishing further information about the tour may secure it by writing to Professor Rael, 574 Lasuen, Stanford University, California. He may be reached by phone also at Palo Alto 4081.

Levy College Delegate To Scribe Day Conclave

Representation of this college during Jourlanism Day to be held Tuesday, April 13, at the University of Redlands was financed by the council when it agreed to a Guardsman request to send Herb Levy, managing editor, to the conference and appropriated $25 for traveling expenses.

Featuring as guest speakers successful men and women from various phases of journalism, the program is intended to further acquaint college newspapermen with the fine points of producing an interesting publication, in addition to gaining information as to other college publications.

Organizations Will Be Reinstated On Compliance To Rules

Mel Dykman, Club Advisory Board president, explained today that failure to submit to CAB a form containing the names of members, officers, and faculty sponsor, necessitated the suspension of 16 campus clubs two weeks ago.

The clubs suspended will be reinstated as soon as these forms have been presented to CAB, he added.

No partiality is being shown to any special group or organization, continued Dykman, and any club that fulfills the requirements will be accepted.

Requirements now demand that clubs have a minimum of 15 members, all Associated Student card holders, and a faculty member as sponsor.

The Ski Rams, College Christian Fellowship, and Alpha Delta Epsilon, clubs which were suspended, have now satisfied the requirements and will be voted on for approval at the CAB meeting today during college hour.

Two new clubs, the Drama Society, sponsored by Lloyd Sisler, and the Glee Club, with Harold Cunningham as sponsor, have applied for admission to CAB and, if approved today, will be placed on a probationary status.

Checks Ready At Bank On Vet's Requisitions

All veterans who have turned in requisition slips for refund of last semester's Associated Student cards may pick up their checks today at the bank, Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, announced yesterday.

Fountain Service May Be Curtailed; Loss Of Serviceware Adds To Operation Cost

Breakage Could Defeat Hotel Division Aim Of Giving Students More For Their Money

Curtailment of fountain service in the immediate future to prevent greater loss of china and silverware appeared almost a necessity today, Hilda Watson, director of the hotel division, said.

"The fountain needs your cooperation," Mrs. Watson declared.

"The Board of Education furnished the original supply of serviceware, but they do not replenish the broken or lost pieces."

She added that all funds used to replace the ruined pieces come out of the budget. This means that the already high food prices will rise in proportion to the increase in breakage. An added financial headache is the 100 per cent increase in the price of the newly purchased serviceware.

"Another mistaken idea of the students is that the sandwiches consumed by them are made without labor costs. This is a false idea, for the majority of those who work in the kitchen do so on their time and are paid the prevailing campus rates," Mrs. Watson continued.

"Even though the prices are high, they are still a great deal lower than those charged by other restaurants or by a catering service," she pointed out.

Mortimer Hall, student manager, begged the cooperation of the patronizers of the fountain. He reiterated the plea of Mrs. Watson.

"This is your fountain, operated for your convenience. Through your cooperation we will be able to maintain average prices," Hall said.

Students Express Need For Shelter On K-Line

By Salomon Finkelstein

With bated breath and hunched shoulders students of City College face cold-catching at Ocean and Phelan Avenues.

Several of them expressed today the urgent need for the building of a shed at the K-car stop near the above corner.

The general opinion stated was that it is more important to prevent some hundred students from catching a cold, than to save a few dollars.

Some 800 students wait there daily to get home even in case of rain and storm.

Talent Loaded Rally On Friday Schedule

Sparking the first springtime rally in the west campus auditorium Friday, April 9, a host of local talent will mingle with just a small amount of outside entertainment, in the form of Bunny Peters and his jazz band, John Pifer, rally commissioner, announced today.

Heading the list of entertainers will be Jack Jones, known for his lead role in Our Town, who will present a satire on the life of Max Call, student president.

The rally will also include: A March of Time satire by Dave Huenergardt, also to be remembered for his role in Our Town, a skit by Roy Barnett, head of the local talent bureau and formerly a singer with Tex Beneke's Gremlins in the U. S. Army, and finally a group of selections by the local City College quartet.

Pifer said Bunny Peters and his band will be on hand to furnish "hot" music when other entertainment is not being offered, and that through the combined efforts of all the entertainers all students are assured of a pleasant hour.

April 8 Playreading To Be Directed By Hickey

Under the direction of Evelyn Hickey, college student, the drama department will present an as yet unnamed playreading at 11 a.m. Thursday, April 8, in Room 28, Lloyd Sisler, instructor, related today.

The play is an important New York stage hit. It was brought to San Francisco last year, Sisler said.

It is called a "memory play" with a nostalgic theme. The plot is about a family in St. Louis in the middle 1930's that live apart from reality, Miss Hickey said. The play hinges on the problem of getting a gentleman caller for the young daughter.

Class Credit In NDGW Contest For Students

As an incentive to induce participation in the sixth annual Public Speaking Contest of California, Claude A. Shull and his associate instructors of speech are offering classroom credit to those participants enrolled in Speech 21, Shull reported today.

Monetary rewards for the winners of the state-wide contest, sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, are $50 and $25, Shull added.

College Hour Schedule

VA Planning A Campus Supply Site For Vets

Plans to provide distribution of veterans' supplies and equipment on or near the campus are progressing, a college VA affairs office spokesman announced yesterday.

The difficulties which last semester made it necessary for veterans to secure part of their supplies from distribution points some distance from the campus are being eliminated and beginning with the summer session distribution will be handled locally, the spokesman added.

Opera Workshop Will Be Added To Fall Courses Offered Here

In answer to a plea made by voice teachers, and radio, concert, and opera producers to assist "beginners to learn their business," an opera workshop, headed by Flossita Badger, college choir director, will be inaugurated here in the Fall semester, Lloyd Luckmann, chairman of the fine arts department and assistant to President A. J. Cloud, said yesterday.

The workshop program will offer study with emphasis on training for public performance and will include coaching in diversified operatic roles both grand and light.

Pointing out that opera entails more than the ability to carry a tune, Miss Badger listed training in sight singing, study of musical literature, languages with the stress on pronunciation, acting, fencing, lyric diction, makeup, costume design, and stagecraft as part of the curriculum.

Actual performances of scenes from operas and some complete operas are also planned as part of this unique musical training.

In speaking of the aims of the course, Miss Badger stated that it will serve as a "test" for young students considering operatic careers, giving an idea of some of the requirements for success and whether they are suited for such a calling.

Indicating that City College will be one of the first of the two year colleges offering this training, Miss Badger said that audition applications will now be accepted by the music department.

Artistic Freedom Is Aim Of Forum

Dorothy Mercer, faculty co-adviser for Forum, sent out a repeat request today for contributions to the magazine.

In addition to writing on any subject using any medium, Miss Mercer said there is a need for black and white art work.

Students may turn in their literary efforts to Miss Mercer, John Ross, or John Gerstung, faculty advisers, or to Marvin Silverman, editor, or send it to Room 251 or Room 4K. Deadline is April 30.

Forum Tickets Limited

Tickets are still available for Forum, the college magazine to be published in May, Marvin Silverman, editor, said today.

Ticket sales will be terminated this week, Silverman added, and when the present supply is exhausted, no more will be printed.

Students may purchase tickets from any Forum staff member or in Room 251.

Ellison Plays Lead In Berkeley Square

As a departure from regular drama department procedure, Paul Ellison, member of the faculty, will play the lead in the City College Little Theatre Group's production of Berkeley Square which opens Thursday, April 15 in Room 28, Bill Culver, director, announced yesterday.

There will be five evening and one matinee performance in the cellar playhouse for the three act romance. The booking has been set for the evenings of April 15, 16, 19, 20, 21. The afternoon show will be given Friday, April 16, Culver said.

Berkeley Square is a love story of a present-day American who is thrust into the bewigged and powdered life of Eighteenth Century London.

Openings For Skilled Students In Summer

Many skilled summer jobs are still available to those students or faculty members who have some experience in counselling, Joe Amori, placement director, announced today.

"There is little demand for nonskilled summer workers," Amori said, "but students of counselling skill will be in demand."

The activities of a counsellor are broad. The individual who possesses skill in leather work, wood work, scout experience, outdoor cooking, nature study, pottery, and music can qualify for these positions, Amori added.

Pan Am League Offers Mexican Scholarship

A scholarship for one year's study at the University of Mexico is being offered by the Pan American League in conjunction with Pan American Airways, Edwin A. Cranston, Alpha Gamma Sigma adviser, announced today.

$800 Added For Light Opera

By Bill Kinsley

Setting of admission prices and underwriting of additional funds for the revised light opera highlighted the first Student Council meeting that was devoted entirely to Associated Student interests.

Approval of an $800 supplement to the $500 opera budget approved previously was given by the confused but willing council after listening to persuasive and explanatory speeches made by Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, and Oscar Anderson, college controller.

OSCAR E. ANDERSON, controller.

Following Sisler's monetary request and answering the council's interrogation, Anderson explained the financial procedure, remarking, "I'll take a chance on it, because I think it's a good gamble; the most you could lose is around $250; also, you must set the ticket prices."

Opinions regarding admission prices were voiced by numerous councilmen, equally numerous in price ranges; however, the idea prevailing was that of reduced rates for Associated Student card holders.

Interrupting at this point, Dean Jack Brady stated, "I believe somewhat differently from most of you; I think there should be only two prices, $1 general admission and 50 cents to cardholders. After all, we are mainly concerned with the cardholders, and this is the fairest way to do it."

Adding to Dean Brady's statement, Anderson said, "It would be wise if you set one price for cardholders from this or any college."

After both Sisler and Anderson, in answer to Jack Hurley's question, agreed to Brady's price, the council voted, 11 to 4, its approval.

Hurley Village Children In Need Of Suitable Playground Area

AS IF IT weren't a tough enough deal rearing children in crowded Quonset and Victory Huts, the residents of Hurley Village are currently faced with another problem that demands immediate attention.

Over in the housing project for married students attending college here are 75 children who have no playground facilities other than a tiny sandbox that is getting more than its amount of wear and tear.

If you can picture 75 children jammed into the sandbox at the same time you have a fair idea of what the Hurley residents are up against at this writing.

The parents of these children can't possibly take time out to construct a playground of their own; anyone who takes a full load of college subjects knows the books must come first.

And certainly the women of the Village cannot be expected to do the necessary carpentry work for the project.

Mayor Robinson, in a dedication ceremony held some time ago at Hurley Village, promised official action on this situation. No further word has been received from the City Hall on the matter.

Promising something isn't getting it done however, and The Guardsman intends to pursue the issue until something has been done for the children.

The Mayor has shown complete willingness of action on huge civic projects now underway; we feel that he will come through on this situation in like style.

This is a chance for a big city to open a big heart, by providing adequate recreational equipment for deserving children of deserving parents.

What with studies taking up all their time and, more important, trying to get by the inflated cost of living on frozen wages, these families are urgently in need of help, and right now!

It will be a very small investment but the return will be tremendous. Seventy-five happy kids would be a heart warming sight around any campus.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

COLLEGE IS More than Knowledge Dept.: If you think this college is rid of that old-high-school-spirit—then we have news for you, Buster! Witness the signs adorning the W. Campus walks which read, "B.C. loves A.N." We, for one, want to wish B.C. and A.N. all the luck they need!

For Services Rendered: It's Ram seldom that we like to pass out Chocolate Covered Rams because Rams don't grow on trees, you know. Today, however, we must award not one but two of the delicious things.

First: To Miss Flossita Badger, college music director, for the hard and successful work of inaugurating and organizing this college's first light-opera. (It's little things like this that keep people from getting puzzled looks on their pan when you mention old City College.)

Second: To the boys of the Alpha Sigma Delta frat, for this season's silliest name for a dance. They've themed it with this gem. "The Carrot Top Dance." What does it mean? We'll bite too!!

People will have to stop working so hard for Ramland; we're running out of chocolate!!

Rumors around Ramland: Watch for activity around Bks. 6. Seems the boys are being moved out to make way for a supply store which MAY appear on the campus and MIGHT eventually become a student store. Irresponsible persons allege that city big shots got wind of the so-called dissatisfaction of local vets on the deal they received on their supply requisitions and decided to do something about it!!!!

Rally Situation: Watch for pepped-up rallies under the direction of Busy John Pifer. There's talk that Bunny Peters, the Bop jazzman whose drums and men made such a hit last semester, is coming back to old City College for another rally performance—he's bally, rally!

The People's Choice Dept.: Campus politicos will be happy to know that the famous Yale Whiffenpoof Club has come to this fair city. It's also for a worthy cause that they come (a cause that our busy representatives should support wholehartedly!!), namely the American Foundation for High Blood Pressure.

Incidentally, all students over 21 (are there such?) registered here recently like good citizens.

Indispensable Must Dispense

Andre Schmidt, Intramural Sports Manager About To Resign; Recruits Sought For His Position

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Guardsman initiates a new series of interviews and pictures starting with this issue, of prominent students about the campus who, by dint of extra-curricular activities on their own time, have earned just recognition.

By Dave Hansen

Intramural sports this semester are faced with an old army problem: that of replacement. The replacement is an important one—namely one Andre C. Schmidt.

For the past two semesters Schmidt, now in his fourth semester here, has managed, guided and nursed all teams entered in intramural competition through their campaigns.

Ably assisted by Jim Wyatt, 19 year old Schmidt has almost unceasingly worked on basketball, football, track and swim schedules. Since he started as manager of the teams, the Swiss born, Science and Letters major has average two hours work per day EVERY day on the intramurals.

He has refereed, umpired, kept time, mapped schedules and playoffs, and generally made himself indispensable.

Schmidt came here from Switzerland 15 years ago, attended school in San Francisco, and was graduated from Lowell High School. Intending to enter Stanford as an Electrical Engineering student, a heavy laboratory schedule must be followed by the studious, otherwise heavily scheduled, Andre Schmidt.

Consequently, the intramural manager's indispensable services must be dispensed with.

"I don't want to quit," he said today, "but an unfortunate and required lab schedule necessitates such a move."

A replacement is needed. Intramural sports must have a manager. Anyone interested?

PICTURED ABOVE IS racqueteering Intramural Sports Manager Andre Schmidt, who is finding it difficult to keep up with his laboratory work and still have time for the intramural sports.

Pussycats And Cut Ups Crowd Diners Out Of Snack Bar

By Doug Johnson

Yankee ingenuity flashed to the fore today when Mike St. Robespierre sauntered blithely into the campus fountain wearing a neat shelf strapped to his shoulders.

Jack Lovelock, his bosom companion, was curious, and was heard to remark:

"I am wondering why you are wearing that shelf, Michael?"

Mike ordered his "coffee and," deposited them on the shelf, and led his friends to quiet corner. He smiled enigmatically and dunked a doughnut.

Shelves Problem

"Solves the problem, doesn't it?" he murmured suavely. (This is no mean trick when you are smiling enigmatically and dunking a doughnut.)

"You see, Jack," he said condescendingly, "I've been standing in corners juggling my coffee and combination for about two semesters now. I have grown weary of performing these feats while my fellow students take their ease."

Jack hung a crescent of doughnut over his breast pocket on the projecting end of his Eversharp, placed his coffee cup neatly on his head, and lit a cigarette. He gazed about the cafeteria and observed:

No Chow Hounds

Every seat occupied by students, some doing their homework, others sitting about desultorily flicking ashes into empty coffee cups and making with personality, rolling their bobby socks, popping bubble gum, or merely looking dreamily into any space they could find, which wasn't much. The thought flashed into his quick mind that hardly any of these men and women were eating. He noticed several of the brotherhood of between class coffee jugglers performing their ambidextrous feats in various crowded corners. A happy smile lit his nervous, aquiline dial as he saw Hervey Allen snatch a stool from under the descending stern of one of the "new look" rigs, the captain of which was too busy putting a paint job on the superstructure to notice his act.

Mike St. Robespierre washed down the last of his doughnut with a quick swish of coffee, set the cup back on his shelf and waited for the bus boy to clear the debris. He whipped an ash tray from his breast pocket and set it neatly in one corner, lit a cigarette and inhaled with satisfied insouciance.

Dashing Thought

"What say, Jack old boy," he queried, "shall we tramp over to the lounge for a smoke and a chat?"

"Dashing good thought, St. Robespierre," Jack agreed, "there's usually

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Florence Grant

• Merchandizing Club: At a recent meeting, Walter Matson was elected president for the second consecutive semester. Virginia Gohn, club adviser, announced today. Vice president for the semester is Angelo Siragusa, Diana Pettas, secretary and Loucetta Solin, treasurer.

• Zeta Chi: Kathryn Alice Larenzette, passed the traditional box of candy to her sorority sisters announcing her engagement to Robert Joseph Brown.

• Delta Psi: Plans for pledge week are being formulated. Jean Walcott passed the traditional box of candy announcing her engagement to Norman Mont-eton.

• Collegiate Christian Fellowship: The regular meeting will be held today in Room 190 at 3 p.m. A speaker will be in attendance and all students interested are urged to attend.

• Tri Epsilon: Plans for the formal initiation of this semester's pledges have been announced by George Capanis, fraternity president. The formal initiation will take place Monday, April 12 at the Gray's Hall.

• Tau Chi Sigma: A formal initiation was held Friday, March 19, for the following new members: Don MacKenzie, Ben Cheek, Jim Stelling, Money Hickman, Herb Sihner, Frank Rowe, Harry Kampf, Ed Toner, Bob Orr, Al Miller and Taylor Strong.

• Kappa Phi: Plans for the Chinese dinner to be held on April 11 were made at the meeting at Bernedette Farley's home.

Fools To The Foolish

It is rather foolish to grind out something about an occasion that took place Thursday, but in the event you hadn't checked the calendar, Thursday was actually April Fool's Day.

Why somebody or other donates a whole day to various fools that creep around most everyday is somewhat beyond comprehension.

As a glorious solution, instead of just one day a year donated to fools, make Leap Year also Fool's year, which probably would be a foolish leap, anyway.

Red Cross Aid Sought In Shuttle Bus For Veterans

By Florence Ames

Need for a shuttle service for transportation between the main building and the west campus was voiced by several disabled veteran students who have found the steep ascent painful because their disability is considerably aggravated under such strain—resulting in further hospitalization in one instance.

Such service would aid all disabled veterans who find it impossible to negotiate the distance between east and west campuses in the ten minutes allotted between class periods.

Appeal is now being made by student group to the Red Cross for such services to aid the students who would benefit from such transportation.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

BASKETBALL got off to a flying start in the winter of 1891-92 when Dr. James Naismith, instructor at the Y.M.C.A. Training College in Springfield, Mass., introduced the game for student competition between the closing of football season and the opening of the diamond sport.

In order to keep as many people as possible warm at one time, the sport was inaugurated with 18 stalwarts on the court. Later the number of players became optional, depending on the size of the court and probably on the amount of cold feet in the crowd.

The fact that we play the game under a roof has eliminated the possibility of the postponement of a tilt because of weather, but it also limits the number of seats available to the public. Although it may prove difficult to secure ducats for a given battle, the individual can always hang a backboard and bucket (women's hoop skirts would be in demand here at least) on the front of the garage or in a similar spot and begin his transformation into a future Luisetti.

From a spectator's viewpoint, basketball is a more thrill packed affair than baseball in that it is a faster moving game. Because of this swiftness the court game demands more youth than the diamond, where specialists are employed, and tends to limit the playing career of an athlete.

Trackmen Clash With Gaels Today

Despite their apparent lack of condition, Jim Jensen's Ram harriers will be heavy favorites to take the measure of the sassy Gaels when they lock horns with the Moragans in a dual meet set for 4 p.m. today on the St. Mary's field.

If things go as the pre-meet dope figures, the Red-and-Whites should get nothing more than a mild workout, as the parochial school is in the throes of a renaissance in so far as the cinder sport is concerned.

Last season was their first attempt in many years to field a track squad, and while one or two individual efforts were able to approach NCACC standards, the team on a whole was more willing than able.

The Rams, on the other hand, should more than hold their own in the conference this season. With the possible exception of Modesto and Sacramento, the Jensenmen should be favored to dump most of the squads in the league.

The wet spell has hindered condition somewhat, but given a few warm days, they should snap into form.

The high jump will probably turn out to be one of those 1-2-3 affairs, with Ranis Sims, Barnes, and Scott in that order. All three men have marks upwards of six feet to their credit, with the season still in the embryo stage.

Intramural Volleyball Signups End This Friday; Boxing Entries Open

Intramural director Tom Wilson announced yesterday that the sign-up for volleyball will continue throughout this week, ending Friday, April 9.

The limit of players per team is six regulars and two substitutes, while the awards will be given to the winning and runnerup volleyball squads. Awards are the same as for basketball with gold belt buckles going to the first place winners.

Wilson also announced that entries will be now accepted in all weight classes for the future intramural elimination novice boxing tournament. All college men students are eligible except those who participated in the last tourney's semi-finals and finals.

In the second round of intramural cage play in the Pacific Coast League the Boys, led by Don Lakin's 26 digits, bowed to the Buccaneers 56-72, the H.S.L.A.C. Edged by the C.C. Red Hots 38-37, and the Killers whipped the Hellcats 40-23.

Joe Scott with 40 points led the Balboa Blues to a 82-32 win over the Underrated in the National League while the Vandals squeezed past the Whiz Kids 36-35.

Ram Mittmen Flatten Menlo; Nederman Allows Six Hits

By Art Paymiller

After spending one and a half years in a Ram uniform, Paul Nederman could only boast of being a lowly relief pitcher, but last Saturday he rose from the bench and cast aside the shrouds of obscurity as he hurled a magnificent six-hit pitching performance to enable the Rams to defeat the Menlo J. C. Oaks 4-3, on the muddy Big Rec diamond.

RAY WHITE, slugging first baseman, will be counted on heavily this season to strengthen the batting line-up for City College.

For Nederman, it was the chance of a lifetime, for he appeared in only one conference game last year, and that as a pinch hitter. He not only humbled the Oaks at bat, but collected two doubles and a single in his four trips to the plate to lead his own teammates in hitting.

Nederman's biggest inning was the ninth, with the Rams leading 4-3 and the tying run on second base via an error. Paul proved to be equal to the occasion and struck out the next two batters, walked the third on a 3-2 pitch, and then whiffed lefty Bob Rowell to end the game. Over the nine inning span he struck out ten while walking three, one intentionally.

The winning tallies came in the fifth inning when shortstop Jim Kerr dropped two pop flies enabling Zane Kaplan and Bill Kenna to cross the plate with the clinchers.

Both teams picked up single counters in the second and third frames, with the invaders tallying their final run in the eighth.

This afternoon finds the Rams playing the Santa Rosa Cubs on the Ocean View diamond at 2:30 p.m.

WAA Invites Preps For Riding Clinic

San Francisco high school students will be invited to attend a riding clinic scheduled Friday, April 16, at the St. Francis Riding Academy.

Laurine Bergin, chairman of the women's physical education department, said the purpose of the clinic is to improve the riding habits of the students. Experts from the bay area will be present to act as judges and give constructive criticism.

Both the Women's Athletic Association and the Associated Women Students are cooperating fully with the Physical Education Department in this respect, Mrs. Bergin said.

Netmen Trip Sacs; Face Menlo Oaks Here Tomorrow

After getting off to an auspicious opener against Sacramento College last Wednesday, the varsity tennis team aims its sights on the Menlo Junior College aggregation, whom they entertain on the Golden Gate Park Courts tomorrow at 2:30.

The City Collegers established themselves as a definite title contender when they toyed with the Panthers from the Capitol City by a count of 7-0. The Sacramentans had previously established a "reputation" by tripping Compton College 8-7.

Herby Suhr led the Rams victory parade by slashing through Ted Wichert 6-1, 6-0. Ed Jacobsen and Frand Reed each won 6-3, 6-4 matches while Fred Rodgers whipped Harry Smith and Bill Covall beat Jake Cochrane by identical 6-1, 6-1 scores.

Golfers Meet Gators

Golf at the college officially gets under way Thursday, April 8, at Harding Park with Coach Ralph Hillsman's stickers meeting the cross town San Francisco Staters in the first match of a home and home affair.

Representing the City College in its return to the fairways will be Bill King, Walter Ross, Doug Blackie, Jim Nieth, and the local athletic twins, Bob and Don Payne. Team positions are in the process of being determined through an inter-squad qualifying round. Complete schedule will be published in the near future.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

CLEARED momentarily of the smoke and rubble caused by the Forum Magazine explosion, and the individual members of the student council somewhat reluctantly putting their knives back in their sheathes, a new bomb was rolled into the council, namely the question of BAND uniforms.

Quickly the blades were back in the members' hands (with some knives being held at certain members' backs) and the Bob Reilly group trying desperately to snuff out the smoldering fuse. For the moment they have succeeded.

Band Banned

It all started when Jack Hurley moved that the $600 destined for use in putting out the little red college handbook be appropriated for band uniforms.

Nancy Wallace, student vice president, quickly seconded the motion. President Call asked for discussion on the subject, then the Thursday meeting looked as if some big guns were ready to go off.

But the powder was a little damp, so a suggestion was brought up that it would be a good idea to get downtown stores to donate the uniforms.

Reilly claimed that two semesters ago some downtown stores were willing to donate uniforms in an effort to gain goodwill of the college.

Miss Wallace questioned as to why the council hadn't taken any action before this time.

Crux Of Situation

It appears that the band desires 38 cardigan type jackets, and at present, for a little over 600 washers, these 38 uniforms could be obtained in time for the fall semester.

The general opposition seems to be the cardigan type jackets, in addition to cutting the money for the handbook.

Committee Formed

Reilly urged that a committee be formed to investigate the possibility of getting the jackets free of charge.

President Max Call concurred and the meeting recessed until today at 12:00 in Room 4D.

The Man Said It

Last fall at the football game between Los Angeles City College and this institution, Art Rosenbaum, Chronicle Sportswriter, said about this college's band, "Somebody should get uniforms for this band . . ."

In addition there is an alleged rumor drifting about that, during last semester a citizen offered to buy uniforms for the band, but the Fall '47 council seemed to be oblivious to the situation.

Frank Ferguson, Councilman, says, "If this donation plan doesn't work, the band in any event will get their uniforms this semester."

As they say at Stanford, "Come Join The Band . . ."

Right front, seated and completing the line up of basketball team members and guests are Roy Pasini, Jim Stahlbum, and Bill Bahr, Block SF president.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Honors 11 With Permanent Membership In Society

Eleven February graduates achieved scholastic honor and permanent Alpha Gamma Sigma membership, Edwin A. Cranston, faculty adviser, said today.

Of the eleven, seven are now attending the University of California; David Bressler, Robert Brodkey, Norman Hamlin, Charles Juricich, Valentine Podova, De Vere Seader, and Philip Onstott.

Attending the University of San Francisco is Sherril Houghton.

Last of the eleven Alpha Gamma Sigmites include Gloria Orzanco, Everett Wong, and Sidney Winchester.

Village Playground Is Promised By Robinson

Playgrounds for children living in the Hurley Village and Balboa Park veterans' projects have been promised by Mayor Elmer Robinson, Mrs. Allen Maxwell, co-supervisor of the project, disclosed yesterday.

Mrs. Maxwell added that in view of the 75 children living there now the playground is a necessity.

Foreign Tongues Lose Favor With Students

"Unilingualism" is definitely on the upswing in American colleges, according to a statement by Dr. Thomas Gabbert, who clarified yesterday, explaining that this merely means that foreign language enrollment has dropped off.

Gabbert, foreign language department head at the college, revealed that the condition is more noticeable here because of the many semi-professional courses being offered having no foreign language requirements.

Adding to the latter reason, Gabbert stated that many students here are planning to transfer to other colleges where foreign language requirements are not necessary.

Swing And Cling Held In Aquatic Park Friday

Nostalgic memories will strike the keynote for the informal, sprightly Tri "E" dance on Friday, April 9, in scenic Aquatic Park, George Capanis, Tri-Epsilon president, announced yesterday.

The 8 to 12 festivities, featuring intuitive Larry Cannon and his orchestra, is the third of its nature on the college social calendar this semester, the first college dance to be held in Aquatic Park since 1940, Capanis added.

Tickets for the occasion may be purchased from Tri "E" members and will sell at $1.80 a couple.

As far as Tri "E" officials can establish, this is the first and last time that any college group may utilize Aquatic Park's facilities.

CAB Votes Down Amendment Asking A.S. Membership

By a two-thirds majority vote, the Club Advisory Board, at a meeting held April 2, defeated the amendment to the CAB constitution which would make it compulsory for all campus organizations to be made up of 100 per cent Associated Student card holders.

The amendment to CAB by-laws, stating that members this semester must be AS card holders holds, however.

Alpha Delta Epsilon, the Ski Rams, College Christian Fellowship, Chinese Students Club, Cosmopolitan Club, Forum Club, and the American Veterans Committee, clubs among those suspended several weeks ago, were approved and are now official college organizations.

Two new clubs, the Glee Club and the Drama Society, were not voted upon, but are expected to be accepted and put on probationary status soon.

Mel Dykman, president of CAB, urged all those clubs still on suspension to submit their completed forms showing AS members and faculty sponsor as soon as possible, in order that they may be approved.

Approved organizations may meet on campus.

Informal Hop Invades Aquatic Park Tonight

Climaxing the pledge program and introducing an active social calendar for the semester, Tri Epsilon will open the doors of secluded Aquatic Park ballroom tonight for its informal, "Remember When," George Capanis, Tri Epsilon president, announced yesterday.

With nostalgic music setting the scene for the relaxing occasion from 8 to 12, the first of its kind to be staged in Aquatic Park since 1940 will swing into rhythm to the music of Larry Cannon and his orchestra, featuring tunes sweet and swing, old and new. During intermissions the orchestra will present a trio of swing.

"Informality being the keynote of the festivity, escorting stalwarts will not have to sport 'milady' with a bouquet, and street clothes will fit the occasion," Capanis said.

Dance committee chairman Carl Markman stated that admission fee for the sprightly affair will be $1.80 a couple and that tickets may still be purchased today from members of the Tri "E."

Commencement Date Changed To June 19

Commencement exercises previously scheduled for Friday, June 18, have been changed to Saturday, June 19, at 2 p.m. and will take place in Sigmund Stern Grove, 19th Avenue and Sloat Boulevard, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud, announced early this week.

Guest speaker at the exercises will be Dr. Roy Simpson, superintendent of schools for the State of California. He will be followed by a group of student speakers, who have not yet been selected.

Ushers Needed By Civic Opera House

Opportunities to usher at functions at the San Francisco Opera House, the Veterans' Auditorium, and the Civic Auditorium are still available to students of the college, Dean Margaret Dougherty said yesterday.

Men and women are both eligible for this voluntary service, for which there is no monetary reward. The service is continuous and is not dependent on the programs of the Opera House.

Pasadena Awaits Student Leaders

City College will have complete representation at the coming California Junior College Student Government Conferefice to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 15, 16, and 17, Max Call, Associated Student president, revealed yesterday.

Accompanying Call to the conferference which will be held at Pasadena Junior College will be Nancy Wallace, Associated Student vice president; Edward E. Saudys, dean of men, and John J. Brady, assistant dean of men.

Call listed the National Students Association, and power limits of student government as topics the college's representatives will bring up for discussion on the floor of the conference.

"We also plan to look into student card sale methods of other colleges and methods of organizing alumni groups. The latter is a thing I believe has been very useful to other colleges and could be an active group here," Call concluded.

Listening Hour Class To Hear The Three B's

Continuing with the great musical works of all nations, students enrolled in the Listening Hour at 1 o'clock Tuesday and Thursday this week will hear the compositions of German composers Bach, Beethoven and Brahms.

Gertrude Norgard, instructor of the course, has pointed out the integration of national folk songs into symphonies of Russia, Hungary, Finland, Norway and Spain.

All students of the college are welcome. The purpose of the music hour is to acquaint those interested with the works of the masters, Mrs. Norgard added.

French Song Idol Expected Here

Possible appearance of Jean Sablon, internationally famed French singer at today's college-hour rally, was revealed by John Pifer, rally commissioner here, early this week.

Pifer stated that though the famous Frenchman may not be able to appear if previous engagements have been made, there is a "fifty-fifty chance" that he will be able to perform at the rally which is to be held in the west campus auditorium, during today's college hour.

Rotary Club Offers Financial Aid To Eligible Students

Eligible students can now obtain loans through the courtesy of the Rotary Club of San Francisco, provided they meet certain qualifications, Edwin C. Cranston, Alpha Gamma Sigma honor society adviser, announced yesterday.

Listing scholastic standing and financial need as basic prerequisites for the loans, Cranston added that any student should have a recommendation from the college also if he wishes to apply for the loan.

The loans have certain limitations, not exceeding $500 per semester for one individual and the total for one year will not exceed $1,000.

Terms of the agreement specify that the sum borrowed must be returned to the Rotary Club within a period of three years after the completion of the loanee's college education.

Further aid to the students taking advantage of the club's service will be in the form of one Rotarian to be assigned to each borrowing student as an adviser.

Cranston concluded, stating that this service is part of Rotary Club plans to foster friendly relations between local business men and the business and professional men of tomorrow.

Huddleston Predicts Welfare Group Action

Revealing yesterday that as yet no definite plans have been made for the welfare committee, Beverly Huddleston, committee head, predicted that action will soon begin pending a "go ahead" from Max Call, Associated Student president.

The committee, designed to aid students financially, has had an outstanding record for achievement in the past, and according to Miss Huddleston, will make every effort to make the future as brilliant as the past.

Surprise Decision Of CAB Cancels AS 'Must' Threat For Club Members

Attitudes of delegates to the Club Advisory Board regarding compulsory purchase of Associated Student cards by members of recognized campus clubs have almost completely reversed, Mel Dykman, CAB president, stated today.

He pointed out the fact that the amendment to the CAB constitution which would make AS card purchase a permanent rule for membership in any college club, voted down at the April 2 meeting, was a complete surprise, both to him and to Jack Brady, faculty adviser to the group.

Said Dykman, "Had we (CAB officials) known that the prevailing sentiment was so against the move, the amendment would never have been introduced in the first place."

At earlier meetings the vote was unanimously for the motion to amend both the by-laws and the constitution.

Only two clubs, Phi Beta Rho and the Latin American Club, have not complied as yet with the rules, Dykman concluded.

Hostess Class Plans Downtown Field Trip

Students in the college hostess class will embark on a field trip today to various stores in the city, including Nathan Dohrmann's and Gump's, so that they may better study various kinds of china, silverware, and glassware, Frances Mount, home economics instructor, stated recently.

The next affair planned by this class, according to Miss Mount, is a baby shower to be held next week.

Among other activities on their full schedule, Miss Mount added, will be a foreign dinner, and a dinner to be held for men faculty members.

Coaching To Be Given For Speaking Contest

Coaching instruction for students wishing to enter the sixth annual Junior College Public Speaking Contest of California is being offered by Claude A. Shull and his associate instructors of speech, according to a report made by Shull today.

Eliminations in order to gain a finalist to represent City College in the contest are scheduled to begin Wednesday, April 21.

Those interested in participating in the contest are invited to interview Dr. Shull in Room 319.

College Hour Offers Top Local, Pro Talent

After viewing rally entertainers, John Pifer, rally commissioner, took an optimistic view in predicting that the rally due to take place in the west campus auditorium today will be one of the best rallies yet staged.

Pifer said that barring any unforeseen accidents, Bunny Peters and his Combo, who are known for their wonderful jazz music in and around San Francisco, will be present to give with the "hot" music.

Other headliners scheduled to take bows for their performances, Pifer said, are the following:

Jack Jones, to be remembered for his lead role in the late college play Our Town, who will present a comical skit and satire on the life and struggles of Max Call, associated student body president.

Dave Huenergardt, who also had a big part in the production Our Town, presenting a March of Time satire designed to entertain and amuse.

Also in line to present skits and music, are Roy Barnett and the City College quartet respectively; they are both familiar names to students of the college.

Three Act Fantasy Stars Instructor

Berkeley Square, John Balderston's three act drama scheduled to open here next Thursday, will have an authentic touch to its English accent and pronunciation.

The title, as it appears, is misleading, especially to people in the Bay Area, since the Englishman's way of saying it is "Barclay Squure."

The play, directed by Bill Culver of the drama faculty, will run five evenings, April 15 through 21, and one matinee, Thursday, April 15.

Dialogue in the play will be the real thing in the lead part. Paul Ellison, instructor who is to play the important role, will not need to acquire the proper English accent; he was born and schooled in England.

Ellison has studied at Cambridge University and received his degree there. Acting started him in a small stock company, where, after three months, he was discovered and asked to play the lead with the Birmingham, England, Repertory Theatre.

As the lead, in Berkeley Square, he will portray Peter Standish, a young American archaeologist, who becomes obsessed with the fantasy that he is his own grandfather, living in the Eighteenth century in England and loving a girl of that era.

Forum Advance Ticket Sale Closed Today

The advance ticket sale for Forum will come to an end today, Marvin Silverman, editor, announced this morning.

Forum staff members, who have kept the sale at an intense peak all this week, will turn in their receipts this afternoon, and in the event any tickets are still unsold they will be available to any late purchaser at the student bank.

Silverman was very optimistic regarding the literary content of Forum this year and said that if early contributions were any indication the magazine would be superior in every respect to issues of previous years.

All contributors are advised that their offerings must be submitted by April 30 to faculty advisers Dorothy Mercer, John Ross, or John Gerstung, or to Silverman or Bert Hale, art editor. Contributions may be also sent to Room 251 or Room 4K.

Final Date For Drop Slips Drawing Near

All students who intend to drop classes must have their drop slips completely filled out and filed in the registrar's office on or before Wednesday, April 14, according to Mary Jane Learnard, registrar.

"Students should not wait until the last minute to complete their drop slips for advisers will be rushed, and slips will not be accepted late," Miss Learnard warned.

Today's Rally Offers Local College Talent

The program for today's rally offers City College students the first introduction to the efforts and accomplishments of the Talent Placement Bureau, John Pifer, rally commissioner, said recently.

The bureau is active here again for the first time in several semesters and is directed by Roy Barnett.

The purpose of the organization is to make the best use of the local college talent, and to provide entertainment for hospitals and high schools as well as college activities.

Band Uniform Problem Tackled By Council

Passing two of the remaining three items, the Student Council has presently tabled the budget and turned its attention toward supplying uniforms for the college band.

Committee chairman John Pifer reported to the council the findings of his group regarding downtown stores donating band uniforms, playfully adding, "It will cost us a dollar for a license to beg in the city."

After giving a vote of thanks to Pifer, the council moved that his committee continue its efforts, reporting again in 10 days.

While the Handbook budget of $600 was postponed pending band uniform action, the WAA's $150 budget was passed after minor inquiries.

Vet's Income Ruling Remains Unchanged

Regulations governing income which a veteran may earn exclusive of GI subsistence remain unchanged, according to the college VA office her.

Veterans without dependents are allowed a total income of $175 per month and those with dependents are allowed total income not exceeding $200 in any month. Total income means subsistence checks plus earnings from part time employment, the office points out.

Communism In America? Consider The Case Of The Vet Wage Ceiling

A RAISE in subsistence pay of $10 a month for single veterans and $15 for married vets would ordinarily be a signal for considerable rejoicing.

Yet there will be no mad dancing around a campus Maypole about it; in fact, hardly a murmur has been heard to the effect.

Ironically enough there are many veterans attending college under the GI Bill, particularly married ones, who will actually regret the raise, as it will force them to revise their working hours considerably on part-time jobs.

It mustn't be forgotten that the same old ceiling will still apply to those working while attending college. The joker is still there, in small print: no single student can earn more than $175 per month and no married student may earn more than $200 each month.

This law reads like something that might have been legislated elsewhere than in Washington, D. C.; say Moscow? Under analysis, the ceiling provision doesn't smack of socialism but communism in pure form.

Congress and the Veterans Administration are not only punishing the majority for the actions of a small minority (the ceiling went into effect to stop cases of chiseling in the on-the-job program) but are laying down an important duty.

There is no reason why any man should be stripped of his earning power, whether he is attending school or not. If any veteran attending college today can work four hours a day and more, and still meet scholastic standards, he should be allowed, along with every other free citizen in the country, to make all the money he can.

If any veteran fails to meet scholastic requirements, the VA should immediately cut off his subsistence allowance.

It is not within the realm of the Veterans Administration's power, NOR the Congress of the United States, it should be added, to throttle the earning power of any citizen of America.

Letters to the Editor

• Smokers Burn Guilfoyle

Editor The Guardsman:

Is it not true that laws were made to be enforced and that people are not to go along with the slogan "Laws are made to be broken"? Is it not true that the people who make laws are supposed to enforce those laws they make? Then why is it that the faculty fails to see this point, and do something to help the Judiciary Force of the college enforce the laws?

I may be wrong, and that it is only the "high command" that makes laws and sees that they are enforced and the faculty instructors have nothing to do with it. Instructors are seen every day smoking in their classes, and setting a bad example to the students and in my eyes seem to make the smoking rules of the "high command" appear foolish.

Why is it that the students of the college make themselves seem ignorant and incompatible as students by smoking in the halls, and smoke right beneath signs saying, "Smoking is prohibited in this area"?

Why not just go along and let everything slide, and the devil take the hindmost? Rules, regulations and laws were made for just this principle, so that there may not be lawlessness within a free nation.

Pied Piper Of Ramland Plays 'Flute' For Rallies

Guitar Playing Politico Heads Commission; Ramland Skits, Sharp Dialogue Ape Bob Hope

By Ann Land

If rally commissioner John Pifer, spotlighted today for service to the college, gets his way, future rallies at the college will be made interesting enough to draw even the most rabid pinball player away from the corner sandwich shop.

"The duties of a rally commissioner are varied and many. First he must find a group of assistants that boast of some theatrical merit, and then produce a blue print bearing the rally theme and rough plans for the entertainment," Pifer disclosed.

Pifer, with the help of some experienced assistants, has planned a series of programs consisting of skits, and augmented the acts with some sharp dialogue having to do with personalities and situations in and about Ramland. The first such program of this semester will be presented today.

The committee then goes to work —writing the script, which when completed, usually after several weeks, bears a slight resemblance to that of Bob Hope's.

Pifer then distributes the roles of master of ceremonies, songsters, and actors among the available talent, and with a few rehearsals the rally is ready for presentation.

Formerly a guitar playing bandleader, Pifer is not a novice at planning shows.

At present a pre-legal major, Pifer has pipedreams about delving into politics after graduation this spring, and feels that the experience he is getting as head of the rally commission will stand him in good stead when he pursues his profession.

Pifer feels that anything lying in with the interest of the people is synonymous with politics.

Going along with his feeling for politics, the rally commissioner, who is a member of the student president's cabinet takes a very active part in discussions at the meetings of the Student Council.

JOHN PIFER, Rally Commissioner, like the Piper of Hamlin, is at his best when dreaming up an entertainment program such as will be presented at today's rally.

• Masonic Club: All members are urged to attend meeting today during the college hour. "Applications may be obtained from Room 4D by anyone with Masonic affiliations wishing to join.

• Zeta Chi: A joint meeting will be held with the Block SF at the home of Barbara Hendrikson, 579 Miramar Drive.

• Delta Psi: There will be an initiary service, Tuesday, April 13 at the home of Marianne Stewart, 1386 31st Avenue. Martha Scott, club adviser, will receive her pin.

• Gamma Phi Ypsilon: The dance committee has met and formulated plans for the forthcoming dance to be held Saturday, May 1. The plans will be presented at the meeting to be held this evening.

Galaxy Of Stars To Be Seen In New Dome (Not From Hollywood)

By Doug Johnson

All stars between latitudes 20 degrees south and 90 degrees north may soon be the property of the college for the nominal fee of $500, the biggest bargain since the acquisition of the Louisiana Territory.

Fifteen hundred stars will trace their courses across the dome of the college observatory at the touch of a button, according to Louis Berman, college astronomy instructor, if plans to purchase a miniature planetarium are approved by school authorities.

"Of course, the sun, moon and planets would cost a little extra," the genial Berman explained, "but we can do a lot with 1500 stars, if it's purchased, it'll be used for instruction in astronomy and navigation, and will also be of educational value to students throughout the city."

Designed by Armand Spitz, lecturer at the Fels Planetarium in Philadelphia, the projector weighs only 25 pounds. Recently, Spitz demonstrated the machine at the college before President Archibald Cloud.

"Dr. Cloud seemed quite enthusiastic about it," beamed Professor Berman.

Several of these models are now in use at various colleges throughout the United States, Berman stated. The East Bay Astronomical Society in Oakland is displaying one at the Chabot Observatory.

"Acquisition of this planetarium would stimulate interest in the large planetarium now being considered for construction at Golden Gate Park under the auspices of the California Academy of Sciences," he declared.

Netmen Venture To Stockton Tomorrow

With inclement weather proving to be their toughest foe thus far this season, the Ram racketeers will open up shop again tomorrow when they journey to Stockton for another attempt at hi-jacking a conference match.

To date, the boys with the most impressive showings on the courts have been number one singlesman Herb Suhr, who looks like the type who will have a hard time losing; and Ed Jacobson, who has come through fast and won himself the number two spot on the squad.

Also in the select group are Bill Covall and Frank Reed, who after suffering late starts due to injury and illness are regaining their winning ways of last year; Bob Sockolov, on the improve all season and still giving everyone a bitter battle for a top singles spot; and Fred Rodgers, a fine prospect who should develop into a fairly consistent winner for Coach Tom Wilson's gang.

Pairings for the doubles killings are top men Suhr and Jacobson in the first attack, with Rodgers and Reed finishing up the job in the final effort of the day.

If the courts and weather are favorable for the job, the Rams ought to horn the Tiger-Cubs.

WAA Participates In Santa Rosa Playday

First intersectional Women's Athletic Association playday will be held tomorrow at the Santa Rosa Junior College, Barbara Combs, WAA president, said yesterday.

The WAA is sending one softball team, two badminton singles and doubles, four archers, one volleyball team, two tennis doubles, and two ping pong doubles to represent the college.

Registration will be at 9:30, and the games will be played from 10 to 12:30.

Rams Meet Mariners, Cubs In Track Meet

Jim Jensen and his twenty-six amphibious cindermen try it again tomorrow, when they pick up and pack off to Stockton in a determined effort to overcome (1) the weather, and (2) Marin and Stockton Colleges in that order. The balloon goes up at 2 p.m.

The weather, by far the biggest nuisance the Rams have encountered yet this season has the Jensenmen worried more than the meet itself. Stockton and Marin are not expected to do much more than show up, while a wet track would be another stumbling block for the city lads to overcome in their effort to whip themselves into some kind of condition.

The two east-bay schools had nothing in the way of serious competition last season, and in the case of Stockton, which dropped a 102-26 dilly to the Rams, it shouldn't be much more than something to do on a Saturday afternoon.

Marin, while reaching the millennium with their great basketball squad, wallows in the opposite extreme in regard to track and field. They had absolutely nothing last year, and the status quo is much the same this season.

Coach Ralph Hillsman Lists Golf Schedule

Golf mentor Ralph Hillsman today released the following schedule for his putters in preparation for their showing in the official NCJCC tourney slated for May 28-29.

The golf schedule follows:

April 16, Menlo J.C. at Menlo; April 23, S.F. State at Harding Park; April 30, Menlo J.C. at Harding Park; May 7, Modesto-San Mateo, in a triangular meet at Modesto; May 14, San Mateo J.C. at San Mateo; May 21, San Mateo J.C. at Harding Park; May 28-29, All-conference tourney at Modesto.

Spring Rains Postpone Scheduled Ball Tilts

April showers bring May flowers, but April showers also bring postponed baseball games, as was the case of the Ram-Santa Rosa J.C. tilt scheduled for last Tuesday on the Ocean View diamond.

The local nine, undefeated in their first two games of the season, travel north to Santa Rosa tomorrow afternoon to meet the Cubs on their home field. Tall, 6 ft. 5 in. Hal Flinn will get the call for Ram mound duty.

The postponed game will be rescheduled later at a date favorable to both teams.

From all appearances, this year's pennant chase looks to be a wide open affair, with several teams having a good chance to bring home 1948 honors.

Although not as strong as last season's championship squad, San Francisco rates a strong contender along with Santa Rosa, Vallejo and Salinas. The Cubs are loaded with returning veterans, while the latter two clubs are well balanced defensively and offensively.

Local coach Bill Fischer stated recently, "We don't have the team we did last season, but if we take advantage of all the breaks, we may come in first again."

Although the hitting has not been up to par, Fischer's main concern has been with his slightly erratic infield, who have contributed 15 miscues in two games.

College Mermen Bow To St. Mary's Gaels

After losing their first two swimming meets the Ram mermen go after their first triumph this afternoon when they meet the Grant Tech Bearcats in North Sacramento.

Failing dismally against the St. Mary's Gaels last week the college team is eagerly awaiting a chance for victory today.

Coach Jim Jensen's swimming squad does not contain the material to win the conference championship but the team should win its share of games.

Intra Volleyball Entries Due Today

Additional volleyball entries will not be accepted after today, intramural mentor, Tom Wilson, announced yesterday. All last minute enthusiasts should hustle down to the men's gymnasium today and turn in their applications.

All men students who have entered in the intramural tennis, ping pong, horseshoes, and badminton sports should watch the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium for the schedule of play.

Intramural boxing entries are also now open for all eligible men students. Applications will be accepted in the men's gymnasium by Wilson and boxing coach Roy Diederichsen.

In the American League cage play, the Ramblers crushed the Question Marks, 62-26.

3 Ram Boxers Selected For Olympic Tryouts

Three highly-touted pugilists, John Fisher (112), Carl Hoyos (120), and Jim Wilson (155), will enter the 1948 Olympic Games District tryouts, Roy Diederichsen, boxing coach, announced today.

These boys will compete against Amateur Athletic Union and Golden Glove enthusiasts at the amateur trials to be held June 1, 2, and 3.

The boxing team ended the season with impressive victories over the California Reserves, 10-3; Santa Clara Varsity, 8-6; and United States Maritime School, 8-0; tying Stanford, 4½-4½. Their only loss was to San Jose State, 13½-10½.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

PLAYING the part of the sand man, the usually spirited sessions of the student council turned into a prelude to the sleep song at Tuesday's "sack time" get-together, when little was done in the way of arguments, counter charges and plain oratorical banter.

Even explosive Bob Reilly, the "not-so-great dissenter," failed to stir the council out of its spring lethargy.

Ripping Robert did seemingly manage to say that the council is divided into a two party faction. Jack Hurley, minority leader, yawned in agreement.

Frank (I've got a plan) Ferguson drew a couple of laughs when he wondered if the delegates from other colleges would get a chance to have anything placed on the agenda, after listening to Nancy Wallace, student vice president, outline the points that she intended to bring up at the California Conference at Pasadena next week end.

Miss Wallace's suggestions were plentiful and well thought out.

Even Money Talk Fails

A little discussion, however, did arise over one of the final issues on the budget, that of appropriating money for the Women's Athletic Association.

Reilly failed to see why one particular item of $25 should be used for a banquet that the WAA was going to give.

Jack Hurley urged passage of the funds, adding, "Why quibble over $25 . . ."

Reilly countered that the money could be used for the publicity fund.

Surprisingly enough shy Helen Rich counter-countered by claiming that the WAA banquet would be publicity as high school kiddies would be the ones that would attend.

For a change Reilly was satisfied, the motion carried, and every one went back to counting sheep.

Brady Blushes

During the course of this discussion, President Max (Call me Whiffenpoof) Call proclaimed in a staid Senator Claghorn voice that all these banquets draw their share of "deadheads." Whiff clarified by saying that "deadheads" were persons who showed up at eating sessions just for the chow.

A comedian in the back row came forth with a drawn out whispering voice, that said, "B-r-a-d-y."

After the laughter had died down, Handsome Jack, the industrious dean, offered a mild sarcastic, "thanks."

Next on the agenda was Call wishing Ken Brown, frosh councilite, a happy birthday. Brown reached 20 summers on Tuesday.

A rendition of "happy birthday to you" rang from Room 4D.

Forum Rumor

The hottest rumor sweeping down from Forum Magazine's editorial board claims that a new innovation will take place this issue. Seems the opening pages will be something on the order of the New Yorker, with that type of material directed toward City College campus life.

Following that, the next article is supposed to be the best short story available, which all sounds like a good idea.

Pre '35 Models Take Foldo Comes June 30

City College "hot rods" will be faced with a new difficulty when June 30 rolls around.

According to the latest "poop" coming out of Sacramento, the State legislature has made it mandatory that all autos on the road after that date must be at least covered by public liability insurance.

Reports show that automobiles earlier than the '35 models at present have astronomical insurance rates.

Lambda Alpha Holds Initiation Meeting

Ten new members were initiated into Lambda Alpha, the music scholastic honor society of the college, at a meeting held last Sunday afternoon.

Gloria Orzanco, presiding officer, initiated Louise Hamilin, Frances Askam, Geraldine O'Sullivan, Gwen Trudeau, and Pat Patterson to full membership in the society for scholastic achievement.

Anthony Cuevas, Pete Boghosin, Robert Coom, Roy Burt and Marjery Manderville received associate membership for outstanding performance in the past.

Newly elected to executive posts in the organization are Manuel Soto, president; Marie Hasky, vice president; Dolores Jonson, secretary, and Miss Askam, CAB representative.

Parent organization of the City College society is at Modesto Junior College. The ceremony marked the first anniversary of organization of the local chapter.

Block SF Plan Rally, Dance For More Funds

Hoping to raise funds for traveling expenses of the various college teams, Bill Bahr, Block SF president, announced that a three hour rally and dance will be presented in the west campus auditorium next Tuesday, April 13 from 2 to 5 in the afternoon.

Explaining that the student council had slashed a considerable amount from the athletic budget, Bahr has organized this rally in conjunction with rally committee and the athletic department as a prelude to the semi-annual Block SF dance that will take place next Friday night in the auditorium.

Admission to the dance will be 50 cents with AS card, 75 cents without.

City College Nine Awarded NCJC CUP

About to receive the trophy which marks the City College nine as the baseball champions for the NCJC Conference for the years 1946 and 1947, is Zane Kaplan who admires the coveted cup held by President A. J. Cloud.

Looking on at the extreme left is half of Jack Brady, assistant dean of men; to Dr. Cloud's right: J. Paul Mohr, City College vice president and commissioner of athletics for the conference since 1932.

Dr. Mohr, commenting on the winning City College team, stated, "This strong, well-balanced team is one of the most outstanding we have ever witnessed in 15 years of following baseball in this area."

The victorious diamondmen captured the trophy from Santa Rosa Junior College.

TWO YEARS is a long time to wait for presentation of a baseball trophy, but President A. J. Cloud, holding the trophy, and Vice-President J. Paul Mohr aren't complaining. The "half" of Assistant Dean Jack Brady and baseballer Zane Kaplan probably have already decided that the 1948 Ram nine will retain the championship.

Tomorrow Is Last Day For Dropping Classes

Emphasizing that tomorrow is the last day to drop classes, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, added that all students intending to drop a course must do so in plenty of time to clear the records before the second mid-term.

Classes dropped after tomorrow will receive an "F" final grade for the semester, according to Miss Learnard.

The college registrar added that the second mid-term examination period is April 26 through 30.

Council Beats Move To Punish AGS

An attempt to penalize Alpha Gamma Sigma, scholastic honor society, by denying them $50 to send a representative to the junior college conference at Pasadena, was squelched during an explosive Student Council meeting Thursday.

AGS came into the firing line because it was one of twelve organizations to vote against a by-law of the CAB constitution. This by-law stated that all college clubs must have 100 per cent Associated Student membership.

The honor society, with 60 members, had met this requirement, it was pointed out by council supporters of the organization.

The proposal to deprive Alpha Gamma Sigma of the $50, was advanced by a minority group in the council, was argued down on the appeal that a recognized organization cannot be punished for its ways of thinking.

Tentative Plans For Merchandising Movies

Free movies concerned with selling will be presented to classes of merchandising if the films are found suitable and if a room large enough to show them in is available, according to Virginia Gohn, instructor of merchandising at City College.

Miss Gohn also stated that perhaps the entire student body will be invited to attend these films.

Library Inventory Now In Progress

Library inventory designed to ascertain the number of books on hand and to estimate the number needed for replacement now under way, Clement E. Skrabak, library assistant, announced yesterday.

This project, which will continue through June, gives students a chance to become familiar with the book arrangement and offers valuable job experience, Skrabak pointed out.

Several students have volunteered an hour or two of their free time to help with this project and find it definitely educational, Skrabak said.

Any student having a free hour to donate is invited to spend it helping with this work, and any hour is acceptable except the hours of 11 and 2, Skrabak said.

Student organizations or individuals wishing to donate some of their free time during the next three months should leave their names at the library, located in the third floor in the main building.

Choir Schedules Three Outside Appearances

A rigid rehearsal schedule for the Vagabond King will limit the engagements of the college choir for the next six weeks, Flossita Badger, instructor, explained today.

Appearances have been cut to three Sunday performances at Letterman Hospital, Sunday, April 25, a concert at the college during Public Schools Week, Wednesday, April 28, and a performance at the N.C.J.C. Music Festival, in which the choir always participates, scheduled Monday, May 3, at San Jose State College.

The choir members also voted tentatively to postpone an off-campus concert, until after The Vagabond King presentation.

Call, Wallace Seek Answers To Usual College Problems

Plans are in complete order for City College's representation at the coming California Junior College Student Government Conference to be held at Pasadena Junior College, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, April 15, 16, and 17, Max Call, Associated Student president, disclosed yesterday.

Other delegates at the meeting also are Nancy Wallace, Associated Student vice president, and Edward E.Sandys, dean of men, and John J. Brady, assistant dean of men.

The conference is designed as a meeting at which the two-year colleges of the state can discuss problems of student government and solutions to those problems which have been successful.

Adding to the above general theme, Call stated that City College's problems are by no means unique, and, in view of this, he hopes to apply the experiences of others to solution of local problems.

"Local problems," listed by Call, include such things as the actual limits of student government, methods of organizing strong alumni groups, and the ever-pressing problem of boosting Associated Student card sales.

Recalling last semester's conference, held here under the leadership of Trev Burrow, past president of the group, Call said:

"We owe part of the success of our name change to facts brought to light at that meeting."

CAB Membership Law In Effect This Spring

Recent defeat of an amendment to the Club Advisory Board constitution does not change the Associated Student membership requirement for this semester, Mel Dykman, CAB president, asserted today.

The amendment to the by-laws, repassed at the same meeting which saw the defeat of the constitutional amendment, and having the same provisions, will be in effect throughout this present semester, he added.

"By-law and constitution are not to be confused," Dyqman said. "To pass an amendment to the constitution, which is permanent, requires a two-thirds vote, while to amend the by-laws, effective only during the semested in which it is introduced, needs but a majority."

A meeting of CAB is scheduled for Friday, April 16, during college hour.

Watson Notes Co-Operation At Fountain; Loss Of Critical Serviceware Declines

More cooperation by those who patronize the fountain in regard to loss and breakage of silver and chinaware has been noticed of late, Hilda Watson, director of the Hotel and Restaurant, announced today.

"We have found that fewer supplies have been needed from the storeroom in the morning to open the foundtain," Mrs. Watson said.

"This mean that the students are realizing that unless there is more consideration given to the fountain supplies, the fountain will be forced to cease serving food in breakable containers. This will necessitate curtailment of service in the snack-bar."

She further stated that paper cups could be had by those who wish to take coffee out of the fountain.

This will mean a saving in the washing of dirty dishes and will save much china from loss and breakage.

An added disadvantage of broken cups in the parking area is that a few students complained of badly slashed tires, because of fragments of china on the ground.

Authorities Cite Misuse As Reason For Issuing Edict

In a direct move designed to curb student abuse of the student lounge, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, ordered the lounge closed for one week starting at 10 a.m. last Friday morning.

"Numerous warnings have been given the students relative to their use of the lounge. These warnings have embodied requests for more considerate treatment of the physical properties, as well as requests for discontinuance of activities which distract from the restful atmosphere of the room, which should make a lounge appealing to students," Brady said in a statement to The Guardsman.

The assistant dean continued, adding, "Since these warnings were issued, violations of the rules governing use of the student lounge have continued.

"The administration has therefore decided to close the lounge as a disciplinary measure."

Brady declared the west campus library in the student lounge would not be affected by this action.

Combo Rally, Dance From 2 To 5 Today

The west campus auditorium will be host to the combination rally and dance this afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, Bill Bahr, Block SF president, announced late yesterday.

Entertainment and dancing highlight this three hour program, designed to raise additional funds to supplement the slashed track and tennis budget, Bahr said.

Entertainment for the affair will be furnished through the talent placement bureau.

Proceeds gained in this affair will go to help purchase new uniforms and equipment, the Block SF president added.

Berkeley Square, Stage Fantasy, To Open This Thursday

By Dale Butterfield

Departing from the college type plays, City College's Little Theatre Group will return to old English days with their first staging, Thursday, April 15, of John Balderston's authentic three act drama, Berkeley Square, starring English-schooled instructor Paul Ellison as Peter Standish.

Director Bill Culver, who will stage the great fantasy five evenings in "Hilltop" Room 28, April 15, 16, 19, 20, 21, will present one matinee on Friday, April 16 at 1 p.m., and not on Thursday, April 15, as previously announced in The Guardsman.

Ellison, starring as Peter Standish of 1781, finds that he is a descendant of the Old Standishes, and when he returns to Berkeley Square, he shows great admiration for Sir John Reynolds' portrait because it looks so much like himself.

As Standish of 1781, a young American archaeologist, he makes a portrait of himself which looks like Reynolds, and even though several incidents reveal that he has lived in the 1928 era, he doesn't want the people to know it.

Other members of the cast are Jack Lewis as Tom Pettigrew, Evelyn Hickey as Lady Anne Pettigrew, Mary Ann Stewart as Kate Pettigrew, Standish's supposed wife of the future era, and Mary Cooke as Helen Pettigrew.

Jo Ann Setlow appears as Duchess of Devonshire, Arthur Charnes as Duke of Cumberland, John Mix as Major Clinton, and Lorin Paulsen as Ambassador, Pete Boghosin as Throstle, Mary Ann Bagett as Mrs. Barwick, Lois Henderson as Miss Barrymore, Pat Paulsen as Lord Stanley, and Carolyn Glasnow as Marjorie Frant.

The Englishman's pronunciation of Berkeley Square is "Barcley Square."

Richardson Represents AGS At Pasadena Meet

Representing the college's chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma, state-wide two-year college honorary scholastic society, William Richardson, president, will attend an all-day conference of Alpha Gamma Sigma presidents, Saturday, April 17, at Pasadena.

Pasadena, whose Alpha chapter is one of the original chapters of the scholastic organization, will play host to some 32 representatives from the 32 chapters of the state organization.

The conference will convene in order to discuss policies and future plans of the organization.

Mildred Wellborn, state secretary of the advisory board of Alpha Gamma Sigma, acts as consultant for representatives.

Clubs Plan Meetings In Next College Hour

During college hour Friday, April 16, club meetings will take place in rooms which have been permanently assigned to clubs in good standing, John J. Brady, assistant dean, announced earlier this week.

Instructor, Student Star In The Square

Paul Ellison, pictured at left as he appears in twentieth century costume, stars as Peter Standish in John Balderton's authentic three act drama, Berkeley Square, to be presented in "Hilltop" Room 28 five evenings starting this week.

In contrast, to the right is Jo Ann Setlow, garbed in the attire of the 1800's, starring in the drama as Duchess of Devonshire.

Although the two had appeared in costume which is two centuries apart, they star as sweethearts in the play.

The fantasy, to open this Thursday, reveals Peter Standish's return to intriguing Berkeley Square, in England.

Inter Sorority Dance Slated For April 17

French and Empire rooms of the Sir Francis Drake will be the scene of the semi-annual inter-sorority dance, Saturday, April 17, from 9 to 12 o'clock, according to Nancy Wallace, vice president of the Associated Students and chairman of the social affairs committee.

The dance will be an informal affair with the no corsage rule in effect, Miss Wallace said.

Why Wait For Death Or Injury To Stimulate Traffic Regulation?

A PREDICTION: One City College student will be run down by a speeding automobile and killed or injured, within the very next few months, either on the west campus or at the Ocean-Phelan intersection.

Another prediction: there will be much wailing and gnashing of teeth over the tragedy and it will make excellent one-day copy on the front pages of local dailies.

This will be followed by the usual routine investigation into the matter and a promise that "something will be done to avert future tragedies."

. . . Wait until it happens then sit around and cry about it; how many times a year does this act repeat itself in the city?

It will take a very little outlay of money and time to prevent or at least lessen the shock of such a tragedy.

Too, a little quick action right now will forestall the appearance, of a number of conscience-stricken people who will run around mumbling: "I told you so," for a few days after the accident.

The Guardsman does not want to be in the "I told you so" category, and most important, does not want death or injury to a student to be the motivating factor in straightening out the current traffic mess.

Two steps must be taken immediately:

On the west campus more and larger speed limit signs must be placed in prominent spots advertising the legal speed limit. Incidentally, just how many people, drivers especially, are aware that 10 miles per hour is the maximum speed permitted on the campus?

At the Ocean and Phelan Avenues intersection a stop sign—not just an arterial stop—must, and should be, erected.

When one considers the fact that between Alemany Boulevard and Sloat Boulevard, a distance of nearly one-half mile, there are no stop signs, it is little wonder that cars have been clocked at 40 to 50 miles an hour in going past this intersection.

Is the price of a few signs too steep to pay for death prevention?

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: This little "miscalculation" was born when the City College's medical society, Pi Mu Gamma, almost (but not quite) covered an XGI poster in the student fountain with one of their own. The Abortive result of this combination now reads: "Pi Mu Gamma presents The Birth of Quadruplets." (and below), "Keep Up on Veterans Affairs."

(Comment: If you don't see the humor in that item. 1. Read the sign for yourself. 2. Go to your classes instead of playing hearts; you may learn something. 3. Have a long talk with your parents.)

Read-It Here and Be on the Inside Dept.: The Soothsayer, a fourth (rate) page column you may have read, gives only half the story on student councilite Ken Brown's 20th birthday. The full story (remember, you read it here first) is a little (just a little) more interesting. Seems that artistic Money (that's my right name) Hickman and other Bldg. 13 buddies of honest Ken threw a little party for the lad that touched Ken's heart so much that his eyes became glazed with emotion. So much so, that he couldn't focus 'em! (Managing Ed. note: Hulse, you're through.)

(Comment: This kindly act rates the Chocolate Covered Ram, but we can't pass out any of the chewy confection because of inflation. Ram is on the lam!)

College is More Than Knowledge Dept.: Please don't read this item, we use it just to take up space, BUT we overheard the following enlightening discussion in the west campus library that may interest you.

Seems the librarian, complimenting a studious young man on his choice of books, commented thusly: "You know, most people don't know what to look for when they come in here. They always go out emptyhanded. Ha, ha." (Swell!)

(Comment: Maybe the library lady was serious. In that case it is necessary to clear the matter up for newcomers and social butterflies. We've got news for you, Buster. The best thing there is books.

Straight from the Ram's Mouth: Grid Coach Grover (the rover) Klemmer, MAY rove again, this time to Follywood whose talent scouts are exploring Darkest California for a new Tarzan, but wise money says no.

Student Heads Armed For Conference

Pasadena Confab Highlights Activities Of Ram Heads

By Herbert Bishop

Journeying to Pasadena, Thursday, April 15, Max R. Call and Nancy Wallace will represent City College at the California Junior College Student Conference.

Call and Miss Wallace, spotlighted here today as president and vice-president of the Associated Students, will present questions to the conference, and bring back the answers that will apply to the situation here.

Foreign Students Question

At the head of Call's list of questions is one concerning the final authority over associated student government in other colleges.

Miss Wallace wants to know what is being done to unite the activities of foreign students, in this country on student visas, with those who are residents here.

Call expects to pick up several bits of information at the conference for a workable unified student government. He cited last semester's conference as an example of work done in these meetings. "We were instructed in colige name change procedure. And," he added, "our name change was completed."

Fall Session Success

This is just one of many instances of service that these two officers give the college and for student government on this campus.

Last year's student conference was held here at City College in the late fall. Call, as publicity chairman at the time, did much to make the candidates' session at the conference enjoyable as well as beneficial.

"He says he has classes from 10 AM through 4 PM, and he always eats at noon."

Movie Demonstrates Silver Techniques

Emerging slowly from a flat square of metal a gleaming, silver bowl took shape before the eyes of art craft instructor Roy Walker's students recently as they witnessed a technicolor movie depicting the steps of the operation.

Margaret Craver, touring the country for the Handy and Harman Art Craft Co. of New York, commented on the movie and lectured on the possibilities of silversmithing.

"This movie is unusual in that it shows the operation from the angle of the worker," she commented.

Recounting her experiences in introducing silversmithing as an occupational therapy in nine commands of the armed forces, Miss Craver remembered she was "amazed at the intricate chain designs worked by blinded veterans."

Of all the materials used in this work, silver turned out to be the cheapest because there is no waste involved, as even the filings can be melted down and used."

Miss Craver is an ex-pupil of King Gustav of Sweden, himself a silversmith of European renown. During the war she did therapy work in London. She has recently returned from Canada where she attended a conference of art metal workers. She returned to New York to the Craft Service Department of the Handy and Harmon Company after a lecture at Mills College where she also displayed a collection of metal work.

Crafty Robespierre Short-Circuits Stairway Mob With Flick Of Stick

By Doug Johnson

An air of old world elegance graced the portals of the college today when the hopefully inscribed facade looked down on Mike St. Robespierre ascending while jauntily flourishing an ivory handled ebony walking stick.

His bosom friend, Jack Lovelocks, who awaited him at the Silver Pole, was there to hale him and exclaim, "Hello, Michael. I see you are jauntily flourishing an ivory-handled ebony walking stick."

Further deduction and sparkling conversation was cut off at that moment when a merry band of students joined hands and settled down for a smoke and a homey chat at the entrance between St. Robespierre and Lovelocks.

This blockade of the main thoroughfare is no phenomenon. Almost daily, several of our nicer co-eds are heard to say, "damn," as they lower their heads to buck the line.

Jack Lovelock's mobile phiz was seen to register amazement as he observed the loungers springing nimbly aside to allow the advent of St. Robespierre and his casually flicking cane.

"Good morning, John," Mike breezily greeted his friend, "slept well, I trust?"

"Not as well as I expect to this morning. And you?"

"I, too, have a lecture impending. Shall we on, old chap?"

The two linked arms and sauntered south to the stairwell where more students took their ease, some draped artistically over the stairs, others chatting gaily at the stairfoot, allowing passage of one student at a time.

Still engaging Lovelocks in casual banter, St. Robespierre nonchalantly flicked the ferule of his stick about, and wherever it touched small blue sparks sputtered from the tip, causing members of the stairway bottleneck society to galvanize into action.

"An heirloom left by a distant ancestor who was once the business agent for Jean LaFitte down in New New Orleans," Mike explained, seeing doubt and uncertainty flicker about Jack's finely chiseled face.

"Originally it contained a 36 inch blade for which I substituted steel dry cells and a needle. Got the idea from a psych prof who said that even so unreasoning a creature as the amoeba can be taught to turn right or left when given electrical stimulus. Solves the problem, what?"

He moved gracefully away leaving Lovelocks to ponder the point of his enigmatic remarks. Lovelocks sat in the middle of the stairs, groping mentally for that elusive moral.

Rams, Panthers In Night Track Opener

The Ram track and field squad, which has been doing everything lately except engaging in track meets, comes up with a loaded date book this afternoon when a rally to be held in their honor at 6 p.m. is topped off with a night meet at Santa Rosa.

The Panthers will try to pick things up with a minimum of speeches and a maximum of first places.

Purpose of the rally will be to acquaint students with a Ram cinder team which could turn out to be top contenders for the NCJCC olive branch if they can ever get rid of their mud spikes and round into condition.

Jim Jensen plans to take the usual 26 men, leaving directly after the rally. It will be the first night meet this season for the Red-and-Whites, and their performance under the lights is not known.

Santa Rosa was not considered to be much of a threat during last season's pennant-race, and with the exception of a man here and there, will return with the same outfit.

Rodgers Sparks Net Win; Yuba Game Next

Boasting an undefeated conference slate, Coach Tom Wilson's netmen journey to Yuba tomorrow in hopes of continuing their winning ways at the expense of the not too potent northerners.

The Rams ran into a true stumbling block last Wednesday in the form of the Menlo Oaks, but a much needed spark supplied by Fred Rodgers at just the right moment pulled the locals from the clutches of defeat.

Rodgers, just recovering from a compound ankle sprain, burned up the court with his hard driving game to score an impressive 6-2, 6-1 victory after Wilson's topmen, Herb Suhr and Ed Jacobson, had gone down to defeat in the initial matches.

Frand Reed tied the count at two all with his win and then Bill Covall set the locals ahead with a sizzling 6-0, 6-1 beauty.

Suhr and Jacobson then combined talents to capture the first doubles match and were followed to the win column by Bob Sockolov and Reed in the next effort.

Rodgers and Reed made a clean sweep of the afternoon's doubles play by copping their match to give the Rams a 6-2 win.

Rains Win; Ram Nine Meets Marin Today

Coach Bill Rischer's title-holding Ram nine, its game with Santa Rosa rained out last Saturday, clashes with Marin College this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at Ocean View diamond.

Three other athletic events, track and tennis with Stockton Junior College, and a Women's Athletic Association sports day with Santa Rosa, were also casualties of uncertain weather Saturday.

Rescheduling of the cancelled events is indefinite.

Hurley Villagers To Be Guest Of WAA

A Family Night, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will be held Wednesday, April 21, in the women's gymnasium, Laurine Bergin, women's physical education director, announced today.

The function will be mainly for the entertainment and pleasure of the veterans and families of Hurley Village.

All students are invited to attend and bring the whole family, right from grandpa to junior, she said.

Activities will be performed by the various classes, and refreshments will be served by the students.

Body Beautiful Klemmer May Tame Apes In Jungle Debut

THE ROVING Guardsman camera catches potential Junglemen Grover Klemmer gazing pensively into space . . . toward the African Veldt, perhaps?

By Roy Pasini

The call of the wild reached the ears of City College's football mentor Grover Klemmer last week in the form of a talent scout in search of a new he-man for the famous role of jungle dwelling Tarzan.

In a statement by the Berkeley Gazette, it was revealed that Johnny Weismuller, current Tarzan, is beginning to age and is tiring of jungle life, so RKO Pathe productions, by way of producer Joe Murton, is on the look out for a new Jungle Lord.

Murton has toured the USC and UCLA campuses in vain, and upon viewing the crop at Cal he decided that all college men were too young and that he would have to turn elsewhere for aid.

It was then that Cal Athletic Director Brutus Hamilton, Klemmer's college track coach, suggested the name of the local blond beauty.

Specifications for this Hlwood dream man call for a blond ranging from 6 ft. 2 to 6 ft. 4, tipping the scales around 200, and between the ages of 25 and 30.

The modest Mr. Klemmer had little to say when interviewed by Murton who, although he believes the Cal four letterman to be a bit too slender and young looking for the part, secured a few photos of the college's choice for a body beautiful ad and sent them on their way south.

Preps To Attend WAA Riding Clinic Friday

High school students will attend a riding clinic, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, Friday, April 16, at the St. Francis Riding Academy, Laurine Bergin announced.

"The purpose of the clinic," Mrs. Bergin said, "is to improve the riding habits and techniques of the students, and to enlighten them as to their riding faults."

East Bay riding experts will be present to give the students constructive criticism, and helpful hints on their riding abilities.

This will be the first coeducational clinic for high school students, with a second scheduled Saturday, May 8, for badminton, in the women's gymnasium here, Mrs. Bergin added.

Ramblers Set Pace In Basketball Race

The Ramblers looked like the team to beat as intramural basketball got into the fifth week of play yesterday afternoon in the men's gymnasium.

Led by Earl Mainick's 17 digits the Ramblers rolled over the Eagles last week 69-48 for their fourth straight league triumph in the American League.

The Eaglions clawed the College Christian Fellowship into submission 56-28 to remain undefeated in the Bush League while the Clams continued to hold the National League lead with three straight victories.

Intramural novice boxing entries still remain open. The weight classifications have been divided into the following nine divisions: 120, 126, 133, 140, 147, 155, 165, 175, and heavyweight.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

IF A STUDENT can maintain a "B" average with a minimum of 15 units for one semester, then he is eligible to join Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college honor society.

In addition to the above requirements, a student must possess an Associated Student card. When Alpha Gamma Sigma, under its able sponsor, Edwin Cranston, applied for recognition to the Club Advisory Board, it had 61 members, each one possessing an Associated Student card.

Under the CAB's ruling, Alpha Gamma Sigma is a chartered campus organization, and consequently privileged, if the need arises, to use Associated Student funds.

Political Pigskin

But when the college honor society is allegedly kicked around as a political football, especially in the student council, then something is reaching a new low.

At the latest session of the student governing board, explosive Bob Reilly, seemingly majority leader in the council, made a motion that a portion of the budget already passed for the Alpha Gamma Sigma be slashed by $50.

Reilly's contention was that the honor society's CAB representative had voted against a CAB proposed amendment to make it mandatory for all organizations to possess 100% Associated Student membership. The amendment was voted down.

The by-law to the constitution requiring 100 per cent membership also received a negative vote from the honor society representative along with eleven other representatives from various chartered organizations.

Brady Brilliant

After much ado, Dean Jack Brady took the floor and declared that when campus organizations comply with all the regulations, then are made to think the same way, then "you might as well pack your bags."

Quickly Councilman George Capanis withdrew his second to Reilly's motion (later admitting that his second was hasty) and moved for adjournment. The meeting folded by a unanimous vote.

Election Reaction

A rumor floating around, branded Reilly's action as a direct disagreement toward William Richardson, Alpha Gamma Sigma president and the representative for the Pasadena state honor society convention. Fifty dollars was designated out of the honor society's budget to send a delegate to Pasadena.

Richardson was the presidential candidate on a student league's ticket, and Reilly is reported to be violently opposed to that particular group.

Nancy Wallace, student vice-president and in opposition to Reilly's views, is ALSO the CAB representative from Alpha Gamma Sigma.

College Tent Show Planned By Campus Club Presidents

Calling for organizational support of a proposed open air "circus" and student dance, Bob Weingardner, Beta Tau president, presented a plan whereby all campus groups would sponsor booths and possibly floats.

Weingardner's suggestion made to the Presidents' meeting last Wednesday night, met with various degrees of approval. Roy Barnett, representing the talent bureau, exclaimed complete enthusiasm with the plan, but differed with Weingardner on his proposal, that a dance in conjunction with the "circus" should be held in the auditorium, rather than in the parking lot.

Byrne Davis, Associated Men's Student president, concurred, but added that the difficulties that must be overcome may prove prohibitive.

"Davis pointed out that in order to hold this outdoor regatta, a tent would have to be appropriated in addition to stringing up lights around the area.

The AMS president emphasized the fact, however, that if all campus organizations got behind this move, the open air "circus" could be a reality.

Further discussion will take place at the next meeting, April 21.

Royal Soph Election Slated For Late June

Patrician women and regal men of the college will compete for the title of sophomore king and queen at the coming Coronation Ball scheduled for June 16, Bill Riley, sophomore president, disclosed today.

Following past procedure, women will cast their votes for male candidates, and the lucky woman candidate will be decided upon by male votes. All candidates will be permitted three to five posters on and off the campus, Riley added.

Public Schools Week Honored By Banquet

City College will pay tribute to Public Schools Week Wednesday, April 28, when a banquet will be given in the cafeteria with President A. J. Cloud, chairman of the Public Schools Week Committee, presiding, according to a statement yesterday by Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president.

"The Public School: Keep It Our Foremost Freedom Train," will be the theme of this year's the 29th annual Public School Week program to be observed in San Francisco from April 26 to May 1, Luckmann added.

Speaker for the evening will be Lloyd Graybeal, citizen committee member for the Public Schools Week.

Festivities will commence with dinner being served in the cafeteria, after which guests will retire to the student lounge in Building 2.

Men's Chorus To Sing At Piedmont High

The College Men's Chorus will give a concert Thursday, April 22, at a Piedmont High School assembly, according to Harold Cunningham, director.

On the program, the chorus will sing a selection of sea chants.

Problem Stage A Snap For Sisler

Director Makes Expert Use Of Inadequate Production Facilities Located On Campus

By John Campiglia

Identification of a college is effected through location of its activities on its own campus.

When queried on this statement, Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor here at the college, seemed to feel, along with Flossita Badger of the music department, that an acute illustration would be the Vagabond King.

The Vagabond King, which will be currently shown under the joint direction of Miss Badger and Sisler, is to appear in May in the west campus auditorium.

"If," they point out, "this production, or any other, for that matter, were to be shown at another college's auditorium, the endeavor would be identified with that college.

"In producing Vagabond King here at the college, we automatically think in terms of identification and how this identification will further our cultural aspects."

The problem of staging on an inadequate stage is Sisler's greatest consideration.

When asked how he would effect necessary changes in the auditorium suitable to the production of the Vagabond King, Sisler smiled broadly and said, gathering verbal support from his hypothetical bag of tricks:

"In spite of the current condition and lack of proper place to stage a production, we find the lack of things with which to work particularly stimulating, as the situation presents a definite challenge to our group.

"I should mention," he remarked, "that we do not find making a place over to fit our needs depressing; to the contrary, we find a sort of elation in ciphering out the problems . . . first, in producing Vagabond King, Miss Badger and I will have to surmount the acoustical elements which are decidedly adverse to our cause.

"We can do this by hanging curtains to baffle the sound, and what escapes will be taken care of by the audience, which will serve also as a muffler. That," he concluded, "neatly takes care of that!"

The Friml light opera, Vagabond King, is scheduled to open Thursday, May 20.

LLOYD SISLER, drama instructor and co-producer of the forthcoming light-opera The Vagabond King, knows every inch of the auditorium stage and makes expert use of the limited space.

Garden Club Enters Oakland Ribbon Race

Various nurseries in the Bay Area are donating plant materials to supplement the Horticulture Society's supply for the Oakland Annual Spring Garden Show to be held April 26 to May 7, according to chairman for the Garden Show arrangements, Rick Rohrmann.

Classified as a College Horticulture Society Garden Club, it will display a garden retreat by a waterfall. The 300 foot exhibit designed by Norman Hanson, student of the landscape division, will feature a patio garden with caseading fuchsias, and terraced azaleas, rhododendrons, primulas and begonias, the student chairman added.

Sororities, Athletes Sponsor Social Events For Weekend

Stage Or Drag Rule In Effect For Athletic Society Affair

The west campus lounge will be the scene for the Spring Frolic, Block SF dance to be held tonight from 8 to 12 o'clock, according to Bill Bahr, block society president.

Paul Law and his orchestra will be on hand to provide the music for those students affluent enough to provide the necessary 75 cents required for admission.

Students who have purchased Associated Student cards, however, will be admitted for the paltry sum of 50 cents, Bahr stated.

The dance will be "stag or drag," and dress will be strictly informal.

This dance is of great importance to the athletes of the college for the proceeds received will be turned over to the Block SF fund which will provide for some badly needed athletic equipment.

From this fund also comes the money with which all gold medal awards to members of championship teams are purchased, Bahr said.

Tulip Time Theme Adapted To Dance At Sir Francis Drake

Featuring Wally Heider and his orchestra, the combined sororities of the city college campus will stage a Tulip Time dance tomorrow night in the French and Empire Rooms of the Sir Francis Drake Hotel from 9 to 12.

According to Dorothy Stoloroff, inter-sorority dance committee chairman, the inter-sorority dance will be an informal affair with the college traditional no corsage rule in effect.

Bids for the dance will be sold at $2 a couple by members of the committee, and members of the six sororities, Kappa Phi, Zeta Chi, Theta Tau, Delta Psi, Alpha Lambda Chi, and Phi Beta Rho. Also bids may be obtained at the door.

Decorations for the affair will carry through the tulip theme by members of the committee, Murney Cunningham, Jean Gibson, Marilee Zimmerman, Marie Upland, Marilyn Gray and Miss Stoloroff, chairman of the committee.

Davis Sits In The President's Chair

Regular Student Council business proceeded with alacrity during Tuesday's session until President Max Call announced his appointment of Byrne Davis, associated men students president, as acting president while Call is in Pasadena.

After rejecting Vice-President Nancy Wallace's motion that the council nominate and elect one of its members only, the council voted, 9 to 5, in favor of Davis.

While Davis listened intently, various council members indulged in a two-fold argument pertaining to the constitutionality of Call's appointment and to the amount of students represented by Davis.

Alumni Association Approaching Reality

Under the direction of Herbert Levy, alumni liaison officer, plans have been formulated to make the embryonic alumni association a reality.

Frank Ferguson, recently appointed alumni committee head, is at present compiling lists of former graduates.

Ferguson urged all organizations that have lists of former students to bring them to Associated Student office, located in Building 2.

The alumni committee head has also issued an urgent call for volunteer typists. Any students interested are asked to report to the student office.

'Cycles Face Towing If Parked On Walks

Owners of motorcycles are warned not to park their machines in any area not specifically designated a parking area, by request of President A. J. Cloud.

"Several 'bikes' have been left on sidewalks adjacent to college buildings and create a danger to pedestrians who may inadvertently jostle them and knock them over," according to Fred McFarland, charge d'affaires of west campus housing.

Recently two such illegally parked bikes had to be removed by college janitors, the college not yet being equipped to carry out the city, "tow-away plan."

Honor Society Gives 18 Life Memberships

Attaining enviable positions of third-semester membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's honorary scholastic society, 18 students of the college are eligible for graduation with honors as life members of the organization, Edwin C. Cranston, AGS adviser said yesterday.

Lounge Reopens Friday Under New Rules

Under new rules, the student lounge will be reopened today at 12 noon as a student study and reading room, according to a release by John P. Brady, assistant dean.

New plans for the lounge permit smoking, but game playing will not be allowed.

In charge of the room will be Fred McFarland, college housing director, who will see that the new regulations are followed.

Rose Hobart, Star Of Top Drama, Speaks Here Today

Rose Hobart, star of the current legitimate theater production Deep Are the Roots, will speak here today on the subject of stage technique during the college hour, according to Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud.

Miss Hobart will speak in Room 100 and all students are invited to attend.

Student groups and clubs wishing to witness the play Deep Are the Roots, now showing at the Tivoli theater, are invited to arrange theater parties and obtain group rates. If a party of 20 or more plans to attend, they should call Vivian Sharp, DOuglas 2-2308.

Other activities planned for college hour today will include club and council meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced; club meetings will also be held during college hour next Friday, April 23, Brady said.

Literary Works Must Meet Forum Deadline

Deadline for student contributions of literary works to be considered for the Forum Magazine is two weeks away, Friday, April 30.

Dorothy Mercer, a faculty sponsor of the Forum Club, states that the receipt of material is growing but there is a great demand for more.

The editors want humorous short stories or articles shorter than the 1500 word maximum.

Translations by students of foreign literary works are also eligible for consideration, she said, and several poems have been turned in so far but more are needed.

Offerings are to be submitted to faculty advisers John Gerstung or John Ross in Room 4K on west campus or to Miss Mercer, Room 251 in the main building.

Advance sales have not been completely tabulated as yet by the student bank but salesmen who have reported their sales state they found little buyer resistance.

Vein Tapping Nets 25 Dollars Per Victim

Since $650 is the approximate value of each student in terms of blood at $25 per pint, 30 students will be able to sell 1/22 or $25 of themselves Friday, April 30, Joseph Amori, placement head, announced today.

All applications for students wishing to give blood can be made through the placement office in Building 2, Amori said.

Old England Revived In The "Square" Tonight

Transformed from garb of present day into that of the 1800's and giving the realistic three act fantasy, Barclay Square, the Queen Ann touch, a bloomin' English bobbie presented himself on the campus yesterday, citing all patrons for the opening command performance which was held in "Top of the Hill," Room 28 at 8:15 p.m.

The English bobbie, pictured at right inspecting posters, typified the dress evident throughout the entire drama, return to the old English days in Berkeley Square, "Engaland."

As the Englishmen say it, "This drama is a bit of all right you know," and there is still time this evening and April 19, 20, and 21 to take advantage of the opportunity of seeing it and the style of dress which was so popular in the 1800's.

Berkeley Square is produced by drama instructor Bill Culver.

PLAYTIME AT HURLEY VILLAGE, housing center on the campus, poses a tough problem for local collegians' offspring to hurdle. Lack of recreation facilities at the Village forces them to utilize such play areas as the temporary "lake," furnished by recent rains.

Depicted above are a group of hardy mariners watching "Commodore" Mullins in the act of launching his make-believe luxury liner.

A tiny sandbox nearby, with two pieces of playground equipment, and this mud puddle are all that nearly 75 children here have for play purposes.

Alumni, NSA, Censors On Pasadena Agenda

Among the subjects nominated at last Friday's regional meeting at San Mateo Junior College for the agenda of the California Junior College Student Government Conference to be held today at Pasadena Junior College, are the Alumni Association, National Student Association, and the censorship of college publications.

City College delegates are privately investigating such local problems as the limitation of the Student Government, and Associated Student card sales.

Representing City College at the conference are Max Call and Nancy Wallace, Associated Student president and vice-president respectively, Edward E. Sandys, dean of men, and John J. Brady, assistant dean of men.

Diversified topics for committee consideration are, namely, cheating in classes, student card sales, the international student, student apathy, the duties of the social committee, and the comparative powers of student governments.

City College was host to the conference meeting last November when Trev Burrow, then editor of The Guardsman, presided and President A. J. Cloud and Superintendent of Schools Herbert Clish were the principal speakers.

Wallace Is Appointed To Conference Office

SAN MATEO, Calif., April 9— City College of San Francisco student vice-president, Nancy Wallace, was appointed conference parliamentarian for the Northern Section Junior College meet by Jack Swaryck, section president.

The nothern section meeting was held to determine the subjects to be placed on the state agenda for the Pasadena meeting, April 15 to 19.

College Gets Donation For Art Work Awards

Receipt of a $100 cash donation to the art department was announced yesterday by art instructor Roy Walker.

The money is a personal gift from G. H. Niemeyer, president of Handy and Harman Co., dealers in precious metals in New York City.

This fund will be used to award a cash prize to the outstanding silversmithing student at the end of the semester.

Handy and Harman Co. sponsor a silversmithing workshop conference each August in Providence, Rhode Island. Walker attended the last one and studied under the world renowned Bennett, silversmith to the Court of St. James.

While attending this conference, Walker met the president of the company who was greatly impressed by his ability as a smith.

Ryan Takes Promotion

Revealing that he has been offered a promotion, Kevin Ryan, assistant college controller, stated early this week that he has accepted a job with the central office of the Board of Education.

Ryan said, "This is a pretty good place to work and I hate to leave, the students and faculty have been swell, but I'm not getting any younger."

Kenneth Long, recently with the Municipal Railroad, replaces him.

The MacArthur Legend; Ready-Made Campaign Against A Great Soldier

IT DOESN'T take a particularly analytical mind to witness the spectacle of a great American military hero putting his war record on a political block and having it shot out from beneath him.

It even hurts many of the men who served under him to see this man's wartime accomplishments drowned out by political party drum beating, as they surely will be when the 1948 presidential campaign gets into high gear.

General Douglas MacArthur is undoubtedly one of the best soldiers America has ever produced—it's too bad he can't stay that way.

In all this country's voting history there has never been a potential presidential candidate who was a more choice target for a vicious program of half-truths and lies than Douglas MacArthur.

The MacArthur legend, spawned on Bataan in 1942 and fed continually since then by millions of servicemen who served in the Pacific, cannot be ignored.

This legend was the product of inter-service rivalry, sometimes friendly, but more often dangerously hostile. Actually it was a three cornered "feud" between the Navy, Army, and Air Corps; with MacArthur always in the center.

Typical of these stories is the one that alleges that MacArthur had printed thousands of matchbook covers containing the words "I Have Returned" and dropped them by air on the Philippines, prior to the invasion of Luzon.

Any ex-Pacific war vet can add to this anecdote hundreds of others—all similar in content.

It is hardly fair to call a few million ex-servicemen liars, but the stories persist, and the general's flair for dramatics continues to feed fuel for more legendary material.

MacArthur would do well to copy a page from Eisenhower's book and preserve his excellent military record instead of shooting for the highest office in the land with all these strikes against him from the start.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

A DOG'S Life at Old City College: Main Bldg. students were recently put down for the count by the sight of a small white and brown pup of questionable ancestry running for his life from college physician Dr. Jones' office. The question is: what dire future was the poor animal fleeing from?

(Comment: Here at last is a job for Block S. F. Musclemen (our college cops) who can swoop down on the Doc's main floor laboratory and eavesdrop—maybe pick up a good reason to escape physical education.)

Gee, I'm Glad I'm an American Dept.: Here's the brightest little incident of many a day. Seems two of our local students of Latin parentage tried to board the "K" car running near Old City College, but as they mounted the steps and flashed their car-tickets the conductor, full of the milk of human kindness, told them to get off of the car because "you aren't students at this college." The would-be passengers were forced to leave the car, but the scent of the whole situation still lingers on.

Crime Clips—Block SF Bloc Blocked: Block SF'ers are gnashing bicops at campus sportsmen who still wear high school block sweaters on their muscled bodies (Tsk)!

The Human Comedy: Youngish, arty Hewitt Kendall (the jazz expert with weeks of experience behind him who starred in this column earlier this semester) has given up the musical world to trod the boards of the theatah!

As it must to all beginners—a small role has come to the aspiring Thespian. In the forthcoming light opera The Vagabond King, the show stopping, one and only line uttered by Kendall is, to-wit: "You mean the Burgundians are going to pay us tonight?"

(Clincher:) Ever since he first mouthed the above words, Kendall has been besieged by telephone calls that usually go something like this:

(Tingaling) "Hello."
"Kendall there?"s
"Speaking."
"We have a check for you."
"Yeah? Who is speaking?"
"The Burgundians." (Click!)

Tenor Is Choir Manager

Day's Work Includes Votes, Vagabond King

By Dave Hansen

In this, latest of a series of interviews with students outstanding for their service to the college, The Guardsman met Elmer Dickey, Jr.

Now in the fourth semester, the 21-year-old student from Weimar, Texas, is the manager of the A Cappella Choir. Formerly a student at Nashville's Fisk University, his duties consist of putting to a choir vote invitations from city organizations as to where and when the choir should perform.

Dickey's further duties are to arrange for gowns and collars, and to arrange the singers' arrival at the performances and return to the college.

The tall (5 feet, 11 inches), heavy set (a hard 225 pounds), tenor singer of classical music, will study next year at San Francisco State College and plans to go on to Juilliard Institute of Music. He hopes to be a concert artist after studying abroad.

Dickey sings with his church choir regularly on Sundays, and has been with the Municipal Chorus for the past four months. His speaking voice and courteous southern manner are amazingly similar to those of film actor Vincent Price.

CITY COLLEGE'S leading tenor, Elmer Dickey, arranges trips, details of singing engagements, and keeps gowns in good shape.

Secretly an admirer of photography, the black haired, brown eyed music major will sing a role in the music-drama department's forthcoming production of The Vagabond King, that of the Astrologer.

The choir will take an active part in Vagabond King. Their presence in the light opera will be both unusual and effective, Dickey insists, since the opera is described as a "chorus-opera."

"Singing is a man's most absolute expression of his true feelings," Elmer Dickey seriously declared during his interview. "Singing is truly wonderful and beautiful."

A few facts garnered from elsewhere tell us that Dickey is more than a little popular with his fellow choir members. They admire both his singing and his pleasing personality, chose him for the job of business manager because of his ability.

He performs his new tasks efficiently, they say, and with a practicality unexcelled for one of his years. His job is partly to see that the ladies have their gowns for the performances, that the gowns are hung properly between performances, and that there are fresh collars each time.

The soft-spoken part-time furrier sings in the German, French and Italian languages, in addition, of course, to English. While at Fisk University he took part in the operas Marriage of Figaro, and Hansel and Gretel.

Ex Local Student In Turkey Eyes Election In Italy

By Florence Grant

There's no place like home, especially if it's San Francisco.

At least that's the opinion of Mary Erhart, former member of The Guardsman staff and Zeta Chi sorority, who recently arrived in Turkey, where her father is employed as a government engineer.

At present Miss Erhart is working in the U. S. Foreign Office. She plans to attend the University of Istanbul in the fall, majoring in journalism.

In a letter to Pat Murray of this college, Miss Erhart expressed the opinion that whatever way Italy goes in the forthcoming election, so will go the majority of European countries.

Discussing sanitary conditions Miss Erhart expressed horror at the filth and deplorable living conditions in many sections of the country. Refrigeration is practically non-existent, food being displayed instead in barrels.

Paved roads are at a minimum and are always filled with children and vendors with their donkeys. But despite these conditions, Miss Erhart said that the lavishness of banquets and celebrations in the upper classes is unexcelled, even in America.

Reducing Producer Figures In Lead Role

Paul Ellison, leading man in the college's theatrical production Berkeley Square had lost some 20 pounds before last night's curtain time.

"This is a result of your fine American food," the Englishman remarked as he gazed wistfully at his shrunken stomach with the look of one saying goodbye to an old friend.

He took up weight lifting to make the weight deadline for opening night.

Letters to the Editor will be published in The Ram's Horn when received at The Guardsman office or left with the telephone operator, Main Bldg. by noon on Mondays and Wednesdays and when the author is not anonymous.

● P. L. 411 Okeh
Editor The Guardsman:

This comment concerns the editorial of The Guardsman's April 9 issue. Our editor seems to think that he can label anything he wants as communism just because he doesn't understand its reason.

Congress proposed to reward the veteran by assisting him through school if he needed assistance. The government will assist the single student even if he is making a combined total of $175. The student who makes more than that needs little assistance, and that is why a limit must be placed.

It is true that Congress has not the power to throttle the earning power of any citizen, and Congress IS NOT. Any student who wants may go out and make $1,000 if he knows how, and no one will stop him.

Possibly certain provisions should be added to limit only on-the-job trainees. Maybe certain provisions should be added to help the college student more. I don't think so. I am certain of one thing, however, and that is that though it may contain a few questionably weak, but minor points, the law is basically sound.

Fire Inspection Near For College; Exits Judged O. K.

By Florence Ames

Concern over egress from crowded classrooms in case of fire was somewhat dispelled today, when Battalion Commander Jesse H. McLendon, of the San Francisco Fire Department (who is in charge of the training school for firemen on the campus), pointed out that the main building is entirely concrete and therefore fire-resistant, and that all wooden barracks on the west campus now have extra fire exits from the second floor.

City College Re-check

Fire Inspector Arthur Clack, from Chief Kelly's fire prevention office at the city hall, confirmed the above statements, but added the fact that all schools are now being thoroughly inspected at this time and after the elementary and high schools have been completely checked, City College will automatically be re-checked as part of their regular safety program.

Veterans Safe

Disabled student veterans can feel reassured in realizing that constant improvements and precautions are taken care of with their welfare in mind as first consideration in case of any outbreak and although the main building classrooms have but one door, the hallways are wide and the main building itself has numerous exits—all promising safety.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

AS SECOND pager Jack (the bird's out of the cage) Hulse would say, we've got news for you, Buster . . .

It seems that the recent news that grid coach Grover Klemmer is being considered as a possible future jungle rover, in the form of a new Tarzan, has the boys in the physical education department running wild.

Latest developments in H'wood's quest for a healthy Jungle Lord find the people's choice Klemmer announcing that if he is offered the part he will insist that he be allowed to take fellow cohorts Ralph Hillsman and Roy Diederichsen plus an unidentified lady into the wilderness with him.

Upon further questioning it was learned that Klemmer has selected a new family (for jungle life only, Mrs. Klemmer) for himself and has picked Hillsman for the role of Cheeta, probably because of his cage experiences, and Diederichsen for his jungleized offspring Boy; why, we don't know, except that he is boxing coach and it gets rough in the animal world at times.

It pays to be famous dept.: Our illustrious neighbors over Kentfield way report that their Marin Junior College national casaba champs are still stashing away that beautiful green stuff as a result of subscriptions for funds to send the Tar quintet back to Springfield, Missouri, for said championships. With some $4,306.09 already in the kitty donations are still trickling in. (some fun!)

Intramural Boxing Entries Remain Open

Intramural novice boxing entries are still being accepted in the men's gymnasium by Coaches Tom Wilson and Roy Diederichsen, while the official deadline will not close until Friday, April 23.

All men students are eligible to put on the gloves except those who fought in last semester's semi-finals and finals.

Some of the prospective pugilists who have already signed on the dotted line are Henry Yum, 120; Carlos Gonzales, 133; Jerry Van Raam, 140; Jim Caya, 165; and Ed Silva, 175.

In the basketball playoffs for the college championships, the winner of the National League will meet the American race finalists, while the titleholders of the Pacific Coast League will meet the Bush League champions.

WAA Sponsors Prep Riding Clinic Today

With five Bay Area riding critics judging events, the Women's Athletic Association will hold a riding clinic this afternoon at the St. Francis Riding Academy.

Sixty prep students from six San Francisco high schools will participate in the large WAA-sponsored program.

Three students will be taken from the beginning, intermediate, and advanced sections to judge riders from their own class. At the end of each event the riders will learn from the judges how they fared.

The principal purpose of the St. Francis riding clinic is to judge the students and give them helpful constructive criticism and truthful comments on their individual techniques.

The well known critics who will judge the riding events are Margaret Poole of George Washington High, Warren Telfer of Polytechnic High, Ruth Adams of Lowell High, Virginia Bouret of San Mateo Junior College and Mary Ann Hutton who will represent Mills College.

Netters, Thinclads Go Into Action Today

Top Racketeer Is Ruled Ineligible

Bitter news fell upon the Ram tennis camp today with an announcement from the registrar's office that top singlesman Herb Suhr has been declared ineligible because of deficient grades.

The suspension is for a two week period, after which Suhr's status may be changed.

Tennis Team Travels North To Face Cubs

Fully armed with parasols and slickers, just in case, Sacramento's untested Panther cinder squad booms into town this morning to fulfill an engagement with the most "rained out track team in Ram history." The sketch is slated for Merced Field at 3 p.m.

Strictly a "sleeper" this year, the Sacs may turn up some first places, but consensus has it that there is not much team depth as was the case last season when they showed among the first three in the pennant race.

The locals, on the other hand, have been fighting both the weather and epidemics of pulled ligaments now and then. Dick Gardner, flashy little hurdler back from last year has been nursing a game leg for the initial part of the season, but may show for today's clambake. If not, Bill Wrightson, a much improved timber-topper will have to carry the red and white chips alone.

Marin Hands Rams First NCJCC Loss

While the visiting Marin College baseball team was combing the pitching efforts of Bob Greenwood and Hal Flynn for ten hits, Bill Fischer's Rams were gathering a measly three, and suffered their first conference defeat of the season last Tuesday as the Tars handed them a 7-5 loss on the Ocean View diamond.

The local mittmen put forth one of their most futile efforts in recent years, the closeness of the score being due to the generosity of Marin hurler Ray Snyder, who issued nine bases on balls, which accounted for all the Ram tallies.

The most pleasing inning of the afternoon, from a sentimental point of view, was the eighth, when the losers tallied four runs, all being the result of a quartet of walks and a pair of Marin miscues.

Greenwood was the losing hurler.

Rams, Panthers Clash On State Track At 3

Undefeated in conference play and hopeful of remaining that way, the local netters head for Stockton today to meet the resident Tiger-Cubs in a match postponed from last Saturday because of wet skies.

The postponement has thrown the Rams into a busy weekend of tennis with the locals returning home tomorrow to host the visiting Napa squad on the Golden Gate Park courts at 11 a.m.

Improving by leaps and bounds, Freddy Rodgers, hero of last week's Menlo triumph, will be counted on heavily again this weekend. Herb Suhr and Ed Jacobson still hold the top spots with Bill Covall, Bob Soekolov, and Frank Reed completing the singles line up.

Stockton and Napa play the roles of darkhorses with little known of their respective talents. Nevertheless, Coach Tom Wilson has his netmen ready for the matches, and he looks for them to continue their winning ways.

MIXING business with pleasure, plus a gorgeous Southern California sun beaming pleasantly down, City College student leaders, in addition to a couple of deans, are at present hard at work representing this college at the two-year college conference going on down at Pasadena.

A unique situation is present, however, that is indicative of democracy in action.

Associated Student President Max R. Call, representing one faction of student political belief, and Nancy Wallace, vice-president of the Associated Students, representing another student faction that is directly opposed to that of Call's, together are delegates to this conference.

In other words, it's all right to call our family names, but don't let an outsider try it.

Brady Favors Co-op

In the hopes of obtaining full information on the possibility of a student co-operative store, operated by the students, on the campus, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, will bring up either today or tomorrow, a questionnaire on what operating procedure other two year colleges use to run their student stores.

Last semester's take from the Sacramento student store (Sacramento College is now a three year school) amounted to some 3000 pesos, which is a tidy sum to help pay for Associated Student activities.

The ground work for a campus student store has been made, in that with the express approval of the administration and the okay of the Student Council, a petition to that effect could then be presented to Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools, who in turn would bring it before the Board of Education for board approval.

Brady also has received information that this plan would be perfectly legal.

NSA Clarification Due

The conference, comprising the 62 two-year colleges of the state, are expected to form a resolution tomorrow as to their stand on the National Student Association.

At present only Sacramento College is affiliated with NSA in the less than four-year type of college.

Hotel Students Picked For Tour Of Industry

Selection of ten outstanding fourth semester hotel and restaurant division students to participate in the annual Northern California State Hotel Association sponsored trek, April 18 to April 25, to leading hostelries of the state has been made, Hilda Watson, division head, announced today.

Those going include George Angelico, Robert Barrett, John Bruner, Kathleen Comstock Dolan, Robert posed to that of Call's, together are and James Scarlett.

The appointments were made on the basis of ability to represent the sponsoring hotels and the division and also on the work completed by the student in the laboratory. Students were voted on by the faculty and students of the hotel and restaurant department.

CAB Repeats 'Must' Membership In AS At Today's Meeting

Mel Dykman, Club Advisory Board president, pointedly stated late yesterday that the much discussed Associated Student membership amendment to the CAB constitution would be re-introduced at today's meeting during college hour.

The amendment states that it is compulsory for all members of recognized campus organizations to be associated student card holders.

Several weeks ago the same amendment was introduced, tabled for the required two-week period, and narrowly defeated at the last CAB meeting by a roll-call vote.

No matter what the result of the vote regarding this constitutional amendment, the amendment to the CAB by-laws, which states the same provision, is in effect throughout the present semester.

Tav Zadick Nun, suspended earlier in the semester, has now fulfilled requirements, he said, and in all probability will be approved today.

Clubs still suspended include the following: Alpha Theta Epsilon, Hawaiian Club, Horticulture Society, Mikes and Men, Newman Club, Radio Engineering Society, Retail Merchandising Society, and Tav Zadick Nun.

Hostesses Schedule Baby Shower Today

A baby shower, to be given today in honor of Marie Dale, a former student of the college, is this week's event planned by the hostess class, according to Frances Mount, instructor of home economics.

Hostesses for the affair, which will be held at 1:30 in Room 108, are Cleta Mansfield and Teresa Buttici, who have planned an afternoon of fun with games, and gifts for the guest of honor.

College Rigs Public School Week Displays

In conjunction with Public Schools Week, April 26 to 30, several departments of the college are preparing window displays for downtown stores, William J. Eckert, art department instructor, announced today.

Departments offering window displays in observance of Public Schools Week are as follows:

Photographic department, a display at Hirsch and Kaye; Hotel and Restaurant division, at Nathan Dohrmann, department store; Physical Education, a display of trophies and awards, at Moore's Clothing Store; Graphic Arts, at H. S. Crocker's Market Street branch; Art department, a display at Livingston's.

Fairmont Hotel Site For Second AS Dance April 30

That the second Associated Students dance of the semester will be as well-attended as was the first of the semester was indicated yesterday by Nancy Wallace, Associated Student vice-president and chairman of the social committee, who announced the dance as planned for Friday, April 30, at the Fairmont Hotel.

"This affair," Miss Wallace said, "is sponsored by the freshman class of the college."

The social committee, which is in charge of all such activities, is composed, for this semester, of Bob Jennings, freshman president; Bill Riley, sophomore president; Barbara Hendrickson, Associated Women Student president; Byrne Davis, Associated Men Student president; and Miss Wallace.

Movies To Be Regular Aid In Sales Classes

Guardsman Rates Tops For Twelfth Time

Fall '47 Issues Cop All-American Honors

The Guardsman took highest honors last week for the twelfth time in its 14 semesters of membership in the Associated Collegiate Press when newspaper judges awarded it the All-American Honor Rating for the fall semester, 1947.

This rating, gained through the efforts of the staff under the leadership of editor-in-chief, Trev Burrow; executive editor, George Lajeunesse; managing editor, Herb Levy; and faculty adviser, Joan Nourse, placed The Guardsman among five two-year college papers judged All-American.

Each college member of ACP, a nation-wide association of college newspapers having its headquarters at the school of Journalism in the University of Minnesota, submits a complete file of its publication which is judged by men and women in the newspaper profession.

These judges then criticize the papers on the basis of news values and sources, news writing and editing, features, editorials, sports, headlines, typography, and makeup.

The staff for the fall of '47 under the editors included assistant managing editor, Don Cowderoy; feature editor, Del Pichon; sports editor, Bill Covall, and Jack Hulse, news editor.

City College Scribes Picked As Meet Judges

Representing the college at the University of Redlands' annual Journalism Day last Tuesday at Redlands, California, Herbert Levy, Guardsman managing editor and college delegate to the meet, disclosed that this college was the only two-year college to be invited as judges for various Journalism Day awards given to Southern California high school papers.

Other college representatives acting as judges were from Occidental, Whittier, Pomona, and Redlands.

Combo Rally, Dance Nets Twenty Dollars

The acute uniform shortage of this year's track and field squad was partially alleviated as a result of last Tuesday's Block Society sponsored combination dance and rally, Bill Babr, president of the society, announced yesterday.

The sum collected, about $20, was not deemed as an overly impressive amount by the society, but in consideration of the weak advertising campaign conducted the crowd present served as an example of student interest in activities to come.

THE CALL OF THE OPEN SEA beckons Bobbie Floyd, Admiral, Junior Grade, as he sails an aircraft carrier camouflaged to represent a piece of two-by-four.

The scene is Hurley Village after a heavy rainfall had created numerous lakes in the vicinity.

Bobbie is the son of one of the married veterans now living in the housing project on the City College campus. Lack of adequate playground space has forced the Admiral to bring all his Yankee ingenuity into play, and he's currently taking full advantage of the opportunity at hand.

CAB Approves Four Campus Societies

Unanimous acceptance was voted for four campus organizations and three clubs were placed on probation at the Club Advisory Board meeting held April 16.

The Newman Club and Tav Zadick Nun, suspended earlier this semester, completed their Associated Student membership requirement and are now official college groups.

The "conditional approval" status of Phi Beta Rho and the Latin American Club was lifted upon completion last week of their requirements also.

Lloyd Sisler's Drama Society, and the Men's Glee Club, sponsored by Harold Cunningham, were two of the campus organizations placed on probation. Mel Dykman, CAB president, emphasized that clubs on probation are accorded the same privileges as fully accepted groups; probation merely being a test period to determine the permanency of the club.

Lambda Alpha, college honorary music society, a group which voluntarily withdrew from CAB last semester during the absence of their adviser, Flossita Badger, was also accepted at the same meeting and placed on probation.

Student-Faculty Committee Set To Guide The Vagabond King

Relieving Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, Vagabond King directors, for full-time concentration on opera rehearsals, faculty and student production committees have been activated, the directors revealed yesterday.

The various committees and managers appointed include the following: Faculty manager, Reg Porter; secretary, Joan Nourse; student manager, Herbert Levy; assistant manager, Jack Hagan; costumes, Mildred Barnard, and Lucille Meredith, faculty.

Properties committee, Marjorie Cullen and Dorothy Luckhardt, faculty; usher committee, Margaret Dougherty, faculty; decorations, John Lawrence, faculty; publicity, George Mullany, faculty, and students Bob Selby and Bob Hickman; tickets, Maurice Power, and Harold Cunningham, faculty.

Other student committee members will be appointed by the faculty chairmen.

Choir To Sing At Letterman Sunday

Featuring selections from the Vagabond King, the college choir will entertain veterans at Letterman General Hospital Sunday evening, April 25, Flossita Badger, music director, announced yesterday.

Frosh Dance To Be Held April 30

That the next Associated Student dance to be held Friday, April 30, "high a'top Nob Hill" at the Fairmont Hotel will be sponsored by the college's freshman class was confirmed today by Bob Jennings, Freshman class president.

A committee formed of members of the freshman class will direct the affair.

Marcia Weidler, Phyllis Ryan, Margie Swanman, Don Schumacher and Steve Norris compose the committee and are doing a very competent job of organization, Jennings affirmed.

Jennings emphasized his appreciation of the aid given the freshman class when he extended his "thanks to Nancy Wallace, vice-president of Associated Students, and her social committee, who've ably assisted the freshman class in presenting the dance."

Five Members Shun Meet In Protest To Call Appointee

Deliberate absenteeism was used Thursday by five Student Council members in protest against President Max Call's recent appointment of a temporary president to preside while Call was in Pasadena.

Submitting a letter to appointee President Byrne Davis, Associated Men Student president, members Jack Hagan, Jack Hurley, Helen Rich, J. F. Solorzano, and Kurt Lexi informed the council of their action.

Davis read the letter to the attending council members, and then adjourned the meeting because a quorum was not present.

Explaining the reason for their absence, the letter stated " . . . in consideration of the uncompromising action of a bare majority of the Student Council in the choice of a presiding office, we regret our not being in attendance today."

Contesting the logic in the group's action, Davis stated, "There are some important items on the agenda, and the absence of this group delayed these matters considerably."

When asked to express his own opinion, Davis answered, "I feel that this is a slap to both my face and to the students I represent."

Reciting the incident that brought about this open split in the council, Bob Reilly remarked, "Davis was legally appointed by Call, and when it was questioned, the council voted 9 to 5 favoring Davis."

Hurley, spokesman for the absentee group, when interviewed apart from the "council chambers," remarked, "Our stand is not directly aimed at Call or Davis, but at a slight majority group blocking the actions of a minority group, when the interests of students affairs are involved."

Although President Call will preside at today's session, complete attendance has not been assured yet.

Presidents Meet To Discus Circus

Announcing that the college circus" would be discussed, and that club assignments would be explained, Max Call, associated student president, requested yesterday that all organization heads attend the Presidents' meeting tomorrow, April 21, 7:30 p.m., Building 2.

Clubs Will Meet In College Hour Friday

To provide clubs with more time to clear up individual affairs, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday, that college hour Friday, April 23, will be utilized for club meetings, making the second in succession to be used for this purpose.

Their is no college hour scheduled for Friday, April 30, Brady said, because of mid-terms which will be taking place.

Ten Students Get Summer Camp Jobs

Ten students of the college were employed for summer jobs at Lokoya Boys Camp by camp owner and president, William Sanborn, Joseph Amori, placement head, disclosed yesterday.

These students were chosen from a large number of applicants because of their skill in counselling, Amori added.

Hoods On Prowl Here; Mutt First Campus Victim Hit

By Doug Johnson

Fido, well beloved campus cocker spaniel was taken advantage of on the west campus recently when a gang of hoodlums stole his dog collar as he lay sleeping outside the lounge.

Inspector McChesney, of the Ingleside Police Station, reports that his best men are working on the case and that they expect to apprehend the culprits soon.

"These hoodlums have been operating around here for a long time," the inspector remarked, "and we've got the finger on most of them. What we want to do is locate the higher-ups in the gang."

Fido has long been a quaint figure about the campus and is noted chiefly for his piquant expression and uncanny ability to "snatch students' lunches from lockers.

"Incidentally," Inspector McChesney remarked, "seven students of your college had their cars smashed into last week, and one car owner lost about $300 worth of tools and clothes in the raid. I just mentioned this in passing," he smiled, "but I guess what you're after is news."

U. S. College News Roundup . . .

Stanford University—When registration closed last week the number of students now on the farm totaled 7,130, an increase of 299 over last Spring. Broken down, the figures show that 5,376 men and 1,754 women registered, a ratio of a little more than three to one.

San Francisco State College—After much wrangling and argument, the American Veterans' Committee was voted an on-campus organization. Concurrently, as far as the Staters are concerned, the "national emergency" is just like the weather; everybody talked about it but nothing was done. Meanwhile, veterans and non-veterans are putting off buying new clothes.

Los Angeles City College—Upper division students are no longer under the name of State College, according to a recent amendment to a State Legislature allocation bill. They are just going to a four year state institution of higher education. Former "State College" students are now attending an institution without a name. "We don't care," they wail. "We just want an education."

Factions In The Student Council Are Turning It Into A Farce

IN LOOKING over the minutes of the Student Council for this semester it can be readily seen that a definite policy of non-co-operation has been followed by both "factions" elected to the Council.

Now that the Student Council has been openly severed into two distinct camps it would be a nice gesture on the part of a crusading college paper to "dissect" the two factions: that is, get right at the roots of dissension and the reasons for non-cooperativeness.

But this could hardly be done without upsetting the inner workings of allegedly secret organizations, exposing certain individual's personal desires and general all-around headknocking (or perhaps spanking might be the term).

An investigation of this type would only serve to put a far more important light on these people than they actually deserve.

Frankly speaking, The Guardsman doesn't think the whole business of party politics is particularly worth getting steamed up about.

We don't think there is any one organization, or individual, "big" enough to take over this college and run it to his or their desires.

It can be mentioned in passing that the policy of The Gaurdsman is not dictated by any organization; whether it be a fraternity, sorority or any other type of club.

Nor is the policy controlled by the faculty or any one student pulling so many strings attached to so many puppets.

Rather, this policy is determined entirely by the actions of the people in the college.

It remains then, regardless of who was right or wrong at last Thursday's fiasco, wherein five members refused to attend the meet, the entire council is rapidly approaching a silly stage where nothing will be accomplished.

It will still be the long-suffering student card holder who will be holding the bag as a result of this "non-cooperation" attitude.

Freedom Garden Drive Fights High Cost Salads

By Doris Hall

With G. I.'s drawing homesteads out of fish bowls, fruits and vegetables at sky prices, the nation's produce buyers are growing their own.

Here at the City College the former victory gardens are "cropping up" again in the form of freedom gardens.

Drive Nationwide

Dr. Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, was appointed to the San Francisco Freedom Garden Committee by John Brucato, chairman for the city program, along with Harry Nelson and Raymond Peterson, instructors of the horticulture department. The nation wide program is headed on the West Coast by Norvell Gillespie, garden editor for the San Francisco Chronicle.

According to a six page pamphlet put out by the horticulture department to aid 150 people in cultivating their 30 feet square plots on the campus, gardeners are advised not to rush into planting until they know what they are doing.

An instructor of the department will inspect the plots and offer suggestions to remedy situations occurring from plant disease, insects, animal pests and weeds.

Gardeners Make Pledge

Freedom Gardeners who accept plots on the campus are pledged to keep the garden area free from weeds and pests; not to sell any of the produce; to keep plots planted at all times and not to plant more than can be harvested.

They also agree that all crops will be harvested by the instructors if vegetables are allowed to go to waste or seed; to turn back to the college any part of the plot not in use, and finally, if any of the regulations are violated the plot will be reassigned to someone else.

Goal Determined

According to Brucato, the goal of the campaign is to reach a total of 50,000 freedom gardens by the end of the year. Just how this would affect local truck farmers whose cause he championed in his recent popular book, "The Farmer Comes To Town," he did not say.

The college horticulture department has offered the use of their greenhouse and other facilities. Raymond Peterson stated that the department stood ready to assist in any way possible.

If You Have IT And Don't Want IT Dept.

By Keith Weese

A telephone number may mean values in material wealth, or it may mean values in another dimension, such as an enlightening social engagement.

The bulletin board in the right wing of the main building offers education ad infinitum in the realm of advertising technique. This clustered board contains an almost unending variety of merchandise to sell, barter, and service.

Peculiar types of advertisements are endowed with several kinds of rhetoric, including such blunt and cursory appeals as "Radio, $5.00, see Joe on the Avenue" (address, of course, mentioned), to such esthetic appeals to the imagination of the tentative purchaser as: "Beautifully adorned radio combination set in exquisite veneered mahogany, with the latest of ultra modern accoutrements that make for pleasure, both visually and phonetically."

Just how successful this type of advertising is in producing a buyer is not known, but from all indications, it would seem that the men and women who seek economic stability and who want gratifying devices are being paid off. If volume of advertisement is any criterion.

Commercial wealth in this particular brand of selling naturally depends on the astuteness of the traders involved, but there could be more to a telephone number than some unwanted merchandise.

Radio Neophytes Carry On Under New Instructor

By Dave Hansen

Infant careers of Radio and Speech students suffered a setback this semester when prolonged illness forced the continued absence of Marie Weller, radio instructor.

Following several days of hasty improvisation in the way of instructors, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, secured the most proficient substitute possible.

The "substitute" is Henry Leff, nationally known veteran of ten years on the airways. Leff is a New Yorker (no relation to the magazine), who made his radio debut in that city.

He stands a stocky five feet, ten inches, is married, and is the father of one boy. Aside from his instruction here, the NBC, ABC star also helps direct the Samuel Gompers radio program.

Leff has put four and one-half years in the Army, part of the time in radio work, and has done duty "all over the United States."

He works locally for stations KNBC and KGO, and thinks the "radio department at City College is small but good."

That the way to a man's heart is through his stomach, is night cafeteria manager Bob Barrett's culinary philosophy and is partly responsible for his popularity and success in the restaurant and hotel division.

A creative artist in the field of cookery, Barrett has delighted the eye as well as the palate with "piece de resistance frange pange, a tartlette confection, and chicken au sec."

Bob Barrett

Though a night manager of the cafeteria is required to know how to produce impressive concoctions, the actual duties accompanying the position follow the line of supervision.

While working the shift from 4:30 to 9 p.m., Barrett is held responsible for supervising the help, who are all students of the hotel division, and seeing that everything is run smoothly.

"Locking up, checking to see that counters are set up right, and providing enough equipment for the students to work with are a few other responsibilities accompanying the position," Barrett related.

All employees on the night shift receive a salary although students on the day operation are not paid.

Chosen from among three or four candidates applying for the job of night manager, Barrett believes that operating a cafeteria last summer, plus other outside experience, and passable classwork awarded him the employment.

Working four hours at the Sir Francis Drake every day as part of his classwork, Barrett feels that he is getting valuable experience in both management and confectionery which will enable him to enter the home catering business after graduation this spring.

Asked whether the chefs prepared special dishes for themselves, Barrett retorted: "We make no special preparations for our own meals; what the people eat, we can eat, too."

Professor Harry Buttimer Ranks High As Net Star

By Roy Pasini

Hidden away among the depths of the college business department is an instructor who has been turning net play into net profits for sometime now.

He is Harry Buttimer, as genial a person as you ever want to meet.

Harry Buttimer

Born in the city beside the Golden Gate 25 years ago, Buttimer's net career could well be typed as a "local boy makes good" tale.

Handsome Harry has spent his entire life on the coast except for a stint in Uncle Sam's family for which he received a medical discharge.

A Lowell graduate, Buttimer headed for Cal where he picked up his M.B.A. degree in '44 while working his way up to the number one singles spot on the Bear net squad in his fourth year of college play.

Playing with Tom Brown, another local sensation, he reached the National Intercollegiate doubles finals in '43.

Since 1944 he has not entered the nationals, but he has hopes of making the event this September at Forrest Hills along with Brown.

Not as highly strung as his racquet, the hard driving netter has played against the best in the game, both amateur and pro, and believes that colorful Pancho Segura has the best shot in the game today—his two handed forehander.

Married and settled in the teaching profession, Buttimer has no intention of turning pro and while competing in local tourneys has his eye on the not too distant match between the college's prof racketeers (nothing personal) and Tom Wilson's gang.

Trackmen Favored To Whip Gaels In Dual Meet On Moraga Field Today

Thwarted in a previous attempt to get together, the Rams and the Gaels try it again today when the two track squads engage in a dual meet set for 4 p.m. on the St. Mary's field.

The Red-and-Whites will be favored on the strength of their greater team depth, coupled with the fact that the Moragans are still in the experimental stage in regard to the cinder sport.

Owen Moore of the city school will be the man to watch in the quarter-mile. Running a blistering 51:2 at Santa Rosa under adverse conditions, the Ram flyer left no doubt in the minds of the railbirds as to what he could accomplish on a warm, dry day.

In the field events, Bob Brickell should pick up points for the Jensenmen in the javelin. Bob Cook in the discus and Doss Sims in the high-jump are also counted on to come in the money.

Jim Wyatt is expected to garner five points in the half-mile.

Weather Permitting, Grant To Face Netmen

In an attempt to defeat Jupe Pluvius and play a twice rained out match, the varsity net team will invade North Sacramento Thursday to do battle with Grant Technical College.

The skies handed the Rams another defeat last Wednesday when five netters and assistant coach Roy Diederichsen, heading for Yuba, were forced to turn back after getting over half way to the valley town in a futile effort to break the weather jinx which has cancelled five consecutive road trips for the locals.

"The full effect of the cancellation of these matches will not be felt until later next week," Diederichsen said, "when the boys will be in the midst of mid-terms and unable to miss too many classes."

The status of Herb Suhr, currently riding the bench because of ineligibility, may be changed by next week, Tom Wilson, head coach, revealed today after consulting the registrar's office.

A new addition to the singles group is Bill Torres who has shown ability to carry the game to his opponent.

Tom Wilson Sets Friday As Deadline For Intra Boxing

With numerous applications still being accepted in the men's gymnasium the intramural novice boxing entry deadline has definitely been set for Friday, April 23 by mentor Tom Wilson.

The boxers already entered in the elimination tournament have been working out daily in the men's gymnasium with the help and advice of Coach Roy Diederichsen and members of the college varsity boxing squad.

A few of the hopeful pugilists already signed up are John Hirshfeld 126, Carlos Gonzales 133, John Bohman 140, Vic Torres 147, Bill Piercy and Larry Weber 155, Bill Davis 165, and Walt Jordan 175.

Semi-finals of the tourney will be held Wednesday, April 28, while the finals will be held on Friday night, April 30, in the men's gymnasium.

The nine weight divisions still open for the novice boxing tournament are 120, 126, 133, 140, 147, 155, 165, 175, and heavyweight.

In the intramural cage race, the Buccaneers captured their fifth straight victory in the Pacific Coast League by downing Benny Topper's 49-37.

Ralph Hillsman Picks Varsity Golf Squad

After whipping the S. F. State Gators recently 12½-8½ Coach Ralph Hillsman has picked his starting varsity golf team.

The top six of the Ram golf squad are Bill King, Bob Padgett, Walt Ross, Jay Durand, and the Payne twins, Bob and Don. The golfers have been practicing on the Harding links.

Ram Nine Defeats Marin 7-2; Hosts Vallejo This Afternoon

By Art Paymiller

Tall Hal Flinn, celebrating his nineteenth birthday, held the visiting Marin College nine to five hits last Saturday at Big Rec as his Ram mates were gathering a 7-2 win over the Tars to chalk up their third victory of the current campaign.

This afternoon, weather permitting, the Rams will host the Vallejo Junior College squad on the Ocean View diamond. Paul Nederman is slated to hurl the first pitch at 2:30 p.m.

Flinn, who pitched no-hit ball for five innings, gave a masterful exhibition of pitching skill, walking one and striking out eleven. Four of the five safeties the Tars collected were of the infield variety.

The local nine pasted the offerings of Ray Snyder and Glenn Davis for ten hits of assorted sizes, including Bill Kenna's first hit of the season.

Tom Bournellis paced the Ram hit parade with four singles in five trips to the plate. He was followed by Zane Kaplan and Kenna with a pair apiece, while Ernie Domecus and Ray White also collected a hit.

Co-ed Folk Dancing Grabs Spot In Lounge

Swinging partners, and fast stepping music will set the stage and the pace at a co-ed folk dance, given by the Women's Athletic Association, Friday, April 23, in the west campus student lounge, Cora Mae Bentley, WAA dance chairman, announced today.

The dancing will take place in the patio if the fair weather prevails; if not, the dancers will pack up and resume their frolics in the west campus auditorium.

Laurine Bergin, women's physical education head, will call the trips, and students will follow the leader in an orgy of old time dances, which will last from 1 to 3 p.m.

Refreshments, served by members of the WAA, will climax an afternoon of fun and frolic.

PULLING an Andrei Gromyko a la United Nations, the minority group of the Student Council did better than Andrei could hope for; more specifically, they didn't even show up for the council gathering slated for last Thursday.

But unlike the Soviet dissenter, if the minority group walks out of a meeting a couple of more times, they'll probably get an "F" in the course.

The Student Council is known around scholastic circles as Poly Sci 2a, with a grade given each member by Dean Jack Brady.

President Pro Tem

When Max Call, student president, and Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, took off for the Pasadena Student Government Conference, there was a slight disagreement as to who should preside over the council.

The "king for a day" turned out to be Byrne Davis, AMS president, over the minority group's opposition. The vote was 9 to 5 in favor of Davis.

Davis' reign, which lasted all of ten minutes since he adjourned the meeting when the minority group failed to show, had a great deal of aftermath reverberations.

Seems at the last Tuesday's meeting in the controversy over Davis' confirmation as acting president for the day, a majority group member is reported to have threatened a minority member with fisticuffs.

Walkout Arguments

Members of the majority group claimed that the minority group was undemocratic, not representing the students who voted them into office, and generally fouling up the system of student government.

As to the situation of the general walkout of the minority combo in the council, Helen Rich, minority member, said:

"There ought to be some sort of compromise in the council, in other words a middle point should be reached. We realize there are two extremes, so, for better government, there should exist in the council a spirit on the part of the members to get together."

Kurt Levi, frosh councilite, voiced his opinion on the minority group stand, when he stated: "We failed to attend the Thursday meeting of the student council, as a protest to the way the majority overrules the minority on every issue pertaining to voting. Every time they bring up something, inevitably it passes, because of their majority rule."

Speaking for the opposition, George Capanis, Sophomore councilman and majority party member, declared: "I can readily see their point in not showing up for the meeting, but such continued action would result in the weakening of student government, if not its destruction."

Cloud Selected As Delegate To Pacific UNESCO Conference

President A. J. Cloud last week was named delegate to the Pacific Regional Conference on United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization to be held at the San Francisco Opera House, May 13, 14 and 15.

Appointment was made by American Junior College Association president, Leland Medsker, of Wright Junior College, Chicago.

As stated in the letter to all delegates, the primary purpose of this conference is, because of the current critical situation of the world, to unite those who believe in the fundamental principles of UNESCO; that a lasting peace must be founded on the intellectual and moral solidarity of mankind.

Prominent speakers will address the three plenary sessions, and section meetings will follow the following pattern:

I. Education. What can be done in the communities to assist it?

II. Communication. What can be done to assist people in better understanding world problems and distinguish between propaganda and sound information?

III. Human and Social Relations. Correction of tension in our communities and the world.

IV. Cultural Interchange. Development of greater tolerance among people.

V. Natural Sciences. The challenge to it and that of human relations.

VI. Reconstruction. Plan to stimulate and coordinate aid to war-devastated countries.

WAA Sponsors Family Night In Women's Gym

Entertainment and relaxation for families and veterans from Hurley Village, will preside at a Family Night, presented by Women's Athletic Association, tomorrow in the women's gymnasium.

Taking the limelight in the series of events to be given, coeducational badminton class will bat the bird around the gymnasium in display of skill and sportsmanship.

Participants from other classes will also show their prowess in other sports.

Students are invited to attend and bring their families, whether the age is 9 or 99, Barbara Combs, WAA president, said.

Flower Shop Finishes Entry In Garden Show

Again entering the California Annual Spring Garden Show held at the Oakland Exposition Building Auditorium and surrounding grounds from April 26 to May 2, the college flower shop completed its display yesterday, according to John Lawrence, instructor of the course.

Theme of the Oakland Flower Show is Western Woodlands. The flower shop display is centrally located in the auditorium's Hall of Flowers, Lawrence said.

Drama Captivates Local Audience

Berkeley Square Succeeds In Creating An Illusion Of Eighteenth Century Living

By Bill Franklin

Captivating crowds in the little theater, John L. Balderston's mastery of play writing and the college drama group's intense presentation of the three act fantasy, Berkeley Square, succeeded in creating an illusion of unity between two periods in history.

While the general theme includes the problems and misunderstandings of a man turning into one of his own great-grandfathers without losing his identity with the present, the plot centers in the tragic romance of two lovers parted by an accident in their relation to time.

Outstanding performer in this production is Paul Ellison for his part as Peter Standish. Acting with a fine interpretation of emotion, Ellison creates a feeling of reality needed in this drama.

Backed by a talented cast, Mary Cooke, playing the part of warm, understanding Helen Pettigrew, also deserves high praise in developing the feeling of love and sacrifice for Peter Standish.

The stage properties, although not ornate, are effective in producing both moods, that of 18th century England and of modern England. Costumes include both the bright plumage worn in old England and that of the modern era.

The main criticism to be found is in the lighting effects. A bright sun shines through the windows, while a storm rages outside.

April 21 Finale For Berkeley Square Play

Final performances of Berkeley Square will be tonight, April 20, and tomorrow night, April 21, in Room 28, main building.

The three act drama, starring faculty member Paul Ellison, is being presented by the college Little Theatre Group and is directed by Bill Culver.

Associated Student Card holders will be admitted free. Admission for others is 60 cents, tickets obtainable at the door.

Curtain time is 8:30 o'clock.

Medics, Band Predict April Showers Friday

With the presentation of the joint dance of the College Band and Pi Mu Gamma, April Showers will come the college's way, Friday, April 23, in the west campus auditorium between the hours of 9 and 12 p.m., band president, Walt McRae, and Pi Mu Gamma president, Pete Isola, announced recently.

The informal swing and cling, which is the first of its kind for the band, will present a four act floor show, featuring the college quartet.

Music for the occasion will be furnished by Gene Mundy and his orchestra.

Members of the dance committee announce that tickets are now being sold for the dance at the price of 50 cents for stags and $1.00 for couples. They will be on sale all this week.

CAB Card Rule Limits Full AGS Membership

That City College chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma, statewide two-year college honorary scholastic society, has not reached its full potentialities of membership was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Cranston, adviser, who cited two reasons for this condition.

"The new ruling of the Club Advisory Board that student club members show Associated Student cards is the primary reason for the college honor society's reaching only an approximate 50 per cent of its possible membership," Cranston said.

"If this remaining 50 per cent would purchase student cards, they could take advantage of the honors and privileges accompanying Alpha Gamma Sigma membership," he added.

Banquet, Concert Fete School Week

City College will fete the 29th annual Public Schools Week here with a banquet and concert in the west campus auditorium, Wednesday evening, April 28, under the general direction of Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president.

The college representatives on the central committee sponsoring the celebration include William Eckert, advertising art instructor, and Luckmann. The program, in conjunction with the week, will include a banquet prepared by the Hotel and Restaurant division, and a concert by the college choir and orchestra. The choir will perform selections from the coming college production, The Vagabond King, which may be seen in the west campus auditorium, May 20, 21 and 22.

Speech Eliminations Staged Tomorrow

Eliminations to determine a finalist to represent City College in the 6th annual California Junior College Public Speaking Contest, sponsored by the Native Daughters of the Golden West, will be held tomorrow, April 21, Claude A. Shull, speech instructor, disclosed today.

Ten minute speeches on one of four topics on California: Landmarks, Pioneers, History, or Centennials will determine the finalist. The finalist will enter the district elimination contest.

Alumni Association Lists Core Group Of 200 Grads

Assured completion of plans by the second week in May, the Alumni Association Committee expects definite action by that date.

Through the efforts of Frank Ferguson, alumni committee head, approximately 200 names of graduates have been compiled from lists of such campus organizations as the scholastic honor society and local social organizations.

After the June graduation the committee estimates its rolls will be enriched by the addition of about 600 new names.

On the list of plans to stimulate alumni interest in college activities is the selling of tickets to the coming college light opera, The Vagabond King, appearing here May 20, 21, and 22.

Sending out a committee SOS for volunteer aid, Ferguson said, "We would be grateful for any assistance, especially in clerical fields."

Speaking for the rest of the committee, Ferguson concluded, "The City College Alumni Association is in the bag from where we're sitting."

Herbert Levy is alumni liason officer.

SCALING THE HEIGHTS of Hurley Village's only skyscraper, a small army of college students' children are seen passing the time of day in the village's tiny play area.

Hugging the lower altitudes and playing it safe-like, are young Misses Diane Winans and Carla Jensen. Carla, daughter of Jim Jensen, track coach at CCSF, shows definite promise in the acrobatic field.

AMS Plans Festive Mardi Gras For June

Dance and carnival replete with costumes and prizes will create the theme at the Associated Men Student Mardi Gras, scheduled for Friday, June 4, and to be presented in the auditorium, Byrne Davis, AMS president, disclosed today.

College organizations may obtain a petition for their concessions May 1, and in case the same theme is chosen by more than one organization, the earliest petition will be accepted, Davis added.

Although the auditorium has been set as the location for the Mardi Gras, plans are being discussed for having the carnival out doors. These plans depend on whether a fire proof tent can be found, Davis said.

Student Council Awaits Decision By State Board On Legality Of NSA

Attended by this semester's largest audience, Tuesday's Student Council session functioned smoothly until the National Student's Association came into focus.

With previous business cleared from the president's desk, discussion pertaining to this college's joining the NSA began.

Legal aspects of NSA came into question when Dean Jack Brady read sections of both the NSA by-laws and the State Board of Education Code.

When asked if he thought the NSA was legal or not, Brady answered, "I am waiting for a report from the Board's legal advisor."

Bob Reilly then moved that the discussion be tabled until receipt of the report; some members objected, and the meeting was adjourned.

Hillsman's All Wet, Wants Raincoat Back

Coach Ralph Hillsman asked today if there is a young man by the name of Arthur Lapidis drifting around the campus. If so Hillsman says, will he kindly trot down to the men's gym as soon as possible and exchange the H_2O repeller (raincoat) which he got by mistake at the Block SF dance held here April 6.

April Showers Dance Tonight

Pi Mu Gamma, Band Association Feature Mundy Music, Floorshow

Colors of the rainbow will feature the Pi Mu Gamma—College Band Association April Showers dance tonight from 9 to 12 in the west campus auditorium, Pete Isola and Walter McRae, respective group presidents, said yesterday.

Music for the informal hop will be played by noted Lake County musician Gene Mundy and his orchestra. In addition a four-act floor show will be presented during the intermission.

Sharon Haupert, professional dancer who is at present dancing and singing with the Campus Capers, Dramatics Club of Presidio, San Francisco, and who has been asked to join Billy Rose's Aquacade in Minneapolis and Chicago, will be the main attraction of the show.

There will also be a performance by a talented dance team from across the bay and an accordion solo to be presented by Pete Ross of the college.

The rainbow effects for the show will be supplied by a revolving power wheel, allowing the spotlight to shine on the array of colors, giving it the realistic effect.

Active organization treasurer of Pi Mu Gamma, Larry Tullius, said, "You can come, fem or no fem, so get your ticket now from any member of the band or Pi Mu Gamma." They are being sold at 50 cents per person.

College Exhibits Floral Displays In Oakland Show

In a heavily wooded forest of cool brooks and mossy trees, the City College Horticulture department will have two choice spots at the California Annual Spring Garden Show held in the Oakland Exposition Building Auditorium, and surrounding grounds, from April 26 to May 2.

The Flower Shop exhibit is located at the Auditorium Hall of Flowers, and the Horticulture Society will have its display out of doors.

Students of the flower shop, defending their championship won last year, have planned a display centered around a bowl arrangement of Iris, Bird of Paradise and Iceland poppies typifying the rays of the sun.

Background for the array, which will fan out five feet in diameter, will be a pipe organ effect of California bamboo, according to John Lawrence, instructor of the course.

Classes during the period of the showing, Lawrence stated, will be held at the exhibit. Classroom time will be devoted to demonstrating to the public a cross section of work done by the students in the college's flower course.

Theme of the Horticulture Society's display will be a Garden Retreat By a Waterfall. The exhibit, designed by Norm Hansen, student of the landscape division, will feature a patio garden, cascading fuchsias and terraced azaleas, rhododendrons, primulas, and begonias in 400 square feet of space.

Student Vote System Impresses Delegates

Emphasizing the prestige gained by the highly successful two party system recently innovated at this college, Max Call, Associated Student president, in a report on the results of the Pasadena Student Government Conference, declared several California colleges wish to send observers to this college for the sole purpose of viewing the elections.

The party system that Call made reference to was created when a Student League came into being this semester in direct opposition to the prevailing fraternity groups.

Concerning the local problem of the Alumni Association, the president added that Compton College is preparing a complete report for this college on various methods for successful organizing.

Reedly College in Fresno has been selected for next semester's conference, Call concluded.

Chartered Clubs Meet In College Hour Today

Campus clubs will meet in regularly scheduled rooms during college hour today at 10:40 o'clock, according to Assistant Dean Jack Brady.

New clubs recently chartered by the Club Advisory Board should make arrangements for room assignments, Brady said.

No college hour is scheduled the following Friday, April 30, because of midterms.

Two films tentatively scheduled for showing today by the Cosmopolitan Club were unavailable at the present time, club officers said Wednesday.

Faculty To Fete Cloud With Dinner On May 21

Faculty night at Vagabond King, Friday, May 21, will begin in the west campus lounge with a buffet supper in honor of President A. J. Cloud, Thomas R. Porter, president of the Faculty Association, announced Monday.

The affair is under the direction of Joseph Amori, chairman, and six other members of the faculty social committee, Porter explained.

Patrons and patronesses of Vagabond King will also be invited to the buffet as guests of the faculty, Porter said.

After the supper the faculty members will attend the opera.

Hostesses Entertain Faculty Men At Lunch

Students of the college hostess class will entertain ten men faculty members at a buffet luncheon this afternoon from 1:30 to 2:30 o'clock in Room 108, according to Letha Roberts, instructor of the home economics department.

Opera Financial Officers Named

Indicating that the total number of students who will participate in presenting the light opera Vagabond King, slated for May 20 through May 22, will exceed 400, Maurice Powers, faculty finance chairman, today announced the appointment of Jack Sommers and Ignatius Liscola as student finance officers.

Finance headquarters will be set up in The Guardsman office, Powers and George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor, said.

Powers further pointed out that there will be one committee numbering around 80 students from various college organizations, that will sell tickets on the campus.

In addition, the faculty finance chairman added that there will be another committee composed of some 40 members, who will sell tickets only at the silver pole and the guardshack.

Working in close conjunction with Herb Levy, light opera student manager and Jack Haglan, assistant manager, Powers also has plans for off-campus ticket sales.

Time Flies; Midterm Teasers End April 30

Second mid-term examinations will be given during the week of April 26 to 30, Mary Jane Leonard, registrar, announced yesterday.

Mid-term grades will be distributed to the students during the first part of May. The distribution procedure will be identical with that of the first six week period, Miss Leonard said.

Locals Plan Annual Fete For School Week Festival

In conjunction with a city-wide observance of Public Schools Week, City College will fete the 29th annual occurrence of the week here with a banquet and concert Wednesday, April 28, under the general supervision of Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud.

The festivities will be initiated with the banquet in the faculty dining room at 7:30 p.m. Following the dinner, President Cloud will introduce the principal speaker, Lloyd Grabeal, a prominent member of the central committee sponsoring the celebration.

The concert, consisting of selections from the coming opera, Vagabond King, will feature the college choir under the direction of Flossita Badger, and the orchestra, under the direction of Meyer Cahn.

Soloists with the choir include Robert Sharrett, David Heunegardt, Carolyn Herfield, David Arrilaga, Lillian Gegus, and Roy Burt. Roy Barnett is narrator for the program.

Luckmann announced plans for an open house in the evening, which will include inspection by the guests of the west campus buildings.

As another feature of Public Schools Week, the choir will sing selections from this program Monday, April 26, at 5:45 p.m., over KFRC.

It's High Time For The Council To Nail Down The NSA Question

FOR the past two years the Student Council has been juggling a hot potato in and out of the fire, trying to make up its mind whether to butter said potato or throw it away.

In the last meeting the council finally got the spud up on the table, and that is where it sits for the moment.

The hot issue in question is the NSA, more formally known as the National Students Association. Its constitution is quite liberal, to put it mildly, and therein lies the biggest beef against the organization.

In keeping with the mode of the moment, anything, and anyone, too liberal is immediately termed "Red" and gets a herring in the face.

Consequently, the NSA has been raked over the red coals in many states and is now being given the once-over by the two year colleges in California; including, of course, City College of San Francisco.

Now, what is keeping the NSA argument on the Student Council table is the legality of its so-called "Bill of Rights" provisions within the by-laws of the constitution of the NSA.

It seems, according to Dean Brady in his reading of the State Education Code, that the NSA constitution is "illegal."

This might be true inasmuch as the black and white wording of the Education Code is concerned, but this still does not provide an excuse for the council to table the matter indefinitely, awaiting clarification of its "legality."

The matter is crying to be brought out in the open and discussed honestly and frankly by every student attending college, and it is the duty of the council to pass judgment on the NSA, whether they intend to join or not.

As admitted by Dean Brady the State Education Code can be interpreted in many ways. Those who heard his reading agree that most of the rulings border on "blue laws" and could well stand modernizing.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

THE Post War World or, Send me to college, Mom, I'm loaded: It's Ram seldom how many would-be socialites were forced to change their plans about going to last Friday's Intersorority dance. It seems that Rotund Jim Edwards was supposed to hawk the tickets at two bucks per couple, BUT his voice from the block-house loudspeaker with the following inflationary message: "Get your tickets here. Just two dollars a dance!!"

Notes Under a Table Down at Prosek's: Customers at Mel's Ram Shack were thrown for a ten yard loss recently at the sight of a middle-aged lady in furs demanding a cocktail from Mel. After that worthy assured her that the strongest stuff in the house was coke—the befuddled and befurred lady swooped away toward Prosek's bar.

(Comment: Mel had better discontinue his policy of staying open late during dance nights. Some lush might get indignant and start flashing his driver's license.)

This Hurts Me Worse Than It Hurts You Dept.: Elsewhere in this rag you can (if it pleases you) read an expose of old Nobody and his feathered soiree of information. The legend was written by rash, young Doug "Call-me-Benchley" Johnson. Old Nobody doesn't like flippancy, so Johnson has been duly transferred to Fisherman's Wharf where he has orders to interview a few clams. His companion is Hollywoodish Roy Pasini, a sportsman who formerly wrote Ramblings on the sports page.

(Comment: The bird may tell us a few items about the campus, but most of this stuff gets the bird anyway.)

Short Items That Won't Interest You Dept.: Bewildered Main Bldg. students are closely following the activities of a small brown and white pooch who is engaged in a one dog campaign to rid the college lawn of gophers. After the pup kills his gophers he proudly offers them to nearby coeds. There have been no takers so far.

Sex Rears Its Lovely Head: Catch the posters in the student fountain which advertise coming dances. They appeal strictly to the baser instincts of our corrupt male students. The Pi Mu Gamma's get a Chocolate covered ram for the most effective sign. (Those pre-meds really know their anatomy!)

Someone To OK Clothing Issue

THE RIGHT THING at the right time is the phrase tagged to band manager Walter McRae's name by the members of the band. Right now, McRae, after plugging at it for two semesters, sees band uniforms just around the corner, no more of the hard times costumes that featured last year's football games.

McRae Plugs Away, Sees Band Uniforms 'Just Around Corner'

By Dave Hansen

Plugging away consistently for two semesters at someone or other in the hope of obtaining uniforms for the college band, Walt McRae, student band manager, expressed satisfaction in that the uniforms are just around the corner.

The 20 year old ex-marine band manager feels that the band uniform situation is over the rough spots, and that the Student Council will appropriate the necessary funds to obtain them.

"The administration as well as the students realize the need for a uniformed musical group to represent this college at various functions where a band is needed," the good looking musician declared, adding:

"In fact, at the suggestion of the Dean of Men, our band appeared on the field during half time of last Fall's Los Angeles City College-Ram football contest dressed in just about every odd assorted piece of clothing we could find.

"Our purpose was obvious; then as now we needed money for uniforms, but though we were deuled funds last semester, such will not be the case this semester."

The curly headed efficient band leader, a graduate of Lowell High School, intends to continue his education at the University of Oregon.

Although McRae spends a great deal of time taking care of the college's band arrangements, his major is in Business Administration.

McRae's campus popularity is probably due to his non-excitable nature. (He didn't yell at The Guardsman reporter during this interview.) His executive abilities are excellent, according to members of the band. They declare that McRae always does the right thing at the right time.

Barber's Dilemma, Or Bearded Bassos

Stubble trouble is causing itchy jowls among more than 50 of Flossita Badger's choristers who are striving to sprout longer hair, beards, and side burns for the coming production of Vagabond King.

To start from "scratch" and raise foliage suitable to 12th century gay blades by May 20, when the production starts its three day run, is becoming a ticklish problem.

Wigs are unwieldy and expensive, so Miss Badger has urged her artists to make the effort. Some of the basses might not have much difficulty in being well beavered by deadline, but the problem is what to do with those who only manage to sprout a five o'clock shadow?

Local barbers are already starting to feel the slump and sigh disconsolately for days gone by, but the barber shop quartettes are no longer getting shaved.

"Ah, well," one barber sighed, "hair today and gone tomorrow."

Then again the boys may hold on to their outmoded coiffure of a bygone and romantic period and save them for the coming California Centennial when everyone will be running argund and mumbling in their '49er beards.

At any rate, what with fencing duels and Apache dancing sparkplugs of opera action, anything can happen in newly-dubbed Balboa Gulch.

Robespierre's Glands Hit New High As Fetters Replace (Sigh) Sweaters

By Doug Johnson

Spring flitted with gay abandon about the Silver Pole today, and ventured forth to chuck fistfulls of daisies around the greensward before the college.

Espying Jack Lovelocks in a sober discussion with Mike St. Robespierre, his bosom friend, Spring put thumb and forefinger to her lips and whistled up Dan Cupid, bidding the cherub forth for a little dirty work. Cupid selected an arrow and let Jack have it, right under the jerkin.

Thus it was that Jack's sensitive face was observed to quiver and glow, and he suddenly queried, "Michael, old cabbage, do you ever . . . uh . . . you know . . . think of women?"

Mike heaved a sigh, leaned back against the eucalyptus tree and smiled enigmatically. (He's always doing this.) A gentle light of understanding sparked in his eyes as he studied his classmate's quivering dial.

Witnesses assert he commented, "Ah, I see that Spring has bade Cupid forth to target practice about the campus, and that he has done you the dirty right under the jerkin."

Lovelocks lowered his eyes and blushed prettily. Mike flicked a speck of dust from his cuff and threw it back to a bird. He went on, "Yes, Lovelocks, old spinach, in the course of my errant career I've given an occasional thought to women. I've found them charming, piquant, and . . . er . . . charming."

A troubled frown visited his usually cheerful countenance. He sighed again, cast his eyes to the azure sky, and continued, "But lately, old asparagus tip, I've been troubled by a tick of enthusiasm in this direction."

"Memory of an old love, perhaps," conjectured Lovelocks, the romantic.

"Glands," Mike answered cryptically. "I've composed a song about it. Would you care to hear . . . "

"Pray do, old salad," Lovelocks enjoined.

St. Robespiere filled his lungs and gave forth in rich, lilting tenor. Witnesses aver that the words went like this:

With seddened eyes I observe.
The disappearence of the curve
Once charmfully sweatered,
Now demurely fettered.
The roundness our women once sat on
Now bows to the dictates of fashion,
Trapped in a harness by Charis
And cloaked in a pup-tent from Paris.
This unstimulating change in the scenes
Bodes ill for the male endocrines.

"Despite what you say, you cynical cad," Jack grated, "I still think women are, uh—kind of—uh—nice."

Mike smiled gently and dreamily. Passers-by claim he murmured something that sounded like,

"Me too, mon ami."

Absentee Strike Irks 'Bare Majority'; AVC Resents Orders

Letters To The Editor

• Pro, Con On Davis

Editor, The Guardsman:

Enclosed you will find a copy of a letter addressed to the Student Council dated the 15th of April, 1948. We humbly submit this letter to you for consideration of publication so that the general student body can readily see the action taken by a certain group of students who were elected to represent the Associated Students.

Contradictory to the facts presented in the letter, one, Byrne Davis, was appointed to The chair by a vote of nine to five, which, in our opinion, is not a bare majority. Thank you.

—Bob Reilly, Bob McVey.

Editor's Note: As requested, the letter, in its entirety, follows:

Student Council:

In lieu of the fact that the Associated Student President and Vice-President are unavoidably absent from this meeting of the Student Council, and in consideration of the uncompromising action of a bare majority of the Student Council in the choice of a presiding officer, we regret our not being in attendance today.

However, we wish to seize this opportunity to inform whomever it may concern that our present action shall be interpreted not as a lack of interest in Student Affairs for the betterment of College Activities, but rather as an action taken toward a more sound policy of cooperation in Student Government.

Respectfully (Signed),

Jack Hagan, William J. Hurley, Kurl Levi, Helen Rich, J. F. Solorzano.

• Call's Knuckles Rapped

Editor's, The Guardsman:

On April 7 a Club Presidents' Meeting was held. There was no formal notice of this meeting and therefore only a few of the Campus Organizations were represented, yet the student president, Max Call, assigned duties to each group.

We believe that this method of assigning activities is not in keeping with democratic school government. The A. V. C. is eager and willing to take an active part in Campus activities, but we resent being "TOLD" without representation, what our duties are.

Chairman, A. V. C.

Gala Boxing Show To Start Tuesday

Men's Gymnasium Scene Of Gigantic Fight Eliminations

EDITOR'S NOTE: All entries for boxing handicapping selections must be submitted to the men's gymnasium or The Guardsman office by Monday afternoon, April 26.

By Walt Roessing

Eliminations get under way Tuesday afternoon in the men's gymnasium in the college's first round intramural novice boxing tournament, according to Coach Roy Diederichsen.

To the right of this column is a handicap judging all the pugilists who are entered in the boxing tournament.

Merchandise awards of $5, $2.50, and $1 will be given to the students who can pick the most winners in the college handicap, Diederichsen said.

Only one entry may be turned in by each student and the applications will be accepted in the men's gymnasium until 5 p. m., Monday, April 26.

Handicappers should circle their choice in each weight section and turn the scope into the men's gymnasium with Associated Student card number and name enclosed. Separate entries will also be acceptable, but Associated Student card numbers must be on each application.

Ram Harriers Meet Cal Yearlings Tomorrow

With the NCJCC clambake just a skip and a jump away, Jim Jensen and his 26 fugitives from a water carnival hike over to Berkeley tomorrow for an important tune-up with Cal's freshmen harriers. Things are scheduled to hum at 10 a. m.

Both squads have been rained out for the better part of the season, and will go into today's session nip and tuck in regard to condition.

Given a good day, the Jensenmen could pull this one out of the fire. The team depth is there, but the lads are far from their peak.

Three Rams showing plenty of improvement the past week are hurdler Jack Hurst, pole-vaulter Mel Knight, and javelin man Jim Teburzi. The latter has a lob of 162 feet to his credit.

Large Coed Turnout To Use Both Gyms

Defying the old adage, "united we stand; divided we fall," the co-ed badminton class, under the direction of Nancy Sparks and Coach Ralph Hillsman, are now using both the men's and the women's gymnasium to accommodate the large turnouts. The use of both gymnasiums went into effect Wednesday, April 14, Miss Sparks said.

Under this arrangement, the men will now dress and receive their rackets in the men's gymnasium, where previously they used a portion of the women's gymnasium.

The joint playing of the co-ed teams will not be affected by this new arrangement. They will continue playing as mixed teams.

"New members are always welcome to this frolicsome group," Miss Sparks said. "It is not necessary to wait for enrollment next semester in order to participate in the events," she added.

The time not having been changed, the class will continue meeting on Wednesday evenings, from 7 to 9.

Nederman & Co. Take Vallejo 8-1

Slender Paul Nederman, Ramland's rags-to-riches hurler making his second appearance of the season, limited the vaunted Vallejo Junior College Redskins to four scattered hits while striking out eight last Tuesday afternoon as his Ram mates were pounding out an 8-1 victory over the visiting aggregation on the Ocean View diamond.

First baseman Ray White collected three safeties in five times at bat to pace the locals' 13 hit attack on three enemy hurlers.

Rams Whip St. Mary's

San Francisco City College's track and field team walloped St. Mary's on the Gael's field Tuesday by a convincing 85½ to 45½ count. The Rams took first places in 10 of the 14 events, with half-miler Jim Wyatt turning in one of his best seasonal efforts.

Golfers Out To Repeat Win Over State Today

Rained out last week, Coach Ralph Hillsman and his band of putters take to the greens this afternoon against their cross town rivals, S. F. State, at Harding Park.

Victorious in an early meeting with the Gators by a 12½ to 8½ count, Hillsman's slickers will be out to make their superiority on the links decisive as far as the downtowners are concerned.

Handling the clubs for the locals will be Bill King, Bob Padgett, Joe Durand, Walt Ross, and, of course, the sporting twins, Bob and Don Payne.

Netters Cop Third Straight Victory

Undefeated, and riding high among the top contenders for the NCJCC tennis crown, the City College racketmen resume conference play next week with Yuba and Stockton Junior Colleges.

The latest conquest for the locals was a 7-0 whitewashing of the potentially strong Napa team. Playing without the services of Herbby Suhr, the netters led by Ed Jacobson who "came through" with a thrilling 3 set victory in singles play and then came back to team with Bobby Sockolov to win another gruelling 3 setter in doubles.

Sockolov also counted a singles victory trimming Jim Duncan 8-6, 6-0, as did Bill Covall who dumped Jake Gardner 6-4, 6-0.

Rounding out the clean sweep triumph were Fred Rodgers and Frank Reed who each won singles matches and teamed to annex the finale.

Rodgers breezed in his singles with the most impressive score of the day, 6-1, 6-1.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

AT 12 noon last Tuesday, Student Council members trickled into Room 4D and found themselves seats.

By 12:05, the various deans were in their chairs, the contingent from the press was situated, then President Max Call crashed his gavel on the desk, and the 17th session of the Spring '48 council was called to order.

At 12:07, an assorted group of students started arriving. When the clock hands reached the 12:25 mark there were in excess of 75 students standing around waiting for something to happen.

Stage Is Set

Councilman Bob Reilly, seemingly leader of the majority Fraternity Block, flanked by a couple of his stooges, sat to the rear of the room.

Up front, Student League minority leader Jack Hurley along with Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, sat somewhat uneoncerned.

For what purpose was this large group of students present? Was it because of the two-party split? Was it because of the band uniform issue? Was it to see what Bob Reilly looked like?

With 15 minutes remaining, the subject of the National Students Association was brought up from the floor. Handsome Jack Brady, the industrious dean, shuffled through his papers, and came forth with factual and somewhat conclusive information on NSA.

Interesting Info

The youngish dean pointed out that the by-laws of the NSA constitution were directly opposed to the code of laws set down by the California State Board of Education.

In the course of his oration, Brady brought to light the facts that legally students of this college are not allowed to go into pool rooms, indulge in the use of narcotics (cigarettes?), etc., and the students' actual moral conduct is subject to the instructor's approval.

After the laughter quieted, the dean put his papers away, the council tabled further discussion on the NSA pending legal clarification, and the meeting was adjourned.

Crowd Let Down

The largest crowd of students to attend a council session seemed disappointed. They probably expected fireworks, and only a cap pistol went off.

Seemingly immature Byrne Davis, AMS president, clapped his hands and said, "the fearless five comes through again." Boyish Davis was referring to the group of Student Leaguers, who had voted negatively on the tabling of the NSA discussion. Rather than table the discussion, they wanted to postpone it until a definite time.

"A LITTLE BIRD TOLD ME," is the answer to the question of where Jack Hulse gets copy for his column, News to Nobody. Here he is seen bribing one of his agents who has just flown in with a lead. Hulse usually pays off in Chocolate Rams. When asked what he thought of being recompensed in apples, the bird was heard to remark, "Cheap."

Two Points Due For Discussion By CAB

Constructive discussion on two points is expected to be the order of the day at the Club Advisory Board meeting this morning during college hour, according to Mel Dykman, president of the group.

The first point, which was brought up at the last meeting, April 16, was that each club delegate to CAB suggest at meetings of his respective club, the prospect of having a booth at the forthcoming Mardi Gras. It was pointed out that this would mean a profit.

Spirited discussion is expected on the second point, that Associated Student card holders be accorded a set reduction at all functions put on at the college by any of the various clubs.

Freshmen Name Dance Rainbow Rhapsody

Title of the freshman class dance was announced yesterday as the Rainbow Rhapsody by Bob Jennings, freshman class president, who revealed further that the festivities are slated for Friday, April 30, in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel where informal dress will mark the first affair of the semester for the freshman class.

Vagabond King Posters Paper Campus Today

Vagabond Kings are coming to the college, and to be sure that the forthcoming production will be in everyone's mind, 300 posters designed by Sydney Winchester, graphic arts student, after a medieval motif suggested by Robert Selby, production publicity chairman, will appear wherever the campus provides a surface for their display.

Forum Magazine Copy Deadline Nearing

Deadline for all contributions to Forum Magazine is Friday, April 30, according to Marvin Silverman, editor of the magazine, who stated that all offerings are to be submitted to faculty advisers John Gerstung or John Ross in Room 415 on the west campus or to Dorothy Mercer, Room 251 in the main building.

Miss Mercer, faculty sponsor of the Forum Club, added that the receipt of material is increasing, but there is a need for much more.

Tickets for the magazine are still available at the college bank, selling for 35 cents, Silverman said.

College Hosts California Northern Hotel Association In Spring Fete

Annual spring luncheon of the California Northern Hotel Association will be held Monday, May 17, according to Hilda Watson, hotel and restaurant division head.

The fete is jointly held with the college's hotel division as an opportunity to exhibit the work of the division to the local hotel industry's leaders.

"This is the division's opportunity of the year to show the hotel men what they, the students, can do in the way of conducting such an affair," Mrs. Watson disclosed.

The announcement of the hosts for the occasion, along with the chef, cooks and maitre d'hotel, are yet to be posted. Arrangements for a program in which students will present phases of the work done in the department are expected in the near future.

The division is planning accommodations for 100 guests, and special invitations will be sent to a group of faculty members who will welcome the hotel men to the college.

Mrs. Watson said further that the annual meeting of the division's alumni will be held at the same time, making the occasion doubly impressive. At this time officers of the alumni association for the ensuing year will be elected.

Band Uniform Vote Slated Today

Deliberate Delay Is Charged; Committee Report Also Due

Today promises a definite vote on the question of band uniforms, according to action at the Student Council meeting of Thursday, April 22.

The question came to a crux when Max Call, Associated Student president, asked for a report from a committee appointed to investigate the possibility of getting donations for the band uniforms.

Instead of a report, Call received dead silence first, followed by charges of inactivity and "passing the buck."

Among the first of the indignant was Nancy Wallace who pointed out that the committee, scheduled to report in 10 days, was far overdue and that she believed that the question was being delayed deliberately.

Report Promised

Frank Ferguson, attempting to defend the committee, promised a report which is due today.

Further complicating the issue, Bob Reilly stated that he has another method for raising funds, consisting in budgeting some of next semester's student funds. John Brady, assistant dean of men, indicated that he believed such action would not be possible.

Opinion Favors Uniforms

Call, asking for a council vote of opinion on whether the group favored using $600, normally alloted to the handbook, for band uniforms, received approval.

This was merely a vote of opinion, and today the council is expected to vote on the actual question of whether the band will receive the $600, which if passed will be transferred from funds used to print the college handbook.

Floral Society Enters Exposition

Western Woodland, theme of the California Spring Garden Show, opened last evening with the City College's two floral displays viewed by hundreds of first nighters at a preview showing. The general public was admitted this morning.

The annual show, held in Oakland at the Auditorium, Exposition building and surrounding grounds, closes Sunday, May 2.

According to Harry Nelson, of the horticulture department, the Horticulture Society's display is located out of doors, featuring a waterfall, and garden patio. The landscaping was designed by Norm Hansen.

The flower shop exhibit centrally located in the auditorium Hall of Flowers, according to John Lawrence, instructor of the course, is centered around a five foot bowl arrangement of flowers ranging from white to deep gold or orange. Background for the display is a pipe organ effect of California bamboo.

Band Waits Council Action On Uniforms

No definite word has yet been received from the Student Council on the question of band uniforms, which has been on the platform for some time, but action is expected today, Walt McRae, student manager, explained Tuesday.

McRae stated, "the band is striving to be a fine representative of the college for all occasions arising this semester and next and will make a fine performance next semester whether they have the uniforms or not; however, they feel that they have the due support for the purchasing of the uniforms."

Talent Bureau Seeks All Building Geniuses

Still plugging for that valuable commodity, local talent, the college's Talent Placement Bureau is continuing its policy of search for budding geniuses in the fields of impersonation, dancing, singing, publicity, and other allied fields of entertainment, Roy Barnett, talent bureau head, stated yesterday.

Evidence that the talent bureau has flourished since its inception at the beginning of the semester is indicated by the service that it has rendered for the college. The bureau has placed local talent for appearances at rallies and dramatic presentations.

Future plans of the bureau include hospital shows for disabled veterans and more entertainment for the students of the City College.

According to Barnett, the two-fold purpose of the organization is to develop student talent and to provide talent for the college-sponsored affairs.

Barnett urged that anyone possessing any interest in or adaptability for the work of the bureau see him.

Cloud Urges Uniforms, Democracy In Action

Restating the administration policy of encouraging student activities, President A. J. Cloud early this week lauded student government upon its democratic showing and the American principle by which it operates.

As to band uniforms, Dr. Cloud said, "For three years I have urged Student Council members to purchase uniforms for the college band. I still believe that such an expenditure would be a great gain for the general welfare of the college and the spirit of its students."

Frosh Dance Slated Friday At Fairmont

Rainbow Rhapsody will highlight the end of the second midterm period as the freshman class of the college presents its social affair of the semester at the Fairmont Hotel this Friday, April 30, Bob Jennings, freshman class president, emphasized yesterday.

Free to all student card holders, the dance will be informal with street dress appropriate garb for the occasion and a no corsage rule in effect.

To set feet dancing to the strains of waltzes, fox-trots, and jazz numbers, Bobby Thurlow's orchestra will be on hand.

Jennings urged that all student card holders take advantage of the freshman class' efforts to produce the first class-sponsored dance of the semester.

The dance committee is composed of six members of the class.

Letterman Hospital Concert Postponed

Postponed until after the presentation of Vagabond King, the proposed concert by the Women's Chorus at Letterman Hospital will be given later in the semester, according to Gertrude Norgard, director.

Mrs. Norgard stated that the postponement came about when it was found most of the chorus is working in the opera, slated for May 20, 21, and 22.

The concert at Letterman will be an afternoon affair in the wards of the hospital.

No College Hour Friday—Midterms

In order that students and instructors will not be cut short of time in the process of mid-term examinations, John J. Brady, assistant dean, announced yesterday that no college hour program is scheduled for Friday, April 30.

Although the ten minutes by which a period is shortened, to allow for college hour, seems small, it aids a student considerably when he is in the process of taking an examination, Brady said.

The next activity college hour is scheduled for Friday, May 7, and will be used for club meetings.

Choral Program Highlights Public School Week Here

Choral selections from the Vagabond King will highlight the Public Schools Week program here tomorrow evening, Lloyd Luckmann, program director, said today.

The program will be presented in the student lounge, building 2, at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow evening, April 28. There is to be no admission charge, and according to Luckmann, students and the general public are invited.

To accommodate those desiring dinner on the campus, the cafeteria facilities will be available until 7 p.m. that evening.

Buildings on the west campus are expected to be open for public inspection at the same time, Luckmann stated.

President A. J. Cloud will deliver a short address and introduce the evening's speaker, Lloyd Graybal, member of the contral committee sponsoring Public Schools Week, after which follows the 40 minute musical section of the program.

Selections from the Vagabond King and soloists from the double cast of principals include the following:

Song of the Vagabonds, Dave Huenegardt; Only a Rose, Bob Sherrat and Helen Setalov; Song of the Kings Archers, chorus of men with Jack Barrows rendering the baritone solo; Nocturne, Katherine Kearlotis and David Arrillaga; Serenade, a trio with voices as yet not selected; Tomorrow, Dave Huenegardt and Carolyn Herfield; Someday, Roy Burt.

The choral numbers will be linked by narration, Roy Barnett narrating. Meyer Cahn will conduct the college orchestra in augmenting orchestral selections. Gertrude Norgard will be accompanist.

Brady Lashes Factions At Presidents' Meeting

Given the floor near the close of the Presidents' Meeting last Wednesday night, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, lashed out at the non-cooperative attitude of factions within student government.

Brady was apparently referring to the Fraternity majority in the council, as well as to the Student League minority in student government.

The dean maintained that a two party system is a good idea when the groups are a check on one another, but claimed that when one side gets its feelings hurt, and then pouts, it is not good for student government.

Groups Part of College

Brady laid the blame for this situation directly on the college organizations. He explained that every recognized group on the campus is not a separate club, but part of the college as a whole.

Asking a rhetorical question, "What have the clubs done for student government in the past?" the assistant dean said that as long as the clubs are out for themselves there will be no harmony in student government.

Brady, in the form of a reminder and not a threat, stated that if student government fails, then the only alternative would be to put student government into the hands of the faculty.

Chasm Grows

He further emphasized that the chasm between these groups grows as each day goes by.

On a more promising note, Brady claimed that both factions actually think alike, but merely bicker on small points. He suggested they have meetings together so as to settle their difficulties.

College Accident Survey Being Made

President A. J. Cloud, in a conversation with chief city administrator, Thomas A. Brooks, yesterday learned that the San Francisco police department is at present carrying on a survey of accidents which have occurred on Phelan Avenue and its intersections, with the intent of correcting the present critical traffic conditions.

Brooks is showing great interest in correcting the traffic condition and stated that he will have an engineer survey the area very soon to make out any possible means which can be used to widen the avenue.

The survey on accidents being conducted, Dr. Cloud stated, should be completed in approximately one week and it is mandatory that all students take all precautions to avoid accidents until the condition is corrected.

In a letter to Brooks in regard to the traffic situation, Dr. Cloud enclosed the editorial which appeared in the Friday, April 18, Guardsman, "Why Wait For Death or Injury to Stimulate Traffic Regulations."

Forum Contribution Deadline Next Friday

No material for Forum Magazine will be accepted after next Friday, April 30, Marvin Silverman, editor, emphasized today.

Offerings are to be submitted to faculty advisers John Gerstung or John Ross, Room 4K, west campus; or to Dorothy Mercer, Room 251, main building.

Forum is written by and for the students of the college, and contains such literary works as poems, essays, reviews, art works, and musical and drama interpretations, Silverman explained.

The magazine is now in its 13th year of publication, and has been issued every spring since the founding of the college.

After a controversy in the student council as to the allocation of funds for Forum, advance tickets are now being sold at 35 cents, which entitles the buyer to a copy of the magazine when it is issued some time in May, Silverman said.

Merchandising Movies Lack Adequate Space

Although plans called for interested students to attend the movies which are now being shown periodically for the selling and merchandising classes, but this is impossible, according to merchandising instructor Virginia Gohn.

Miss Gohn explained that the reason for this was the lack of adequate space in which to show the movies, and stated that the films are being shown in the merchandising classrooms.

The first film was screened last Wednesday. Miss Gohn added, and films on textiles, woolens, and leather tanning are scheduled for the future.

Opera Ticket Sales Discussed At Meeting

Discussion of various ways of selling tickets for the light opera production, Vagabond King, due at the west campus auditorium May 20 through 22, was in the spotlight at the Presidents' Meeting last Wednesday night.

Maurice Powers, faculty finance chairman, forwarded the idea of having each organization purchase tickets for every member of that organization. In this way, Powers explained, that would sell approximately 300 student tickets to start with.

The assembled presidents of the campus organizations generally agreed to Powers' suggestion.

Bank Calls In Vets For AS Card Refunds

Veterans who have requested refunds for last semester's Associated Student cards have been asked to pick up their checks at the student bank as soon as possible by Kevin Ryan, assistant controller.

Ryan revealed early this week that the bank is still accepting requisitions for payment, and pointed out that student veterans desiring the refund should request it soon.

The assistant controller also stated that in the near future O. E. Anderson, controller, would set a deadline for refund requests. This action may be necessary because of the balance of semester work remaining in the student bank.

Smoke Only In Designated Areas, And Guard Against Fire Threat

BECAUSE of the tremendously overcrowded conditions here at City College, authorities have tried in every possible way imaginable to eliminate, or at least reduce, indiscriminate and careless smoking habits within the hallways.

Areas have been specifically designated for smoking purposes, signs have been liberally posted on the walls in the non-smoking areas.

Yet it is not uncommon to see a student calmly enjoying a cigarette while leaning against a "no smoking" sign on a stair-case.

The reason for such stringent restrictions against smoking is the ever-present danger of fire. And a fire in the main building at a peak class hour could well be near-disastrous.

The main building, designed to accommodate only 3,000 people, is jammed far past capacity. A fire on the first floor would result in terrific jams on the too narrow staircases, particularly the ones in the rear of the building.

The buildings on the west campus are even more susceptible to fire, being entirely of wooden construction. Fire, fanned by a strong wind in off the ocean, would wreak havoc over that area.

One burning cigarette dropped carelessly in one of these wooden buildings could result in untold damage in life and in property.

It is for this one reason—fire, that strict rules and regulations must be made, and followed, concerning smoking on the campus.

It is not the case of anyone frowning upon the idea of students smoking. No one is trying to force such a moralistic point of view upon students.

Rather it is the realistic, common sense realization that the hazard of life-taking fire must be constantly guarded against.

It is for this reason that another appeal must be made to the student body to smoke only in designated areas about the campus and to make sure that cigarettes are well ground out when thrown away.

FROM OUR CRIME FILE—The Murder of School Spirit: The gravestone near the Student Fountain, which was torn down last week, but may be up again by now, posed a mystery to the students who read, "Here Lies School Spirit, Killed by The Student Council." (Read on for a clue!!)

(Shrewd Question of the Week:) Who killed Cock Robin? Was it the men and women of the Student League, or was it the MAMMOTH FRAT MAJORITY? Hide your pins and light a candle, boys—the ghost may haunt you!!!!

Red Faces at Raimand Dept: Ambitious, blondish Johnny (Jean Sablon May Show For Today's Rally) Pifer found just how deep a cut can get at last Friday's Presidents' Meeting. Seems that the youthful Rally Commissioner and ex-L.A. lad was sitting with the club presidents as they listened to a group from the Vagabond King explain their needs. Pifer kept shooting questions at the Vag King boys which his fellow wheels thought stupid.

Roof Top Photogs Stoop, Squat And Squint For Pix

By Dong Johnson

From the roof tops or from cellar level, it's the angle that counts for Bev Pasqualetti's photography students who stoop, squat, and squint wherever there's a picture to be had.

Campucitizens who thought they saw the air raid wardens patrolling the roofs of the campus recently were deceived by G. L. Chaunhers, photography student, engaged in snapping views of the campus for the forthcoming issue of Your Future, college public relations organ.

Chambers ascended the top of the main building for some of his shots.

"It was safe enough up there, but windy," he said. "You just gotta hang on to everything and hope you're getting something on the plate."

"Much of our student photography work is on display at Hirsch and Kaye's photo supply office on Grant Avenue during Public Schools Week," Pasqualetti announced.

A summer session in photography (about 50 per cent of which will be held outdoors on field trips) is in the offing during the coming vacation. Pasqualetti hopes to instruct about, 20 students during this period.

"Last year's summer session was such a success that I hope to be able to repeat it this year," he affirmed.

"These outdoor excursions," he went on, "seem to stimulate the dormant skill in the students. Last year we had beginners who didn't know one end of the camera from the other, but who turned out amazingly good work."

Rap Council "Politicos"; New ERP Plan

Letters To The Editor

● Need For Compromise
Editor, The Guardsman:

Congratulations to Helen Rich and Kurt Levi of the minority group in the Student Council for shedding some intelligent light on the situation. It is probably very obvious that when the Fraternity majority in there wants to do something, well, they do it.

As Miss Rich said, "There ought to be some sort of compromise in the council," seems to be a very good idea.

However with the biased, undemocratic Fraternities representing only a small number of students, this probably would be impossible.

Sadame Hara

● "Politicians" Rapped
Editor, The Guardsman:

Kurt Levi, frosh councilman, should visit a Poly Sci instructor and have the principles of democracy clearly and carefully defined.

His statement in the Tuesday, April 20 issue of The Guardsman to the effect that the reason he and four other confused "politicians" refused to attend a council meeting was because, "the majority overrules the minority on every issue pertaining to voting." Since when doesn't the majority rule in a democracy. Either Messrs. Levi, Hurley, Solorzano and Hagan don't know, or don't care. Either way it seems poor representation for the students. Let's get hep boys, you're living in the U.S.A.

● More Blessed To Give
Editor, The Guardsman:

It has again come to my notice that a million or so is to be given to another country—Asia Minor.

While this is a wonderful practice (lately fast becoming a habit) of the United States, father, mother, sister and brother to every small country that puts out the hand of want, I think, in the main, the program of give, give and give, defeats itself.

I am an average American (sic) and while I love to play, I detest work in any form. Now this aid to Europe is just the thing for me. Instead of sticking around here and living up to my pre-ordained life-work—I can hie myself to one of these lucky countries, lie under a palm tree and wait for that international handout. (Salaam, Master!)

Now I have a plan: the essence of this "revolutionary" or pithy plan is to give them (needy people of Europe) their own seeds and let them raise their own food: Simple, isn't it?

"But," asks the wary opponent, "what about the United Nations" at this I say pooh, pooh! They're sowing their own seeds of hate!

Too Many D's? AGS Can Get You B's

Scholastic Society President Reveals Magic Formula For Raising Poor Grades

By Ann Land

It's a snap to raise a "D" to a "B" in the opinion of Bill Richardson, president of Alpha Gamma Sigma. The method is simple; all you have to do, according to Richardson, is run a line across the middle of the "D".

Richardson, who represented Omega chapter of the college in the statewide Alpha Gamma Sigma conference held in Pasadena recently, returned with several stimulating ideas on advancing local scholarship.

"One such plan," said Richardson, "is the possibility of allowing students to accept partial responsibility in promoting better teaching.

"One of the Junior Colleges in the state has held student and faculty forums on such subjects as final exams and grading techniques, and has found it very successful."

The Alpha Gamma Sigma conference is held annually in order to bring together representatives from the chapters to discuss the problems of the state organization, as well as individual chapters, and to offer solutions for these problems.

Richardson's duties as president of the honor society include presiding at the meetings, preparing the agenda, the power of appointing committees, and serving as a representative.

He also heads the executive committee of that organization which disseminates information on scholarships, and loans funds.

Richardson, an honor student through high school and city college, will graduate this spring and plans to continue his education at a university.

"Alpha Gamma Sigma is not an organization in the sense of other societies concerned mostly with social activities and politics, as we are only interested in promoting and recognizing scholarship," Richardson pointed out.

"There are literally hundreds of students on the campus who should be honor students, but are not, because of a low grade average, and one of our aims this semester is to further scholarship in such a way that more students will be eligible for membership."

In answer to the question, "Who is a better student, coed or collegian," Richardson replied, "A gift of gab, plus a natural ability to please others makes the coed an expert grade getter."

"But in studies where hard mental labor is demanded, that's where the supremacy of the male shows up."

Elimination Bouts Begin Today

Net Team Faces Broncos Today; Wallop Yuba, Grant In One Day By 7-0 Scores

By Roy Pasini

Making up for lost time and matches, the Ram netters shattered all precedents by traveling north last Thursday to meet and defeat TWO conference foes and to earn a well deserved rest which will be interrupted only this afternoon for a practice duel with Santa Clara at Golden Gate Park.

Ram Swimmers Travel To Meet San Mateo

After losing three straight swimming meets, the college mermen will seek their first triumph of the season Thursday, when they match strokes with San Mateo in the latter's home pool.

Having lost successively to Stockton, St. Mary's, and Stanford, the Ram swimmers are determined to whip their peninsula rivals.

Among some of the point gainers are divers Bob Sherman and Sammy Sigel. Sprinters Bill Simpson and Dave Mojas have also done their best to garner points for the so far hapless Ram mermen.

Tony Olivera Gives Help To Ram Pugilists

A local appearance was made last Wednesday night in the men's gymnasium by Tony Olivera, one of the present contenders for the world's bantamweight title.

Olivera was at the college to give suggestions to John Fisher and Roy Damas on their possibilities to win in the coming June Olympic trials in San Francisco.

The popular fighter also sparred around with Fisher and Damas, and the two Ram fighters were amazed at Olivera's speed and agility.

Arrangement of the meeting between Olivera and the two local pugilists was made possible by boxing coach Roy Diederichsen.

Favorable comment was made by Olivera on Fisher's and Damas' ability.

The invasion, led by assistant coach Roy Diederichsen, pulled into Sacramento at 10 a.m. and following a few disheartening showers the locals took to the Grant Tech courts at 11 a.m. The City College lads made quick work of the Sacramentans by a 7-0 count and then headed hag and haggage for the far distant hamlet of Yuba.

Arriving in the valley town, more cold water was thrown on the red hot Ram racketeers but the courts dried sufficiently to allow the matches to be played.

Again it developed into a clean sweep with every man on the squad coming through with a repeat performance of their morning efforts at Grant.

Playing the role of conquering heroes were Ed Jacobsen, Fred Rodgers, and Frank Reed who shut out their Grant rival with love sets, while Bill Covall and Bob Sockolov only permitted their foes to cop one little game in their respective matches.

Golfers To Have Tee Parties On Fridays

City College's golfers are currently touring the Harding Park greens in preparation for teeing off on their revised schedule which finds them holding tee parties every Friday up to the NCJCC tourney at Modesto from May 28-29.

Coach Ralph Hillsman's club will host the Mariners this Friday at Harding and will meet the boys from the other side of the Golden Gate bridge in a return match the following Friday.

Cindermen, Baseballers Win, Golfers Defeated

Winning performances by the track and baseball teams highlighted City College's week end on the athletic front Saturday, while a defeat in golf Friday marred an otherwise perfect week end.

The trackmen cut loose with a vengeance on the Cal Frosh team and emerged victors by a score of 73½ to 56½. Spearheading the Rams were Owen Moore and Bob Cook who both set new City College records in their respective events, as did the relay team of Moore, Zarlck, Mills and Wyatt.

Hal Flinn was the winning Ram pitcher as the locals set down the Vallejo Redskins, 14-3, on the losers diamond. Bill Kenna and Zane Kaplan each garnered 3 hits.

Ram Bill King shot a 79 but SF State nipped golf team 11½-10½.

Trackmen Travel To Meet Tough Indians

A war dance, complete with tom toms, headlines the bill at the Palo Alto "playhouse" this afternoon as two dozen Red-and-White cindermen wander into Injun territory in what could turn out to be "Jensen's Last Stand." The cakewalk gets under way at 2 p.m.

Ruined out earlier this season, the meet will give the Rams their last tune-up before the NCJCC chips fall into place next Saturday.

The Indians larruped San Mateo in a dual meet some weeks ago, and appear to be strong in the 440, half mile and high hurdles. The Jensenmen have yet to show at full strength this year.

The Rams don't figure to be a shoo-in any particular event, but discus man Bob Cook, a much improved hurler, will be tough to nose out for those five points.

Jim Wyatt, Bob Brickell, Doss Sims, and Bill Barnes are also counted on to augment the Ram point-total. Sims, a high-jumper, has an early season mark of 6:3 to his credit, and on the improved Stanford pit could add an extra inch or two.

The city boys, hampered by the weather the better part of the year, should reach their peak in time for the conference meet, if the rain is held to a minimum the remainder of the week.

Bell Rings At 3 P.M. To Open Intramural Boxing

By Walt Roessing

The first round of eliminations starts in the intramural novice boxing tournament this afternoon in the men's gymnasium when the bell rings at 3 p.m.

With well over 50 boxers eager to win, the fights today should really develop into knock-down and hard fighting brawls.

All of the college pugilists entered in the tourney are eager to gain the finals, for the winners will receive gold belt buckles, while the losers will get gold bronze medals.

Coach Roy Diederichsen will officiate this afternoon's boxing matches.

This semester's turnout is well below that of last fall, when 73 hopeful college men turned out for the intramural tournament. A few of the winning boxers from last season will also be in Friday night's finals, but they will only act as managers for the newcomers to the ring.

The rapid fire of jabs, hooks, and haymakers will continue throughout the semi-finals tomorrow and will finally end up with the crowning of the victors this Friday night.

Intramural football signups are now being accepted in the men's gymnasium by mentor Tom Wilson.

Eight regulars and two substitutes is the player limit for football. Games will probably be played this semester on Balboa field because the football field is still being repaired.

The intramural cage race is rapidly coming to a close and the Ramblers still appear to be the class of the basketball race.

Pacers of the National League race are the Clams, while the Balboa Buccaneers continue to make their opponents walk the plank to defeat in the Pacific Coast League.

ZANE KAPLAN, hard hitting Ram outfielder waits expectantly for pitch in a practice session on the Balboa Park greens.

League Leading Ram Nine Idle Two Weeks

By Art Paymiller

With the first half of the current diamond campaign gone by the boards, Bill Fischer's league leading Ram nine will take a well earned rest from conference competition during the next two weeks.

Slugging Zane Kaplan, Fischer's hard-hitting centerfielder, has paced the local offensive over the first five games of the season with a .500 batting average.

The least of Fischer's worries is the pitching staff. With five hurlers able to go the nine inning route, Fischer has more pitching strength now than in the two previous years combined.

After committing 28 errors in four games, the Rams finally settled down defensively in the first tilt with Vallejo as they played errorless ball.

WAA Sponsors Co-Ed Badminton Tourney With San Mateo And Marin Colleges

Re-kindling a long time rivalry, San Mateo and Marin County Junior Colleges will arrive at City College Wednesday, May 5, to complete in a co-ed badminton tournament, from 4 to 10 p.m. in both the men's and women's gymnasiums, to be sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, instructor Nancy Sparks stated.

Participants for the tournament will be picked in an elimination scheduled tomorrow. Tryouts for the teams are not limited to immediate members of the badminton class.

Anyone handy with a racquet and light on his feet may enter.

Five teams from each of the three colleges will compete for honors in a fun-fest of co-ed badminton. Both men and women are invited by the WAA to participate, as the teams will consist solely of mixed groups.

The Soothsayer

By Herbert Levy

IN an obvious stall and delay tactic, the Fraternity majority block has managed to hold off the pressing band uniform situation until today.

Cleverly avoiding a vote on the issue at last Thursday's Council gathering, the majority party will have had from Thursday until today to think up some new way to keep the band from having uniforms.

This type of stalling seems destined to failure, however, as apparently the majority of students around the college want the band to have uniforms. A negative vote by the Fraternity block would look very bad in the eyes of student voters, when one of their campaign promises was to have uniforms for the band.

As a student remarked to the council, upon being recognized by Max Call, student president, "With this type of stalling going on, the band might as well wait until 1955 for uniforms."

Facts Presented

We've been trying to dig up some facts on why the Fraternity Block is opposed to allotting money to the band for uniforms.

One of their objections seems to be that the type of jackets they will buy will be cardigan type. However, such an objection is unfounded. Last Friday during the college hour, the band dressed in borrowed fireman shirts and serenaded the students all over the campus; besides the music being excellent, their appearance was sharp and precise.

Their appearance was indicative that the band needs jackets now.

Another reason might possibly be that the Fraternity block doesn't get along very well with Meyer Cahn, band instructor. Last semester the Council, then almost completely dominated by the Fraternities objected to Cahn using some majorettes, that the council later declared "indecent" as to their action in swinging a baton. The girls were merely putting their heart and soul in their work.

May Be Politics

A third reason apparently springs from a political situation. This semester, the Band Association pledged their support to a Student League.

With the Student League council members in the minority, the majority Fraternity group could use this opportunity very nicely for some political face slapping.

So with this situation evident in the eyes of every one concerned, which includes every member of the Associated Students, the Student Council meeting that will be held today in Room 4D, west campus, should be very interesting.

ALL STUDENTS OF THE COLLEGE ARE WELCOME TO ATTEND!

Eckert Specifies Bulletin Board Use In Main Building

Rules governing the use of college bulletin boards were explained in a statement issued earlier this week by William J. Eckert, art department instructor, who stated that these rules in past months have been grossly misinterpreted by students.

The bulletin board at the entrance to the main building is to be used only for matters which have a general interest for the entire student body.

All other advertising of wide interest, with a size not exceeding 14 by 22 inches, is placed on the glass covered bulletin board directly across from the college bank. Permission to use the above two boards can be obtained from Eckert, and the key to the latter one can be obtained from him in Room 347.

All other bulletin boards in the main building are the property of departments and permission must be received from the individual department before they can be used.

For use of bulletin boards on the west campus either Dean Sandys or Assistant Dean Brady must be consulted, Eckert said.

Students Interested In Summer Positions Urged To Place Applications With Amori

Applications are now being accepted and interviews are being made for several summer jobs, Joseph Amori, placement head, announced yesterday.

Students in the engineering field with a good mechanical background have an opportunity for summer jobs as lathe and machine operators in several firms of this area.

Staff members from private boys camps are interviewing students of the college here for jobs as camp directors. Outstanding handcraftsmen and outpost directors are also needed.

Amori stated further that there are still jobs open as camp counsellors, and that men and women with a recreational background interested, should apply. These counsellor positions are available up and down the coast.

AWS Tea Planned For High School Seniors

The next Associated Women Students tea is marked for Thursday, May 6, Barbara Hendrickson, AWS president, announced recently.

In accordance with past tradition, the second tea for women is designed to entertain high school seniors interested in attending the City College. Miss Hendrickson stated that a special program has been planned for the occasion.

Local Student Judged Winner In Junior College Speech Meet

Representative of City College in the sixth annual Junior College Public Speaking Contest of California will be John Mix, winner of the local elimination and former speech student, according to an announcement made by Claude A. Shull, speech instructor, yesterday.

Mix used the topic of Father Serra as subject matter for the 10 minute discourse, and received the unanimous decision of the judges.

City College will compete with Marin Junior College, Santa Rosa Junior College, and San Mateo Junior College for district representation.

The speech tournament will be terminated on June 21, when the winners in Northern and Southern California will compete at Grand Parlor, Sacramento, for the state championship.

Judging the local contest were Marcus Skarstedt, library head, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, and Edward Sandys, dean of men.

Other students who participated in the contest were Bill Wilson and Bob Sockolov.

Spring Fever To Be Given By New Frat

Featuring a strictly informal theme, Gamma Phi Ypsilon, newly organized college fraternity, will present Spring Fever, its first dance, this Saturday, May 1, at the west campus auditorium, Maurice Fleming, chairman for the affair, said yesterday.

Sport dress will emphasize the casual theme.

Dancing from 9 to midnight will be relieved by intermission entertainment and the distribution of door prizes.

Admission will be $1.25 per couple or $.75 stag with tickets obtainable from fraternity members.

"Stag or drag, start your last midterm period with Spring Fever," Fleming urged.

Soph Spring Dance To Be Held On June 12

Sophomore class President Bill Riley announced today that the semi-annual dance will be held June 12 at an, as yet, unspecified location, and the king and queen elections have been set for June 7.

The usual posters and pictures announcing the candidates will be placed on the campus and surrounding territories during the first part of June, Riley said.

Blood Donations Asked By April 30 Deadine

Blood donors and those who wish to sign up for blood donations are urged by Joe Amori, placement officer, to sign up in his Building 3 office at the earliest possible time in order to meet the April 30 deadline. Donations, if accepted, will net the donor $25 for one pint of blood, according to Amori's statement this week.

Cranston Outlines AGS Requirements

Edwin C. Cranston, faculty adviser of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's honorary scholastic society, yesterday outlined requirements for membership in the state-wide two-year college scholastic society.

Permanent membership in the organization is obtained through a student's having three out of four terms of membership or four out of five terms of membership.

Requirements for single term membership include a program of courses totaling at least 12 units.

One must have at least 30 grade points of "B" average with no grade lower than "C". The only course in which a "C" does not need an "A" to balance it is physical education.

Cranston stated that any student eligible for Alpha Gamma Sigma membership consult him in his office, Room 170.

Band Uniforms Get Green Light; $1500 Earmarked For Purchase

Rainbow Rhapsody Set For Fairmont Tonight

Taking the form of all rainbows, tonight's freshman class dance, Rainbow Rhapsody, has the proverbial pot of gold at its ending, Bob Jennings, class president, said yesterday. The gold in this case is the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel. Dancing will be from 9 to midnight.

Music for the dance will be provided by Bobby Thurlow and his orchestra. Thurlow is well known for his ability to play tempos suited to everyone's dancing taste.

The affair is free to all Associated Student card holders, and the informal, no corsage rule will be in effect.

A committee formed of members of the freshman class will direct the night's Nob Hill festivities. The committee includes Mareia Welder, Phyllis Ryan, Margie Swanman, Don Schumacher and Steve Norris.

The members of this committee have, according to Jennings, done an extremely competent job of organization and production.

CAB Promises Special Rates For AS Cards

Threefold accomplishment highlighted the Club Advisory Board meeting of Friday, April 23, when rates to Associated Student card holders, and facilitation of CAB recognition and Student League membership were acted on.

A resolution that all clubs would informally promise special rates to Associated Student card holders was unanimously adopted.

This measure, brought up by Jim Davis of the photographic society, makes action voluntary on the part of the clubs and not an official CAB rule.

Student League membership was announced as open to all clubs, and Roy Barnett was named by President Mel Dykman as the man to see to get clubs recognized as CAB approved organizations.

Opera Ticket Sale Begins Next Week

Official ticket sales for the forthcoming light opera Vagabond King will begin at the college on Monday, May 3, Maurice Power faculty finance chairman, asserted late yesterday.

Sufficient tickets to insure capacity houses have been printed, Power said, and these have been distributed among campus groups through the Club Advisory Board, which will also send them to other bay area colleges.

Pi Mu Gamma and the Band Society have been selected tentatively to handle the sales during college hours at the silver pole in the main building and the guard shack on the west campus, according to Herb Levy, student manager working in conjunction with Power.

"Student enthusiasm," Levy commented, "is at a high peak, with the college music and drama departments pledging to sell 1,000 tickets."

Tickets will sell for 50 cents to Associated Student card holders, and for $1.00 general admission. The opera will be presented May 20, 21, and 22 at 8:15 p.m. in the west campus auditorium.

A matinee performance at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon, May 21, is also scheduled.

Friday night, May 21, is officially listed as Faculty Association night, with a buffet dinner in honor of President A. J. Cloud preceding.

Comedy Livens Vagabond King

PETE TURDICI AS OLIVER, the Lord of the Bath, and Dick Pagenelli as Tabary, right hand men of Francois Villon, are shown as they vie for the hand of fair Lady Mary, played by Regine Werchot, in The Vagabond King, opera to be presented at the college May 20, 21, and 22. Alternate players in the same roles are Roy Bernett, Pete Boghosin, and Jacqueline Deasy.

The comedy in the Rudolph Friml light opera centers around these three principals and is a combination of farce and clever dialogue, involving such slap-stick complications as the attempted extrication of a supposed poison arrow from the posterior region of Tabary's anatomy, and saucy lines with hidden innuendo.

Council Grants Funds, Promises Additional Amount Before June

Climaxing a three-year depression period, funds for the purchase of band uniforms were appropriated by the Student Council during Tuesday's crowded and spirited session.

Aiming at a possible $3000 goal, an immediate $1500 was earmarked when a compromise between the two council factions was finally reached.

The get together, which resulted in a definite solution to the uniform problem, followed a lecture given to the council by Dean Jack Brady censuring them for their previous bickering and delay.

Cause of the pending delay mentioned by Brady was the council's failure to pass on Bob Reilly's motion to proceed with the soliciting of funds from downtown stores.

Unanimous Vote Ensues

Stirred by Brady's speech, the council approached the matter in a decidedly democratic manner. The minority group proposed an amendment to Reilly's motion. Reilly agreed, and a unanimous vote followed.

The total motion stipulated that a $1500 fund be immediately earmarked toward ordering band uniforms for next semester's football season, and that a committee continue the canvassing of city merchants for additional monetary aid.

The $1500 godsend consists of the $600 handbook fund plus an extra $900 Oscar Anderson, college controller, expects to receive in the near future from the governmental backing of students.

With one down and two to go, Reilly moved that the council pass on a military style, blouse type uniform. After obtaining the approval of both Mike Cahn, band instructor, and Walt McRae, student band manager, the council voted its okay.

Momentarily breaking the tension, a sigh of relief was made by all involved when it was realized that the long awaited, mythical uniforms were to become a reality.

Columnist Praised Band

Reminiscent of the band's appearances during last semester's grid season, which caused Chronicle's columnist Art Rosenbaum to write, " . . best band act we've seen on the turf in years," the outlook for the future will at least be a "new look."

Hoping to salvage the handbook fund, which was incorporated in the $1500, Helen Rich moved that the council make an attempt to do so, but the meeting adjourned before this new problem could be attacked.

College Hour Dropped For Mid-Term Week

Gloom and silence will take the place of college hour today, which has been cancelled in respect to mid-terms, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

Chatter and cheer, common around the campus from 10:40 to 11:30 a.m. every Friday, will be displaced by hushed silence and sad faces brought about by the titanic struggle with mid-terms.

Return to normalcy will occur on Friday, May 7, Brady said, when a regular activity college hour schedule, to be utilized for club meetings, will be in effect.

Clubs May Organize For Fall Elections

Clubs backing presidential candidates for the coming national elections will be permitted to organize here, administrative leaders decreed last week, according to a statement by Assistant Dean Jack Brady.

These clubs may organize only after all presidential candidates for the national election are chosen in June, Brady said, adding that they will, of course, be required to abide by the rules and regulations set down by the Club Advisory Board.

Automatically then, no clubs of this type will be permitted to apply for CAB recognition until the fall semester, Brady said.

Legality of such organizations was assured in a statement made last week by Irving Breyer, legal adviser to the S. F. Board of Education.

Vote Registration Sparks Interest Here

Keen interest in the coming national elections was shown by students at City College, as a total of 270 campus registrations were taken before closing time last Friday, for the primary election on June 1.

Dan E. McLoone, of the Registrar of Voters' office, suggested today that those who are eligible, but have not yet registered, can still vote in the general election on November 4, if they will go to the Registrar's office at the city hall, before September 23, 1948.

Listening Hour Plans To Present Classics

Featuring the old along with the new, the String Quartettes of Haydn, Debussy and Beethoven will be heard Tuesday and Thursday at the listening hour, according to Gertrude Norgard, instructor.

Visitors are welcome to attend the twice weekly sessions in Room 200 at 1 o'clock, Mrs. Norgard said.

Guardsman Moves To Big Time In ACP

Information from the Associated Collegiate Press received Friday, revealed that in addition to winning the All-American rating for Fall 1947 issues, The Guardsman has been moved from the Junior College to the two-or-three-times-a-week college paper division.

Winning All-American honors with The Guardsman in this group were The Oberlin Review of Oberlin College, Ohio, and The Silver and Gold of the University of Colorado.

The Los Angeles Collegian of Los Angeles City and State College, long a rival of The Guardsman, failed to achieve the top rating, receiving only the first class honor rating.

City College of San Francisco was the only two-year college in this division to receive any award.

Universities winning first class honor ratings in The Guardsman division were University of Akron, Ohio; University of Houston, Texas; Drake University, Des Moines, Iowa; University of Pittsburgh, Penn.; Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Texas.

Second class honor ratings were awarded Smith College, Northampton, Mass.; and Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn.

No novices at winning journalistic honors, The Guardsman has received this distinction eleven times previously; however, as George Lajeunesse, editor-in-chief, phrased it, "The only group above us now is occupied by daily college papers such as those of Stanford and California, so we can consider ourselves definitely in fast company."

Spring Fever Set For Auditorium Tomorrow

Spring Fever, first dance presented by the Gamma Phi Ypsilon fraternity here, will feature an informal Spring theme carried through by decorations and musical features by Wally Heider's vocalist, Malorie Brown, and his 10-piece orchestra, according to Maurice Fleming, dance chairman for tomorrow night's 9 p.m. to midnight west campus auditorium affair.

Tickets which may be purchased at the Ram Shack, the student fountain, or from any member of the fraternity, will sell for $1.25 per couple and 75 cents single.

Fleming stated that the dance will feature informal dress, free coat checking, free gardenias for the women, and door prizes.

May 14 Last Day To File Leave Of Absence

Pointing out that Friday, May 14, is the last day for filing petitions for leave of absence, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said last Monday that students planning to leave the college early to take employment must request a leave by that date.

Miss Learnard continued by explaining that students who drop from college without a leave of absence receive a final grade of "F" in all their registered classes.

Vagabond King Light Opera Deserves Unanimous Backing From Everyone

TO list the names of all the persons, faculty and student alike, who are currently devoting many hours of their own free time in getting ready the biggest show ever put together in City College's history would require considerably more space than is available in this corner.

We're referring to the most ambitious student production ever to be attempted on this campus, the light opera Vagabond King, which will open on Thursday night, May 20, running a total of four performances ending with a matinee May 21 and total of four performances, including a matinee May 21 and Practically every department in the college will have a hand in the creation of this notable undertaking, with the music and drama departments of course, carrying the brunt of the work.

In one word—this is BIG! Talent is abounding in the drama and music departments, and the faculty heads of these departments have the ability to produce a show that will be more than worthy of carrying the name of the City College behind it all the way.

Behind the scenes activity has been underway for many weeks. Staging, costuming, properties, ushering, decorations, ticket sales, publicity, programs, and all the myriads of detail necessary for a production of this size are being rapidly placed in order by a small army of college people.

Here at last is tangible evidence to present to the people of San Francisco that their own college can undertake such a project and make it a success.

Success won't be assured however until the last remaining ticket is sold, and this is where every student in the college becomes a member of the community project, The Vagabond King.

Tickets will be placed on sale, Monday, May 3, and will be available at strategic spots all over the campus. The price is fifty cents to student card holders and one dollar general admission.

THE Horsey Set Rides Again: The many students featuring riding habits have our more scholarly ones hanging onto the intellectual ropes and shaking their heads groggily. The bookworms needn't worry though; Old City College isn't turning into an ivy-covered country club. Read on!!

The real story (straight from the horse's mouth) is this: These idle-rich are merely attending co-educational riding classes sponsored by the college. The horses are also co-educational.

Short Items That Won't Interest You Dept.: The Chronicle, our downtown rival has exposed the fact that in order to get married by our city judges you must also listen to a little talk on the joys of registering for the coming elections!!

(Comment): If campus politicos were smart they'd put pressure on the judges to conduct the ceremony in the following manner: "I now pronounce you man and wife —by the way, have you bought your tickets for the Vagabond King?"

Life Isn't Too Bab After All Dept.: Occasionally something so nice happens to the Gadsman's Junior Hacks that we feel as cheerful as an article in Reader's Digest.

What we're talking about is a letter we received from Elmer Dickey which thanked The Guardsman and staffer Dave Hansen for the recent feature article written about him.

Thanks must go to YOU, Elmer, not us. We want to thank you for some virtues which are becoming rare around here, namely: SINCERITY, HONESTY, AND SCHOOL SPIRIT, the things that make you more valuable to this college than any social-butterfly can ever be (no matter how many semesters he sips coffee at the Student Store)!!

Flippant Remarks Dept.: Many "students" here have been whimpering about the lack of a gossip column on these pages. Well, lay aside the comic books that are so dear to your hearts, KIDS; come next issue Old Nobody MAY start sporting the type of literature you love. You'll think you're back in high school (and you DO miss the good times you had there, don't you)!!

(Editor's Note: Look, Nobody, this is supposed to be a HUMOR column—not a sermon!!!)

Track, Field, Aqua Sports— She Does 'Em All, But Good

By Ann Land

Proof that the weaker sex is strong enough to stack up a number of record firsts on the field, track, and through the water, is conclusively evidenced by winsome Barbara Combes, president of the Women's Athletic Association.

Dubbed the Queenpin of WAA sports by teammates, "Bobby" is famous as a racquet wielder and as a snow ball artist of the first water.

Before leaving college to venture into the business world several semesters ago, Miss Combes held the position as president of the Phi Epsilon Rho, women's physical education majors' society, and since her return last semester, was elected president of the WAA.

Miss Combes' duties as president of the athletic association include budgeting the money allotted to the WAA by the Student Council, acting as general manager of the sport days, conducting the meetings, checking scholarships and student cards, and awarding various awards.

"Bobby" is considered by her friends to be one of those arresting people who can probably be successful in any number of fields, especially dramatics, as she has a flair for the theatrical, and boasts the reputation of being a born entertainer.

A graduate of Esparto High School, in Woodland, California, Miss Combes plans to continue her education, after graduation from here next semester, at the University of California.

"The WAA is having an active program this semester, and the activities, such as the coeducational badminton club, frequented by the student vets and their families on Wednesday nights, and the 'open house' held in the women's gym occasionally, are thoroughly successful," Miss Combes says, adding,

"A top attraction of the WAA program this semester was the folk dance expendition, and by popular request the WAA is preparing another which will be presented in the near future."

BARBARA COMBES, petite dark-haired lass and president of the WAA, ruefully inspects a golf club marred by one of the divot-digging students of the college.

Gilardi And Reimers Gain Catering Fame

Disproving the adage claiming people are educated in theory and not experience, Caterers Gilardi and Reimers are rich in both.

The catering team has been in operation for over six months. In order to graduate this June, they occasionally turn away business to run studying time.

Half of the team, Louis H. Reimers, has just returned from a statewide trip to study methods of successful restaurateurs.

The annual trip, sponsored by leading local hotels, is made by eight graduating Hotel students and instructor Hilda Watson.

Students Gilardi and Reimers have catered at numerous functions, invariably with excellent results.

They recently worked at a Firemen's Dinner in Daly City, where, in addition to their usual fee, they received generous amounts of praise for their work.

At such occasions they usually employ from two to five fellow students as assistants. Upon graduating, they intend to operate two catering establishments, one in San Francisco and one in Marin County.

Letters To The Editor

Editor's Note: (An "aside" to "Barefoot Gal With Check"). Before farming Levy and Hulse out to Pravda, we (Editor Lajeunesse and Staff Editor Pichon), would like to have your real name so we can run your charming letter of April 21. Drop in The Guardsman office for your slipper, Barefoot Cinderella, and two tired and tormented editors will be eternally grateful.

● "Word" On Wallace

Editor, The Guardsman:

There are certain left-wing elements on this campus that seem to be trying to form a "Vote for Wallace" campaign and they don't mean Nancy. They have formed an organization and are trying to have it approved so that they operate on the campus. What they don't seem to know is that political organizations on a college campus are illegal. I think someone should give them the word.

L. K. W.

● Clarify Party Split

Editor, The Guardsman:

Since The Guardsman has brought to the attention of the students the existence of two generally opposed groups in our student government, it seems that perhaps it would be in the best interests of the students for The Guardsman to present articles or interviews to explain the views and opinion of these so-called "Parties."

Throughout this semester The Guardsman has reported the increasing trend toward division of the student government into two groups or parties. The condition that exists now is that most of the students know of the groups, but have little or no knowledge as to the opinions and policies of the people making them up. It seems that it would be in the best interest of the students if The Guardsman would perhaps attempt to clarify the situation.

Malcolm G. Mitchell, A. S. 289.

● Give 'Em Air

Editor, The Guardsman:

The west campus lounge needs the ventilation improved. Especially so with warm weather approaching.

A simple solution in place of having windows made openable is to have hooks fastened to the door pull of alternate doors found on the south side of the building. Thus, the doors could be opened and fastened back-to-back. A few all-metal clothes hangers would supply the wire needed very nicely.

John E. Syms.

P. S.—I'll appoint myself a committee of one to do this if any mechanical engineering student won't volunteer.

Dillinger Dies Again In Third Floor Hall

By Jim Baker

Stanley Sadler, City College student, has taken as his theme the dramatic, tragic killing of John Dillinger in giving vent to all his dramatic skill in a series of three drawings now on exhibition in the main building on the third floor.

Sadler, artist and poet, after graduation, intends to go into magazine illustration. Sadler has planned, since he was 14, to major in art. He is now taking composition, design, and ceramics.

Intramural Novice Boxing Finals To Be Held Tonight In Men's Gymnasium

By Walt Roessing

Eighteen hopeful rough and ready pugilists will put on the gloves and enter the ring tonight in the men's gymnasium in quest of the college's novice intramural boxing championship.

Jabs and hooks will start at 7:30 p.m. and nine weight division titles are at stake in the college finals.

Coach Roy Diederichsen promises that the boxing matches will provide all interested spectators with action.

The student boxers will receive awards for participating in this evening's matches with the tourney winners gaining gold belt buckles and the losers receiving gold bronze medals.

Admission to the fights tonight in the men's gymnasium is free.

A few of tonight's finalists will eventually wind up on the varsity boxing squad, Diederichsen said.

A large turnout of students appeared in the men's gymnasium Tuesday to watch the first round eliminations of the boxing tourney.

After the last bout had been fought Diederichsen voiced his opinion and said that the boxers this semester are of a higher caliber than of any other semester at the college.

Henry Yum will meet Jim Guello tonight in the 120 pound opener and Dan Aguilar will clash with John Bohman in the 140 pound division.

Entries Now Open For Intramural Football

Applications for intramural football are now being accepted in the men's gymnasium by Mentor Tom Wilson.

Wilson announced yesterday that the rules for touch football will remain the same as they were last semester.

Some of the rules are that no more than ten players may be used by each squad and cleats may not be used at any time in any game.

Touch football games will be played on the Balboa Park greens.

Badminton Tournament Sponsored By WAA

Co-ed badminton, again staking a place in the spotlight, will stage a tournament with San Mateo and Marin Junior Colleges, Wednesday night, May 5, Nancy Sparks, instructor, said.

With five teams from each of the colleges competing for honors in an orgy of badminton, the men and women's gymnasiums will be turned into a gala hall of festivities.

Participants will include members of the co-ed group, and students picked from the elimination which was held April 28.

Santa Rosa Junior College, also invited; found it impossible to accept because of the long trip. San Francisco State has also been asked to join the fete, but their answer has not been made definite yet.

The tourney will be held in both the gymnasiums, between the hours of 4 and 10 p.m. Wednesday night.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

CONTRARY to the hopes of feather merchant Jack Hulse we're still rambling along in this corner per usual.

So . . . today we bow low at the waist and pay tribute to the select and honored few of our own little sporting world.

Yep, it's none other than the campus athletic beauties—the team captains who lead their comrades (we use the word loosely) to battle.

Having gangster tendencies we turn first to the top racket of them all. Head hood in this gang of racketeers is happy go lucky Bill Covall who earned the tennis mob's blessings by way of two previous seasons of sterling effort on the courts.

During his tenure with the racquet, smiling William has eopped his share of net wins and although he finds it difficult to jump the net at the end of a match now, he still covers his side of the net in fine style.

Next on the list of conquering heroes is a lad who runs a mile or two for the ole college. He is long-legged Jim Wyatt, in his seeond year on the local cinder paths.

Pretty swift with his feet, Jim gets few cinders in his eyes while out on the track and Coach Jim Jensen is counting on the speedster to kick through with nothing hut points before he bows out of the local picture.

About here we were prepared to present the gem of all local diamonds, but it seems that the horsehiders have not taken the big step yet.

The lack of a diamond captain is not because of an unpolished set of diamonders. It's just that the boys haven't had a chanee to set their best gem forward yet what with all the ringing basehits they have been producing to date.

O. K., Hulse, don't get emotional. We quit.

Golfers Meet Marin On Harding Links Today

Still smoldering from a heartbreaking 11-10 loss at the hands of the downtown S. F. State golfers last week, the Ram putters take to the fairways this afternoon at Harding Park when they host Marin at 1 p.m.

Top performances of the season were turned in by Bill King and Bob Payne against the Gators, and Coach Ralph Hillsman looks for the couple to come through with par efforts before long.

Netters Point For Sixth Straight At Salinas Tomorrow

Seeking their sixth straight conference net victory, the Wilsonmen journiey forth from Ramland tomorrow to ride herd on the Salinas Cowboys down on the valley boys' range.

Led by their recently elected captain, Bill Covall, the local netmen will be out to add to their already impressive string of 38 wins against a mere two setbacks.

The lettuce pickers are still brooding over the loss of their all-conference ace, George Gossler, who is cavorting at the California Bears' playground at present, but they could still turn in a surprise hogtying job on the unsheared Rams.

To date the Phelan Avenue gang boasts an undefeated group of singlesmen in Covall, Fred Rodgers and Frank Reed, with five conference wins to their credit, plus a three win no loss performance by Bob Sockolov.

Ed Jacobsen, with a four win one loss effort, and the still ineligible Herb Suhr, one loss and one win, round out the remainder of singles squad.

Official conference standings recently released from the home office in Napa find Modesto, San Mateo and San Francisco hovering on top of the heap.

The hometowners will not be meeting the rest of the "big three" until the last two weeks of league play in May. Of this group, the big city boys hold the largest number of wins with their aforementioned 33 victories.

Tom Wilson Ranks High As Cage Official

Tom Wilson, likeable tennis and intramural mentor, was recently re-elected vice-president of the Northern California Basketball Officials Association.

This rates as a distinct honor, for the basketball officials from Northern California are ranked among the top arbiters in the nation.

Wilson is passing his knowiedge on to some of the students in the college in a special class which discusses refereeing of the popular cage sport.

Coaches Roy Diederichsen and Ralph Hillsman are also active members of the basketball association.

Cindermen Seek Conference Championship At Santa Rosa

Rams Rule Favorites To Grab Title Tomorrow; Stockton Main Threat

The sleepy town of Santa Rosa becomes "Convention City" for a few hours tomorrow as Coach Jim Jensen and his 26 spiked mudders hit the 101 fire-trail leading to the northern hamlet, there to engage in the biggest track and field clambake of the current, washed-out season.

The NCJCC meet is the occasion, and the sparks begin to fly at 2 p.m.

Despite the conservative stand of Coaches Jensen and Klemmer, the Ram wingfoots and cloud-dusters go into the Big 'un definite favorites to cop the bunting for the second time in three years.

Stockton is figured in the dope sheet as giving the city men some bad moments, but team depth and better times and distances put the Jensenmen in the number one spot.

Owen Moore, phenomenal Ram quarter-miler, is the man to watch. Turning in times of 49:9 and better, though not yet in shape, Moore may have his best day of the season tomorrow. Captain Jim Wyatt, defending 440 champ, is also favored to break the tape in the half.

The high-jump finds Doss Sims and Bill Barnes head and shoulders above the field, Kermit Scott, another Ram jumper, may break into the money if he approaches his early season form.

The relay quarter of Moore, Wyatt, Mills and Zarick take a crack at the 2-mile distance as usual.

Fischermen Relax Atop NCJC Rating

With twin wins from Menlo and Vallejo and a sole victory from Marin under their belts, the league-leading Ram nine takes a two week vacation from conference competition to prepare for their doubleheader with Salinas Saturday, May 8.

Although the San Mateo squad boasts a perfect record of three wins and no defeats, the local aggregation rates top spot by one-half game because of the larger number of games played.

Two practice games have been scheduled by mentor Bill Fischer for next week. Monday finds the Rams engaging the Hamilton Field nine at either Big Rec or Ocean View, and Wednesday they encounter the strong Bank of America team on the Rossi diamond.

Hal Flinn and Paul Nederman paced the local hurlers over the first half of the season with three and two wins respectively. Flinn has struck out 23 while Nederman has fanned 18.

Hard hitting Zane Kaplan collected five hits in seven trips to the plate against Vallejo to boost his average to a respectable .565.

The Soothsayer

By Herbert Levy

HOBBLING into the student council chambers somewhat uncertain in the search for a comparatively few paltry pieces of silver, the Band marched out in regal splendor waving around 600 greenbacks with an additional $900 "earmarked," and all for the purchase of band uniforms.

Not being content with heaping gold around the ears of the college musicians, another $1500, or a total of $3000, was assured by the council for uniforms to be PURCHASED THIS SEMESTER!

Instead of a simple cardigan jacket, by the vote of the council members, the band will now be adorned in gorgeous blouse type uniforms.

Looked Like Stall

When the Tuesday clambake started, it had all the properties of the previous meetings pertaining to discussion of band outfits. In other words, it seemed apparent that the old stall play was again going to be tried by the majority Fraternity Bloc.

Equally determined not to let the redhot issue spring icicles in being cast off to a committee, the Student League minority refused to withdraw their motion from the floor. The motion prevailing was to vote $600 for uniforms.

Nancy Wallace, student vice-president, asserted that merely by putting the band issue back into committee would leave the situation exactly where it was before.

(A famous politician once said, "When no one wants to act on an issue, the safest place to put it is in a committee.")

Reilly, Hurley Clash

Walt McCrae, student band manager, sprang to the floor and asked for something tangible so the band could go ahead with their plan to buy uniforms. He maintained that two-thirds of the semester had gone by and still the band had no uniforms.

Then Bob Reilly, Fraternity majority leader, demanded that Jack Hurley, Student League minority leader, withdraw the $600 motion, as he had some motions of his own. When asked what his motions were, Reilly refused to tell.

It appeared that Reilly got the okay from Controller Anderson to "earmark" $1500 for uniforms. Hurley said he would withdraw his motion if Reilly would add the $600 as a rider to his "earmark" proposal.

In any event, this move by Hurley assured the band of at least 600 bucks in cash.

Everyone Agrees

After Handsome Jack Brady, the assistant dean of men, declared that for 50 minutes the council hadn't decided a thing, Reilly sullenly agreed, and the council voted as one for the $1500.

As the uniforms will cost around $3000, the other $1500 supposedly will come from the next semester council that will meet this June. If they fail to appropriate the money, then presumably Anderson will slash $1500 from the Fall budget and allocate it to band uniforms.

In the meantime a nebulous "begging" committee is out trying to get downtown stores to donate money for uniforms. Anything they "panhandle" will be gravy, in addition to saving loot for the Associated Students. Amen!!

Choir To Attend Spring Festival At San Jose Today

City College's music department will feature selections by its vocal groups at the Northern California Junior College Choir Festival at San Jose State College, Monday, May 3, Flossita Badger, music instructor, disclosed yesterday.

The festival, an annual affair, will be attended by ten northern California two-year colleges.

Local vocalists will leave by bus on Monday in order to reach San Jose by 2 p.m., when City College will present its share of the program dedicated to college choir work.

Selections for the program by the A Cappella Choir include Cindy, an American Folk Theme by H. L. Wilson; Australian Aboriginal Lullaby as arranged by Loam; Poem by Whittier, and All Glory Laud and Honor which is a double chorus from Cantata 95 by Bach.

In addition to the choir's numbers, the men's glee club and the men's quartet will also present appropriate selections under the direction of Hal Cunningham, glee club director.

The choir will be under the direction of Miss Badger while Gertrude Norgard, music instructor, will serve as accompanist.

After the program, City College's touring troubadors will attend a dinner along with the other guest colleges at the festival. This, according to Miss Badger, will complete another Northern California Junior College Music Festival, and the choir will come home.

College Gardening Groups Take Spring Flower Show Honors

Taking first place honors for the second consecutive year the Horticulture Society and the Flower Shop were awarded two first awards and one third place ribbon at the California Annual Spring Garden Show.

The show, which is being held in Oakland, was opened to the general public Tuesday and will continue through May 2.

Entered under the classification of a Garden Retreat with a Waterfall, the Horticulture Society won a blue ribbon award and $240.

Waterfall of Flowers

The 400 foot outdoor display featuring a waterfall and a garden patio with cascading fuchsias, terraced azaleas, rhododendrons, begonias, and primulas was designed by Norm Hanson, student of the landscaping class.

The primulas entered under a special category, won third place honors, according to Dick Rohrmann, president of the Society.

Centered in the Exposition building Hall of Flowers, the Flower Shop display received a blue ribbon and $100 for its work on an exhibit themed around the rays of the sun.

Sun Ray Exhibit

Iris, Bird of Paradise and Iceland Poppies ranging from white to deep gold fans out five feet typifying the sun's rays.

According to John Lawrence, instructor of the course, class will be held, during the period of the showing, at the exhibit. Class room time will be devoted to demonstrating a cross section of the work done by the students in the college flower course.

UNESCO Special Assembly Due Here

Robin Stops Bobbin'; Feline Not Sobbin'

Brutal murder of Mrs. Robin, Spring songster, by Mr. Feline on the west campus last night, was cruelly attested to this morning by four cold and untended eggs, which lie in a little nest in a pile of sand atop Building 5.

The culprit, Mr. Feline, goes unpunished, and Mrs. Robin's songs unsung.

Moral of this sad ode: If you feel sorry for a poor little cat, remember he probably just got the bird.

Culinary Equipment Displayed Downtown

Cooperating with Public School Week, Nathan Dohrmann's will devote a window for the remainder of this week to a display of the culinary equipment used by the City College's hotel and restaurant division, Hilda Watson, division head, disclosed today.

The exhibit also has enlarged photographs of activities in the college kitchen showing various functions of preparing food. The pictures are accompanied by legends describing the actions of the participants in the photos.

In keeping with the spirit of the week long celebration, the division displayed an exhibit of decorative pastry made by the students. Fancy sugar cakes, not for eating, and American examples of Danish and French pastry attracted the eye of the guests of the department.

Next Thursday Set For Grade Returns

Mid-term grades will be distributed on a single day, Thursday, May 6, according to Mary Jane Learnard, registrar. The faculty advisers, from whom the students will pick up their grades, have requested the one day distribution.

College hour schedule will be in effect next Thursday and Friday, but Thursday is the only day for grade distribution; Friday's college hour is for club meetings.

The one day schedule is the result of a request from faculty advisers concerning the waste of time in the two day system.

Students' grades will be picked up in the advisers' rooms assigned, the numbers of which will be published in next Tuesday's edition of The Guardsman.

Variety Of Jobs Still Available Says Amori

Several part-time and full-time jobs in typing, sales, and other occupations are available to students of the college through the local placement bureau, Joseph A. Amori, placement head, announced early this week.

Positions are open for both men and women students, Amori said, and range from skilled to unskilled, and from full-time to part-time.

The biggest field of part-time employment lies in typing and sales-work, with both morning and afternoon jobs available.

A few summer camp positions are still available to men students with experience in counselling and handling young boys, combined with a general knowledge of out-door life.

Applications for jobs are accepted at Amori's office in Building 2.

Students To Learn Group's Purpose At Coming Auditorium Meet

Lloyd D. Luckmann, delegate from the college to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization, stated yesterday that a special assembly for the group will be held here in the west campus auditorium on Friday, May 14, at 10 a.m.

Revealing that William G. Carr of the National Education Association will be the main speaker at the meeting, Luckmann added that the purpose of this special assembly is to enable students who would otherwise not be admitted to UNESCO's regional conference to learn of that group's functions and its importance.

"All students who wish to attend this special meeting are invited to do so," Luckmann said.

Appointed by American Junior College Association President Leland Medsker, of Wright Junior College, Chicago, President A. J. Cloud of this college will be a delegate to the Pacific Regional Conference on the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization this May 13, 14, and 15 at the San Francisco Opera House.

AWS Tea Planned For Prospective Students

Associated Women Students plan to entertain high school women at a tea here, Thursday, May 6, Barbara Hendrickson, AWS president, announced.

The tea, to be held in the student lounge, west campus, from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m., will be devoted to entertaining high school seniors interested in attending the City College next semester, Miss Hendrickson said. A special program of music has been planned for the occasion.

Miss Hendrickson expects a large turn-out from the city's schools.

Mother's Day Tea Set

The next event planned by the students of the college hostess class is the annual Mother's Day tea which is to be held this year on Friday, May 7, according to Letha Roberts, instructor of home economics.

The tea will give the mothers an opportunity to meet their daughters' instructors.

Name Cloud, Luckmann To UNESCO Committee

Appointment was made today of President A. J. Cloud and Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, along with 18 other Bay Region Civic education leaders, to the Northern California executive committee for the May 13-15, Pacific Regional Conference of the UNESCO.

Student Council member Frank Ferguson was chosen by staff members today, to be student representative of the college to the May United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization conference.

Ferguson will have the opportunity of choosing to be a member of one of the six committees on Education, Reconstruction, Communication, Human and Social Relations, Cultural Interchange, or Natural Sciences.

The Regional Conference session will bring 3,000 delegates from seven Western States, Hawaii, and Alaska.

Speech Class Gives Play Reading May 12

An English department meeting scheduled Thursday has caused a change of date of the speech classes' dramatic play reading to Wednesday, May 12, at 10 a.m., in Room 28, Bill Culver, director, announced today.

The name of the play, according to custom, is withheld. The surprise offering, however, is a popular comedy by P. G. Wodehouse.

HAPPY DAYS MAY SOON BE IN SIGHT for Hurley Village's junior population if plans now underway to turn The Vagabond King light opera into a benefit for playground funds for the children materialize.

Depicted are a representative group of the village's younger set talking the situation over in the little sandbox that represents the largest part of their only available playground area. The kiddies now have plenty of reason to root for the success of the college's most ambitious venture.

12 Archers Pegged As Show-Stoppers

By Hank Tweith

A chorus of twelve stalwart Scotch Archers should be the show-stopper of the coming light opera, Vagabond King, scheduled for production here May 20, by Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, of the music and drama departments.

These men act as bodyguards to the king, to protect him from Villon's mob, and are led by their captain, Jack Barrows.

While they could not be called "wolves," Miss Badger yesterday said all their selections begin, strangely enough, with a lusty "Woof"!

Barrows, a deep bass, heads the group, which consists of the following college students:

Robert Lane, William Schaeffer, Lucius Lockhart, Al Tura, Joe Fraser, Frank Montenegro, Tony Cuevas, Van Dietz; Richard Brooks, Tom Payne, Bob Hartman, and Ed Engle.

The opera itself could be called a "chorus opera," Miss Badger continued, "in that many of the selections are group numbers, contributing greatly to the general theme of the opera." Members of these groups have been chosen from the college choir.

In addition to the Archer group, who present two Archer songs, the rabble-rousing mob of Villon and the Courtiers and Ladies of the King's Court play an important part in the plot.

Union Square Concert Fetes King Selections

Selections from The Vagabond King will be presented as the college A Cappella choir's part in a noon concert in Union Square, Friday, May 7, Flossita Badger, choir director, announced today.

Miss Badger, who has been appointed to the mayor's National Music Week committee, will work with other music leaders in rounding out the week's activities.

AWS Presents Tea For Prep Seniors

A tea, presented semi-annually by the Associated Women Students, will be given Thursday, May 6, for both public and private high school seniors, Barbara Hendrickson, AWS president, announced yesterday.

A special program planned by the members of the AWS will be presented for the students. Twenty minutes of song will be given by the college quartet, coached by Harold Cunningham. Classical pianist, Emment Murphy, will provide appropriately soothing music for the tea setting.

Dorothy Scott, also to be present, will sing two popular and three semi-classical selections, while Regina Waredot will play a violin solo.

A short comedy skit, supervised by Roy Barnett, will be provided by the Talent Placement Bureau, pending the approval of Dean Margaret Dougherty.

The tea will be given Thursday, from 2:45 to 4:45 p.m. in the student lounge, Building 2, on the west campus.

The lounge will be decorated through the courtesy of John Lawrence of the horticulture department.

Council Approves Aid To Village Playground

Promotion plans for a Hurley Village playground received a "shot in the arm" when the Student Council voted unanimously to appropriate 50 per cent of all profits realized from the Vagabond King production.

The plan was previously approved by the producers and the administration.

Formulated by The Guardsman, the plan was presented at Thursday's council meeting by George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor, who stressed the dire need of the children.

Following the session, President Max Call submitted a letter to Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools, requesting his approval of the proposed use of such funds to provide the 75 Hurley Village children with proper playground facilities.

The plan stipulates that all receipts from The Vagabond King in excess of the $1300 budget allotment will be divided on a dollar for dollar basis between the Associated Students and the playground fund.

This is the first concrete step made in the campaign started some weeks previous by The Guardsman, and, through this action, the council has voted its entire support.

Timetable For Summer Session Due Out Soon

Timetables announcing the courses being offered during the summer session of City College will be distributed some time in May, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, revealed today.

Offerings for the summer session will be the traditional academic courses with some work being given in law enforcement and workshop.

According to Luckmann, the school calendar which has been submitted to Dr. Herbert Clish, superintendent of public schools, for approval, states that classes will begin on July 1, and continue through August 31, with July 4 marking the only holiday.

J. Paul Mohr, vice president, and Luckmann will direct the session.

Normal College Hour Set For Next Friday

Marking a return to normalcy, college hour next Friday will be used by clubs for regularly scheduled meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

A night rally is being planned for Thursday, May 13, John Pifer said, details of which will be announced later.

Vagabond King May Be Benefit For Village Children

By George Lajeunesse, Editor

Success of The Vagabond King, largest musical production ever attempted in City College history, became a "must" this week.

Unanimous and wholehearted approval of the Student Council and faculty alike has been given to a Guardsman plan to raise funds out of the show's proceeds to help pay for an adequate playground area for Hurley Village's children.

Pending official approval by the Board of Education, 50 per cent of the proceeds of The Vagabond King light opera will go into a campaign fund to raise money for a badly needed children's playground at the Village on the City College campus.

Pictures Taken Of Area

Some weeks ago The Guardsman learned of depressing conditions that faced children of Hurley Village in their efforts to find play space.

A Guardsman cameraman, assigned to secure pictures of these conditions, found some of the children utilizing a puddle, created by rains, and playing in a sandless sandbox.

Tucked away between Quonset Huts was a small plot of ground overgrown with weeds, in which were placed the sandbox and two climbing ladders.

This play equipment represented a donation by the recreation department of the college and actual work had been done by student-veterans who had neither time nor the money to build a larger area.

Drive Gets Under Way

Pictures were run in subsequent issues of this paper, in addition to an editorial revealing conditions and urging action on behalf of the children.

In the meantime Joan Nourse, Guardsman faculty adviser, voiced the suggestion that The Vagabond King production might be used as a "natural" in appealing for help.

The Guardsman staff immediately seized upon the idea as the answer to the children's plight. Preliminary research work was accomplished on the possibility, resulting in complete approval of the plan by the faculty and students of the college.

Leave Petitions Must Be Filed By May 14

Reminding students again that Friday, May 14, is the last day to file petitions for leave of absence, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, warned that late applicants will receive an "F" final grade in all registered courses.

We've Hitched Our Wagon To Two Stars: The Kids And Vagabond King

AS every newspaper must, sooner or later in its career, find some sort of bandwagon to hop aboard and plug for, The Guardsman has been shopping about for a good "crusade" to undertake.

Editorially speaking, all the dailies go out and find something wrong with life in general, then proceed to hammer away at the discrepancies until public opinion forces certain corrections.

We find in San Francisco campaigns underway ranging from the eradication of barfly mothers to getting the outside rails on Market Street torn up.

We've decided to bypass most of these and allow papers of larger circulation to take up the fight against such evils.

Besides no one of The Guardsman staff could find any "barfly mothers" in our midst on the campus.

We have heard sinister rumors, however, that vivisection has reared its ugly head on our beloved college grounds and have looked into this matter.

One of our reporters, at great risk, uncovered the fact that frogs are being dissected in the zoology labs of the college.

Our very first impression was, to coin a slogan: "Let Hearst protect the dogs, The Guardsman will save the frogs!"

But since then we have been unable to find a reporter willing to undertake the long hike up the hill to the second floor to pursue the matter.

Seriously though, we've found our goal for the semester and have hitched our wagon to a star, and that star is the light opera, Vagabond King.

Why? Because on the success of The Vagabond King hinges what we consider the most pressing problem on our campus . . . whether or not the youngsters living in Hurley Village get a good playground for their health's sake or continue to shift for themselves in seeking recreation.

We hope to get the entire college behind us on the matter; we hope to get the entire city too, and we're in it all the way until something is done for the children of our student-neighbors at Hurley Village.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

BAD NEWS AT OLD CITY COLLEGE: Unfortunately for readers of the sports page—Hollywoodish Roy Pasini has returned to "Ramblings" from Fisherman's Wharf, where he was sent to interview local clams. The clams clammed up on the tiny "writer," and all he got out of the trip was a bottle of cod-liver oil which he is using to keep his hair slicked down!!

(COMMENT): Readers who used to SUSPECT that his column was fishy, may now be Ram sure of it!!

SIGNS OF THE TIMES: The "student humor boy" who changed the "NO-SMOKING" signs in the Main Bldg. to "NOW-SMOKING," has run amok again. His latest masterpiece is the switching of BKs. 8's "Men's Dormitory" sign to "Women's Dormitory"!!! (Boy, he sure is a funny guy!)

FROM OUR CRIME FILE—THE CASE OF THE CURIOUS CO-EDS: Men in the "Waldorf" (Bks. 13), are shocked and rather pleasantly surprised every morning around 7:30 a.m. Seems that at this fateful hour a tan Ford, 1940 convertible draws up at Phelan Ave. (Death Valley), and its two girl passengers slyly sneak peeks at the Waldorf's young men as they prepare for another college day. (Could it be Spring?)

(FLIPPANT COMMENT): Dear girls, if you really want to get your kix, there are rumors that a local student is selling POST-CARDS around the campus!!!!

MORE FROM THE CRIME FILE (This is getting to be a crime wave): Local rowing enthusiasts have petitioned President Cloud to support their efforts to prevent the Board of Public Works from laying a pipe-line across their happy rowing grounds at Lake Merced.

(CLINCHER): These row-happy boys are referring to the board's plans as "A FLY IN THE OINTMENT." What they mean is "A pipe in the lake," but wotthehell; maybe they have run out of material—just like this columnist has done!!!

(EDITOR'S NOTE): You'd better start improving this column, Nobody (and I do mean Nobody), or even your Mother will stop reading it!!!

SCOOPS FROM THE VAG KING: Reliable sources report that Hewitt Kendall has still not received a check from the Burgundians. (More! Read on!) Also some ladies of the cast refuse to wear wigs. (How Natural!)

Marauding Thespians Go To Mt. Tamalpais Foxhole

By I. R. Lascola

There's a hole in the ground on the side of Mount Tamalpais which is invaded yearly by marauding thespians, and, this year, being no exception, they're at it again.

This year's production, aided and abetted by Michael J. Griffin, City College English instructor acting as stage manager, will be If I Were King, by Justin H. McCarthy.

The play in general concerns a weak king and a strong, although rather impetuous, vagabond poet. The king, unable to defeat invaders, enlists the aid of said poet to do the job.

Needless to say, friend does it, falling in love, as poets will, and almost getting hung. All of this takes place in France, a country somewhere between Spain and Germany.

Now here's an interesting sidelight; the poet is a vagabond, and in the course of the play, becomes a king. This may be a coincidence, but there is a light opera by some musician named Friml, and it's called the Vagabond King.

Strangely enough, this Vagabond King, soon to be performed by a certain educational institution dedicated to the proposition "the truth shall make you free," also takes place in Europe, in France to be exact.

However, don't be deluded; they couldn't be the same even if the hero in both is named Villon; the difference is obvious; they sing in the opera and talk in the play.

Literal Name Change Costlier Than Actual

The bronze letters on the main building which proclaim to the world that this is "San Francisco Junior College" will be "erased." The true monicker of "City College" stands ready to be inserted in its rightful place.

Erasers must come expensive these days, however. Although it has not been officially disclosed, the cost of "erasing" will amount to approximately $800.00.

The name was officially changed to "City College" two months ago.

Robespierre Goes To China; Or Who Shanghais Whom

Editor's note: Doug Johnson, ex-feature writer, recently smiled enigmatically (like his creation, Robespierre) and shipped for Shanghai.

By Dave Hansen

Jack Lovelocks sat hunched over a double joe, a troubled furrow creasing his nobly chisled forehead. He was thinking; his bosom companion, enigmatic Michael St. Robespierre had seemed preoccupied of late.

At that moment, amid raucous clamor of blaring juke box and giggling coeds, the Bogart-esque figure of Mike St. Robespierre appeared. Smiling enigmatically, he approached Lovelocks' table with his rolling sailor's walk.

Jack spoke, "I see you smile enigmatically as your Bogart-esque figure approaches my table with a rolling sailor's walk. Speak, so that I too may smile enigmatically."

Mike replied, picking a speck of dust from his cuff and returning it to a passing coed's cigar. "Mon ami, I shall speak, though adding to the raucous clamor of blaring juke box and giggling coeds, and erase the troubled furrow creasing your nobly chisled forehead.

"Ye see, old lettuce leaf, at heart I am a merchant seaman.

"I've often thought nostalgically of the golden days of 1941 and 1942 when I was the character taking Shots at Ramdom. But even a feature story character must eat, old garbage can."

Again Mike smiled enigmatically. He arose. "Au revoir, old yo-yo. I am off to San Pedro, from whence I sail next week for Shanghai, where I shall observe and learn—things my poor brain was unable to do while here on the beach.

"First, however, I must stop at The Guardsman office to pick up my seagoing sidekick—some guy named Doug Johnson."

The silent Jack Lovelocks watched the Bogart-esque figure sway away with a rolling sailor's gait. Then he too, smiled enigmatically.

Crusading Editor States Policy On Forum, Lauds Student Cooperation

By Dave Hansen

Forum Magazine has an editor—and the editor has his magazine.

Crusading, capable Marvin Silverman is the one man most responsible for tendering the spark-of-life to the annual campus literary offering, dying from lack of council-appropriated funds.

Psychology major Silverman brigaded the forces of Student League councilmembers and popular student opinion to effect a compromise; said compromise made Forum partially self-supporting.

Silverman said of his coup d'etat, "The majority of students realize the importance of a literary magazine on the campus."

(Last week purchasers of UC's Pelican magazine, now sold on campus, were disappointed by its lack of literature.)

"I was glad of the enthusiastic student reception of our pre-sale and final council guarantee of partial support," he said.

Born in New York, but reared in San Francisco, Silverman is a Washington High School graduate. He is 20 years old, stands 6 feet, 2 inches tall, and weighs 220 pounds.

He will attend the University of California next semester; ultimately he hopes to be a psychological therapist in a hospital. For two years ex-soldier Silverman was a band director at Camp Lee, Virginia.

MARVIN SILVERMAN, the editor of Forum Magazine.

An accomplished musician, Silverman was president of the Symphony Forum at the college prior to entering the service. At the present time he holds the position of student leader of the band, and sings in the choir.

"This issue of Forum Magazine will be a strictly non-partisan literary offering," Silverman promises.

"The edition will hit the campus about one week before finals," he said.

He announced that most of the 1000 copies offered during the pre-sale have been sold. The few that yet remain may be purchased in Room 251 or in The Guardsman offices.

Last Friday was the deadline for material submitted to The Forum. Offerings may be left in Room 251, as has been previously announced.

Thinclads Off For Arizona; Netters Win, Golfers Lose

Coach Jim Jensen and approximately seven of City College's best track and field performers depart from San Francisco this afternoon for a trek that will carry them to Phoenix, Arizona and the National Junior College Track Championship.

The choosing of the athletes to represent San Francisco was to have been determined by the NCJCC track meet, however wet grounds postponed the meet until next Wednesday leaving the selection mainly to past performances.

Barring last minute changes the following men will make the trip: Owen Moore, Tyre Mills, Bob Zarick, Jim Wyatt, Bob Langan, Bob Brickell, Bob Cook, and Doss Sims.

Zarick, because of a badly pulled muscle, may have to sit this one out, and in this case an as yet unnamed substitute will take his place.

On the remainder of the sports scene, the college nine was inactive, the golfers dropped a heartbreaker to San Mateo, and the Tennisers walloped Salinas 6-1, for their sixth straight conference victory.

The netmen, playing in a sweltering hot Salinas sun, each carried away a singles win, although Ed Jacobson, Fred Rodgers, and Frank Reed were each extended to 3 sets. Bob Sockolov and Bill Covall won easily in straight sets. Jacobson-Sockolov won their doubles match but the combo of Reed-Rodgers received their first seasonal setback.

Mittmen In Practice Tilt With Bank Nine

Currently resting from conference competition, the league-leading Ram nine journeys cross-town tomorrow afternoon to meet the Bank of America nine in a practice tilt at the Rossi diamond. Starting time for the game is 3 o'clock.

The next conference game for the local squad will be a twin-bill with Salinas in the "Lettuce City" on May 8.

Entries Still Open In Intra Touch Football

Applications for intramural football are still being accepted in the men's gymnasium by mentor Tom Wilson.

The rules for touch football will remain the same as last semester, Wilson said last week.

Player limit for teams is still eight regulars and two substitutes.

Deadline for the entries on touch football has been set by Wilson for this Thursday.

Wilson is also seeking an intramural manager for next semester. Managers are requested to help out in the gymnasium from 3 to 5 p.m. four days a week.

If satisfactory service is received a block award is given to the manager. All interested students should inform Wilson in the men's gymnasium.

Jensen Coached Team Rates Among Best Bay Area Squads

Undefeated to date with wins over the frosh teams of California and Stanford, the varsities of Santa Clara, St. Mary's, and Salinas Junior College, Jim Jensen's band of hustling tracksters appear to be the cream of the NCJCC.

Captain Jim Wyatt, crack half-miler and defending conference champ, has been bringing his time down to an outstanding 2 flat. Wyatt also anchors the college's record-breaking relay team of Mills, Zarick, Moore and Wyatt.

Owen Moore, who is the best quarter-miler in the conference race, has been taking his wins with the time of 49.6 and is probably capable of better.

Bob DeGrazia and Jim Langan have both made impressive showings in the sprints, while hurdlers Wrightson and Hurst have proven themselves invaluable.

In the long distance events the names of Bob Chapman and Nick Gardere are constantly appearing in the first place spot.

In the field events the locals have shown a good deal of depth, especially when boys like Doss Sims and Bill Barnes take 1-2 in the high jump.

Bob Cook has made improvement by leaps and bounds in the discus while Bob Brickell has hit well over 170 feet with the javelin.

Manager Horace Aubertine has proved himself to be an indispensable man on the squad.

Netters Will Meet Stockton Today

By Roy Pasini

Taking a beating at the hands of Santa Clara in a practice match, but getting in a few desired licks in preparation for today's Stockton conference affair, the Ram netters were thrown by the Broncos, 7-2, at Golden Gate Park last week.

The Bronco match marked the return of Herb Suhr to the local net scene, and along with Bill Covall, he registered the only City College wins of the day.

Suhr Not To Play

Although Suhr is eligible for conference play as of today, he will not make the Stockton trip because the match is a replay of an event postponed earlier in the season when the Ram ace was ineligible.

Following this afternoon's make-up tilt, the boys from Ramland will return to Golden Gate Park tomorrow afternoon to host the Marin Mariners at 2 p.m.

According to an official release from the registrar's office, Suhr will don his cloak and dagger apparel and join his fellow racketeers for the Marin caper.

Marin Concentrates Power

Marin presents a fair to middlin' squad with their power concentrated in three top singlesmen.

Longest match of the season for the locals was turned in by Covall and Bob Sockolov in a 15-13 heartbreaker against Bronco's Tom Burns and Dick Grenfell last week.

Two TKO's Feature College Intramural Novice Boxing Finals Friday Night

By Walt Roessing

Before a disappointing crowd of only 300 rabid fight fans, the intramural novice boxing finals, nevertheless, were successfully held last Friday night in the men's gymnasium.

The small gathering of students really witnessed a night of hectic fighting, though, with two technical knockouts and one knockout highlighting the eight final matches.

Fastest fight of the evening was in the 165 pound match with Sal Tedesco meeting Frank Jarboe. Tedesco came out of his corner in the first round and immediately hit Jarboe with a fast series of lefts and rights and within forty seconds of the opening bell the latter was knocked out by the aggressive winner.

Spurred on by the fast KO, Frank Suega, heavyweight, knocked down Will Dawson in the first stanza and then gained a TKO win over the latter fighter in the opening minute of the second round.

Vic Torres, 147-pound dynamo, gained a second round TKO win over Al Dominici.

In the 140 pound match, John Bohman pouded out a decision over Dan Aguilar. Henry Yum, 120, gained a close decision over Jim Guelid.

Joe Jackson won a decision over Joe Simon in the 155 pound feature in a rough and slugging fight from start to finish. Bob Toquinto won a close match from Walt Jordan in the 175 pound scrap.

Jun Taira, 126, upset Ken Jung in a close and hard fought decision.

Carlos Gonzales, 133, lost by default to Robert Pearson.

WAA Sponsors Sport Day

By Patti McGuire

A sports day, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will be held Monday, May 10, at San Mateo Junior College, Laurine Bergin, WAA adviser, announced today.

Members of the WAA and sport classes will compete for honors in a tournament of volleyball, tennis, and badminton, which will display the prowess of the fair sex in the field of sports and rivalry.

Some of the players for the tennis teams include Annette Worden, WAA tennis manager; Trudy Wulff, Rose Makano, Wanda Hodges, and Rose Butala.

Since an official volley ball team has not yet been organized, members of the WAA basketball team will display their versatility by playing volleyball in the tourney.

The tournament will be held in both the men's and women's gymnasiums at San Mateo, which are situated on Coyote Point Campus. The teams will be accompanied to the college by Nancy Sparks, badminton instructor, and Gloria Swicegood, tennis instructor.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

GIVING their okay on turning over part of the proceeds from The Vagabond King to build a playground for the kids in Hurley Village, the Student Council ended the business portion of the meeting last Thursday, and then started a "fish fry."

Councilman Bob Reilly, seemingly Fraternity leader in the council, apparently likening The Guardsman to a herring, attempted to drag it over the coals.

Claiming The Guardsman was one-sided and failed to present both sides of the situation, Reilly started the mid-semester harangue that usually springs from some disgruntled council member as a defense for his group's actions.

The Guardsman, always presenting the newsstories factually, took its stand, when a representative from the paper declared, "If the facts appear as facts in the newsstories and make the Fraternity Bloc look bad in the eyes of the students, there is nothing we can do about it."

This gripe has been going on every semester for at least the last four.

CHECKING THE RECORD

We've been checking into the voting records of the members of the Spring '48 council in order to clarify the Fraternity Block as well as the Student League faction.

General voting in unanimity for the Fraternity Group have been Bob Reilly, apparent Fraternity council leader and Beta Tau member; George Capanis, Tri-Epsilon; Don Shumacher, Beta Tau; Frank Ferguson, Tri-Epsilon; Ken Brown, Tau Chi Sigma; Bob McVey, Tri-Epsilon; Phyllis Ryan, Kappa Phi, and Alex Athanasopoulos, from the Block SF.

Through Reilly's admission, the Fraternity council members represent 300 Associated Students affiliated with the Hellenic groups on the campus.

These members, with the aid of the Block SF delegate, are the majority rule in the Student council.

AND THE LEAGUE

On the other hand, the Student League members, voting generally together and representing campus clubs and independents, are Jack Hurley, Student League leader; Nancy Wallace, student vice president and former member of Kappa Phi sorority; Jack Hagan, Kurt Levi, Robert Judd, Helen Rich, and Francisco Solorizano.

These members are the minority group in the council and represent, according to a deductive interpretation of Reilly's statement, nearly 2700 students.

Prediction: From the looks of things, coffee is too high at 8 pennies per cup!

Non Profit Dance Is Planned By Fraternity

According to Bryne Davis, Beta Phi Beta president, it looks as though votes for the most outstanding dance of the semester will go to their Straight Jacket Struggle, which will be held Friday night, May 7, in the west campus auditorium from 8 to 12 o'clock.

Bob Harrison and his band will furnish the music. Admission will be $1.25 per couple. The dress will be informal.

All profits received from the dance, Davis announced, except ten per cent for band uniforms, will go to the students attending. One hundred dollars will be given away in door prizes.

Davis stipulated, however, that all winners must also be holders of an Associated Student card.

In explaining the purpose of the dance, Davis stated, "In the past, all dances held in the auditorium have been of a money making nature, but the members of the Beta Phi Beta think that it is about time the students have an opportunity to really enjoy themselves."

Sophomore Formal Set For Oakland Ballroom

Definite plans for the semi-annual sophomore formal have been formulated, it was disclosed yesterday by Bill Riley, sophomore class president, who announced the dance as scheduled for Saturday, June 12, at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium.

The formal affair will be highlighted by the coronation of the sophomore king and queen who are student elected from a list of candidates representing the various campus organizations.

The usual posters and pictures announcing the candidates, who have yet to be chosen, will be placed on the campus and surrounding territories during the first part of June, Riley said, and the elections to determine the winners have been officially set for Monday, June 7, for this traditional affair.

Dress, according to custom, will be formal for women, with men having a choice between dark suits and tuxedos, Riley explained.

The orchestra of Sol Vance will provide music for the affair.

Officers of the sophomore class are Riley, president; Bill Chobilos, vice-president; Jean Gibson, secretary-treasurer, and Jim Fernhoff, sophomore week chairman.

Veteran Testing Still Available

Aptitude and interest tests are still being offered free to all veterans interested, according to Louis Batmale of the Veteran's Counselling Service.

This service is designed to aid the veteran in finding those courses most helpful to his chosen career.

A library of vocational literature aimed at providing the student veteran with information on job opportunities in any number of fields varying from animal husbandry to geology, is also available in Building 3 as part of the vocational guidance program.

Procedure Outlined For Vet Schooling Abroad

Veteran students who are enrolled in the college during the regular school year and want to take summer courses abroad under PL346 must take the following steps, F. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, announced today.

1—Obtain a letter of acceptance from the approved foreign school.

2—Secure a supplemental certificate of eligibility.

3—Secure from the State Department the necessary passports and visas authorizing his travel to the foreign school.

Authorities recommend that the study be taken in a country served by an attache of Veterans Affairs assigned by the Department of State.

New Judiciary Bigwig States Traffic Setup

Replacing retired Izzy Bless, newly-appointed Judiciary Committee head, Bob Tomlinson announced yesterday that he has been carrying on the work of his new job for the past three weeks.

Issuing traffic tickets is no longer in the jurisdiction of the committee, Tomlinson asserted, because the duty has been taken over by the new criminology class.

College Artists To Exhibit Paintings Latter Part Of May

City College artists will put their work before the public in a display of paintings and salons throughout Northern California, beginning the latter part of May, Stanley Sadler, president of Alpha Delta Epsilon, art society, disclosed yesterday.

The society, under the sponsorship of Richard Allman, is making plans to submit entries to the Northern California Junior College Art Association.

The exhibit will then be shown to various cities in California for display, Sadler said.

Entries are also being planned for an Open Air show which will take place later and will be held in Union Square and Maiden Lane in San Francisco.

Summer Camp Jobs Now Are Available

"Opportunity is knocking," were the words of Joseph A. Amori, placement bureau head, when quizzed yesterday about the chances of summer jobs.

"Jobs in summer camps are just beginning to open up," he continued, "and they offer chances of employment to both students and faculty here."

The jobs for which applications are now being taken are as follows:

Faculty or students over 30: Nature guide, in the Big Sur country, Monterey—$243; two recreation leaders, Williams Grove, Eel River, Cuyamaca Rancho State Park, San Diego County—$210; program director—$150.

For students over 21: Camp director—$200; assistant camp director—$150.

For any student: Dining room steward—$180; nature study counselor—$125; arts and crafts counsellor—$125; riding counsellor—$125; photography counsellor—$125; horse pack trips counseller—$125.

One camp job is open to a woman at a girls' camp which pays $60.

San Francisco State Entrance Date Set

Opportunity for graduates from the college to take the entrance examinations for admission to San Francisco State College has been set for Saturday, May 8, according to Grant Marsh, counselling director.

Applicants will report to the main entrance of College Hall, 121 Buchanan Street, at 8:15 a.m., for assignment to examination rooms.

Council Acts, Orders 40 Band Uniforms

BOB SHERRATT, as Francois Villon (right) in the coming Vagabond King, deftly parries a thrust from Pat Paulsen, playing Count Thibaut.
In the lower scene, Sherratt gets his "point across" as Paulsen goes the way of all villains.
With Sherratt and Paulsen, Dave Huenegardt and Jack Lewis, who alternate the same roles, are studying fencing from Betty Heckman, physical education instructor.

McRae Models Red, White Outfit For Official Approval

Orders for 40 partial band uniforms were placed with a Kansas City clothing firm as the direct result of Student Council action taken during Tuesday's colorful meeting.

The council's approval of a motion made by Bob Reilly followed its questioning of Walt McRae, student band manager, and a representative from the clothing firm regarding price, tailoring, and durability of the samples presented to them.

Reilly's motion stipulated that the band could purchase immediately 40 blouses with the $1500 previously earmarked for its use.

McRae, acting as model, displayed the uniform chosen by the band, and it was okayed by the council. It consists of a red blouse trimmed in white, white belt, white pants with red side stripes, and a red and white garrison-type hat.

Because tailoring of the blouses will require from six to eight weeks, it was decided that the 40 blouses be ordered now instead of a smaller number of complete uniforms. However, upon receipt of the additional funds expected this June, the balance will be obtained.

Meanwhile, the committee which is seeking donations from downtown stores, reported that legal obstacles finally have been surmounted.

Guest Speaker Named For Unesco Assembly

Guest speaker for the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization special assembly to be held in the west campus auditorium on Friday, May 14, will be William G. Carr, member of the National Educational Association, according to an announcement by Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, yesterday.

Luckmann, City College representative to the regional conference of UNESCO, stated that the assembly is to be primarily an orientation in the functions and purposes of the organization.

Vagabond King Ticket Sales Posts Posted

Tickets for The Vagabond King, light opera to be presented in the auditorium May 20, 21, and 22, are available now at the silver pole in the main building and at the guard shack on the west campus.

Prices are 50 cents to Associated Student card holders and $1.00 to the general public. Children will be admitted for 50 cents.

Tri Epsilon is the first campus organization to come through and buy a block of 82 tickets for The Vagabond King performances, making a total purchase of $48.

Presidents of all organizations are urged to report every two or three days to the finance office located in The Guardsman office so a check on ticket sales may be made.

Beta Phis Promise Door Prizes Tonight

The Straight Jacket Struggle, Beta Phi Beta's "give everything away" dance, will be held tonight from 8 to 12 in the west campus auditorium, according to Byrne Davis, president of the fraternity.

Couples who can provide the $1.25 required for admission will dance to the music of Bob Harrison and his band, and have a chance of winning $100 in door prizes, Davis stated.

"When mercenary interests enter into the situation, the idea of enjoyment is lost," Davis added, "so we plan to give all profits from this dance, except ten per cent which will help purchase band uniforms."

Mardi Gras To Donate Cash For Band Dress

Donations for band uniforms will be contributed by the Associated Men Student Mardi Gras to be held Friday, June 4, Byrne Davis, AMS president, asserted today.

College organizations that will present a booth at the gala affair, plan to donate a part of their gross return. This sum will supplement the voted $1500 "godsend," and will aid in the total fund needed for band uniforms.

"Kangaroo court" fines will also be donated, Davis said.

Vets' Checks In Bank

Fifteen checks, reimbursing student veterans for last semester's Associated Student cards, remain unclaimed in the college bank, Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, stated yesterday. They must be claimed by June or be cancelled.

Sophomore Queen To Be Chosen By Novel System This Year

Announcing a new system for choosing sophomore queens, Bill Riley, sophomore president, and Jim Fernhoff, sophomore week chairman, revealed yesterday that the method is calculated to make a fairer and bigger contest.

Women students interested in earning the title of sophomore queen should submit 5 by 7 inch glossy portraits of themselves to the office of the Associated Student president before 3 p.m., Thursday, May 20.

"By portraits, I mean just that. We will be glad to look at bathing suit pictures, but they will not be entered in the contest," Riley said.

Along with the pictures, in a separate sheet of paper, contestants must list their name, address, telephone number, height, the color of their hair and eyes, and their Associated Student card number.

According to Fernhoff, these contestants will have their pictures submitted to three impartial judges: A. Walter McMurray, photographer; Elice Ehlers, teacher of advertising at Golden Gate College; and Robert S. Schnebly, president of the Young Republicans of San Francisco.

"No names of the contestants will be seen by the judges; the pictures will be numbered for the judging," Fernhoff said.

After the judges have picked the six outstanding candidates, the final question will be up to the students of the college, when on June 9 and 10 they will pick their favorite from the six finalists.

"Girls who do not have photos may get their picture taken free of charge for the contest if they will go to the studios of A. Walter McMurray at 1401 Van Ness Avenue in the city," Riley added.

College Hour Slated For Club Meetings

Today's college hour will resume its regular schedule with the 10:40 hour used for club meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, said yesterday.

The night rally scheduled for Thursday, May 13, is cancelled, according to a statement by John Pifer, rally commissioner.

College Groups Pledge Aid To King-Hurley Village Plan

By Hank Twelth

Increased momentum was added to the Vagabond King-Hurley Village Playground plan this week as several college groups volunteered their full support to assure the success of the project.

Fifty per cent of the proceeds from the light opera, Vagabond King, to be presented May 20, 21, and 22, were earmarked for the playground by the Student Council a week ago, pending approval of Herbert C. Clish, Superintendent of Schools.

Following the Student Council vote of approval, these developments have ensued:

1. J. Paul Mohr, vice-president of the college, announced today that all student ticket holders to the opera will be dismissed from classes Friday afternoon, May 21, to see the matinee performance.

2. Jules Fraden, instructor in recreational leadership at the college, has offered his services and those of the 20 students working under him to act in supervisory capacities at the playground.

3. Complete co-operation by Allan Maxwell, student manager of Hurley Village, and all married veterans living in the housing project has been promised by Maxwell.

4. The college horticulture department has offered to investigate the possibility of planting shrubbery around the playground, Raymond Peterson, instructor in horticulture, assured The Guardsman yesterday.

In conjunction with National Music Week, the college A Cappella Choir, under direction of Flossita Badger, will feature selections from The Vagabond King in a noon concert today in Union Square.

As rehearsals for the opera went into the final weeks, both Miss Badger and Lloyd Sisler, co-producers, voiced strong enthusiasm for its success. Sisler said, "I have never before seen such talented and experienced students assembled for one single production." Miss Badger seconded Sisler's views emphatically.

Choir Fetes Alumni, Cast On May 22

A welcome back party honoring alumni of the college choir will be held after the final performance of The Vagabond King, Saturday, May 22, student choir manager Elmer Dickey disclosed today.

Also to be honored at the reception, scheduled for the student lounge, are members of the opera cast, the production staff, and the college administration. Choir alumni number approximately 600.

CAB To Discuss AS Amendment

The once-rejected amendment requiring that all club members be Associated Student card holders will again be the subject of spirited discussion at the next Club Advisory Board meeting scheduled today in college hour, according to Mel Dykman, president of the group.

Students' Mothers To Meet Faculty At Tea

Audriana Litrus and Eleanor Zais are co-hostesses in the annual Mother's Day tea to be given by the students of the college hostess class today, which will provide an opportunity for the students' mothers to meet instructors.

NCJC Conference Gives Go Signal To Little Rose Bowl Participation

J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president, and chairman of the NCJCC athletic committee, announced today that the state association, during the Eastern meeting, approved holding a "Little Rosebowl" game this year.

The proposed plan, recommended by the state committee and approved by the association, will include selection of 22 players from two-year college teams of both the east and the west, forming an all-star team for each. They will play the deciding championship game on December 11.

Selections will be made by a committee of the State Athletic Association.

Hurley Village Playground Plan Stimulates Encouraging Responses

IF good people at heart are shown a worthwhile cause to get behind and support fully, their response will invariably raise one's faith in human nature considerably.

In the few short days since it was announced by this paper that 50 per cent of the proceeds of The Vagabond King light opera, to be presented in the west campus auditorium on May 20, 21, and 22, would go into a Hurley Village Children's Playground fund, college reaction has been very gratifying.

Ticket sales have picked up briskly with one organization already asking for more tickets to sell, having disposed of most of their quota.

Individual students have submitted several original ideas toward making The Vagabond King production a definite success for the children's sake.

A publicity campaign is well under way, both on the campus and throughout the city. Radio time has been secured by one enterprising press agent and posters will start appearing all over the town.

All this spontaneous response is excellent indication that college students are not forgetting their young neighbors in the Village for a moment.

The latest development brings word from the college's recreational leadership department of an ambitious program outlined by a faculty member of that department which will provide actual play supervision for the children in the event that the playground is built.

This would mean experienced recreation tutelage for children who have, of necessity, been pretty well left alone in their idle moments.

It would also provide excellent opportunity for those students enrolled in recreation classes to get first hand practical experience at playground directing.

All these plans, of course, are in the very first stages of development, but show great promises and, above all, a bunch of hearts in the right place.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

CRIME FILE CLIPS—DEVELOPMENT IN SCHOOL SPIRIT MURDER: As everybody who is nobody knows, School Spirit lies mouldering in a grave near the Student Fountain. The lillies atop it have wilted, BUT some grief-stricken student has lovingly placed a new token of remembrance on the deceased's resting place—namely, a copy of The Guardsman, your timely, vital and informative campus rag.

More Crime (Maybe): Unless you're anti-social you know that Old City College recently threw a brawl called Rainbow Rhapsody. So what? Just this, eager reader: A S. F. State girl, name of Betty Leonard, recently won a few prizes for selecting a name for a forthcoming State Dance. Her winning Suggestion (you guessed it) "Rainbow Rhapsody."

(Flippant Comment): Over at State CRIME DOES PAY!!

(Shrewd Afterthought): Miss Leonard happens to be the daughter of J. Paul Leonard, President of San Francisco State.

COLLEGE IS MORE THAN KNOWLEDGE DEPT.: Handsome Jack Brady, the industrious Dean, is in serious training for the coming softball game between faculty and students. We predict a victory for the faculty because Handsome Jack is no novice in the world of muscle. He used to coach a campus basketball team which dubbed itself "Brady's Beauties."

FLASH, SCOOP, YOU READ IT HERE DEPT.: Old Nobody challenges you to find the news in the above item in the SPORTS DEPARTMENT, where it would appear if the sport scribes weren't too busy making inside bets on the pony races. It all boils down to the fact that you've got to read this column if you want to know what's going on.

MORE SPORTS (Of Sorts): It sickens us more than you, but we must mention the sports page once again, and then we'll quit. It seems that Roy Pasini, who writes an obscure column called "Ramblings" which keeps appearing in spite of public indignation, has been sent down to Fisherman's Wharf so often that the only song he ever sings is, "I Cover the Waterfront." (Come to think of it, he does a better job covering the clams than he does in his sports writing.)

(Ed's Note: When are you going to do that Gossip Column???)

Vagabond Holds The Edge In Fencing

By I. R. Lascola

Recommending a return to the "Old Ways," Pete Boghosin, prominent local actor, currently playing one of the "vagabonds" in The Vagabond King, advocates fencing as the best way to settle disputes.

All that is necessary, according to Boghosin, is a smattering of a few French terms like "touche," "en garde," "a la carte," "hors d'oeuvres" and so on.

"Swords for the purpose of engaging in mortal combat should have handles on one end and points on the other," added Boghosin, holder of the Sum Cutus Deepus degree in fencing from the Albino Agricultural Institution.

Boghosin, also a graduate of the Himalayan College of Buoyancy, revealed that good balance is important; slyly stating, "Unbalanced fencers usually develop duel personalities and often get hurt."

Pointing out that fencing is making a comeback, Boghosin, president of the local chapter of the Let's-Make-Dueling-Legal-Again Society of Lapland," revealed that he has fought 3,000,567,001 duels, of which he lost 3,000,567,000, didn't show up for 60, and doesn't recall the last one.

"They're even singing about fencing now," interrupted Justin Smith, also a cast member of The Vagabond King, and Boghosin's erstwhile opponent (rehearsals only). "Haven't you heard 'Don't Fence Me In, Fenasse, and Fence In A While? This thing is big!"

Polishing off Smith with a light flick, Boghosin revealed that he will do no sword play in the coming Vagabond King. Because of his obvious edge in that field, Boghosin, alumnus of the Observatory of Obviciality of Edgification, said, "Yes, my edge is quite obvious."

Donning a bathing suit as the interview closed, Boghosin, Professor Emeseadus of the Esther Williams Foundation for Stuff, disclosed that he was off to teach an insulting swordfish some manners.

As he left, Boghosin unbuckled his sword and picked up a saw. "Secret weapon, you know," he gayly tossed back.

PETE BOGHOSIN, as Tabary, mulls over the possibility of disputing the point in question wielded by Justin Smith, as René, in The Vagabond King.

A Letter From Ankara

Collegienne Hack Hits Middle East; Eurasian Manners Captivate SF Girl

Editor's Note: The following dispatch is from The Guardsman's "foreign correspondent" in Ankara, Turkey. Mary Erhart, former feature writer on the staff, is now living there and has promised to "see" Turkey for us. Her first article describes her trip across the world to Asia.

By Mary Erhart

As I sit here at my window, gazing over the housetops of Ankara, it makes me feel as if I'm not really in a foreign land but merely out in the countryside of the good old U. S. A.! The people's general makeup isn't very much different from that in America.

We, my mother, brother and I, sailed from New York, February 20, aboard the SS Marine Carp. We found that our fellow passengers were mostly Syrians, Greeks or American Jews going to Palestine to fight the Arabs.

There were other peoples represented, such as three Arabs, who sat on deck smoking water pipes and chanting the Moslem Koran; a Lebanese Catholic priest; some American missionaries going to Kenya, Africa, and Teheran, Iran; a few American oil people, and last, but not least, three former San Franciscans hoping some day to reach Ankara, Turkey.

The following day we saw the beautiful Sierra Nevadas, of Spain, rising steeply out of the Mediterranean.

The second day in the Mediterranean we passed very near the heavily jungled mountains of Africa. We saw sunny Sicily; then on March 3 the coast of Greece loomed up boldly on our port side.

Piraeus, the Port of Athens, did not escape the destruction of the last war. It was first raided by the Germans, then bombed by the Allies. When the Germans moved out they completely demolished the port.

When our ship docked, men rowed out in boats, trying to sell their wares, such as Greek champagne, dolls and handkerchiefs. Immigration authorities came aboard, checked our passports; we said goodbye to shipboard acquaintances, gathered our luggage together, and disembarked for our first taste of foreign life.

Cary, At 2nd Fiddle, Burns; Bold Look Born

By John Campiglia

The rave about the "new look" seems to be dying, but the men now take over with the "Bold-look."

This new look is designed to evoke sheer sighs from the feminine side of campus life.

Along with the provincial pants, the bold look will feature such things as wide-spread collars, pegged shirt-sleeves, and longer suit-coats.

Though this style was born in Los Angeles, it is taking strong hold here on the City College campus.

Women interviewed about the campus giving startling credence to this bold look. They think it is just plain ducky, but it does have charm (being tolerant, yet!) "although," said one, "I don't think it will replace the fuss made by the 'new look' which came out last season."

It has been discovered that the style is native to Cary Grant of cinemafame. Grant said, in a statement to the press, that he was just plain tired of playing second fiddle to a bunch of Frenchmen who dictate the style for women, and because it comes from Paris, it is the thing . . . so there is something for the males!

"Just how long have you been troubled with this complex?"

League Leading Ram Takes On Salinas In Valley Twin Bill

By Art Paymiller

With a feeling of malice toward all and charity for none in their hearts, the pace-setting Ram nine travel south tomorrow morning to the overgrown lettuce patch of Salinas.

There they will engage the Salinas Junior College Panthers in a twin-bill that may have a direct bearing on the outcome of the 1948 pennant chase.

The first ball is scheduled to be thrown plateward at 12:30 p.m.

Local Coach Bill Fischer, in an effort to increase his team's advantage in the conference standings, will send his two ace moundsmen, Hal Flinn and Paul Nederman, to the hill in an attempt to stymie the hometown diamondmen.

To date, Flinn has a total of 23 strikeouts in 30 innings and an earned run average of 1.98, while Nederman has fanned 18 in 18 innings and earries a 1.50 E.R.A.

Fully refreshed after a two-week layoff from conference activity, the Ramlanders will go into battle in top physical condition for the gruelling doubleheader.

Although half the season has gone by, the Rams have the toughest part of the schedule coming up.

This is the way the local lads will line up against the "Lettuce City" squad, with seasonal batting averages in parentheses. Cannuli, 2b (.056); White, 1b (.318); Kenna, lf (.280); Kaplan, cf (.565); Bournellis, 3b (.346); Domecus, rf (.267); Bellecci, c (.357); Friedman, c (.200); Lynch, ss (.118); Flinn, p (.000); Nederman, p (.429).

Tennis, Track, Golf Teams Gain Victories

Keeping its undefeated slate clean, the Ram track team rolled over the Sacramento Panthers 84-47 Monday afternoon on S.F. State's Lake Merced cinders.

Bill Langan paced the triumph with a double win, taking firsts in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Jim Wyatt turned in his best time of the year in the 880 winning the half in 1:58.2.

The college cindermen captured 11 of the 15 first places.

Winning their seventh straight conference meet of the year, the undefeated Ram netmen shut out Stockton Junior College Tuesday on the C.O.P. courts 7-0.

In the singles, Frank Reed was the only local tennis man to win in straight sets, downing Phil Korblitz, 6-4, 6-0. Bill Covall was extended to the longest sets before finally winning, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4.

Also triumphing in straight sets in the doubles were Bob Sockolov and Ed Jacobson winning 6-4, 6-3, while Reed and Fred Rodgers won 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

The college golfers made it a clean sweep of early week victories by downing the University of San Francisco stickers, 13-11 Tuesday on the Harding links.

4-Way Tie In Boxing Handicap Contest

The winners of the intramural novice boxing handicap were compiled by Coach Roy Diedericksen last Monday morning.

Henry Williams and Bill Covall led the handicap picking with six winners out of the scheduled nine bouts, while Bob Sockolov and Nelson Yee each chose five champions.

The four winners will divide among themselves merchandise orders of $5, $2.50, and $1.

These merchandise orders are usable at the White House.

The original idea of having a boxing handicap was started by Diedericksen, boxing mentor. More than 150 students entered the boxing contest, which was originally printed in The Guardsman.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

WHAT with the warm weather and the annual siege of spring fever coming on, it has reached our ears that the faculty is going athletic in a big way.

The brains behind this local plant of knowledge have again decided to step from behind their desks and venture forth onto the athletic battlefield to challenge, of all people—the students.

Yep, they don't get enough joy out of showing up the local crop of junior intellects in the classrooms. Now they have to take a crack at the muscle department too.

It's a very sporting gesture, we'll have to admit. But, how about last year when the "athletically misled profs" met the varsity netters on the courts?

Although a few of the racquet swingers were from the math dept., this was one time when they suffered a net loss.

The boys just didn't have it. Maybe it was the long hours spent on preparing mid-terms and then it could have been the old "out of shape" standby, but it turned into a 7-2 rout and the easiest caper the varsity racketeers pulled all season.

Not content with their court experiences, the brain trust is also set to add a game of baseball to their list of physical fiascos (don't fall for this scoop kick, Jack Hulse—old Nobody and very properly named—is handing out).

Far be it from us to attempt to discourage the profs. Let them have their fun. We enjoy their spirit. All we have to say is—this is one time when the instructors are out of class.

NCJC Net Crown On Block; US Track Title Goes Tonight

Ten Thinclads At Arizona To Vie For Nation Championship

Coach Jim Jensen and ten of his Ram cinder-burners try their hand at the best track talent the nation has to offer in the two year college division, when they line up with the star-studded group tonight for the National Junior College Meet, Phoenix, Arizona, is the locale, and things start popping at 8 p.m.

The ten Ram harriers expecting to sink their teeth into some fat points are: Bill Langan in the 100 and 200, Owen Moore in the 440, Bob Chapman in the mile, Bob Cook in the discus, Doss Sims, high hurdles; Jim Barnes, high jump; Nick Gardera, 2-mile; Jim Wyatt, half-mile; Bob Brickell, in the javelin, and Tyre Mills to compete in the relay quartet.

The city men will have to be hot to break into the money this trip. The records for this particular meet approach world marks in some instances. The high jump mark at 6-8½ and the 100, standing at 9:5, are two examples. The 220 mark, at 20:5, is just two tenths of a second off the world mark.

Moore is the Ram standing the best chance of placing in any event. His time of 49:9 in the quarter-mile is good enough to put him in a class with the nation's best 440 men in this division.

On the fast track at Phoenix, and lined up with plenty of good competition, Moore may turn in his best time of the season.

Playday Sponsored By WAA At San Mateo

How the women down south measure up, or a sports day, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will be held Monday, May 10, at San Mateo Junior College.

Women from the tennis, volleyball, and badminton classes will leave City College, Monday, to take part in an inter-collegiate women's sport day on Coyote Campus at San Mateo.

Participants for the event will include members of the various classes and members of the WAA.

Since an official volleyball team has not yet been installed in the WAA, members of the basketball team will do the honors by competing with the San Mateanettes for recognition in this field.

Rams Underdog In Tomorrow's Tennis Titanic At Modesto

While the rest of the world celebrates the third anniversary of V E Day tomorrow, the potent Ram netmen will resume hostilities, on a much smaller and healthier scale, at Modesto as they tackle the top squad of the conference "Big Three."

Still riding the undefeated trail at this writing, the boys from Ramland will have to go all out in every match in order to do any appreciable damage in the way of knocking the high riding Blue and White into the red column of defeat.

As Herb Suhr has again been declared ineligible because of deficient grades, reliable Ed Jacobsen will still be slashing away from the number one spot.

The job of handling conference singles champ Jim Brooks will fall upon the shoulders of the pre-tested Jacobsen and should the hometown ace defeat his man, it may provide a spark-plug big enough to ignite the usually red hot Rams.

The resident Pirates own four singlemen of supposedly equal ability, all of whom have yet to fall before a conference foe.

Nevertheless, the Ram machine is well oiled for this "big one" and Wilson's racketeers are out to pull another caper in their own efficient style.

Golfers Match Strokes With Mariners Today

Following a defeat at the hands of San Mateo's golfers last week, the Ram clubbers will take to the Harding links this afternoon to match strokes with the cross bay Marin stickers.

Leading the local putters to date is Bill King, who has been threatening the par mark at Harding all season.

The remainder of the squad is bunched together and lack of practice has made it impossible for Coach Ralph Hillsman to line his boys up in a definite order.

Touch Grid Play In Opener Next Week

Actual play in intramural touch football will start some time next week, Mentor Tom Wilson said Wednesday.

All men students who are playing touch football should watch the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium for the schedule of play, Wilson also said.

The schedule for volleyball will also be posted on the bulletin board some time next week.

Playoff in the Bush League between the Eaglions and Block SF is scheduled Monday in the men's gymnasium. Semi-finals of the intramural basketball race will be played on Tuesday in the men's gymnasium, Wilson said.

The winners of the National League will play the Ramblers, champions of the American League, in one semi-final clash while the playoff leader of the Bush League will meet the winners of the Pacific Coast League, who are the Buccaneers.

Tennis, badminton, and ping pong matches continue to be played in the college's vast intramural program.

Local Mermen Splash With Sailors Tomorrow

Traveling to Treasure Island tomorrow afternoon to meet the 12th Naval District's leading swimmers, the Ram mermen will be seeking their first victory of the season.

Leading point gainers for the local swimmers so far are divers Bob Sherman and Sam Segal and 440 sprint man Bill Simpson.

The Soothsayer

By Herbert Levy

CAMPUS developments for the past couple of days seemed to have hinged around Handsome Jack Brady, the industrious assistant dean of men.

In addition to the young dean's many jobs, including those of administrative adviser to the lively Student Council, a similar job with the Club Advisory Board, plus a general arbiter's position at the Presidents' Meetings, research by Brady has brought an interesting light to the possibility of a student-owned cooperative.

The ground work laid, Brady first, through informal meetings with other administration leaders at the Pasadena Student Government Conference, talked over how other colleges worked their Co-ops.

His next move was to mail questionnaires to the various deans, college officials, and general head men around other institutions of higher education.

RESULTS OVERWHELMING

The results were outstanding. The young dean disclosed in an informal statement that "Los Angeles City College, for instance, had a volume of business pass through their student owned cooperative that exceeded $250,000 last year. Of that amount it is safe to assume that at least $50,000 was turned over to the Associated Student funds."

We agreed with the thin haired dean that $50,000 per year is quite a gratuity for any college to work with.

Of course, Los Angeles City College has an enrollment of nearly 10,500 students as compared with the total registration of some 5,500 scholars here.

HOW ABOUT HERE?

Working off that premise, it can safely be assumed that, in the event of the establishment of a cooperative, this college's Associated Student funds would swell some $25,000 a year, or more than half the present budget for a year.

The legality of a student store is assured through word received from School Board authorities, and it can be presumed that the City of San Francisco would put up the initial moola for the creation of this project.

CARD PLAYING, ETC.

The crux of the situation would simply hinge on the interest the students of the college would show toward this undertaking.

Certainly the students of this college would not balk at the opportunity of saving money on books, supplies, milk shakes, and decks of cards. Think of it! We could buy new band uniforms every year!!

Mission High School Presents 'The Mikado'

Mission High School will present the Gilbert and Sullivan operetta, The Mikado, at a special matinee on Wednesday, May 12, and at two evening performances, May 13 and 14, in the school auditorium on 18th and Dolores Streets, according to an announcement made by Mission leaders.

Reserved seat tickets are now on sale at the Mission High box office, and will be sold until curtain time of the final performance.

Cranston To Attend Advisory Meet Of State AGS Officers At Compton

Representing City College's chapter of Alpha Gamma Sigma, state-wide two-year college honorary scholastic society, Edwin A. Cranston, faculty adviser of the organization, will attend an advisory board meeting of executive officers at Compton College tomorrow.

Points of discussion will include recommendations made at previous meetings by representatives of Alpha Gamma Sigma.

Cranston will preside at both the advisory board meeting and the following executive meeting, as he is president of the advisory board for City College.

YMCA Speakers To Tell Of Area Opportunities

Speakers from the Y.M.C.A. and Joe Amori, college placement director, will meet with students who are interested in the subject of opportunities in the Bay Area in Room 211, on Wednesday, May 12, at 10 a.m., Jules Fraden, recreational leadership head, announced today at this college.

All physical education majors as well as any other interested students are invited to attend. An opportunity to question the speakers directly will be provided at this meeting, Fraden said.

Entrance Exams At SF State Given Tomorrow

Entrance examinations for San Francisco State College will be given in College Hall, 124 Buchanan Street, at 8:30 a.m. tomorrow to provide opportunity for City College graduates to take the tests, Grant Marsh, counselling director here, said Tuesday.

Marsh also said that these examinations are for entrance to the Fall semester.

81 Million Bond Issue Due For Vote June 1st

Totaling 81 million dollars, the current bond issue to be utilized for general public school needs, will be submitted to the public for a vote of approval Tuesday, June 1, by George W. Johns, Board of Education president, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the City College president, disclosed today.

Emphasizing the importance of the issue to City College, Luckmann revealed that the college is to be the recipient of a four million dollar appropriation.

The last school bond issue, passed by voters in 1937, provided the two gymnasiums on City College's campus.

Flower Shop Displays Blue Ribbons

Blue ribbons won by the City College Flower Shop for its display at the California Annual Spring Garden Show will be on exhibit next week in the display case near the information booth in the main building, according to John Lawrence, instructor of the course.

Along with the ribbons a floral arrangement of Ixias, a flower native to South Africa which caused much comment at the Oakland Show, will be shown.

Clish Gives Vagabond King-Hurley Playground Project Official Okay

Producers Announce Top Stars For Each Opera Performance

Official approval was granted last Thursday by Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools, to have 50 per cent of the Vagabond King proceeds go toward construction of a Hurley Village playground.

Following Clish's announcement, campus enthusiasm for the Friml light opera has reached an intense peak.

Meanwhile co-producers of the affair, Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler released names of stellar performers for the four performances.

Francois Villon will be played by Bob Sherratt on Thursday night and Friday afternoon, while on Friday and Saturday nights the role will be played by Dave Bnenegardt.

Unsold Tickets Due In

All individuals now selling tickets are to turn in unsold tickets and money today at The Guardsman office from 11 to 12, Maurice Power, ticket chairman, declared yesterday.

Tickets are still on sale at the Silver Pole and the Student Lounge by members of Pi Mu Gamma and the Band Association.

Student card holders, children, and veterans' wives will be admitted to performances, set for May 20, 21 and 22, with a 50 cent ticket.

General admission tickets sell for one dollar. Students attending the Friday, May 21 matinee, will be excused from classes.

Thursday and Friday nights will see Carolyn Herfield as Lady Katherine, and on Friday afternoon and Saturday night Helen Setalov will play the feminine lead.

Allen Maxwell, student manager of Hurley Village, assured The Guardsman yesterday that the labor needed for the playground will be supplied by veterans living in the village.

Maxwell asserted, "We'll do the work. All we're waiting for is money to buy the equipment."

Although the entire project hinges upon the financial success of The Vagabond King, plans are now being assembled to bring together all the volunteers into a working group; to be headed by a Hurley Village resident.

It will be a complete college cooperative project, with the engineering department doing the initial surveying, the landscape classes taking over from there, along with the horticulture department and Maxwell and a crew of residents furnishing the necessary labor.

Mardi Gras To See Trophy Presented

Presentation of the Russell Sweet Memorial Trophy for inter-fraternal athletes will be a highlight of the coming Associated Men Student Mardi Gras to be held here Friday, June 4, Byrne Davis, president, stated yesterday.

Revealing that so far the planned AMS parade complete with floats is still in the purely tentative stage, Davis added that he is sure of one thing, "the music for the occasion will be tops as we have made arrangements for the best."

Petitions for the traditional Mardi Gras booths from various campus organizations have been coming in steadily, according to Davis, who predicted success for the affair.

Federal Government "Must" Buy Uniforms

Money for the band uniforms will have to come from the funds the federal government owes the college for veterans' Associated Student cards, Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, revealed today.

"At the beginning of this semester, the college had in its reserve $4000 to take care of a $10,000 budget," Anderson stated. The government still owes the college $10,000 for this semester and a balance of $6000 for last semester.

"With this money, the college has to take care of the commitments it has made for equipment, uniforms for the teams, and the like," he added.

Political Blocs Here Must Wait Till Fall

Students wishing to organize clubs for the purpose of backing presidential candidates in the coming elections must wait until after the National Primaries in the fall, John J. Brady, assistant dean, disclosed yesterday.

This means, Brady said, that no clubs will be authorized until the fall semester, and they will be strictly illegal if they do any organizing on the campus before that time.

Special Assembly To Explain UNESCO Plan

To orient City College students in the functions and purposes of the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization, President A. J. Cloud will call a special assembly this Friday, May 14, in the auditorium during college hour.

Guest speaker at the local meeting will be William G. Carr, member of the National Educational Association, who has accepted Cloud's invitation to lecture on UNESCO.

Representing City College in the UNESCO Conference to be held at the Opera House, May 13, 14, and 15, will be Frank Ferguson, student council member.

Ferguson will participate in any one of six committees on education, reconstruction, communication, human and social relations, cultural interchange, or natural sciences.

Council Will Discuss Scholarship Plan Today

Scholarship plans to assist capable high school graduates attend this college were introduced by Frank Ferguson Thursday at an otherwise routine Student Council meeting.

Pending investigation of the "paid athlete" theory, the plan was postponed until today's session.

Formulated to sustain student interest here, the plan stipulates that each San Francisco high school may submit one applicant who has excelled in both curricular and non-curricular activities. From this aggregate the outstanding student will be selected.

Evaluation and final judging of the candidates will be made by a board composed of one representative from the Student Council, the faculty, and Alpha Gamma Sigma.

The winning applicant will receive a $100 award, to be budgeted by each semester's council. On a $25 per semester basis, the fund is for the purchase of Associated Student card, books, and supplies only.

College Is Proud Dad

City College is now a proud papa! A fluffy, little baby chick was hatched in Marjorie Fox's Zoology 24 class in Room 350 the early part of this week.

Little Gregory, who is a Rock Island Red chicken, was unintentionally brought into the world because someone in the lab forgot to remove an egg from the incubator at the right time.

Meeting Will Discuss Recreation Chances

Opportunities in the field of recreation will be discussed at a general meeting in Room 200 at 10 o'clock tomorrow, Joseph A. Amori, placement bureau head, announced yesterday.

Two speakers, active in the field of recreation, will be called upon to describe the opportunities in industrial, public, private, and school recreation.

Chairman of the meeting is Jules Fraden, instructor in recreation at the college, aided by Amori who will act as moderator and put forth questions to the speakers and summarize the material they expound.

Registrar Warns Of Approaching Deadline

Warning students that the deadline for leave of absence petitions is next Friday, May 14, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, again urged that persons leaving the college before the end of the semester file their petitions as early as possible.

Petition forms can be picked up in Building 3 when the student interviews counsellor concerning his reason for leaving college.

The Veteran Administration must also approve the petition for veterans.

Astronomy Classes To Go On Annual Outing

Astronomy students and their friends are invited to attend, under the joint auspices of the various astronomy classes, the group's annual visit to the Lick Observatory, atop Mt. Hamilton, Friday, May 14.

The trip will be made by automobiles, with students sharing expenses.

All going on the trip are warned to wear warm clothing and to bring lunches as there are no eating facilities on the mountain. Also, cameras may be brought along for those interested.

Extend Racial Equality Week Into A Lifetime Of Observance

DURING this week of May 10 to May 14 every two-year college in California has pledged itself to do everything in its power to eliminate the stain of racial prejudice and intolerance that has blotted the American scene.

This resolution was adopted at a recent conference held in Pasadena to which City College had sent two delegates.

The purpose of the resolution was not to start the week with a huge fanfare followed by a torrent of idealistic speeches and empty promises, but a determined effort to spread the practice of racial tolerance to every student and appeal to them to exercise their own good judgment on the matter.

We take pride in our motto, engraved on the main building, "The Truth Shall Make You Free."

Our Pasadena delegates, and this paper too, hope every student will personally see to it that this motto will apply to every person on the campus, regardless of race or religious belief. Not only during this week but every day hereafter.

Truth is the acknowledged weapon to fight prejudice, and every American college and school should be regarded as an Arsenal of Truth to combat prejudice that stems directly from ignorance.

Has this college made any definite contributions toward racial equality, on and off the campus?

Our contribution has been a very concrete one and has been in operation for nearly two years. It has rightly become a part of college life and has been a success from the moment of its inception.

Our prime example of racial equality on the campus can be found in the single men's dormitories, Buildings 6, 7 and 8; where no man is barred because of his race or religion.

Living together in excellent harmony are men of every walk of life, from all over the globe, proving daily that the color of a human's skin makes no difference whatever in the common pursuit of truth and education.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

EXPERIMENTAL DEPT.: Those "in the know" will tell you that it's Spring. This makes it tough for Old Nobody to get off of his typewriter and see what funny things people are doing on the campus. Soooo, we're going to take the following item and write it as some of our former colmunists might have interpreted it!!!

The Item: "Mary Blank spilled a cup of coffee on her dress while playing cards at the Student Store." (Ready? Go!)

1. The Needler: This hack hates the world, but especially that part of it called Balboa Park. In his opinion, women are stupid. His words laugh out from a hitter heart like a filthy whip.

"One of our CAMPUS QUEENS spilled some hot 'joe' (in the service, we called coffee 'joe') on her dress. The dress was one of those 'new-look' deals which this girl was wearing because all of the other girls wear them. What SHEEP; and to think, these empty headed QUEENS were sitting around doing nothing while we were at war! Oh! it's not fair!"

2. The Abstract One: This boy dwells in the clouds and the Black Cat. His work is about three hundred feet ahead of the avant garde. As a member of the literary cult, he wants to be hurled at Big Sur with a copy of The Forum in his paw.

"Giri-woman, coffee—hot liquid—spilling, cascading, covering dress. Coffee, dress. Blood, earth. Coffee and blood soaking the earth and the dress, the dress, the SSERD that covers her MECHANICAL BODY. (In the background—Juke Box. Blasting our ears, our hearts, and spreading the blood!) WE DON'T GIVE JUKE BOXES OUR NICKELS, WE GIVE THE MACHINES OUR BLOOD!! O' APRIL!! Duz does everything."

3. The Herb Caen Type. This lad is so clever that he can't be understood by his readers.

"Add Sightems at Old C. C.: Ha, ha, ah-ha! Mary Blank recently spilled Brazil's favorite export all over her dress. (The lady may not have shrinkage, but she sure has coffee grounds in 'em. This might be 'grounds' for a law suit!!)"

(Interesting Comment By Old Nobody): See what you readers aren't missing???? GOSH!!

(Ed.'s Note: You're through, kid.)

Trojan Horse Air Present In Hurley Village 5th Col.

By Dave Hansen

Hurley Village, the campus-adjoining resort for matriculating veterans, their spouses and offspring, is nothing more than a Trojan Horse.

That foreign students (i.e. people from other educational institutions) were pursuing wedded bliss in the three-room, lean-to's is common knowledge. But the Trojan Horse angle is a quadruped of a different color, so, to mint a Navy phrase, let's stand by for a Ram.

The news broke with the arrival of the usual bunch of weekly exchange papers addressed to "San Francisco Junior College." The dirt was contained in a story carried by our cross-town pseudo rival, S. F. State Gator. One John Conway did a bit of sounding off in that issue.

"It all began," states Conway, "when one Stater . . . wandered through Twin Peaks Tunnel with . . . a K car and found himself in . . . City College."

You can't fool us, Conway! We know no one "wanders" this far out in the hoondocks. You planned it!

"Stater crept past the ominous City College red and white Ram and up to the office of the Dean of Men . . ."

So the Ram is red. So are fire trucks. What's ominous about that?

Conway continues, "When he finally took his head out from under his arm" (proving that State is "for the birds"?) "he found himself with the key to a three room apartment . . ."

Conway elaborates—"The . . . addition of 15 more State students and . . . families to . . . Balboa Park . . . has done more in . . . two weeks to cement relations between Gators and the Rams than . . . 10 years of athletic competition."

Conway doesn't seem to think State can best us in athletics, so now he proposes to use gangland tactics. Who will be first to find his feet rooted in a bucket of cement, and floating in the bay? This guy is dangerous.

More Conway: "State has solved its greatest . . . problem . . . right in the enemy's camp."

Shades of the Trojan Horse!

And—"After all, as one veteran put it, a roof is a roof, even if it is red and white."

There's that red talk again. Honest, Conway, the only thing red about us is our blood—red blooded Americans, we are. So is the "ominous" Ram.

(To all Staters now living in Balboa Park—a hearty welcome. All kidding aside, we are glad to have you.)

Guardsman Photographers Think Life Is Just A Flash In The Pan

By Del Pichon

A shrill scream pierced the comfortable bedlam of The Guardsman office. It was a girl's scream, so we were unperturbed; such things are not uncommon in the office; wolves, you know.

The cries continued. "Help! Help! Somebody do something! He'll kill himself."

"Who?" we inquired of the hysterical, kempt and hevelled beauty standing before us. "Someone trying to cross Phelan Avenue, perchance?"

"No," she said. "It's Jack Nichol, one of your photographers; he is going to jump off the roof of the Main Building and take pictures of the expressions of the people watching him on the way down; and Ken Edwards, that other photographer, is going to take pictures of him taking pictures and falling."

"Yeah!" we yawned, "they said something when they left about getting some action shots."

"Well, aren't you going to do anything?" she demanded.

"No need to," we replied, pointing to the door, "here they come now."

And lo, in walked Nichol and Edwards, their faces glowing with joy, but Nichol was walking on his hands. We casually inquired why.

"Broken legs," he answered tersely and then hurriedly hand-walked after Ken Edwards into the dark room mumbling, "Wottn picture!"

To Be-Bop Or Not To Be-Bop Is The Query

By John Campiglia

The continental contest between "Be-bop" and "straight-stuff" has at last reached City College . . . the fountain, to be exact.

Sojourning into the clam-bake potpourri gathered about eating, talking, studying (?) and listening, we took a cheek on wot's pop with the hop!

Gazing into the telling character of the mechanical machine, given the "juke box," we noted several affirmatives and several negatives on this thing called Be-bop.

High on the list of "playmostest" is Diz Gellespie's Two Base Hit, a soaring triumph of perseverence over technique, and, vice versa.

Along with this was Johnny Mercer's Goofus or A Pedestrian Goes Amuck, sung in Mercer's own tonsilectular vibrato. And, not to be outdone, Vaughn Monroe's Racing With the Moon, which features Vaughn's own — "if I can't sing, there's always Fog in San Francisco!" volee.

Accenting the highs on the bop side was Charley Ventura's Soothe Me, a wonderful bit of technique par excellence . . . which only goes to prove that modulated nineteenths are in demand over simple sevenths!

In the final count, it was made clear that dissonance and interpretation are what the students go for most, for all activity seems to stop when be-bop bops!

Letters to the Editor

● Congratulations

Editor, The Guardsman:

To Gamma Phi Ypsilon, congratulations for a job well done. The dance which you arranged last May day night was in excellent taste and conducted in a most exemplary manner. The decorations, the music, and the novel arrangement of chairs and tables for serving "cokes" combined to make this dance unusually attractive. Your thoughtfulness in mopping the floor added measurably to the pleasure of the dancers, your control of smoking permitted the Deans to enjoy the evening. For organizing and conducting one of the best college dances which I have attended, my sincere commendations.

Tennis, Track Teams Handed First Loss In Tough Weekend; Diamondmen Split

By Art Paymiller

Defeat cast its ugly shadow on Ramland over the weekend as the tennis, track, and baseball teams all suffered setbacks at the hands of their respective opponents.

Tom Wilson's hitherto undefeated netmen were soundly trounced by the Modesto squad, 6-1. Only winner of the day for the Rams was Bob Sockolov, who won a long three set match from Bob Brokop. Fred Rodgers also performed brilliantly for the losers.

At Phoenix, the ten men representing San Francisco could gather only 16 points and finished in tenth place in the National Junior College Track Meet that was won by Los Angeles City College.

Ram point getters were Nick Gardera, who finished third; Jim Wyatt, who came in fifth, and Jim Barnes, who captured fourth, in their events. The relay team finished third behind the LACC entry, which set a new meet record of 3:21.9.

The college nine dropped the seven inning nightcap to Salinas, 5-4, after rallying in the late innings of the first game to down the Panthers, 9-5. A two-run homer by Zane Kaplan that sailed 365 feet into the left field bleachers provided the spark for the winning rally in the eighth inning of the first tilt. In the second game, Paul Nederman's wildness, plus five errors by his teammates, gave the Panthers the victory in a see-saw battle.

Ram Nine Faces Bulldogs Today

The battling Bulldogs of San Mateo Junior College come to the big city this afternoon for the first game of a crucial two game baseball series with the host, Ram nine.

This afternoon's tilt, scheduled for the Ocean View diamond, will start at approximately 3 o'clock, with the second game to be played on San Mateo's Fitzgerald Field Saturday at 2:30 p.m.

With a new coach, Herb Hudson, at the reins, the Bulldogs have shown a remarkable improvement from last year's performances.

Led by their ace left-handed pitcher, Jiro Nakamura, the Mateans have proven themselves to be a strong club and are currently battling with the Rams for the top rung on the conference ladder.

Local Mentor Bill Fischer will start either Hal Flinn or Paul Nederman on the mound.

Editor's Note: Today, in order to help push a great cause, we climb on a soap box and let the copy roll out. It's not all for chuckles. We're for it all the way and hope that you too will climb on the band wagon and roll along with us.

WHILE the major colleges on the coast scour the country-side in search of athletic talent, The Guardsman has taken steps to insure the college of an ample crop of the best in the way of healthy, clean blooded stalwarts for the future.

We're referring, of course, to this paper's drive to secure recreational facilities for the younger set of Hurley Village.

Where is a better place to look for talent than in your own backyard? Sure we know. Mamma and papa will no longer be attending City College (or so they hope) when their offspring reach the tender age of campus time.

But what will the kiddies have to say when papa tells them that it was good ole Ramland that gave them their start way back when?

You can argue that not all these children we have labeled for the Ram sporting world are of the male variety. O. K., but remember this—you have to have, or should we say, it's nice to have a few spectators at these athletic affairs, and what could make a better sight than a dozen cute co-eds cheering their private little Busters on to bigger and better things?

Even if you aren't the sporting type, you must admit it's still a great move. No one wants to see a child deprived of the benefits of good, clean cut play.

This is your chance to grab a chunk of this plan to get the kids swinging and sliding on their way to a happier future. Don't let them down. Take in the Vagabond King and you're killing two birds with one rock (four-bits with AS card).

Not only will you see a great performance, but you'll be providing some cute little tyke with something you didn't have to go without when you were swinging a mean rattle in the good ole days.

Ram Cindermen Favorites To Capture NCJCC Conference Meet Tomorrow

The once postponed NCJCC clambake gets under way for sure tomorrow at Santa Rosa as Jim Jensen takes his Phoenix fugitives to the northern village to meet the best the conference schools have to offer in the way of cinder talent. The lads go into action at 2 p.m.

On the basis of past performances, the Jensenmen go into this one slight favorites to come home with the cup. Team depth and general improvement all around are the factors contributing to this line of reasoning.

Nearly all of the Rams have pushed their times and distances up a few notches in the past few weeks.

Owen Moore in the 440, Jim Wyatt in the half-mile, Sims in the hurdles, and Barnes in the high-jump have shown the most improvement. Bob Brickell in the javelin and Bob Cook in the discus are expected to garner points also.

Pre-meet dope has the Stockton squad picked as the team liable to give the Rams the most trouble. Running up big scores all season, the lads from the valley town may make the city men work for every point.

Netmen In Eighth Straight Victory

Still ranking high on the list of title contenders, the Ram netmen gained their eighth consecutive win last Tuesday when they shipwrecked the visiting Marin Mariners at Golden Gate Park with a 7-0 whitewashing.

Playing without the services of Herb Suhr, who has been declared ineligible for the rest of the season, the locals looked every bit the part of potential champs as they notched their eighth straight victory.

None of the matches went more than two sets, with the longest set of the afternoon being a 6-4 effort in a doubles affair by Fred Rodgers and Frank Reed, which is far from a close, hard pressed tussle.

Best jobs of the day were turned in by Captain Bill Covall, who downed Paul Watkins by identical 6-1 sets; and by Fred Rodgers, who whipped Ken Rice, 6-2, 6-1.

Other winners were Ed Jacobsen, who was just too fast for Bob Estes, with the result being a double 6-3 win; Bob Sockolov, with 6-3, 6-0 scores over Tom Dormody; and Frank Reed, who turned back Bill Hyde, 6-2, 6-3. The remaining doubles was a 6-0, 6-3 win by Jacobsen and Sockolov over Estes and Rice.

The singles wins by Covall, Rodgers, and Sockolov kept their undefeated conference slates intact, with each racketeer boasting eight wins to his credit.

At present the Rams are preparing for a meeting with number two of the "big three," San Mateo, this Saturday.

Bill King Turns In Best Ram Golf Score

As the local golfers continue to prepare for their big one of the season, the NCJCC tourney at Modesto May 28-29, the top match score to date has been turned in by Bill King.

King came through with a 76 round against USF inst week and, according to Coach Ralph Hillsman, the Ram ace continues to improve with every match.

Next on the list is Bob Payne with an 80, and Hillsman also looks for the red head to come through with a lower score before tourney time.

New Intra Skeds Due

Schedules for intramural touch football and volleyball will be posted on the bulletin board of the men's gymnasium sometime this week, Coach Tom Wilson said Friday.

Semi-finals of the intramural basketball race will be played today.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

AMERICANS as individuals just don't like being pushed around by anyone. And in turn they dislike any disparaging remarks with respect to themselves that may be cast against their ancestral background.

Not through any split loyalty for the country from which their parents or grandparents came, but because they feel that they are Americans, were born here, are to make their livelihood here, and in cases of the veteran student, have fought for this country.

Generally these individuals are accepted into all forms of society. And when speaking of from where their forefathers came, they often say casually that "I'm French" or "German" or "Irish," whatever the case may be.

But there are some groups in the United States, who, though their ancestors may have been here for some 200 or so years, are still not accepted as (and we dislike running up the flag) "an American."

As our little part in the informal "better race relations week" that was decided at the Pasadena Student Government Conference last month, and okayed as a resolution by the Student Council here, we'd like to use the medium of the press as a sort of a reminder that, just because another student doesn't look like you, or think like you, or have aesthetic beliefs that you may possess, it doesn't follow that he isn't just as good a person as you.

Any individual or faction that may not be one of "the mass of Americans" certainly doesn't want to be tolerated, for the sake of toleration. Just because some nebulous clause in the Declaration of Independence says that "all men are created equal" still does not alter the fact, that in Pasadena, for instance, the City College there, that holds a great many of their dances in the Civic Auditorium, must deny admittance to a certain group because a city ordinance prohibits that group from entering the Civic Auditorium.

The only thing any of these sighted groups want is understanding, because with understanding come appreciation and assimilation. When that happens all individuals can stand side by side as equals.

It's wonderful to prance around waving the Stars and Stripes, and yelling "I am an American," but it is meaningless when you say to others, "You stay out."

Contributions Flood Forum Headquarters

Contributions to Forum magazine have been tremendous, Dorothy Mercer, faculty adviser, said Monday, with more than 100 contributions turned in.

The editorial board, headed by Marvin Silverman, editor, is now in the process of selecting about 35 of the best for use in the magazine, Miss Mercer said.

Because of a limited operating budget there will be no prizes awarded this year for outstanding works, the editors stated.

If everything goes according to schedule the magazine will be distributed Monday, June 7. Tickets are still available at the student bank for 35 cents, but remaining copies of Forum can be bought direct from the salesmen when it comes out June 7, Silverman said yesterday.

Blouses For Band Ordered, Due For Delivery Here In Late June

With a $1500 letter of credit in the hands of a uniform contractor, Walt McCrae, student band manager declared that the jacket portion of the uniforms will be delivered in late June.

Adding that if things work out right, the band manager said that the additional $1500 "earmarked" for band use would be directed toward purchase of hats and pants to complete the uniform.

The new military style jacket, urged by the Student Council and approved by Mike Cahn, band instructor, will be a single breasted blouse as shown in the cut at the right demonstrated by Edward Turdici.

"We hope to be able to play at the very first football game this fall completely attired in uniforms worthy of City College," McCrae said.

McCrae added that he was confident that the other $1500 destined for other parts of the uniform would be realized before the end of this semester.

Quoting the price of each jacket at roughly $50, the band manager claimed that it would take approximately 40 uniforms to outfit the band. Drum majorette uniforms will be just a little more expensive, McCrae said.

NCJCC OKays Two Sports Divisions

Division of northern California into two leagues for intercollegiate sports competition and a championship playoff was approved at the Northern California Junior College Conference held at Santa Rosa, Friday, April 30, Conference Commissioner J. Paul Mohr revealed yesterday.

The division of the region into a Northern and Southern League for league competition and a championship playoff beginning with the coming basketball season will comprise the following colleges:

Northern League: Vallejo, Marin, Sacramento, Grant Technical, Placer, and Yuba Junior Colleges. Southern League: City College of San Francisco, San Mateo, Menlo, Salinas, Monterey Peninsula, Stockton, and Modesto, Junior Colleges.

Mohr added that the colleges will compete in these two leagues in all athletics, including track, and that there will be a play-off for the championship between the two leagues.

"It was necessary for the conference committee to divide the northern area into the two leagues because there was a total of four leagues in southern California, one in central California, and two in northern California, making it impossible for a state championship play-off," Mohr stated.

The basketball schedule, adopted at the conference meeting last Friday, will be a continuation of that of other semesters, the same as was adopted at last December's meeting.

College Represented In State Art Show

Listing coming art department activities, Richard Allman, art instructor, revealed yesterday that City College will be represented in the Northern California Art Show, the date of which will be announced in the near future.

Allman added that the college's Rembrandts will also soon show their works in an open air art show, and that an exhibit by the department is now touring bay area colleges.

"Our traveling exhibit is, visiting College of Pacific, Stanford, Fresno State and will serve to make other colleges and universities conscious of the work being done at City College," Allman explained.

Latin American Club Gives Shindig Friday

A Latin-American Club sponsored dance will be held this Friday night, May 14, and take place in the west campus auditorium from 8 to 12 o'clock, according to Roger Debraudt, president of the club.

Debrandt stated that the band of Mercedes Gallegos, which will alternate American and Latin numbers, will provide music for the dancing feet of couples who can provide the $1.25 admission fee.

Dress will be informal, he added, and though the members of the club are not giving away the entire proceeds from the dance or even $100 in door prizes, the students who really enjoy dancing will be given the chance to "show what they can do" in several dance contests, including the rhumba, samba, and conga, which will highlight the evening.

Runnerups To Get Certificates For Soph Queen Race

With hope of having approximately 30 or 40 candidates for the coveted queen title, Sophomore President Bill Riley and Sophomore Week Chairman Jim Fernhoff said Friday that tentative plans have been made to present each of the remaining five queen semi-finalists with a souvenir certificate after the queen is chosen.

Of the six semi-finalists who will be chosen by a group of judges five will serve as members of the queen's court, and the male semi-finalists will support the winning king in the same manner.

After the six semi-finalists have been chosen by the judges, men members of the Associated Students will have an opportunity to cast their vote for the selection of the queen.

Selection of the king from the six semi-finalists will be made through the same procedure, the women of the Associated Students casting their votes for the king.

Riley stated that any organization may have as many candidates in the large group as desired, but college clubs will have to wait until the six semi-finalists are chosen before their group can be recognized as a sponsor of that candidate.

"No campaigning will be allowed until the semi-finalists are chosen," both Fernhoff and Riley affirmed.

Coeds Must Ask Beaus To "Carrot Top" Dance

Featuring a reversal of social etiquette, the Alpha Sigma Delta dance, the Carrot Top, will have campus coeds bidding their men to the dance scheduled Saturday, May 15, at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium from 8 to 12 p.m., Chairman John Pifer said yesterday.

The leap year theme will be carried out by women providing vegetable corsages for their men and transportation to and from the affair.

Dress will be informal street wear. Tariff for the affair will be $1.80 per couple, Pifer stated.

Top Broadway Comedy Play Reading Scheduled For Wednesday, Room 28

Sparkling and racy comedy is slated for Wednesday, May 12, by the college speech classes at 10 o'clock in Room 28, instructor Bill Culver announced today.

The drama department is to present a surprise Broadway hit in a play reading on that date.

Frank McCue, student director, has cut the original script to conform with radio broadcast technique.

Casting has been completed by the director; the parts going to G. T. Pinkerd as narrator, McCue as the valet Josef, Anthony McGrath as the prince, Mary Cooke will play Marie, John Mix as a baron, Jo Ann Settlow as the baroness, Delores Rainer will play Lisa, and Bob Jones is to take two parts, a waiter and chauffeur.

College Wide Participation Speeds Opera-Hurley Project

The kids and college thespians had a recent get-together to consider the new playground which will be built if the light opera The Vagabond King goes over the top in ticket sales. Needless to say, the children wished the singers mountains of luck in their effort.

Engineers Approve Playground Site

By Hank Tweith

Preliminary plans for college wide participation in construction of the Hurley Village playground were laid last Tuesday at a meeting of voluntary faculty and student committee members held at the proposed site of the play area.

Allan Maxwell, student manager of Hurley Village, representing the married veterans living in the housing project who will do the actual construction labor, was unanimously selected by those present as chairman of the planning group.

William Mayo, head of the college engineering department, will handle details involving technical engineering advice.

Faculty, Students Combine

The architectural design of the playground combines the efforts of faculty architectural instructor George Hutchinson and student Robert Peterson.

Surveying of the proposed area and the drafting of plans will be done by faculty members John Thompson and Leroy Briggs.

Jules Fraden's classes in recreational leadership will supervise activities of the children after the playground has been built.

Shrubs, Lawn Planned

Representing the college floriculture classes in landscape design, Jack Edminster and Bill Irvine, students, will supervise the planting of hedges and lawn in the playground.

The first formal meeting of the committee is scheduled for next Wednesday at 1 p.m. in Room 143.

Funds for the purchase of equipment in the playground are to be provided from 50 per cent of The Vagabond King proceeds.

The Vagabond King, light opera by Rudolf Friml, is to be presented at the college May 20, 21, and 22, by the music and drama departments, headed by Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler.

The Friml opera stars Robert Sherratt and Dave Huenergardt as alternating leads in the part of Francois Villon, and Carolyn Herfield and Helen Setalov alternating as Lady Katherine.

Dear Miss Badger:

Thank you for your letter which just reached me here in Honolulu.

It made me very happy to learn that you have selected "The Vagabond King" for your college's Spring musical production. I am sure it will be a wonderful performance.

I do not have any photograph with me, but upon my return to Los Angeles I shall send you one. There is a slight possibility that after my return to Los Angeles I may come to San Francisco for a visit and may see your performance on May 20 or thereafter.

Best Wishes for you and the forthcoming performance!

Sincerely,
Rudolf Friml

Kiwanis Gift To Choir Passed to Kids' Fund

Pledging its support to the Hurley Village playground fund, the A Cappella Choir donated $25, presented to them as a gift by the Kiwanis Club last Spring, Elmer Dickey, choir manager, revealed yesterday.

"Since the fund was received from an organization noted for its generosity, we felt that giving the money to the playground fund would express a true extension of the good will of that group," Dickey added.

Dickey disclosed that he will write the Kiwanis Club, thanking them for the gift and telling them of the use to which it was put.

Perry Askam Here Today In Room 100

The nationally famous baritone singer, Perry Askam, whose wife, Frances, is a music major here, will address campus groups during today's college hour, in Room 100, Flossita Badger, music instructor, announced early this week.

Askam's appearance is chiefly for the benefit of The Vagabond King cast and the music and drama departments, but all students interested in seeing him are invited to attend, providing enough space is available in Room 100 after the King cast, and music and drama students have been seated.

Askam's name is closely associated with the following roles: Red Shadow in the Desert Song, Count in Marriage of Figaro, and the baritone role in Romeo and Juliet.

Latins Throw Native Style Dance Tonight

Hip-shaking rhumbas, sambas, and the ever-present conga will shake the rafters of the west campus auditorium tonight from 8 to 12 o'clock when the Latin-American Club dance will be held, according to Roger Debraudt, president of the club.

Exponents of Latin-American dances will be rewarded in contests planned for the evening.

"Contests will include the rhumba, samba, and conga," Debraudt added.

In keeping with the south-of-the-border nature of the affair, suitable music for the dance will be furnished by the orchestra of Mercedes Gallegos who, Debraudt stated, has the "true Latin" touch.

Debraudt added that dress for the affair will be informal, and that admission will be $1.25 per couple.

Faculty Night Supper Honors The Clouds

Plans for faculty night at The Vagabond King are progressing satisfactorily, Thomas R. Porter, president of the Faculty Association, said today.

Guests at the supper, in honor of President and Mrs. A. J. Cloud, will be Superintendent and Mrs. Herbert C. Clish and members of the Board of Education and their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coonan, Mr. and Mrs. Adrien Falk, Mr. and Mrs. George Johns, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Levit, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nason, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Karl Schnapp.

Council Hears New CAB Control Plan

A proposed revolutionary system for the governing of student club activities was referred to a committee Tuesday after the Student Council spent an undue amount of time discussing its possibilities.

The plan is being offered as a solution to the "lack of common interests" problem presently confronting the Club Advisory Board.

To eliminate this multi-interest problem and reduce the present governing board, the intended system would segregate all campus organizations into groups of similar activities; each club would have representation in its respective group, and each group would have one member in the over all governing body.

Although the council voiced approval of the plan as a whole, it deemed the proposed administrative system unsatisfactory and asked the committee to revise this portion.

Currently operating in other two-year colleges, the idea was mentioned to the council two weeks ago by Dean Jack Brady upon his return from the Pasadena conference.

Dance Offers An Adult Size House As Prize

Presenting the jackpot in prizes, the Alpha Sigma Delta fraternity dance, the Carrot Top, is offering a furnished house to the wearer of the best corsage at the affair tomorrow night at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium, Bob Genger, vice-president, said yesterday.

"This is an ideal opportunity for an engaged or married couple looking for a home," Genger said.

"The home, a donation of a member's father, is completely furnished and completely livable for adults.

"The corsage most likely to succeed in winning this sensational prize," Genger said, "will be made of vegetables; cabbages, carrots, and onions are considered appropriate material."

Stressing the leap year theme of the affair, Genger said that women who bid their men to the dance must provide the corsage. They are also responsible for transportation to and from the affair.

Tickets to the affair are on sale for $1.80.

Election Committee Decides Vote Dates

Date for the Associated Student election has been set for Thursday, June 3, and Friday, June 4, Robert Judd, chairman of the election committee, reported today.

According to Judd, petitions may be obtained in Dean Jack Brady's office now, and they must be submitted by the candidates by Wednesday, May 19. Men's petitions must be submitted to Dean Brady and the women candidates must submit their petitions to Dean Margaret Dougherty.

When the candidates turn in their petitions, they will receive a pamphlet giving the rules and regulations concerning the candidates' campaigns.

The election committee will permit each office seeker five posters to be placed on the campus, but they stipulate that no posters will be permitted in the main building. In each of the three stores off campus one poster per store may be placed.

The signs may be posted on Friday, May 21 with a standard size of 22 by 28. The election committee will review all the petitions for office and they will approve the posters submitted by the office seekers.

Children's Lives Jeopardized In Village By Wild Motorists

By Dave Hansen

An appeal for help in protecting the lives of Hurley Village children from speeding vehicles was voiced this week by Mrs. Allan Maxwell, wife of the student manager.

Last week, Allan Maxwell, Jr., 4½ years old, narrowly escaped death as the wheels of a speeding auto ground out the life of his pet dog, a little dachshund, which was playing at his side.

(The driver of an auto killing a dog is required to make an attempt to find the owner, and to remove the body to the side of the road.)

Mrs. Maxwell said that speeding is a common occurrence along the Hurley Village streets of Marston and Judson Avenues.

"Occasionally," she said, "drivers will race their autos side by side through the village. Even when supervised, children at play sometimes thoughtlessly run into the street. I'm surprised someone hasn't been killed before now."

(There are no stop signs on Marston or Judson Avenues, but there is a city speed limit of 25 miles per hour.)

Campus patrolling police students have yet to be on the scene of a violation.

That the lack of playground facilities is the cause of children playing near the streets is the opinion of Mrs. Maxwell. She feels that the proposed playground will eliminate the traffic danger to the more than 75 village children almost entirely.

"But the playground isn't built yet," she said. "Our children need protection from speeding automobiles now."

Vagabond King Rally On Deck Next Tuesday

Sparking The Vagabond King light opera into its final week of promotion, a college hour schedule which provides for a rally, is planned Tuesday, May 18. Entertainment is slated, with the college choir and band joining in on the program set for the building entrance.

Students holding tickets for the Friday matinee performance will be excused from their afternoon classes. Tickets for all performances are on sale at the Silver Pole, Student Lounge, and The Guardsman office.

Maurice Power, faculty ticket chairman, warned all students selling tickets to report to the finance office in The Guardsman with money and unsold tickets.

"PEEWEE" MAXWELL, man-about-Hurley Village, gets a half-Nelson on Vagabond Kinger Roy Barnett's prize profile.

Talk, A Cheap Commodity, Is Still Unaffected By Inflation In World

IF Molotov or Vishinsky refrain from taking a hike between the time this has been written and appears in print, the news tells us there will be "a break in the cold war."

The proposed new talks between Russia and the U. S. are aimed at settling differences existing between the two countries.

Russia has loudly signaled her complete willingness to meet and thrash out the foreign policy differences verbally with this country.

Fair enough—as long as the meet doesn't disintegrate into a Marshall monologue again, with our Secretary of State talking to himself as door slams reverberate in his ears.

President Truman was quick to state that the talks will not represent changes in U. S. policy toward Russia.

Even so, the first bright news in many months was seized upon and played up quite dramatically, especially by radio.

One newscaster, the night it was announced, related a charming little anecdote supposedly taking place in a Moscow subway.

Olga Something-or-other was reading a Tass Agency news dispatch about the American offer and Russian acceptance of a "peace" conference.

Turning to her companion Igor Whatzis, Olga exclaimed, with great feeling, "Da!—is good?"

That was the cue for an American audience to stand on their hands simultaneously and dance in the streets at the thought of a long-awaited world peace.

Being overly cynical perhaps, we still prefer more concrete evidence that the two great powers will eventually iron out their arguments.

We hope too, that this impromptu Moscow subway conference won't have any effect on the 18 to 25 draft question soon to reach the House.

Nor should it cut down the 70 group air force that was slammed through in the face of navy opposition in our own country.

We still need a club if hot words turn into hot action.

STRAIGHT DOPE FROM THE GOLDEN THROAT DEPT.: Old City College gets another feather in its rooter's cap with the arrival here today of Perry Askam, famed opera singer who has starred in such productions as The Desert Song and The Student Prince. The singer will speak to members of the music and drama depts.

(Interesting Angle): Askam is here through the efforts of one of our 2nd semester music majors, a girl named—Frances Askam!!!! If you don't believe they're related just ASKAM, they'll tell you. She's Mrs. Perry Askam.

Honesty—the Forgotten Policy: Cute, brunette Del Rainer recently put her script book for The Vagabond King on a desk she was standing near. That was the last she ever saw of it. The back breaking part of this was the fact that the script book also contained a check for fifty clackers! So it goes at Old City College.

FLASHES FROM THE VAG KING: If you read anything in this paper beside News to You-Know-Whom, then you may have noticed the missile received from composer Rudolf Friml, from whose talented pen flowed, The Vagabond King. For the message we must thank Miss Flossita Badger who, hearing inspired comments from her students such as, "Gee, this guy Friml is really good!!!!!", wrote to Friml and told him that she, and her students, thought he was tops in his light-opera field.

Result: From Honolulu, Friml flashed his gratitude, etc.

(Moral): "To get a letter—write a letter!!"

MORE FLASHES: Because there are so many fencing scenes in the forthcoming light-opera, the actors are taking fencing lessons from Betty Heckman (an expert of the flashing foils) who is an instructor down women's gym way.

(Flippant Comment): It's Ram seldom when the boys have to take lessons from one of the weaker sex in order to make like Alan Ladd, Errol Flynn, etc.!!!!

Life Can Be Beautiful: A chocolate covered Ram to Arnold and Mary Wechter on the acquisition of their baby girl, name of Judith. Wechter used to write Ramblings for the Gawdsman in the days when it was really written. Oh well, we can't have everything, even on our timely, vital and informative paper!"

Springitus Hits Normal Studious Campus Populace

By John Campiglia

Although spring has been officially announced by groundhogs throughout the country, students have just gotten around to realizing that spring is really, gloriously here.

In an interview of some of the students it was established that grades seem to become of secondary import where spring is concerned.

"How's a guy to study when the evenings call for expression of the soul?" said the smitten one, and in a poetic afterthought, "When balmy nights call, it is time to hit the road."

Even the student fountain, ever an indication of student feeling, has been smitten; conversation, ogling, and sundry other expressions of the soul are more important than "beatin' a book."

Gone is the harassed look of the "another test" type seen so often on all faces during more static times. In its place is that hopeful look, that dream of other worlds, the foggy-afterthought of worlds and places beyond.

Suppressed feelings are given the go-by, and the shot in the arm—spring—is all that is needed to shake the lethargic student out of his trance and forebodings of test, for after all, spring, lovely harbinger of summer, is here!

Letters To The Editor

• Scribes Lauded

Editor, The Guardsman:

For two glorious semesters I have read The Guardsman and loved it. Now in my third semester I find this love turning into a fast growing hate. The reason for this being the lack of good knock-down, drag-out copy. Del Pichon's column used to be a constant source of inspiration to me, and George Lajeunesse's "Spectator" was second to none. Why can't we have more of that sort of thing instead of blow by blow descriptions of what goes on at the CAB and Student Council meetings? The members of both these worthy organizations do not seem to care what goes on, so why should we? I'm sure Mr. Levy tries, but he misses the point completely.

I'm sure you'll hesitate to print this in order to spare everyone's feelings, but let's put feelings aside and I'm sure the Amens for Lajeunesse and Pichon will roll in like an avalanche.

• "Word" Rejected

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reply to "L. K. W." (volume XXVI, number 14):

Thanks for your word. Now that you have given it let me assure you that it has altered no one's opinion, and is based on the biased principle common to those uninformed that if you are not like me, then you are not right, and must therefore be left—wrong or liberal. As to legality, I suggest that L. K. W. look further than his atmosphere for an answer.

I further suggest that political activities should be urged on campus since it is the youth of the nation that has to live longest or perish sooner under the government placed in office. Indeed, they who have come to college and still have no civic-mindedness should alleviate the crowded conditions of the campus by making themselves scarce.

Camera Sleuths Snap Beautiful, Unique

Moving Objects On Campus Are Only Photography Students On Location

By Ann Land

The plethora of moving objects flitting with incredible speed around the campus, are, on close observation, revealed to be photography students sleuthing out locations for special shots at Ramdom.

These camera sleuths are getting their academic kicks as well as practical experience by taking "long shots" of the beautiful and unique around City College and then displaying their prints in the photographic gallery.

The photographic gallery, situated in the student lounge, is designed to feature periodically the best work of the students in the photo classes.

A rapidly expanding division, the Photography Department anticipates adding several new courses next semester, such as news photography and advanced portraiture.

"In addition to the portraiture, commercial, advertising, and photo composition classes offered this semester, the news class opening up next fall will give the student an additional field in which to foster his talents," Charles Lamp, photography instructor, said.

Tentative plans for next semester include color shooting in the advanced portraiture and advertising classes to be followed in the fall of '49 by a course in color processing of both the negative and the print.

Special courses in English, math and business, designed primarily for the photographic student, will also be listed in the fall catalog," Lamp disclosed.

"One of the aims of the photographic department is to teach not only the techniques of photography, but how to work under pressure so that the students, after their training here, will be able to tackle any job on the market," Lamp said.

Jelly Sandwiches, 4 Jeeps, 3 Shoes Found

The War Assets has its surplus but the City College has its own "Surplus" in the Lost and Found Department in Building 2, room 4 on the west campus.

The "surplus" includes anything from a scarf to a complete set of Encyclopaedia Brittanica.

Charlotte Lehand, along with duties in the Dean's office, manages to keep things in some semblance of order, and "I'm just swamped with students trying to locate something they've lost, and to date, the heap of lost items is mounting . . . I don't know what I'm going to do," she finished, unhappily.

When asked how long lost articles were kept, Miss Lehand replied in a wistful voice that "We usually wait a year and then box all articles up and send it to CARE . . . that's all we can do . . . unless, of course, we move to a warehouse to accommodate all that stuff," she finished, waving a neat manicured hand at all of the articles stacked up.

The Lost and Found "surplus" is open from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and anyone Miss Lehand said, "who has lost something and given up hope for finding same should come by."

J. Mix Is City College Hope In NDGW's Speech Contest

By Dave Hansen

John Mix, 6 foot, 200 pound orator, will represent City College in a forthcoming collegiate speech contest, sponsored by the Native Daughters.

The victor of an intra-college contest that qualified him as the representative for the inter-college contest began his speech work in high school. He is a graduate of Sacred Heart High School, and expects to go on to the University of San Francisco upon completion of his course at City College.

The twenty-one year old English and speech major was born in Los Angeles. He is a member of the campus Newman Club, and took part in the play, Berkeley Square.

"City College is mildly terrific. I am having a good ground work for my teaching career in the future," Mix said.

Mix has black hair and blue eyes, considers himself "slightly overweight." He is a veteran of two years in the Army.

FINDING A faithful brier the best aid to study, orator John Mix lays the plan for his next speech.

Soldier Mix was a member of an anti-aircraft artillery battalion which took part in the famed Task Force Frigid operation in Alaska.

Poets And Authors Get One Year Course

By Florence Ames

This fall will see initiated a full year course in creative writing at City College.

Samuel E. Duff, English instructor, who is also at present conducting the one term course in creative writing, states that he will enlarge this course by devoting the first semester to the general principles of creative writing, giving the student an opportunity to develop whatever medium of expression is most suitable for his creative talents in short story, poetry, drama or essay.

During the second semester there will be special emphasis on the short story and the essay.

A prerequisite for this course will be English 21n, or consent of Instructor Duff.

Mateans Edge Rams In NCJCC Crucial, Try Again Tomorrow

San Mateo Junior College knocked the Ram nine one step further down the conference ladder Tuesday afternoon, and in so doing, set themselves up as the logical successor to the Coast Division title, as they edged the local squad, 3-2, at the Ocean View diamond.

The Mateans' brilliant lefthander, Jiro Nakamura, set the Rams down with an amazing degree of consistency, and left the field with 15 strikeouts under his belt.

Errors played a major part in the game with both sides taking full advantage of their opponents miscues. The Rams tallied their two scores in the second frame, putting together two Bulldog bobbles and a single from the hat of Ernie Domeeus.

Paul Nederman started the tilt for the local lads, and although reached for seven hits during his tenure on the mound, it was errors by Zane Kaplan and Bill Kennn that proved his undoing. Nederman and his successor, Hal Flinn, struck out five and walked three.

A do-or-die attempt to save the game was pulled by the Fischermen in the ninth inning, but it died aborning as Bob Greenwood became Nakamura's 15th victim.

Tomorrow afternoon, the Rams will try to avenge their defeat when they encounter the Bulldogs on Fitzgerald Field at 2:30 p.m.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Paslni

WE GLEANED the following gross "misstatement" from a sports sheet across the bay the other day in regard to a coming Cal frosh-CCSF swim meet. We quote:

"Glad to be back in their own sphere of competition after being all but blanked by a powerful Stanford first year squad last weekend, the UC frosh swimmers will take on the San Francisco City College (a backward paper) natators tonight in the Rams' pool."

Besides being a semi-slap in the face for the athletes of Ramland, the tidbit on the "Rams' pool" also caught our eyes.

We were amazed. One would expect to find such a blunder in Jack Huise's space filler, "News To Nobody."

WE AIN'T GOT NUTTIN'

Anyhow, we gave the point a little thought and came up with some very embarrassing data. Not only is the local plant without a water hole, but it is also missing a few other athletic necessities.

Take a look around the ole campus. What do the baseballers use for a playing ground? That's right, Oceanview Park, which is not exactly on campus.

How about the cindermen. Do they have their own little paths to burn up? No, they spend their afternoons cavorting at Lake Merced, thanks to the SF Staters who have taken the good neighbor policy to heart.

And where do the racketeers prepare their big jobs? On the Golden Gate Park courts, that's where. What a racquet that is.

Of course the football situation gets kicked around too. Although the gridders have a spot of green to practice on, they have to count on the friendliness of the local preps in order to use a "stadium" for conference tussles.

OH LOOK, HERE'S SUMPIN'

We did run across a gym equipped with a basketball court, though. How the hometowners can turn out their share of contenders is beyond us.

As for the lack of spirit, it seems pretty obvious.

Maybe those boys across the bay knew what they were talking about after all. At least the frosh have access to the necessary athletic facilities which produce spirited, if not always winning, teams.

Informal Basketball Practice In Men's Gym

Even though it is early in the season for basketball, the sport has managed to creep into the spring schedule. The reason is that Coach Ralph Hillsman in now holding informal basketball practices to see what the future holds in store for the possibilities of a championship club next semester.

All interested are urged to attend these informal gatherings, which take place in the men's gymnasium every Tuesday and Thursday afternoon at 3 p.m.

San Mateo Scene Of Co-ed Badminton Day

With the Wednesday night co-ed badminton classes opening competition for co-ed badminton honors with San Mateo Junior College, the City College group will engage in a playday Tuesday, May 18, at San Mateo. Laurine Bergin, women's physical education head, announced today.

The playday will be held on Coyote Point campus in the late afternoon and early evening. No definite hour has yet been set.

Nancy Sparks, one of the co-ed instructors, will accompany the group to and from San Mateo.

College Cindermen Compete In Fresno Relays Tomorrow

By Dayton Lawson

The Ram track squad's second bid for national recognition looms tomorrow in the raisin city of Fresno, as Jim Jensen packs his improved band of harriers off to the now historic Fresno Relays.

Bringing together the cream of the 2-year division crop, this particular meet offers plenty of opportunity for record times and distances. The runways and takeoffs are among the best in the world.

The city lads will run into many of the competitors they have met in their own conference this season, and some they have recently competed against in the nationals.

Captain Jim Wyatt expects to meet plenty of fast company in the half-mile, but may win if he repeats his best mark of 1:58. Owen Moore and Doss Sligh may also capture spots in the 440 and high-jump, respectively.

Bill Langan in the 100 and Bob Cook in the discus are also looked to for points.

After losing in the Phoenix National Junior College meet, the squad is eager to show they still have what it takes.

Volleyball Takes Over Intramural Spotlight

Volleyball now takes over the college intramural spotlight, replacing basketball, and the second round of tourney play is scheduled for Monday afternoon in the men's gymnasium.

Ten teams are entered in the round-robin schedule of volleyball.

Games are played Monday through Thursday at 3:15 and 4:15 p.m. on the hardwood floor in the men's gymnasium.

Monday at 3:15 o'clock the Latin American Club faces the Balboa Alumni, the Eagles meet the Vandals, and the Beta Phi Beta squad clashes with the Block SF.

Following this volleyball round, the Killers oppose the Hotel and Restaurant team, and The Boys will try to vanquish the Ramblers at 4:15 p.m.

The volleyball schedule of play is now posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

Intramural touch football games will probably start next week, mentor Tom Wilson said Wednesday.

All grid battles will be played on the college's practice football field, Wilson also stated.

In intramural touch football play cleats are forbidden.

Other student sports, badminton, table tennis, and tennis are coming along very successfully, Wilson added.

Ram Netmen Host To San Mateo In Crucial Conference Clash Tomorrow

Coming down the home stretch and racing right on down to the wire, the resident netters go all out tomorrow as they host the league leading San Mateo Bulldogs at Golden Gate Park in their last crack at the top spot on the ladder.

Still ranked as a definite title contender, the Rams will meet one of the best staffed and coached squads in the conference.

Although the neighboring county boys expect little trouble from a Ram which has been fattened by more than its share of wins this year, the locals are out to see if the Bulldog's bite is as bad as its bark.

Heading the list of invaders, all of whom are undefeated in conference play, are Frank Sample and Wally Vickory, who handle the top singles holes plus the first doubles position.

Working in the second doubles match are Mike Shaw and Ken Sorrenson, who play a driving game patterned to keep their opponents in the backcourt.

The last singles spot is filled by Leo Benson, who is good enough to handle his singles jobs in fine style and able to fill in one one of the doubles combos at any time.

Acting coach Roy Diederichsen has his strongest lineup in the best of shape and ready to put the invaders in the doghouse.

Ed Jacobsen and Bob Sockolov will be called upon to meet San Mateo's finest, while Frank Reed, Fred Rodgers and Captain Bill Covall will also be in for a rough afternoon of tennis.

The Rams are well rested and ready for their best match of the season. They may not have enough to collar the Bulldog, but they'll at least draw his muzzle up a little tighter.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

ABOUT this time during the semester, the student politcos start their fingernail biting campaign, in other words CAMPUS ELECTIONS are practically knocking on the door.

On June 3 and 4, the interested students trek to the polls and deposit their ballot for their favorite candidates.

Among the various offices to be decided for the fall semester are the Associated Student president, vice-president, the important Student Council and a few various less important student offices.

The number of voters who will turn out is undeterminable. Last semester found more than 1100 student card holders practicing the art of pulling a lever. This semester's voting will be with ballot boxes.

IDEAL VS. INDIVIDUAL

From all indications this trip to the polls will be an indication of whether the students still want the status quo in student government or if they are more desirous of universal representation.

In a similar light, this semester's voting will be more for an ideal or cause rather than for the individual. It will be the staid Fraternity faction versus the innovated Student League faction.

Who will win? Well, that will be decided when the votes are counted by an impartial election committee a la American style.

A quick check over the field of candidates for the office of Associated Student president reveals that two students are vying for the Fraternity support, while three students are trying to capture the Student League endorsement.

FRATS VS. STUDENT LEAGUE

Frank Ferguson, Student Council and Tri-Epsilon fraternity member, and Bob Reilly, apparent Student Council fraternity leader and vice-president of Beta Tau, seem to be the logical candidates for the Pan-Hellenic endorsement. At the present time it is hard to see which one of these potential candidates is holding the upper hand.

On the other side of the ledger, Walt McRae, student band manager; Jack Hagan, Student Council and Circle Francais member, affiliated with the Student League, and Jack Hurley, Student League leader in the council and Cosmopolitan Society member, seem to be trying for Student League support.

400 VS. 700?

At this writing, McRae seems slightly ahead, with Hagan and Hurley neck and neck on the McRae heels.

It will be interesting to watch, when the Student League and Fraternities have chosen their candidate, whether the Frats, which supposedly control some 300 to 400 votes, can swing another election, when some 1100 voters turn out to cast their ballots!!

All sides favor putting over The Vagabond King, so buy your ticket now at the Silver Pole, Student Lounge, or The Guardsman office.

Permanent Jobs Open

Applications are now being accepted by the placement bureau for permanent jobs from students planning to graduate this semester and also students not intending to return to college in the fall, Joseph A. Amori, placement bureau head, announced yesterday.

Student Co-op Here Waits Action

Further word on the possibility of a student-owned cooperative was held up temporarily, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, said yesterday, pending the return of questionnaires sent to various deans, college officials, and general head men of other institutions of higher education.

The proposed student-owned cooperative, Brady said, could boost the Associated Student funds by some $25,000.

A store similar to the one proposed for this campus has been operating successfully for some time at Los Angeles City College, swelling its mint by some $50,000 annually.

UNESCO Meet Off

UNESCO's special assembly, planned for today's college hour, has been called off, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, stated yesterday.

Regular club meetings will be held during the college hour while popular Concert Baritone Perry Askam will appear in Room 100, Dean John Brady added.

Requirement For AS Holders In Clubs Out

The hopes for realization of the permanent adoption of an amendment by the Club Advisory Board requiring that all club members be Associated Student card holders exploded last week when the lack of three votes necessary to constitute a two-thirds majority resulted in the rejection of the amendment.

The final vote resulted in 13 against and 17 in favor of the adoption of the amendment. This was not enough, however, to make a permanent amendment to the constitution.

According to Mel Dykman, president of the CAB, the amendment will be presented to the Associated Students to vote upon at the coming election since it is felt by many organizations on campus that it is essential for building college spirit, and also for financial aid.

Petitions For Leave Must Be In By 5 Today

Emphatically stating that today is the last day to file leave of absence petitions, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said that students intending to leave the college must have their petitions before closing time today.

No excuses will be accepted for leaves of absence after the deadline, Miss Learnard warned.

Voting For Sophomore King And Queen Set For June 9-10

Anticipating several candidates under the bigger and fairer traditional contest for queen of college lovelies and king of handsome men, sophomore week chairman, Jim Fernhoff, and sophomore president, Bill Riley, asserted that the race program is progressing favorably.

As Fernhoff and Riley stated, "Ladies, if you don't have a 5 by 7 photo (and we don't mean body beautiful photos), go to A. McMurray studios on 1401 Van Ness Avenue, downtown, and have it snapped free of charge."

The history of the royal affair points back to early days of college life when it was decided that a queen would be selected each semester to represent the sophomore class.

Soon after, in the fall semester of 1941, a provision was made on the ballot for king, giving the male handsomites a chance at the glory and honor game.

The fate of the semi-finalists of the king-queen race will be determined June 9 and 10 when Associated Students go to the polls to vote for their favorite.

Impartial judges will make the decision as to the six semi-finalists for both king and queen.

Class Of '48 Will Get Degree June 19

Constituting the largest graduating class in the history of the City College, 938 men and women will be awarded the Associate in Arts degree at Sigmund Stern Grove, Saturday, June 19, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, revealed yesterday.

Headliner of the speakers during the commencement exercises will be Dr. Roy Simpson, state superintendent of instruction.

According to Luckmann, a breakdown of the 938 to receive degrees discloses that 58 were graduates of last summer's session, 270 from the fall semester, and 619 from the present semester.

Smash Hit Predicted For Vagabond King; Opening Night Is Thursday

Costumes Add Color To Friml Opera In College Auditorium

HOLDING DOWN THE PANELS above, dressed in the costumes for the historical era of The Vagabond King, are (left to right) Roy Burt as Noel, who sings the famous Someday.

Next in line is Justin Smith as Rene in the process of being spurned by Huguette as portrayed by Dolores Jonson.

Bob Sherratt acting as Francois Villon, the hero, dutifully pays homage to Helen Setalov, robed as Lady Katherine.

The fourth picture depicts Dave Huenergardt as Francois Villon with Pat Fitzgerald also dual casted as Huguette. In the final panel is Carolyn Herfield as Lady Katherine.

Sherratt will play Villon on Thursday night and Friday matinee, while Huenergardt takes over on Friday and Saturday nights. Miss Herfield acts as Lady Katherine Thursday and Friday nights, and Miss Setalov, Friday matinee and Saturday night.

Half Proceeds Will Construct Safe Play Area For Hurley Kids

OPENING THURSDAY NIGHT at the college auditorium at 8:15 is the light opera, Vagabond King. Also opening on Thursday night will be beginning of the building of a playground for the kids over in Hurley Village.

From the total proceeds of the light opera, exactly half will be given for the construction of a playground that is desperately needed for the children of the veterans that are attending City College.

The Maxwells are children of Allan Maxwell, Hurley Village student manager, who maintains that the 75 veterans' children living here have no place to play.

Dinner Here Friday Honors The Clouds

Honoring Dr. A. J. Cloud, City College president, and his wife, a buffet dinner in the student lounge is scheduled for Friday evening at 6:15, preceding the performance of The Vagabond King.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Herbert C. Clish and his wife, with the members of the Board of Education and college faculty members will be in attendance.

On Saturday evening, following the final showing of the light opera, the choir alumni as well as the production staff, cast and choir of The Vagabond King, will have an informal reception in the lounge.

Patrons for the opera are Messrs and Mesdames Edwin C. Browne, Herbert C. Clish, Clarence Coonan, Charles M. Dennis, Adrien Falk, Louis E. Goodman, Carl Hague, David P. Hardy, George Johns, Harold Kellogg, Al Leonhard, Hans Leschke, Bert Levit, Garret McEnerney II, Richard Nason Jr., Joseph P. Nourse, Harry C. Peters, Reuben Rinder, Elmer Robinson, Fred Saatman, Karl Schaupp, M. Lorne Stanley, F. L. Wager, and Mr. George Gibson Davis, Mr. Aubrey Drury, Mrs. Ann Holden Minton, Mrs. Sigmund Stern, and Mrs. Corine Williams.

Vagabond Kingers Lilt Over Goblets Of Gilt

Beer cans, empty of course, will be used as goblets by The Vagabond King cast.

Painted gold, the cans will look authentic and suppress the possibility of publicity for the breweries represented.

The one responsible for the call for beer cans is Dorothy Luckhardt, instructor who is handling all props for the show.

Miss Luckhardt revealed that the property business is running smoothly. All props will be in place at curtain time.

Badger, Sisler Laud Rehearsals, College Hour Rally Today To Push Ticket Sales; Band And Choir Perform

By Hank Twelth

An informal rally today during college hour featuring orchestral and choral selections from The Vagabond King, will officially herald Vagabond King Week at the college.

Setting for Rudolf Friml's Vagabond King, co-produced by Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, and assisted by Gertrude Norgard and Meyer Cahn, orchestra director, is France at the end of the fifteenth century, when the country was divided into provinces which were virtually independent kingdoms.

Paris, under the weak and despised King Louis XI, alternately played by Don Landers and Pat Paulson, was in danger of falling to the Burgundians who were aided by traitors within Louis' court.

Louis, visiting a tavern incognito, meets the bold vagabond poet-thief, Francois Villon, played by Dave Huenergardt or Bob Sherratt, who is the idol of the village rabble.

Louis, advised by his astrologer, Elmer Dickey, decides to make Villon king for a day to give him the task of dealing with the Burgundians. At the end of the day he must meet death on the gallows as punishment for his many offenses against the crown unless someone will die in his place.

The king's cousin, Lady Katherine, played by Carolyn Herfield or Helen Setalov, who has come to return Villon's love for her, offers her life, after Francois and his people have routed the enemy.

At first unwilling, Louis finally reads the stars again and grants life and happiness to the lovers.

Color and tragedy are provided in the role of Huguette, played by Patricia Fitzgerald or Dolores Jonson, who loves Villon hopelessly. The laugh provoking role of Tabarie is handled by Pete Boghosin or Dick Paganelli.

Many other characters, singers and dancers, contribute greatly toward the brilliance of the light opera and assure the success of the most ambitious production ever attempted at the college.

Guardsman Project Nears Final Stage

By I. R. Lascola

Culminating a campaign which started with one picture appearing in the Friday, April 16, issue of The Guardsman, the Hurley Village playground is now a few weeks short of reality.

Snowball-like, the program for the betterment of life for Hurley Village bairns grew, as campus organizations, dropping less-important goals, joined in to help change the weed infested mock playground to the clean, pleasant surroundings the children are entitled to.

Guardsman Editor George Lajeunesse called the Student Council's attention to the problem, and that group responded, voting 50 per cent of all Vagabond King proceeds to the project, pending the approval of Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools.

On Thursday, May 9, Dr. Clish had approved the plan, and the race was on to see what campus group could do the most.

Hurley Village veterans, under the leadership of Allan Maxwell, Hurley manager, offered to do the physical labor while Jules Fraden of the recreational leadership department, offered the assistance of his group.

As the floriculture department promised to landscape the area, the A Cappella Choir donated a Kiwanis Club gift of $25 to the mounting fund.

Soon the ground will be surveyed and broken, and, shortly after that, the Hurley Village playground, a monument to student cooperation, will be completed.

Committee Reveals Playground Plans

Allan Maxwell, student manager of Hurley Village and general chairman of the village playground planning committee, disclosed today some of the tentative plans thus far laid by his group.

The committee, composed of faculty members and students of the college, has decided, according to Maxwell, to utilize the same site on which the several existing pieces of worn and inadequate equipment are now located.

None of the old equipment will be discarded, but will be repaired and augmented by the new pieces, to be purchased from the funds realized through Vagabond King proceeds, half of which go toward construction of the playground.

"Actually," said Maxwell, "the old site is the most favorable spot in the village. The location is central, and the overall area, bounded on three sides, provides plenty of room for the kiddies."

Present plans for additional equipment call for a children's slide, several cradle type swings, two large sand boxes, and a drinking fountain.

"We'll need a fence around the playground, too," Maxwell added, "and some sort of a windbreak, in addition of course, to the landscaping promised by the college floriculture department which includes surfacing and the planting of a hedge around the play area."

Nine Groups Aid In Staging Opera Here

By Arnold Solkov

Production responsibilities of The Vagabond King, other than opera presentation, are under the guidance of two faculty managers who direct the functions of nine committees.

These nine committees range in duties from stage lighting to ticket selling and are all of equal importance.

The faculty managers are Thomas R. Porter and Joan Nourse; the student manager is Herbert Levy, assisted by Jack Hagan.

Maurice Power heads the key committee handling ticket sales.

Those in charge of staging and lighting include Anthony Paciotti, faculty, and Paul Ellison, faculty.

Makeup is under the supervision of Michael Griffin, and costumes are in charge of Mildred Barnard and Lucille Merideth.

Properties supervision is under Marjorie Cullen, Dorothy Luckhardt, Bill Culver, and ushering will be supervised by Margaret Dougherty.

Decorations are handled by John Lawrence, while publicity is taken care of by George Mullany.

Assistant Dean Brady and a group of men students will facilitate entrance to the auditorium.

Class Dismissal Set For Ticket Holders

Students holding tickets to The Vagabond King will be dismissed from classes for the Friday, May 21, matinee performance, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president of the college, repeated today.

Instructors have been advised, said Mohr, to excuse student ticket holders provided they can show a ticket as evidence of attending the Friml light opera.

Some tickets to the production are still available at the guard shack and silver pole.

Success Of The Vagabond King Is Now In The Students' Own Hands

JUST as The Vagabond King production has the combined efforts of many various college departments behind it, the Hurley Village playground drive is getting equally enthusiastic support from both the faculty and student body.

At a recent informal meeting held on the proposed site of the playground last week, representatives from the engineering department, horticulture department, recreational leadership classes and residents of Hurley Village talked over the matter and took decisive steps toward making the playground an actuality.

Leroy Briggs and John Thompson, faculty members, made the first definite move by surveying the proposed layout and are consolidating their findings with William Mayo, head of the engineering department.

The next step will be to turn over the sketches to George Hutchinson, who with Robert Peterson, will work out plans and ideas from an architectural standpoint.

In the meantime the college horticulture department is in close contact with the above mentioned people and Jack Edminster and Bill Irvine are presently considering a number of ideas pertaining to landscaping.

Jules Fraden, instructor in recreational leadership is currently gathering information on playground facilities and inquiring into the cost of the different equipment it will take to furnish the area.

Over in Hurley Village itself, Allan Maxwell, resident manager, is compiling a list of volunteer workers from among the village inhabitants who stand ready to devote hours of their own free time so the children may have their playground.

The rest of it is now in the hands of the students themselves. The cast of The Vagabond King is ready for curtain time Thursday evening; some tickets are still available for any of the four performances.

Win or lose, all the people behind the scenes in both the actual opera end of it and in the playground planning have been doing commendable work.

News To Nobody . . .

Artist Sadler Is For Abstract Design

By Ann Land

Handsome and talented Stanley Sadler, president of Alpha Delta Epsilon, college art society, handles conte crayon with all the adeptness of the professional in the field.

Amid the aroma of pickled shark's head, whose eye centers were being drawn for the science department by Sadler, the artist admitted that aside from being a scientific illustrator he is also an exponent, and a student, of the new and old school of artistic thought.

The human academy, or old school represents the realistic approach to art, and the new school of thought contains mostly designs and abstracts.

Sadler was elected president of the art society during the latter part of last semester and claims that his duties as such are not hard. The society was organized in 1932.

"Presiding over the meetings, which are held from one to three times weekly, appointing committees, and carrying out the functions of the organization are the most important responsibilities accompanying the position," Sadler explained.

A student in Roy Walker's ceramic class, Sadler is learning the principles of line, form, and texture design through the medium of clay.

"To be a good artist a person must experience emotion from the environment or the cultures in order to interpret through his medium more logically," Sadler believes.

Sadler enjoys all forms of art, and even enjoys drawing a facsimile of the dissection of the orhit of the shark's eye on paper.

"It's great," he says; "it just drives you nuts."

LANKY STAN SADLER, president of the Art Society, is caught in a creative mood, perhaps visualizing a layout for an aesthetic painting.

Main Gate "Battles" With Blackbird Duo

By Dayton Lawson

Bye-bye Blackbird, the current juke-box gem, is liable to wind up as a funeral dirge with sling-shot accompaniment if two ebony feather merchants don't stop making like P-38's over by the south gate.

These two fugitives from a coal bin are giving the Ocean Avenue trade combat fatigue by peeling off from a tree behind the guard shack and making a three-pointer on every third or fourth noggin which happens to come too close to their home base.

The guard himself was vague. "Can't explain it," he shrugged. "Blackbirds are the only ones I ever seen pull-treks like that. They're building their nests 'bout now, and I guess they're afraid somebody is goin' to steal their eggs or something. Anyhow, I don't guess nobody is gettin' hurt too much."

The guard is obviously prejudiced. And with a four-inch roof between him and the dusky dive-bombers, it's easy to see why.

Spring or not, if these maneuvers continue to disturb the otherwise tranquil atmosphere surrounding the Ocean Avenue entrance, the G. I.'s in the adjoining barracks are threatening to flavor their week-end diet with some blackbird pie!

A Letter From Ankara

Local Coed Uncovers Black Market In Starving Greece

By Mary Erhart

(Editor's Note: Former Guardsman feature writer, Mary Erhart, continues her column from the Near East.)

The moment we hopped out of the boat, men swarmed about us shouting at the top of their voices. None of them spoke English or French, the only languages that we understood, so we just stared at them and they at us while we waited for an Embassy car to take us into Athens.

Finally I spotted an American (you can easily detect them here), who drove us into Athens, a 20 minute ride from Pireaus.

The Embassy placed us in a first class boarding house which is situated two blocks from the famed Acropolis. We had to stay at this boarding house temporarily, because all the hotels are filled with Americans attached to the American Aid Mission.

Our host, Mr. E. Pakis, was a bank manager before the German occupation but is now too old to continue with the bank. Mr. Pakis is a very brilliant man, and he himself conducted us on tours to the Acropolis grounds, the prison where Socrates was poisoned; Alexander the Great's monument, and the Forum and other ruins, while telling us of Greek history and mythology, which he seems to know thoroughly.

In sharp contrast to the beauty of these ancient works are the homeless, wandering, ragged children of Greece. They beg all day and at night, sleep in whatever hole in the wall they can find. I don't believe that these children know the words home, love or laughter. Children without laughter make a strong impression on one.

The people seem to have lost all desire to rehuild. I imagine that after one's home is ravaged by war after war, revolution after revolution, that all desire to start again remains dormant. They are people who continually speak of "yesterday," never mention their hopes and plans for tomorrow.

Athens was not destroyed by the actual battles of World War II, but during the Communist revolution in 1944, a great deal of damage was done. Every house bears some evidence of the revolution.

The people of Greece are in terrible throes of poverty and hunger and the newspaper accounts at home in no way exaggerate these conditions. Inflation is so bad that most families aren't able to buy the necessities of life.

Back in the States, we were told that these people didn't have food and clothing, which is true in a way. There are plenty of both to be found in stores, but thanks to the black market, inflation is so high that very few have enough money to buy these things.

Hucksters Sound Off At Phelan Guard Shack

By Pete Boghosin

A red shack and a microphone are all one needs to advertise his own social function.

As a student enters the west campus these days he hears a blaring voice crying out, "Stop, look, listen, and buy a ticket to the show of the year."

If he has heard these noises and wondered of the origin, he will recognize the nerve center of the advertising campaign that precedes each college function—the guard shack on Phelan Avenue, once a sentry post, now a City College Huckster's outpost.

Highly Strung Profs Set To Go A-Courtin' Varsity In Park

By Roy Pasini

As previously announced, the courageous and highly hopeful members of the faculty with racquet tendencies will challenge the potent college varsity racketeers to a "test of talents" tomorrow afternoon on the Golden Gate courts at 2:30 o'clock.

The profs, who have been holding secret practice sessions no doubt, are reportedly in the best of possible physical condition, whatever that may be, and prepared to give their rivals a lesson without textbooks.

The "physical fiasco" will feature the return to the courts of tennis mentors Tom Wilson and Roy Diederichsen as they struggle to show their proteges how it should be done.

The PE dept.'s other contribution to the cause will be Basketball Coach Ralph Hillsman, who will abandon the hardwoods momentarily for the asphalt courts.

The remainder of the educating racketeers come from the math dept. probably because the instructors feel they have a mathematical chance of coming through.

Leading the group will be nationally ranked Harry Buttimer, he should do some damage, ably assisted by Robin Dunn, he isn't done yet; Wilbur McKenzie and Michael Monaco, both of whom are determined to turn the affair into a net gain for the profs.

The above squad is subject to change in that one or two members may find it necessary to remain in class in order to give an exam.

Minus the services of their "chiefs," the student racquet busters will be led into battle by Captain Bill Covall, who has predicted another smashing victory for the varsity. (It was a 5-2 effort last year.)

Unless they have been unexpectedly burdened by a last minute assignment by one of the court-going instructors, the remainder of the Ram squad will show up to aid Covall.

Wearing the red and white of the college will be Ed Jacobsen, who has polished up his glasses and prepared himself for his best effort; Fred Rodgers, all set to go courting; Bob Sockolov, a sporting character if there ever was one; Frank Reed and the aforementioned Covall, both of whom had a hand in defeating the hrain trusts last year and are out for some more of the same.

There it is. Take your pick. As for us, we predict a varsity win.

College Netmen Travel To Piedmont To Combat Rough Galloping Gaels

With NCJCC competition behind them for another season, the college netters take on an outfit twice their size this afternoon when they travel across the Bay Bridge to meet the St. Mary's varsity at Davie Stadium in Piedmont.

The match, which serves as a conditioner for the all-important conference tourney at Modesto May 21-23, will also give Acting Coach Roy Diederichsen a final glance at the squad's five top men.

The leading five will pull out of Ramland around 6 a.m. Friday and head south for the three day meeting which will determine who makes the league's "who's-who" register.

Today's tussle will feature the Rams' finale as a squad and working from seasonal results, the locals look good for another win—but close.

To date the Gaels have not been treated too kindly by their opponents, while the recently sheared brethren were among the "big three" in their little family circle.

Diederichsen will throw the same gang which handled the majority of the conference matches at the Morgans.

Leading off in the number one spot will be the bespectacled Ed Jacobsen, followed by handsome Freddie Rodgers.

Slashing away from the third spot will be hard driving Bob Sockolov, with the remaining matches going to veterans Captain Bill Covall and Frank Reed.

Rams Win Two Events In Badminton Playday

In a recent co-ed badminton playday, held May 5, City College, with five teams entered, won two events and placed third in two others, Nancy Sparks, badminton instructor, said today.

Charlene and Bill Burgess, brother and sister, and Barbara Combs and Herb Ho won first places in their respective events.

Third place was taken by Jackie Wilson and Don Huber, who won over State, but were beaten by San Mateo and Marin.

Hermenia Ross and Dick Felker won over Marin, but were defeated by San Mateo.

This was the first intercollegiate co-educational activity to be held since the return of co-ed sports to City College.

Rams Drop 3 Contests To San Mateo Teams

San Mateo Junior College held a proverbial field day on Ram athletic teams last Saturday as baseball, track, and tennis teams of the peninsula school triumphed.

On the net scene the Mateans swept to a shutout win with only two Rams, Ed Jacobson and Bill Covall, extending their opponents. The win virtually clinched the title for the Bulldogs.

The baseballing Mateans solved San Francisco pitching in the sixth inning, blasting the locals 12 to 1.

At the Fresno relays the Bulldogs grabbed sixth place, while the Rams tied for seventh. Compton College won the junior college title. The locals took third in the mile relay and fourth in the medley for their points.

Six College Pugilists Prepare For Olympics

Casting an eye towards the coming Olympics, six promising college boxing contenders are working out daily in the men's gymnasium under the tutelage of Coach Roy Diederichsen.

These hopeful Ram pugilists are now preparing for the Olympic tryouts, which will be held June 1, 2, and 3 in Sacramento.

If any of the college boxers emerge triumphantly from the tryouts in the state capital, they will enter the Western State Regionals in San Francisco's Civic Auditorium on June 16 and 17.

Already signed up for next month's elimination matches are Ram fighters Carl Hoyos and John Fisher, 112.6; Len Garcia, 127.13; Roy Damus, 136.10; Jim Wilson, 147.11, and heavyweight Frank Suega.

The numbers following the pounds are ounces and these weights are the international boxing divisions for the coming Olympic Games in London.

Golfers Face Big Test

The big one, which the Hillsman golfers have been preparing for all season, comes up at Modesto this weekend as the locals meet the best the conference has to offer.

The Ram squad will be chosen off the showings made in the San Mateo match last week, with the top five men making the trip.

Vying for the positions are Bill King, who turned in a one under par at Chabot Saturday; Bob and Don Payne, Bob Padgett, Joe Durand and Walt Ross. All the stickers have been waiting for this one and should turn in good jobs.

Stockton Wins NCJCC Track Crown

Rams Set Two Records, Lose Meet In Field Events; Modesto Nabs 3rd

Ten heart-breaking points was the margin between a gold cup and a second place handshake Wednesday night as Stockton College nosed out the potent Rams to walk away with the 1948 version of the NCJCC track title. 53 1/7 was the winning margin, and the third and fourth spots went to Modesto and Santa Rosa, respectively.

Two meet records were cracked when Sam Chapman loped a blistering 9:59.5 to best the old mark of 10:16 in the two-mile, and the Ram relay quartet hung up a new sketch in the conference record book with a time of 3:23.3.

Don Brooks, Stockton dash man, was high point star, collecting wins in the high hurdles and the 220 lows, and chalking up a second place in the century.

Captain Jim Wyatt and sprinter Bill Langan of Ram team each nabbed 6½ points and thus split school's high point honors. Brilliant efforts for the Jensen-men were also turned in by Nick Gardere and Owen Moore.

Once again, the locals' downfall came in the field events. The same was true last year, when the Rams piled up a big lead in track events.

Ramblers Win Title In Intramural Race

Leading all the way, the Ramblers captured the college intramural cage title Wednesday in the men's gymnasium by downing the SF Block five, 29-18.

Earl Malnick was high point man for the game as he garnered 12 points.

In the semi-finals last Tuesday, in the men's gymnasium, the Block Society swamped the Killers, 51-17, while the Ramblers came from behand to whip the stuhborn Clams, 41-31.

Intramural mentor Tom Wilson announced Thursday that softball team entries will now be accepted in the men's gymnasium.

Rams Have Slim Chance At Title

Led by lefthander Jiro Nakamura, the San Mateo Junior College nine pulled into a 2½ game lead over the San Francisco and Santa Rosa squads in the race for the Coast Division title.

With a record of eight conference victories against no defeats, the Bulldogs appear to have virtually clinched title honors in their division.

A slim chance remains to unseat the Mateans from their high perch as they have two games remaining with Santa Rosa and a single tilt with Marin College, both of which teams have enough strength to upset the high-flying Bulldogs.

The Soothsayer

By Herbert Levy

WATCHING a rehearsal performance of The Vagabond King is in itself worth the 50 cents charged to students for admission to the regular performances coming up May 20, 21, and 22.

Ordinarily students are not allowed to watch the rehearsals, mainly because they may see a scene gone over three times in order to get it perfect, and then the cynical student may go to his friends and say the show is no good.

We managed to get an okay (being members of the press) and plunked ourselves down in the auditorium and gave a listen.

ACTORS ARE GOOD

And we mean we did listen. When Bob Sherratt or Dave Huenergardt, who double as Francois Villon, says to the stooge of the Duke of Burgundy, sent out to bring about terms of the surrender of Paris, that Paris isn't going to surrender, and Villon yells, "The hell with Burgundy," it doesn't sound like a high pitched 9th grader saying "The heck with sauterne."

In other words, these performers are good. They're not just a hunch of singers and actors who happened to be lying around the Drama and Music Departments, but they are carefully chosen students, who really have their hearts in their work.

This light opera, when it starts Thursday, looks like it will be a smash hit!!!

MUSIC TO POLITICS

Going from the cultured to the not-so-cultured part of things around the campus, Frank Ferguson, Tri-Epsilon fraternity member and Student Council member, seems to have definitely received the official okay from the various campus fraternities to run for president of the Associated Students. Bob Reilly, three semester council member and vice-president of Beta Tau fraternity, apparently was turned down cold by the fraternities.

STUDENT LEAGUE DECIDING

As we go to press, the Student League as yet has not decided on who their man will be. Student Band Manager Walt McRae appears as the leading candidate, with Jack Hagan and Jack Hurley, also out with feelers as candidates for the presidency.

The important Student Council posts, which is the voting body of student government, are still lacking candidates from both sides.

Evidently the fraternities will have to throw in their most popular men to run for these positions, if they wish to offset the fast rising popularity of the whole Student League idea of representative government.

Council Approves A Round Table Topic

Major items presently being at a minimum, the Student Council swiftly attended to general business on Thursday's small agenda.

Only topic involving a pro and con discussion and a final vote was Jack Hurley's motion proposing a forum on racial discrimination in colleges be held here; after worthy debate, the council voted its okay.

Robert Judd, election committee head, reported that a voting method to replace the unavailable voting machines usually used here will be of a printed ballot type.

After listening to a Pi Mu Gamma plea for the Kangaroo Court concession at the coming Mardi Gras made by Helen Rich, the council decided to retain the control it had previously voted to itself.

Vets Must Have Letter To Transfer Schooling

Reminding veterans attending college on the G. I. Bill that they must have a supplementary letter of eligibility if they intend to transfer to another institution, Grand Marsh, head counsellor, said that the application forms can be picked up in the Veterans Affairs Office in Building 3.

Students planning to transfer for summer session should be cleared by the Veterans Administration as soon as possible, and those intending to start the fall semester in a different college should allow plenty of time for clearance, Marsh explained.

Grades and units received at City College must be evaluated by the Veterans Administration prior to the student's transfer, he added.

Classes Here Out On Memorial Day, May 31

No classes will be held at the college on Monday, May 31, Memorial Day and a national holiday, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced yesterday.

Classes will continue, as usual, on the following Tuesday, June 1.

College Adds Two New Majors To Curriculum

Two new majors, retail store management and transportation, will be added to the City College curriculum next term, F. G. Marsh, department chairman, stated yesterday.

The retail store management course will be a supplement to the one now dealing with department stores. It concerns business with drug stores and other similar businesses.

The transportation course will deal with the interests common to buses, airplanes and similar means of transportation.

Campus lovelies interested in competing in the queen race were again notified today by Sophomore President Bill Riley, and Sophomore Week Chairman Jim Fernhoff, that 3 p.m. Thursday, May 20, is the deadline for submitting photos.

These photos, which are to be submitted for the contest, may be turned in at the office of the Associated Student president in the student lounge, Fernhoff said, and must be accompanied by a sheet of paper with the name of the contestant, address, telephone number, height, color of hair and eyes, and must include also their Associated Student card number.

Riley explained that, up to this date, no photos for the contest have been submitted, but he expects them to start coming in very soon.

Selections of the six semi-finalists from the group of submitted photos, with the number instead of the name under each, will be made by three impartial judges: A. Walter McMurray, photographer; Elice Eilers, teacher of advertising at Golden Gate College, and Robert S. Schnebly, president of the Young Republicans of San Francisco.

The winners of the king-queen race will be announced and the winners crowned at the Coronation Ball to be held in the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium, Saturday, June 12.

Also, a personal loving cup will be presented to the queen and king by the sophomore class, and a perpetual trophy will be presented to the queen by Beta Tau and to the king by Theta Tau at the ball.

Booths Feature Mardi Gras Entertainment

Headlining the Mardi Gras Ball Friday, June 4, in the west campus auditorium, will be a diversified collection of amusement booths, Bryne Davis, Associated Men Student head, disclosed today.

To induce adventurers to attend the gala affair, the booths will feature roulette, voice recording, photography, and ball throwing games.

Although the wearing of costumes is not mandatory, Davis expressed his wishes that students be prepared in the traditional manner to attend the ball.

Deans Will Take All Entries Tomorrow

Petitions for candidacy of Associated Student offices are to be submitted tomorrow, May 19, to the offices of Dean Jack Brady, for the men, and Dean Margaret Dougherty, for the women, Robert Judd, chairman of the election committee, disclosed today.

Judd further announced the names of the election committee who will officiate at the elections.

The committee includes Robert Judd, chairman; Frank Reed, Bob Weingardner, Sam Goldman, George Lajeunesse and Carman Moran. These students were chosen from the ranks of the general student body.

"The duties that are assigned to this group consist of varied functions," Judd declared. "They include approval of the petitions submitted by the candidates, as well as authorization for posters used by the aspirants in their campaigns."

The committee rules on the eligibility of a candidate if a discrepancy should arise as to the eligibility.

Voting is scheduled Thursday and Friday, June 3 and 4, with ballot boxes in place of the usual voting machines, Judd added.

Friday College Hour Fixed For Club Meets

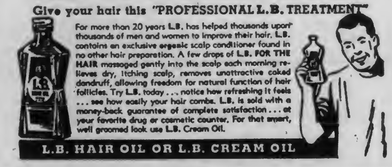
Following the shake-up in last Friday's college hour program, which occurred when the UNESCO assembly was cancelled, a hard and fast schedule has been set for this coming Friday's hour, namely club meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean, said yesterday.

To students who are not members of clubs it may seem that college hours for the purpose of club meetings are getting to be uncommonly frequent, but to students who are familiar with club activities, Brady said, it is quite clear that this time is vitally necessary to their successful operation.

Non-Resident Parkers Outlawed In Village

Because of recent accidents and near misses in Hurley Village, traffic citations will be issued in the future to students who persist in parking their cars in the village, Dean Edward E. Sandys warned today.

Permission to park in Hurley Village is legally limited to residents. These occupants must have windshield stickers to validate their right to park.



These steps are being taken, Sandys said, in the hope of easing the dangerous situation of local students of driving and parking ceaselessly on Marston Avenue.

First Nighters Acclaim Vagabond King

Bonds Mean 4 Million For City College

Cloud Asks Voters To Support Issue

President A. J. Cloud today urged all students who are registered voters in California to turn out and vote, Tuesday, June 1, for the current school bond issue which will appropriate approximately four million dollars for the completion or the improvement of City College.

"Students who will not be able to get down to the city hall to vote may vote at the registrar's office by absentee ballot," Dr. Cloud pointed out.

"It is necessary," Dr. Cloud explained, "for the students to carry the word to their friends in their neighborhood and explain the need for the bond issue to San Francisco and the college, and just how necessary it is for them to get down to the city hall and vote early if they plan to be out of the city June 1."

A previous school bond issue, which was passed in 1937 appropriated enough money to construct the now standing men's and women's gymnasiums, but this issue was not enough to insure the definite building of an auditorium, library, administration building and student union building as proposed.

With the approval of the present four million dollar issue, San Francisco can continue its building program for City College.

Judges Huddle On King, Queen Photo Selection

With the deadline for entrance in the sophomore class queen race set at 3 p.m. yesterday, selection of the six semi-finalists from the submitted group will be made very soon, Sophomore President Bill Riley, and Sophomore Week Chairman Jim Fernhoff, said yesterday.

Selection of the six semi-finalists will be made by a group of three impartial judges. From the semi-finalists a queen and king will be chosen when Associated Students cast their votes in the ballot box on Wednesday and Thursday, June 9 and 10.

Climax of the gala affair will be the naming and coronation of the king and queen at the Coronation Ball scheduled for the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium, Saturday, June 12.

The loving cups will be presented to the king and queen at the same occasion, Riley added.

Plans are still in order to give semi-finalists souvenir certificates.

Criminology Class To Hear Police Speakers

Two guest speakers from the San Francisco Police Department will make separate appearances at City College, Tuesday and Wednesday, May 25 and 26, to orient students of criminology and traffic regulation and control in the practical experience of their respective fields, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, revealed today.

Lieutenant John Meehan, director of the police juvenile bureau, will meet with the 8 o'clock criminology class Tuesday, and discuss the problems of the police juvenile bureau.

Sergeant Edward Moody, member of the traffic education unit, will address the traffic regulation and control class which convenes at 9 o'clock Wednesday.

BOB SHERRATT, left, in costume as Francois Villon while "king for a day," poses with his alter ego, Dave Huenergardt, in costume as Francois, the Vagabond King. Sherratt will sing the role at the matinee performance of the Friml opera this afternoon, while Huenergardt will sing the part this evening and tomorrow evening at 8:15 in the college auditorium. Tonight's Lady Katherine will be sung by Carolyn Herfield, while Helen Setalov will sing this afternoon and tomorrow night.

Campaign Rules, Date Set For AS Elections

Elections for Associated Student offices will begin on the west campus on Thursday and Friday, June 3 and 4, from 9:30 to 3 o'clock, Robert Judd, election committee head, announced today. Judd further stated that with the registrar's office IBM machines used to facilitate tallying of ballots.

Publicity stunts on the campus will be allowed only if they are sanctioned by the Deans, while any written, printed, or mimeographed material concerning a candidate must have the approval of the Publications Board, the election rules, adopted several semesters ago, state.

Five posters will be permitted per candidate on the campus, and this includes the main building.

Also one poster is permitted in each of the three stores adjacent to the campus.

Violation of any rule disqualifies the candidate, Judd said.

Choir Honors Alumni, Vagabond King Staff

Following tomorrow night's final performance of The Vagabond King, members of the choir will honor the cast, orchestra, production staff, administration, and alumni of the A Cappella Choir at a reception in the student lounge.

Three hundred alumni members are expected to attend the reception, according to responses received by choir manager Elmer Dickey, following card invitations issued ten days ago.

Annual Buffet Supper Honors The Clouds

Three hundred members of the faculty and their wives, husbands, and friends, will be present tonight at a buffet supper in honor of President and Mrs. A. J. Cloud in the student lounge. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Herbert C. Clish, and members of the Board of Education.

The supper will begin at 6:15, and end in time for all persons to attend the music and drama department production of The Vagabond King, in the west campus auditorium.

A Cappella Concert Set For Optimist Club

After the production of the opera, Vagabond King, the A Cappella Choir will give a concert for the Optimist Club luncheon, Thursday, May 27, Flossita Badger, music director, announced this week.

Selections from Vagabond King along with a number of regular choir music will be sung.

Item: Herb Caen Says, "Toss It In The Fund"

Dear George Lajeunesse:

Thanks a lot for letting me know about your pitch to get money for that playground. Hope you had a chance to see the item I used.

One of my readers sent the enclosed check in to help out. Please toss it into the general fund.

Cordially,
/s/ Herb Caen

(Editor's note: The donator is Winston Norman, former editor of the Stanford University humor magazine, Chaparral, now an advertising executive.)

Council To Propel School Bond Issue

Support of the important school bond issue which will be balloted June 1 was voiced Tuesday by an active Student Council.

Unanimous approval was given to freshman president Bob Jennings' request for a committee to investigate means by which this college can assist in the 87 million dollar school bond campaign.

Leader of this action was Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, who spoke to the council prior to its opening.

Stressing the dire need for improvements at this college, Luckmann stated, "every eligible student should exercise his inherent franchise by going to the polls June 1 and support the school bonds."

Asking for assistance in this matter, Luckmann continued, "we need speakers to help in the bond drive, and any student who is interested can inform me in my office."

Today's College Hour Schedules Club Meets

College hour time today will be used for club meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

The next college hour, which is scheduled for Friday, May 28, is set aside as the time at which the election rally will be held.

Capacity Crowd Jams Auditorium For Performance

By Hank Tweith

A capacity first night audience thrilled with enthusiasm last night as the initial performance of The Vagabond King became history.

The Rudolf Friml light opera, jointly produced by the college music and drama departments under the direction of Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, assisted by Gertrude Norgard and Meyer Cahn, was marked by an air of professionalism not often found in college productions.

Deserving of special tribute are the college choir and orchestra for the polished manner in which they solved the prohibitive problems of acoustics and working in the limited stage area.

Pete Boghosin, as the rollicking Count Tabaric, proved himself an able slapstick comedian, as he stole scene after hilarious scene from the principal characters. Alternately cast in the same role is Dick Paganelli, an equally gifted comedian.

Outy A Rose and Someday, romantic duets sung by Carolyn Herfield and Bob Sherratt in the lead roles of Lady Katherine and Francois Villon, stamp the two as definite comers.

Sherratt will play the same role at the matinee today, to be replaced tonight and tomorrow night by Dave Huenergardt. Lady Katherine will be played again tonight by Miss Herfield, while the same part will be taken by Helen Setalov at today's matinee and at the final performance tomorrow evening.

Also worthy of special note are the fencing scenes, executed with marvelous precision, in extremely restricted space. Principles in these scenes, Huenergardt or Sherratt and Pat Paulson or Jack Lewis, were coached by Betty Heckman of women's physical education department.

Vagabond King Drags In $500 Profit So Far

Ticket sales as of Thursday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. totalled a sum in excess of $1800, according to a preliminary ticket sales check, Maurice Power, faculty ticket chairman said yesterday.

Power expressed hope that the total fund would swell to $2500.

INSPECTING PLANS for the proposed playground over at Hurley Village are left to right, Bill Irvine, John Thompson, Allan Maxwell, John Edminster, Bill Mayo, Hank Tweith, and George Hutchinson.

Missing from the picture, but equally involved in deciding the location for the play area are Leroy Briggs, Jules Fraden, Roy Peterson and John Hermann.

So That War's Children Will Not Be By-Passed In A Rush For Life

IN this post-war scramble to get back to normality, a scramble that borders at times near hysteria, it does the mind good to pause and consider the accelerated life we are now leading.

On our own campus there is turmoil caused by mature men competing with youngsters in a rush to "get educated" in a hurry and get out in a competitive world to grab for good paying jobs.

Coupled with an acute international situation that is causing a cloud of pessimism to follow every ambitious person in his or her search for "normal life" again, and such irregularities as the housing shortage and inflation, every one of us is in danger of losing sight of just what we are put on this earth for in the first place.

For this reason alone The Guardsman started the drive to get a playground built for the children of our student-veterans living in Hurley Village.

Because, the truth of the matter is, every one of us is in great danger of becoming so self-centered and smug in this great drive to realize our own ambitions that we are completely forgetting our obligations to the next generation to succeed us.

Take a good long look at the picture of Hurley Village's children at the top of this page.

These are Children of War; born during or immediately after a world-wide conflict. Look and then ask yourself, "Are they entitled to a normal life too?"

Yes, these children of war veterans are looking for an average, healthy life and as yet haven't found it either.

We hope, upon successful conclusion of The Vagabond King benefit now running, that these children will find such a life awaiting them in the construction of a brand-new playground.

The price of a ticket to the remaining performances will insure City College's memorial to nearly-forgotten young citizens.

A Letter From San Bruno

Domestic Correspondent Lascola In San Bruno Brig, Makes Self At Home

Editor's Note: I. R. Lascola, disgruntled and crying "discrimination" over Mary Erhart's appointment as Guardsman foreign correspondent, forced us, with the aid of an eight-handed relative, to appoint him "domestic" correspondent. This is how he repaid our kindness.

By I. R. Lascola

Sitting here in my cell, gazing over the tent tops of San Bruno, I don't feel that I'm in a foreign land. After all, a cell is a cell, no matter where you are.

My pet guinea pig, my brother, who is an octopus, and I arrived here two short days ago by pack train. It was really rough. Have you ever tried to pack a train?

Upon arriving, we were assailed by natives begging to carry our eight pieces of assorted luggage. However, since my brother is an octopus, we little needed their help.

As evening drew near we arranged for lodgings in the picturesque Casa de las Mujeres con la Lengua Larga, situated in a colorful, damp gulley overlooking an acacia blossom-covered sewage disposal plant.

After a tasty native dinner of jabon con hueves, we separated—my brother, the octopus, going to the gaming room to try his hands at roulette, bingo, oldmaid, and pinochle. This is rather difficult unless you are an octopus.

Left alone, I decided to catch up on my counterfeiting. Hardly had I finished one stack of "eights" when I heard a great roar from the gaming rooms.

I rushed from my room, slid down the bannister, and dashed into the gaming room, where, to my dismay, I saw my brother, who is an octopus, standing on the bar wildly waving three bartenders and two policemen about. This is easy if you're an octopus.

I picked up a herring which was lying on the umbrella stand and rushed to the aid of my beloved eight-handed brother.

We fought vallantly, my brother, who is an octopus, and I, but we were outnumbered and were soon packed off to the local bastille.

In our cell, dear brother explained it all; he had been playing four poker games at once and was doing poorly in all four. Pressed for cash, he tried to pass one of my "eights." Unfortunately, a tourist spotted it as false and he was trapped.

"False," I queried, "impossible, they're perfect, even to the three color picture of Yvonne De Carlo."

Sadly waving three of his hands while trying to pick the lock with two others, my brother, who is an octopus, replied, "Fool! Yvonne doesn't have a moustache."

So now I sit in my cell and gaze over the tent tops of San Bruno.

Hurley Village Ably Run By Student Allan Maxwell

By Dave Hansen

Industrial Arts major Allan Maxwell, in his fifth semester at City College, is the blonde, able manager of Hurley Village.

Taking over 78 apartment units last June from former manager Bill Thomas added considerably to Maxwell's work day—he thought.

Added construction has now increased village units to 218, which the 25 year old manager leases and vacates to families totaling more than 550 people, of whom some 75 are children.

Maxwell is a resident manager, living among other student veteran families with Mrs. Maxwell, son Allan Jr. (4 years), and daughter Judith (5½ years).

The 155 pound manager expects to attend San Jose State College upon completing his course at City College; ultimately Maxwell will teach Industrial Arts.

Teaching will not be new to Maxwell; he once instructed in a Navy School in Washington, D.C. He has six years in the Regular Navy, and was a Chief Firecontrolman aboard the battlewagon Pennsylvania.

"I like my job as resident manager," Maxwell said. "The neighborly atmosphere is conducive to studying. Why, on nights before tests you can see lights burning until 3 o'clock in the morning. No one is 'playing around' here."

At this point, Mrs. Maxwell, who, like her husband, hails from Toledo, chimed in. She, too, likes the neighborliness of the Village, and is behind The Guardsman-Vagabond King playground drive all the way.

"Automobile drivers, both students and others, simply must stop speeding through the streets of Hurley Village," she said. "Those who speed down Marston and Judson Avenues are endangering the children's lives."

Library Stocks Run To Recipes, Mauldin

The college library, in addition to material for tests and term papers, has on its shelves numerous books and manuscripts on all subjects.

For a sample, check the following, recently added to the shelves:

Back Home (Bill Mauldin). The famed ex-G.I. humorist of "Stars and Stripes" gripes about civilian life.

William A. White's America (Walter Johnson). A sterling biography about one of America's most colorful and immortal editor-journalists.

The 60 Minute Chef (Carol Truax). Attention, Hurley Villagers! Time saving meals. Every morsel DELICIOUS.

• Alpha Lamba Chi: A joint meeting was held with Beta Phi Beta at the Lake Merced Club House.

• Gamma Phi Ypsilon: Athletic Chairman Nick Miller announced that the bowling tournament is now in its second week. Pledgemaster Jim Davis stated that Hell Week will begin Monday, May 24.

• Masonic Club: A dinner dance will be held Friday, June 11, at the Club Lido. All members who wish to attend are urged to inform Lelland Peck or Inez Albert as soon as possible to enable them to make reservations.

• Newman Club: Members to be in charge of a booth for the forthcoming Mardi Gras include Jack Miy, Corrinne Lambert and Frances McCarthy. The University of California Newman Club has requested the Newman Club on this campus to plan the location for their joint dance to be held early next semester.

• Zeta Chi: The pledge dinner dance will be held at the New Mission Inn tomorrow evening. All members and their dates will spend a day at Adobe Creek Lodge Sunday, May 23.

• Kappa Phi: Plans are being discussed for a booth for the Mardi Gras.

• Hotel & Restaurant Management Society: The annual spring dance for the members and alumni of the society will take place at the Orinda Country Club on Thursday, June 10, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be purchased from the officers of the organization.

• Tau Chi Sigma: A picnic will be held with Delta Psi Sunday, May 23. "Chick" Horribin, Frank Patterson, "Al" Shelmerdine, and Money Hickman are making the arrangements.

• Beta Geta Gi: Six members were dropped to the inactive lists at the last meeting. These six were found to be hoarding eligible bachelors.

Letters to the Editor

● AWS Out-huckstered

Editor, The Guardsman:

Not long ago the Associated Women Students were refused permission to have an orchestra play at a tea on the grounds that it would disturb the students studying in the library next door. Today the American Tobacco Company was allowed to present a raucous advertisement of Lucky Strikes — completely preventing any study in the library. Why does our dean, Mr. Sandys, refuse a legitimate student-body function the same privilege he grants to a tobacco commercial?

Rams Drop Two Games To Santa Rosa Batmen

By Art Paymiller

DOYLE PARK, Santa Rosa, May 19—Santa Rosa Junior College cemented their hold on second place in the Coast Division of the NCJCC as they put the finishing touches of defeat on a dismal Ram diamond season by handing them 4-0 and 5-3 setbacks here yesterday.

The losses extended the Ram string to five straight, and gave them a final record of six and six for the season.

Both tilts were marred by poor officiating by partisan hometown umpires, but it was only in the second game that the inability of the men in blue caused any great damage.

Slender Paul Nederman started on the mound in the seven inning opener, and big Hal Flinn tried to halt the Cubs in the nine inning nightcap, but again as in previous games, it was unearned runs that proved the difference.

The Cubs garnered only two legitimate tallies off Nederman's offerings, which was more than enough to win, while Flinn was reached for three earned scores.

Several times during the night the visitors had opportunities to score, but the hometown Cubs managed to pull through unscathed.

In the fifth frame of the opener, the Rams loaded the burlaps with one away, but hurler Leo Sullivan got Emmett Lynch on strikes and Nick Cannuli on a pop to second base. Again in the sixth the Rams came close when Nederman sent a screaming line drive sailing in the general direction of San Francisco with two mates on base, but a great running catch by Jack O'Sullivan made it just another out.

Cub hurler John Fitzgerald limited the losers to three hits in the nightcap while fanning 13 and walking six.

Klemmer Calls For Informal Grid Signup

Football mentor Grover Klemmer announced today that an informal football signup will be held Wednesday, May 26, in Room 107 in the gymnasium at 3 p.m.

The signup is designed to acquaint Klemmer with the boys who plan on turning out for the gridiron sport come this fall.

Because spring practice is illegal in the NCJCC, Klemmer added that no practice sessions will be possible until the fall, but the local chief feels that this would be the ideal time to get the boys together.

Klemmer plans on giving the signees a little information on the exact date for the opening of practice.

Net, Track, Golf Teams Invade Modesto To Complete In All-Conference Clashes

Rams May Place Five In Tourneys

By Roy Pasini

MODESTO, Calif., May 21— Five determined netters and one hopeful coach arrived here this morning from San Francisco ready to take on the best the NCJCC has to offer in the way of racketeers.

Immediately upon arriving in this sun-baked hamlet, the City Collegers took to the local courts and began to loosen up the kinks developed by the long drive southward.

Looking in the best of shape, the Rams are out to pull a few upsets and have hopes of sneaking a few of their boys into the winners' circle.

The tourney, which gets under way today and runs until Sunday afternoon, is designed to find the best racquet swinger in each singles bracket and is purely an individual, not a squad, effort.

Not having too good a line on the Rams' opponents, we drew Captain Bill Covall aside and pumped the following predictions out of him:

Jake Pegged Fourth

In the battle between the number one men, Covall has Ed Jacobsen tagged for no better than fourth behind the really tough combo of Wally Bostick of Modesto, Frank Sample of San Mateo, and Menlo's Bob Kohler.

Another fourth spot goes to Fred Rodgers in the quest for the best number two netter. Final results should find Rodgers ranked behind winner Wayne Kellog of Modesto, Matean Ken Sorenson, and Bill Anderson of Menlo.

Sock May Show

About here the Rams should begin to advance with hard driving Bob Sockolov copping a third, trailing Modesto's hard to beat Jim Brooks and Mike Shaw of San Mateo.

Another third may creep into the SF basket in the fourth tussle which looks like Modestan Mike Vosti on top, followed by Ken Vickery of San Mateo, with Covall in the next spot.

In the fifth spot the boys from Ramland are counting on Frank Reed to cop a second behind Bob Brokop.

From the looks of this pre-tourney dope, it seems as though Modesto and San Mateo will need a few empty trophy cases soon. Wonder what those boys had for breakfast?

But don't worry, the hometowners didn't come all the way just for the ride.

NCJCC Golf Tourney Starts This Afternoon

MODESTO, Calif., May 21—Confident that their ace Bill King will go far in the NCJCC golf tourney, which gets under way here this afternoon, the City College of San Francisco linksmen reached here this morning prepared to start swinging in this two day affair.

King, who has led the Rams all season in fine style, will carry the main threat for the invaders but will receive ample support from teammates Bob and Don Payne, Bob Padgett, and Joe Durand.

Toughest competition for the San Franciscans will be in the form of the resident Modestans and the Sacramento College squad.

Track Squad Sharp For Modesto Relay

Hoping to reach slightly better than the seventh place effort accomplished at Fresno last Saturday, Coach Jim Jensen and a band of 26 of City College's finest track performers depart for Modesto tomorrow where they will compete in the Modesto relays.

Although the meet is essentially a relay event, Jensen is taking along a group of jumpers and weight men also. The original relay quartet of Zarick, Mills, Wyatt, and Moore will be augmented somewhat with impromptu selections, depending upon the need.

This meet, coupled with the P.A.A. get-together June 5, winds up the 1948 track schedule, and Coach Jensen and his crew hope to bring home plenty of medals in both.

Durand Shoots Par 71

Serving notice that they will be very much in the running at Modesto this afternoon, the Ram linksmen swamped San Mateo 22-5 on the Crystal Springs greens last Friday.

Ram Joe Durand turned in a par 71 round to lead the locals.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

FINALLY becoming sensible and dropping the old A and B divisions, the junior college representatives divided the colleges into North and South leagues recently in a closed meeting of the NCJC Conference.

The new division system will go into effect with the start of basketball next semester. Football will be played in the old divisions since the schedule has already been drawn for the grid sport.

Before the new plan was originated the officials had drawn up an obsolete system.

In basketball the Rams would meet teams they wouldn't play in football or baseball, which is an odd way to conduct a junior college conference schedule.

The Rams are now in the Southern division with San Mateo, Menlo, Stockton, Modesto, Monterey Peninsula, and Hartnell, which was formerly known as Salinas Junior College.

Monterey Peninsula is a new two-year college which plans to compete in the conference with the opening of football next semester.

Representing the North are Santa Rosa, Sacramento, Vallejo, Napa, Marin, Placer, Yuba, and Grant.

A championship playoff between the two sections will decide the conference champion at the end of each season.

This new plan may open the way for a bigger and better junior college conference in Northern California.

Play In Intramural Touch Football To Start Next Monday

Play in intramural touch football will start Monday at 3:15 p.m. on the practice football field, mentor Tom Wilson said Wednesday.

The grid schedule is now on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

Wilson also said that the intramural touch football games will be played on an elimination basis.

About twelve teams have entered applications in the grid competition.

The Peanut Gridders head the football list and they are paced by former Lowell High star, Vic Torres. A few of the other promising teams are the Balboa Blues, the Buccaneers, C. C. Red Hots, Question Marks, Tri-Epsilon, and The Boys.

Games will be played Monday through Thursday at 3:15 and 4:15 p.m. on the college's practice football field. Wilson urged all teams to be on time.

WAA To Hold Election For Fall Officers

Election of Women's Athletic Association officers for next semester will be held May 24, 25, and 26, in the women's gymnasium, according to Barbara Combs, present WAA president.

Nominees for president are Joan Rueker and Shirley Austin; vice-president, Jean Sliter, Ernestine Credic and Sumi Haramaki; secretary, Coleen Gent and Shirley Howard; treasurer, Corla May Bentley and Trudy Wulff.

AFTER a half-the-night session, the Student League steering group voted on the potential candidates up for Associated Student president, and with organizations of the League voting along with independent parties, they finally decided on Jack Hagan, presently a Student Council member, who belongs to Le Circle Francais, an affiliate of the Student League.

Hagan's running mate for vice-president is an independent, Del Rainer, who sings with the gal's chorus in The Vagabond King.

Jack Hurley, Student League minority leader in the present council, received an overwhelming vote of confidence, and again will run for a Student Council post. Incumbent Kurt Levi and Student Band Manager Walt McRae are also nominees for council positions.

FERGUSON FRAT CHOICE

Pete Isola, Pi Mu Gamma president, has his hat in the ring for Associated Men Student presidency.

A listing of the other candidates, as we go to press, is at present unavailable.

Amid guises of secrecy, filling out of supposedly misleading petitions, and general hokum-pokum, Frank Ferguson, student council and Tri-Epsilon fraternity member, is the frats' choice for Associated Student president.

Ferguson's vice-presidential candidate as yet has not been revealed. Hard working and conscientious George Capanis, Student Council incumbent, will try to recapture his position for the fall Student Council.

POLITICAL CLARIFICATION

Likewise a complete slate of candidates on the Fraternity ticket has not yet been disclosed.

For some clarification on the Fraternity ticket, it means the political grouping of the Frats and Sororities on the campus. Further, such terminology as Fraternity Bloc is the political potential of the Pan Hellenic faction. We are not discussing here what Fraternities and Sororities do in other things, but merely what they do as a political force.

WHO WILL WIN?

It will be an interesting battle for student offices this year, because of its universal interest. A rhetorical question in this campaign might be, "Can the Fraternity Bloc, which is in the definite minority, again assume control of student government, which it has been doing pretty steadily for more than ten years?"

This is the best opportunity since the college was built for the non-represented students to have a fair voice in campus government.

Returning Students Urged To See Adviser

Announcing that students planning to return to the college next fall or the coming summer session and continue with their present major should see their faculty advisers and set up their class schedules. Grant Marsh, head counsellor, said last Tuesday that students planning to change their major should inform him before the end of the semester.

This will simplify registration next semester for the student, and will speed up the process for the faculty, Marsh believes.

Amori Emphasizes Engineering Field Not Crowded

Putting the "skids" to the well circulated rumor that the engineering field is highly overcrowded, Joseph A. Amori, placement director, announced yesterday that all students in structural and architectural drafting graduating in June have been assured employment.

Placing of these graduating students was achieved by the united action of William Mayo, chairman of the engineering department, George Hutchinson, field director of the engineering department, and Amori.

Salaries for the prospective positions range from $225 to $300 per month.

Youth Broadcast To Feature Glee Club

The initial debut of the Men's Glee Club under the direction of Harold Cunningham, will be presented Wednesday, May 26, at 8:30 p.m. over station KSFO.

The program with which the Men's Glee Club will appear, Building For Youth, will be one of a series of programs to be aired over the station.

The purpose of these programs is to acquaint the public with the accomplishments of the youth of today.

Student Acted Movie Shows Man-Ape Change

A movie, acted and directed by students of the college, is planned for presentation during the two weeks before commencement, according to Dave Bowen, production manager of the flicker scheme.

The show, whose plot was written by Bowen, hasn't a name yet. However, it is a fantasy story. All scenes will be filmed outdoors for the primitive forest setting where the action takes place, Bowen said.

The fantasy is about the changing of a man into an ape. The action starts with a hunter whose brain is partially crushed in a woods accident. An available physician, working to save the man's life by fire-light and the crudest instruments, managed to transplant a portion of an ape's brain to the hunter.

Though his life had been saved, the hunter soon discovered a worse fate. Gradually the man's features change to that of the ape. "Then things begin to happen," Bowen emphasized.

Noted Doctor To Give Talk On Tuberculosis

A lecture on tuberculosis control in San Francisco, sponsored by Pi Mu Gamma, will be given Wednesday, May 26, at 7:30, in Room 204, Brian McDonnell stated.

The lecturer is Dr. Martin J. Seid of the Tuberculosis Control Association of San Francisco.

Faculty and students are invited to attend.

Forum Magazine In Final Stage

With all contributions in, and the selection of the best 35 out of the 150 made by the editorial board, Forum Magazine has gone to press, Marvin Silverman declared today.

"It has taken more than two weeks to make the selections, and we feel that this issue will be the best ever," Silverman explained.

The advance selling of tickets for the magazine, and the marvelous support by the staff, helped everything to work out according to schedule, Silverman said.

Tickets are still on sale at the student bank in the main building for 35 cents, and the magazine will also be sold by campus salesmen when it comes out next month.

The purpose of Forum Magazine is to present students with a channel by which they may exhibit their literary and artistic skills.

West Portal Library Has Ceramic Exhibit

Bookworms frequenting the West Portal Library have a little diversion for their philosophical minds since the college ceramics exhibit came on display Friday, May 14, according to Roy Walker, ceramics instructor.

This two-week exhibition offers approximately 20 various masterpieces produced by the ceramics students, which include gaily-designed plates and several pieces of pottery.

College To Offer 3 New Languages

Three new language courses will be offered in the coming fall semester, according to Thomas Gabbert, head of the language department.

Elective courses, French 11, and Spanish 11, called Conversation French, and Conversation Spanish will consist of practical conversation directed toward a greater fluency in the language, Gabbert said. A prerequisite of one semester in the language is required.

Also to be offered this fall semester is French 29a-29b, French literature in translation consisting of lectures and outside reading with no knowledge of French required.

45 Compete For Associated Student Offices

Ferguson And Hagan Ready For Presidential Campaign

Forty-five candidates for the soon to be vacated offices of the Associated Student organization have filed their petitions with the election committee, according to an announcement by Robert Judd, election committee chairman.

Vying for the presidency of the Associated Students are Frank Ferguson, Fraternity choice, and Jack Hagan, Student League candidate.

Beatrice Groger, backed by the sororities, faces Del Rainer, Student League candidate for the vice-president's office.

Associated Men Student president aspirants are Pete Isola, representing the Student League, and Robert Selby, backed by the Fraternities, while Helen Rich, Student League candidate, tangles with Marilee Zimmerman, Sorority candidate, for the job of Associated Women Student president.

Freshman president candidates are Money Hickman, candidate for the Fraternities, and Walter Wiseman; Sophomore president aspirants are Dick Fotherstonnaugh, Fraternity, and Sviatoslav G. Yasinitsky.

Freshman council runners are James Coffman, Robert Jennings, Jack Jones, John Kearns, William Lanam, Morris Redsun, Herschel Rittler, Edward Toner, Palmer Cramer, Joseph Flynn, Anne Haaland, Katherine Kehriotes, Inge Menders and Alice Tatam.

Judd said that the candidates for the various offices will be presented at an informal rally during the college hour this Friday, May 28. The candidates will be introduced and will state their platforms.

Elections are scheduled Thursday and Friday, June 3 and 4, in the student lounge, and ballot boxes rather than voting machines will be used.

Ballots will be tallied by IBM machines.

Opera Production Hits High Mark

By Hank Twelth

The Vagabond King closed at the west campus auditorium last Saturday night, acclaimed by the throngs who witnessed it as the most overwhelming success ever attained at City College.

The Friml light opera, easily the most ambitious enterprise ever attempted here, saw the combined artistic efforts of the music and drama departments and the student body and faculty contributing co-operatively in solving the thousands of details involved in a production of such great magnitude.

Meanwhile, construction plans for Hurley Playground continued steamrolling along this week, pending a definite report of the proceeds from The Vagabond King.

At a meeting of the planning committee held May 19, Allan Maxwell, chairman of the voluntary group, submitted a list of student-veteran residents of Hurley Village willing to devote their time and efforts in a pick and shovel capacity to make the play area a reality.

Members of the working force include the following: Eugene Hamlin, Ernest Goldman, Albert Floyd, and Darrel Pischke. Maxwell emphasized that this list will increase ten-fold when the financial status of the playground becomes more certain.

At the same time, Maxwell also submitted a definite list of the equipment needed at the playground.

These pieces consist of four cradle type swings, two larger swings, a six foot slide, and two sand boxes. This is in addition to the equipment already there; a jungle gym and climbing bars.

Playground construction is tentatively slated to get under way within the next several weeks.

HERE COMES THE CITY COLLEGE BAND in the "old" look—rooter caps, white shirts, and tan pants. Next Fall this picture will be a "remember when" affair when they strut down the gridiron decked out in filigreed crimson with a military look—they hope.

King Ticket Returns Exceed $2000 Mark

An unofficial ticket sales check late Saturday afternoon showed a total intake of $2091.50, according to a statement by Maurice Power, faculty ticket chairman.

Power pointed out that the total money taken in should exceed $2200 in that there is one more performance to go. (Editor's note: The Saturday night performance was nearly a complete sellout.)

Insufficient Funds Delay Band Project

Walt McRae, student band manager, disclosed today that complete band uniforms in time for football season this fall are far from a certainty.

The total cost of the uniforms, McRae said, will come to roughly $2500, and thus far only the $1500 earmarked by the Student Council several weeks ago will go toward the purchase.

"All the band members are with me," quoted McRae, "when I say the last thing we would want to do would be to appear in the piecemeal uniform now on order."

The total amount must be voted on and approved by the end of this semester to insure the uniforms by fall, he continued, or the band will wait another year before the long talked of outfit becomes fact.

Rally Friday Spurs Election Campaigns

Campaigning for Associated Student election swings into high gear this week.

Propellor of the week of intensified campaigning will be two rallies, one scheduled for Thursday night, at 8:15 o'clock, in back of the main building, and the other for Friday during college hour, in the west campus auditorium.

The rally Friday during college hour will be utilized for the purpose of presenting election candidates to the students and is being planned and directed by Sam Goldman, so appointed by Assistant Dean John J. Brady.

All election candidates, Goldman stated, must report to the auditorium 15 minutes prior to the commencement of the college hour rally.

The Thursday night rally, according to John Pifer, rally commissioner, will include the following entertainers: Gene Frugoli, monologist; Larry Webett, pianist; Hewit Kendall, magician; college quartet, and the college band. A dance will immediately follow the rally, Pifer said.

Forum Will Be Ready For Readers June 7

Predicting one of the outstanding issues of college history, Marvin Silverman, Forum editor, revealed yesterday that a few of the 35 cent presale tickets for the magazine are available at the college bank.

The magazine, containing a cross section of the literary efforts of City College students, will be distributed on Monday, June 7.

Those not having the pre-sale tickets may purchase Forum directly from student salesmen on the abovementioned date, Silverman concluded.

Finalists In Soph Royalty Contest Start Race June 4

Approximately 25 contestants are in the race for the queen title, according to sophomore president, Bill Riley, and sophomore week chairman, Jim Fernhoff, and the results of the six semi-finalist selections from the group of candidates will be known today.

Campaigning for the queen semi-finalists may be started on Friday afternoon, June 4, as soon as Associated Student elections are over, Riley said, and the six semi-finalists will be notified before this date so that organization and independent club sponsors may prepare posters before this date.

Fernhoff explained that candidates running for the king-queen crown will be limited to five campaign posters on the campus and five in establishments off the campus.

The king and queen to reign will be decided when the associated students go to the polls to cast their vote on June 9 and 10, and the royalty set will be announced and crowned at the Coronation Ball at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium Saturday, June 12, Fernhoff added.

Program For Listening Hour Made By Requests

A new method concerning selections to be played during the Listening Hour has been put into effect by Gertrude Norgard, of the college music department.

Mrs. Norgard, who until recently has made the selection for the class, discovered upon asking for requests that the student taste was very good and leaned toward symphonies and overtures, and such composers as Richard Strauss and Tschaikowsky.

Programs for the remainder of the semester will be made up of student requests. Student visitors to the class who have selections they wish to hear are urged to inform Mrs. Norgard in her office in the main building.

Plan Designates 4 Million For Campus Enlargement Here

Fate of the 87 million dollar bond issue will be determined by the voting students of the college and the citizens of San Francisco when they go to the polls Tuesday, June 1.

Of the 87 million dollar issue, approximately four million dollars has been designated for the completion and improvement of City College. The votes of the public will be the deciding factor!

With the approval of the proposed four million issue, San Francisco can continue its building program for City College.

As stated by President A. J. Cloud, "wholehearted support will be needed by all for the approval of the issue."

Students who will be unable to get to the city hall or vote on June 1 may vote in the registrar's office by absentee voter's ballot on any day up to and including the previous Friday of elections, May 28.

Citizen voters of San Francisco who will not be in the city on the day of elections are asked to get down to the City Hall and vote early in order to give the issue its deserved support.

Locker Lock-Outs Due To Student Misuse

Students who have been unable to work their locker combinations should see O. E. Anderson at the student bank.

Combinations have been changed because excessive writing has been found on the outside of the locker. These lockers will be forfeited and will be given to other students.

AGS Roll Hits Peak

Membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's honorary scholastic society, has reached its full possibilities by attainment of 105 members for the semester, Edwin C. Cranston, faculty adviser, announced today.

Kezar Guarantees Use For 2 Gridiron Duels

By Jack Hulse

Football season, now looming on college horizons, is off to a big-time start here with the use of Kezar Stadium guaranteed for two City College gridiron clashes this coming Fall, the first with San Mateo Junior College, slated for October 22, the second with East Los Angeles Junior College, set for October 29, according to athletic department officials.

This will be the first time in City College's history that local gridmen have had the use of the stadium twice in the same semester.

Credit for winning the stadium as a battleground for this college's warriors was given to Jack Gaddy, physical education department head, and Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, who successfully applied for Park Commission approval through Joe Hickey, manager of Kezar Stadium.

Meanwhile, Coach Grover Klemmer, when quizzed as to the condition of his returning lettermen, told reporters, "With the acute shortage of returning lettermen, it seems that we'll have to start virtually from scratch. We are pleased, however, at the opportunity to mold a winning team from comparatively new men."

With practice sessions starting September 6, Klemmer released the football schedule for Fall 1948 which follows:

GAMES HERE:
Sept. 24, Monterey.
Oct. 22, San Mateo.
Oct. 29, East L. A.
Nov. 19, Stockton.
GAMES THERE:
Oct. 2, Vallejo.
Oct. 8, Sacramento.
Oct. 16, Marin.
Nov. 6, Los Angeles.
Nov. 11, Salinas.
Nov. 26, Modesto.

The practice schedule for the first week of September has been posted on the walls, offices, and bulletin boards of the men's gymnasium.

Let The Cliches Fall Where They May, It's That Time Of The Year

NEAR the end of each semester—twice a year—as regular as rain in April, a task befalls some unfortunate on the staff of this paper.

He's called upon to bat out 28 typewritten lines of the old "Yay team, rah rah!" type of editorial exhorting one and all in the college to fall out and vote in the coming election.

This hack, as the professionals call a newsman, has the privilege of running amok in the cliche files; that is, to dig out all the routine, stock phrases laying bare the evils that will beset our democratic system if one and all fail to get out and vote.

"Democracy in action;" "our precious heritage;" "preserve our freedoms;" and so on, far into time and space.

Our hero, the hack, is usually the same guy who creates the stirring semester-long pleas on the editorial page entitled, for instance: "The Gardener Should Not Leave the Water Running All Night on the Lawns," or, "Throw Your Lunch in the Garbage Can, Not on the Soph Walk."

He can't take sides in the elections, not that he ever wants to; his job is merely to tell politely the general run of students that they are a bunch of eightballs if they don't run to the polls and name their choice, whether it be for campus queen or Associated Student president.

So he searches the back issues of the paper, selects a few of the flag-wavingest editorials, rehashes them and comes up with what he considers a masterpiece in prose that will have 'em banging down the doors of the polling place.

What happens? They (the students) stay away by the thousands as usual, and, out of a possible 3500 votes, maybe 400 stalwarts wander over to cast a ballot and then for the first names on the list.

What we're really getting at, if you've read this far, is a unique way of saying the inevitable, as is our solemn duty. Thus we plaintively plead, "Please, people—go over to the lounge and vote June 3 and 4—willya?"

News To Nobody . . .

FOR SERVICES RENDERED: (This place is turning into a "service" station!) A Ram dipt and redipt in chocolate for a period of twenty-four hours to cutish, tanned, artisticish DEL RAINER, who, in rehearsals of The VAGABOND KING, sparked the chorus with her energetic acting in scenes involving Old City College's strong choir.

(COMMENT): It's Old Nobody's sad duty, yet again, to report that this young lady is not a member of local so-rarities. (Well toss away my deck of cards and throw me out of the student store!!!!!!)

STRAIGHT DOPE FROM THE GOLDEN THROAT DEPT.: Youngish, clean-cut BOB SHERRATT put his heart into the role of Francois Villon in The Vagabond King and acted like a certified he-man in rehearsals. BUT, he didn't know his own strength—when kissing sweet-voiced CAROLYN HERFELD (as per script) he was so manly that Miss Herfeld tottered and almost fell to the stage (NOT as per script!)

MORE VAG KING: Seeing the dueling in our late, lamented light opera sent many of Old City College's students back to the days when they caught the serials every Saturday at the local movie palace. The "Oh's" and "Ah's" that came from our American throats as the boys did their best to kill each other attested to the fine teaching job BETTY HECKMAN did on our swordsmen.

THEY'RE GOING LIKE FLIES AT OLD CITY COLLEGE: Latest staff member of the My Gawds-man to hit the rocky road of romance and marriage is a young, blondish fellow name of Hank Twelth. We borrow an orchid from rival newsman Walter Winchell to present to Hankus and Louise (not a local girl!) who are rounding out a full week of wedlock!!!!

(COMMENT): WE would describe the young newshawk's lovely wife to you, but this isn't the Police Gazette, unfortunately.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Sorry Hank, that Nobody is such a wise guy; as a matter of fact we've been trying to send him to the Police Gazette for FOUR semesters!!!)

(NOBODY'S NOTE: Why should Nobody leave? He's found a home here!)

REMEBER, WE WERE FORUM, NOT AGAINST DEPT.: Our wise bird just flew down from the FORUM and says it's on the presses. Buy it, try it, like it.

Challenge To Tri-Epsilon Casabans

Letters To The Editor

● Challenge

Editor, The Guardsman:

Enclosed please find a letter which was sent to Mr. George Capanis, president of the Tri Epsilons, with the purpose of challenging his fraternity's claim to some kind of inter-fraternity basketball championship in which only four teams participated even though there exist eight fraternal organizations on the campus.

We would appreciate very much your printing the aforementioned letter in your publication.

Thanking you in advance, we remain,

Sincerely yours,
Allan H. Maxwell,
President, Alpha Chapter
Gamma Phi Ypsilon
Don E. Hinkel,
President, Gamma Chapter

● Another Challenge

Mr. George Capanis
President, Epsilon Epsilon Epsilon
City College of San Francisco
Dear Sir:

It is our understanding that a basketball team representing your Fraternity, has won some sort of inter-fraternity championship, in which participated only half of the fraternal organizations in the college; that championship title implies that your team has defeated all other fraternity teams, but the facts are to the contrary.

Therefore, we challenge such claim by inviting your fraternity to send some representatives to meet us for the purpose of arranging a tournament which would make the winning team a truer inter-fraternity champion.

This invitation shall be extended to Alpha Sigma Delta and Phi Beta Delta if you should agree.

Our Coordinating Committee met on Friday, May 21, 6:30 p.m., at 168 Santa Ynez Avenue, San Francisco. We sincerely hope that you will meet this challenge in the best fraternal spirit.

Fraternally yours,
Don E. Hinkel,
President, Gamma Chapter

Ad Major Dryden's Job Is Distribution Of Paper

By Dave Hansen

Readers of this story are doing so because they have received their Guardsman through the efforts of interviewee Bob Dryden, Guardsman circulation manager and 20-year-old business and advertising major. He is a former Marine, and plans to go on to Hastings Law School following completion of his study at City College.

His job on The Guardsman is to organize and manage teams to distribute the newspaper to student subscribers. As many copies of the paper are distributed as there are holders of Associated Student cards.

A native of Chanute, Kansas, he has been a San Francisean for the past ten years. Dryden is a graduate of Lowell High School, after previously attending St. Ignatius.

Phi Beta Delta fraternity member Dryden likes City College the is in his fourth semester), but thinks "There is not much school spirit in the college as yet."

Dryden is 6 feet tall, has brown hair, blue eyes, and weighs 170 pounds.

In respect to his job, which is one of real service and little reward, Dryden is meticulous and dependable.

In addition to campus circulation, he personally folds, wraps, stamps and mails the 110 copies or so destined for advertisers, other colleges in California, high schools in San Francisco, and school officials in the city, and former Guardsman editors who receive the copies as courtesy. A sticklish task indeed.

"I think that the name change is the best thing that could have happened to the college," Dryden said when interviewed. "I feel that the new name will command more respect. 'City College' sounds good; it should help add to school spirit, and recruit new and greater numbers of students.

"And with 'more students,' he summed up slyly, "we are bound to have more circulation."

MAN WITH THE PASTE, stamps, and list, Bob Dryden, Guardsmen circulation manager, serves City College in the important, routine test of distribution.

Putty In Your Hands Is Aim Of Ceramics

By Jim Baker

The creation of beautiful forms from shapeless clay takes place each day at the ceramics workshop on City College's campus.

The creative process is the first purpose of ceramics but clay modeling also helps mental and physical rehabilitation.

Predental courses include ceramics for developing muscular co-ordination and finer dentifrices. Industrial and graphic art students work in clay for three dimensional understanding, while many students choose pottery as a hobby.

Roy Walker, ceramics instructor, states that ceramics interests all ages within the student body from 16 to 60; students of all ages work side by side, often clay covers them in vulnerable places as they formulate fine objects for use in the home.

Lure Of Grades Fails To Help Prof. Team, Varsity Wins 4-3

By Roy Pasini

Playing almost winning ball, the faculty netters managed to eke out a 3-4 loss at the hands of the varsity netmen at Golden Gate Park last Wednesday afternoon, thereby keeping their winless record intact at two straight setbacks.

The profs, led by nationally ranked Harry Buttlmer of the math dept., turned in a blistering afternoon of tennis (take a look at their feet if you don't believe it) to give the varsity a few bad moments.

Buttlmer, looking like a champ all the way, literally tore Ed Jacobson apart as he took a love match, 6-0, 6-0, with no display of passion whatsoever on handsome Harry's part. (We hear Jake is now a math major.)

Boxer Roy Diederichsen, a dark horse up till now, revealed some of his hidden talent as he used a typical Jack Kramer (national champ) forehand to outlast hustling Fred Rodgers in a torrid three set scramble which had the crowd on the edge of their seats right down to the final stroke.

Bob Sockolov took calculating Wilbur McKenzie into camp, 6-4, 6-4, to start the collegers on their winning ways.

Mike Monaco fell again before the strokes of Bill Covall by a 6-2, 6-2 count. The effort was an identical repeat of last year's tussle between the two rivals.

SOPHS CHALLENGE PROFS

The rumor is current that in an attempt to retaliate for a 16-15 loss in '43, the Sophomore Class has issued a challenge to the faculty for a return softball contest to be staged Friday, June 11.

In the final singles affair of the day, Frank Reed stopped diminutive Ralph Hillsman of the PE dept. 6-3, 7-5. Hillsman would be quite a racketeer in the tennis world if he would apply his talents seriously.

The doubles matches were really good for chuckles. With Buttlmer and Diederichsen playing as one they easily clipped the wings of the previously high flying Sockolov and Jacobsen.

In the final tussle of the day the profs used three racquet busters but all in vain as Covall and Reed took the rubber match, 6-1, 6-3, 0-6, 6-0 in a three out of five battle.

Fast-Stepping Ram Trackmen Prepare For PAA Meet In Season's Finale At Berkeley

With one more meet left on the calendar, the Pacific Athletic Association Meet at Berkeley, Jim Jensen's harriers can look back on a season which turned out to be one of the best in Ram cinder history.

Although dropping the big 'un of the conference to Stockton by a skimpy ten digits, the Rams more than held their own by setting up two conference records in the relay and two-mile.

Owen Moore, and Captain Jim Wyatt (pictured at left), both set new college marks in the 440 and 880 with times of 49:9 and 1:58 respectively. High-jumper Doss Sims came through with a 6:3 effort to add his name to the best of Ram jumpers down through the years.

Dance Demonstration Planned Thursday

Corla Bentley, dance president, and Barbara Anderson will present an exhibition number in a dance demonstration scheduled Thursday at 1 o'clock in the women's gymnasium, Nancy Sparks, instructor, said today.

Members of Laurine Bergin's folk dancing classes and modern dance classes will participate, offering four and six numbers respectively.

Folk dancers in The Vagabond King were from these groups.

Intra Softball Entries Are Due Now In Men's Gym

Softball applications are now being accepted in the men's gymnasium by intramural mentor, Tom Wilson.

Wilson said yesterday that the limit for the softball squads will be ten players, and that games will be played on the practice football field daily after the football schedule has been completed.

No definite entry deadline has been established by Wilson, but all applications should be turned in as soon as possible.

A list of touch football rules has been put on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

All competing players should take a look at these rules before playing in a game, Wilson told entrants Friday.

The most important rule concerns a tie in an intramural touch football game. If two teams are tied at the end of the game, an overtime of ten minutes, without punting, will be played. If a score cannot be made the team driving the deepest into its opponent's territory will gain the victory.

Wilson also urged team players to glance at the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium for a more detailed explanation on the 23 grid rules.

Volleyball is still being played daily Monday through Thursday in the men's gymnasium, and the finals in intramural ping pong and tennis will be played some time this week.

Rams Try For Olympics

Ram boxers Roy Damas, John Fisher, Carl Hoyos, Jim Wilson, and Leu Garcia are working out daily in the men's gymnasium in preparation for the Olympic tryouts next week in Sacramento. Giving the pugilists advice is the college's boxing coach, Roy Diedrichsen.

San Mateo Nears NCJCC Baseball Crown; Zane Kaplan Tops List Of Ram Sluggers With Pitcher Nederman Close Second

By virtue of their twin-bill win from San Francisco last Tuesday, the Santa Rosa Junior College nine retains a slight chance to capture Coast Division honors in the NCJCC, although San Mateo clinched a tie for the top spot by their 8-0 victory over Marin last Wednesday.

A win for the Bulldogs will give them championship honors in two of the three major sports for the spring semester, since they have already copped the conference tennis title.

Hard-hitting Zane Kaplan led the Ram offensive over the recently concluded season with a hot .341 average for twelve games. He was closely followed by pitcher Paul Nederman, who hit .333.

WAA Award Banquet Set For Thurs. Evening

A spring award banquet, presented annually by the Women's Athletic Association, will be held Thursday, May 27, at 6 p.m., Barbara Combs, WAA president, announced today.

The banquet will be held in the faculty room of the college cafeteria, and the fee will be $1.25 per plate, Miss Combs said.

A speaker from the United Nations Children Appeal may be present, but this has not been made definite, as yet.

Everyone, faculty and students, who is willing to pay the $1.25 is invited to attend the affair, Miss Combs said.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

CLOSING last Saturday night was the greatest production of any type this college has ever attempted and successfully carried out.

To give credit to the individuals involved in The Vagabond King would probably take this whole page, which, if space permitting, we would only be too happy to do.

Another extremely important factor is the complete cooperation of the various parts of production. The faculty and students, working in close harmony, the backstage crews, working calmly and efficiently; in other words, everyone working together for the light opera, and in the end result, making it a huge and lasting triumph.

ON THE MAP

If anything ever put this college, the City College on the map, this Vagabond King was and is the most important factor in that direction.

Flossita Badger, and Lloyd Sisler, co-directors of this masterful work in light opera field, are deserving of the highest praise. The cast and orchestra led by Meyer Cahn, under the gulding of the co-directors, were magnificent.

Sure, we use a lot of hackneyed phrases in describing the success of this production, but when a light opera executed with such precision and greatness, places City College as the musical center of the Bay Area college level, hackneyed phrases of praise are definitely in order.

The greatest compliment came at the opening night performance, when two critical music lovers exclaimed, "This presentation of The Vagabond King compares favorably if not exceeding this same production put on at the Curran Theatre. The costuming was beautiful and the music was unexcelled."

EVERYONE BENEFITS

Above the magnificence of the project, the proceeds from The Vagabond King are destined to build more unity, in other ways, by the building of a playground for the kids in Hurley Village.

In aiding the veterans' children by giving them adequate facilities the married veterans themselves are aided by feeling more and more that they are an intricate part of City College.

As a sidelight of its completeness, if the public and students demand it, The Vagabond King will be presented again this weekend. To represent a show is the greatest criterion of success.

Council Considers 'Passport' As Card

Possibilities of next semester's students being "mugged" in true passport fashion appeared Thursday when the Student Council approved a plan to include the owner's picture on future Associated Student cards.

Introduced to the council by Jack Hagan, the plan proposed that a 35 mm., 1 by 1½ inches, contact print picture of the card holder be placed in the card's upper right corner.

Photographer Jim Davis explained that production of this style card would increase previous costs by 6 cents, and that the photography department is equipped to handle the processing of the pictures.

Taking into consideration that the Associated Students might feel this type of card an insult to their honesty, the council thoroughly discussed its pros and cons before voting their consent; however, new legal problems have arisen, and rescinding action may come about today.

Additional proposal of the plan stipulates that men's and women's cards be of different color.

Short one act plays are planned Tuesday, June 1, by the drama department, Bill Culver, instructor, revealed today.

Culver said that the drama classes have been cooperating wholeheartedly with The Vagabond King production, but still have been able to plan a production of their own. Culver added that plays of comedy, tragedy, and fantasy will be included in the schedule.

Alpha Gamma Sigma Life Members To Be Honored At College Graduation, June 19

Permanent members of Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college's honorary scholastic society, will be selected within the next two weeks to graduate with honors at the Spring '48 graduation to be held Saturday, June 19, it was announced yesterday by Edwin C. Cranston, Alpha Gamma Sigma faculty adviser.

Those students who are life members of the statewide honorary scholastic society are automatically recognized as honor graduates, Cranston said.

Totaling an approximate 930 graduates, the class honor students will be chosen from the Summer '47 class, the Fall '47 class, and the Spring '48 class.

Educational Officer To Appear At College

Student veterans attending the college under the state bill will be interested to learn of the appearance at the college of the state welfare educational officer, W. A. Browning, who will counsel state-supported veterans Wednesday, June 2, it was announced yesterday by Walter E. McCloud, assistant veterans' coordinator.

Browning will appear at the veterans' affairs office in building 3 between the hours of 1 and 3 p.m., McCloud said.

Mardi Gras To Rank As Greatest Yet

More Booths Than Ever Is Claimed By AMS President

In an attempt to outdo any Mardi Gras of the past in the field of fun, frolic and frivolity, this semester's gay festival, to be held Friday, June 4, will feature booths sponsored by various campus organizations, Byrne Davis, Associated Men Student president, disclosed today.

In the past, the Mardi Gras had attractions utilizing photography, record making, food and drink, and kewpie dolls. Other festivals had the traditional silver ball, a holdover from the original Mardi Gras in France. This semester, though, this colorful feature will be sacrificed for other decorations.

Davis said that this semester will have the greatest number of booths in the history of the college's festival.

The gala affair will be held in the west campus auditorium, and the admission will be free; the last opportunity this semester for student body card-holders to use their cards.

New Plan Developed By Department Heads

Bigger and better opportunities for secretarial students are the results of a recently developed coopcrative plan between the placement bureau and the business department, Joscph A. Amori, said yesterday.

Through the medium of the new system, Amori said, students taking the two year terminal secretarial course may work part-time for their prospective employers.

Salaries range from $185 to $225.

Summer Jobs Train Restaurant Majors

Ten weeks summer work in the field is required for hotel and restaurant students, Mozelle Milliken, instructor in the department, revealed today.

To complete department graduation requirements the division people will go to various jobs in resorts, hotels, and restaurants at the end of this college semester, Mrs. Milliken said.

Some of the work to be done is illustrated by Kathleen Dolan who will be an inspector for a food concern, Bill Hailiday who will be a waiter at Shasta Springs, and Lois Knight who will be a Lake Tahoe head waitress.

Mrs. Milliken also pointed out that these students have the chance of getting this type of job permanently after graduation from the college on their experience with the companies.

A Cappella Choir To Give Club Concert

A concert will be given by the A Cappella Choir Thursday for an Optimist Club luncheon, Flossita Badger, choir director, announced.

Selections from their recent production, Vagabond King, and regular numbers from the choir will be sung.

The choir sang for the Optimists last year and a repeat performance was requested.

Returning Students Must See Counsellors

Students returning to the college for the summer session or next fall semester to continue with their present major should get in touch with their faculty advisers as soon as possible and make out their class schedules, according to Grant Marsh, counselling director.

Marsh urged that all students planning to return and change their major, should see him before the end of the semester.

Making out these programs before registration will speed up the process for both students and faculty members, and will allow time for the advisers to counsel the students on their courses.

Grads May Purchase Diploma Photostats

Graduating students desiring wallet size photostatic copies of their diplomas encased in plastic will have the opportunity to purchase them, according to a statement by sophomore president, Bill Riley.

Riley stated that students interested may make application for these photostats at the Associated Student president's office any time before Tuesday, June 1. Cost will be one dollar per copy.

Bond Issue Goes On Block June 1; Campus Elections Start Thursday

Tickets For Vag King Due 4:00 P.M. Today

Warning that all tickets not yet returned to the Vagabond King Finance Office, located in The Guardsman, will be charged to the various organizations, Maurice Power, faculty ticket chairman, declared that all persons holding tickets should report to the Finance Office no later than 4 p.m. today.

In an unofficial tally, Power announced that the gross take from the sale of tickets is $2338.75 thus far.

Variety Is Keynote Of Mardi Gras Ball

Plans for an all-star variety show in conjunction with the Associated Men Students' Mardi Gras, 8 p.m. Friday, June 4, in the west campus auditorium, have been formulated, according to a statement by Roy Barnett, talent Bureau chairman.

The variety show, Byrne Davis, AMS president, said, will be in addition to the many entertainment booths already scheduled for presentation.

The show will be staged to the music of the college band and is divided into nine parts to include dancin, gags, imitations, and demonstrations of magic. Participants in the show will come from the local talent bureau.

Also scheduled for the gala affair is a costume contest aimed at increasing student adornment in costumes and masks fitting the occasion.

After the variety show is concluded, dancing will start and continue throughout the evening, with students taking time out at will to visit the various booths.

No admission will be charged for the dance to Associated Student card holders.

The silver ball, which is a tradition at this type of dance, has been left out of decoration plans, Davis said, in the hope of offering students different and more interesting types of displays.

League To Battle Frats For Government Control

Presence of hotly contested party competition in Associated Student elections is fully recognized for the first time in the history of the college this semester in the form of a fraternity ticket versus a student league ticket applied in every major office and involving all but six Student Council candidates.

Polls, located in the student lounge and limited to ballot boxes instead of voting machines, will open Thursday morning, June 3, and close Friday afternoon, June 4.

Voting will be under the constant supervision of Robert Judd, election chairman, and his committee.

Judd announced minor changes in classification of council candidates last Tuesday, listing of which appears at the right, and all major office candidates remained as published Tuesday.

The two candidates for Associated Student president, Frank Ferguson, Tri Epsilon and fraternity candidate, and Jack Hagan, student league choice, will be formally introduced and will address students today in college hour in the auditorium at the traditional and official candidates' rally.

Under the general sponsorship of Assistant Dean Jack Brady, the rally is directed by Sam Goldman, election committee member.

The vice-presidential candidates, Beatrice Groger, Zeta Chi and fraternity candidate, and Del Rainer, student league nominee, will also speak.

All candidates will be presented at the rally, Goldman said.

In a statement released to The Guardsman, Judd said, "The election committee anticipates the largest vote in the history of the college, mainly because of the enthusiasm already displayed on the campus."

Several amendments may appear on the ballot and were expected to be posted yesterday by the constitution committee, Judd said. The constitution provides that amendments must be posted at least one week before elections. These amendments concern succession in office, cabinet listing, and possibly full Associated Student membership in clubs.

4,000,000 Dollars Due For Improving College

Only three days remain before the voters of San Francisco go to the polls to vote on the all important 87 million dollar bond issue.

Approval of the 87 million dollar issue, by the voters of San Francisco June 1, will tab approximately four million dollars for the further building or improvement of City College.

All voters who will be out of the city on the date of elections June 1, are again urged by school leaders to get down to the city hall and vote early in order that the issue be given its deserved support.

The absence of funds has made it impossible, up to the present time, for the City of San Francisco to make the additions to the City College as proposed in the original plan—a library, a student union building, an auditorium and an administration building.

The entire construction will be in Balboa Park. The site was purchased with the completion of the college in mind.

With the backing vote of all students of City College and other voters of San Francisco, the issue should receive the go sign. The votes of the public will be the deciding factor.

Soph, Prof Softball Game Nearing Reality

With the rumor of the sophomore class-faculty softball game becoming a reality today, the sophomore class plans to go all out for the contest Friday morning, June 11, to retaliate for the 16-15 defeat handed them by the faculty in their last outing in 1943, according to sophomore president, Bill Riley, and sophomore week chairman, Jim Fernhoff.

The sophomore team will have a total of 14 players, and the faculty a total of 19 determined sluggers.

The game will be played on the practice football field and, with the authority of J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president, classes will be dismissed for the 10 to 12 o'clock game.

The physical education department has agreed to improve the base lines, before the game, Riley said.

The band will be present to renew the spirit of both teams, and the rally committee will present several stunts.

The main feature will be the presentation of University of California's "Oskie the Bear," Fernhoff declared.

Playground Program Faces Grand Finale

A pick and shovel gang of Hurley Village residents will swing into action this week, according to Allan Maxwell, chairman of the playground planning committee, in the first definite step toward making the children's play area in the village a reality.

At a meeting of the committee held last Monday, further steps were taken when volunteer workers agreed to talk to various local agencies in an effort to get some equipment donated to supplement the actual cash on hand fund, Maxwell stated.

Jules Fraden, recreational leadership instructor, and George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor, have taken on the job of canvassing the city Park Commission and Recreation Department.

At the same time, Maxwell continued, Jack Edminster of the horticulture department of the college will see the Park Commission of the city regarding necessary shrubbery for the playground.

Contribution Made By Guardsman Reporter

Impressed by the Hurley Village Playgound campaign, Florence Ames, special student at City College and Guardsman feature writer, donated ten dollars to the growing fund yesterday.

This marks the fourth outside contribution to the playground fund.

Clish Checks Hurley Village; OK's Project

Not content with accepting published facts without looking into the situation personally, Superintendent of Schools Dr. Herbert C. Clish revealed recently that he examined the Hurley Village area when The Guardsman inaugurated steps for the proposed playground.

Dr. Clish concurred with reports published in The Guardsman, and consequently supported the playground project to the limit.

Student Speech Test Deadline Tuesday

Last day to take the required speech 1B tests is Tuesday, June 1, English Instructor Mike Griffin announced today.

The tests must be taken by students entering their third semester at the college, Griffin said.

Building 19 is the place chosen for the examinations, and they are being given today until 4 o'clock, and June 1 between 9 a. m. and 4 p.m.

Drama Group Schedules Three One Act Plays In Matinee Thursday

A new departure in the City College's drama offerings will mark the single matinee presentation of three student-directed productions set for Thursday, June 3, at 1 p.m. in Room 28, according to Lloyd Sisler, instructor in the college drama department.

This is the first time in the college's history that three plays have been presented as one continuous show, students acting as directors.

The three-in-one production, which is admission free and runs for approximately an hour and a half, will include the following plays:

The Slave of the Two Faces, an allegory by Mary Carolyn Davies; The Devil and Daniel Webster, a fantasy by Stephen Vincent Benet; and Sparkin, a midwestern comedy by E. P. Conkle.

Sisler, who will supervise direction of the plays along with Paul Ellison and Bill Culver of the drama department, named Carolyn Kennington and Don Landers as student directors for The Slave of the Two Faces.

Direction of The Devil and Daniel Webster will be undertaken by Barbara Murphy, and Pete Turdiel will take over the reins for Sparkin.

The cast, chosen from Sisler's classes Speech 42 a and b, the Technique of Acting, is as follows:

The Slave of the Two Faces: Mary Ann Stewart and Mary Cooke as two girls, and Tony McGrath as the slave.

The Devil and Daniel Webster: Lorin Paulsen and Rita Fabri as Jabez Stone and his bride; G. T. Pinkard as the Devil; and Jack Jones as Daniel Webster.

Sparkin will star Juanita Ervin as Grannie, Dorothy Stolaroff as Ma, Brian Radeche as the boy, and Joan Fewins as the girl.

Sisler predicted a large turnout for the performances and commented on the excellence of both the plays and the performers. He added that all interested students and their families are urged to attend.

Glee Club And Chorus Will Present Program On West Campus On June 3

Donning evening gowns and tuxedos, the women's chorus and the men's glee club will present a formal concert on Thursday night, June 3, at 8:15 o'clock in the west campus auditorium, Gertrude Norgard and Harold Cunningham, directors, announced yesterday.

Intimating that the program is planned to suit all tastes, Mrs. Norgard stated that folk songs, sea chanteys, and semi-classical selections will fill the agenda.

The directors, revealing that the concert will be in two groups, listed Brother James Air, Crusader's Hymn, and Little Papoose on the Wind-Swing Bough in the first group. The second group will feature three folk songs, among them the Hungarian tune, Sea of Stars, and River, River, from Chilean folk literature.

The concert will last about two hours, Mrs. Norgard added, stating that there will be no admission charge for the event.

Extending an invitation to all campus music lovers, Mrs. Norgard said, "These groups include many of the people who sang in the recent successful Vagabond King, and this program will offer students a chance to hear other City College singing groups in concert."

Vote In The Primaries Tuesday, And Vote "Yes" On Number 9!

IT is an interesting comparison when one considers the impending school bond proposition against last year's campaign to pass the multi-million dollar transportation bonds.

At that time there was virtually no opposition whatever to the plan to completely revamp the city's ancient railway system into a modern setup that would provide first class transportation.

As a result the bond issue passed almost unopposed and work is well under way toward providing this city with badly needed new streetcars, buses, tracks, and all the rest that goes toward good transportation.

Property owners, downtown merchants in particular, are strongly opposed to the school bonds to be voted upon next Tuesday on the grounds that this issue will skyrocket present taxes.

Yet these very same people favored last year's transportation bonds and did all they could to help in the passage of the bonds. Why? It is obvious: the better the street railway system the more shopping customers will be funnelled into downtown areas to concentrate their buying power on Market Street instead of out in the districts.

This "pro yesterday—con today" turnabout can only mean one thing: education is again taking a back seat in mercenary minds that can focus their eyes no farther than their pocketbooks.

If the school bond issue fails to pass it can only mean that this city has reverted to medieval thinking again and has made a big joke out of the cultural reputation the Bay area has maintained for many years.

As it is right now the culture label hung on the Bay area is rather a laughing matter. For every college and university in this region there are three or four public schools that are disgracefully run down and in dire need of rebuilding.

For the sake of tomorrow's citizens a unanimous "YES" vote on Proposition Number 9 at Tuesday's election is urgently requested.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

IF IT ISN'T ONE THING IT'S ANOTHER DEPT.: The Vag King is gone, but the memory lingers on; politics now take the campus spotlight. We predict that more than memories will linger when voting's done.

THE FRIENDS OF THE PEOPLE: Some of the boys connected with the Vag King decided to celebrate their success with a party at the Rumpus Room after the last performance. Everyone had a fine time, BUT none had a better time, or became more buddy-buddy-ish than Genial Jack Hagan, student league presidential hopeful, and Frank Ferguson, fraternity block presidential hopeful.

(COMMENT): Who wants to bet that the boys won't be talking to each other when they don't even have a bottle of beer in common???

THE BIG SMOKE WAR: Since Camel cigarettes came out to Old City College with free smokes and plastic containers, the LSMFT boys have retaliated sharply with samples of their product and portable movies of the Hit Parade. At the risk of depriving city collegians of free coffin nails, we must inform the cigarette people that their campaigns will get them nothing. The average campus smoker will grab up Fatimas if they're gratis.

MORE AD NEWS: Ballyhooing aulo races to be held in Oakland is a City College car that will do more harm than good to the racing business. The car, usually parked near the student fountain, is a Chevrolet—vinlage 1922!!!

FOR SERVICES RENDERED: To Mark Sheldon, radio tech instructor, a delicious chocolate covered Ram for his work on the auditorium's acoustics. If it hadn't been for Sheldon, the Vag King audiences would have been treated to three acts of silence!!!

(COMMENT): If you will talk up the coming school bond issue, dear reader, we'll have an auditorium so acoustically iremendous that we'll not have to eail on the skill and generosity of men like Sheldon.

HAPPY ITEM OF THE WEEK: The most thrilled spectator of The Vagabond King was 11-year-old Howard Landers, son of Harry Landers, who prints The Gadsman. Young Landers was allowed to sit beside the orchestra, almost on top of the stage; if he'd been any closer he'd have been part of the act!!!!

Letters To The Editor

• "Chocolate Ram"
Editor, The Guardsman:

May we use the columns of The Guardsman to extend our warm thanks and deep appreciation to the many people, both faculty and students, including The Guardsman, who contributed to the successful production of The Vagabond King.

Without the untiring and highly competent cooperation of the faculty and student committees and production staff, the show could not have been carried through, and we are sure that every member of the cast and orchestra joins us in expressing our gratitude not only for the wonderful spirit shown but also for the expert manner in which these difficult tasks were performed.

• Flowers
Editor, The Guardsman:

The purpose of this letter is to congratulate all the students who worked so hard to make The Vagabond King the unqualified success that it was. On every hand I heard nothing but praise for the fine performances that were given on our campus.

I particularly wish to congratulate and thank the members of the ticket committee—Jack Hagan, George Capanis, Jack Sommers, Frank Rowe, Bob Orr, and Ignatius Lascola—members of the student organizations, and many volunteer workers who went out and did the "leg work." Without their combined efforts our plans to sell tickets would have been fruitless.

It has been a pleasure to take part in an activity for which there was such whole-hearted support.

Yours very truly,
Maurice Power

Five Students Plan S. American Safari

By J. B. Baker

At the end of the present semester, five men students of the college will set out for South America for naturalistic ethnological observation and collection.

The five will trek the region of the Guariare, the northwest Amazon, and the Orinoco river, travel in parts of Peru, Colombia, Venezuela, and Brazil.

The party will enter by Guayaquil, Ecuador and later will leave the South American continent for the United States through the Port of Spain, Venezuela.

The five students have varied interests centered on the trip.

Norman Le May is interested in the splendor of tropical Botany; Julian Pace is interested in Geology and Ethnology; Russell Smith is a student photographer and naturalist; Roy Wilson hopes to register the splendid color of the tropical wilderness through the medium of art; Jim Foulk is the party adventurer.

Trolley Car Blues No. 1 On Strap Hang Hit Parade

By Herbert Bishop

Most everyone likes to live dangerously (drink black coffee, have a cigarette before breakfast and so forth). But living or riding street cars in an animated cartoon fashion is another thing; it's too dangerous.

Only Heaven knows what is in the mind of an operator—if anything—when he tries to skid his car into a stop like a baseball player sliding home with the winning run.

On any block you can see cars roaring along with the front leaning back at a 45 degree angle as a result of the speed. When approaching a stop the motorman waits until the car is within ten feet of the spot, and then applies the brakes dynamically.

As a result (hot-rod stuff) the car bows up in the middle, the rear truck moves forward and kisses the front truck of the car and then settles down none too gently at the desired station. The motion ceases, but do they have to be so d . . . darned dramatic about it?

It is perfectly all right for the movie trolleys to do this; their passengers are celluloid and are adaptable to this treatment. It isn't so good for a harried student who is trying to cram for a minor skirmish with a deliberate instructor who thinks the first letter of the alphabet is D and grades from there.

Reasons for this behavior may lie in some "wild blue yonder" air are stuff. Each motorman should have a badge. A miniature street car with short bits of track on each side would serve admirably as wings for this branch of public service. Also, they should be allowed to crush their hats after a stipulated number of missions.

Then we would know that they are dashing and brave and they could cease the explosive chain-reaction starts and screeching stops.

San Mateo Named As Site For WAA Spring Horse Show

By Patti McGuire

The Women's Athletic Association, with the San Mateo Junior College Bit and Spur Club, will hold their annual spring horse show, Friday, June 4, at San Mateo, Laurine Bergen, women's physical education head, said today.

With entries from several near-by colleges, and the Gymkhana Club as the place, spectators will be provided with many exciting and daring events as the riders put their mounts through the paces.

Competition having been limited, the colleges will be allowed only four advanced, four intermediate, and four beginning riders. Application for entering the event are now open only in the advanced groups, Mrs. Bergin said.

Rules for entering should be observed and obeyed by all persons wishing to participate in the show, she added, and they provide:

1. All entries (advanced group open), must be made to Mrs. Bergin immediately.

2. All riders must be assembled in the club house by 7 p.m. preceding the show.

3. All riders must present exhibitor's pass for admission to Horse Show grounds. Passes will be sent upon receipt of entry blanks.

4. Regulation riding habit shall consist of boots, riding breeches, man's long-sleeved white shirt, and tie.

Events for the affair will be a combination of races, walking, trotting, saddling and bridling race, fancy dress, obstacle courses, and musical chairs. Participation in these events will be limited only to members of the beginning, intermediate, and advanced classes. Trophies and ribbons will be given for the best performances of these events.

A suitable climax will end the program when the college accumulating the greatest number of points in the show will be awarded the perpetual trophy. It will be engraved with the winning college's name, and held by same college until the next annual inter-collegiate horse show, when it will again be offered for competition.

RAMblings . .

By Roy Pasini

IF you happen to be a local gridiron cashew and have been wondering why ole City College has yet to sound the call to colors for spring practice, when neighboring institutions have all but completed their vernal workouts, then read on and we'll tell you all about it.

It's as simple as this. Spring practice is illegal, acording to a ruling handed down by the NCJCC great white fathers, following last year's foothall season.

Yep, football must be content with the sporting spotlight during the fall session only as far as the ruling body is concerned.

The move was not of the snap judgment variety though. The board members had their reasons.

According to Commissioner J. Paul Mohr, who operates out of the hometown plant, the conference directors felt that by limiting football to the fall season it would insure the spring sports of whole-hearted student participation.

This means that if the college nine only fields eight men for a given game, the ninth character will not be out cavorting on the rock and sock 'em course. Also, minor spring sports, such as tennis and golf, would not be hampered by a lack of manpower.

From Ram Coach Grover Klemmer comes the news that at present the college is not prepared to replace any equipment which might suffer damages during spring practice.

Another point brought out by Klemmer was the fact that a large percentage of the muscle men who show for the spring drills don't return to further their athletic and intellectual abilities at the college.

That's all well and good, but we wonder. With the squad's first tussle set for September 24, and local workouts getting underway September 6, how can the gridders, excluding those who'll spend their summer in places of brawny endeavor, get into shape in time for the big push?

Varsity Mermen Off For All Conference

Coach Jim Jensen and ten Ram mermen will travel to North Sacramento tomorrow to participate in the Northern California Junior College Conference swimming meet, which will be held in the spacious Grant Tech college pool.

The locals have not shown any outstanding ability this season, and they are definitely out of the fight for the conference title.

A few of the college swimmers going to the meet are Bill Ryan, Dan Cinquini and Bob Stufle, while divers Bob Shermap and Sam Siegel will also try to garner valuable points for the Rams.

Wilson Seeks Managers

Managers for fall sports are needed by intramural mentor, Tom Wilson.

A manager must be free from 3 to 5 p.m. Monday through Thursday, so that he can work in the men's gymnasium.

If satisfactory work is done by managers a block award is given.

Santa Rosa, San Mateo Tie In Baseball Race

Santa Rosa Junior College handed the San Mateo Junior College nine their first losses of the season last Saturday as they defeated the Bulldogs 13-2 and 6-3 in a doubleheader played at Santa Rosa.

The wins gave the Cubs a deadlock for Coast Division honors with the Mateans, as both clubs finished the campaign with a record of ten wins and two defeats.

A playoff game was held last Tuesday to determine who will represent the Coast Division in the NCJC Conference playoffs against Sacramento College, winner of the Valley Division title. The conference playoffs begin tomorrow at the Capitol City, where a twin-bill is scheduled.

Badminton Clinic For Prep Seniors Today

A badminton clinic, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, for high school seniors will be held here today, Barbara Combs, general chairman, announced.

The clinic is used as a medium of helping badminton enthusiasts.

A exhibition presented by members of the Northern California Badminton Association, will be put on for the students.

Also in the way of an exhibition, Charlene and Bill Burgess, brother and sister, will demonstrate the form which deemed them winners of the Northern California B class badminton Tourney. Miss Burgess also won the ladies' doubles.

The clinic will be held in both the men's and women's gymnasiums at 2:30 p.m.

Experts from bay area colleges will act as judges, and will also point out flaws, and give constructive criticism to the players.

Four Netters Gain Semis; San Mateo Nips Ram Golfers

With their NCJCC competition over for another year, the Ram netters, trackmen and golfers are back in camp again following their recent finale at Modesto where they came through according to pre-tourney dope.

Best effort for the locals was turned in by the Hillsman stickers who were edged out by one stroke, 264-263, by the neighboring San Mateo club. The Rams had previously handed the Mateans a 22-5 setback in a practice match at Crystal Springs.

On the cinder paths the Rams garnered 25 points to gain a third place tie with the resident Modestans behind the unbeatable Los Angeles City College and Stockton Junior College.

Copping the only SF first place was high jumper Jim Barnes who turned in a 6 ft., 1 in. effort.

The netters also turned in a very creditable performance with all but one of the local singles entries reaching the semi-finals before they were defeated. Even the unheralded doubles combos reached the semi-finals.

Six Ram Boxers Seek Olympic Games Berths In Tryouts At Sacramento

Six enthusiastic college varsity boxers, accompanied by Coach Roy Diederichsen, will travel to Sacramento this week end to participate in the Olympic tryouts, which will be held in the state capital June 1, 2, and 3.

Frank Suega, the most impressive fighter to make the trip, leads the Rams and weighs in at 176.5.

The other college pugilists entering the tryouts are Carl Hoyos and John Fisher, 112.6; Len Garcia, 127.13; Roy Damas, 136.10, and Jim Wilson, 147.11.

These above weights correspond to the international boxing divisions decided upon by the Olympic committee.

The Ram fighters have been working out daily this week in Newman's Gym.

Should one or more of the Ram pugilists triumph in the Sacramento affair, he will automatically become eligible to compete in the next phase of the nationwide eliminations.

City College is one of the few bay area colleges entering the Olympic tryouts in Sacramento.

Today Set As Deadline For Intra Softball

Intramural mentor, Tom Wilson, has set this afternoon as the entry deadline for softball.

Very few softball applications have been received by Wilson, and if none is turned in today the sport will have to be abandoned this semester, he said.

Games will be played on the practice football field and the schedule will be played on an elimination basis.

The Block SF has captured the intramural volleyball championship with five straight victories.

To date the athletic forces of the Block SF society lead in the semi-annual chase for the Dr. Cloud trophy that is awarded to the organization garnering the most points in intramural play.

By Herbert Levy

IN exactly one week from today, around 5 p.m. or so, the Election Committee will have tabulated the votes for Associated Student offices, and will declare who are the new president, vice-president, various other presidents, and the Student Council members.

What will be very interesting to observe is whether the Fraternity political power will be lessened in student government, or whether, as in the years past, the Fraternity bloc will leisurely sweep into office.

A quick look into the history of college politics seems very dull. In nearly every election before the Spring '48 polling, the Associated Student president was a Fraternity man, the council was dominated by the Greek letter outfits, and the other less important positions were filled with Fraternity or Sorority persons.

FRATERNITIES SURPRISED

What happened in the Spring of 1948—or more exactly, the Spring election, that was held in the Fall of 1947? Students saw the rise of a new idea in student politics.

In that election, which was only one semester ago, a Student League came into existence.

With no fanfare and very little publicity, because the ones in power feared that this new group would take a little of that power away, the Student League ran its candidates.

Surprising the students, and Fraternities, alike, the League copped eight offices in student government, including that of vice-president of the Associated Students.

Why did this new loosely knit group of independent persons and clubs, who called themselves the Student League, do so well at the polls?

Could it be that the mass majority of the students utterly despise the idea of a few Fraternities politically controlling the college, and resent, moreover, that rather than representing the majority of students, the Frats more specifically represent the Book Store card playing set?

TWO PARTY SYSTEM?

By now most voters know whom the Student League is running for office and should know whom the Fraternities are running.

In consequence and in fact this college now has a two party system. Discounting any particular aims of any of the organizations included in the Fraternities and Student League other than political, we have the forces of American democracy at work.

What the reaction of the large mass of independent voters on the campus will be only the final voting tabulations will tell. If the large mass of voters go to the polls, they can bring any party they want into control of student government.

One of the greatest gifts the American citizen has, is to go to the polls on election day and cast his ballot for the candidate who he thinks will serve the majority of the students.

Next Thursday over at the Student Lounge, the voting will take place.

By the simplest and fastest method, students of this college can determine the various student officers for next semester, by merely casting a ballot.

Compulsory AS Membership For Campus Clubs To Appear On Ballot June 3-4

A constitutional amendment which stipulates that all campus organizations have 100 per cent Associated Student membership was placed on the June 3 and 4 election ballot by the Student Council during Thursday's explosive, hour over-time session.

This council action definitely settles the semester-long controversy caused by the Club Advisory Board by-law which contains the same compulsory AS membership ruling, however, effective this semester only.

Defeated In Past

Numerous past attempts within the CAB to make this law permanent have been defeated by small votes.

The council received for consideration this proposed amendment as part of a constitution committee report which contained several other suggested amendments and by-laws.

Because a voting council member was needed to move on the reported changes, Frank Ferguson presented the report for committee chairman Bill Bahr, block SF president.

The meeting, which was in its closing minutes, was funetioning smoothly; then, Ferguson read the 100 per cent AS membership law.

Adjournment Voted Down

Immediately a move to adjourn was made, seconded, and voted down. Dean Jack Brady reminded the council that a class was soon to meet in the "council chambers." It was suggested that they continue outside.

If the amendment was to be placed on the ballot, it was necessary for the council to pass it at once; therefore, President Max Call recessed the council and ordered it to meet within five minutes in his office. From there it moved into the student lounge.

Forty-five Minutes' Decisive

Thoroughly considering every possibility, the council required 45 minutes of the over-time period and three votes before placing the amendment on the ballot.

Main problem confronting the council was whether or not the AS should vote on an amendment that would affect only campus clubs.

Drum's Face Suffers Modern Curse . . . Paint

The college band's drum will have its face lifted within the next few days, Walt McRae, student band manager, declared today.

Plans call for a red and white design, City College of San Francisco Band in large red letters around the outside edge of the drum and a large red and white ram's head in the center of the drum face.

The painting will be done by the college art department under the direction of instructor William Eckert.

Musicale Needs Ushers

Ushers are needed for all performances of the musical comedy, Annie Get Your Gun, opening Monday, May 31, at the Opera House.

Anyone interested in ushering for this event should see Dean Margaret Dougherty in Building 2, west campus, as soon as possible.

A few tickets are still on sale at the student bank, Silverman said, and remaining copies may be bought after publication.

Summer Session May Open Here July 7

Pending Board of Education approval, summer session here will begin on Wednesday, July 7, instead of July 1, as originally scheduled, and the Fall semester will begin on September 15, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said yesterday.

This change is being made in order to avoid interruption of classes during the July 4 holiday, Miss Learnard explained.

Time schedules, marking courses to be offered at the summer session, will be released the first week of June, Miss Learnard concluded.

Graduates Create Alumni Association

By introducing Dr. B. D. Kelley, graduate of City College, Edwin C. Browne, former dean of men here and now personnel head for the School Department, officially started the Alumni Association last Saturday night at an after show reception for The Vagabond King cast.

Dr. Kelley was appointed acting Alumni President by the Student Council until the association can hold an election, Max Call, student president, said.

Charles Myers, alumni member and graduate in 1943, is on the city ticket for election as Assemblyman, 24th district, the Westwood Park, Sunnyside, Ingleside areas.

Election Edition

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of City College of San Francisco

VOLUME XXVI SAN FRANCISCO, THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1948 NUMBER 23

Fraternities Fight Student League

JACK HAGAN, Student League presidential candidate, smiles amiably, while Frank Ferguson, Fraternity backed presidential aspirant, also shows that he too uses a goodly quantity of Pepsodent.

Voting for these candidates, as well as the other office seekers, starts today. This picture, by the way, was strictly posed.

Heavy Polling Starts In Two Party Battle

In probably the hottest political campaign in the history of the college, the largest number of students ever to cast ballots are expected to vote today and tomorrow in the student lounge.

Robert Judd, election committee chairman, claims that his committee will have a complete tabulation by 1 p.m. Monday. If so, a bulletin of returns will be published in The Guardsman next Tuesday, June 8, with complete details Friday, June 11.

This semester finds the Student League party, composed of chartered campus organizations and independent students, battling the Fraternities and Sororities, for political control of student government.

During the past ten years of active political government, the Fraternity faction has generally been in control, This election finds them facing their stiffest opposition since Fall 1937.

(The student League came into existence last semester and captured eight elective positions in student government.)

In statements from the leaders of both parties, both agree the situation is a healthy one for the students of the college. They concur that a two party system is beneficial for the working of democracy on the campus.

(Outgoing Associated Student President Max Call reports that students from other colleges will be on campus to view this election, and the working of a two party system in student politics.

(Election committee members expect the greatest turnout of voters in the college's history. Last semester balloting brought out more than 1100 voters or nearly 33 per cent of Associated Student members.)

As The Guardsman goes to press, there is no conclusive trend as to how the election will go. Expressing confidence that the mass of independent voters will go to the polls, Student League leaders present hopes of winning a majority in the Student Council.

The Fraternities, on the other hand, are rallying their forces for a solid bloc of voters in an effort to remain in control of student government.

(This semester, the Fraternities had seven council members, and with the Block SF council member voting with them, had an 8 to 7 majority.

(The Associated Student, Associated Men Student, the Sophomore and Freshman presidents were of the Fraternity group.

(Student League officers were the Associated Student vice-president and Associated Women Student president.)

Polls opened today at 9:30 and will stay open until 3 p.m. Tomorrow's voting hours will be the same.

Frats, League in All Out Political Race For Council

Gathering powerful momentum over the past semester as the legislative branch of student government, and rapidly becoming recognized as the college policy making group, the Student Council positions go up before the voters today and tomorrow.

The council, divided into seven representatives from the Sophomore class and an equal number from the Freshman class, has the power of appropriating all Associated Student funds.

Fighting desperately for the control of council, Student League and Fraternity parties are waging an all out campaign to gain a majority voting strength in the legislative council.

Of the candidates running, the Fraternities have thrown two incumbents into the race, and the Student League, likewise, has two present council members running for re-election.

In all, the Student League has 12 candidates up for the Student Council, while the Fraternity ticket is presenting 11.

Assistant Dean of Men Jack Brady, faculty adviser to the Student Council, said, "The Spring 1948 Student Council has shown that the elected students can conduct themselves in a manner which fosters the traditions of American democracy. I also believe the two-party system is beneficial to the workings of democracy."

Ferguson, Hagan Lead Straight Ticket Race

Candidates competing for the office of the Associated Student presidency are Frank Ferguson, a Tri Epsilon on the Fraternity ticket, and Jack Hagan, Le Cercle Francais, backed by the Student League.

The race for the job of vice-president of the Associated Students is between Beatrice Groger, Zeta Chi candidate on the Fraternity ticket, and Del Rainer, independent on the Student League ticket.

Candidates for president of the Associated Men Students are Pete Isola, member of Pi Mu Gamma, running on the Student League ticket, and Robert Selby, Beta Tau, running on the Fraternity ticket.

Associated Women Student office seekers include Helen Rich, Pi Mu Gamma, supported by the Student League, and Marilee Zimmerman, Delta Chi sorority member, supported by the Fraternity party.

Aspirants for the office of Freshman president are Money Hickman, Tau Chi Sigma member on the Fraternity ticket, and Walter Wiseman, supported by the Student League.

Sophomore president candidates are Dick Fetherstonhough, Beta Phi member, running as a Fraternity candidate against Sviatoslav G. Yashinitsky, Gamma Phi Ypsilon member on the Student League ticket.

Hurley Playground Fund May Hit $415

An unofficial estimate early this week indicates that proceeds from The Vagabond King going to Hurley playground will exceed $350.

Added to this amount are the following donations which bring the approximate cash total to $415:

From the college choir, $25, a 1947 gift from the Kiwanis Club; $25 from Harold Kellogg, Kiwanis Club secretary and Vagabond King patron; $10 from Florence Ames, Guardsman feature writer, and $5 from Winston Norman, submitted through Herb Caen.

Two donations of equipment were also announced this week: a set of three see-saws from Louis J. Goldman, father of City College student Sam Goldman, and a used children's slide from the Prosperity Market, on Genessee Avenue.

Meanwhile, Hurley Village veterans turned out en masse over the Memorial Day week-end and prepared the area for the construction work which is due to start at an early date.

Council Puts Three Amendments To Vote

Amendments to the constitution of the Associated Students have been approved for the ballot by the Student Council. The amendments, three in number, are now up for general vote by the students in the coming election.

The changes in the constitution, now posted in The Guardsman office window, include revisions in Article VIII, section 1. This states that campus organizations, in the future, must have 100 per cent Associated Student membership.

Article II, sections 1 and 2, is changed to read that the yell leader will be included as an elective officer, and that the appointed officers will be the secretary and rally commissioner, designated by the Associated Student president, with approval of the Student Council.

The third amendment is a revision of the order of succession in the president's cabinet.

Mardi Gras Opens With Variety Show

Combining the efforts of many of the campus organizations the Mardi Gras committee, according to Byrne Davis, Associated Men Student president, has arranged a colorful program for presentation tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in the west campus auditorium.

The committee running the affair along traditional lines will have club sponsored booths. But deviating from the usual, the committee, according to Davis, will have the show start with a "bunch" of the acts billed as variety.

Dancing scheduled to start at 9 will be to the music of Bob Emerson and his band.

Club booths, lined up around the walls of the auditorium, will offer things to eat, games of skill, and other devices of entertainment as a break in the dancing program.

Prizes will be given to the best decorated booth and the most originally costumed couple. Previously these affairs have had kangaroo courts to apprehend the costume nonconformists; this, Mardi Gras will have the same rule in effect.

Fines levied by this court will go into the Band Uniform fund, Davis said.

Commencement Cards Available At Bank

Associated Student members of the graduating class will be permitted to have as many as five free commencement invitations, Lloyd Lindeman, assistant to the president, announced yesterday.

Students may pick up the invitations at the student bank now.

A picture of the entire graduating class of City College will be taken in front of the main building tomorrow during college hour.

For students wishing a picture, orders will be taken during the same college hour, with a fee of $1.50 being charged.

For other than graduates, college hour, 10:40 to 11:20 o'clock, will be used for club meetings, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, said.

Rivalry Must Always Exist Between The Press And Its Government

FOR the first time in the history of this college a two party system has been adopted in the student government political race.

At today's and tomorrow's campus elections the student card holder has a number of choices to select from; all claiming to represent the greatest number of voters and promising to do the most for them.

The story of the two party system at City College is a story of a campus newspaper "at war" with student government; a fight that has never been more strenuously waged than in the past semester.

It is too early to estimate any real results from this fight, but no one can argue the fact that campus interest in student government has been greatly stimulated because of this rivalry between government and press.

And therein lies the direct cause of all the bickering within these pages in the last few months: one of the foremost points of Guardsman policy is the recognition of a natural rivalry between the newspaper and its government.

Despite agonized cries from those already in power, this rivalry has been a healthy one, and no one individual has been trampled upon as a result of press criticism; the fight has always remained a friendly one.

Students and civic politicos alike must acknowledge that theirs is an office of public trust and, consequently, open praise and damnation alike; depending entirely upon their own personal conduct in office.

Any newspaper that failed to enter into such a rivalry would be forsaking its most vital duty in the preservation of democracy; the presentation of truth to its readers.

Thomas Jefferson said, in effect, "I would rather see a press without government than a government without a press."

A government without a press would be tyrannical; a government with its own controlled press would be equally bad: the only ideal answer is to have both functioning with a healthy, natural rivalry at all times.

YOU Read it Here First Dept.: We promised long-suffering readers that we'd never again mention Hollywoodish Roy Pasini in this space. Unfortunately we must do it again—it seems that the young "writer" has taken the step that is so many audience, not for their supper but to push the school band issue. POLITICS REARS ITS CROOKED HEAD: Just for kicks, why don't some of you people who religiously read this column go to the campus polls and VOTE? Remember, you don't have to wear a pin to elect the person of your choice!!!!!

MORE UGLI: POLITICS: Seems that you have to be a "gentleman of distinction" nowadays in order to toss your hat in the political ring.

Auditorium Acoustical Defect Rectified By Mark Sheldon

By Dave Hansen

Mark Sheldon is one full rank below the usual "last but not least" category of personages who receive credit lines on entertainment programs. Because of an oversight, much regretted by all concerned except himself, he wasn't even included on the Vagabond King program.

It is through the efforts of Instructor Sheldon and his crew of radio students that the recent light opera production was heard satisfactorily by the entirety of four audiences.

"We reinforced the sound on the stage by dropping mikes from the overhead to just above the scene of the performance. Also we placed the speakers high up in the auditorium, which eliminated the echoing usually heard in the former gymnasium," he said by way of explanation.

Sheldon stationed a monitor in the balcony, with contact backstage. This talker listened to the performance, and when the volume of sound was too high or too low, he so informed the man backstage, who then regulated the erratic volume.

Working with Sheldon during the Vagabond King run were Lloyd Nordwick, Emil Sucher, Arthur Candelario, Raul Arguello, and Douglas Lee.

The Terminal Radio Course is an offshoot of the Engineering Department and is a comparatively new course. Only one student has been graduated from it so far, according to Sheldon, and has been placed and "is making good money."

Sheldon graduated from San Francisco State College as a music major.

MARK SHELDON left, demonstrates a point to radio tech student.

Players in the college orchestra may not have known it at the time, but when maestro Meyer Cahn retired to the rear of the auditorium to listen to them during rehearsals recently, they were being led by an accomplished musician—one Mark Sheldon.

Letters to the Editor . . .

● Citizen Lauds King

Editor, The Guardsman:

On May 22, 1948, my wife, my family and I saw the City College's production of "The Vagabond King." It was one of the finest and most enjoyable performances of its kind we have ever had the pleasure of seeing.

Realizing that proceeds of your production were to go to the children of the veterans of the college's "Hurley Village," I have in my store three (3) sets of brand new see-saws, which I shall give to your children free of charge, if called for by one of your staff.

I am sure that the children can make good use of these see-saws.

Thank you for such a wonderful evening of pleasure, and sincerely hoping that the City College will present more performances such as "The Vagabond King," I remain.

Sincerely yours,
s/ Louis J. Goldman

● Legitimate Complaint

Editor, The Guardsman:

During the sales period for The Vagabond King the Masonic Club sold over 74 per cent of the tickets allotted to them. However, when it came time for the sponsors to be listed on the program the Masonic Club was not listed. Members of the club would like to know why?

L. E. Peck,
Pres., Masonic Club

(Editor's note: Herb Levy, Vagabond King student manager, also managing editor of The Guardsman, says, "The complaint from the Masonic Club is completely justified. Failure to include the Masonic Club as a supporting organization on the program was an oversight. We herewith, belatedly extend congratulations to the Masonic Club for a job well done.")

La Belle Et La Bete A La Lascola, Le Grand Piano

By I. R. Lascola

It began last week at a meeting of our Yvonne De Carlo fan club when dear brother, in his best molluscan manner, said it was about time we did something for Yvonne in return for all she's done to us.

Then as my brother gently strangled three objecting members, we listened to him unfold his plan for the show, a musical based on the life of the well known gynecomposer, Guitano Cabeza de Vaca diera.

Naturally, mybrother, being an octopus and stronger than anyone except a bigger octopus, will take the lead.

I'm not very strong, so I was the part of the great concert piano. This is a difficult role, many speaking lines, but you get terrific beating.

The more I thought of the idea, the less I liked my part, so patiently waiting while that octopus stabbed two other members who had mistreated peeves. I stood erect and asked,

"This piano part, it seems so little, perhaps something a bit more colorful?" and then noticing the color mount in my brother's face, "Maybe a trombone . . . a saxophone . . . a piccolo?"

Demonstrating that masterful self-control, octopi are famous for, my brother answered, "Be content dear kin; this is a big part. Perhaps I didn't make myself clear. You play the part of a grand piano."

This made me fe... "And get th... you," he e... you fit... prod...

Peanut Gridders In Overtime Grid Win

In the most important first round game of intramural touch football play, the Peanut Gridders eked out an overtime decision over the Boys last week.

Tied 0-0 at the end of the regulation game the Peanut Gridders drove the deepest into the Boys territory in the overtime to salvage their first round triumph.

The victors tallied three touchdowns during the contest but all three scores were called back due to penalties.

Gala Horse Show On Tomorrow Evening

By Patti McGuire

In the annual inter-collegiate spring horse show to be held at San Mateo, Saturday, June 5, the Women's Athletic Association will compete with several colleges for top honors in a display of horsemanship.

With competition limited, the college is represented by chosen riders from the beginning, intermediate and advanced classes.

Representatives of the Beginning class are Sonia Shoulgovsky, Bob Ott, Anne Eyir, Rosalie Dygert, Diane Beach and Wanda Hodges; Intermediate, Jean Sliter, Shirley Austin, Jean Reynolds and Annette Low; Advanced class, Mary Peirano and Hank Gumpel.

The riders were chosen on the basis of skill and the ability to handle their horses.

Ribbons and trophies will be presented to the outstanding participants in walking, trotting, cantering, saddling and bridling, fancy dress, obstacle courses, and musical chairs.

A perpetual trophy will be presented to the college accumulating the greatest number of points in the show.

The trophy will be engraved with the winning college's name and held by that college until the next annual inter-collegiate horse show, when it will again be offered for competition.

General admission tickets will be sold for 60 cents, while Associated Student card holders will be admitted for 30 cents. Everyone is invited to attend, and dancing and refreshments will follow the performance for an extra 30 cent fee.

The show, which is to be held at the Gymkhana Club in San Mateo, will start at 8 o'clock Friday night.

Riders participating in the events are requested to assemble in the club house by 7:30 preceding the show, Laurine Bergin, riding instructor in charge of the City College group, announced.

...allying to overcome a three run deficit in the late innings, San Mateo Junior College copped the 1948 Coast Division baseball laurels last week when they defeated the Santa Rosa Junior College nine, 6-4, in a one-game playoff for the title.

Southpaw Jiro Nakamura was the winning hurler for the Bulldogs, while Leo Sullivan was chalked up with the loss.

The Bulldogs will contend with Sacramento College, Valley Division winners, in a three-game series for the NCJCC crown.

Undefeated in league play, the Sacramentans are slight favorites to wrest the trophy from the Coast Division.

We've Got It Cinched, Say Sophs; That's What You Think, Say Profs

By Roy Pasini

Confidently whistling the ole ditty, "We Did It Before and We Can Do It Again," as they merrily go about their tasks as educators, the profs are once again preparing to prove their strength as an athletic power.

With revenge in their hearts, the Sophomore Class has challenged the faculty to a softball tilt in order to avenge a 16-15 setback at the hands of the brain trusts in '43.

Sensing an ideal opportunity to make their diamond superiority conclusive, the profs jumped at the chance, and the scene has been set for Friday, June 11, on the football practice field during a two hour college hour.

Since the day the challenge was first issued, the profs have gone into an intensive training period.

Rather than use the elevator in the main building, they are climbing up and down the stairs. They are giving more exams in order to strengthen their arms by carrying the extra papers around. Why, they're even pressing harder on the chalk as they write on the board.

"STONEWALL" JACK BRADY, still smiling over the faculty victory in '43, looks for another win for the hard hitting profs.

In the Soph camp, just as strenuous an effort is being made. The challengers are sharpening pencils, doing less copying in order to rest their eyes, and can even be seen carrying books to class, just for the exercise, of course.

Jack "we haven't got a thing to worry about" Brady, captain of the winning '43 squad, stated, "the five year rest is just what the instructors needed. We will be in the best of condition, and with Ed Sandys on the mound, we shall once again give the students a lesson."

"Tarzan" Sandys, who hurled the air tight 16-15 masterpiece, was unavailable for comment, as he was locked up in his office busily signing documents in an attempt to get his arm in shape for the big tussle.

From Soph co-captains "Wild" Bill Riley and Jim "Hornpipe" Fernhoff comes the following statement:

"Although outnumbered 19-14, we are confident of victory. Because of the questionable physical condition of the profs, after a five year layoff, we haven't been able to set the number of innings the contest will go. Should the faculty fall too far behind, we will attempt to substitute an all-female Soph squad and give the instructors a fighting chance."

Officials for the tilt will remain unannounced until game time as a precautionary measure and for their own protection.

The official rosters will appear in the next issue of The Guardsman.

Ram Athletic Stars To Receive Awards At SF Block Society Spring Banquet This Evening

With the awarding of more than 500 letters to spring semester athletes highlighting the evening, The Block SF Society will conclude its semester with a banquet tonight at the college cafeteria.

Blocks and certificates will be awarded to those members of the basketball, track, tennis, swimming, golf, and boxing teams who earned them throughout the spring season.

Last semester's banquet was acclaimed by all those who attended it as a complete success.

Members who have not yet been informed about the banquet can still get their reservation by getting in touch with Bill Broderson or Horace Aubertine, who are handling the affair.

Rivalry Must Always Exist Between The Press And Its Government

FOR the first time in the history of this college a two party system has been adopted in the student government political race.

At today's and tomorrow's campus elections the student card holder has a number of choices to select from; all claiming to represent the greatest number of voters and promising to do the most for them.

The story of the two party system at City College is a story of a campus newspaper "at war" with student government; a fight that has never been more strenuously waged than in the past semester.

It is too early to estimate any real results from this fight, but no one can argue the fact that campus interest in student government has been greatly stimulated because of this rivalry between government and press.

And therein lies the direct cause of all the bickering within these pages in the last few months; one of the foremost points of Guardsman policy is the recognition of a natural rivalry between the newspaper and its government.

Despite agonized cries from those already in power, this rivalry has been a healthy one, and no one individual has been trampled upon as a result of press criticism; the fight has always remained a friendly one.

Students and civic politicos alike must acknowledge that theirs is an office of public trust and, consequently, open praise and damnation alike; depending entirely upon their own personal conduct in office.

Any newspaper that failed to enter into such a rivalry would be forsaking its most vital duty in the preservation of democracy; the presentation of truth to its readers.

Thomas Jefferson said, in effect, "I would rather see a press without government than a government without a press."

A government without a press would be tyrannical; a government with its own controlled press would be equally bad; the only ideal answer is to have both functioning with a healthy, natural rivalry at all times.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

YOU Read it Here First Dept.: We promised long-suffering readers that we'd never again mention Hollywoodish Roy Pasini in this space. Unfortunately we must do it again—it seems that the young "writer" has taken the step that is so popular lately, namely: he's engaged. Enraged readers, the girl's name is Barbara Garherini. It couldn't have happened to a better girl. Congrats, Hollywoodish!!

POLITICS REARS ITS CROOKED HEAD: Just for kicks, why don't some of you people who religiously read this column go to the campus polls and VOTE? Remember, you don't have to wear a pin to elect the person of your choice!!!!!

MORE (UGH!) POLITICS: Seems that you have to be a "gentleman of distinction" nowadays in order to toss your hat in the political ring.

(Examples): Catch the posters that sprout from campus walls which feature "Yash" Yashinitsky and Walt Wiseman casually holding or lighting their pipes. Grab a Kayvoodie and get in the race!!

From Rags to Riches by Taking Pitchas (Dept.): Notice people at Old City College like brunette, youngish Bob McVey. First thing you'll note is the well-fed look about the kid. Why? He's a photographer, and that's a rewarding racket out this way. People pay all sorts of dough to see their faces on film. Why? Probably personal reasons.

FOR SERVICES RENDERED: The popular Chocolate Covered Ram goes, once again, to Carolyn Herfield, Dave Huenergardt, Dick Paganelli, Jacqueline Deasy, and Roy Barnett, for their jaunt last Wednesday night to Aptos Junior High. Seems they sang to a community audience, not for their supper, but to push the school bond issue. Which was worth pushing, as far as Old Nobody can see.

ANOTHER RAM: This time to young DICKY CORMIER, whose parents live in Hurley Village, for his part in seeing that his playmates have a place to play. The young fellow's talk at the beginning of the May 21 night performance of the Vag King went over like a Christmas present. Next he was with the campus hond drive. Kid gets around!!!

Auditorium Acoustical Defect Rectified By Mark Sheldon

By Dave Hansen

Mark Sheldon is one full rank below the usual "last but not least" category of personages who receive credit lines on entertainment programs. Because of an oversight, much regretted by all concerned except himself, he wasn't even included on the Vagabond King program.

It is through the efforts of Instructor Sheldon and his crew of radio students that the recent light opera production was heard satisfactorily by the entirety of four audiences.

"We reinforced the sound on the stage by dropping mikes from the overhead to just above the scene of the performance. Also we placed the speakers high up in the auditorium, which eliminated the echoing usually heard in the former gymnasium," he said by way of explanation.

Sheldon stationed a monitor in the balcony, with contact backstage. This talker listened to the performance, and when the volume of sound was too high or too low, he so informed the man backstage, who then regulated the erratic volume.

Working with Sheldon during the Vagabond King run were Lloyd Nordwick, Emil Sucher, Arthur Candelario, Raul Arguello, and Douglas Lee.

The Terminal Radio Course is an offshoot of the Engineering Department and is a comparatively new course. Only one student has been graduated from it so far, according to Sheldon, and has been placed and "is making good money."

Sheldon graduated from San Francisco State College as a music major.

MARK SHELDON, left, demonstrates a point to radio tech student.

Players in the college orchestra may not have known it at the time, but when maestro Meyer Cahn retired to the rear of the auditorium to listen to them during rehearsals recently, they were being led by an accomplished musician—one Mark Sheldon.

Letters to the Editor

● Citizen Lauds King

Editor, The Guardsman:

On May 22, 1948, my wife, my family and I saw the City College's production of "The Vagabond King." It was one of the finest and most enjoyable performances of its kind we have ever had the pleasure of seeing.

Realizing that proceeds of your production were to go to the children of the veterans of the college's "Hurley Village," I have in my store three (3) sets of brand new see-saws, which I shall give to your children free of charge, if called for by one of your staff.

I am sure that the children can make good use of these see-saws.

Thank you for such a wonderful evening of pleasure, and sincerely hoping that the City College will present more performances such as "The Vagabond King," I remain,

Sincerely yours,
/s/ Louis J. Goldman

● Legitimate Complaint

Editor, The Guardsman:

During the sales period for The Vagabond King the Masonic Club sold over 74 per cent of the tickets alloted to them. However, when it came time for the sponsors to be listed on the program the Masonic Club was not listed. Members of the club would like to know why?

L. E. Peck,
Pres., Masonic Club

(Editor's note: Herb Levy, Vagabond King student manager, also managing editor of The Guardsman, says, "The complaint from the Masonic Club is completely justified. Failure to include the Masonic Club as a supporting organization on the program was an oversight. We, herewith, belatedly extend congratulations to the Masonic Club for a job well done.")

La Belle Et La Bete A La Lascola, Le Grand Piano

By I. R. Lascola

It began last week at a meeting of our Yvonne De Carlo fan club when dear brother, in his best molluscan manner, said it was about time we did something for Yvonne in return for all she's done to us.

Then, as my brother gently strangled three objecting members, we listened to him unfold his plans for the show, a musical based on the life of the well known gypsy composer, Guitano Cabeza de Maldiera.

Naturally, mybrother, being an octopus and stronger than anyone else except a bigger octopus, will play the lead.

I'm not very strong, so I will play the part of the great composer's piano. This is a difficult role; not many speaking lines, but you take a terrific beating.

The more I thought of the idea, the less I liked my part, so patiently waiting while that octopus stabbed two other members who had minor peeves, I stood erect and asked,

"This piano part, it seems so little, perhaps something a bit more colorful?" and then noticing the color mount in my brother's face, "Maybe a trombone . . . a saxophone . . . a piecolo?"

Demonstrating that masterful self-control, octopi are famous for, my brother answered, "Be content dear kin: this is a big part. Perhaps I didn't make myself clear. You play the part of a grand piano."

This made me feel better.

"And get this, you lucky lobster you," he continued, "Yvonne touches you five times in the course of our production."

I swooned in mad delight, and when I recovered, my brother who is an octopus, was discussing the financing of our movie.

"It'll be easy," he said; "we can all contribute, and the whole thing will cost only eight million dollars."

At this four members jumped to their feet, shouting, "No." I shuddered as my brother decapitated them.

However the same question bothered me, so I waited until the bodies were removed, and remaining seated, I queried, "Where's the money coming from?" (This phrase has been used for the title of a book by Stuart Chase who is not an octopus but an economist.)

This did it; my brother drew four Mauser pistols, a rifle, two howitzers, and a custard tart. Being of a generous nature, he let me have all of them.

It's definite now; my brother who is an octopus and I are going to produce a movie. In it I will play the part of a piano, an old piano, full of holes and covered with custard stains.

Peanut Gridders In Overtime Grid Win

In the most important first round game of intramural touch football play, the Peanut Gridders eked out an overtime decision over the Boys last week.

Tied 0-0 at the end of the regulation game the Peanut Gridders drove the deepest into the Boys territory in the overtime to salvage their first round triumph.

The victors tallied three touchdowns during the contest but all three scores were called back due to penalties.

Touch grid play is continuing this week on the practice football field.

Intramural mentor, Tom Wilson, is still seeking managers who will take care of the sport program during the fall semester.

The final rounds of intramural ping pong, tennis, and badminton are now being played in the men's gymnasium, Wilson said Tuesday.

Wilson is also trying to set a date for the intramural award banquet, for the spring semester.

Champions who are already entitled to the intramural awards are the Ramblers and Block SF in basketball and the latter club in volleyball.

Basketball Prospects Try Out In Men's Gym

Another plea, by basketball coach Ralph Hillsman, is issued today for all students interested in the game of basketball to come out for informal practices held every day except Fridays in the men's gymnasium at 3 p.m.

Many prospects for the fall '48 varsity team have been showing their talents to the coach in these tryouts.

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

JUST a little more than a half hour ago, the Associated Student members started trekking to the polls over at the Student Lounge, to decide whether the majority of the students will finally be represented or whether the Fraternity political machine will stay in power.

The Fraternity and Sorority members, well briefed on how to vote, will even forego their card games at the Student Store (which is a great concession) to get to the polls.

On the other hand, the few clubs that make up the Student League, and the mass majority of independents that support the League's platform of universal representation of all students, may become lazy and fail to vote.

HOW COME?

Because this attitude may persist, the Fraternity juggernaut has a good chance of power-housing its way into office, as it has for the past ten years.

To an observer, it seems utterly impossible that the Fraternity machine that represents at the most 400 students, can continually sweep into office, when approximately 3000 non-Fraternity people have the right to vote.

In this two party set-up, the independent coalition of students forming the Student League and the tight-knit well controlled Fraternity bloc have many minor differences, but the major disagreement is theory, in that the League wants everyone to participate in student government, while the Frats prefer their own group to control student affairs.

GO TO THE POLLS

The answer, ironically enough (ironical in that it has never happened around here) lies in the vote of the students, an opportunity that follows the pattern of American democracy.

When the Fraternities roll their machine to the polls, they expect a solid 400 voters balloting a straight ticket.

The League and the independent supporters, as their organization is not secretly controlled, can only bank on the intelligence of the student voter, in that if the independent student wants a voice in government, then he will have to get out and vote for it!

KING AND POLITICS

City College jumped into the big time (maybe for the first time in its history) when The Vagabond King light opera, even when some administrators declared that the thing would flop, turned out to be the greatest success the college has ever experienced.

Why did it become such a tremendous cultural as well as financial success? The answer is simple. All the students of the college got behind it and pushed it into a lasting triumph. Everyone, actually, was in on the act.

Hence if everyone votes, this college will have a new era of student government success. NO MATTER HOW YOU VOTE, PLEASE GO TO THE POLLS!!!

Three One Act Plays, Allegory, Comedy And Fantasy, On Today In Room 28

Production of three different types of student-directed one-act plays will be spotlighted at 1 p.m. today in Room 28, under the general supervision of Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

The production, open to all students, friends and relatives, will consume approximately an hour and a half of the audience's time, and admission is free, Sisler said.

Included on the day's program are an allegory, a fantasy, and a comedy.

Named as co-directors of the allegory, The Slave of the Two Faces, Carolyn Kennington and Don Landers have released the names of their leads.

Mary Ann Stewart and Mary Cooke will play the Two Girls. Tony McGrath will put his talents to impersonating the Two-Faced Slave. Mary Carolyn Davies is the author.

Barbara Murphy is slated to direct The Devil and Daniel Webster, a fantasy, written by Stephen Vincent Benet.

Named in the lead roles were Lorin Paulsen as young Jabez Stone, and Rita Fabri as his bride. In the title roles are G. T. Pinkard as the Devil, and Jack Jones as the eloquent Daniel Webster.

A midwestern comedy by E. P. Conkle, will ring down the curtain of the novel production.

Directed by student Pete Turdici, Sparkin' will star Juanita Ervin as Graunie, Dorothy Stolaroff as Ma, and Brian Radeeke and Joan Fewins as the Boy and Girl.

Faculty members Paul Ellison and Bill Culver are working with Sisler assisting the student producers. Directors and members of the casts are students from Sisler's Speech 41a and b, The Technique of Acting class.

Floriculture To Open New Summer Course

The Flower Shop, a course offered by the floriculture division, will be open to interested students during the coming summer session, Harry Nelson, horticulture department instructor, announced recently.

The course is designed to cover work found in actual flower shops, Nelson said.

Floriculture 81 a-b-d for beginning, intermediate, and advanced floral designists, will be offered in the Fall '48 semester.

New Mardi Gras Idea

A tent located outside the west campus auditorium will be the site of thespian entertainment to be presented at the Mardi Gras tomorrow by the newly organized City College Players, Dick Paganelli, the Players' president, announced yesterday.

Forum Magazine Of '48 Due For Distribution On Campus Monday, Features Short Stories

Forum magazine of 1948, due Mondays, June 7, will feature a number of short stories that are well worth reading, the editorial staff emphasized early this week.

Final details of publication were completed last week under the guidance of Marvin Silverman, editor. John Campiglia, managing editor, Burt Hale and Norma Platanesi, art editors, and Helen Ivanoff, Jack Noll, Janice Landon, John Hulse, Del Pichon, Hal Shapiro, Herbert Levy, and David Hansen, staff members.

Contributors to Forum are requested to pick up their manuscripts on or after June 7, in Room 251, Silverman declared.

Ticket holders may acquire their magazines at the Silver Pole in the main building, or the Guard House on Phelan Avenue.

A Cappella Auditions Start For Fall Term

A Cappella Choir auditions for students returning to the college next semester are being held now and until the end of the present semester, Flossita Badger, choir director, explained today.

Auditions are scheduled Tuesdays and Thursdays at 2 p.m. in Room 200.

"Positions in all four sections are open at present," Miss Badger said.

The choir, climaxing one of their most sucessful and active seasons, will present several selections at commencement ceremonies as previously announced by Miss Badger.

Men, Women Sing In Concert Tonight

Combining forces, the Men's Glee Club, under the direction of Harold Cunningham, and the Women's Chorus, supervised by Gertrude Norgard, will present a concert tonight in the west campus auditorium, at 8:15 p.m.

Selections will be sung as presented by the two groups previously in the semester.

Some of the numbers on the program are The Whiffenpoof Song, by the men's glee club. In the Evening By the Moonlight, by the college quartet. Harvest Moon, by the men's glee club. Little Papoose, by the women's chorus. Those Pals, sung by the men's glee. By the Light of the Silvery Moon, by the quartet, and several others.

One of the songs to be sung by the college quartet, is The College Song, written by Luther Lyon, business instructor here at the college.

The music was written by Shamus O'Connor, who also wrote the music for MacNamara's Band. The song which depicts the life of a City College freshman, has not yet been published.

Everyone is invited to attend the concert, and no admission fee will be charged, Cunningham said.

What kind of a JOB would you like?

DO YOU ENJOY dealing with people . . . doing useful work that will challenge your ability?

THE TELEPHONE COMPANY offers a real opportunity for neat-appearing young women with poise and tact for work in San Francisco. These young women deal with customers, mostly by telephone, on matters concerning their telephone service.

OPPORTUNITIES for advancement will appeal to you as a college woman. Too, you'll like working with people who are not just business associates, but friends.

CLASSROOM and on the job instruction are given at good pay while you learn.

YOU MAY ARRANGE to talk over this interesting work with our representatives when they visit the campus on June 10th . . . or visit our San Francisco employment office, located at 140 New Montgomery.

Ferguson Wins; Frat Landslide

Fraternities Snag Nine Council Jobs; League Takes Four

Capturing nine student council posts and the presidency of the Associated Students, the Fraternity ticket swept into office on the largest number of votes ever cast in a City College election.

The Student League pulled through with four council posts, the Associated Student vice-president, the Associated Men Student president, while an independent copped the remaining council position.

Of the 1196 votes cast, 896 were men voters and the women's vote totaled 300.

Frank Ferguson, Tri-Epsilon Fraternity candidate, beat out Jack Hagan, Student League standard bearer, by 34 votes. Ferguson tallied 604 while Hagan pulled 572.

Student Leaguer Del Rainer grabbed the vice-presidency by the slim margin of 29 ballots over Bea Groger, Zeta Chi, who received 554 to Miss Rainer's 583.

The closest race of the election was Money Hickman, Tau Chi Sigma fraternity candidate for Freshman president, who bested Walter Wiseman of the Student League by four votes. The totals were 546 to 542.

By winning nine council offices, the Fraternity faction will have increased their majority voting strength by two over this semester.

Vet's AS Card Refund Checks Still In Bank

Veterans' Associated Student card refunds should be picked up at the student bank before the end of the current semester, Jim Burns, cashier, declared today.

The following veterans have not called for their refunds. Richard Boone, William Chan, Edward Church, Juji Hada, John N. Hall, Kenneth Hultgren, Walter Ihle, Fred Mintle, Thomas Moore, Kenneth Murray, Charles E. Nolan, Victor Schmidt, William Smikahl, Donald D. Snider, Donald Ward, and Robert Winegardner.

Marilyn Smith And Philip Onstott To Be Honor Speakers At Commencement

Honor speakers from the top six scholars of the college's Spring 1948 graduating class to speak at commencement Saturday, June 19, at Sigmund Stern Grove, will be Marilyn Smith, Denman Scholarship holder and winner of highest scholastic honors, with a 2.92 grade point average, and Philip Onstott, also honor graduate, Lloyd D. Luckmann, assistant to the president, announced yesterday.

Presiding at commencement, President A. J. Cloud will introduce the guest speakers and confer diplomas.

Honor guest speaker will be Dr. Roy Simpson, state superintendent of public instruction.

Other honored guests will be Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of San Francisco public schools, and George W. Johns, president of the San Francisco Board of Education.

Commencement will begin at 2:30 p.m., with graduates receiving their caps and gowns before the actual ceremony, Luckmann announced. There will be no rental charge for caps and gowns to Associated Student card holders. Three dollars is the nominal fee for those few graduates not holding Associated Student cards.

Invitations may be secured free at the student bank in the main building to card holders, and to non-card holders 50 cents will be charged, Luckmann said.

Announcing that the only rehearsal will be held Friday, June 18, at 10:30 o'clock, Luckmann stressed complete attendance by all graduates.

Awarded to the holder of the highest grade point average, the Scholastic Cup will be presented to Miss Smith by Dr. Cloud, Luckmann pointed out.

Cloud will also confer the President's Plaque award to two as yet unnamed graduates. The award will be received on a basis of general service to the college and superior character.

Vote Casting Will Begin Tomorrow For Soph Royalty

Selection of the six Queen semi-finalists from the all time high of 41 contestants has been made by the three impartial judges and the seven male stidwarts competing for the King throne were known today, sophomore week chairman, Jim Fernhoff, and sophomore president, Bill Riley, revealed yesterday.

Voters will go to the polls this Wednesday and Thursday—the Queen to be selected through the popular vote of the Associated Men Students and the King to be chosen by the vote of the Associated Women Students.

The joint election committee who will officiate at the royalty elections, stated that the polls in the student lounge will be open at 10 a.m. on Wednesday and Thursday and will close at 3 p.m. each day.

Fernhoff stated, "Any student who holds an Associated Student membership card is entitled to vote for the contestant of his choice."

Contestants for the Queen mantle are Marcia Dains, Jean Gibson, Beverly Huddleston, Peggy McCormick, Audrey Paladini, and Ruth Sheppard; for the King's throne, Ken Brown, Bill Broderson, Frank Coppel, Dave Huenergardt, Bill Nichols, Gilbert Sells, and Sydney Winchester.

College tradition preventing, the royalty set will not be known and crowned until this Saturday, June 12, at the sophomore formal, "Royalty Ram-ble," to be held at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium.

At the ceremony, the sophomore class will present the Queen and King with a personal loving cup. The Queen will also be presented with a perpetual trophy by Beta Tau, and the King one by Theta Tau.

Dress for the formal ball will be dark suits or tuxedos for men.

Bids will be sold at two dollars per couple, tax included, and may be purchased at the student bank the rest of this week.

FRANK FERGUSON, Tri-Epsilon fraternity winner, will take over the job of Associated Student president, when the Fall semester rolls around. Ferguson beat out Jack Hagan, Student Leaguer, 604 votes to 572.

Council Votes $400 To Playground Fund

Going all out, the Student Council over-ruled a previous plan, and voted to give $400 of the Vagabond King profits to the Hurley Village playground project during Thursday's meeting.

Originally, the council had voted to direct toward the playground fund 50 per cent of the profits realized from the light opera production; this new action calls for almost 100 per cent of those profits.

Total receipts from the four Vagabond King performances were approximately $2300, and the profit on this amount will slightly exceed $460, however, the council voted a flat $400 to the Hurley Village project in order to eliminate all red tape and delay.

Boosted by several outside donations, the $500 goal set by George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor, as the needed working fund has almost been reached.

In addition to three new sets of children's seesaws and one slide, monetary gifts from private sources have totaled $65.

Preparations for actual construction of the playground were made during the recent Memorial Day week end by the many veteran students now living in the Hurley Village housing area.

Lajeunesse, who is still working toward increasing the project, has reported that some help may come from the San Francisco Recreation Department.

From this group two will be chosen by student vote tomorrow and Thursday to don regal robes and preside over Sophomore Formal.

Drop Into Our Office Little Red Baiter And Get Your Milk Bottle

AN anonymous letter, one of the lowest and most degrading types of libel that a human being can stoop to, was circulated on this campus the night before the student elections.

Its cry was: "Vote Down the Hammer and Sickle, June 3rd and 4th." In the body of the letter numerous ridiculous charges were thrown at the Student League candidate for the Associated Student presidency and at a member of The Guardsman editorial staff.

This note, entitled "Open Letter to City College Students," on mimeograph paper and unsigned, ran the gamut of stupidity from accusing the Student League of attempting to "place our school in the hands of Wallace" to intimating that a Guardsman editor was trying to set up a puppet regime of his own.

As childish and immature as the writer of the letter is, he succeeded—quite unwittingly, no doubt—in illustrating perfectly the grave danger this country faces, particularly in a presidential election year.

When idiotic minds, in headlong flights of hysteria, scream "Red" and "Fascist" at anyone, regardless of party affiliation, who wants to institute certain changes in government, it is a situation that absolutely demands sane, intelligent reasoning upon the part of every voting citizen.

As dangerous as communists are in wanting to overthrow governments by force, this country too is equally periled by parasites who hide behind a shield of self-righteousness and squawk "communism!" at every form of liberalism.

Lest this be misconstrued as a testimonial to Henry Wallace, perhaps we should stay on our own campus in discussing this matter. At this writing the only praise we can find to bestow upon Mr. Wallace is in mentioning that he, at least, signed his "Open Letter to Joseph Stalin."

And as far as our own little campus red-baiter is concerned, the only offering we can make to him is an invitation to drop in The Guardsman office for his bottle of milk, and we'll arrange for a baby sitter to keep him company.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

HOT Off the Cafeteria Griddle: The cafeteria lad who does the dish washing for our palace of fine foods is a real bitter young man. Seems that when a Gawdsman reporter asked for a little interview (feature stuff y' know) all the busy dish jockey could splutter was, "See that sign on the wall that reads, 'PLEASE BUS YOUR OWN DISHES'?" Yes, yessed the scribbler, "Well," contd. the bitter one, "the way our customers throw their dirty trays and dishes at me, you'd think the sign read, 'PLEASE BUST YOUR OWN DISHES!' " End of interview!! End of reporter.

The People's Friend Dept.: Local politicos recently had ulcers all over the campus because their campaign posters had disappeared over the week end. The way things turned out, they might as well have relaxed. No one read the things anyway. We take that back—people who read The Gawdsman Society Page always read campaign posters. Reason? Looking for someone they know! So it goes—read on!!

(Unnecessary Comment): Blame for the missing sign was laid to subversive elements on the campus (have you seen anyone with a bomb in his pocket lately?). Old Nobody suggests that the blame should fall on the wind. The signs were gone with the wind, and we doubt if the wind gets its orders from a foreign gov't. We'll send a letter to Senator Tenney. This thing should be looked into!!

HO HUM, or What's In a Name Dept.? One more item on politicos and then no more mention of such things in this sacred place. We'll leave that to The Soothsayer, a column hated and unread by millions of dissatisfied City Collegians. Ask anyone in the Student Store!

It appears that former Soph Council candidate Harold Freedman, a crafty cafeteria lad (Hotel and Rest. Div.) stole a political march from youngish Money (that's my real name, and I've got plenty of it, and it's not counterfeit) Hickman, also a former candidate, when he advertised himself via campaign posters, as "Menu" Freedman! Food for thought!

HEARTS and FLOWERS: G'by, Sports Ed. Bill Covall. Happy, old grad? Remember, Old Nobody, at least, read your stuff!

Letters to the Editor

• 'League' Clarified

Editor, The Guardsman:

To help clarify the present political situation, here are the facts on the "Student League."

It is an organization open to all clubs and composed of elected delegates from these organizations officially this semester—Pi Mu Gamma, Latin American Club, American Veterans Committee, Tau Zadic Nun, Cosmopolitan Society, Forum Club—and of representatives of other organizations and numerous independent students. The delegates nominate candidates, formulate the platform, and set up committees for publicity, finance, etc.

These duties require only about a month, after which the organization dishands.

Jack Hurley, Card 24

• 'One Party' Advocated

Editor, The Guardsman:

From all apparent events which occurred in this recent semester, it would appear that the inaugural term of the two-party system here has been a drear and dismal failure. Let us return once more to the Administration-run, Fraternity, one party system; at least they do something.

S. Goldman Hikes Campus Spirit With Promotion, Hard Work

By Dave Hansen

Campus Spirit itself, in the form of one Sam Goldman, defined just what that spirit is when he said, recently, "I believe as an individual that the college comes first. In that way I believe in and work for the college."

The word "work" is both an injustice and an understatement when applied to Goldman. Slave, toil, or labor might better describe him when promoting another campus activity, which is in reality, always.

During his four semesters at the college, Goldman has been a member of the Block SF Society. He managed the 1946 championship football team, likes sports, and hopes someday to be a sports announcer. At present he majors in history and journalism.

A graduate of Mission High School, the 21-year-old Navy veteran was a sports writer on The Guardsman for three semesters.

He has played a part in most of the rallies held since he has been at the college, and helped promote the famed bonfire rally of last year.

A GUARDSMAN reader and former sports writer, Sam Goldman, works for college first, is campus spirit personified.

A publicity man for the recent hit, Vagabond King, Goldman has put his share of hours in at the guard shack, which he refers to as the "Huckster's Shack."

The voluble but modest Goldman has black, curly hair, blue eyes, stands 5 feet, 6 inches tall and weighs 150 pounds. He claims to be a mediocre dancer and a conservative dresser. He also claims to hold the record for chugging up Pneumonia Hill.

When asked if he was married or single, he replied, "I'm happy," meaning that he is single. He plans to graduate this semester, but may attend the college for another semester. A native of San Francisco, Goldman intends to go on in college, but he has not yet decided at what institution.

An inveterate sports fan, he limits his participation in athletics to "playing for fun," and has a fair amount of intramural competition under his belt.

One of the rare, truly sincere campus spirit advocates, Goldman has the following to say: "All students and organizations should work together as students for a bigger, better college. By that method, we can rank higher in national education. To me, as it should to all on the campus, the college comes first."

He means it.

Sam Goldman is not running for an office.

Intellectual Canine Digs A Poly Sci 36 Instructor

By Dayton Lawson

The Poll Tax and the Supreme Court, fascinating subjects otherwise, ran a poor second in interest and general excitement last Tuesday, when Erik, a Great Dane with intellectual tendencies, boomed into John Selig's Political Science class, took a quick trot once around, and parked himself in the southwest corner of the room to dig the rest of the lecture.

Instructor Selig, a gentleman generally at ease around animals, having once been presented with a live gopher to dissect when a well-meaning neighbor heard that he was pursuing his doctor's degree, was clearly disturbed.

Caught in the middle of Jones versus the City of Azuza, he somehow managed to get things under control with the observation, "if somebody possessing a way with dogs will kindly make it known, without hurting his feelings, of course, that all visitors must first clear through the office, and procure a pass, then we will pick up where we left off."

Erik, looking somewhat abashed, was ushered out. In the corridor, it was explained to him that sophomore standing is one of the prerequisites for Political Science. Erik is only a freshman, having been here just a semester and a half.

New Name Recognized By All . . . Almost

Gradually City College of San Francisco's new name is being recognized as commercial establishments surrounding the college replace the "Junior" in their names with the preferred and official "City."

There are now in the neighborhood a City College Book Shop, a City College Barber Shop, and a City College Student Store.

The nameplate on the main campus building, still labeling the college as "Junior," will soon be changed, verifying changes by the above-mentioned local merchants who seem to have beaten us to the punch.

However these things take time; The Guardsman still receives mail addressed to a Junior College and occasionally to San Francisco Junior High School.

Patience and repetition is needed; let everybody know about it; they'll get the idea. This college is now City College of San Francisco.

Club Cavalcade . . .

• Presidents' Meeting: All club presidents will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the student lounge to plan the social calendar for next semester.

• Beta Phi Beta: New officers for the fall semester include Al Moffat, president, Ray Horton, vice-president, Roy Leinau, historian, Andy Butler, treasurer, Walter Schultz, secretary, Garney Ringsmith, corresponding secretary, and Ted Quandt, pledgemaster.

• Newman Club: June graduates are invited to attend the 9 a.m. Mass, Saturday, June 19, at St. Emydius Church.

• Masonic Club: All members who wish to attend the dinner dance Friday, June 11, at the Club Lido are urged to see Harry Walraith, treasurer, for reservations.

• Hotel and Restaurant Society: The annual semi-formal dinner dance will be held at the Orinda Club, Thursday, June 10, according to William Mullen, dance chairman.

• Kappa Phi: Formal installation dinner of the new officers and pledges will be held tomorrow at Lucca's Restaurant.

• Tappa Keggs: A second initiation will be held next week as the result of last month's educational tour through a local bottling plant, during which 14 members mysteriously disappeared.

Profs, Soft And Batty, Ready For Soph Tilt

By Roy Pasini

With but three days remaining before the titanic struggle, both prof and soph softball squads are going all out in their final workouts before crossing bats in a revival of the "betcha we can teach cha a lesson or two" series between students and faculty, come Friday, June 11, from 10 to 12 a.m.

From the secluded faculty training site high atop Mt. Davidson we hear that the profs are in the best of shape and ready to go at least all of three fast innings.

Confident of victory, the brain trusts have agreed to play according to the rules and will only use nine men at a time, although an extra man or two may be needed to help carry some prof off the battlefield should the affair call for too much physical motivation.

In an attempt to Seep the sophs in the dark, as instructors have a habit of doing, "Stonewall" Jack Brady will not release his line-up until the day of the fiasco but has posted the following roster:

Joe "No" Amori, O. E. "Andy" Anderson, Louis "Slugger" Batmale, Egbert "Cement" Brix, Harry "Raquetless" Buttimer, Mike "Pro" Cahn, Harold "Fleetwood" Cunningham, Robin "Hoblin' " Dunn, Tom "Watcher" Dutcher, Lee "Charger" Esau, Don "Fencin' " Jensen, Mike "Spike" Monaco, Tom "Slider" Nesbitt, Maurice "High" Power, Ed "Tarzan" Sandys, Mark "Seldom" Sheldon, Ken "Dynamo" Thunem, and Arley "Tripper" Tripp will carry the prof colors. Who said something about strength in numbers?

The sophs, just as confident, have been training out at the beach and although all wet, are feeling mighty salty.

The official roster issued by co-captains "Wild" Bill Riley and Jim "Hornpipe" Fernhoff includes Howard "Crusher" Crouch, Mike "Slugger" Giddings, Sam "Loudspeaker" Goldman, Bill "Wee Willie" Hansen, Chuck "Superstructure" Hingsbergen, "Roundhouse" Vic Pagone, Roy "H'wood" Pasini, "Musculs" Ted Quandt, "Snookey" Jim Routson, Carl "Beard" Semonian, Bill "Ears" Towne, Bill "Wag" Wagener, Willie "Woon" Wong, with Steven "Pumpkin" Norris in the elated role of bat boy.

Unbeaten Sacramento Nine New Champions

Undefeated Sacramento Junior College, champions of the Valley Division, copped the 1948 NCJCC baseball title as they defeated the Coast Division title holders, San Mateo Junior College, by scores of 6-3, and 2-0, in a doubleheader played on the victor's diamond.

The first contest was a wide open affair, with both clubs battling to the final out for the winning scores.

Ace Panther moundsman, Jim Tsukamoto, hooked up with the Matean's star southpaw, Jiro Nakamura, in a pitcher's duel in the seven-inning nightcap and emerged the winner as he pitched a brilliant three-hit shutout to give the resident Panthers the title. Nakamura was soundly whacked for 15 safeties.

Both teams played errorless ball throughout, except in the first tilt, when the Panthers committed four bobbles.

Stockton Easily Wins Swim Crown; Ram 2nd

Stockton Junior College annexed the NCJC swimming title, at Sacramento over the Memorial week end.

City of San Francisco mermen garnered 29 points to gain 2nd place behind the high flying Cubs who scored an impressive total of 78 points.

Bob Sherman, Sam Siegel, Dave Mojas, Bill Simpson, and Gene Cinguini were all point winners for the Rams.

Intra Awards To Precede Ball Game

Intramural mentor, Tom Wilson, announced last week that this semester's intramural award rally will be held Friday, June 11, on the college football field just before the whistle blows to start the sophomore, faculty softball game.

All students who have played on first and second place teams in the intramural sports this semester are eligible to receive awards.

The Dr. Cloud Memorial Trophy Award will probably go to the Block SF, who have taken the volleyball championship and second place in the cage race.

The awards are the same as in previous semesters, which are gold bronze medals and belt buckles.

Austin, Slater Head WAA For Coming Term

Officers for Women's Athletic Association for next semester were elected May 24, 25, and 26, in the women's gymnasium, according to Laurine Bergin, women's physical education head.

The officers, she disclosed, are Shirley Austin, president; Jean Sliter, vice-president; Annette (Fritz) Worden, secretary; and Shirley Howard, treasurer. The candidates were voted into office by members of the WAA.

"Three Bowmen" Aim For Game

Leo Theroux, a fourth termer here at the college, has come up with a novel summer vacation plan which features a back to the old raw way of life theme with the bow and arrow in a supporting role.

Along with fellow archers Nickie and Maurice Charles, pictured above left and right, respectively, the ex-soldier boy, above center, plans to return to nature equipped with one jeep station wagon, one canoe, one Dalmatian bird dog, 1,000 new home-made arrows, and nine bows, ranging from 55 to 60 pounds.

Operating under the sporting title of "Three Bowman—Adventures Unlimited," the trio's prime objective is to attempt to live only off the game they are able to shoot while touring the U. S., Canada, Mexico, and Cuba, over a six months period.

The expedition, Indian style, is strictly an adventure unlimited affair, with the targets running anywhere from bear to field mice.

The "Three Bowman" have been testing their skills in the art of bagging food with the Indian fire-arm of late in various regions of California and are confident that they can make a go of their shop as you go outing.

The local pre-legal major describes the hunting by bow as great sport in that the hunter must be able really to stalk and get very close to his prey before he fires away.

Archery is nothing new to the trio with all having bent many a bow, but with Theroux and Charles it is more or less a hobby, while Nickie Charles (they're not related to the radio adventurers) answers to the call of Northern California Women's Champ.

Have you made up your mind on what you'll do when you graduate this June? If not, consider the opportunity available to you in the Aviation Cadets.

Few jobs anywhere can match this offer. When you win your wings and a Second Lieutenant's commission, you're paid as high as $336 per month to start. The training you get before and after you're commissioned is recognized as the world's finest—and it equips you for a well-paid lifetime career in military or commercial aviation.

You're eligible for appointment to the Cadets if you're single, between 20 and 26½ years old, and have completed at least one-half the requirements for a degree from an accredited college or university (or pass an equivalent examination).

Talk the program over with men in your class who have been Aviation Cadets. And for full details, ask at your nearest U. S. Army and U. S. Air Force Recruiting Station. Why not drop in today and discuss it?

WIN YOUR WINGS WITH THE AVIATION CADETS

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

THE students of old City College hustled to the polls last Thursday and Friday, and what was expected to be a party fight, turned out to be a popularity contest.

In the final tally, using the American method of voting that of a secret ballot, the students decided that the Fraternity candidates on the whole will make better student officers.

As to the popularity side of the election, it is interesting to note that out of 1176 ballots cast for president, Frank Ferguson, Tri-Epsilon fraternity candidate, slid by Jack Hagan, Student League aspirant, by only 32 votes.

VICE-PRESIDENT SIMILAR

By the same token, Student League candidate Del Rainer, out of the 1137 votes for vice-president, nosed out Bea Groger, Zeta Chi sorority and Fraternity ticket candidate, by a slim 29 ballots.

To further show the closeness in popularity, the new Freshman president, Money Hickman, Tau Chi Sigma fraternity member, out of 1088 votes cast for this office, eked out a victory over Walter Wiseman, Student League candidate, by just four votes.

COUNCIL POSITIONS, TOO

Continuing this trend of "vote for the person," George Capanis, Tri-Epsilon fraternity member, who worked like hell to help put over the Vagabond King, received a thumping vote of confidence and will be returned to the council next Fall.

Jack Hurley, fiery Student League minority leader in the council, will again assume that position next semester.

Walt McCrae, student band manager and Student League candidate, who carried the fight to the council on the band uniform situation, also won a seat on the council.

On the Fraternity majority side of the slate, John Pifer, this semester's rally commissioner. Jim Fernhoff, Sophomore Week chairman, and Bob Jennings, this semester's Freshman class president, all swept into the council.

Don Schumacher, Fraternity incumbent, was returned to the council.

STUDENTS WILL WATCH

Because the 30 per cent turnout of voters have elected these students to office, and have given the Fraternities a conclusive majority, these officers-elect may possibly hold the future of the college in their hands and in their student government vote.

These officers were elected, in addition to the Fraternity vote by the independent students, who feel they can do a better job.

Their actions in student government, therefore, will be watched closely by Fraternity people and independent alike.

CAB Calls Meeting For Officer Vote Tomorrow

A special meeting of the Club Advisory Board has been called for tomorrow at 3:30 p.m. in the student lounge for the purpose of electing fall semester officers, Mel Dykman, CAB president, announced yesterday.

Students nominated for CAB offices are as follows: For President, Tony Elvitsky and Jim Davis, both of whom ran for Student Council; for Vice-President (uncontested), Rosalie Abbot, former Secretary and Treasurer of the CAB; for Secretary (uncontested), Herminia Ross.

Absentee ballots will be accepted in Dean Jack Brady's office this Thursday from 9 to 12 a.m., Dykman said, stating that absentee ballots will be available in the Dean's office.

Dykman stated, "We must have a quorum at this meeting and it is the duty of every CAB representative to be present at this meeting."

Nominations were made last Friday morning at the CAB meeting.

College Hour Canceled

Cancellation of next Friday's college hour because of the instructor-student soft ball game was announced by John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, yesterday.

In place of college hour, 10 and 11 o'clock classes will be dismissed, giving interested fans ample time to attend the game.

Fountain Stays Open During Finals Week

Service in the west campus fountain will not be curtailed during finals week, Hilda Watson, Hotel and Restaurant Division head, announced today.

Regular hours will be maintained by the student cafeteria unless otherwise announced by poster or bulletin, while the faculty dining room will cease operation on Thursday, June 10, after luncheon, Mrs. Watson said.

July 7 Date For Summer Session

Registration for the summer session is scheduled for Wednesday, July 7, and instruction will begin the following day; finals are set for September 2, 3, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, announced last week.

Two new languages will be offered in the summer session.

Elective courses French II, and Spanish II, called conversational French, and conversational Spanish directed toward a greater fluency in the language, will be presented with a prerequisite of one semester in the language to be taken required.

French 29 a-b will be offered in the coming Fall semester with French 11 and Spanish 11. French 29 is literature in translation consisting of lectures and outside reading. There is no prerequisite for the course.

Advisers have information and class schedules relative to the summer session.

Buildings 6 And 7 Close On June 18

Students now living in buildings 6 and 7 must vacate them by June 18 to make room for Junior Red Cross annual convention delegates who will convene here June 19 to June 26, Fred MacFarland, housing officer, announced early this week.

Arrangements for housing students who plan to attend summer semester here have been made, and those who are interested should see MacFarland in Building 2, west campus.

Expecting 900 delegates to the convention, MacFarland has allotted buildings 6 and 7 for the young women and will use the college's two gymnasiums to house the young men.

Campus Police Enforce Marston Ave. Parking

City College campus police, under instructions from Dean Edward Sandys, are policing Hurley Village's Marston Avenue for parking violations, Law Enforcement instructor Fred FitzGerald disclosed today.

Since Marston Avenue is college property and is open to the public, traffic violators may be cited by the campus or City police.

Outstanding Efforts Highlight '48 Forum

Two stories and one poem highlight the 1948 Forum Magazine which was distributed yesterday to ticket holders.

The stories are Third Strike by Roy Pasini, in a somewhat Damon Runyon style of writing; My First College Rally, by Ben Kerbel, a South American student studying here, And The Angry Sea, a gripping poem by Stanley Medders.

The magazine is encased in a white self-type cover with black letters and a picture of the Silver Pole.

There are a few more copies available to non-ticket holders for 35 cents each at the guard house on Phelan Avenue, and The Guardsman office.

VOLUME XXVI SAN FRANCISCO, FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1948 NUMBER 25

Largest Graduating Class In History Of City College To Receive Diplomas June 19

Guardsman Wraps It Up For The Semester

Rumor has it that everyone is breathing easier, simply because The Guardsman is coming out no mo' this semester. This is the finale for the Spring semester, but when September rolls arounnd, and all the students are returning, The Guardsman will pour forth with a Freshman edition.

At an editorial staff meeting held Friday, June 4, Herbert M. Levy, managing editor, was named editor for the Fall, 1948, volume, succeeding George Lajeunesse, and departing from page 4, column 1.

Sigmund Stern Grove Set As Place Of Ceremonies

Honoring an all-time high of 940 students, ceremonies at Sigmund Stern Grove, Saturday, June 19, will mark the thirteenth annual commencement in City College history.

The two-and-a-half hour ceremony will begin with the processional, Pomp and Circumstance, played by the college orchestra under the direction of Meyer Cahn.

Johns Opens Ceremonies

The playing of the National Anthem by the college orchestra will follow the graduates' arrival at the stage. Upon their seating, George W. Johns, president of the San Francisco Board of Education, will deliver the welcoming address.

Bill Riley, president of the class of '48, will introduce Philip Onstott, honor graduate, whose grade point average distinguishes him as one of the two student speakers.

Following the addresses, the A Cappella Choir, under the direction of Flossita Badger, will sing selections from its musical repertoire, including the Marches of Peace and Kyrie Eleison.

Elmer Dickey, tenor, will sing at least one solo.

Clish Confers Awards

Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of San Francisco public schools, will confer awards on those graduates to be so honored.

Following Clish's presentations, Max Coil, president of the Associated Students, will introduce the top honor graduate, Marilyn Smith, who will deliver the valedictory address.

The high-lighting speech of the ceremony will be delivered by Roy Simpson, superintendent of schools, State of California, acting as guest speaker.

Conferring Associate of Arts degrees on the 940 graduates, President A. J. Cloud of this college, will present each diploma to the individual student.

The close of the impressive ceremony will be marked by the singing of Alma Mater by the A Cappella Choir, and the recessional of the graduates.

Auditorium Houses Music Department

Starting in the fall semester, all courses in the music department, including choir, band, orchestra, chorus, as well as literature and theory, will be located in Building one, the west campus auditorium, Lloyd Luckmann, chairman of the fine arts department, announced today.

Meanwhile, Flossita Badger, music department head, urged that all students interested in the new opera workshop make an appointment for a vocal audition on this coming Tuesday or Thursday in Room 200 at 2 p.m. as the sign up for this new course has been already exceptionally heavy.

The workshop offers the new course in opera coaching, and courses in musicianship, musical literature, voice, chorus, acting (speech 42ab), a new course in lyric diction, fencing, modern dancing, and special courses in Italian, French and German, which will be listed in the catalogue under music courses.

50 Athletes Given Awards At Banquet

Marking the end of another semester of athletic achievement, the Block SF Society held its awards banquet in the college cafeteria last Thursday evening, June 3, at which time more than 50 athletes were presented with blocks and certificates for their efforts during the spring seasons.

The following athletes received awards: Basketball—Al Athanasopoulos, Bill Bahr, Oliver Bascom, James Caldwell (captain), Terry McKeon, Donald Payne, Robert Payne, Ray Schwerin, Robert Tomlinson and Manager Armand Garbarino.

Baseball—Chris Makras; Paul Nederman, Emmett Lynch, Nick Cannale, Ernie Domecus, Zane Kaplan, Bill Kenna, Ray White, Tom Bournellis and Al Tarabini.

Boxing—Roy Damas, Henry Williams, John Brown and Gil Lazzareschi.

Tennis—Bill Covall (captain), Edward Jacobsen, Frank Reed, Fred Rodgers, Bob Sockolov and Bill Torres.

Track—Bill Barnes, Bob Brickell, Seward Chapman, Bob Cook, Bob De Grazia, Jeff Dodson, Jack Hurst, Bill Langan, Tyre Mills, Owen Moore, Dave Ramos, Allan Rillera, Doss Sims, Jim Tibirzi, Bill Wrightson, Jim Wyatt (captain), Bob Zarlck and Manager Horace Aubertine.

Golf—(Circle SFs) William King, Joseph Durand, Robert Padgett, Robert Payne, and Donald Payne.

Intramural Managers — Eugene Wickinski, David Dilg and Oliver de Lalla.

Bank Closes Window For Semester Today

Transactions and completing of business at the student bank will be terminated today.

Oscar E. Anderson, college controller, stated that all campus clubs having accounts held at the bank must be closed out today.

Anderson pointed out that this applies to any unsold tickets now being held by clubs or club members as well as unsold Forum tickets.

Fraternities and sororities may reopen accounts for the summer with express approval of their sponsors.

Plaque Goes To Burger, Wu For College Service

Named as being of outstanding service to the college, students Gloria Jean Wu and Don Burger will receive the President's Award Plaque for this semester, Dr. Archibald J. Cloud, president of the college, announced yesterday.

Burger, in addition to other services for the college, served as Associated Student Finance Chairman for two semesters.

Miss Wu, an ex-sophomore queen, held the position of Associated Student Secretary last semester.

The names of these two students will be inscribed on the award plaque which is kept in the trophy showcase in the main campus building.

6 Students Named Honor Graduates

By Nancy Longhlin

Rated tops in scholastic standing, and active in college affairs, the six honor graduates for the thirteenth annual City College commencement, to be held Saturday, June 19, at 2:30 p.m. at Sigmund Stern Grove are Marilyn Smith, Norman Hamlin, Junior DeVere Seader, Nancy Wallace, Lucienne Beerbrayer, and Philip Onstott.

Miss Smith's grade point average of 2.92 distinguishes her as the top honor scholar of the Spring '48 commencement. Her honor rating has won her the Scholastic Cup, presented annually to the holder of the highest scholastic record, and the honor of valedictorian at the commencement.

A major in foreign languages here at City College, Miss Smith's future lies at the University of California where she will continue the major to further her participation in the teaching profession.

Hamlin, of the Fall, 1947 class, and a member of Lambda Alpha, will also graduate in the thirteenth annual commencement at Sigmund Stern Grove. At present he is attending the University of California, after completing his studies at City College. The second highest honor graduate, Hamlin achieved a 2.89 honor rating.

A chemical engineering student at City College, Seader is continuing his major at U.C. Of the Fall, 1947 class, he will also receive his diploma at commencement. Claiming the distinction of being third highest honor grad, Seader achieved a grade point average of 2.83.

Known throughout the college as vice-president of the Associated Students, Miss Wallace also holds an enviable status as high point honor grad with an average of 2.80. Majoring in pre-nursing at this college, Miss Wallace will further her education at U.C. next semester.

Miss Beerbrayer's chemistry studies at City College will be advanced at U.C. where she expects to enroll next semester. Her grade point average here of 2.78 rates her as an honor graduate.

Having lived much of her life in China, Miss Beerbrayer can tell of an interesting life there before embarking to the United States.

An ardent actor and bibliophile while attending City College, Onstott is of the Fall, 1947, class. His scholastic rating of 2.78, his speaking ability, and his service to the college give him the honor of second student speaker.

These six scholars automatically rate life membership in Alpha Gamma Sigma, the statewide scholastic honor society.

CAUGHT IN ONE of their rare informal poses is this group of graduating Guardsman staff members who reluctantly agreed to come from behind their Remingtons for a quick picture.

Left to right, top row are Art Paymiller of Ramblings fame, Staff Editor Del Pichon, voted most likely to be garroted by the sorority set, News Editor Ignatius Lascola raconteur par excellence and brother of an octopus, Editor George Lajeunesse who doubled as a second string drama critic on a throwaway in addition to grinding out an occasional editorial, and Hank Tweith who recently turned professional and accepted a job on a Lodi, California, rag.

Soph Formal Concludes College Social Events

By Dale Butterfield

Bringing an active college social season to a close and bidding farewell to a host of graduating students the Sophomore class will present their theme, "Royalty Ram-ble" tomorrow evening at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

The semi-annual formal dance, at which the King and Queen will be named and crowned in mid-evening, climaxes the royalty race. The Sophomore class will present the Queen and King each with a personal loving cup.

Perpetual Trophies Also

Also, as a token of royalty recognition, Beta Tau will present the Queen with a perpetual trophy, and Theta Tau will bestow one on the King.

Sal Vance and his orchestra, who played for the formal at the University of San Francisco this semester, will feature an evening of musical entertainment.

Sophomore class officers who have conducted the various activities of the class throughout this semester are Bill Riley, president, Bill Chotilos, vice-president, Jim Fernhoff, sophomore week chairman, and Jean Gibson, secretary.

Faculty Assists

Faculty members who have guided sophomore officers in their activities are Patricia McCarthy and W. Rollin Hanson, both City College instructors.

Members of the dance committee, Andy Ferrari, Bob Hawkins, Chuck Hingsbergen and Margie Swanman, who are making preparations for the colorful event, stated that dress for men for the evening will be dark suits or tuxedos. The no corsage rule is not in effect.

Sophomore officers added further that bids may still be purchased today at the student bank or the student store, and tomorrow evening at the gates to the temple at 1547 Oak Street in Oakland.

Bids are being sold at two dollars per couple.

This festive affair gives graduating students an opportunity for a last whirl at City College social events.

Though the King and Queen will be known to the ones counting the ballots, college tradition prevents the royalty set from enjoying their reign until the evening of the ball.

Playground Fund Reaches $500 Goal

Releasing The Vagabond King financial statement yesterday, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, disclosed that the $500 goal for the Hurley Village Playground fund has been reached.

Previous private donations of $65 plus $35 from The Shanly Co., Guardsman printers, will be added to $400 from Vagabond King receipts. This amount was voted by the Student Council.

The Shanly Co. donation was the last received and was calculated to bring the fund to its $500 goal.

Total income for the college light opera was $2,356.00, Anderson said, pointing out that the government got more opera money than Hurley Village. Federal taxes were $422.05.

Cub Pack 36 Donates $50 To Playground

Pack 36, Cub Scouts of America, through Irwin Smith, Scoutmaster, presented a check for $50 to the Hurley Village Playground fund at their final meeting at Aptos Junior High School auditorium last Tuesday night, according to Allan Maxwell, village manager, who accepted the check in behalf of the playground project.

Graduation Pictures Out Next Wednesday

The graduating class picture, taken during last Friday's college hour, will be available in City College students at the student bank Wednesday, June 16, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, disclosed yesterday.

A fee of $1.50 will be charged for the picture.

Those students unable to get a picture on June 16, may do so throughout the summer at Plymouth Pictures, 2528 Ocean Avenue.

A Final "Thank You" To Those Who Helped Us To Build A Playground

FOR the final editorial of this semester we'd like to pay tribute to everyone in and out of the college whose efforts have succeeded in making this paper's pet project, the Hurley Village Playground, a definite reality.

Next semester will positively see a weed infested plot of ground over in the housing project turned into a clean, attractive, well-equipped play area for the nearly forgotten children of our veteran-students.

In the college bank right now, earmarked for the playground, is a neat bankroll of exactly $550.10, representing not only a generous slice of the profits of The Vagabond King (nearly all, in fact) but outside contributions that have come in from time to time from many sources.

The biggest hand of course goes to our own Student Council. The Council originally agreed to allow half of the light opera proceeds to go to the fund. Since that time they agreed to turn over a flat $400 which represents nearly all the profit of the undertaking after the cost of the production, $1500, and the federal tax, had been paid in full.

We are indebted to Herb Caen of The Chronicle who placed an item in his widely read column that was directly responsible for $55 of the total amount.

Winston Norman, Stanford graduate and local advertising executive, sent a five dollar check to Caen who forwarded it to the college.

Last Tuesday night Pack 36 of the Cub Scouts of America presented Allan Maxwell, housing manager of Hurley Village with a check for $50.

Our thanks to Mrs. Florence Ames of our own staff for her $10, to the college choir for $25, to the Kiwanis Club for $25, and to Mr. Landers and Mr. Newell of The Shanly Company, who do a consistently excellent job of printing The Guardsman, for their generous $35.

We've done our best within these pages to name each and every person who helped in one way or another; if we've failed we hope then that the laughter of the Hurley Village kids in their new playground will pay the debt.

News To Nobody . . .

By Jack Hulse

ON the Left-Bank at Old City College: City collegians have been shocked lately (just when finals come around) by the sight of two local lads sporting berets on their heads. These boys (evidently trying to start a bohemian quarter on the West Campus) go under the names of Hew "Booge" Kendall and Gene Ellison. The berets don't look bad.

(COMMENT): "No Comment."

Summer's a Little Late This Year: The beach is strictly a thing of the past as this semester draws to a discouraging close. The sun has evidently gone south for the winter and Bookshoppers, Student Storites, and Ram Shackers have been forced to forego bathing suits for the usual juke boxes, card games, and pinball machines.

(Comment): After all, these people have had the right idea all semester. Who has the most fun on the campus?

How Successful Can You Get? The Tri-Epsilon frat will report on the campus like gangbusters come next semester. Seems the boys are well represented by Frank Ferguson, our new pres, and Herb Levy who will take over the editorial reins of the timely, vital, etc. paper you now hold in your sensitive fingers!!!!!

FRIENDS OF THE PEOPLE: The votes have been counted, the tears dried, and the wrists slashed, for once again the People have spoken. They made their choice in a querulous voice. This all proves something about the "democratic way," but right now we can't figure what it is.

From Rags to Riches: One week ago the my Gawdsman featured a lad name of Hank Twelth. We thought he showed "promise," but we can't cry over the fact that he's gone. Why? The guy is now the Sports Editor of the Lodi News Sentinel. Remember us, Hank, when the Depression comes.

HOW UNSUCCESSFUL CAN YOU GET DEPT.? Last weekend Gadsman columnist Del Pichon was giving his Willys car (which he'd owned for ONE day) a little trial speed run. That would have been O.K., but the speed trial ended up with the Willys spread out all over a road grading machine. Pichon now contemplates life from a hospital bed. His injuries aren't serious. The car, uninsured, is not expected to recover. The speed trial was a failure.

Smith, Onstott Were Active In Student Life

By Ann Land

Cited as the graduate with the most brain power, Marilyn Smith, graduating this spring with highest honors; has been chosen valedictorian of the class of 1948.

Miss Smith, because of her high 2.9 grade point average, will receive an honorary certificate from Alpha Gamma Sigma, and her name will be written on the honor roll of the society.

The theme of Miss Smith's speech will be Peace in the Post War Period.

As a speaker representing the high honor graduates of last semester's class, Philip Onstott will present his views on current events. The topic of the speech at the present time is unknown.

PHIL ONSTOTT, honor graduate of the December class of City College, will speak at commencement.

Onstott, who was an active member of student and veteran organizations while at City College, is continuing his education at the University of California, where he will major in social psychology.

Onstott hopes ultimately to teach that subject after graduation.

Miss Smith, though accomplished in music, majors in languages. She hopes to extend her grade average when she again hauls out her books of knowledge this fall to attend the University of California.

Bith Miss Smith and Onstott were honor students throughout high school as well as throughout their college careers.

Miss Smith has also been active in Forum, a literary society which holds discussions on current affairs.

One of Onstott's contributions to the college was his position as chairman of the American Veterans Committee.

In drama, he was considered outstanding in his role of stage manager in Thornton Wilder's Our Town, produced here last fall, and was equally impressive as the narrator at last December's annual Christmas concert.

Brother Octopus Falls For Pulse Taking Lover

By I. R. Lascola

Our brother, you know the one who is an octopus, is married now, to a lovely black haired girl with a beige moustache. Her name is Sonja, and she sleeps in an earth filled box.

Sonja met our brother last week at a codfish ball. Our brother admitted later that it was that beige moustache of Sonja's that did it, and we had to agree with him; it is very chic, although, just between you and us, we think she dyes it.

After the ball my brother, politely disembowled Sonja's escort, and escorted her home. She was living at that time in a beautiful tomb in the residential section of the city.

Perhaps, before we go any further, we should clarify: Sonja is a vampire. That's probably why she sleeps all day in that earth-filled box, but it certainly doesn't explain that beige moustache. We're sure it's not natural.

At any rate the question of Sonja's hirsute adornment being dyed didn't bother our brother. He couldn't see enough of her; gay evenings of dancing and singing, sentimental evenings placing wreaths on clam shells in Fisherman's Wharf, and practical evenings slyly taking blood counts at the city hospital.

Our brother who is an octopus was in love, no doubt of it. He was mad about the beautiful vampire with the beige moustache. We wonder what color it was before she dyed it?

After they announced their marriage, one thing bothered us. After all Sonja is a vampire, and anybody knows what vampires take for nourishment. We weren't worried for ourselves, being anemic, but our brother is a pretty healthy octopus.

Then, out of the beige, a solution came to us; a wedding present that would thrill Sonja and guarantee our brother's safety. We gave her a bank account, but a practical bank account, suited to her vital cravings. Our gift was an open account at a blood bank.

The newlyweds are happy, our brother, who is an octopus, and his Sonja with the biege moustache. Maybe the patter of tiny feet will soon bless their existence, we want to be there when this happens. Imagine, a black-haired little octopus with a biege moustache.

• Checks Unchecked

Editor, The Guardsman:

Because of our interest in City College of San Francisco and our association with The Guardsman, Mr. Newell and I send you this check for $35 to bring the Hurley Playground fund to $500.

We think it a splendid and worthwhile project and much enjoyed The Vagabond King, the opera which inspired your idea for the playground.

Editor, The Guardsman:

With the Spring semester, 1948, drawing to a close, the members of the Block "SF" Society at this time would like to thank the Associated Students of City College, the Student Council, and the Faculty Administration for the wonderful support and cooperation they have given the athletes and the society during the spring term.

The Block Society realizes that none of our functions and various tasks toward building a bigger and better City College could have been completed had not everyone been so helpful in aiding us.

Folk Dancing With Coed Group

"DANCE BALLERINA DANCE" AND "SWING YOUR PARTNER" are two of the ditties which have made the hit parade on the gym's juke box following a successful semester of co-educational folk dancing.

Coed Groups Again On WAA Calendar

Co-educational folk dancing, under the direction of Laurine Bergin, women's physical education head, will be continued next semester, and the co-ed group, having been active this semester, will again give dance demonstrations next Fall, Mrs. Bergin said.

Sign-ups for the co-ed dance class for next semester will be taken when students sign up for regular classes. Students will sign up under the men's and women's schedule for Tuesdays and Thursdays at 1 p.m., Mrs. Bergin stated.

Besides being active in the dance classes, the Women's Athletic Association has participated in fencing, horse back riding, tennis, badminton, and modern dance. During the semester, the various classes have given demonstrations which have shown their ability in these different divisions.

"Grid Field" Site Of 2 Hr. Break Action; MacPhee To Start 'Grudge' Battle At 10:15

By Roy Pasini

Climaxing weeks of perspiration, the "battle of the ages" goes on stage this a.m. from 10 to 12 on the football practice field with the Soph class softballers out to turn back a well schooled squad of batty profs.

In the last tilt way back in '43 the profs were victors by a 16-15 count.

As "Stonewall" Jack Brady, guardian of the initial sack for the Hill Crowd, puts it, "We have a very competent and tested club and expect little trouble from the Sophomore representatives who have taken it upon themselves to attempt to accomplish the Herculean task of defeating the undefeated faculty nine."

"Wild" Bill Riley and Jim "Hornpipe" Fernhoff, co-captains of the nervy challengers, feel that, "because the instructors have come along through the years, it will be only a matter of innings before the power laden bats of the Sophs begin to take their toll of the Profs in one way or another."

From the spectators' viewpoint the tilt will also feature another source of entertainment. The tussle will mark the first public appearance of Sammie the Ram, the local version of Cal's Oskie.

The comedy will get underway immediately after the prescntation of intramural awards with a real live downtown celebrity, Chester R. MacPhee, appearing in the role of the perennial first ball tosser which always precedes all important ball and bat parties.

Providing a vocal picture of the struggling fiasco will be Roy Barnett, talent bureau head, through the medium of a PA system.

"Hustling" Joe Sewell, prof batboy, has confirmed reports that "Tarzan" Ed Sandys will again start on the mound for the brain trust, with Lee "Crusher" Eisan handling his slants. For the determined challengers it will be Ted "Muscuils" Quandt on the hill with Carl "Beard" Semonian behind the log.

Don't miss the titanic effort. It's about as athletic a way as possible to wind up the semester.

Blues Champs Of Intra Touch Football League

The Balboa Blues defeated the Block SF for the touch football intramural championship last Monday on the college football field by a score of 2-0. They will be awarded gold belt buckles preceding the Prof-Soph softball game.

Rams Bow In Close Olympic Decisions

None of the six Ram boxers who participated last week in the Olympic tryouts at Sacramento advanced past the semi-finals, but the college boxers, nevertheless, gave a good account of themselves.

Carl Hoyos, 112, was knocked out in the first round of a bout in the semi-finals, while John Fisher, 112, and Len Garcia, 127, lost by close decisions in the semis.

Hard-luck fighter of the tourney was Ram Frank Suega, 176, who gained a first round win by a knockout but was forced to retire from further competition because of a fractured thumb. Many of the spectators thought that Suega would have advanced to the tourney finals if he hadn't suffered the untimely injury.

Jim Wilson, 147, and Roy Damas, 136, bowed to decisions in the first round of the Olympic tryouts.

Coach Roy Diederichsen did an exceptionally fine job of preparing the boxers for the important contests.

Boxing has now become one of the more important college sports because of the ever increasing interest among the students.

OUTFITS THE YOUNG MAN AND TEENAGE GIRL

The SOOTHSAYER

By Herbert Levy

SEEING as how the Sooth is going out to pasture with this edition, and has some 70 slugs of type to fill up in column 1, page 4 (which is usually terribly interesting, and to quote Hulse, the hamburger, who scribbles on page 2, about Nobody in the News, or News Nobody knows, or some gosh darn thing, "Ask anyone in the Book Store"), we herewith, wish to thank some interesting people who have given us hot copy all semester. (What a nice concise, short, lead paragraph.)

First on the list is Bob Reilly. Without him, this column would probably have to dig up some news in the Basketweaving Department. Even though his term in the Council has been stormy, if rumors be true, his classical music collection is, indeed compensating. (Trade you a Prokofief, Romeo & Juliet Baliet suite for a Tschaikovsky, R & J overture.)

Then of course, there's much-admired Handsome Jack Brady, the industrious dean, who has filled reams of copy. We called him "thin haired" once, but we take it back. He just has extreme "widow peaks."

Fiery Jack Hurley comes in for the next bit of thanks. Jack at least put two sides to a question, which newspapermen (do we hear a snicker) just love.

Thanks to Jack Hagan and Frank Ferguson (who incidentally are both pretty good boys), for their delightful council comments. We think they ran for president or something like that.

And a great big "chocolate dipped petticoat" to the gals in the council, Bea Groger, "Barby" Hendrickson (who owes us a malt), Helen Rich, Phyllis Ryan, and of course Nancy Wallace. Nancy always did interest us in a sort of "Robert Rules of Order" way. (This is more fun than squashing snails.)

George Capanis comes in for a pat on the back (bet he didn't even feel the blade go in) and Max Call comes in for a pat on the head. He's lovely, he's engaged, he uses Bromas Grass. (For we native so and sos, Bromas grows in Idaho, which is better than sweli.)

Oh yes, we pride ourselves in keeping all the issues at hand quite clean, like forgetting that the much talked about, little known, "Order" exists, etc., likewise the comparable "Sword Society." Yes, they even have pins, too.

Same goes for the "hush hush" concordat and the various other caucus meets. The reason we laid off. Frankly, 5000 students really aren't very interested.

Well, thanks again, for your indulgence, and through a recent survey (It's Reefers 2 to 1) we find that most people read this column, and do you want to know something else, most people don't like it.

Well, the truth will make you confused, and happy summer vacation!

Sales Indicate That Forum Exceeds Goal

With sales exceeding 500 on the first day, Forum magazine has shown a profit over the $300 alloted to the magazine by the Student Council, Marvin Silverman, editor, declared Tuesday.

The advertising department has taken in over $90, and more is expected, Hal Shapiro, business manager, announced.

Players Receive The Mardi Gras Cup

The Drama Society, with its Rip Skits of 1948, received the semi-annual Mardi Gras award of a gold loving cup, presented to the organization having the most unusual and most successful booth.

Time Schedule For Summer And Fall Registration Fixed

Indicating that the registrar's office is being rushed with preparation for Summer and Fall registration, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, stated that students attending the college from East Bay counties should renew their attendance permits before registering for the summer session.

Summer registration will be Wednesday, July 7, with former students signing up alphabetically as follows: A to C—8; D to K—9; L to Q—10; and R to Z—11. New students will start registering at 1 o'clock the same day.

Fall registration for former students will begin on Thursday, September 16, with the O, P, Q group leading off at 7:45 a.m., followed by R, S, at 8:45, T, U, at 9:45, and V, W, at 10:45. Thursday afternoon the A, B, group starts at 1 o'clock, and the C group at 2 o'clock.

The remainder of the former students will register on Friday, September 17, the D group at 7:45 a.m., followed by E, F, G, at 8:45, H, at 9:45, and I, J, K, at 10:45 a.m. In the afternoon the L group starts at 1, and at 2 o'clock, the M and N students will register.

New students register September 20, and 21, and classes start Wednesday, September 22.

Cafeteria Will Be Open During Summer Session

Food prepared for cafeteria service during the summer session will be done by special classes under the direction of the Hotel and Restaurant Division, Hilda Watson, department head, announced today.

Breakfast hours will be from 9 to 11 o'clock each morning; lunch will be served from 11 to 1:30 o'clock, each class day during the session. No dinners will be served.

Business Staff Fills Page, Grins At Birdie

Clint Logas, remaining graduating ad staffer, and assistant business manager, was not present to smile at the birdie.

(Editor's note: More space would have been dedicated to this energetic group, but unfortunately they piled so many ads on this paper we were a little pressed for space. This is all we could let them have, so there.)

Funds Passed By Council Make The Band Uniform Completion Possible

With band uniforms finally becoming a reality, Dr. O. E. Anderson received an okay from the Student Council recently to set aside money for the purchasing of band uniforms, Walt McRae, student band manager, announced.

Plans for the music library have been completed, and marches for this purpose have been worked out and put into use. The band has also been able to acquire more music, McRae added.

Also purchased, are twirlers' batons and white drum slings which will go well with the red and white uniforms planned for next semester. The drum slings now being used are khaki colored and contrast sharply with the make-shift uniforms the band has been wearing.

Old Council Out; New Session Now Open

Last minute business for this semester's Student Council was speedily cleared from Tuesday's agenda in preparation for the new council which commenced its formal activities yesterday.

In its final meeting, which lacked the usual spark, the council closed its budget books, and voted additional funds where needed to complete all "end of semester" functions.

With a vote of good luck for its future operations, the retiring council appropriated $50 for the new council's immediate use in planning Associated Student card promotion for next semester.

President Max Call highlighted the session when he ceremoniously presented award keys to the council and president's cabinet members.

Bureau Plays For Club

In a 40-minute variety show the college talent bureau entertained members of the San Francisco Sportsman's Club last Tuesday night, June 8, Roy Barnett, group charman announced yesterday.

The program included songs and a magic act under the direction of Barnett.

Rams, Monterey Clash In Grid Opener

West Campus Stage For Bonfire Rally

Sparking the first Associated Student affair of the semester, a huge bonfire, starting at 8:30 o'clock on the West Campus, will be in evidence at tonight's rally.

Bill Hansen, rally commissioner, said yesterday that the rally will be for the purpose of promoting college spirit and attendance at the first football game to be played with Monterey Peninsula College tomorrow, September 24.

Entertainment will star Elmer Dickey, graduate in June '48; a male quartet, and skits stemming from the drama department. College clubs and the talent placement bureau are active in organizing the program.

Larry Weber, head yell leader, will lead the crowd in City College yells. His assitants are Steve Norris, Rita Fabri, and Jean Vivaldi.

(Following the bonfire, a record dance will be held in the Auditorium with the last disk rolling to a stop at midnight.)

Commissioner Hansen urged all new and returning students to attend this first college rally of the semester.

"Only through the combined efforts of those planning college affairs and those attending can City College activities reach the peak of performance and spirit," Hansen said.

Hansen advised students to bring blankets to sit on at the rally it they choose to be comfortable.

AMS Makes Plans For Big Homecoming Event

Plans for a gala Homecoming celebration to be held on the campus Friday, October 22, and featuring alumni participation, are under way at present, Associated Men Student President Pete Isola revealed today.

Headlining tentative plans for the day are a queen contest and best Western costume for the women, with a beard growing contest listed for the men.

Also included on the activity list is the San Mateo-San Francisco football classic which will be followed by a hard time dance on the campus. The football tilt has been tentatively scheduled as the annual Damon Runyon Fund charity game.

No Smoking Rule Will Be Strictly Enforced

Stringent smoking regulations will be enforced on the campus this semester, according to a statement released yesterday by Dean Edward E. Sandys.

No smoking will be permitted in the main building with the exception of the basement floor. Students will no longer be allowed to smoke on the stairways or landings in the building.

Smoking will be permissible in the student Lounge, cafeteria, fountain, and anywhere outside of campus buildings, Sandys said.

Offenders will be dealt with in the following manner: First offenses will result in the violator's name being taken followed by a reprimand.

A repeat citation will place the student on probation, with a third and final offense listed as grounds for giving the student a leave of absence.

The deans, instructors, and the newly organized Campus Police Force will be given the power to enforce these rules, Sandys said.

Plans For Co-Op Book Store Pending

Presentation of a plan to the Board of Education pertaining to a college-owned book store is still pending, according to an administration spokesman.

It was reported that a copy of the plan will be given to Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools, who will present it to the School Board in the near future.

The plan, generally outlined, calls for a student operated cooperative dealing in books and other supplies. Most items will be reduced for holders of Associated Student card.

At such time as the School Board may favor the plan, the administration spokesman pointed out, it would be subject to student approval by a general vote of all Associated Students.

Money for such a project would come from the Associated Student budget, while profits would be returned to the budget fund.

The building used for this purpose would be, in all probability, Building 6 or 7, the spokesman added.

At present, of the 23 two-year colleges operating on the same basis as City College, only five do not have campus operated book stores.

They are Porterville and Santa Barbara with enrollments of around 400. Santa Ana with 800 students and City College with nearly 6000 students.

City College On The Main Building Makes Name Change Final

By Bill Franklin

There was no ceremony, and the laborers were undisturbed by the summer weather or by the idle and curious spectators. It was just the simple job of placing some letters in correct order on a rather imposing building to satisfy someone's desire.

Fulfilling their assignment, the workers unknowingly placed the final period to a long and seemingly hopeless campaign waged by student and faculty member alike. The battle, led by Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president, and assisted by Thomas R. Porter, would have to pay off.

Finally the news flashed through its course, saying that the stigma of adolescence, "Junior," was marked for death on February 12, 1948, and the college would operate under the new and deserved title of City College of San Francisco.

Thanks to the decision of the San Francisco Board of Education, acting on recommendation of Superintendent Herbert C. Clish, the college is no longer confused with junior high schools or the uncertain rank as to educational level with the general public.

The cause is gone and all but forgotten, but the effect remains.

The effect? Why the bronze letters, City College of San Francisco, on the main building.

TOMORROW NIGHT at 8 o'clock in State's Stadium, the Rams hope to portray a different role from the one depicted above. It should be Monterey Wolves clawing the turf instead of slaughtered Rams. In this color shot of 1947, the locals were on their way to a 27-7 setback.

Cal, Stanford Reduce Toll For Card Holders

Associated Student card holders were assured yesterday they will receive admission reductions for all California and Stanford football games.

In a statement released from the deans' office, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, explained that he had received official approval from Greg Engelhardt and Al Masters, directors of athletics, respectively, of the two universities.

The reductions include the "Big Game" which will be played at Berkeley this year.

All reduced price tickets must be purchased at the stadiums.

The dean said that a similar request to Santa Clara and the San Francisco 49'ers was turned down.

(Santa Clara's reason for negation was that the university had not previously slashed rates in honoring two-year college student body cards.

(George Lenares, 49'er secretary, stated that a reduction was not possible as yet since the 49'ers have been operating in the "red" for the past two seasons.

(High school student body card holders, it was pointed out, are admitted to all '49'er games for 75 cents.)

Brady revealed that Joe Kuharich, U.S.F. football coach and director of athletics, and Joe Verducci, holding a similar position at St. Mary's College, will bring the question of reduced rates for City College card holders before the next Board of Directors' meeting at their respective institutions.

Openings For Six In Audio-Visual Training

A learn-as-you-earn proposition was revealed today for prospective movie projector operators by Madison Devlin of the college audio-visual aids division.

According to word from Devlin, the department has six projectors for classroom use plus the Sonovision, but is lacking operators for the machines.

Devlin is willing to train any students who are interested in running the machines. They will be paid at the rate of 75 cents an hour with most of the work being conducted on Friday mornings.

Any interested students are urged to leave their names with Devlin, who can be found in Room 148, main building.

College Gains 19 New Instructors

A list of 19 new instructors and one Assistant Registrar who have taken over posts at the college this semester was released last week by President A. J. Cloud.

Holder of the administrative position is Gertrude Somerville, while the Physical Education department gains a new track coach in the person of Roy Burkhead.

The college counselling division boasts three new members in Louis Bâtmale, Thomas Nesbit, and Helen Huffman.

Harold Edmison, Jr., and Wilton Weldman join the engineering department, with Henry Leff and Donald Snepp becoming part of the radio and English staffs, respectively.

In the Hotel and Restaurant Division, the new arrivals are Pierre Coste and Edward S. Nylund.

Rose Kraft and Frances Lloyd will be found in Home Economics and the business department secures George Stewart, Glenn Mercer, and Harry W. Frustuck, Jr.

Rounding out the list of new arrivals are George Baffico, geology instructor; Norman Egger, psychology; Grover Newman, art; and Robert Morton in the music department.

October 1 Last Day To File Drop Petitions

Last day to file petitions for adding, changing, or dropping a course will be Friday, October 1.

"Former students should be careful and watch the date, because the time is much shorter than in previous semesters," Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, warned.

All changes in classes, adding or dropping, must start with the approval of the student's adviser, Miss Leanard added.

Conference Tilt On Lake Merced Field; Kickoff At 8 P.M.

By Walt Roessing

Lowering its horns, a charging Ram eleven will attempt to vanquish the Lobos from Monterey Peninsula College tomorrow night in the NCJC conference football opener.

Playing on the new Lake Merced field of San Francico State College, the restless men coached by Grover Klemmer will face the newest members of the league when the game starts at 8 o'clock.

Eager to show off his power to the youngest upstarts of the conference, Coach Klemmer will turn the lettermen-packed herd loose on the visitors.

Led by Bob Toquinto, Kenny Foehr, Ben Albrecht, Paul Olivier, Neal Gunn, Morey Coch, and Ray Posnicoff, all returning veterans, the local T-formation football contingent will try to hit the victory trail in the season's opening encounter.

Assisting the eight returning lettermen in their quest for victory are newcomers Ollie Matson, sensational halfback; Con O'Shea and Roy Georgi, fullbacks, and Bob Bagley, center, who held down a tackle spot with Menlo Junior College last season.

Although with only three weeks of practice behind them, Assistant Coaches Bill Fischer and Ralph Hillsman have helped Klemmer turn the Rams into a powerful football team, possessing lightning speed in the backfield and a strong, formidable line.

Little is known of the white and crimson T operating team of Coach Dan Dillon, former Ohio State alumnus, but the Monterey Peninsula eleven will possess the spirit to win.

Tomorrow evening's clash will be the first time that the Rams have ever acted as hosts at a night football game.

The State grid stadium may be reached directly from 19th Avenue, one-half mile south of Sloat Boulevard.

Glad To Have You—May Your Stay Here Be Pleasant And Profitable

WITH football season staring us in the face, we would like to kick off this opening edition of the Fall semester with "glad to have you" to all the new students.

Ordinarily for the first paper of any semester, the editorial gives out with the usual hackneyed stuff about what a wonderful college this is and what a wonderful football team we have and how great the college will be in the future.

We candidly admit the above is all true, but we'd just like to add a few hints on life around City College.

Firstly, faculty members are called instructors, which seems logical, and should they have a Ph.D. behind their name, then they are respectfully addressed as Doctor.

Secondly, even though some of the downtown dailies aren't convinced, the name of this institution is City College of San Francisco.

On February 12 of this year, the college was emancipated from the name of "Junior," so when someone asks you what college you attend, the bright reply is "Why, City College, of course."

Thirdly, you'll find that compared with your high school days you will have a considerable amount of free time. If you don't wish to spend it in study, there are the student lounge and the fountain on the west campus, where you can enjoy the pause that refreshes.

The west campus is the area west of Phelan Avenue.

Frob the academic side, the college is ranked among the ten best of its type in the United States. Grades received in university parallel courses are fully accredited at the University of California and Stanford.

Sincerely, we hope that all you new students find your stay here pleasant and profitable.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

HOPING to discard what is negative amidst the turmoil of college life, this introduction of The Guardsman's newest column will accentuate the positive and concentrate—this issue, that is—on the lightest of subjects—namely, the college romances.

Running rampant through summer meadows, Dan Cupid had his eye well-trained for signs of weakness among City College students and instructors. The number of those who succumbed to his well-aimed arrows proved alarming!

Among the students, because of their association with The Guardsman, first mention goes to last semester's editor, George Lajeunesse, one fine gentleman and columnist of note, and his bride, Nancy Nagle, Guardsman Feature Editor 1946-47. Married August 28, The Lajeunesses are now living in Los Gatos while George attends San Jose State College—which goes to prove that all is not printer's ink flowing in the veins of journalists.

Among the faculty, popular and outstanding psychology instructor Phyllis Haley married Hal Learnard in romantic Hawaii this summer. If the gentleman's name strikes a familiar note, it's because Hal is the brother of City College's registrar, Mary Jane Learnard. Now on leave from the college, Mrs. Learnard and her spouse will reside in Honolulu.

A July ceremony marked the marriage of Frank Ferguson to Lillian Bates, both of CCSF. Frank will continue to give service to the college in the important position: Associated Student President, for the present semester. Perhaps the guiding light of some 6000 students will have an easier time of it with lovely Lillian to help.

Remaining with the college faculty and saving the home economics department from a complete upheaval, Claire Cuneo has been Mrs. Magnesi since June.

Another June bride resulted from the knot-tying of Millie Laube, ex-City College student and Bob Weingardner, former student council member and Beta Tau president.

A loss to the college were the two other instructors in the home economics department, Frances Mount, now Mrs. Telsey, who is on leave of absence, and Letha Robarts, now putting her home economics knowledge to practical use as a farmer's wife. We might say that these ladies are thoroughly supporting the adage that "the way to a man's heart is through his stomach."

Jean Gibson, soph class secretary and Theta Tau president, was wed to Cliff Houchins in a charming July ceremony. The Houchins' will feature domestic-life-on-campus as they reside in Hurley Village while Cliff completes his studies.

Tri Epsilon member Frank Graeber succumbed to the charms of a City Collegian, Betty Jones, and hit the romance jackpot at the hitching post.

'Tis rumored that a former gal-about-the Guardsman, Patti McGuire, is engaged. The lad is Freddie Lawson, brother of Dayton, Guardsman humorist. Nice connections a reporter's life affords, heh?!

Of international and "political" flavor is the news of the engagemen of Nancy Wallace, last semester's vice-president, and Jachi Krebs, late of Palestine where he was active in the Haganah. Both from City College, the "potential" Krebs are now at U. C.

The Administrators - Why CCSF Is Tops

HANDSOME AND HIGHLY ABLE, the college administration has worked hard to put City College of San Francisco among the ten best colleges in the United States.

Gertrude Somerville, missing from the picture, is newly appointed assistant registrar.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Bill Franklin

College offers more to the student than open books and bloodshot eyes as seen by the varied interests and activities of the many clubs and organizations formed to provide a full college experience.

The college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, is open to students maintaining a B average in at least a 12 unit program. Music majors with a B average are eligible for Lambda Alpha, while membership in Omicron Phi Pi is limited to students receiving the same high grade average in sociology, political science, history and economics.

Those wishing to join a professional club or one devoted to an activity of common interest, will find the Drama Society, Engineering Society, Hotel and Restaurant Society, Photographic Society, the geologist's Pick and Hammer, Pi Mu Gamma for those interested in biological sciences, Horticulture Society, Radio Engineering Society, Mikes and Men, Retail Merchandising Society, home planning in Alpha Theta Epsilon, SFCC Band Association, the Men's Glee Club, Cercle Francais, Mu Iota Psi, Forum or Alpha Delta Epsilon, the last three music, literary and art clubs, respectively.

In the sports world, the Block SF is open to block-letter wearers and the Ski Rams to those wanting winter-time sports.

Phi Epsilon Pho is open to women majoring in physical education or recreation, and the Women's Athletic Association to all women wanting to increase their sports ability.

A Common Spirit

By President A. J. Cloud

A faculty member recently gave me some of his impressions of student attitudes. In pre-war days, he said, students were likely to look on education with an air of tolerance; but, now, a new sense of values seemed to have developed among them. Post-war students, he felt, had a real appreciation of the opportunities offered and a full understanding of their importance.

My own observations run parallel to the views entertained by that faculty member. Heartening indeed is it to teachers to realize that students respond so well to the processes of instruction. Equally true is it that the rendering of educational service of the highest merit can only be accomplished when a common spirit of good will and confidence exists between teacher and student.

I take this privilege of commending our college faculty to all students—both those returning and to those newly entering—as a body of men and women deeply interested in student welfare, and capable of aiding students toward fulfillment of their aims and purposes in life.

In that spirit, I have pleasure in welcoming both faculty and students as the Fall semester opens.

Letters to the Editor

The Place Is Here, The Time Now; You've A Right To Be Heard

Following newspaper tradition, this section of the editorial-feature page is designed, depending on the amount of material received, to give every reader the right to be "heard in print."

Under the title of Ram's Horn, which has been a part of The Guardsman since the paper's inception 13 years ago, all letters to the Editor that are legitimate will be published.

The Editor reserves the right to shorten letters that are submitted, only if there is insufficient space to print such letters in their entirety.

A TRAINING GROUND

We of The Guardsman staff adhere strictly to journalism ethics, and though The Guardsman is used for a training ground for students who may eventually enter the field of journalism, this paper's staff observes professional newspaper standards in all forms of publication.

Primarily, The Guardsman will endeavor to bring to you a complete coverage of the news about the campus and of all college activities.

In addition, feature material, in the form of humor and otherwise, will be printed showing the lighter and more frothy side of college life.

COLUMNS COMMENT

Columns of various sorts will be presented with their themes generally a running commentary on life around the college.

Because we are a newspaper in its fullest sense, the editor will reserve the privilege of expressing the combined opinion of The Guardsman in the space allotted to the editorial.

We sincerely hope that you as students will learn with us just what this newspaper is all about and its genuine importance. We of the staff are exceedingly proud to know that in bringing you an interesting as well as informative paper, The Guardsman has achieved a consistently high record of professional newspaper quality.

Like most college publications, The Guardsman is a member of the Associated Collegiate Press, located in Minneapolis. Each semester professional men and women of the newspaper field evaluate the various college newspapers and, according to a point system, assign them a rating.

In 14 semesters of association with the ACP, 12 times The Guardsman has received the highest award, known as an All-American rating.

Since 1947, The Guardsman has been entered with the four year colleges and universities which publish a paper twice a week. The first group is the university dailies, followed by the group in which The Guardsman is entered. The grouping recedes to the junior college level of once a week and to once a month publications.

Because this All-American rating is made in relationship to newspapers of other colleges and universities, we hope that when our work of a professionally, high standard has been recognized, it will reflect in turn upon City College and the students as a whole.

SHARE THE HONORS

As we are proud of this publication, you as students should also share these honors. Because of your continual alertness and sensitivity to your publication, we are in the continual process of improvement.

In bringing you this paper twice a week, we want to feel that it is yours. We'll do the leg work and mechanics. We'll meet our obligations the best we can. But our final mark of achievement will rest in your reception of the finished product.

For expression of approval or disapproval, this Ram's Horn is yours.

This means that any subject that interests you is welcome to be aired here. If you do not understand a policy of the college, have an idea for improvement of the college, ad infinitum, you write them and we'll print them.

Letters to the Editor may be left in The Guardsman office, Building 12, or if more convenient with the telephone operator in the main building. Just put them in an envelope and address them to The Guardsman.—Herbert Levy, Editor.

Jim Jensen Leaves CCSF For New Post As Track Coach Of Cal Poly College

Jim Jensen, likeable track and swimming coach at City College, left the local campus during the summer to accept a new post at Cal Poly, a four-year college.

Jensen coached the local cindermen to the championship of the Northern California Junior College Conference in 1946 while taking the runner-up spot to Stockton Junior College in 1948.

The popular mentor was instrumental in guiding the Rams into second place in the conference swimming race last semester.

During the off-season Jensen taught Hygiene 21 classes in addition to taking charge of many physical education periods in the men's gymnasium.

The former Ram mentor won the respect and admiration of the men he coached and directed while at the college.

Jensen was one of the more popular coaches while he spent his tenure on the local campus grounds.

Taking the former City College coach's place will be Roy Burkhead, who will help direct the football and track teams.

JIM JENSEN, former track and swimming coach at the college, has now gone to share his talent with Cal Poly, a four-year college.

Sign-ups For Golf, Basketball Now Open

As another semester, and thus another Fall sign-up for varsity golf and basketball, rolls around at the college, students interested in signing up for these teams are urged to apply to Coach Ralph Hillsman in the men's gymnasium at the first opportunity.

Varsity golfers are requested by Coach Ralph Hillsman to sign-up in his 3 o'clock gym class that meets daily and they are also to arrange their class schedules so as to have no classes after 3 p.m.

All potential bucket hangers are asked to enroll in Hillsman 2 o'clock gym class on Monday and Wednesday, or on Tuesday and Thursday. Class schedules should include no classes after 3 p.m. for work-out purposes and league meets, Hillsman said.

WAA Sets Up New Office In Women's Gym

Forecasting an active semester of sports for Women's Athletic Association members, Gloria Swiecegood, WAA sponsor, announced yesterday that she and the WAA officers are completing plans for the semester.

The WAA will set up new quarters in the Women's gym with a complete new redecorating job in its new offices, Miss Swiecgood said.

All new and returning women students who purchase an Associated Student card are eligible to join the organization for fun, sportsmanship, and activity.

Miss Swicegood particularly urged that women students from high school athletic associations investigate the opportunities to be found in a college organization of such character.

WAA officers for the semester are Shirley Austin, president; Jean Slitter, vice-president; Annette Warden, secretary; and Shirley Howard, treasurer.

Wilson Seeks Two New Assistant Managers

Intramural mentor Tom Wilson is currently seeking two assistant managers to assist Frank Gallo in the college's athletic program.

Anyone interested is requested to see Wilson in the Men's gymnasium as soon as possible.

Basketball will be the opening sport in the Ram's intramural schedule.

This year Wilson will try out a new system in having the fraternities play a separate cage tourney of their own. The winning fraternity will then play off with the independent champions for the college title.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

WITH varsity sports at the college inactive during the summer, the average campus student might well think that the conference big-wigs also ignored all athletic problems for the short vacation. Contrary to this public opinion, however, the officials have been more than busy.

During the early part of summer an important meeting was held in Pasadena, in reference to the "Little Rose Bowl" game, which is now held annually in the Southern California "village", the second week of December.

Of course, with football season starting now, the plans drawn up by the junior college conference members remain an active subject and could easily affect the Rams if an outstanding pigskin record were achieved this semester.

San Francisco's Dr. J. Paul Mohr headed the new nine-man board which met in Southern California, and the first problem discussed was setting the date for the third "Little Rose Bowl" game, scheduled for December 11 in Pasadena.

Many changes in last year's plan were also made by the committee but the most important move was that only California two year colleges, with the exception of Phoenix J. C., will be eligible for the Western bid to the bowl.

Other plans approved included a $26,000 budget while the Signal Oil Company, the original underwriter, dropped completely out of the picture. Of the games net the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce, original sponsor, will receive 30 per cent, the Western and Eastern teams each 25 per cent, and the California Association of Junior Colleges a charity to be selected each year 20 per cent.

The "Little Rose Bowl" is finally becoming an important game because the junior colleges are now aware of their outstanding possibilities and will no longer be sidetracked and pressured by the larger universities, as was the case five and ten years ago.

Returning Lettermen Strengthen Chances For Winning Season

Gridders Practice Hard For Spots In Starting Eleven

City College of San Francisco will definitely be in the running for top conference football honors this fall with the return of seven lettermen from the 1947 squad.

With only three weeks of football practice behind him, Coach Grover Klemmer, named yesterday the outstanding football candidates.

QUARTERBACK— Bob Toquinto and Jack Marcus are the top men directing the T formation attack. Toquinto was the first string quarter last year and is a good passer and runner.

Marcus has shown great improvement and is very clever in mixing up the plays. Toquinto, because of his experience, rates the edge.

LEFT HALF — Ollie Matson and Ken Foehr. Matson will most likely start at this position because he is an outstanding runner, who broke the San Francisco prep scoring mark last season, and is also a good defensive player.

RIGHT HALF—Walt Jordan and Jim Gilford. Jordan and Gilford were with last fall's football team, but didn't see much action. This position rates a toss-up.

FULLBACK — Cornelius O'Shea and Roy Georgi. Little is known about these two fullback candidates.

CENTER—Bob Bagley and Dean Davenport. Bagley played tackle for Menlo J. C. last year and is a strong bulwark in the line while Davenport was injured in the season's opening scrimmage and will be out of action for possibly the first two games.

RIGHT END — Bill Koenig and Don Stillwell. Koenig is a letterman at this position and is a good pass receiver. Stillwell was an All-City end for Lincoln High School here last year. Koenig rates the edge.

LEFT END — Ray Posnicoff and Morey Coch. Posnicoff won a letter at the left end position with 1946's championship grid squad while Coch received his mark of distinction in '47. Posnicoff rates the edge.

GUARDS — Ben Albrecht and George Urbano. Albrecht won his letter with last year's team and will hold down the right guard position while Urbano is also a returning veteran.

TACKLES—Paul Olivier and Neal Gunn, both lettermen. Olivier is a 210 pound standout at right tackle, an outstanding all-around team player, while Gunn rates the same buildup playing at the left tackle spot.

OLLIE MATSON, football great, who broke the Academic Athletic Association prep scoring record here last year while playing for George Washington High, is now a candidate for the Ram team.

Ram CHOPS

By ROY PASINI

SPRING has gone and once again we turn to the colorful Fall semester. Here at the college all is in readiness.

The new monicker hangs majestically from the side of the main buildings, the gridiron machine is well oiled and ready to roll, and things in general are in a happy state of confusion, resulting in a very normal condition.

Let us be one of the first to welcome one and all back into the cozy little fold. In the spirit of friendliness, a tour of the campus top spots seems to be in order.

CHECKING THE CAMPUS

High on the hate list is "Pneumonia Hill," that modernistic structure atop the main grassy knoll, which pokes its nose high into the clouds in order to give the elements a better crack at molesting its features. New students are very easily distinguished from the oldies because of this architectural achievement. They're weather-beaten in more ways than one.

The main tent also features the silver pole. You just aren't anybody if you don't ignore the no smoking signs and have your between class rehabilitator with all the other big timers around the silver shaft.

The elevators are a great alibi for first week cutting. Many a homemade genius has attempted to beat the snarling stairway traffic jam by making like a janitor with a net result of nothing.

GYM WORKOUT

Leaving the intellectual plant, heading downhill, of course, for this establishment is just loaded with ups and downs, an eager tourist would probably head for the division of brawny endeavor where the body as well as the brain is developed.

The college boasts a gym and about there the athletic picture draws a blank as far as equipment, "stadiums," and other sporting necessities go, but more of that later. Many a lusty voice has been raised in hopes of finding a remedy for this evil but to date it has all been to no avail.

Ah, but for the beauty of the West Campus. Time was when the beauty was a little more noticeable, in the form of Uncle Sammie's Waves, but occasionally a petite Ramette can be seen strolling along the protective passageways.

NO ONE LIVES THERE

That rustic old structure which greets the eye just this side of the Phelan Avenue gate is not a new veterans housing settlement, by the way. It will serve its purpose tonight when the mass of railroad ties becomes an economy sized bonfire with gleeful little Rams doing a premature victory dance around its base.

Let's get off to a red hot start at the big bonfire rally tonight at 8:30.

Meetings are held Tuesdays and Thursdays in Room 4D in the administration building, west campus.

Student Council Holds Meet Today

By Roy Pasini

Parliamentary procedure swings into the campus spotlight today at noon when Associated Student President Frank Ferguson convenes his council in Room 4D on the west campus for their first official meeting of the Fall semester.

In order to speed up the meetings, which are open to all interested students, Ferguson plans to conduct a class on the proper usage of Robert's Rules of Order for all council members.

By familiarizing the councilmen with the proper functions of their office, Ferguson hopes to eliminate arguments by council members and thus allow more time for necessary business.

Ferguson also revealed that during the summer months work was continued on the task of organizing an Alumni Association by liaison officer Jack Hagan.

The new president also made it definite that he is determined to accomplish the job of enlarging the college's athletic program.

The first step in this direction is tonight's bonfire rally on the West Campus of which Ferguson said, "Tonight's rally will assure the spirit needed to make this, the college's second full semester under its new name, a spirited and unified one."

The council meets as a class, Political Science 2, with Assistant Dean Jack Brady adviser and instructor.

College Music And Drama Departments Expand Programs

Students interested in drama and music are offered wider fields of study this semester—more than ever before in the college's history.

The Opera Workshop (Music 18), keeping in close touch with the professional world, is designed for study of roles from standard light and grand opera, Flossita Badger, music instructor, announced yesterday.

"Following vocal auditions, 20 students were selected during the summer session for training in the workshop and it's possible a few more may qualify in this course," Miss Badger added, "which also intends to better the student's poise and performance through dancing, fencing, diction, and Italian courses."

The A Cappella Choir, directed by Miss Badger, is open to students who pass an audition.

Other opportunities in music open to students are the Women's Chorus, directed by Gertrude Norgard, and the Men's Chorus, directed by Harold Cunningham, with no auditions required. The college orchestra and band, under the direction of Mike Cahn, is open through audition, while the Listening Hour is open to all students.

Drama try-outs are scheduled for Monday, September 27, in Room 28, according to Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, and students may either bring their own script or borrow one from the instructor.

Participant in any production will win the student credit for Speech 16. Several one-act plays are scheduled along with two main three-act productions.

Parking Permits To Be Given By Lottery

Parking permits will be issued on the basis of a lottery so as to give both old and new students an equal opportunity of parking in the west campus area, according to Edward E. Sandys, dean of men.

Sandys explained that boxes were placed in the student lounge during registration for the purpose of collecting names of students interested in obtaining parking space.

The area to be used for parking consists of the regular parking lot, plus the space between Building 13 (The Waldorf) and the auditorium.

Graphic Arts Revise Faculty Member List

Summer session students in Graphic arts revised the old mimeographed list of faculty members and turned out a new look, eight page booklet which will be issued today.

The booklet, for faculty and office use, is the product of Robert H. Stice, Jr., cover designer; Frank Kaiser, summer session transfer student from California; Robert DeRango and Jess Clevenger, graphic arts major. The project was under the direction of George Mullany.

Free For All Edition Of Opening Guardsman

Following a traditional "opening semester" policy, this first edition of The Guardsman will be distributed to all students, regardless of whether they possess Associated Student cards.

Points of distribution will be the guard shack and center hall of the main building. The succeeding editions, however, will only be given to members of the Associated students.

Navy Reserve Offers Train And Earn Plan

Qualified male students of the college may enroll in Organized Divisions of the Naval Reserve for spare time training and earning, the Navy announced yesterday.

One day's pay may be earned by attendance at each two hour a night weekly drill of Organized units. Uniforms are furnished at no cost to the trainee, and the type of training may be selected by the Reservist.

To explain further opportunities offered by the Naval Reserve, Lt. jg. L. N. Hoffman, USN, Reserve Recruit Officer, will be at the Student Lounge October 5.

Official Twice Weekly Publication of the Associated Students of City College of San Francisco

VOLUME XXVII SAN FRANCISCO—TUESDAY, SEPTEMBER 28, 1948 NUMBER 2

Vacated Council Posts Filled At First Session

Acceptance of committee appointments and election of three council members were the primary items cleared from Student President Frank Ferguson's desk during last Thursday's opening council session.

The three vacant offices were those of Associated Student Vice-President, and two seats in the Council.

Replacement for Del Rainer in the Vice-President spot is Ben Groger, who was secretary last semester.

Chuck Hingesberger and Al Abranson filled the council chairs left open by Bob Jennings and Joseph Flynn. Jack Gallisdorfer, candidate during June's elections, was also nominated; however, Hingesberger and Abranson received a majority vote.

New appointments to the Executive Cabinet find Shirley Austin as Women's Athletic Association President, and, for the second semester, Jack Sommers, Finance Chairman.

Through constitutional statute and unanimous approval, Herbert Levy, Guardsman editor, assumed the chairmanship of the Publication Board.

Standing cabinet appointments, which were made by President Ferguson, and approved last June, named Jack Hagan, ex-council member, as alumni liaison officer and Bill Hansen as rally commissioner. Present chairman of the publicity committee is Bill Kinsley, who also received his post last June.

New Loans Funds For Students Available

Life members of the California Scholarship Federation are invited to become associate members in the college honor society, Alpha Gamma Sigma, during their first semester in college.

Students interested in this organization may sign up with Edwin A. Cranston, adviser, in Room 170.

Other students are eligible for membership the following semester if they achieve an average of 2.0 with a minimum of 30 grade points in at least 12 units. No grade may be lower than C.

Cranston also announced last week that two loan funds are now available for use by City College students.

One fund is for women students and the other for men students.

The primary purpose of both funds is to assist students in finishing their Junior and Senior years of college, with no repayment expected until after the student has completed his full four years and is working full time at his or her chosen occupation.

The men's loan fund is sponsored by the Rotary Club, and the amount borrowed cannot exceed $500 per semester, or $1000 for each year. The loan is to be repayed, by installments, over a period of three years after graduation.

The women's loan fund is somewhat similar to the men's, although it is under a different sponsorship. They will be expected to pay a three per cent interest annually, and repay the principle as soon after graduation as is possible.

Cooking Classes Will Serve Student Meals

Under the supervision of chefs Pierre Costin and Edward Nyland, the cooking classes of the hotel and restaurant division will serve early morning breakfasts and evening dinners for students' accommodation.

Breakfast will be served from 7:30 to 10:30 a.m. and dinner will be offered from 5 to 6:15 p.m. The regular luncheon hours of 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. are in effect again this semester.

Phi Beta Deltas Open Social Season Friday

Inaugurating an active social calendar, Phi Beta Delta presents its semi-annual Shipwreck Dance Friday, October 1, in the West Campus Auditorium, Chuck Hingesberger, president, announced yesterday.

Dancing will be from 8 to midnight to the music played by Ben Watkins and his orchestra; free gardenias and other prizes are also on the program.

Attire for the affair should follow a nautical theme, Hingesberger added; however, sarongs and bathing suits are banned. Bids are $1.25 per couple.

A bonfire rally to rouse spirit for the gridiron contest with Vallejo will follow immediately after the dance.

Band Needs Musicians To Fill Empty Ranks

Invitation to membership in the City College band was extended by Mike Cahn, instructor, to former college musicians and interested new students.

A shortage of musicians caused postponement of the band half time activities during the City College and Monterey Peninsula football game Friday.

Uniforms have been issued to the 12 returning musicians. Bob Sears is the student manager.

Placement Starts New Drive For Jobs Here

Contemplating the biggest year since its inception in 1940, the City College placement service has undertaken a city-wide promotion program to uncover positions for the hundreds of applicants for full and part time jobs.

Joseph Amori, placement director of the college, said, "Judging from the numerous calls from employers, the holiday demand will be even greater this year than last when approximately 3000 students were placed."

Students are requested to register early for holiday work, because many of the firms have started to sign up workers already.

Part time jobs are available in the following locations: gas stations, bakeries, department stores, and the following workers are needed: typists, bus boys, stock clerks, station attendants. The wages range from $1.00 to $1.50 an hour for highly skilled operations.

Petition Deadline Marked For Oct. 1

Although complete figures indicating the number of students registered for the Fall semester are not yet available, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, warned that the last day for filing of petitions for adding or changing of courses has been set for Friday, October 1.

Wednesday, November 10, has been designated as the last day for filing petitions for intention of dropping courses.

Miss Learnard warned that students should watch these two dates as the time for adding or dropping courses is much shorter than previous semesters.

All changes in programs must begin at the counselling office, Miss Learnard added.

Pulitzer Prize Winning Photographer Is Now Member City College Faculty

Instructor Rosenthal Has 18 Years Experience As A News Camera Man

By Jack Hulse

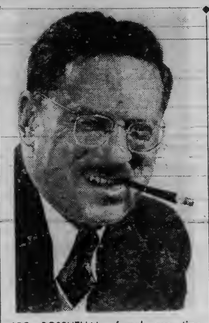
World War II's greatest photographer is prize-winning Joe Rosenthal, of the San Francisco Chronicle—and City College.

The man who captured on film the immortal flag-raising atop Mount Suribachi at Iwo Jima, during the recent war, is now instructing Press Photography 87a.

Little in the bespectacled instructor's appearance suggests that he has experienced 18 year of rough-and-tumble camera work for San Francisco newspapers, witnessed six invasions as a Pacific Theatre war correspondent, and shot the most famous photo reflection of the war.

What kind of man is Rosenthal—famed news photographer?

He commented on the "picture" he chooses to call a "lucky, but not an entirely accidental, break":



"I hope nobody will ever have a chance to take such a photo again!

"One of the reasons I say this is because only three out of the six men who were in the picture are still alive. The others were killed in action." The ace cameraman added, "The sight of dying men is a high price to pay for a 'scoop.'"

Answering rumors that the picture was "staged," Rosenthal explained, "I knew the men were going up Suribachi to replace a smaller American flag that had been hastily set-up at the summit, and I placed myself in position for a good shot."

He continued dryly, "The men erected the new flag-site without any instructions from me."

The graying Rosenthal's eyes looked up to the office clock as he concluded, "My eyes barred me from service; but they let me portray the men who were fighting."

JOE ROSENTHAL, famed war time cameraman and winner of six awards for photography including the Pulitzer prize, calls his prize winning shot of the flag going up on Iwo Jima, "lucky, but not an entirely accidental break."—Courtesy of S. F. Chronicle.

Talent Bureau Hangs Out Help Wanted Sign

The college talent bureau, located on the first floor of the main building, is in search of all types of talented persons to participate in local affairs, Hewitt Kendall, Jr., talent bureau head, announced recently.

Clubs Open College Hour Series Friday

Scheduled College hours for the Fall semester have been listed by Jack Brady, assistant dean of men. The periods are as follows:

October 1 and 8, Club Meetings; October 15, Rally; October 22, Club; October 29, mid-terms, no college hour; November 5, Rally; November 12, Club Meetings; November 19, Rally; November 26, Vacation.

December 3, Club Meetings; December 10, no college hour, mid-terms.

The College Hour time schedule is as follows:

8 o'clock classes— 8:10 to 8:50
9 o'clock classes— 9:00 to 9:40
10 o'clock classes— 9.50 to 10:30
College Hour—10:40 to 11:20
11 o'clock classes—11:30 to 12:10
12 o'clock classes—12:20 to 1:00

Dean Sandys Lists Rules For Students

To avoid confusion and facilitate operation of student matters, Edwin Sandys, dean of men, gave out the following instructions:

1. All authorized college organizations must obtain new meetings places from Assistant Dean John Brady, in Building 3.

2. Lost articles which are found should be turned in to the telephone office in the main building, and same should be picked up in Dean Sandys office in Bldg. 2. This means that students should not try to obtain lost articles at the telephone office.

3. All signs and notices to be posted should be cleared through William Eckert, Room 349, in main building, for the bulletin boards in the main building and through Dean Brady in building 2 for west campus bulletin boards.

Lockers Issued To 800 Students Today

Eight hundred fortunate students will be given lockers today at 1:30 p.m., John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

The lockers, Brady said, can be obtained by applying for them in the lounge.

There are only 400 lockers, Brady continued, and even by having two students share each locker there will still be over 4000 students without lockers.

Name Spelling, Jobs? But We Have Fun . . .

Beginning the comedy of errors, the Thursday, September 23, edition of The Guardsman reported that "George Lenares" is the secretary of the San Francisco 49ers. It's quite all right, except the gentleman's name is Gerald Linares, and his football association consists of watching games at Kezar. He happens to be the Park Commission secretary.

Elmer Dickey Sensational At Pre-Monterey Game Bonfire Rally; 1300 Students Show

By Jack Hulse

This semester's first pre-game rally, last Thursday, not only demonstrated college talent and spirit, but also the Elmer Dickey brand of popularity that keeps pace with his growing fame.

An estimated 1,375 clamoring City Collegians received the tenor's fireside songs with ovations that said, "Welcome back, Elmer. You're still tops in our hit parade."

Rally Commissioner Bill Hansen served a great bonfire program with off-the-cuff talks by Coach Grover Klemmer, Handsome Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, and a few grunts from Sammy the Ram. Also featured were the college yell leaders, a male quartet, and a few members of the drama club.

The highlight of the night, however, was the modest Dickey.

There are many things about Dickey, who graduated here last June and is now majoring in voice at San Francisco State College, that assure his standing of "first in the hearts of his college mates."

His voice helps. It has been praised by such artists as Maxim Shapiro, famed concert pianist; Noel Sullivan, a leading donor to things musical, and Gaetano Merola, director of the San Francisco Opera Company.

ELMER DICKEY of Vagebond King fame, returned to City College last Thursday night as a featured soloist at the pre-game Monterey rally.

This summer Dickey found that Merola's help was not limited to plaudit. Merola's indirect efforts placed Dickey on the Standard Oil Concerts which are beamed to all Western states, to Salt Lake City, Utah. Previously, Dickey had been performing at the famed Bach Festival of Carmel.

There's more to Dickey's friend-making ability than his voice. His magnetism comes from such traits as thoughtfulnes, courtesy, and sincerity—words easy to write, but hard to find on anything but paper.

Dickey's comments, which speak for themselves, follow:

"I was, and always will be, thrilled to give any help to the college that has meant so much to me, and the friends who helped me, particularly Miss Badger and Mrs. Norgard, who inspired me both in and out of class."

When Dickey told of his singing, the words came quickly, "I want to use my gift to comfort and lead the people, whether their circumstances are happy or chaotic, along The Street of Composers. I won't rest until I can put over what the composers were trying to say, and until I can prove to them the comfort that music can bring to them.

"I am happy only when I'm singing—it is my home."

Out-Of-The-Hat Parking Permits Are Keynote For Campus Equality

IN the spirit of complete equality, under the direction of Dean Edward E. Sandys, parking permits are now being distributed to the lucky 400.

Rather than the inefficient first come, first served method, Sandys inaugurated the "out of the hat" system, whereby everyone desirous of a permit had an equal opportunity to obtain one.

Martha Stone, secretary to the deans, surrounded by three or so witnesses, dipped her "lily white" into a box and drew out 400 names, hence 400 parking permits.

To the estimated 400 who weren't fortunate enough to park their "wheels" in the west campus, there should not be too much disgruntlement.

After all, the hike from Ocean or Phelan Avenue to the classrooms really isn't very far.

Continuing along with the object of opportunity for all, the opportunity for an expanded college life for the students seems to be in joining the various clubs and organizations of which there are around fifty.

Group interest in culture, sports, aesthetics, social life, politics, touting the horses, ad infinitum are available to all students on the campus.

According to Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, the various clubs and groups are the backbone of the college. Within the realm of these organizations lies the future as to the progress of the college, as to the spirit as well as the integration of the college in the community.

Brady re-stated that the whole success of the student undertakings about the campus is dependent on the full support of the students in financing the activities of the Associated Students.

The Guardsman, without reservation, supports the statements and purpose of Dean Brady in encouraging active support in the Associated Students.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

THE mysteries of registration were revealed September 20-21 to some 2000 new students as they sought higher education at City College of San Francisco.

The two-day registration period for new students was notable for its traditional bi-annual confusion. Falling victim to the [illegible] lines, each [illegible] was greeted by the [illegible] voice chanted over the loudspeaker, "classes closed."

New students appeared to be [illegible] about enrollment, for [illegible] T. B. M.'s [illegible] woe.

At such times as the line leading to his adviser decreased, the registrant found himself attempting a program choice. By remarks of other students he found that this choice wasn't so simple, for an announcement of "class closed" meant the entire revision of a schedule.

Everything appeared to be rolling smoothly: his entire schedule was filled out and although he had a 4-hour break 3 days a week, he knew he could employ the time industriously with card-playing at the local cardrooms.

"Now," he said to his adviser, "do I receive my registration card?"

"Oh, no," his adviser replied, "your troubles are just starting. Hustle up to the third floor, and have the instructors check off your trial study list. You'll receive an I. B. M. card for each course. Don't Lose Them!"

He entered the room housing the English department signup and put in his bid for English 21a at 10 a.m.

"Just closed!" a stern-looking individual told him — the gentleman is actually a good man, but to a hapless registrant he was awful! The English department was a turmoil! An efficient system soon was confused when an [illegible] old w[illegible]

Lloyd B. Sisler, [illegible] department, awaited bids from future thespians for enrollment in his drama courses, while Instructor Ruth Somers took a pessimistic outlook toward the future of prospective students: "they think I'm clairvoyant — contrary to popular belief of these registrants, I cannot read blank spaces. All spaces must be filled in!"

Letters to the Editor

(Editor's Note: Letters to the editor may be left with the telephone operator in the main building or in The Guardsman office in Bldg. 12. Deadlines are noon on Monday and Wednesday. If so desired the author's name will be withheld but the author must be known to the editor.)

● Wanted: Members

Editor, The Guardsman:

We are now at the beginning of another CCSF semester. Fall semester, with its large enrollment, should hold many students who are interested in the "good things" of life today. Our campus has many activities and organizations. And there is room for many new ones.

This semester, more than any, the clubs are extending their ranks to take in anyone who is interested in the club's particular activity. They are many and varied such as skiing, bowling, drama, medical, singing, sports, photography, fellowship clubs, and others.

To forestall those who think there are partialities or favorites only accepted into organizations, we definitely state NO.

An invitation is extended mainly to the new students of our college to join the club of your interest and to participate in student activities.

Those interested in becoming members of an organization may receive information by leaving his name, address, and club of his particular interests in the box labeled Club Advisory Board in the Associated Student office, Building 2, West Campus.

James M. Davis,
Pres., Club Advisory Board

● Thanks To Volunteers

Editor, The Guardsman:

We wish to thank all those students who so ably assisted us through the registration period that ended last week. Without their help, the task of the administration would have been overwhelming.

The close cooperation shown by both faculty and students in this job of registering some 5000 students has demonstrated once again that such cooperation is possible and in this case actual.

The continued close association of all elements about the campus points to a greater and more profitable semester for all the students.

Again, we wish to take this opportunity, through the medium of The Guardsman, to thank all those who assisted us through registration.

John J. Brady,
Assistant Dean.

Club Cavalcade . . .

● A. V. C.: There will be a meeting on September 30 open to all veterans of World War II. Coming activities for this semester will be discussed.

● Mu Iota Psi: Election of officers will take place during Friday's college hour in Room 1A. The meeting is open to all interested in music and music activities.

● Tri Epsilon: Members who have not secured their pictures should obtain same from Bob McVey immediately.

● W. A. A.: There will be a mass meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow night in the women's gymnasium.

Broken Paw Causes Loss Of Olympic Berth For CC

By Dayton Lawson

The trade winds surrounding the islands of Samoa blew fair for sure when they wafted a lad by the name of Frank Suega toward the St. Francis metropolis. They blew even fairer when they gave him a gentle nudge in the direction of City College of San Francisco.

Suega took the hint and enrolled as a freshman for the Spring semester of '48, thereby initiating the legend.

Suega is a boxer. A good boxer. But for the fact that he fractured a bone in his right hand during the semi-finals at Sacramento the latter part of last semester, he might very well have carved his niche deep in City College history by becoming the first representative to the Olympic Games the Phelan Avenue institution has had.

A 30-Second Knockout

Withal, he still knocked out his opponent in 30 seconds of the first round, broken hand and all.

The following evening he had an engagement with the Olympic Club's classy veteran, the widely-publicized Grant Butcher, the winner of that bout making the trip to London. Newspaper accounts tell us that Butcher eventually qualified, and the rest is history.

Suega is back this semester with his hand out of the cast, however, and is ready to supply Coach Roy Diederichson with plenty of action.

Boxing Is Hobby

Boxing in the Suega family is something more than a hobby. It's an obsession.

As a tadpole back in Pago Pago, Suega was under the influence of both his brother, a fair country middleweight in his own right, and his father, who taught his brood the fundamentals early in life. At ten years of age, the boys could hold their own with lads twice their size.

Suega is taking Law Enforcement as a major, and plans to go into police work upon graduation.

Among the 130 odd students enrolled in the college's world renowned Hotel and Restaurant division are five from New England, three from Honolulu, one from England and two from Daly City.

ALL-IMPORTANT FOOTBALL publicity activities were set in motion early this week by members of the graphic arts department and the college publicity committee. The first product of this activity, which will be distributed to local and downtown business establishments, is being displayed by Frank Ferguson, Associated Students president, and Bae Groger, Associated Student vice-president.

Process used was silk screen and the work done by Allan Toivonen, student in the graphic arts department, who is standing behind Miss Groger.

The poster features each home game on the Ram 1948 grid schedule, through application of last minute information.

Typography is by Richard Briggs, journalism and graphic arts major.

Waldorf Home To Vets, Waves, Now Hold Class

Like an old tramp freighter, the rust-spotted hulk, known locally as the Waldorf, and moored on the west campus, has been called upon to house yet another cargo.

Waves, the first cargo, were replaced by a tide of returning veterans and their wives. Now, single veterans share the deck with a class room for knowledge hungry students.

Rams Whip Monterey In First 37-0

Lightning Fast Backfield And Strong Formidable Line Stops Lobos Before Overflowing Crowd In NCJCC Clash

Scoring touchdowns almost at will, the Ram gridders rolled to an easy victory over the Monterey Peninsula Lobos Friday night, 37-0, before a freezing but enthusiastic home gathering of 6,287 on Lake Merced's State Field.

Sparked by the running of Ollie Matson, sensational left halfback, and Bob Toquinto, smooth working quarterback, the local football eleven captured their NCJC conference opener by powering over an inept Monterey team.

The Rams scored the second time they handled the pigskin, marching 53 yards to paydirt, the payoff coming on a 20 yard pass from quarterback Toquinto to end Bill Koenig. The try for extra point was no good.

Matson went over from six yards out for the next City College score, culminating a determined 56 yard drive near the end of the first quarter.

At half-time the Rams held an 18-0 advantage over the visitors, Toquinto having scored on a quarterback sneak good for three yards, midway in the second period.

Needless to say, the local football contingent tallied thrice more, the scores being made respectively by Ray Georgi, Ray Gilford, and Len Davis, while Julian Bala added a conversion to the rout.

Friday night's Ram team looked like a sure conference threat.

The Monterey Lobos did not show any strong defensive points throughout the game, and were unable to catch onto the Rams as they sped past. The only showing the Lobos made was by one of their backfield men, Lenard Phillips, who might have done a lot of damage if he had better blocking and interference by his fellow teammates.

Rams Eagerly Prepare For Saturday's Clash With Rugged Vallejo Redskins

Coach Grover Klemmer will take the Ram gridders on the road Saturday night to face the always rugged Vallejo Redskins, in City College's second NCJC conference football clash of the season.

Vallejo will possess the advantage of being the home team, the game being played at Corbus Field, with the kickoff at 8 p.m.

With quarterback Bob Toquinto calling the signals for the local T-formation contingent, the Rams are out to avenge last year's 12-0 defeat at the hand of the Redskins.

The red and white football squad has been strengthened at the fullback post with the turnout of Julian Bala, former All-City back from Commerce High here.

Losing most of his outstanding prospects, Coach Colin O. Kilby of Vallejo is building his spread formation attack around Fred Delaca, leading punter of the conference last year, and two sparkling ends, Emmery Johnson and Joe Fournier.

The Rams' chances for top conference honors may depend on the decision of this week's game.

Deadline Set For Intramural Hoopsters

Any student interested in entering a team in the intramural basketball league is requested to fill out the entry below with the required information and hand it in to Tom Wilson at the men's gymnasium no later than Friday, October 8.

Wilson is now working on the schedule and has set the starting date for the first round of casaba competition to begin on October 11, 3 p.m., in the men's gymnasium.

GROVER KLEMMER, hopeful coach of the college football squad.

Three Prep All-City Stars At College

Coach Ralph Hillsman has a sunny outlook toward his future basketball squad this semester when he has such All-City Prep Stars as Bud Matheny of Lowell, Al Munn of Lincoln, and Les Brilliant also of Lincoln, enrolled at the college.

Five Varsity Boxers Return To Boost Future Ram Hopes

Affable Roy Diederichsen, who pilots the destinies of pugilism, collegiate style, is a happy man today.

Virtually every performer from last season's crack varsity squad, which was accorded ranking among the top five two-year colleges in the nation, is back.

That enthusiasm toward the sport has been greatly increased is evident by the record turnout of 30 prospects for the forthcoming boxing season, which assume a competitive nature early in January.

Veteran leather tossers John Fisher, Jim Wilson, Len Garcia, Roy Damas, and rugged Frank Suega form the nucleus of a capable team backed up by a promising crop of intramural finalists.

Nick Canuli, 145; Joe Jackson, 160, and hard hitting, heavy Gil Lazzareschi are eager to prove their class in the swat and sweat industry along with Johnson Chow, Nelson Yee, Joey Karp, Ken Jung, Ed Sato, and Joe Vengcovic.

Tentatively scheduled to provide stiff opposition to Ram ambitions within the squared circle come spring, in addition to NCJC conference foes, are teams from Stanford, California, Santa Clara, and San Francisco State.

San Jose State, last season's P. C. C. intercollegiate kingpin, and a group of scrappers from Hawaii University, en route to the national finals, will also square off against the Red and White.

The coveted goal of all local ringsters is participation in the NCJCC Tournament which will be staged in Pasadena along about April.

All individuals desirous of applying their talents in fistic activity are advised to make known their intentions to Coach Diederichsen in the men's gymnasium.

Intramural competition will be continued this semester in all weight divisions.

Intramural Basketball Entries Due October 8

Those interested in the opening intramural round robin must have their entries in by Friday, October 8, according to Intramural Director Tom Wilson. Entries will be accepted by Wilson in the office of the men's gymnasium through Friday. Managers of club or independent teams should fill out the application below.

WAA Holds Important Meeting Tomorrow

The Women's Athletic Association is getting off to a fast start this semester with a mass meeting and coed badminton game tomorrow night at 7 p.m. in the women's gymnasium. All members and prospective members are urged to attend, Shirley Austin, president, said.

Coeducational sports will be stressed again this semester, Miss Austin added. They include horseback riding, bowling, and badminton.

Brady Clams Up; Sophs Win 7 To 4

A Soph-Faculty basketball game has been added to the traditional softball skirmish at the college and will now be held at the end of every fall semester.

Jack "Confident" Brady's aged Profs bowed to the Sophs, 7-4, in last semester's softball clash, which was held on the football field. Led by Jim Fernhoff and "Wild" Bill Riley, the upper classmen won their first contest ever from the creaking and cracking faculty.

Remindful of Brady's "We haven't got a thing to worry about," the Sophs completely routed the Profs back to their classrooms in the Spring traditional.

Last year at the softball game, Sammy the Ram made his inaugural appearance. He is a student who wears a Ram's head and a football uniform to bolster the morale of the fans.

He will be the official mascot of the college and will appear at all rallies and athletic events, but will remain unknown until close of the semester.

Ram CHOPS

By ROY PASINI

JUDGING from the show of hustle displayed by a couple of campus outfits at last week's rally and grid fest, it seems as though City College may find itself in the midst of a semi-warm pigskin season before long.

Leading the way in arousing a bit of much needed "rah-rah" spirit around the local plant, Tri-Epsilon came forth with a handy little football program which was distributed for gratis, at the Friday night opener.

GET YOUR PROGRAM

The indispensable face placers, absent from the local grid picture with the exception of the Damon Runyon tussle last year, are the first of a series to be produced for all home tilts. Most of the heavy work on the project is being handled by a level-headed lad, Jack Semmers, who has his boys going all out this semester.

At present the plans for future programs call for the addition of two more pages to be used for giving eager fans a little low down on the background of both coaches and players.

This same public spirited group also had a hand, through the medium of old railroad ties, in creating the bonfire, which met its fate Thursday night, but not before some local characters had stocked their winter wood pile with the top story of the structure.

SAMMIE THE RAM

Through the courtesy of the Phi Beta Delta boys, Sammie the Ram made his Fall debut at the State field fracas a successful if not graceful effort.

Sammie, a take-off from Cal's Oskie, was born late last semester and has been under the able care of the Deltas during the summer.

Head trainer for the man made Ram is Jim Fernhoff, who seems to have fattened up his protege in preparation for a very active session on the gridiron this year.

Sammie will be beheaded at season's end, thereby revealing his hornless noggin to his ever-loving admirers.

The example has been set. All that is needed now is a little more of the same old college try.

A repeat performance by other organizations, along similar lines, could be instrumental in making this a sweet and profitable season for the Ram gridders as well as the Ram followers.

Social Dance Class Rescues Wallflowers

By Rose Hardie

Coeds who are annoyed by clumsy dancing partners will be relieved to hear that the social dancing class is issuing a call for men to learn to dance.

The dances emphasized will be the Fox Trot, the Waltz, and the Rhumba.

The men will be glad to learn that there are many women waiting to join this class, so they needn't worry about a lack of dance partners.

The class is held Monday and Wednesday at 2 p.m. in the women's gymnasium. All men interested in becoming poised on the dance floor, as well as gaining many feminine admirers in the future, should apply for aid to Betty Heckman in the women's gymnasium for information.

Music Department Needs Accompanists

At the present time the Opera Workshop, the Men's and Women's Choruses, and the voice classes are without adequate piano accompaniment, Fiossita Badger, music director, announced last week.

Full credit in the course will be given students who are selected for these positions, Miss Badger said, and applicants will be interviewed in Building 1, the music building.

Hurley Play Area Groundbreaking Nears

'Avenue' Highs Top Frosh Enrollment

Crowded classrooms will be but slightly relieved with this semester's un-official enrollment figures which approximate last year's record registration of more than 5,000 students, and which show the "Avenue" highs leading freshman entrants.

Outstanding trends noted by observers were a decrease in veteran enrollment; a ratio of one woman to three men; and leader in sending high school students is apparently Washington High, which sent nearly 250 of its graduates to City College.

Closely trailing the ex-Eagles are Lincoln students numbering 181 souls. Copping third place honors, 166 future leaders moved in from nearby Balboa.

As Washington goes, so goes the Bay area, which will daily disgorge more than 700 commuters bound for City College (affectedly known as Pneumonia Hill.)

Washington's lead is only the latest demonstration of an old trend. Another "old story" is that 3 to 1 ratio (or is it ration) of men to lovelies, which was broken gently to our gentlemen readers in the first paragraphs.

Ever since 1937, with the exception of the war years, City College men have been fighting this ratio—but it's too big for all of them.

Foreign enrollment holds steady with 160 persons, most of them from Sous of the Border. Old students, who number about 2,987, will tell the visitors how to dress for City College's gleaming fogs and gentle gales.

MARY JANE LEARNARD, tireless registrar, solved many a freshmen problem during registration, the "plague" that hits the college semi-annually.

Village Children To Have Sandboxes, Slides, Swings

Hurley Village playground is within a month and a half of completion, Allan Maxwell, student manager of Hurley Village, announced last week.

The playground, which is being made possible through the proceeds of the Vagabond King, the Friml light opera staged by the college last spring, is to be used by veterans' children living in the Hurley Village Housing Project.

Facilities to be afforded the children at the new playground include the following: two large sand boxes; three swing sets for larger children, and three swing sets for small children; one 16 foot slide and one smaller slide; a "Jungle Jim" climbing bar, and one combination swing and climbing bar.

Cost of the playground is set at $550 which includes $250 for play equipment; $200 for fencing the playground area; $50 for sand boxes, and $50 for any other unexpected expenses.

The San Francisco City Housing Authority, Maxwell said, recently donated two park benches for the playground and the Standard Building Co. is giving the sawdust and shavings necessary to fill the play boxes.

"The playground," Maxwell said, "is a god-send for these kids who have heretofore had only mud-puddies and other make-shift playthings to while away their time."

Tryouts Today For Potential Actors

Tryouts for all potential actors are being held in Room 28, today and tomorrow from 2 to 3 p. m., according to Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor.

Students are advised to bring their own scripts, or if necessary use the department's.

Plans have been made for two major productions of three acts each, and a number of one act plays, Sisler said.

Opportunity for increasing the student thespian's performance and poise is being offered through courses in fencing, Eurythmics, a study of principles and practices of the dance, stage makeup, and stage craft, Sisler added.

The facilities of Room 28 are being improved by the installation of stage light dimmers, new stage sets and properties. Also new construction plans have been made for increasing the theatrical effectiveness of Room Twenty-eight.

Midnight Bonfire Rally Cancelled, But Nautical Costumes, Football Pregame Fever, Infest Shipwreck Dance Tonight

Cancellation of the previously announced bonfire rally will not prevent a pre-game football spirit from prevailing at the Phi Beta Delta's Shipwreck Dance tonight, Chuck Hingsbergen, president, announced today.

The dance, inaugurating an active social calendar, is scheduled from 9 to midnight in the west campus auditorium, and will feature the music of Ben Watkins and his orchestra.

Attire for the affair should be as nautical as possible, but absolutely no sarongs or bathing suits will be allowed, Hingsbergen said. Bids are $1.25 per couple. They are on sale at the student bank from 9 to 1:30 o'clock.

The auditorium will be decorated with netting and soft lights for the enjoyment of the dancers. Free gardenias and other prizes will be awarded during the three hour festival, Hingsbergen said.

The festivities prelude the City College vs. Vallejo football contest tomorrow night at Vallejo. Kickoff time is slated at 8 p.m.

Five Prizes Awarded Gardening Students

Five first prizes from the San Mateo Floral Fiesta have been garnered by students of the floriculture department here, Harry Nelson, department head, announced today.

Students started work at the flower show before registration this semester and have a week and a half still to show their landscaping and floral arrangements.

The classes hit a perfect score by earning five "bests" in the five divisions of the contest they entered, Nelson said.

Apparently hoping for more high rewards for their garden culture, plans are already being made for the Oakland Flower Show which is held annually in the spring, Nelson announced.

Technicolor Films Planned This Fall

Two technicolor films headline a series of film travelogues scheduled for presentation here this semester.

The films, San Francisco, Queen of the West, and The Gay Nineties, will be shown today at 11:10 o'clock in Room 136, under the supervision of Madison Devlin, instructor in charge of visual aids.

A new series of films will be shown every Friday directly following the college hour and will run for approximately 30 minutes. This will give the students with a free hour plenty of time for lunch.

Devlin promises that this program and all those to follow will be of much interest to the student.

Campus Policemen Qualify For Duty

Qualification of 16 campus policemen for police duty was announced today by Fred Fitzgerald, college law enforcement official.

Seven of the accomplished officers were assigned to immediate duty.

They are: Ronald Crawford, Deputy Sheriff, San Mateo County; Richard D. Mall, Policeman, San Francisco Police Department; William Porter, Jr., Policeman, S.F.P.D.; Donald James, Chief of Guards, United Air Lines; Reidar C. Moen, student, San Jose Police School, San Jose State College; Richard Hall and William Porter, law enforcement students, S.F.P.D.

The nine policemen expecting permanent appointment include Jack A. Cahill, San Quentin Prison, qualified for Correction Officer; Morris Hazen, qualified Border Patrol Inspector, and Carl Davis, both agents for Southern Pacific Railroad Police; Kenneth Murray, Deputy Coroner;

James Chambers, deputized ambulance steward; Frank Kennedy, Jailor, San Francisco County Jail; Jack Cipparone, qualified Border Patrol Inspector; Brian McDonnell, qualified as policeman, S.F.P.D.; Vincent Nolan, on leave of absence while completing second year in law enforcement.

Student Cards For Vet Wives Pending

Student Council action Tuesday saw a proposal put on the floor concerning the possibilities of issuing Associated Student cards to veterans' wives.

The issue, if approved, will entitle veterans' wives to admission to all sports activities at student rates, and numerous social events; however, the card will not entitle the holder to a vote in student elections.

Council members have not yet determined whether the cards would be issued to wives of veterans not attending college, only, or whether it would include both.

Committee chairman, Jack Hurley, and committee member Alice Tatam, who were nominated at the meeting, will confer with Controller Oscar Anderson on the proposal, and a report will be made to the council soon.

Asistant Dean Jack Brady stated that it would be advisable to consult Controller Anderson before any further motion was made.

Opera House Target For Invading Guardsman; Seeks Symphony Low-Down, Ticket Set-Up

Tie-Up Will Bring Music Greats To The Campus Under Generous Program

By Jack Hulse

Free campus appearances by music greats such as Marion Anderson, Jascha Heifitz, and San Francisco's beloved Pierre Monteux, plus reduced rates for the concert season of 17 Thursday night Opera House performances are now available to City College students under a unique and generous program.

This arrangement, according to Howard Skinner, secretary of the San Francisco Musical Association, is really a tie-up between the students of 17 bay area colleges and universities and the San Francisco Musical Association.

This "tie-up" is called the Symphony Forum.

The Symphony Forum is student-operated and chartered on this campus.

Prerequisite to membership is purchase of student-rate season tickets —period.

Concert dates and stars, as well as time and place of ticket sales will be published in The Guardsman later.

Plans already implemented were announced at the first meeting of forum officials in the impressive Board of Directors' Room at the War Memorial Opera House last Saturday, September 25.

Bay Colleges Join

Representing City College music enthusiasts at the conclave of all Bay Area collegiate institutions were Herb Levy, Editor of The Guardsman; and Jack Hulse, temporary forum representative.

This operation, which annually sells close to 3,000 seasonal tickets, was attended by The Guardsman as the first in a series of articles on the campus in relation to the community.

No campus-civic affiliation more clearly illustrates this relationship.

Highlight of the meeting was this college's unprecedented bid for 500 tickets, which was surpassed only by a request from the University of California.

(The latter, enrolling 22,000 students, asked for 1,500 tickets.)

Other colleges trailed far behind.

Ticket Increase Seen

Hope was expressed that ticket sales here would surpass last semester's sale of 47 tickets, in view of the revitalizing efforts of Meyer Cahn, college band director, assisted by Flossita Badger, director of the opera workshop.

This year's activities are a climax to roughly ten years of Symphony Forum programs designed to mold the musical tastes of students who will in turn influence the character of the public, they will eventually lead.

All interested students are urged to inform Cahn or Miss Badger, at Building One, or Hulse at The Guardsman office, Building 12.

Deadline Today For Program Additions

Students desiring program changes must have cards filed today, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, warned Wednesday.

"This date was generally accepted as sufficient time for all students to complete their programs," Miss Learnard commented.

Students were further advised that Wednesday, November 10, has been designated as the last day to drop courses. Failure to file a drop slip after this date, Miss Learnard said, will result in a final grade of "F" for the course.

Petitions to graduate at end of this semester are due Friday, October 15, according to the official college calendar. This date has also been set aside as the final day to remove incomplete grades incurred from previous spring or summer semesters.

Club Room Numbers Listed For Meets

Club meetings will be featured during college hour this morning at its customary time, 10:30 o'clock, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men announced Wednesday.

Meeting rooms for clubs that have applied recently for permanent places during the college hour have been posted with the assistant dean in Room 3, Building 2.

Club presidents will hold a meeting in the student lounge Thursday, October 8, at 8 p.m.

Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, will preside over the gathering.

The clubs and their respective rooms are as follows:

Ski Club, 212; Alpha Lamba Chi, 215; Zeta Chi, 257; Alpha Sigma Delta, 258; Hawaiian Club, 344; Latin American Club, 346; C.A.B., 2B; Tau Chi Sigma, 3A; Chinese Social Club, 4D; French Club, 312; Masonic Club, 133; Mu Iota Psi, 1A.

October 22 Is Home Coming Day

City College alumni will be honored Friday, October 22, with a day packed full of entertaining activity, Pete Isola, Associated Men Student president, announced yesterday.

The day is henceforth to be known as Home Coming Day and will be the third of its kind at this college.

Preparations for the day will begin Monday, October 4, Isola said, when men are asked to start growth of a beard to be judged at the AMS barn dance, October 22. Prizes are to be awarded for the blackest, reddest, neatest trimmed, and poorest beards, respectively.

Also scheduled for an early start is a Queen contest.

On Monday, October 11, pictures of the women who are entering the contest will be submitted to The Guardsman office, Isola said, and any woman who has not previously won a Queen contest is eligible to enter.

The judges of this contest will be from another college in the Bay Area.

Home Coming Day will be highlighted by the traditional football game between City College and San Mateo Junior College at Kezar Stadium.

Other activities scheduled in connection with Home Coming Day will be announced in future issues of The Guardsman and in plenty of time to give plan for the events.

Guardsman 'Goes To Town' For City And Campus News

IN the wild belief that City College has finally started to assume its rightful place in the community, The Guardsman, beginning with today's edition, commences a new series, "The Guardsman goes to town."

Speaking in a more simple manner, this innovation merely means that The Guardsman is stretching its scope beyond the borders of Ocean and Phelan Avenues, and tying in important metropolitan projects with comparable training projects about the campus.

The inaugural in this fantastic approach to journalism is a visit to the San Francisco Opera House and a report on the Symphony Forum.

We feel in this particular series, that in addition to rehabilitating City College's symphony forum, it will give all students interested in music an opportunity of gaining reduced admission tickets to the now famous Thursday night concerts.

By no means is The Guardsman limiting itself to the more cultural side of collegiate endeavor.

If it is possible to bring to you, the readers, a quick run down on what's happening on Skid Row, and there is a tie-in with life about the campus, The Guardsman will do it!!

The reception of these series "The Guardsman goes to town," we hope, will be of general interest to the students and perhaps offer a broader background on the happenings around the city.

Tentatively scheduled are sojourns to the Chamber of Commerce, Press Club, and a national radio network broadcasting studio.

Slowly, but most assuredly, we are of the opinion that City College is gaining in reputation as the leading Mecca of education within this city.

We as students of this college know it to be true, so now the remaining job is to convince the rest of the city.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

AUTUMN leaves are clustering the ground with their golden hue; the wind is disturbing the quiet of green lawns; the birdies have left for Capistrano, and everyone is back at college. But before we become too poetic we might add, what more fitting way to close the summer season than to enroll in City College.

With a mere week and some-odd to its credit, a Fall semester rapidly approached its usual mad normality. Yep, even if those North winds a-blowin' are the only official sign of Autumn, we here at City College know it "fer sure!"

We know it for the crowds flocking to the season's first games and a first rally, sparked by a bonfire and rooters' spirit—the rooters later sparked by a reminiscent spirit.

We know it for the books that are beginning to have that look of being the usual thing instead of the exception.

QUALITY EXCEPTIONAL

The lads admiring the coveys of lovely freshmen around the vicinity of Ocean Ave.—all out for a between-class cup 'a coffee—don't care what the time or season is—they just note that the quality and quantity of women this year is exceptional.

The hep records over at the College Book Shop add a little heat to these chilly morns. The book shop follows an old tradition of hotter'n ever music for the customers.

The student store gets its face lifted with a clean up of first rush for books. Booths now promenade the entrance — all very conducive to eating and a favorite sport of pedro.

POLITICO'S HEAVEN

Talk down at the fountain and the student lounge revealing as ever the latest tendencies in the political direction. Leftist or rightist, all are welcome along with their "coffee-and." As for the lounge, well, you try and study!

Deviating from the lighter side, we note plans by the Associated Student officers and organizations —all calculated to give students one heckuva grand semester all this and heaven, too!

● Use Your Tonsils

Editor, The Guardsman:

There's no doubt about it, '48 is going to be a great year for CCSF. We've got a terrific amount of spirit growing on the campus and some great people to help it along. But turning out at the rallies and at the games isn't all we're asking of you students. We're asking you to stand behind us and back us up in everything we do.

We had a good turn-out at Friday night's football game, but I don't think the football team realized they had a lot of rooters behind them; they certainly couldn't hear them.

It wasn't the yell leaders' fault, for they were knocking themselves out to get a little spirit but the noise just didn't come.

Larry Weber, head yell-leader, said after the game: "I wish the students would realize that we're not asking them to yell for us; it's the guys out on the field we're trying to reach; maybe we can help them press just a little harder when they realize that they're being supported to the hilt."

Larry wasn't just talking; he meant every word he said. He is a good yell leader and he's got some fine assistants, but we can't expect them to do all the yelling.

Let's not just support the football team, but let's give the yell leaders all the cooperation we can. Thanks.

● Just A Hole

Editor, The Guardsman:

"Men At Work" sign boards on Phelan Avenue reminded me of the playful pranks associated with college students, but, additional signs on the east side of Phelan stating "NO PARKING" reminded me of last semester's rumors that Phelan was to be widened.

Now, at least, there would be parking on both sides of the street, a street wide enough to claim a white line, I thought.

Wrong again; we just can't win. Phelan doesn't get wider, it gets deeper; just one more rut for the college.

Maybe I'm asking for too much, but, as the street is already torn up, is it unreasonable to think that the needed widening of Phelan could be combined with the present project?

Lucky Ram Gridsters Finally Gain Kezar For Cowhide Tourney

We don't know who it was or why it happened or what the reasons are, but someone finally broke down and allowed this college to play two of their swineskin engagements at Kezar Stadium.

Naturally the Rams aren't going into grid combat on a Saturday or a Sunday, for fear perhaps, that the college eleven would cut in on the gate over at Berkeley, where the Golden Avalanche from Strawberry Canyon appear destined to scatter posies at the Rose Bowl Game.

Then again, if the Rams were given a Sunday date, where in the world would the 49ers or U.S.F. play?

Und zo the college happily accepted (on their knees) a couple of Friday afternoon dates.

With the exception of the Los Angeles City College, Damon Runyon Memorial game last year, we can't remember when the fighting eleven from Balboa Park played in the hallowed oval.

Credit for this coup de grace goes to Jack Brady, assistant dean of men (he always gets into the act) along with Jack Gaddy of the Physical Education department.

On October 22, Grover "Rover" Klemmer sends his charges against San Mateo, and on November 19, the Rams take on Stockton in the coveted Golden Gate Park Stadium.

Veteran Woes, Worries Settled By Campus VA

By Bob Marquard

Taking on the woes and worries of returning veterans at this college and bringing to mind the obsolescent phrase "Go see your Chaplain," the Veterans Administration established on the campus is ready to aid all ex-servicemen in untangling counselling problems and red tape.

George Olsen, veterans' counsellor, said, "That the Veterans Administration is set to take care of all the problems and clerical work of the veterans, such as subsistence, housing, and certificates of eligibility."

The vet is sent a letter to have an interview at 49-4th Street. If he fails to appear his case is dropped. Then the administrator gives the vets interests tests.

An innovation that has come into being just this semester is the new setup by which the veterans receive their books. They can get them in Building 6.

Initially, the vet is sent a notice to appear before a counsellor for an interview at Building 3. Then, when the vet appears he is given a short 40 minute interview, after which follow five hours of tests, given at separate times to the veteran's convenience.

The basic ones are the Kuder Test, Otis Gamma, and Strong Interest Test; the latter one is sent back to Minnesota for results, giving the vet his mental ability.

The last step for the vet is a final interview in which he is told the results of all his tests and the occupation for which he is best suited.

No Frolickin' Here For Maxwell's Kids

By Johnnie Dorris

All work and no pay, or other tangible rewards, is the compensation received by Allan Maxwell, ex-manager of Hurley Village, for a time-devouring task whose benefits were only for others.

Maxwell, who spent a large part of three months working on the Hurley Village playground project, is transferring to San Jose State for the remainder of his education, just weeks before the completion of the playground.

The hard work expended by Maxwell on this task was precipitated by the lack of playing facilities his own children enjoyed during his stay at this college.

Maxwell stayed on at the college for the summer semester, taking a few units to make it educational, when he would have been justified in leaving the college for a paying job until San Jose began its fall semester.

At San Jose he will be a fellow student of George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor last spring, who initiated the playground project.

Lowell Grads Lead Indians Tomorrow

This will be the probable Ram starting line-up when they clash against the Redskins at Vallejo. Starting time is 8 p.m.

Soccer Men Open Conference Play Against California Tomorrow

Opening the Northern California intercollegiate soccer season, City College will encounter the defending champions of the league, the University of California, at Beach Chalet, at 10 a.m. tomorrow.

Coach Roy Diederichsen, who is also the boxing coach, has taken over the job of coaching the soccer team, thus permitting Ralph Hillsman to spend more time with his varsity golfers and basketball squad.

The soccer squad has been practising every day and are in top shape for their opening game against the Golden Bears. Each player is determined to take the Bear squad to the cleaners to avenge their loss last year by one point.

Veterans returning to aid their new mentor are Neil Decker, Francis Granadino, Antonio Reyes, Pedro Maggiolo, Ben Granadino, and Marino Mangioia.

The '48 Ram soccer schedule is as follows:

October 2—California—Here
October 9—Cal. Aggies—There
October 16—S. F. State—There
October 23—U. S. F.—There
October 30—Stanford—There
Nov. 3 or 4—U. C.—There.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

Use of San Francisco State's Lake Merced football stadium at any future date may prove very useful to the Rams this season.

On Friday, October 29, the local gridders are scheduled to meet East Los Angeles Junior College here, but a stadium has not been engaged for that contest as yet.

The Lake Merced field has been offered to the local campus, if the State owned stadium is kept clean and undamaged.

Another night encounter, like last Friday's, would be sure to draw quite a crowd and would impress the Angelenos from the deep south.

Rental of the football field for the Monterey Peninsula victory cost the college only $150, which included the lighting, cleaning, insurance, and marking of the chalk lines.

Short Sport Notes:

Frank Suega, heavyweight varsity boxer for the Rams, was seen working out with the gloves in the men's gymnasium during the summer.

Art Paymiller, former baseball and intramural writer for The Guardsman, is now working on the sports staff of the Visalia Bee.

Intramural Entry Deadline October 8

Deadline for entering a team in the intramural basketball league has been set for Friday, October 8, as announced by Coach Tom Wilson. The league will begin playing on Monday, October 11, in the men's gymnasium.

The league is open to anyone who has not received a letter in basketball or is not a member of this year's squad. Wilson urges every college organization to enter one or more teams in the tournament.

The following are tournament rules released by Wilson:

1. Each team must have from five to eight players with at least five players present at game time.
2. A team not on the floor within 15 minutes after the scheduled time will lose by default.
3. Each game will consist of two 20 minute halves.
4. Each team will be allowed two time outs a half, although none will be allowed within five minutes of the end of the game except for injury.
5. In case of a tie one or more five minute overtime periods will follow until a team wins.
6. There will be free substitution.

WAA Changes Hours In Regular Sport Program

Regular sport sessions of the Women's Athletic Association will be held at hours listed below this semester, according to Shirley Austin, W.A.A. president.

Co-educational horseback riding will be featured starting Monday, October 4, at 2 p.m. for beginners, while intermediate and advanced riders will meet this Friday at 3 p.m.

Co-educational badminton will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m.; basketball at 10:45 a.m. Monday and Wednesday; archery Monday or Tuesday at 3:00 p.m.; volleyball Wednesday at 4 p.m.; swimming Tuesday and Thursday at 3 p.m. and tennis at 3:00 p.m. Tuesday.

Large Cage Turnout In Men's Gymnasium For First Practice

Although actual basketball practice doesn't take place for six weeks, casaba hopefuls will start working out immediately since the competition for varsity berths will be stiff.

Coach Ralph Hillsman is holding informal practice sessions at the men's gymnasium at 2 p.m. every afternoon with the exception of Fridays.

At present the basketball outlook is bright, what with last year's first team returning, namely Jack Marcus, Bob Greenwood, Terry McKeon, Bob Payne, and Jim Caldwell.

Other returning veterans are Al Munn, Ray White, Astorre Bucciarelli, Bill Kahn, Maurice Griffin, Al Athanasopulos, and Don Payne.

Some of the newcomers include such prep hopefuls as Les Brilliant, Lincoln; Milt Kaffen, Washington; Andy Divodi, Sacred Heart; Kev Duggan, Commerce, and Bob Metheny and Doug Truelsen, both hailing from Lowell High School.

Five Neophytes Swell Ram Fistic Prospects

Highly optimistic over the abundance of material present at recent workouts, boxing mentor Roy Diederichsen has set about the task of assigning the local mittment to their respective weight brackets.

Although his charges will not assume competitive stands against a talented array of collegiate foes soon, Diederichsen will make use of the time at hand in organizing his star studded roster.

Newly arrived and promising among the fistic neophytes are "trans-bayers" Vic Darrell, 147, from Alameda High, and six foot four heavy, Homer O'Hare, and Bernard Kelly, 180, both tried campaigners from the Oakland Y.M.C.A.

Classy bantam Al Chappuis, late of Lincoln, and welterweight Jerry Stern, who performed favorably for the Haight Street Boys' Club, are also on the roster.

Diederichsen advises all veterans not enrolled in physical education but desirous of exhibiting their talents pugilistically, to inform him immediately.

The bi-annual novice tournament is scheduled to be staged early in December.

Two In A Row? Titlebound Rams Out For Vallejo Scalp

By Walt Roessing

Eager to make it two wins in a row, Coach Grover Klemmer's Rams will travel to Vallejo tomorrow night to face the Redskins on Corbus Field at 8 p.m. in a NCJC conference football clash.

Fresh from a 37-0 triumph over a very inferior Monterey Peninsula team last week, the City College eleven will face a rugged Vallejo squad, also winners last Friday night, defeating Modesto, 19-6.

Possessing a strong running attack built around speedsters Ollie Matson, Ken Foehr, Roy Georgi, and Ray Gilford, and featuring a passing threat in quarterback Bob Toquinto, the local red and white team should give the Redskins plenty of trouble.

A fast charging line led by Paul Olivier, Neal Gunn, and Ben Albrecht should also do much to stop the offensive thrusts of Vallejo.

No Picnic For Rams

Tomorrow night's titanic will not be any picnic for the Rams, as Coach Colin O. Kilby's team is eager to repeat last year's 12-0 victory.

The East Bay football contingent is led by Ralph Wheeler, triple threater, who tallied twice against Modesto, and Fred Delnaca, leading kicker of the conference last season.

Also figuring to give the Rams trouble are two former local players from Lowell High School, Bill Morgan and Earl Moscrop, besides veteran ends Emery Johnson and Joe Fournier.

Reserves Come Through

One outstanding feat that may bolster the local campus' chances was the come-through performances of the second and third stringers against Monterey in the Rams' opening tilt.

The overflow football crowd of 6000 at State Stadium tilt was a pleasant surprise, but local college spirit was sorely lacking.

From Little Rams The Mighty Bears Do Grow

Many former City College football standouts are now playing for top Bay area grid elevens.

Instrumental in leading California to victory over Navy by scoring two touchdowns was Staten Webster, former halfback for the Rams. Jim Turner, Bear first string-tackle, also has seen previous service with the hilltop team.

Ken Schuchard, '47 all-conference center, is currently playing that position for Stanford.

Roy Burkhead New Mentor At College

By Clarence Hurlbert

Ably filling in a dual capacity left vacant by the departure of Jim Jensen to Cal Poly, handsome Roy Burkhead is a recent addition to the athletic "brain trust" quartered in the men's gymnasium.

In addition to his regular duties as physical education instructor, this modest newcomer is currently assisting Bill Fischer in furthering the abilities of Ram linemen in Coach Grover Klemmer's power laden Rams.

Having just complete a brief postgraduate course at Redlands University, Burkhead is fresh from a five year hitch in the swabby service, a stint during which time he served as physical instructor at San Diego Naval Training Center.

Coupled with various conditioning tasks, he helped tutor the then potent grid Bluejackets to an enviable two year record of some 21 victories as against three setbacks.

A versatile performer in his college days at the University of San Francisco, he was awarded monograms for cavorting on the gridiron at center under the wily direction of Spud Lewis, for hurling on the varsity baseball nine, and for creditably applying his energies in the discus and javelin events.

Come springtime, Burkhead will assist in priming local tracksters for active competition.

Ram CHOPS

By ROY PASINI

OF interest to East Bay intellects who commute daily to Ramland in search of a few morsels of knowledge is the current drive to push a bond issue for the establishment of at least one junior college on the sunny side of the bay.

At present, meetings are being held in various Alameda and Contra Cosa County burgs to acquaint the populace with the pros and cons involved in the move.

If the resident voters should decide to save their advanced scholars four bits a day, it could result in a peculiar situation here at City College.

COMMUTERS SPECIAL

With at least one fourth of the total Rams on campus making the "scenic and pleasant" bridge crossing each work-day, it seems as though the local plant would stand to lose an appreciable portion of its student body.

Just for chuckles we dug into some old issues of the timely, vital and informative Gadsman to see how the East Bay contingent has been faring on Ocean and Phelan Avenues.

The list of accomplishments ranged from residence in the local White House, last two Associated Student presidents included, to the athletic pits of fame and fortune.

Add to this the spirit displayed by quite a few of these "foreigners," who have to make an additional pilgrimage in order to attend a home-town function, and it kind of leaves a funny taste in your mouth as far as local talent is concerned.

NO RAM SPIRIT

From a purely objective angle it certainly seems as if the majority of students milling around the campus don't have a Ram bit of spirit and seem to get a charge out of letting the guys who are putting out on the athletic scene down, but hard.

This isn't intended to be a campaign to secure a house full of grade A red hots.

All that is needed is a thousand-odd luke warm followers who want to see the locals win and aren't afraid to loosen up the tonsils to gain that end.

Remember the Monterey game? All kinds of fans but from the sound of their listless voices, they must have been loaded down with domestic troubles.

A Cappella Choir Elects New Officers

Officers for the A Capella Choir this semester have been announced by Flossita Badger, choir director.

They are Tony Cuevas, manager; Margaret Steinhauser, assistant manager; Barbara Wittrich, secretary, and David Arillaga, chairman of properties. All of this group had experience in the choir last year.

College Libraries Set Hours For Student Use

Service hours for students in the west campus and main libraries were announced recently.

The main college library, third floor, is open from 8 a. m. to 5:15 p. m., Monday through Friday. The west campus branch, located near building two, has service between 8 and 4:30 p. m.

October 5 Deadline For Fall Budgets

All departmental budgets for the fall semester must be received at the dean's office Tuesday, October 5, according to Assistant Dean Jack Brady's office.

Rules governing sales and collections stipulate that transactions must be made through the bank controller, and outside bank accounts should not be used by organizations within City College.

Holiday Part Time Job Requests Due

Students who are interested in part time jobs for the Christmas rush season are urged to file their applications with the placement office, Joseph Amori, placement director, announced today.

"The objective of this office is to attempt to place the applicant in the line of work that will parallel his field of major study," Amori said.

Since the beginning of the Fall semester, the placement office has obtained positions for 150 full time job seekers, Amori added.

Band Says Half Not Much Better Than None, Refuses To Appear In Half-Draped Uniform

By John Dorris

Half a uniform is better than none to some people, but try to convince the City College band.

This strange slogan is not followed by some 40 band members, and they staunchly refuse to participate in college affairs in just the top half of a uniform.

The band is most fondly remembered from its hilarious performance in the L. A. City College vs. City College of San Francisco game in Kezar stadium last fall.

At that encounter the band members dressed as various types of human beings and were the reason for many laughs as well as write-ups by local papers.

The band, although poorly dressed and the recipients of erratic transportation, appeared at almost every home game last year and did a great job of raising the old "school spirit."

No definite information is available at the present time as to when the uniforms will be completed, but it is hoped that they will be here in time for the Marin game.

Almost one fourth of the band at the present time is made up of students who have already finished at the college but who continue playing in the City College band perhaps to wear a complete uniform.

Talent Search Ends Today For Theatre

Try outs are being held by the drama department in Room 28, main building today at 1 p.m., according to Lloyd Sisler, drama director.

Those students who can't try out by today are requested to inform either Sisler or Paul Ellison, drama instructor, in the main building.

"The plays and future dates have not been announced as yet, pending the quality and quantity of talent found in try outs," Sisler said, "and all potential dramatists are welcome to try out."

WOW!

WHAT A TERRIFIC DEAL!

Roos grey flannel slacks

Just $12.50

We're pretty sure these are the best grey flannel slacks in town for the money. Cut full and roomy — they're fine for campus, for active sportswear, for loafing. They have deep roomy pockets, reinforced belt loops, wide pocket facings. A good-wearing, California weight flannel. In regulars, shorts and longs.

Queen Contest, Dance To Highlight Home Coming

College alumni will be feted with a gala Home Coming Day Friday, October 22, Pete Isola, associated men students' president, announced yesterday.

The entertainment will be highlighted with a barn dance in the west campus auditorium that evening, and beards and "hillbilly" contests will play an important part in the dance activities, Isola reported.

Women have a chance to compete in a contest for the title "Queen for a Home Coming Day." Applicants for the honor are decided within the various clubs and sororities on the campus. Each nominee will submit a picture and other necessary information to the judges.

San Mateo Junior College students are to choose the queen. Their decision will be announced during half-time at the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund football game between City College and San Mateo at Kezar, the same day, the Associated Men Student president said.

"We hope to make this Home Coming Day the best college function of the entire year," Isola said.

AWS Officers Named

Corinne Lambert, Josephine Kay and Claire Toth have been appointed vice-president, secretary and treasurer respectively of the Associated Women Students of the college, according to a statement released by Marilee Zimmerman, president of the AWS.

Frosh Offer Dance Next Friday Night

Named as the first Fall social function given by the Associated Students of City College, Money Hickman, freshman class president, announced today the class presentation of the frosh dance in the Gold Room, Fairmont Hotel, Friday evening, October 8.

Music for the dance, beginning at 9 o'clock and ending at midnight, brings Mardy Leaver and his orchestra back to City College dances. Leaver, a student at City College, played at several dances here last semester and is known for the variety of music played by his organization.

Freshman class faculty sponsors, who will be present at the dance, include Thomas Dutcher and Betty Heckman. Also attending will be Dean Margaret Dougherty and Dean Jack Brady, according to Hickman.

The Freshman class welcomes all new students as well as the entire student body to their dance, which is helping to promote the school spirit campaign this Fall.

"Due credit for the dance should be given to the Freshman class dance committee and all concerned, who have all done a good job," Hickman said.

Informal dress and an Associated Student Card is all that is needed for admission—and a date.

Display Case Space Open For Bookings

All department heads and instructors who wish to use the display cases for exhibits of college interest should make bookings weeks in advance, William Eckert, advertising art instructor, announced yesterday.

Date will be assigned to instructors in the order they make their booking, Eckert added and exhibits may be put in for two weeks provided the material is supplied to the art department.

Help! Actors Wanted Rescue Shining Trail

Potential actors, singers, and dancers are wanted by the Portola Festival for their gigantic pageant, The Shining Trail, which will be presented on the nights of October 17 through 22, at the Cow Palace.

Part of San Francisco's celebration of the California Centennial, the colorful production calls for a cast of over 400, all dressed in gay historical costumes.

City Collegians are invited to join the fun. Previous experience is desirable of course, but not necessary.

Applications should be made at the Portola Pageant office, Room 523, Flood Building, or by telephoning EXbrook 2-2761 for further information.

PICTURED ABOVE is Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, who has been named as moderator for a political rally to be held in the auditorium tomorrow.

Bucket Brigade Plans Mop-Up Operations

The bucket and broom brigade will make its annual appearance on the west campus Tuesday, October 19, when members of the college's fraternities stage a Clean Up Day, Frank Ferguson, associated student president, hopefully announced yesterday.

Hoping for a victorious campaign on the West Campus, the voluntary "soldiers" will devote their efforts toward attacking the east campus Thursday, October 21, Ferguson communiqued.

CCSF Visits SFCC: Ex-Ram Gross Is Publicity Man

By Jack Hulse

Handshaking plays a minimum part in the work of Chamber of Commerce Publicity Manager Len Gross, whose job is a complex one of selling San Francisco to the rest of the nation. Not listed is the fact that he was born in our deep South — Los Angeles to be exact.

The hard-working Gross, The Guardsman editor for 1940, welcomed the current editors into his office at the Pine Street Chamber of Commerce for the second in The Guardsman series of the college in relation to the community.

Between phone-calls and note-taking, the friendly publicity executive outlined his department's functions, but not until making it clear that, "Every day I utilize the knowledge of my work given on The Guardsman."

Gross divided his work into six categories. Publication of the house organ, Bay Region Business, and press releases to all Northern California publications were named as two important projects.

Radio formed the third category, with Gross writing and narrating the KNBC program "Look Before You Weep" in co-operation with the Better Business Bureau. Next came free articles on local color and trade distributed to any publication requesting them. These articles are written by Gross with the aid of his capable secretary, Betty Lou Kern.

Remaining services were designated as pamphlet issuance and the promotion of good press-relations in and out of the Chamber of Commerce.

"Remember, this is only a small part of the Chamber's work," Gross emphasized, "and we're triple-checked for interest, accuracy, and policy."

Gross ended the interview with a request that we mention the fact that he resides in San Carlos, is happily married, and has two children.

"The Guardsman training has helped me greatly in my work," Gross said.

GOP, Demos, Progressives At Forum Rally Tomorrow

Sponsored by the Forum Club, a political rally will give Republicans, Democrats, and Independent Progressives an opportunity to voice their platforms to the 2,500 potential voting students tomorrow in the auditorium, Forum Club president, Paul Schwabacher, disclosed today.

Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, will be the moderator.

Representatives of the various parties will be selected by their central political group to present a 15-minute talk which will precede a 15-minute inter-committee question period. Spectators will be permitted 15 minutes to question the speakers at the culmination of the program.

The meeting was arranged by members of the Forum Club who realized the value of having political members personally stress their party platforms to the students, to insure intelligent voting in the November presidential elections, according to Schwabacher.

Schwabacher, Forum Club president, and Paul Cheuret, assistant, were responsible for formulating the scheduled meeting of the political party representatives.

Administration "Do Pass" On Coop Plan

Operation of an Associated Student book store will be discussed at an administration meeting in the near future with the possibility of a presentation of the plan to the Board of Education.

Information released by an administration spokesman, further stated that apparently the plan is favored by everyone concerned.

Tentative plans, if approved, would call for construction of the cooperative in Building 6 or 7.

The Associated Students would finance the project, the spokesman added.

Christmas Work Open At Placement Bureau

Applicants for Christmas work are now signing up at the placement office, according to Joseph Amori, placement head.

Students who desire holiday work should apply now in order to have their names on file and improve their chances for quick employment in the post office, express companies, florists, candy and department stores during the work season, Amori said.

Many of the department stores are already making plans for their Christmas help.

Beethoven Grabs Spot On Listening Hour

Programming of two outstanding romantic masters is scheduled for today at 12 noon during the Listening Hour, it was announced by Robert Morton, music department instructor.

The schedule will include some very important excerpts from Ludwig van Beethoven's Missa Solemnis, and the well-known Ave Maria also by Beethoven.

"Better musical appreciation is expected to come out of these listening hours throughout the semester," Morton said.

Soap Box Special Features All Political Party Representation

WITH tomorrow's political confab scheduled for the auditorium, finally, the campus red-hots will have a chance to cheer their favorite party.

Young Republicans are given the chance to get out and cheer the G.O.P.

Followers of the Democratic Party will undoubtedly be out in force to give the "hurrahs" for the Truman philosophy.

Students for Wallace, will remember to put on their buttons, and give their all for the Independent Progressives.

The Guardsman feels strongly that this is the best opportunity available for students, whether of voting age or not, to exercise their right in the ways of American democracy.

We furthermore accept the stand of non-partisanship in national elections as well as campus politics.

THIS MEANS THAT THE GUARDSMAN, SPEAKING EDITORIALLY, TAKES NO SIDES ON POLITICAL ISSUES.

However, this does not mean that limitation of the Freedom of the Press, will be followed by this newspaper.

On the contrary, various columns will be permitted to present any argument on any issue around the campus, providing of course the article remains in good taste, and is for the betterment of the college.

THE NEWS STORIES, AS IN THE PAST, WILL FOLLOW THE STRICT LINE OF PROFESSIONAL NEWSPAPERS, IN THAT THE STORIES WILL REPORT ONLY THE NEWS, WITHOUT BIAS, WITHOUT SLANT AND WITHOUT COLORING THE FACTS!

For any complaint, praise or general comment on the paper, the college or anything about the campus, the students are urged to exercise their right to be "heard in print."

The Letters to the Editor column, Ram's Horn, is the voice of criticism.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

THAT efficiency is not restricted to the masculine assemblage of this college (notably The Guardsman's almost all-male staff) is evidenced by several charming and prominent young collegiennes about campus, among them Bea Groger, Associated Student vice-president, and Shirley Austin, Women's Athletic Association president.

Miss Groger's appointment and follow-up election by the Student Council to the office of vice-president was effected through the resignation of Del Rainer, elected vice-president, who failed to return to the college this semester.

Last semester's Associated Student Secretary, Miss Groger is well-equipped to handle the reins of the campus' top women's position. She was also secretary of the California Two Year College Student Government Conference when City College played host to the meeting last year.

A main duty of Miss Groger involves planning the social calendar and generally supervising all social functions as the social chairman head at the college. She is also a voting member of the Student Council in addition to assisting President Frank Ferguson.

All of these duties tie in very well with Miss Groger's future plans which include work in the business field, possibly secretarial work after completing, this, her fifth semester at the college.

The dimpling Miss Groger, wearing her hair in the latest short cut style, is well up-holding her position as top woman student.

Shirley Austin's ambitions for a physical education instructorship upon university graduation are given an added impetus by her position as Women's Athletic Association President at City College.

She was elected last semester upon completion of an active year in WAA, including holding the vice-presidency of the organization.

Stressing particularly WAA plans for heavy co-educational activities, Miss Austin and her officers expect a full schedule for the semester. Among others, there are definite hopes for an inter-collegiate horse show and an alumni presidents' tea.

Earnest about her duties as head of women's athletics at the college, Miss Austin's enthusiasm extends to the political scene, where she is the WAA representative at Student Council meetings.

(Editor's Note: The deadlines for club news are Wednesday noon for Tuesday's paper and Monday noon for Friday's paper; material accepted at The Guardsman.)

• Club Advisory Board: The next Club Advisory Board meeting will be held during college hour, Friday, October 15, in the administration building on the west campus, Room 2B. All representatives are expected to attend each meeting.

• Presidents' Meeting: All club and organization presidents are asked to attend the opening meeting of the Fall semester Thursday evening, October 7, at 8 o'clock in the student lounge. Associated Student President Frank Ferguson will preside.

• Beta Phi Beta: New officers for the Spring semester are Tony Elvitsky, president; Ray Horton, vice president; Andy Butler, treasurer; Walt Schultz, secretary; Garnet Ringsmith, corresponding secretary, and Bill Koenig, pledge master. The first meeting completed plans for the pre-smoker and installation of new officers.

• Men's Glee Club: For the spring semester new officers are Ben Cheek, president; Tony Cuevas, vice-president, and Gene Dupignac, secretary-treasurer.

• Tau Chi Sigma: The newly elected officers for the spring semester are Bob Orr, president; Herb Sihner, vice-president; Al Miller, secretary; Money Hickman, treasurer, and Ed Toner, Master at Arms. Jim McCoy will be pledge-master during hell-week and initiation ceremonies.

• Theta Tau: There will be an important meeting during college hour Friday. All members are requested to attend.

• Zeta Chi: Installation of officers held September 25 at Bea Groger's home was accomplished for the following semester. Officers are Bea Groger, president; June Shallenberger, vice-president; Carolyn Theodore, recording secretary; Mary Calfas, corresponding secretary, and Barbara Bensted, treasurer.

• Forum: The literary and cultural discussion group will meet every two weeks. The first meeting will be announced soon.

Hermit Squirrel Joins Menagerie By Guard Shack

By Dayton Lawson

The south gate, long a haven for airdales, assorted feather merchants, and other members of the animal kingdom, recently welcomed a newcomer to the neighborhood.

The freshman is one (count them) one solitary squirrel. How the character arrived on the scene and what constituted his method of transportation continues to be a mystery.

There are two possible ways a squirrel could take a furlough from Golden Gate Park and set up housekeeping in Ingleside. One is to walk, which is hardly likely. The other is to be carried bodily, which still wouldn't make too much sense unless someone figured on substituting this furry denizen of the poplars as mascot for the stone-faced Ram.

Anyhow, he's now been officially accepted by that select Ocean Avenue clique, and was last seen munching on an apple core by the side of the guard shack.

Anyone with a touch of sentimentality in his makeup, or those who really enjoy a happy ending, could realize this trait by inviting another furry friend to share the apartment. It's awfully cold in those poplars at night.

1000's Gnash Nails, One Leaps For Joy

Locker distribution last week proved to be one of the highlights of the semester's activities — in more ways than one.

Several thousand students gathered at the student lounge to try their luck at drawing a lucky number and receiving one of the 400 lockers being issued. Two to a locker meant some 800 students would be blessed.

The sad number of those leaving the lounge lockerless went uncounted.

One happy soul, Martin Zais by name, found himself to be one of the fortunates and received a hole in which to store his hooks. No catch—the locker was merely the same one that he had had the previous semester.

This amazed student is one person who won't waste time searching for a hard-to-find cubbyhole. No such luck for his partner-in-books, however!

Drop 'Queens' In Faux Pas; Registration Woes Never Seem To End

(Editor's Note: Letters to the editor may be left with the telephone operator in the main building or in The Guardsman office in Bldg. 12. Deadlines are noon on Monday and Wednesday. If so desired the author's name will be withheld but the author must be known to the editor.)

• Sorry 'Queens'

Editor, The Guardsman:

In regard to your column, Club Cavalcade, of Tuesday, September 28, Guardsman, in which you classified the Masonic Club as a man's organization.

You made a slight error.

My, my, what about all the campus queens who have Masonic affiliations who are already members of the Masonic Club of City College?

Anyone with relations in the Eastern Star, Job's Daughters, De Molay, or the Masons may join the Masonic Club of City College.

—Bert Hale, Vice-President.

• More Woe

Editor, The Guardsman:

Mr. Jajeunesse has received several notes from me before so I thought that I would start Herb Levy off. (Editor's note: Gee, thanks!)

It is my belief that the subjects taught at this school should be for the student and not for the convenience of the faculty. It seems that certain subjects are taught at only one hour and that if you registered on Friday or if a new student on Monday, there was no possible chance to get into them.

Due to the unfortunate mumbiejumble on the campus some of these subjects are taught in the afternoon but are not college parallel. Why can't something be done to correct this?

I tried to get into a certain course last semester. The head of the department then told me that I would surely get in it this semester. Now here I am ready to graduate and still can't get the course. How can anybody win around here?

—Disgusted.

Vallejo Succumbs To "Pony" Backfield And Charging Line

By Walt Roessing

CORBUS FIELD, Vallejo, Oct. 2—Rolling over and through a potentially weak Vallejo eleven, the Rams scored an impressive 18-0 win tonight before a crowd of 6800 in their second NCJC football game.

Led by the breakaway running of halfback Ollie Matson, the passing of Bob Toquinto, and the charging of linemen Paul Olivier, Ben Albrecht, Ray Urbano, and Neal Gunn, Coach Grover Klemmer's gridders registered touchdowns in each of the first, second, and fourth periods.

The Rams culminated an 84 yard drive with one minute left to go in the first quarter with Roy Georgi going over from the one-foot line for the score., A 38 yard run by Matson and a previous 27 yard gallop by Georgi set up the touchdown. None of the tries for conversion was good two of them being blocked.

Early in the second period Matson gathered in a Fred Delaca punt on his own 48 yard stripe, cut for the far sidelines, and sprinted 52 yards for a City College tally.

Ray Posnekoff scored the final TD in the fourth period on a 20 yard pass from Toquinto.

Rams Show Strength By Holding Bears 3-3

City College's soccer team was held to a 3 to 3 deadlock by the defending champions of California after taking a 2 to 1 half time lead last Saturday at Beach Chalet.

The Ram's lead of one point was annexed when Vic Solorzano scored the first of his two goals three seconds before the half ended.

At the beginning of the third quarter Solorzano scored his second and last goal for the City College five minutes before the third quarter ended, the Bears scored on two successive goals after Antonio Reyes made some astounding saves for the Rams from his goalie position.

The fourth quarter was a see-saw battle which had no scoring and ended the game at a 3 to 3 tie.

Coach Itoy Diederichsen's debut was sparked by brilliant performances by left half, Niel Deeker, goalie, Antonio Reyes, wings, Pedro Maggiolo, and Vic Solorzano.

Locals Look To Third Win Friday

FAKING THE OPPOSITION into defeat are the four "piggie packing" ramblers of the Red and White "pony" backfield. Left to right: Bob Toquinto, Ken Foehr, Ray Georgi, and Ollie Matson.

Ram Pugilists In Training Grind; Innovation Enhances Fistic Hopes

Currently laboring in earnest, members of the varsity boxing squad are engaged in limbering up and other routine exercises designed to strengthen their limbs and reduce expanded waistlines resulting from the summer's inactivity.

Conspicuous in recent drills was the noticeable addition in poundage of several of the hopeful Ram pugilists including lightweight star Jim Wilson, and veteran Len Garcia, 127 pound specialist. Continued training should find them back in fighting trim before long, however.

Coach Diederichsen is establishing precedent this semester with the innovation of so-called "switch training."

Figuring that even the best campaigners oft times become confused when up against the offerings of a southpaw, he has decided to instruct his orthodox leather tossers in the art of using the left hand as an added offensive measure as well as learning to counter against it.

Pairing off his abundant charges in such fashion, each man can become better accustomed to any type of onslaught delivered by an opponent and can thereby readily shift to a suitable defense.

Veterans Make Golf Outlook Promising

Three returning veterans plus 12 eager newcomers make this season's golf outlook very promising to Coach Ralph Hillsman.

Returning for another year of competition are Bob and Don Paine and Bill King, while Vince Hollan and Walt Stryker are among those who are fighting for the remaining positions on the squad.

Eager Casabans Await Initial Cage Practice

Awaiting Coach Ralph Hillsman on the opening day of basketball practice six weeks from now will be seven lettermen from last year's squad and nine high school stars.

The returning lettermen are Jack Griffen, Bob and Don Paine, Alex Athanasopolous, Jim Caldwell, and Oliver Bascom.

Ram Claws Panther In Warren Town Next

City College's colorful and powerful red and white football machine will take the long trek to Sacramento Friday night to face the Panthers at 8 p.m. in the state capitol's Hughes Memorial Stadium.

This will be the third NCJC conference encounter for the Rams.

Eager to repeat last year's 12 to 6 triumph, Coach Grover Klemmer's power-laden outfit will be out to "skin" the Panthers.

More good news was handed the college eleven this week when Klemmer announced that Kenny White, speedy halfback, who was out of action last season because of injuries, will see a great deal of service in the future conference grid tilts.

Little is known of the T-operating football eleven of Sacramento this season, the Panthers having lost most of their lettermen.

WAA Sports In Swing; Term Events Planned

Signups for co-educational sports, such as badminton and horseback riding and the various Women's Athletic Association activities, are still open, Shirley Austin, president, announced this week.

Planned by the WAA for Friday, November 5, is a past presidents' tea to include presidents dating back to 1935, which was the start of the WAA and the college.

Family Night, of particular interest to the veterans, will be featured Wednesday, November 10, while on Wednesday, November 24, the dance-minded students will see a group of well-known artists give a dance demonstration.

"Those students interested in starting a co-educational bowling club should inquire at the WAA office of the Women's gymnasium," Miss Austin added.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

CARD stunts, a rare occurrence at a local City College game, will be held during the half-time of the San Mateo-City College football contest on Friday, October 22, in Kezar Stadium.

Finally trying to instigate a little spirit into the local grid clashes, the business department of The Guardsman hit upon the plan many weeks ago, and with the help of Harry Williams and Bob McVey had it passed by the Student Council.

The card tricks, not those played in the lounge, will certainly provide more interest in the long-standing Ram-Bulldog rivalry.

Three colorful stunts will prevail during the brief 15 minute intermission period.

One will feature a red "CC," while two others will honor our deadly blue and white peninsula foes.

Seven hundred and fifty students will be used in the Ram rooting section to display the 11 by 14 cards, and the total cost of the 2,250 will only be $21.

More Teams Urged To Enter Intra League

Although overshadowed by football's grandeur, intramural basketball gets the spotlight come Monday, October 11.

With the deadline for entries set this Friday, the response has been weak. One of the earlier entries comes from McClymonds A. C. Manager Jack Marcus has such name players as Captain Lou Pisani, Bill Marcus, Claude Crownover, and Bob Dabble.

Balboa Alumni Athletic Club comes back stronger than ever with six teams under their banner.

One of the dark horses of the league is a team sponsored by Ralph Hillsman, basketball mentor. He will build his club around Kev Duggan.

Signups can still be made with Tom Wilson until Friday, October 8, at the men's gymnasium.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

FOOTBALL has its Monday morning quarterbacks, baseball its armchair managers, but it's hard to beat the perennial sidewalk superintendent who can always be seen setting up residence around any excavation job.

The present trench-digging session on Phelan Avenue is no exception. Granted this is digging fairly deep for material, the goings on make for an unusual if not ironical situation.

For some time now a campaign has been on the floor to alleviate the critical traffic hazard which faces students who attempt the crossing of this junior sized speedway.

SAFETY SECOND

So what happens? Instead of sitting in on the construction of some type of overpass or a similar tool of safety, the death-dodging, swivel-hipped collegians have a ringside stool for a pipe laying party.

To add insult to injury, the job has only heaped more woe unto the picture. Never a spacious boulevard, the addition of a twenty ton shovel, a few dump trucks, plus the "always-on-time shuttle bus," has brought about an era of definite confusion.

At this writing there have been no reports of any wayward student falling into the ditch during the mad scramble between classes, but a large number of visiting vultures have been reported circling the area.

No one seems to know why the road busting was inaugurated during the first week of classes and after an almost carless summer session. Must be a shining example of free enterprise.

MORE CUT-UPS

Speaking of cut-ups, it has been common knowledge about the local intelligence departments that some culprit has been very instrumental in destroying the majority of posters which were tacked up about the campus in order to promote the sale of Associated Student cards. In fact the sleuths have come to the conclusion that the gangster is guilty.

A first class dragnet has been thrown out and little trouble is expected in the future from this collector of choice bits of propaganda, who, when apprehended, will be enrolled in a gym class where he will be able to receive his exercise in the good old, healthy American way.

Meanwhile, despite the efforts of this sandalled-vandal, card sales for the Fall semester continue to soar far above the number sold during the Spring gathering, according to the people's choice, Frankie Ferguson.

College Hour Friday Schedules Club Meets

College hour Friday will be used for the purpose of club meetings, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

The rooms previously assigned to clubs will constitute their permanent meeting place for the entire semester, Brady added.

Changes only will be through the office of the deans, Brady added.

Campus Police Will Cite Rule Offenders

Campus police are authorized by Fred Fitzgerald and the administration to issue citations for illegal parking on the campus.

Citationable offenses are as follows:

1. Cars parked on the ramp in a red zone at any time will be cited.
2. Cars left unattended on the ramp in a white zone will be cited.
3. Commercial cars may park on the ramp in a yellow zone for thirty minutes and passenger vehicles may stop for three minutes to unload or load passengers.
4. Cars left in the green zone for more than 30 minutes will be cited.
5. Cars parked where there is a danger of them running away will be cited.
6. Cars parked on Phelan where there are "no parking" signs visible will be cited.
7. Cars left in front of book store will be cited.
8. Cars on west campus that violate posted restrictions will be cited.

The campus police were first organized and officially sworn in under Fitzgerald's direction last semester.

First production of City College was its newspaper distributed at the inaugural meeting of students August 26, 1935. It was then called Emanon (no-name backwards) and after five issues bore a name voted by students —The Guardsman.

Navy College Program Open For Grads From 17 To 21

All male high school seniors or graduates within the 17 to 21 age bracket are eligible to take the third nation-wide competitive examination for the College Training Program scheduled December 11, leading to a commission in the Reserve Officers' Training Corps, according to a recent Navy communication.

Quotas have been assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population, and only those who are successful in passing the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examination.

If found physically qualified their names will be submitted to state and territorial Selection Committees composed of prominent citizens and naval officers.

Students selected by these competitive examinations will be assigned to the 52 Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps units which are located in various universities and colleges in the United States. If accepted by the college, trainees will be appointed Midshipmen, U.S.N.R.

They have their tuition, books, and normal fees paid for by the government. In addition, the Navy announced, trainees will receive pay of $50.00 a month for the four year period in which they have enlisted and upon graduation may be commissioned as officers in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps and required to serve on active duty for a period of two years following completion of their training program.

At the end of this time he may request retention in the Regular Navy or Marine Corps, or transfer to the Reserve and civilian life, whichever he chooses.

Applications are available at high schools, colleges, Offices of Naval Officer Procurement and Navy Recruiting Stations. Further information regarding the program may be obtained at Naval Recruiting Stations and more specific information about the program, the time and place of examination will be published at a later date in The Guardsman.

Talent Favoring New Yearbook Will Meet

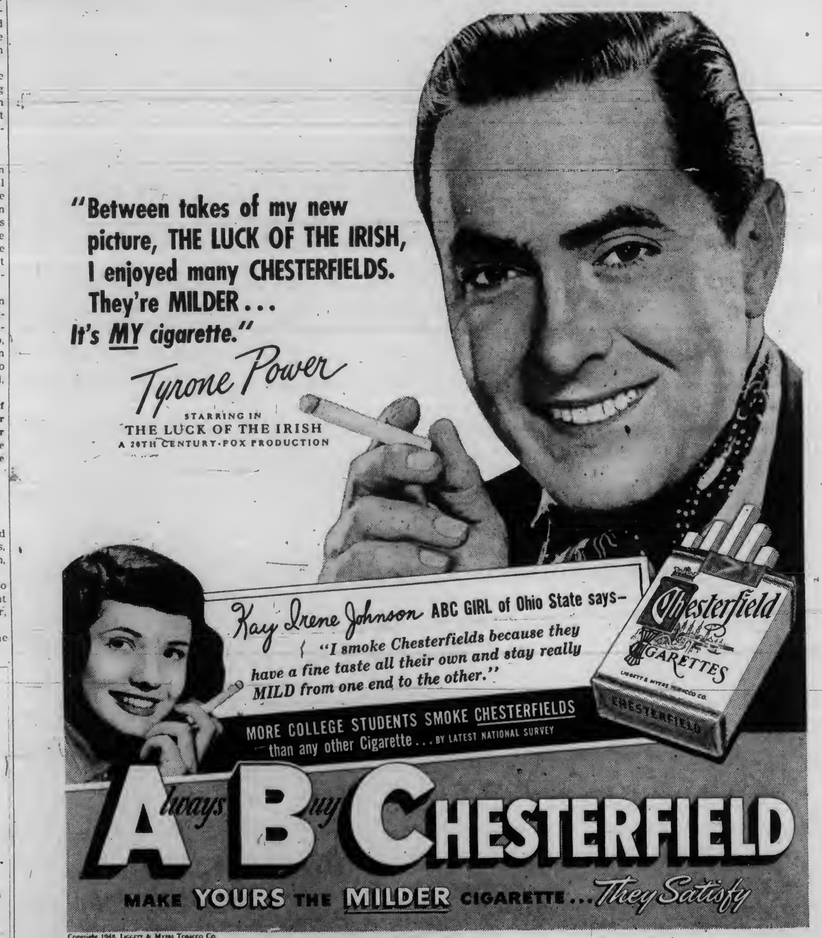
Marking another step in campus progress, a meeting for all persons interested in the creation of a college yearbook will be held tomorrow, October 6, in the Associated Student office, Building 2, at 2 p.m.

According to chairman Bob McVey, faculty member as well as students who have had previous experience in the publishing of an annual are needed, although anyone interested in the project is welcome to attend, regardless of journalistic background.

Fall Fund $21,000; Budgets Due Today

Working budget for the Fall semester was quoted as approximately 21,000 dollars by Oscar E. Anderson, controller, at Thursday's Student Council meeting.

The money for the budget will come from the post-war record breaking sales of Associated Student cards and the surplus that remained from last semester's budget.



All budgets must be submitted by today to the council's finance committee, headed by Jack Sommers, Anderson said.

The matter of free admittance to veterans' wives was put before the council. Opinion to the effect that all students should be treated alike, tabled the discussion temporarily.

Suggestion of a college yearbook was placed before the meeting by Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President A. J. Cloud. Although one has been published in the past, and another attempted, Bob McVey was made head of a committee to investigate the possibilities of such a project.

Twenty-five dollars was allocated to the Rally Commission for the purchase of stunt cards to be used at rallies and games.

Before City Colege was housed on its present campus, classes met in 22 different locations in San Francisco, with headquarters at UC Extension, and afternoon headquarters at Galileo High School.

Rams Meet Sacramento CC Tonight

Football Game And Freshman Hotel Dance On Deck Tonight

Double-barreled entertainment is on tap for tonight, with the semi-annual freshman dance in the Gold Room of the Fairmont Hotel, Money Hickman, Freshman class president, revealed, plus the football game between undefeated, un-scored-upon Rams and Sacramento City College at the State Capitol.

Scheduled as the first fall social function given by the Associated Students of City College, the Freshman dance will feature the music of Mardy Leaver and his orchestra.

Leaver is well known to Ram socialites for his variations in dance music played last year at City College dances.

Meanwhile, because of a mix-up in the grid schedule, the football game is being played at Sacramento City College tonight, instead of the previously announced date of tomorrow night, October 9.

The announcement was made official by Dean Jack Brady, who had conferred with Jerry Olson, Associated Student vice-president at Sacramento City College, here last week concerning the date misunderstanding.

Frosh dance goers need only an Associated Student card for admission to the dance, which is informal. Dancing begins at 9 o'clock and continues until midnight, Hickman stated.

"All new students are welcomed by the Freshman class, and of course the entire student body," Hickman disclosed.

Proposed Student Car Fare Boost Fought

In opposition to a proposed increase in student street car tickets from three and a half to eight cents, representatives of the PTA and CIO will hold a meeting in the Public Utility Office next Monday afternoon, October 11, at 5:30.

A College representative will attend the meeting.

Ushers Needed For Two Major Operas

Students interested in ushering at the San Francisco Opera House today and Friday, October 15, may secure admittance passes from Dean Margaret Dougherty now.

It will be necessary to be at the Opera House at noon, Dean Dougherty said.

The opera presented today is "Madame Butterfly" with Dorothy Kirsten, Herta Glaz, Jan Peerce and Guiseppe Valdengo in the leading roles.

The Friday opera is La Traviata with Dorothy Kirsten, Martina Zubiri, Serrucelo Tagliavini and Robert Weede.

Kappa Phi Fashion Show On October 21

Presentation of a fashion show by the Kappa Phi sorority for the benefit of the San Francisco Center for the Blind will be held Thursday, October 21, at 8 p.m. in the west campus auditorium, Phyllis Smith, sorority vice-president, announced yesterday.

Kappa Phi models will exhibit clothes from Hene Carroll's Dress Shop, with Peggy McCormick acting as commentator.

Talent from the Center for the Blind and from City College students will furnish entertainment during intermission.

Proceeds for the affair will go to the blind welfare for the purchase of furniture and other necessary equipment to furnish new buildings, which they have recently purchased.

Tryouts Set For New Talent Placement

Applications to bring individual talent into a proper standing should be filed immediately in Building 2, from 10 a.m. to 12 noon on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday, Hewitt Kendall Jr., head of the talent placement bureau, announced yesterday.

The bureau's activities consist mainly of a search for talent, and specifically, in placing the talent of students applying.

Kendall, who has great hopes for the bureau's future, invited everyone who plays an instrument, sings, or is socially inclined in any fashion for entertainment, to sign up for a tryout.

Columbus Arrives, Guardsman Rests

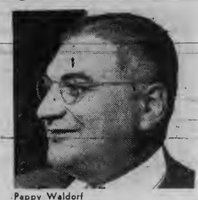
Columbus pulled into the Bahamas some 456 years ago, and The Guardsman pulled into City College some 13 years ago.

Since no one has decided to celebrate the appearance of The Guardsman in the City of San Francisco, someone has decided to celebrate old Christopher's appearance in the New World.

So in consequence, next Tuesday, October 12, there will be no classes, and The Guardsman wanting to be real American, will also knock off for that day. Next edition will be Friday, October 15.

Students Begin Beard Cultivation For Homecoming Day October 22

Preparation for the Home Coming Day celebration, Friday, October 22, has begun with the official start of the "Beard Contest" yesterday, Pete Isola, Associated Men Student president, announced.



Outeroppings by the entire male student body are urged. Blackbeards and redbeards are encouraged to cultivate uninhibited adornments, for the finest of each will receive rewards, as will the poorest and best trimmed.

Women vying for the honor of "Queen of Home Coming Day" must have necessary data submitted Monday, October 11, Isola announced.

Restrictions are that the entrant must never have been a queen previously and she must represent a campus organization, he added.

Contestants for the title of queen are to submit two 8 by 10 photos —one of the face and one full-figure. Together with the pictures, personal information about each girl will be forwarded to San Mateo Junior College, where a selection will be made.

Press Paydirt: Guardsman Attends Coaches' Luncheon

Pappy Waldorf

EXPLAINING THAT a football is made out of pigskin, Coach Grover Klemmer put in an appearance at the Press Club and proclaimed that City College has great hopes for this season. Surrounding Klemmer are, left to right: Bob Toquinto, Klemmer, Bill Koenig, Ray Poznekoff, George Urbano, and Ken Foehr.

Over on the right is Pappy Waldorf, the Golden Avalanche coach, who also extolled the merits of former City College star, Staten Webster, now handling left half spot for Cal.—Courtesy of S. F. Chronicle.

By H. M. Levy, Editor

Pulling a "mouse-trap" over left tackle, The Guardsman managed to plow its way into paydirt . . . namely to snag an invite to the Press Club.

With Grover Klemmer, Ram football coach, doing the blocking,

The Guardsman broken into the football writers' weekly Monday afternoon sessions with the various football coaches of the Bay area colleges doing the weeping.

The general procedure at these Monday sessions is first to have the various coaches and sports writers enjoy lunch (the food isn't very appetizing), then Jack McDonald of the Call-Bulletin, who is the chairman of the group, calls on the coaches to analyze their teams' performance the previous Saturday and to make general comments on their games coming up for the benefit of the writers present.

(The colleges in attendance included C.O.P., San Jose State, Santa Clara, St. Mary's, U.S.F., Stanford, City College, and the University of California.)

At last Monday's session Joe Sheeketski, of the University of Nevada, joined in the fun.

Following Santa Clara's report by its assistant coach, Grover Klemmer got up and lauded the Ram eleven.

"We have a light team, but fast. Matson is a really good boy. He's an all around back and a team leader," said the youngish Klemmer.

Bob Brachman of the Examiner asked him where Matson was going after City College, but Klemmer smiled with no comment.

Brachman laughed and said, "You know, but you're not telling."

Earlier, Joe Verducci of St. Mary's said to Klemmer (when the Ram coach shrugged his shoulders in a so-so manner when Verdooch had asked about the team) "Well, Matson makes touchdowns."

Marchie Schwartz wasn't there, so the Stanford assistant coach stood up and sang the blues.

When the tattered Red Machine's spokesman from Palo Alto was seated, the hefty Pappy (I don't talk like it, but we're going to take Wiseonsin) Waldorf from Cal rumbled to his feet, crushed out his half-smoked cigar, and started talking about the Golden Bears.

Of the former Ram speedster, Staten Webster, the large Mr. Waldorf said, pertaining to the St. Mary's game, "Webster improved considerably as the game developed."

With the Cal coach concluding, The Guardsman stuffed its football parlay card back in the pocket, and streaked for the locker room.

Klemmer had to get back to the grid team, and The Guardsman had to get back to the typewriter.

Technicolor Movie To Be Shown Today

California and its Natural Resources, a new technicolor motion picture recently released by the United States Bureau of Mines, will be shown today in Room 136 during the hour after college hour, according to Madison Devlin.

Devlin and his audio visual aids department present a different program each week at the same time and place.

Today's picture presents all the glamour and romance of California's natural resources and how they are utilized in mining, agriculture, timber and other industries.

As last week's show was crowded, Devlin urged all students to get there early enough to get a seat.

Coming attractions are as follows:

Oct. 15—Sierra Playgrounds (Pacific Gas & Electric)

Oct. 22—Wings to Ireland (Pan American)

Oct. 29—Along the Great Silk Route (General Motors)

Decrease Of Vets Expected In Future College Enrollment

Enrollment figures will closely approximate those of last spring and fall semesters, President A. J. Cloud disclosed today.

"Although," he stated, "the expected drop in veteran students is anticipated, this is expected to be true also in other universities and four year colleges.

"This," Dr. Cloud added, "is an encouraging indication that more disabled veterans have been rehabilitated and have gone on to higher institutions."

The final list of registration figures will not be complete until classes of Community subjects are compiled. The total is expected to be between 6200 and 6300 students. The actual number will not be definitely known for another two weeks.

Dr. Cloud further pointed out another reason for the national lag in veteran enrollment. "The average age of veterans," he said, "is now 25.1 years. Students at that age," Dr. Cloud continued, "hesitate to begin a course of study."

Although many students at City College are now 25, there is a natural reluctance to enter a new course of study at that age.

Deadline Next Friday For Incompletes

Students must remove incompletes before Friday, October 15, according to the official college calendar. This includes only the Spring and Summer semesters of 1948.

Failure to remove incompletes by this date will result in a grade of F for the course in question, college regulations provide.

Friday, October 15 is also the last day for filing petitions for graduation.

Speakers Needed To Introduce Bond Issue

Moderators for the orientation of voters on the forty-seven million dollar school bond issue are needed to preside at various meetings throughout San Francisco, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, revealed today.

Students interested should apply to Luckmann, Room 126, at the earliest moment. The bond issue, proposition A, will be on ballots in the November 2 elections.

Men Learning Fight Fire, Says McLendon

Men of the City College fire school are learning to fight fire, but capable of fighting flames or not, these men would not like to see the west campus burning, Chief Jesse McLendon reported today.

McLendon stressed, not so much Fire Prevention Week, this week, as fire prevention the year round, saying that inflammable hazards such as rubbish, waste paper, and dry grass should be disposed of quickly and efficiently.

The west campus buildings, which are constructed of burnable wood, should be looked after with extreme care. A cigarette or burning match carelessly thrown away could lead to destruction of the buildings and the endangering of the people in them, McLendon said.

We Give Praise To The Soccer Team; You Give To The Community Chest

BURIED on the Sport page of The Guardsman last week was a story concerning the 3-3 deadlock between the City College Rams and the University of California Golden Bears.

Now as the game played was soccer, there was little or no comment about the very ordinary score of a 3-3 tie.

However, The Guardsman wishes to congratulate the City College soccer team and their seemingly able coach, Roy Diederichsen, on probably the greatest upset in Bay area collegiate soccer history.

Granted the ordinary sport fan takes very little interest, if any at all, in soccer, mainly perhaps because it is a European sport.

The Golden Bears are the defending champions in the intercollegiate circles, having gone undefeated last year.

Their team is composed mostly of exchange students, who played soccer in their youth as American lads would play football.

But when a bunch of guys from City College can go out and lead the powerful Bears for the first half and finally battle the panicky Cal team to a deadlock, we take our battered sombreros off to the soccer team.

As we give praise to the team, the annual call for donations to finance the Community Chest has arisen.

For students going to college to give to a most worthy charity is truly a hardship, but the cause of the Community Chest is without equal for those less fortunate than ourselves.

Whatever the amount is that you can afford, give it to the Community Chest!

There is no reason to elaborate the Chest's beneficial program here, but it is sufficient to say that the cause is worthy.

Give a dime or give a dollar!!

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

ELECTED last semester to assume responsibilities involving the women students of the college, Marilee Zimmerman represents the feminine portion as Associated Women Students President.

Working closely with Dean of Women Margaret Dougherty, Miss Zimmerman has plans for a better student government for women. These involve an increased responsibility of women in college activities and a greater interest in the spirit of the college.

Miss Zimmerman's immediate plans are concerned with the tea for all new women students which will be held later this month.

The scene of the activities, the student lounge, will feature decorations for the occasion in addition to college talent supplied by the talent placement bureau. Also in the offing is a tea for women prep students planned for the end of the semester.

On the more personal side of Miss Zimmerman's ambitions is her future as a University of California coed at which college she will enroll in February. An English major at City College, she plans to do research work in American literature upon receiving her Bachelor of Arts degree from U.C.

Chuckling when she mentioned that this is her fifth semester at the college, she added that it might be because of her interest in women students and her ambition to see them become an integral part of student life.

Aside from the drudgery of student life, Miss Zimmerman's popularity has gained her acclaim on the lighter side of student activities.

This, her second semester as president of the Delta Psi sorority, finds her the acting head of inter-sorority affairs, in which capacity she is in charge of the bi-annual inter-sorority dance. Extending her popularity to the masculine contingent, she was elected the "sweetheart of Tri-E fraternity."

Prowess in the field of classical music as a pianist has won her city-wide acclaim as the recipient of numerous honors.

Miss Zimmerman's assisting officers for the WAA are Corrine Lambert, vice-president; Josephine Kay, treasurer. As yet, the secretary remains unappointed.

Interview With Head Engineer Stumps Reporter

By Dayton Lawson

An interview with P. L. Schlesinger, top non com in the maintenance and janitorial division here at the plant, is like rehearsing for a nervous breakdown.

The interview, and the term is used loosely, went something like this:

Reporter: "Mr. Schlesinger, The Guardsman is aware of the fine job your men are doing, and we thought that a little feature on the unit as a whole might prove to be interesting. Now, exactly what are your plans for——"

P. L.: "Can't take but a few minutes, son. On my way to Millbrae. Be there in half an hour. On a six weeks leave of absence, ya' know. Trying to get my boys an extra week vacation after a five-year period on the job. All the other towns have this, ya'know."

Reporter: "Well, that's not exactly the type of thing we had in mind. You see, we'd like a story on what—"

P. L.: "Outrage, too! Here, look at these figures." (Business of opening car door and getting pamphlets.) "Santa Rosa, 15 working days; Santa Ana, 15 working days; Stockton, two calendar weeks; Visalia——."

Reporter: "But the thing is, that—"

P. L.: "Not sayin' we'll get it, mind you, but it's worth a try. My boys all think the same as I do. After all, no reason why we should——."

Reporter: "But the article has to be about——."

P. L.: "There's a chance I may get a fight on it, but I always say 'nothing ventured, nothing gained.' Now what was that about a story?"

Reporter: "You see, we have——."

P. L.: "Ooops, didn't realize it was so late. Shoulda been half-way to Millbrae by now. See me some other time, son. Always glad to spin a yarn. So long, son."

Reporter: "So long, P. L."

● Alpha Gamma Sigma: The annual election of officers will be held during college hour today. Students eligible for membership should apply to Adviser Marjorie Balfiche in Room 341.

● American Veterans Committee: All veterans are welcome to attend the college hour meeting today in Room 100.

● Chinese Students' Club: Cars will leave Washington and Stockton Streets at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow taking members to a club picnic at Lake Anza.

● Club Advisory Board: There will be a meeting today instead of next Friday, October 15, as previously announced. It will be held in Building 2 Room 2B during college hour.

● Cosmopolitan Society: There will be a meeting today during college hour in Room 113 to draw up the activities schedule for this semester. Meeting is open to all students.

● Engineering Society: During today's college hour a movie will be shown in Room 136. Results of last Friday's election: president, William Partridge; sec-treas, Ellen Baumann. This semester's faculty advisers are Frank Fermer and Harold Edmison Jr.

● Tau Chi Sigma: A smoker was held at Herb Sihner's home last Sunday night. Movies were shown and the old members introduced their new guests. Refreshments were also served.

● Theta Tau: There will be an important meeting during college hour today. All members are requested to attend.

Student Artist Depicts Press Theme In Mural

By Dick Briggs

The story of the American newspaper, from an embryo to its ultimate development as world leader of the press, will soon be immortalized on murals by Stanley Sadler, painter-artist extraordinary. The oil paintings, to be transcribed in Graphic Arts Room 345, will relate to a sequence of momentous events that hastened progress to the climax of today's modern newspaper.

Sadler, who proceeds with avidity on art assignments, was accredited the task through his extensive artistic background, and superior ability to perform original, and highly professional workmanship.

Rough sketches and comprehensive drawings were made by the depictor during summer, and now the last phase—creation in oils—is in progress.

No slouch in any field of art, Sadler, with an inherent ability and intrinsic desire to draw, helped his potential into full blossom while in high school. He was reputed one of the most talented artists to graduate from George Washington High School.

While there the ambition-conscious student strived at exercising his flair for stressing the dramatic in layouts, and as co-editor of the yearbook succeeded in publishing an annual still considered unique in the backlogs of George Washington publications.

Sadler, now completing a post graduate course at the college, was a former president of the Alpha Delta Epsilon art society.

STUDENT ARTIST Sten Sadler is the creator of the murals depicting the history of the press' evolution which will be placed in Room 345 in the Graphic Art department. Sadler's artistic ability distinguishes him in the field of illustration.

● Clean-Up

Editor, The Guardsman:

I think the students of City College of San Francisco should take pride in their college. The west campus and the main building lawn look like a city dump.

More waste cans would help; but student cooperation would solve the problem easier. Let's keep the college grounds clean, so that the citizens of the neighboring community would look at our college with pride, not shame.

● What's Books?

Editor, The Guardsman:

I'd like to know what is holding up the text books and equipment, long past due at the veterans store.

It couldn't be that the Student Store and the College Book Shop, now that they have the bid in their mitts, are just sitting back and letting the veterans store wait until they feel like sending over the supplies, could it?

You can't sell them all to the nonvets! Send a few books over our way, we have a little studying to do too.

● Boy Scout Fraternity

Editor, The Guardsman:

I should like to know if you can help me in starting a Boy Scout Society. Here is what I want: I want those who are interested to give their names, address, their unit number and position in scouting. Please have each prospective member hand this bit of information to Dean Sandys.

The name of this society is Alpha Phi Omega, a national organization. I plan to have these men together to help me combat juvenile delinquency by exchanging ideas and make senior scouting better known.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

SITTING high in the press box last Saturday night watching the Rams roll to their second straight victory over Vallejo, 18-0, your reporter was able to analyze the strong and weak points of the red and white attack.

With two contests already on the record books, the City College team lacks, essentially, a good kicker. Unless Coach Grover Klemmer comes up with a distinguished toe, the Rams may drop a crucial contest on this one fault.

The college needs a man who can punt the team out of a bad spot besides being able to add the extra digit after the touchdowns.

Also notable in the Vallejo encounter was a distinct disease, held solely by the Rams. It was "fumbilitis." The local eleven fumbled 11 times, but lost the ball only twice.

Statistics compiled by this Guardsman reporter are as follows:

	RAMS	VALLEJO
First Downs	13	5
Passes Attempted	18	20
Passes Completed	9	6
Passes Had Intercepted	0	2
Fumbles	11	1
Ball Lost Fumbles	2	0
Yards Gained Rushing	239	66
Yards Lost Rushing	69	22
Net Yards Rushing	170	64
Yards Gained Passing	99	78
Total Net Yards	269	142
Yards Lost Penalties	30	55

PLAYER	TOTAL TCB	YDS. GAIN	LOST	AVG.

Rolling Rams Ready To Buck Panthers Tonight; Sacramento Site For Battle

Locals Plug For Third NCJC Win

A wildeyed Ram, with a thirst for more and more touchdowns, will trek to Sacramento tonight to face the Panthers in Hughes Memorial Stadium in their third straight NCJC conference encounter. The kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Having already captured wins from Monterey and Vallejo, the City College gridders are eager to "skin" the capital city squad in their third quest for victory "blood."

—Coach Grover Klemmer will take the Ram eleven northward today hoping to repeat last year's 12-6 triumph over the always threatening Sacramento College team.

Sparkling for the rejuvenated campus gridders so far this football season is the line charge of the red and white forward wall.

Opening gaping holes for Ollie Matson, Ken Foehr, Bob Toquinto, Roy Georgi, and Ray Gilford to rambie through for chunks of yardage are linemen Paul Olivier, Neal Gunn, Earl Toler, Ray Poznekoff, Bill Koenig, Ray Urbano, and Ben Albreeht.

Matson is the shifty breakaway threat for the Rams, capable at any time during the football contest to go all the way for a touchdown.

The clever running and charging of fullback Georgi will also worry the capital city men to no end, while Toquinto's deadly aerials should counter on or two TD's against the Warrentown men.

Information is scarce concerning the Sacramento College eleven, but the T-operating Panthers can be counted upon to give the Rams rough opposition.

Last Minute Rush Anticipated Today As Intra Basketball Signups Close

A last minute rush was anticipated today as the intramural basketball deadline entered its final stages. No entries will be accepted after today.

So far the response has been rather weak with only ten teams entered at the start of the week. As yet, only one fraternity has joined up, that being Tri Epsilon.

Although the season doesn't get underway until Monday, the fireworks have already begun. A bitter battle for the services of Kev Duggan and Bob Greenwood is being waged by Ralph Hillsman and Balboa Alumni Athletic Club.

Of the six teams entered by Balboa Alumni AC, only one looms as a possible title threat.

Alumni clubs seem to have sprung up all over the campus. Besides the Balboa clubs, there is a strong aggregation from McClymonds.

The Scarlet and Gray of Washington High School will be well represented by Larry Baldocchi, Marty Schneider, and other former Eagles.

Soccermen Trek To Davis In Clash With Cal Aggies

Stalemated in their initial conference outing, Coach Roy Diederichsen's soccer Rams assume a favorite role tomorrow as they journey to Davis to do battle with the Cal Aggies.

Vic Solorzano, who spearheaded last week's spirited local attack in the thrilling 3-3 deadlock with the powerful defending titlists of the University of California, is expected to portray a similar task against the Aggies who took it on the chin from USF, 4-1, in their autumnal inaugural.

In his first season at the helm of the soccer squad, Diederichsen looks forward to bettering the mediocre record compiled by last fall's hard working aggregation.

Embracing a schedule that included such presently scheduled foes as San Francisco State, Stanford, and the above mentioned California and USF teams, the '47 version posted but a single victory at season's end.

In majority on the current roster are several lads from South of Border and Latin America.

Two Vie For Wilson's Welter Boxing Berth

Slated to give veteran battler Jim Wilson a close tussle for the starting welterweight berth on next season's boxing varsity are promising comers Joe Veaucasavic and rugged Nick Canuli.

Mitt-master Roy Diederichsen expects few shortcomings from the efforts of this tireless duo, both tried competitors in the roped circle.

Canuli captured finalist honors in last semester's 147-pound intramural slugfest, while crafty Joe has left little to be desired in his ring mannerisms in late workouts.

Shadow boxing, sparring stints, and other elements typical of fistic training occupy the daily routines of the abundant crop of laboring pugilists.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

HERE at City College, as elsewhere about the nation, the daily routine of the average American has been interrupted.

For at least a week, the collegian and businessman alike will become aware of what a sporting world he lives in after all.

As usual, the radio and newspaper will serve as the major medium for keeping the eager public informed.

Russian, as well as home-grown politicos, will be taking a back seat on the front pages of America. News of the current oil strike will slide down to the bottom of the page. Even daytime serials face the possibility of cancellation or interruption.

INDIANS ON WARPATH

Yep, it's World Series time again. The down-to-the-wire American League scramble only added more zest to the overall picture. Since Monday's broadcast of history's first AL title playoff, talk in offices, on campuses, in beverage dispensaries, in fact, anywhere people gather, has been aimed at the battle of the Indians.

Although the U.S. as a whole hasn't been given back to the redmen, baseball has, even though it did take more than a handful of years.

After 28 years of being on the warpath, the Cleveland Indians have finally earned the right to setup a teepee under the big tent. The Boston Braves, the other half of the act, have put on their warpaint for the first time in 34 seasons.

All in all, because the two clubs have waited so long for a crack at the diamond sports big time and just because it is the World Series, America's baseball crazy fans are in the midst of a first class powwow.

LOCALS GO BATTY

Here on the campus, the Series has had a marked effect. Students are seen packing portables, crowding around them between classes or sneaking a quick score-catching earful during a dull (if there is an animal) lecture.

Car radios are getting a full workout with a king sized group taking in the colorful pageant. Even the cardsharks at the student store are perking one ear toward the ball game while they give it a Gaylord Mitty with their hands full of hands.

Yes, it looks as though it will be some time before anything replaces baseball as the National Pastime.

Lyon Turns To Playwriting; Result College Daze With All Faculty Cast

Presentation of College Daze, written, directed, produced, and acted by faculty members, is scheduled for Thursday evening, November 4, 8 o'clock, in the west campus auditorium, William E. Culver, faculty committee head and producer, announced today.

The play, a comedy, was written by Luther H. Lyon, business department instructor.

Culver will be remembered by many students for his bang-up performance in directing Berkeley Square last spring.

A committee of faculty members, who will serve as advisers in various phases of the play, have been named and will be headed by Culver.

The committee includes Joseph Amori, Madison Devlin, Michael Griffin, Ralph Hillsman, Anthony Palotti, Thomas Porter, Samuel Ziegler, Mary Jane Learnard, Gertude Norgard, Dorothy Luckhardt, and Lyon.

Get Acquainted Dance Set For Next Friday

"House of Blue Lights" sets the theme and decoration for Tau Chi Sigma's dance neext Friday, October 15, from 9 to 12 p.m. in the college auditorium.

According to President Bob Orr, the dance is a stag or drag affair for the purpose of giving new and old students a chance to get acquainted.

Shakespearean Drama May Be Presented

Possibility of a Shakespearean play presentation advanced another step yesterday when a motion was made at the Student Council meeting regarding approval of a $400 budget for costumes.

Future council meetings will be held in Room 9K.

Clubs To Meet Today

College hour today at 10:30 a.m. will be used for club meetings in their appointed rooms, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

A rally will be held for the Marin game next Friday, October 15, in the west campus auditorium, Brady added.

Deadline For King, Queen Photos Set

Candidates for the Sophomore King and Queen elections must have pictures taken no later than Saturday, October 30, Dick Featherstonehaugh, president of the Sophomore Class, announced today.

Each candidate must have his picture taken at McMurray's Studio, 1401 Van Ness Avenue. Photographs will be taken free provided candidates identify themselves as such. No photographs from other photographers will be accepted.

Newly elected officers for the Sophomore class are Dick Featherstonehaugh, president; Maria Wilson-Walker, vice-president; Bob McVey, secretary-treasurer.

Portola Festival: College Donates Actors, First Aid To Shining Trail

WITNESSES TO FILM DIRECTIONS for the Portola Festival production, Shining Trail, The Guardsman checked in last week on the opening of Centennial celebrations in California.

By Jack Hulse

City College's first contribution to the Portola Festival was a package of aspirin donated by a Guardsman reporter to the helmeted Don Gaspar de Portola (modern version portrayed by Bill Pond), who had picked up a splitting headache somewhere near the bay he reportedly discovered way back when there was nothing high-atop-the-Mark.

All this took place at the huge Harrison Street studios of Columbia pictures, where rehearsals for the Portola Festival were being filmed.

Present were stars of the coming Cow Palace extravaganza, Shining Trail, starting Sunday, October 17. Ray Doyle, assistant director of the pageant, numbered the cost at over $400, actors and actresses.

(Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor here, said that "many students" at this college are to participate in the show, in ensemble and speaking parts.)

Headaches weren't the only discovery of Guardsman forces in their fourth trek uptown to demonstrate the college's relation to the community.

A family relationship linking City College with local history was disclosed by Alfred G. Ortega, a prominent San Franciscan whose ancestor, Captain Ortega, was the first member of Portola's expedition to sight San Francisco Bay.

Ortega, present for publicity shots of the old-meets-new type which he poses for, said his daughter Betty attended this college in 1940.

President Cloud Says Name Is Por-to-LA

A hundred year old controversy in grammar was ended by President A. J. Cloud recently, and the results had significance to the progress of the Portola Festival.

A discrepancy in pronunciation of Portola was solved when Dr. Cloud, reverting to an authoritative old manuscript, found the word portola pronounced por-to-LA.

First Grad Directors Meet To Knit Policy

Initial meeting of the Board of Directors of the City College Alumni Association has been set for some time in the next two weeks, Jack Hagan, alumni liaison officer, announced today.

Dr. Richard B. Kelley has been named chairman of the organization with the following men appointed as members:

Len Gross, ex-Guardsman editor and now publicity manager of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce; Tim Guiney, Keeler Review editor; Gloria Swiecgood, women's athletic instructor here; Ralph Hillsman, City College basketball coach; Charles Meyers, assemblyman candidate; Trev Burrow, ex-editor of The Guardsman; Don Burger; Don Jensen, mathematics instructor here, and Joe Amori, placement director here.

These members will attend the first board meeting and will establish policy for future meetings, Hagan said.

Tea Thursday Honors All Freshmen Women

An Associated Women Students' tea honoring all freshmen women students will be given Thursday, October 21, in the student lounge, according to a statement released by Marrillee Zimmerman, president of the AWS.

Entertainment will be given and there will be music played throughout the tea.

Tau Chi Sigma To Present Stag Or Drag Here Tonight

Dancing again snares the spotlight tonight, as the Tau Chi Sigma fraternity presents its House of Blue Lights dance in the west campus auditorium from 9 o'clock until midnight, Bob Orr, Tau Chi Sigma president, announced today.

"Everyone is invited to come either stag or drag, with a touch of blue in the wearing apparel, admission being seventy-five cents a person," Orr disclosed.

The auditorium will set its stage with the atmosphere of soothing blue lights, thus giving the dance its title of The House of Blue Lights.

Herb Sihner, vice-president of the Tau Chi's and in charge of decorations, promises to have the auditorium completely disguised. Sihner is assisted by Money Hickman and Stan Sadler with decorations.

Added to this atmosphere will be the music of Mardy Leaver and his orchestra, who will furnish some blues and jump for the dance enthusiasts.

Elaborate entertainment is planned during intermission, as some local talent is slated to keep the "Blue Lighters" from feeling blue.

Cloud Asks Voters To Support School Bonds

Urging all students who are registered voters in San Francisco, City College President A. J. Cloud encouraged yesterday the passage of the School Bond Issue.

The school system committee, headed by Garret McEnerney II, will seek to raise funds mounting to $48,890,000 for the school building program. This should convince San Francisco voters of the need of such a program, President Cloud said.

The proposition must be approved by two-thirds of the voters to succeed, according to President Cloud.

"Because of the two-thirds vote required for passage of such bond proposals, we have seen how a minority can organize and defeat the will of the majority," chairman McEnerney stated.

The proposed bond issue would include construction of or additions to twenty-six elementary schools, four junior high schools, two senior high schools and to City College, thus with the approval of the issue, San Francisco can continue its building program for City College.

Talent Loaded Rally For College Hour Spurs Spirit

A pre-game rally today will fire spirit into the student body for tomorrow night's City College-College of Marin conference football encounter to be played at Kentfield. The kickoff is at 8 p.m.

The Rams will try to repeat last year's 14-0 win, but will need the backing of the students to stop the rugged Mariners.

Larry Weber, college yell leader, will try to instigate spirit into the students at today's rally by leading them in yells that will be given during the game tomorrow night.

Sparked by fresh talent, a rally featuring entertainment recruited from the Associated Students by the talent-placement bureau will be held in the west campus auditorium during the college hour on Friday, October 15, Hewitt Kendall, bureau chief, announced today.

This all-student production will present Flossita Badger's choir, college cheer songs by the men's and women's choruses, directed by Tony Cuevas, and two unannounced skits prepared by the talent bureau.

Cuevas has also written a new fight song which will be premiered at this time.

The rally will render a plug for the Ram-Marin game when an unidentified coach will present a short talk on the football team.

"The entertainment has been in rehearsal since last Monday in an attempt to present capable, entertaining rallies," Kendall said.

Today Is Last Day To File Grad Petitions

Students planning to escape from "the truth that makes them free" are reminded that today is the last day to file petitions for graduation.

Today is also the last day for removing incompletes incurred during the Spring and Summer semesters of 1948.

Unless incompletes are removed by today, instructors are required to give a final grade of "F" for the incompleted course.

Fashion Show Proceeds Go To Blind Center

Kappa Phi sorority will present its benefit fashion show for San Francisco Center for the Blind at the new date, Tuesday, October 19, in the west campus auditorium at 8 p.m., Phyllis Ryan, sorority president, said yesterday.

Tickets for the show are 50 cents per person and may be obtained at the bank or from sorority members. All proceeds from the show will go to the blind welfare.

Models from the sorority will model clothes from the Ilene Carroll Shoppe, Miss Ryan said.

Band Appears In New-Look Uniforms

College of Marin rooters, along with local fans who venture across the Golden Gate, can expect to get their first look at City College band uniforms tomorrow, Mike Cahn, band director, announced yesterday.

Although the band uniforms were on hand last Friday, the band considered it impractical to travel to Sacramento just to put on a five minute show at the half.

Reason for not allotting City College more than five minutes at the half, Sacramento stated, is that their own band would be utilizing the half-time.

In their expected appearance at Marin tomorrow, the band will perform marching routines along with playing spirit raising music.

Photos For King, Queen Contest Due Nov. 15

Pictures of candidates for the Sophomore Class King and Queen election are to be submitted no later than Monday, November 15, Dick Featherstonehaugh, president of the sophomore class, declared yesterday.

Final date for photos to be taken is October 30, and they must be taken at McMurray's Studio, 1401 Van Ness Avenue, Featherstonehaugh added.

No photographs from other photographers will be accepted, he warned, and candidates must have completed 24 units of work.

The election committee for the sophomore class includes Featherstonehaugh; Maria Wilson-Walker, vice-president; Bob McVey, secretary-treasurer; George Capanis, and Byrne Davis. Others may be added later, Featherstonehaugh added.

Student Ushers Needed For Today's Opera

Students interested in ushering at the San Francisco Opera House today are urged to see Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, in order to secure admittance passes. It will be necessary to be at the Opera House by 12 o'clock today, she said.

The opera to be presented is La Traviata, with Dorothy Kirsten, Martina Zubiri, Serruccio Tagliavini and Robert Weede.

Homecoming Next Friday

Campus organizations will parade their "pseudo-animal" creations through the auditorium during the college hour on Homecoming Day, Friday, October 22, where students will select their favorite for a coveted prize.

Judgment of the prize winning animal will be done by those students present in the auditorium. Their applause will determine the winner.

There are no restrictions as to the type or shape of the animals that will be created, which should leave much to the imagination, Pete Isola, Associated Men Student head, said yesterday.

One of the honors accorded to the organization head of the winning entry will be that of introducing the Queen of Homecoming Day during the half-time ceremonies of the Damon Runyon Memorial Fund football game at Kezar Stadium.

Decorations for the barn dance scheduled Thursday, October 21, the eve of Homecoming Day, will include the animal entries, while the winning creation will be exhibited in a throne-like corral, Isola said.

Why Not The Ram In The Little Rose Bowl And The Bear In The Big One?

ASSUMING for the moment that our football team is not as good as the powerhouse over in Berkeley, namely the Golden Bears or the various teams in the Big Nine, we are convinced that with a few breaks the Rams could go all the way.

AN UNDEFEATED GRID OUTFIT AT CITY COLLEGE IS SOMETHING OF A RARITY.

Under Lee Eisan's tutoring, the Rams vaulted to the fifth best two-year college in the nation two seasons ago.

And now just two years later, with Grover Klemmer at the helm, the home town boys look as if they may surpass the 1946 champion team.

IF (AND WE HATE TO START INTERJECTING "IF") THE RAMS GO ALL THE WAY WE WOULD LIKE TO INFORM THE PASADENA CHAMBER OF COMMERCE THAT THE BOUNDARIES OF CALIFORNIA DO NOT END AT HOLLYWOOD AND VINE.

Speaking more specifically, this college, "if" we go undefeated for the current pigskin schedule, will gladly accept a bid to the Little Rose Bowl game, which is played annually in mid-December in Pasadena.

Thus far, the Western representative of the two-year bowl game variety has either been Compton or Compton, with Chaffee sneaking in last year.

"IF" WE GET BY THE HIGHLY TOUTED HARTNELL AND STOCKTON COLLEGES, AND "IF" WE MAKE A TERRIFIC SHOWING AGAINST LOS ANGELES CITY COLLEGE DOWN IN "NEVER NEVER" LAND ON NOVEMBER 6, THE RAM ELEVEN WILL BE IN DEFINITE CONTENTION TO REPRESENT THE WEST.

We incredulously believe that such an accomplishment is very possible if not fantastically probable.

What could be sweeter than to have the noble Golden Bears battling it out in the Big Rose Bowl, and the happy Rams doing-or-dying in the Little Rose Bowl.

Maybe California's borders do reach, say—Market Street at least!

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

ALL in the interest of beating Herb Caen to his deadline, we cite a few instances of interesting names about the City College campus that he missed.

Milton Polissar's mid-morning chemistry 21b lecture has a number of interesting personalities, all studying the properties of elements. Not so elementary are the handles of these five distinguished personages—Caesar, Nero, Washington, Napoleon and Casanova.

Additional in the realm of names and notables about the illustrious campus is an item that one John Lord, the author of that choice gem entitled, Where to Sin in San Francisco, is, at present, a student at the college.

If you haven't perused "Where to Sin—" any further, you may at least have noticed its glossy cover decorating the window of many a Market Street bookstore.

Anyhow, the $64 question of what Lord is doing at City College may be answered in his own words: "Anyone who ignores the accumulation of knowledge that has piled up since the discovery of the Rosetta Stone is an ignoramus."

Deviating from news of names, we find big news in numbers worth mentioning — 1540 students have changed their programs since the beginning of the semester; 1939 classes were dropped, while 3881 classes were added. Just all goes to show that City Collegeites aren't averse to extra units—plus extra work.

Pete Isola, Associated Men Students' president, is ably plugging for Homecoming Day, October 22, which his organization is sponsoring. If his black beard is any representation of the future faces for the official "Beard Contest," some smooth bushes can be expected.

While Mr. Isola is probably vying for the "best-trimmed beard" title, there is a chance for a "poorest beard" to also reap the rewards at the future Homecoming Day celebration.

News from the registrar's office tells us that the number of nicknames on registration procedure cards ("Dick" for Richard, etc., etc.) may result in confusion sometime later. Even if a student is critical of the handle his parents gave him, official sources tell us that official records require official names.

As all this activity engulfs the college, these cold, foggy morns make us shiver. Too bad that we, too, can't take off to Capistrano.

Pinballers Stand In Awe At World Series, Slow To A Walk

By Dayton Lawson

The usual fast action around Pinball Gulch in the Ocean Avenue South Gate area slowed down to a walk October 6 as the first game of the World Series came booming over the air.

Regular customers, whose game concentration has been honed to a sharp point by years of practice in shutting out all unnecessary noises; were seen to stand in open-mouthed silence as Feller wound up.

Three glass balls glided lazily down to the trap in another instance without a single nudge when the winning run came in. The pin shark was over rootin' the Braves in.

Hotel Students Vie For Yosemite Trip

Hotel division students competed last weekend for extra-curricular homework, Stanley Cordes, publicity member of that department, announced today.

The "homework" for three students consisted of an all-expense paid trip to the California State Hotel Convention, to be held at the Ahwanee Hotel, Yosemite National Park, October 9 to 13.

The selectees, appointed from ten fourth semester students, enrolled, acted as City College representatives at the convention.

Cooperation In Army And Navy Merger Unique

By Larry Baldocchi

Among the new residents of the Waldorf, local college barracks, is Cecil Tennis, a war veteran who is now attending the college.

Unable to do his own reading because partially blind, he has a pretty little miss in the person of Mary Fran Bradley who does his reading for him.

Miss Bradley first met Tennis in their Spanish class, and noting that Tennis could use some help, she offered her assistance which was gratefully accepted.

Tennis attended high school at Merced, California. After graduation he spent eight years in the army. He then was sent to a hospital to be treated for his injury received while on active duty. After two years he enrolled at the college and is now majoring in Business Administration.

Pert Miss Bradley is also a veteran offering her services to the navy as a WAVE during the war. This summer she also worked at Treasure Island in the Commandant's office of the 12th Naval District. She hails from Clinton, Iowa, and is studying to be a medical secretary.

At first it was quite a job trying to find a room in which to study because with Tennis living at the Waldorf, it wasn't quite cricket to invite Miss Bradley to his room.

They finally found a college classroom, where any day you can find them hitting the books.

Cost Hike Due For Black, Blue Marks

By Rose Hardie

City College students may have to pay a higher price for black and blue marks acquired while being shoved about on local streetcars if the proposed fare increase goes into effect December 1.

Car tickets, which now sell for 50 cents will be raised to 80 cents if the regular rate is set for 10 cents per ride.

● Discrimination

Editor, The Guardsman:

It seems to me that something smelly is blowing around Sacramento College and has been since I've been going to City College.

We go up there in good faith expecting a football game and maybe a dance (not much, maybe just a jukebox), but what do we get, a fair football game and no dance.

Now it wasn't that they didn't give a dance; on the contrary, they went out of their way to let us know where they were having a dance, but when we got to the location specified a criminal thing occurred.

A little man standing at the entrance had the nerve to ask for a dollar and half admission fee (per person, that is) if we were not from Sacramento college, and to let us in free if we were from "Sac."

This entire affair wouldn't be quite so bad if this had been the first time it happened; but it wasn't and it has probably been going on since the two colleges have been playing each other.

Maybe their isn't much we can do, but we can let Sacramento know how we feel about the whole matter.

J.D.—621

● Open Debate

Editor, The Guardsman:

The local chapter of the Student for Wallace, an active and growing organization as yet functioning "off campus," would like to extend a challenge to any other campus organization or group of students to meet in open debate on any issue of or pertaining to the coming election.

Speakers could be either students or persons off-campus, and notice would be given far enough in advance to allow the students to attend.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessling

GROVER KLEMMER, coach of City College's powerful T-formation football contingent, is currently hoping that disaster will not strike twice.

Last year, when the Rams were in the midst of a fairly successful season, they suddenly nose-dived and dropped their last four contests in succession to Los Angeles, Hartnell (formerly Salinas), Modesto, and Long Beach.

The same occurrence should not happen again this year. City College's grid squad possesses a much better all-around team, and Klemmer has now much more experience in coaching a two-year college eleven.

Although he is not the best known grid mentor in the business, Klemmer is trying his hardest to turn the Rams into an undefeated gridiron machine this year. He has the backfield material for an outstanding team while the only thing that he lacks in the line is capable reserves.

DISCARD LAST SEASON

The first season for a new football coach is not always the best, so last year's unenviable record of 3 wins, 5 losses, and 1 tie can be discarded for the present.

The tall blond coach, who was once interviewed by movie scouts as a possible replacement for Tarzan, is hard to pick out from one of the players when he is down on the practice field.

Klemmer is naturally reticent and thus not the easiest coach to try to get a football story from, as this reporter has found from experience.

RAMS HOPE HE STAYS

The former California track star isn't likely (we hope) to leave City College to be coach of a higher institution just yet, for which the Rams can be grateful.

If disaster doesn't strike again, Klemmer should lead the City College Rams to a highly successful season.

Strong Locals 3-1 Favorites Over Mariners

Rams Rollick In Sacramento Rout, 25-7; Marin Night Hosts To Classy Klemmermen

Seeking their fourth successive triumph, the roaring Rams of City College will attempt to tar the Mariners of College of Marin tomorrow night when the two football elevens tangle at Kentfield.

The kickoff is at 8 p.m. in this Northern California Junior College Conference grid encounter.

Coach Grover Klemmer has listed halfback Ollie Matson as a doubtful starter, the sensational speedster having suffered a chest injury against Vallejo two weeks ago.

Starting in Matson's halfback spot will probably be Doug Wilson, a hard-shifty type of runner.

Klemmer does not consider the Mariners any pushover, even though the latter eleven has lost two conference tilts—to Stockton 13 to 6, and to Menlo 22 to 0.

The youthful City College coach considers the College of Marin a definite threat without Matson in the backfield.

Pacing the College of Marin attack will be Sam DeVito, a passing wizard, who played against the Rams last year at quarterback when the Kentfield eleven dropped a 14-0 decision.

"Slinging Sammy" is known in local circles for his adroit work with the '45 and '46 Galileo outfits in his prep days.

Quarterback Bob Toquinto will again take up the attack for the campus squad. He will be ably assisted by Wilson, Roy Giorgi, and Ken Foehr in the backfield, while the forward wall defense will be directed by massive Earl Toller.

So far this season the City College men have whipped Monterey, 37-0; Vallejo, 18-0; and Sacramento, 25-7.

The red and white gridders are casting their eyes toward their second home game against San Mateo, one week from today, which will be played at Kezar Stadium.

COACH ROY DIEDERICHSEN is newly appointed coach for the Ram soccer squad at City College.

Soccer Team Faces Gators Tomorrow

City Colleges soccer team will be a slight favorite to overcome the San Francisco State Gators at Lake Merced tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Coach Roy Diederichsen's fast and aggressive eleven will be favored because their performances are more spectacular than those of the Buchanan Street school.

The Rams' record shows them having a recent victory over the California Aggies and a deadlock with the defending champions of the University of California, while the Gators have been subdued in both their outings against Stanford and California.

Neil Decker, Carlos Deion, Vic Solorzano, and the Granadino brothers, Ben and Francis, will spearhead the attack against the luckless Gators.

A pep talk by Coach Diederichsen during half time encouraged the City College soccer team to turn a 2-0 lead garnered by the California Aggies into a 6-2 victory for the Rams at Davis last Saturday.

Leading the way for the Aggies in the first half was Center Forward Rudy Nevhaus, who scored the Aggies' only two goals of the game.

The third quarter saw the highly favored red and white from San Francisco score three consecutive goals, one by Carlo Castenada and two by Francis Granadino.

STRETCHING FOR THE PIG-SKIN, left end Ray Poznekoff has made two touchdowns for the Ram eleven.

Intramural Hoopsters Get Season Underway

The intramural basketball season got under way this week with the Ralph Hillsman-sponsored club still favored to capture championship laurels.

Beating last Friday's deadline were three fraternities. Of these, Gamma Phi Ypsilon produced the strongest quintet featuring Doug Wilson, Dave Ramos, and Nick Miller.

Pacing Tri Epsilon will be Roy Pasini and George Capanis, while Alpha Sigma Delta features Clyde Beecher.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

CLIMAXING a struggle for recognition which aroused campus-wide interest last semester, the college band will finally come into uniformed being on the gridiron at the College of Marin-CCSF tussle tomorrow night.

Arrival of the hard earned fabrics earlier this week put the clincher on the deal and assured the appearance of the Ram horn tooters in the conventional dress of a representative college aggregation after a thirteen-year wait.

The outfits, secured from a Kansas City clothing firm, have been judged as being among some of the finest on the Pacific Coast by those who know what's what in the way of band decorations.

McRAE DRAFTY?

A slight oversight on the part of the manufacturers left drum major Walt McRae, who doubles as a member of the Student Council, pantless. It took a little needle and thread job to put McRae in vogue and keep him sheltered from the cold night breeze which no doubt will prevail at the festivities across the Golden Gate.

It would never do to have Walt caught "ununiformed" after the great job he turned in on the uniform issue before last session's council. Another fellow who is more than eligible for a Ramburger is Mike Cahn, band instructor, who fielded an almost green band within one month of organization.

At present the band is shy a bass section as well as shortages of clarinets and trumpets.

To give the group a bit more marching appeal are three lady twirlers, with the possible appearance of the state champion baton twirler for the Saturday night doings.

The three fair-haired damsels will be clad in the traditional brief skirts, new look notwithstanding.

INCREASED LIBRARY

The band, which gained very favorable publicity for the college as well as itself last football season, has added many new pieces to its repertoire and hopes to blossom forth with a few of these new creations at this morning's rally during the college hour.

Ram followers will remember the act portrayed by the "ill-clad" musicians at the 1947 Damon Runyon classic at Kezar and can rest assured that now that the ensemble is clad in the best that money can buy, more of the same will be presented by City College's first completely uniformed band.

Ten Clubs Receive Official Okeh From Advisory Board

Ten club charters were approved and the balance of the campus organizations were placed on probation during a recent Club Advisory Board membership meeting, Jim Davis, president, said this week.

Today is the deadline for filing of club charters, Davis warned, and those who have not filed, or filed incomplete forms, should remedy this situation at once.

Listing the approved clubs, Davis said that the Strikes and Spares is the only new one, the following being previously established:

Alpha Lambda Chi, Collegiate Christian Fellowship, Cosmopolitan Society, Gamma Phi Epsilon, Men's Glee Club, Newman Club, Tau Chi Sigma, Women's Athletic Association, and X.G.I. Society.

S.F. Symphony Forum Tickets Here Today

Season tickets for the San Francisco Symphony concert series at student rates available through Symphony Forum go on sale today in the student bank.

Jack Hulse, forum representative, said yesterday that the number of tickets is limited, far below the request originally made for City College.

The 17-concert series tickets are priced at $22.45 for orchestra, grand tier, or dress circle; and $15.50 for balcony circle and balcony.

Auditorium Filled For Political Rally; National Policies Score

By Roy Pasini

Bringing the basic issues of the three major political parties in the forthcoming national election home to City College voters, the Forum Club presented a political rally for all interested students Wednesday, October 6, in the auditorium.

Addressing a packed house, the three speakers outlined the hopes of their respective parties and then conducted a brief question-answer period in an effort to clarify some of the major issues involved in the platforms of the contending elements.

Wyman Hicks spoke for the Independent Progressive Party and was followed to the speaker's stand by Republican Robert D. Mackenzie, a local attorney-at-law.

Third and final speaker of the day was Democrat Jack Berman, Deputy District Attorney. Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, acted as moderator for the session.

The speakers touched upon the foreign and domestic proposals of their candidates with most emphasis placed on the latter problems.

During the questioning period the student gathering displayed a sound interest in the current campaign as evidenced by the type of questions they asked the political representatives.

"Sell Your Blood For $25 Per Pint"—Amori

Students wishing to sell a pint of blood should sign up at the placement office this week, Joseph Amori, placement director, stated today.

Thirty blood donors are needed and will be paid $25 for one pint of blood, he said.

Since the start of blood donations at the college, there have been more than 4000 students, faculty members, and faculty wives, responding to the call, Amori said.

Amori also warned former donors from the college that the Irving Memorial blood bank requires a minimum of three months to elapse between donations.

Alumni Homecoming Day Festivities Get Under Way Thursday Night

Bonfire Rally To Spark Spirit

Whisps of flame will start the 28 hour Homecoming celebration when the Damon Runyon Memorial bonfire rally gets under way Thursday night at 8 p.m. on the west campus.

Loaded with talent, and offering new stunts and songs, the rally will begin with an introduction and talk by Frank Ferguson, associated students president.

The following morning during college hour, activities will continue with a menagerie of mock-animals parading in the auditorium, where the applause of the students will select the winner of the contest.

Following the college's football clash with San Mateo Junior College, the alumni will have a get-together.

In the evening, a barn dance will be held in the campus auditorium with Gene Mundy and his band providing the music for the hillbilly costumed couples.

Prizes will be awarded for the best beard and hillbilly skirt, while the mock-animal winners will be honored.

Workshop Day For Recreation Group

Recreational leadership classes will hold a one-day workshop Saturday, October 23, from 3 to 10 p.m. in Building 2, according to Jules Fraden, instructor.

Dealing with the handling of high school groups, the meeting's topics will include vocations, social recreation, community service and personality development.

Specialists in each field will lead the groups.

Each afternoon session will be followed by dinner and discussion by representatives of community agencies.

Stop Vandalism Now Says Football Team

In a special plea issued Friday afternoon, members of the Ram grid team urged students to cease vandalistic activities against other colleges in the conference league.

The football team members expressed the opinion that since they have worked hard in practice and will continue to do so hoping to make a good showing in games, the possible cancellation of the game schedule would be a personal blow to them, although caused by a small group of pranksters.

Vandalism Threatens Ram Grid Schedule

Cancellation of future football games will result in the event of continued painting or destruction of college property, Frank Ferguson, Associated Student President, declared Friday.

This announcement was precipitated by the painting of College of Marin campus and vandalism in San Mateo, prior to the last football game, which necessitated much hard work on Marin's part in repairing the damage.

"If pranks such as this persist," Ferguson warned, "it will result in cancellation of future football game schedules and be the cause of much remorse to all students."

The Marin and Mateo raids resulted in immediate retaliation here last week, with paint applied to the main campus buildings.

It is expected that games between colleges will arouse a spirit of antagonism, Ferguson said, but other outlets for this spirit can be found.

Rams Meet Mateo In Runyon Classic

In the second City College sponsored Damon Runyon memorial football game, 13 years of rivalry reach their peak this Friday afternoon at massive Kezar Stadium.

Leading roles will be handled by the Ram and San Mateo gridders, and a supporting cast of 15,000 is expected.

The 2:30 kickoff will send both the opposing elevens into action and 20 per cent of the gate into combat against the man killer, Cancer. Donation of the partial receipts came through student council approval.

Augmenting the Rams' try for its fifth straight conquest, 750 white shirted students are requested to fill the rooter section and participate in various planned stunts.

As this grid contest is a benefit performance, general admission is set at $1.00 and 50 cents for Associated Student card holders.

"Seconds" prevail throughout for this gridiron clash also marks the second appearance of the college band and the college's second game this season in its home city.

Lambda Alpha Society Open To Music Majors

Music majors who attain a "B" average in music and a "C" average in other courses are eligible for membership in the Lambda Alpha, college music honor society.

The Beta chapter, established here following Alpha Chapter of Modesto Junior College, makes it possible for non-music majors who exhibit great talent and service through performance to be eligible for associate membership.

For the symphony season, the society plans to buy a box at the Opera House. Tickets will be sold for individual Thursday night symphony performances.

Invited to regular membership in the society are the following: David Arrillaga, Patricia Fitzgerald, Emmet Murphy, Blossom Wickstrom and Eunice Wildy. Marie Joan Campbell, Jacqueline Deasy, Carolyn Herfield, and Marvin Silverman are invited to associate membership.

The initiation meeting will be held Sunday, October 24.

Models Pose In Show Preview

PHYLLIS SMITH, (left) and Corinne Lambert, two pretty models from the Kappa Phi Sorority, preview what is to come when the Kappa Phi presents its fashion show tonight in the west campus auditorium. Proceeds will go to the Center for the Blind to help furnish the buildings they recently acquired. Contrary to popular demand, the new Buick shown in the above picture will not be shown at the fashion show.

Kappa Phi Benefit Fashion Show On Tap Here Tonight

Aiding the San Francisco Center for the Blind, the Kappa Phi sorority will present its benefit Fashion Show tonight in the west campus auditorium at 8 p.m., according to Phyllis Ryan, sorority president.

Models from the sorority will exhibit clothes from Ilene Carroll's Dress Shop, with Peggy McCormic commentating.

Proceeds from tonight's show will aid in furnishing the buildings recently acquired by the Center for the Blind. Fifty cents admission will be charged to raise funds.

Entertainment during intermission will be furnished by talent from the City College and from the Center for the Blind.

AWS Tea Honors Frosh Women Thurs.

Honoring freshmen women students, the Associated Women Students will hold a tea in the west campus auditorium October 21 from 2 to 4 o'clock, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, said last week.

This tea is held each semester for the purpose of integrating the new arrivals to college life and to make them feel more at ease here, Dean Dougherty said.

Soph King And Queen Snaps Due Next Month

Pictures for the Sophomore King and Queen elections must be taken no later than Saturday, October 30, President Dick Featherstonehaugh announced yesterday. The pictures must be completed by Monday, November 15.

To qualify, candidates are required to have 24 units. Each candidate must have his picture taken at Me-Murray's Studio, 1401 Van Ness Avenue. Photographs will be taken free provided candidates identify themselves as students.

Choir To Sing At Portola Music Show

Participation of A Cappella Choir, Men's and Women's Choruses, and the band in the Portola Music Festival was announced yesterday by Flossita Badger, music department head.

The festival is scheduled for Wednesday, October 20, at 8 p.m., in the civic auditorium and will include groups from San Francisco public high schools.

"The program offers music departments of San Francisco schools a splendid opportunity to contribute to a civic service in a spectacular way," Charles M. Dennis, director of music in the San Francisco Public Schools, said.

Dennis, who was here for a rehearsal Thursday, added that he hopes everyone will invite parents and friends.

The program includes five numbers, with Robert Sherratt, star of last spring's college production of The Vagabond King, narrator for The Gettysburg Address.

College Daze Tickets On Sale At Bank Now

Tickets for College Daze, a comic satire of City College life acted by the faculty and written by Luther H. Lyon, business department instructor, are now on sale and may be purchased at the bank for 75 cents per person, or 50 cents with Associated Student card.

The play will be presented Thursday evening, November 4, at Geneick, in the west campus auditorium.

Maurice Power is in charge of the ticket sales.

Keyhole Sleuths Invade St. Francis Hotel, Find Campus Chefs There

By H. N. Bishop

One reason the Hotel and Restaurant Division is an outstanding asset to the college is the relationship established between class work and jobs—in this case jobs at the St. Francis Hotel.

Guardsman reporters, working on the series of following City College students into the life of the community, invaded the pastry kitchen of the St. Francis Hotel to see how this relationship operates.

At the St. Francis, three City College students work as journeymen pastry cooks, helping to put out the mass of pastry that is consumed daily over the tables of the hotel, and sold in the world-famous Pastry Shop operated in conjunction with the hotel work.

Chef Also Instructor

The chief cook at the St. Francis is, also, an instructor at City College. Instructor and boss, Stephen Vineys said, "We are looking for City College to put out more pastry cooks." In an effort to meet the demand, Vineys shows up at the college to conduct a class in pastry.

These students have the opportunity of getting class work from the instructor and then going out into the industry with him to see and watch him make the pastry for one of the best hotels in town.

Kitchen Work Big Job

The work done in the pastry kitchen on the job is, for these students, the real thing. Daily production in the St. Francis pastry kitchen runs into proportions that make it a big job.

In addition to the 80 layer cakes, 40 dozen French pastry, and 40 assorted pies, these students help cook for the Pastry Shop, banquets, parties, and any convention that may be in town and eating at the St. Francis.

Outside work and instruction only complements the fine instruction done in the hotel division classes on the campus.

Campus Facilities Among Best

On campus, facilities are comparable to the finest to be found anywhere in the country. The instructors are among the finest to be secured.

The baking class on the campus, under the direction of Edward Nylund, is made up of approximately 50 students. Production of food by the classes almost equals that of a large hotel, and has no peer in quality.

Nylund, a native San Francisean, graduated from the college in 1940. He has studied in Chicago, worked as a baker in the famous Palmer House there, and, he has had experience in the bakery of the St. Francis Hotel.

According to Nylund, placement for graduates from City College is very good.

It's A Lot Of Fun To Paint College Buildings, But Some One Must Pay

FOR students to run around in the middle of night splashing paint on other colleges, we imagine, is a lot of fun.

In fact, it is so much fun that the Student Council semestrally appropriates some $300 for the purpose of paying bills incurred by overly enthusiastic students out on a painting kick.

THIS SEASON IT SEEMS THAT THE BOYS ARE USING UP THEIR BUDGET TOO RAPIDLY.

For instance, the damage done to College of Marin, including burning the football field, painting some buildings and general swell destructive fun, already has run to around $300.

OF COURSE THE TRICK OF SPLASHING CCSF ON A CHURCH DOWN IN SAN MATEO SHOWS KEEN ENTHUSIASM AND HIGHLY INTELLIGENT STANDARDS.

The way things stand, as of now, if these little boyish pranks continue, there is a good possibility that the college will be forced to cancel the remaining football games.

Looking at it another way, fellas, if you must go out and show everyone you have the old "rah rah," how about doing it to some symbol the other colleges may have?

For example, the Ram out on the west campus is open to opposing colleges, for the purpose of splashing paint. If they can do it, that's great. But surely to paint the main building (which is made of limestone), that is almost impossible to clean up, is criminal.

AND TO DEFACE THE BUILDINGS OF COLLEGE OF MARIN IS ALSO CRIMINAL.

So let's have spirit the hard way, by thinking of the other fellow for a change.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

THE "avant-garde," as a trend, has often exerted an influence on the intellectually curious of the college set.

Back in pre-World War I days the smoky sanctums of Paris' Boulevard St. Germain played host to youthful literati from the colleges of Paris.

Greenwich Village in the "roaring twenties" had its set of youthful artists and writers who brought the word, "Bohemian," into the vocabulary.

Today the avant-gardists have set up their cult in Northern California. Settling around San Francisco, these sensitive young intellectuals frequent art galleries and modern book stores where they satisfy their search for "something new, something different; anything for self-improvement."

Often disciples of Henry Miller and Wilhelm Reich, their radical views on the arts will be expressed through their abstract paintings, their avidness for Gillespie's "bebop," or through modern poetry as a medium of expression.

Sometimes categoried as extremists by classmates, avant-gardists at the University of California form writing groups, publish little literary magazines, and frequent Dalliel's, a highly modern and progressive bookstore, run by one George Leite. Leite is the publisher and one-man staff of "The Circle," a successful literary magazine ventured by an avant-garde group.

Stanford's literati also express their views through writing groups. Evidence that Stanford avant-gardists have made impressions on the literary world is shown by the published works of faculty members Wallace Stegner and Yvor Winters.

Stegner, in addition to his novels and short stories, contributes to "Pacific Spectator," a magazine representing 23 western colleges, which seeks to bridge the barriers between scholarly "lay intellectuals" and the average literate person.

At any college these artistic radicals pamper their greatness by burning their candles far into the night. Companionship is sought, if only for a listening-post for the discovery of a new painting, poem, or jazz classic. Stravinsky, James Joyce, D. H. Lawrence, Picasso, Emma Goldman, and Wallace are all included. Often sporting "Students for Wallace" buttons, political discussion takes on a socialistic tone.

Only one thing is certain about the influence of the avant-garde. Good or bad, it is surely influencing future artistic thought.

Beard Contest Gains As Beavers Sprout

By Johnnie Dorris

Strange things happen in this modern world of Atomic bombs, jet planes, and such, but you need look no further than City College for tales as stange as "Superman."

Bob Jones, a local speech student, came into The Guardsman office yesterday and reported that two men, unknown by him, hi-jacked him on his way to college, and in the ensuing encounter took his two most beloved possessions.

Between his hysterical shouts, information was culled from him leading to the conclusion that the two prize possessions were beards.

As Guardsman reporters were in the act of shooing the hysterical man out of the office, he proffered proof of his allegations.

The proof, it turned out, were pictures of the men who "lifted" his valuables, and to further substantiate his wild claims, Jones' pictures showed the scoundrels in the act of wearing the beards.

The pictures are being reprinted by The Guardsman in the hope that some law-abiding student will recognize the "bad-men," despite the beards, and report them to The Guardsman office.

The reward for evidence leading to the apprehension of these two men has been mounting steadily since their heastly act, and it is believed that the reward may even reach monetary heights by press time.

Initial Step To Fame

Collegienne Draws Lucky Break To Cover Filmdom on 'Queen' Tour

By Dick Briggs.

Entrained for Hollywood, where screen and radio fame gleams brightest, Liana Giovannini, Little City News reporter, has visions of seeing her own star shining in prominence.

Though not charmed by the spell of film stardom, the effervescent miss is eager to sample the wares of success some day as a journalist in the newspaper world.

On special assignment to cover a tour through filmland's movie studios and radio stations, Miss Giovannini left with her party on board the San Joaquin Daylight, Thursday, October 14. The trip, conducted from October 14 through 18, was won by Janet Circle, voted as North Beach's Columbus Day Queen.

The pert, slim figured girl spoke with excitement as she anticipated her first important assignment:

"I'm really thrilled. I've been working on the City News only months, and this is my first big story."

Then, aware of an impending deadline, she exclaimed, "Gosh, I have stories to write, I'll have to hurry," and whirling curtly, she seurried away.

Young in her acquaintanceship with newspaper theories and practices, the 17 year old City College student has nevertheless gained moderate success in her first endeavors.

While at Notre Dame des Victoires she acted as managing editor of the high school paper, and during summer session at City College gained practical knowledge through the Journalism 31 course here, she said.

To most laymen, Hollywood has long been envisioned as the final step to the pinnacle of fame, but to Liana Giovannini, it is but the threshold to her success in faraway Italy.

In drawing from the well of knowledge, it is always the empty bucket that makes the most noise. —F. J. Kennedy, renowned scholar.

- Beards; Bah!

Editor, The Guardsman:

A great ado has been made in the past and is being made today about the cleanliness, or rather lack of cleanliness on the campus. The Guardsman, in the past, has always been a prime factor in the campaign to alleviate this condition.

So you can imagine my surprise when I read a front page story urging men students to be very unclean; to wit, grow beards.

I can't think of anything that is more repulsive to a well hred woman than an undergrowth on the face of a man, especially an escort.

It certainly takes a terrific amount of gall and conceit for the males of this college to expect the women students to condone the fuzz on the campus, let alone on weekend dates. They certainly don't smooth the road to romance.

Our society quite a number of years ago put the kibosh on facial foliage due largely to the adamant feminine populace. Even for "college spirit" they can't be condoned now.

—Betty Ann Harmon, SB 109

- 'Ray For Vets!

Editor, The Guardsman:

The old question as to whether or not veterans make the best college students is still debatable. Ever since the veterans' entrance into U. S. colleges, educators have discussed the pros and cons of his ability to study, his interest in class participation, and his part in college extracurricular affairs.

The more I see of the present-day college student contrasted with the veteran of a year ago, the more, I, speaking as a non-vet, am inclined to say, "bring back the vets."

Not-So-Classy Rams Edge Determined Tars 13-0

Poznekoff, White, Toquinto, Aid Rams To Buck Mariners

By Walt Roessing

Kentfield, Oct. 16—Stymied by a hard-charging Marin line and continually threatened by a flashy aerial attack, City College's not-so-classy Rams were barely able to knock out a 13-0 win tonight over a very determined Mariner eleven.

Coach Grover Klemmer's gridders managed to keep their string of football victories intact by winning their fourth consecutive Northern California Junior College Conference game over the College of Marin.

The unimpressive Rams scored their first touchdown in the second period. Ray Poznekoff helped set up the score by blocking a Marin punt on the Tars' 25 yard line. In four plays, the City College team tallied, with Roy Georgi packing the pigskin over from six yards out.

Bob Toquinto added the conversion to make it 7-0 at the half.

The final six markers were added by the Rams with four minutes left to go in the closing stanza.

Ollie Matson culminated a short red-and-white drive by going over for the touchdown from one yard out. Toquinto's try for the extra digit was wide.

Playing outstanding ball for the Rams were linemen Poznekoff and Ben Albrecht, and backfield men Toquinto and Kenny White.

Rams Face Bulldogs Friday For Benefit

A powerful, roaring Ram eleven will take to the field Friday afternoon at Kezar Stadium intent on muzzling a very weak Bulldog team from San Mateo in a football contest which is being played for the benefit of the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund.

The Rams will be after their fifth consecutive Northern California Junior College Conference win, Monterey, Vallejo, Sacramento, and Marin already having bitten the dust.

Coach Grover Klemmer's red and white gridders are out to repeat, a little more decisively though, last year's 7-6 triumph over the Bulldogs from the deep southern part of the peninsula.

In San Mateo's last trip out of the barn they crumbled under a good Stockton attack, 25-0.

St. Francis Site For Gala WAA Horse Show

Plans are now in full swing for the co-educational intercollegiate horse show to be hosted by the Women's Athletic Association here January 8, according to Shirley Austin, president.

The St. Francis Riding Club will be the site of the show, which will include participants from San Mateo, San Jose, Marin, Napa, Vallejo, and Santa Rosa Junior Colleges.

Granadino Leads Rams To Win Over Gators

Again the Ram soccer squad showed its power and threat to the conference championship by defeating San Francisco State College Saturday, 7-0 at the Gator's Lake Merced Field. Francis Granadino was the star of the game by making 5 of 7 points for the locals.

With three games behind them the soccer squad can boast of an unblemished record, beating the Cal. Aggies, the Gators, and fighting the University of California to a dead-lock.

Second Round Intra Play On Tap Today

Six intramural games are scheduled this afternoon for the two minor leagues in their second round of play.

All Bush League games will take place at 3:10 o'clock, with the McClymonds AC-Loopsters tilt billed as the game of the day.

Ralph Hillsman's Globe Trotters are heavily favored over Tau Chi Sigma, while Stan Bacon's No Names rate even with a strong Chinese Club five.

At 4:10 o'clock, the Pacific Coast League takes over when the Titters entertain a weak Balboa Blue quintet. The Hawkeyes should have no trouble with the Newman Club. At the same time, Gene Ellison's Waldorf Historians clash with the Just Us Club.

In the American League, the Challengers and the Balboa Buccaneers are favored over Alpha Sigma Delta and Tri Epsilon, respectively, while the Hotel and Restaurant - Latin American Club is rated even.

The National League games are scheduled for 4:10 o'clock, with the Links meeting the Balboa Vandals, the Bums entertaining an underrated Gamma Phi Ypsilon, and the Hermits playing the league favorites, the Ram Heads.

Thursday's schedule:

Pacific Coast League, 3:10

Titters vs. Balboa Alumni AC.
Newman Club vs. Balboa Blues.
Hawkeyes vs. Waldorf Historians.

Bush League, 4:10

Globe Trotters vs. Balboa Pirates.
Chinese Club vs. McClymonds AC.
Tau Chi Sigma vs. No Names.

CCSF Varsity Soccer Squad Built Around Six Returning Veterans And Five Capable Frosh

Shin-Kickers Look Toward Second Win

By Leo Bucciarelli

Meet the colorful City College soccer squad which clashes with the University of San Francisco Saturday on the Don field.

Leading the locals, one Vic Solorzano is considered the best left wing in the Bay Area. This potential All-Conference star is playing his second year for the Red and White.

Starter at the center forward spot is Francis Granadino, who shoots all penalty shots for the Rams, another All-Conference nominee.

The elder Granadino, Benny, plays from the left half position. He is noted for his beautiful ball control and good head work.

Veteran Left Fullback Neil Decker is another top-notch player. He gained his experience at Mission High School.

Dave Hughes, ex-Mission goalie, will probably start Saturday against the rough Don eleven.

Fullback George Volkoff is the ace kicker on Roy Diederichsen's squad. He usually boots long 60 to 70 yard kicks. To date he is the conference's top fullback.

Starting at right half is George Sergeff, who made a name for himself at Polytechnic High School.

A new comer to the squad is Carlos Castenada, inside right. This shin kicker is another asset to the Ram squad.

Pedro Maggiola, one of the fastest men on the squad, operates from the right wing position. He is noted for his outstanding offensive play.

Marino Mangiola, Martinez' pride and joy, starts at center half, where he displays All-Conference caliber.

The City College team is led by the inspired play of aggressive and hustling Carlos Deleon, inside left.

Others playing an important role in Saturday's tilt are Rene Giron, Alexander Lozado, Ralph Mencarini, Francis Solorzano, and Frank Suega.

Much of the success of the team is due to the fine coaching job turned in by Diederichsen. Handsome Roy has won the admiration of his players with his down-to-earth attitude.

The likeable mentor started his coaching career at his alma mater, San Jose State, where he coached their 1943 soccer team. From there he gained more coaching experience at Abraham Lincoln High School here.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

LAST week, in the basket this office provides for Letters-to-the-Editor, a masterpiece of bitter criticism was found smoldering in its own juice.

Too hot to handle, because of some of the more forceful terms employed by the author of the gem, the tidbit has temporarily been put to rest in the "I've Got A Right To Cry" department in hopes it may simmer down a bit.

The target of this missive was the unneighborly situation AS Card holder 2273 found in the west campus fountain, more affectionately known as Duffy's Tavern.

We hope that our newly found pen pal will not object to our serving as a medium, in a lighter vein of course, for relaying his observations to the local public.

THANK YOU, COME AGAIN?

In the eyes of "Fritz," the interested writer, having food thrown on the counter, orders ignored, or just waiting around while you watch everyone about you being served, does not come under the title of the traditional come-in-again spirit which should prevail in a place of business.

At present this home of student chatter and coffee boasts a staff which numbers anywhere from one to four members on duty at one time.

It is rumored that a committee is being formed to conduct a poll in order to find the group best suited for the "I hate people" award. An advance estimate has the fountaineers billed for top honors.

Prices also entered the picture, but it must be admitted that the help can not be held responsible for this evil. All they can do is smile pleasantly and act good naturedly about the whole thing, thereby saving the customer an additional slap in the face.

We can remember when we put in a summer soda jerking for the parents of milk-giving Elsie, the Borden people. During a rush hour a little hasty service helped to hustle things along but a smile, forced or otherwise, was still not out of the question.

RAM CHOPS SIZZLE

It's a general fact that most people have a tendency to become lackadaisical. Why, even The Gawdsman staff has its bad moments. But an undesirable setup results when this condition develops among public servants.

We've been told that some people take jobs as bouncers because they don't like the idea of being nice to fellow humans. We've also been told that the local contingent doesn't even muster a healthy change of expression for the trade.

The grapevine has it that a new list of records has been drawn up for use in the nickel infested juke box located in this palace of fine foods. Taking top billing is the oldie "Ain'tcha Ever Coming Back, Baby."

Fall Budget Passed By Student Council

Passage of the Fall semester budget, through the use of an over-all vote, was completed at last Thursday's Student Council meeting.

The figure, presented for approval by Jack Sommers, finance chairman, was $29,802.42; but the actual figure passed was cut to $27,561.63.

The yearbook debate was furthered by Bob McVey, yearbook chairman, that consideration of the yearbook's budget should be postponed until a proposed poll, determining the number of students interested in such a publication, is taken. The listed budget, however, was approved and passed.

In response to the query of whether the entire proposed budget was excessive, Oscar E. Anderson, controller, responded that the amount suggested was closely figured.

"There is no flexibility in the individual budgets. There is room for adjustment only in the entire budget," he warned.

On reference to pre-game destructive activities, Dean Jack Brady warned of possible cancellation of forthcoming football games.

Christmas Jobs Open For Women Students

Women students interested in Christmas employment as clerks, wrappers, checkers, or any other job should sign up at the placement office, Joseph Amori, placement director, announced yesterday.

There is a great need for women employees during the Christmas season. The Christmas labor market is flooded with men, and the stores are in desperate need of more women workers, Amori said.

College Honor Group Boasts Of 67 Members

Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society, boasts 67 members this semester of varying periods of membership, President Bob Jonjock announced.

Of these, only Joyce Anderson has a four semester membership.

Three semester members are Grover Cleveland Jr., John R. Eshia, Arthur Faulks, and Marie Hesky.

Two semester pin wearers are as follows:

Albert R. Abramson, William Armstrong, Jack D. Bamrud, Shirley Driscoll, Bob G. Jonjock, Richard L. Kowalkowaski, Ann C. Larson, Wm. G. Loughner, John A. Mims, Joanne Pekramen, Donald A. Peters, Gabriel Raab Jr., Malcolm Rainsford, Geraldine Schmale, Barbara Singer, Margaret Vaughan, and Raymond White.

Cleanup Operations Begin Today As 'Broom And Bucket' Brigade Attacks

Somewhere In Ramland, Oct. 18.—Direct dispatches from Military HQ reveal large massing of troops at the front preparing for an all out attack against the scattered enemy presently holding ground on the west campus. Today's first wave of ground forces charge at 1 p.m.

"General" Frank Ferguson gave his officers a last minute briefing on the "C Day" operations, mapping out strategic disposal of troops.

"The scope of this campaign calls for complete annihilation of our foe," Ferguson said, "and two days of combat should be sufficient."

At today's "H Hour" signal, the initial charge will roll across the west campus parking lot followed by a cleanup squad which will take position on the area surrounding Building 13.

"This mission accomplished," the general continued, "we will reform ranks and retreat for a one day's rest period; then, on October 21, the broom brigade will maneuver onto the East Campus, wiping up any last stand made by the enemy.

"A successful clean sweep over enemy territory depends mainly on both volunteers and recruits to swell our present standing army and to replace any battle casualties suffered during the first march."

The "General" called on all recruits to join the army immediately.

Questionnaire Shows Yearbook Appeal Here

Statistics currently being compiled from recently circulated questionnaires will help determine student interest in a yearbook publication, Committee Chairman Bob McVey announced yesterday.

The questionnaire responses will also indicate willingness to pay $4.50 with an Associated Student card, or $5.50 without the card.

Homecoming Festivities Hit Campus With Rally, Dance And Football Game Today

College Hour Set Today For Rally In Campus Auditorium

One of the biggest rallies in City College history is promised today during the college hour at 10:30 o'clock.

In a statement released by Pete Isola, Associated Men Student president, early Thursday, the AMS head stated that in addition to the parade of "animal" creations before the assembled students in the auditorium, varied entertainment will be presented.

Word received from Walt McCrae, student band leader, indicated that the band would be available in full uniform. The band is scheduled to parade throughout the west campus before entering the auditorium.

McCrae further disclosed that there is a possibility the band, or some part of it, may be, given permission to march through the halls of the main building.

(If permission is granted, the band will be allowed to play between class hours, according to a statement received from Dr. J. Paul Mohr's office.)

Two Doctors Attend Regularly At College

City College is one of the few colleges in this country having two regularly attending physicians.

Administering to the coeds almost exclusively is Dr. Alice B. Potter at the women's gymnasium. Dr. Potter's hours are listed as Mondays from 9:30 to 12 o'clock, and Tuesdays from 1 to 4 o'clock.

Both men and women students who might require aid are advised that Dr. Thomas P. Jones is located in Room 150 of the main building every morning between 9 and 11:30 o'clock.

No appointments are necessary, and only a need for emergency medical attention is required.

LARRY WEBER, head cheer leader, shown upper left, airs his tonsils in an effort to work up a yell from the rooting section, while in the lower left, an unidentified "half-head" peers at the Marin game from the Ram bench along with (left to right) Ray Poznekoff, Ben Albrecht, Bob Toquinto, and Bob O'Berg.

Another bench shot, upper right, shows Jack Gaddy, physical education department head, testing his fingernails for durability, while Vice-president J. Paul Mohr, Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president, "Doc" Sewel (with an ever-ready smile) and Bill Meyers, watch the game with interest. A double exposure shot catches Sammy the Ram sitting in one of the yell leader's arms. The bicycle bearing Sammy as he "ghosts" into the yell leading routine, was snatched after the game and hasn't been seen since.

Rams Play Bulldogs For Runyon Cancer Benefit At Kezar

BULLETIN!

October 18—U.P.—Only 55 of the nation's college football teams remained unbeaten and untied today, it was revealed in the final United Press honor roll poll of 1948.

West: Five victories—California (9 straight), Eastern Washington. Four—Nevada (7 straight), SAN FRANCISCO CITY COLLEGE. Three—Occidental.

(Reprint from S.F. Chronicle, October 19.)

City College of San Francisco, October 22.—Seeking to keep their unbeaten record intact, the powerful City College Rams take on a feeble San Mateo grid outfit at Kezar Stadium today.

Kickoff is at 3 p.m.

The Rams, sporting a four game win streak, are a heavy favorite to blank the Bulldogs, who possess an unenviable one-win-against-two-loss seasonal record.

(From 20 to 40 per cent of today's gate receipts will be donated to the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund.

(In a letter received by The Guardsman, in answer to a college correspondence, the Runyon Committee has given official approval to make this game a Cancer Fund benefit.

(Signed by Walter Winchell, the letter further expressed thanks for the donation of 400 dollars afforded to the Runyon Committee from last year's football contest against Los Angeles City College.)

Although receiving a "clean bill of health" from injuries in the Vallejo game three weeks ago, Ollie Matson, sensational left half, will be used sparingly. Coach Grover Klemmer reported that he isn't taking any chances.

One-half the proceeds from sale of football programs printed by Tri Epsilon will be donated to the Damon Runyon Fund, Jack Sommers, president, said.

AMS Welcomes Alumni

Band Rides Again; Press Hops Aboard

Graduates Here For Homecoming Day

With many Alumni of City College expected here today for the third annual Homecoming Day celebration, student festivities have been thrown open to them.

Although nothing of a formal nature has been planned for the Alumni during Homecoming Day, an informal luncheon is scheduled tentatively in the cafeteria for the following week.

Pete Isola, Associated Men Student president, urged all former students of the college to see the San Mateo football game in Kezar Stadium.

"The best support we can give the team, as well as the whole plan for Homecoming, will depend a large part on the turnout of the Alumni," Isola said.

The barn dance scheduled to start at 9 o'clock tonight, will officially welcome alumni, Isola added.

Technicolor Movie To Be Presented Today

Wings to Ireland is the moving picture to be shown in Room 136 directly after college hour today, according to Madison Devlin, head of the audio visual aids division.

This technicolor movie, recently released by Pan American Air Lines, shows an air trip to Ireland and dramatizes the kissing of the Blarney stone and other Irish customs and ways, Devlin said.

The audio visual aids department presents a new technicolor show each week.

Beard Contest Will Open Barn Dance

An old fashioned barn dance in the auditorium tonight will serve as a final windup for the college's third annual Homecoming Day with festivities getting under way at 8 p.m. in the nature of a beard judging contest.

The barn dance starts promptly at nine and will feature square dancing and hillbilly attire.

At the intermission there will be prizes galore. Awards will be made for four different beards—black, red, best trimmed, and shaggiest. There will also be prizes for the best female hillbilly outfit.

At the same time the Queen of Homecoming Day will be honored in conjunction with the head of the organization representing the winning mock-animal which will be decided at this morning's rally.

Admission to the dance is by student card only, Associated Men Student head, Pete Isola, stated.

In attendance at the football classic at Kezar this afternoon will be ten queen contestants who will not know the identity of the winner until halftime.

During halftime activities, the beauty chosen as queen by the San Mateo Junior College student body will be called from the crowd and crowned by two year old Sandra Caldwell, the Block SF candidate for queen.

Judging of beard bearers will be handled by three critics, John Hare, Deans Margaret Dougherty, Edward Sandys and Jack Brady.

Afternoon Cuts OK For Ticket Holders

Ticket holders for the Ram-San Mateo Damon Runyon benefit football classic will be excused from their two o'clock classes on the presentation of their tickets, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, announced today.

Kick-off time for this second annual game has been set for 3 o'clock at Kezar Stadium.

English Instructor Forms Debating Group

Formation of a debating society for students interested in debating and public speaking is now being undertaken by Michael L. Griffen in Building 19, according to an announcement from the English department.

Intercollegiate debating competition is planned with San Francisco State, University of California, U.S.F. and St. Mary's.

How About A Per Cent Budget? Make Homecoming Day Really Great

RAPIDLY becoming a tradition at City College, Homecoming celebration offers a triple program today.

With a rally, a football game and a dance on deck for the festivities, this third annual Homecoming is yearly making its mark on City College life.

If the Associated Men Students, general sponsors for today, were apportioned money from the student budget for activities, Homecoming Day would, as at other four year colleges, be the most important event on the calendar.

Going along with this idea of more money for specific events, we feel that the suggestion by George Capanis, Student Council member, for appropriating student money on a percentage basis, is well founded.

Capanis pointed out, that regardless of how the Student Council may debate on the budget, inevitably the budget passes "in toto."

Capanis grants that certain expenditures such as Athletic equipment and printing costs for The Guardsman will remain on a more-or-less stationary basis.

However, the councilman feels that other activities, such as Homecoming Day, if they progress to more important stature, should likewise be appropriated more money.

In addition to a continued rapid approval of the budget and the simplicity of figuring what each activity should obtain, this plan would be the key to a more stimulated club program and greater equality in dispersing Associated Student funds.

We feel that a percentage basis of appropriating money is in keeping with a college of this high standard.

The outline of the monetary method as forwarded by George Capanis receives the full support of The Guardsman.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

WITH our favorite form of relaxation, mid-term exams, looming in the near future, we assume that a word to the wise is in order.

If these mid-term exams happen to be the first of someone's college career, they may be surprised to find to what lengths some instructors will go to reduce the number in their classes!

Therefore, we suggest that following a big night this eve, everyone should quietly steal away with books and benzedrine and subsequently hit said books . . . the big night this eve being the Homecoming Day Barn Dance sponsored by President Pete Isola of the AMS and his associates.

If fraternity Hell Week hasn't been too much for the pledges subjected to the collegiate form of mass suicide, a complete turnout of City Collegites is expected at the affair in the auditorium.

Featuring the presentation of prizes for various degrees of facial foliage, and the crowning of a Homecoming Day Queen, the affair promises to become a traditional function.

The semi-annual appearance of final grades will be influenced by the showing of resultant A's from mid-term exams planned for Monday morn.

However, no sure-fire method for acquiring such A's has been outlined by the instructing staff of the college. But surely, every little college guy and gal is aware of the pitfalls that are not conducive to mid-term study.

The problems of study to which the 1948 student is subjected are nothing compared to those anticipated by collegiates five years hence. By this time the perfection of the television set for the average man's living room will prove added lure from the books, as will the helicopter so convenient to reach the girl-friend.

An increase in the number of speedy little British-made cars will increase the gregariousness of the average college student, for the number of the open-air vehicles congregating on California highways will surely give added impetus to the Golden Staters' chief sport of highway travel.

While we forestall such a dire future for campusites, we put on the coffee and plan for some big evenings next week.

● Marin Mercenary

Editor, The Guardsman:

The assistant warden told all inmates at the Friday's assembly that everone will get into the game with their SB cards. He also stressed that if anyone made a mistake of paying at the gate that person was not to come crying to the warden's office because everyone is informed that the game is FREE.

For this reason several trustees including myself went to the game financially unprepared. We took only enough money to pay bridge toll. At the gate a trustee from Marin penitentiary stopped us and demanded tickets.

Finally we bought tickets and had to pool our remaining finances to buy a ticket for one of the boys because he was completely broke. Now we were broke and we began to try and borrow money from fellow inmates that were at the game.

I didn't get a penny from anyone and was unable to go to the game or go back to San Francisco. I was dismayed until a friend of mine took me home without demanding a cent. However, this overloaded his vehicle because I was the eighth person in it.

There were too many dirty deals of this sort during my five terms in our penitentiary and I'll be d—— if I ever again buy, let the government buy for me, beg, borrow or steal another SB card.

● Rooters' (?) Section

Editor, The Guardsman:

The rooting section of the college is in desperate need of a complete reorganization. In its demonstrations thus far this year it has proved to be ineffectual and negligent insofar as team support is concerned. The only organization or spirit shown in the section is centered around four enthusiastic, though unsupported, cheer leaders.

If we are to continue having a winning football team we must give them the necessary support from the rooting section.

Let us find a man or group who can do the organizing necessary to accomplish this, and give our team the support it so richly deserves.

● Sports' Mix-Up

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reading last Friday's issue of The Guardsman, I found some very erroneous information concerning just what players would be playing in the Marin-CCSF game.

In the Sacramento game, halfback Doug Wilson received injuries of internal hemorrhages to his right leg, but The Guardsman listed him as a starter for the Marin game.

Sports writers can't write a story that has merit if Coach Klemmer won't divulge proper information of this nature. As it is, Guardsman sports writers have to guess and make up their stories.

Coach Klemmer went to Cal and should know the value of information. How about it coach—wouldn't a little information be a big help?

Everyone Gets In Blood Donor Act

By Lloyd Bogue

That people like to sell their blood for $25 a pint was evident this week when dozens of students and faculty members were turned away from the placement office because of a full quota of donors.

There were more than enough donors, and a few persons not connected in any way with the college applied to sell their blood.

Blood donors who were lucky enough to get their name on the list, will report to the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank for the "blood money" transaction, which is almost as easy a way to make $25 as making several straight passes with the "bones."

After the blood bank directors finish with the "vampire act," they are even kind enough to replenish the body's liquid supply with coffee, or if a person so desires, orange juice.

Dot-Dash Devotees Called For Ham Club

Calling all hams — QST-CQ-CQ, —.—, — —.—, and students who desire to become hams, or those who are interested in forming a radio club here at the college.

If Louis Berman, faculty sponsor, can corral 15 radio operators, including dot and dash men, the radio club can organize and start rolling.

The club is also open to potential hams interested in acquiring an FCC operator's license to operate a radio station, states Berman.

All those interested in the club may sign up with Geoffrey C. Nankervis in Building 7 or with Berman in Room 400 in the main building.

Swami Discovered; Consult Kinsley For Your Future

By Dick Brennan

Want to know the future? Consult Bill Kinsley, the one man in three million. Kinsley (hereafter to be known as Swami the mind reader) shows signs of being clairvoyant.

His strange powers startled the psychology 22 class, last week, when the class tried an experiment in extra sensory perception. Using the Duke University card test, Kinsley was found to have the extraordinary score of 10 correct out of 25. The odds against this by mere chance are three million to one.

Mental telepathy and mind reading are the only explanations for this phenomenal score. At the moment Kinsley is hunting for a crystal ball (new or used). He intends to set up a tent on the west campus. Fortune Telling at Reasonable Rates.

RAMblings . .

By C. R. Hurlbert

WHEN diminutive Lee Eisan, the old California quarterback tutored City College to its first conference grid gonfalon two years ago, it caused no little disturbance among local porkhide enthusiasts.

Campus chatter chimed with the exploits of that talented club which romped to eight consecutive victories after dropping a single pre-season skirmish to Long Beach City College.

Well stocked with seasoned personnel, which included such stalwarts as Art Psaltis, George Newell, Stan Belcher, and California's current breakaway artist, Staten Webster, the Rams were further conspicuous because they operated from the Glenn "Pop" Warner's single wing.

Adherents of this old school type of offense have gradually become frequent victims of "back to the museum" glances cast by dyed in wool supporters of the Shaughnessy attack which features the man under center and three backs abreast.

For a while it got so that any team exposing anything else was considered old fashioned.

But like the old adage, "all good things must come to an end," this outburst of revolutionary advance, which saw even the kids on the back lot reverting to its allure, would appear to have spent its newness.

From High Above Cayuga's Waters to Podunk U. the autumnal trend of recent years has been to employ the neophyte formation as the primary weapon of onslaught with the unofficial ratio being about four to one of institutions using the "T."

Local prep circles hear witness to the fact that the "T" is being abandoned in the majority of high school campaigning because, perhaps, immature newcomers to the gridiron can better adapt themselves to a less complicated system in their early development.

The Rams won only two of eight football games ten years ago this fall; yet they played Modesto for the conference title . . . and lost.

Sports Writers Pick Rams Over Bulldogs

The Guardsman Sports Staff has compiled the following scores for the Ram-San Mateo rivalry game today on Kezar's coveted oval:

	CCSF	SM
Herb Levy	26	0
Larry Baldocchi	19	0
Walt Roessing	25	0
Leo Buccilarelli	30	6
Frank Galo	19	7

Ralph Hillsman's Ram Heads showed all their intramural title potentialities last week when they blasted the Bums, 64-30, in a National League game.

Another outfit showing possibilities was Leo Buccilarelli's Balboa Alumni AC. They downed a fighting Waldorf Historian five, 45-32 as Rudy Pfister scored 24 points in the PCL contest.

In the American League, Tri Epsilon trounced their Alpha Sigma Delta rivals, 48-23 while the Loopsters defeated the No Names, 34-24 in a Bush League encounter.

Leading scorers after the first week of play are Rudy Pfister, Balboa Alumni AC, 24; Roy Pasini, Tri Epsilon, 18; Bob Mingee, Hawkeyes, 18; Ray White, Ram Heads, 15; and Lloyd Ferguson, Tri Epsilon, 15.

Intramural head Tom Wilson set the deadline for individual sports for Friday, October 29. These sports are tennis, badminton, ping pong, and horse shoes. All equipment will be provided by the intramural department.

Wilson also added that these individual sports will be scheduled to the players' convenience.

Stan Cordes, assistant intramural manager, has dug the horse shoe pit.

Rowdy Rams Host San Mateo

Ram Team Favored In Kezar Clash

By Walt Roessing

Ollie Matson and Doug Wilson, two of City College's illustrious backfield stars, are still suffering from injuries and may only see limited action in today's San Mateo fracas.

Matson is still doubtful as a starter. The halfback speedster added a slight leg injury in the Marin game to the chest bruise that he had previously sustained.

Coach Grover Klemmer may use Matson sparingly, if only to throw a scare into the winless Bulldog's defense.

Doug Wilson has also incurred a leg injury and he may not see any contact at all in today's traditional rivalry encounter.

The rest of the team is in very good shape.

Kenny White, flashy halfback who played sensational ball in the Marin tilt, will greatly bolster the Rams' offensive chances.

Al Nethercutt is now the second string quarterback replacing ineligible Jack Marcus, who is lost to the red and white for the remainder of the season.

Bob Toquinto's punting has greatly improved and he really got away some "beauts" in the close Marin football game.

Night Session Players Sought For Badminton

More men and women students are urged to attend the Women's Athletic Association co-educational badminton sessions Wednesday evenings.

Jean Silter, association vice-president, said all playing equipment is furnished, and the players occupy the women's gymnasium on Wednesday evenings from 7 to 10 o'clock.

"Although many attended the last badminton session, room and equipment are available for more," Miss Silter added.

EARL TOLLER, RAM CENTER, is an outstanding defensive bulwark in the strong City College line.

Prep Stars Shine In Big Varsity Turnout

Optimism is current in Ram cage circles today because of City College's ability to snag a great number of San Francisco's outstanding prep basketball stars.

Players under the banners of the Red and White this season are Lincoln's Les Brilliant and Al Munn, Lowell's Bob Metheny and Bob Terling.

With these stars teamed-up with the returning veterans from last year's squad, Coach Ralph Hillsman hopes to produce a strong title contender.

Soccer Squad Faces Tough USF Tomorrow

City College's twice victorious and once-tied soccer team encounters the undefeated U. S. F. Dons in a league crucial at the Don field tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

The Rams will be spearheaded by high scoring center forward Francis Granadino and left wing Vic Solorzano. Defensive play will be sparked for the Red and White shin-kickers by George Volkoff and Neil Decker.

The Dons will be slightly favored against the locals by virtue of their 2-1 victory over the California Golden Bears.

In an attempt to avenge last year's 1-0 upset win by the Rams, the revengeful Dons will be led by Louis Gomez, Dick Baptista, Rene Herrerias, Dick Sbragia, and Benny Toda.

Tomorrow the soccer squad will be coached by an ailing Roy Diederichsen. The likeable mentor sprained his ankle while refereeing an east bay football game. Despite his painful injury, he saw his men roll over rugged San Francisco State, 7-0, in an impressive win last Saturday.

Should the Rams win tomorrow, the locals will be at the top of the conference followed by title-threats California and USF. The soccer eleven clashes with Stanford next Saturday.

How About A Per Cent Budget? Make Homecoming Day Really Great

RAPIDLY becoming a tradition at City College, Homecoming celebration offers a triple program today.

With a rally, a football game and a dance on deck for the festivities, this third annual Homecoming is yearly making its mark on City College life.

If the Associated Men Students, general sponsors for today, were apportioned money from the student budget for activities, Homecoming Day would, as at other four year colleges, be the most important event on the calendar.

Going along with this idea of more money for specific events, we feel that the suggestion by George Capanis, Student Council member, for appropriating student money on a percentage basis, is well founded.

Capanis pointed out, that regardless of how the Student Council may debate on the budget, inevitably the budget passes "in toto."

Capanis grants that certain expenditures such as Athletic equipment and printing costs for The Guardsman will remain on a more-or-less stationary basis.

However, the councilman feels that other activities, such as Homecoming Day, if they progress to more important stature, should likewise be appropriated more money.

In addition to a continued rapid approval of the budget and the simplicity of figuring what each activity should obtain, this plan would be the key to a more stimulated club program and greater equality in dispersing Associated Student funds.

We feel that a percentage basis of appropriating money is in keeping with a college of this high standard.

The outline of the monetary method as forwarded by George Capanis receives the full support of The Guardsman.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

WITH our favorite form of relaxation, mid-term exams, looming in the near future, we assume that a word to the wise is in order.

If these mid-term exams happen to be the first of someone's college career, they may be surprised to find to what lengths some instructors will go to reduce the number in their classes!

Therefore, we suggest that following a big night this eve, everyone should quietly steal away with hooks and benzedrine and subsequently hit said hooks . . . the big night this eve being the Homecoming Day Barn Dance sponsored by President Pete Isola of the AMS and his associates.

If fraternity Hell Week hasn't been too much for the pledges subjected to the collegiate form of mass suicide, a complete turnout of City Collegites is expected at the affair in the auditorium.

Featuring the presentation of prizes for various degrees of facial foliage, and the crowning of a Homecoming Day Queen, the affair promises to become a traditional function.

The semi-annual appearance of final grades will be influenced by the showing of resultant A's from mid-term exams planned for Monday morn.

However, no sure-fire method for acquiring such A's has been outlined by the instructing staff of the college. But surely, every little college guy and gal is aware of the pitfalls that are not conducive to mid-term study.

The problems of study to which the 1948 student is subjected are nothing compared to those anticipated by collegiates five years hence. By this time the perfection of the television set for the average man's living room will prove added lure from the books, as will the helicopter so convenient to reach the girl-friend.

An increase in the number of speedy little British-made cars will increase the gregariousness of the average college student, for the number of the open-air vehicles congregating on California highways will surely give added impetus to the Golden Staters' chief sport of highway travel.

While we forestall such a dire future for campusites, we put on the coffee and plan for some big evenings next week.

Moan At Marvelous Marin; Lack Of Info, Rooters Spoil Games

(Editor's Note: Letters to the editor may be left with the telephone operator in the main building or in The Guardsman office in Bldg. 12. Deadlines are noon on Monday and Wednesday. If so desired the author's name will be withheld but the author must be known to the editor.)

● Marin Mercenary

Editor, The Guardsman:

The assistant warden told all inmates at the Friday's assembly that everone will get into the game with their SB cards. He also stressed that if anyone made a mistake of paying at the gate that person was not to come crying to the warden's office because everyone is informed that the game is FREE.

For this reason several trustees including myself went to the game financially unprepared. We took only enough money to pay bridge toll. At the gate a trustee from Marin penitentiary stopped us and demanded tickets.

Finally we bought tickets and had to pool our remaining finances to buy a ticket for one of the boys because he was completely broke. Now we were broke and we began to try and borrow money from fellow inmates that were at the game.

I didn't get a penny from anyone and was unable to go to the dance or go back to San Francisco. I was dismayed until a friend of mine took me home without demanding a cent. However, this overloaded his vehicle because I was the eighth person in it.

There were too many dirty deals of this sort during my five terms in our penitentiary and I'll be d——— if I ever again buy, let the government buy for me, beg, borrow or steal another SB card.

● Rooters' (?) Section

Editor, The Guardsman:

The rooting section of the college is in desperate need of a complete reorganization. In its demonstrations thus far this year it has proved to be ineffectual and negligent insofar as team support is concerned. The only organization or spirit shown in the section is centered around four enthusiastic, though unsupported, cheer leaders.

If we are to continue having a winning football team we must give them the necessary support from the rooting section.

Let us find a man or group who can do the organizing necessary to accomplish this, and give our team the support it so richly deserves.

● Sports' Mix-Up

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reading last Friday's issue of The Guardsman, I found some very erroneous information concerning just what players would be playing in the Marin-CCSF game.

In the Sacramento game, halfback Doug Wilson received injuries of internal hemorrhages to his right leg but The Guardsman listed him as a starter for the Marin game.

Sports writers can't write a story that has merit if Coach Klemmer won't divulge proper information of this nature. As it is, Guardsman sports writers have to guess and make up their stories.

Coach Klemmer went to Cal and should know the value of information. How about it coach—wouldn't a little information be a big help?

Everyone Gets In Blood Donor Act

By Lloyd Bogue

That people like to sell their blood for $25 a pint was evident this week when dozens of students and faculty members were turned away from the placement office because of a full quota of donors.

There were more than enough donors, and a few persons not connected in any way with the college applied to sell their blood.

Blood donors who were lucky enough to get their name on the list, will report to the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank for the "blood money" transaction, which is almost as easy a way to make $25 as making several straight passes with the "bones."

After the blood bank directors finish with the "vampire act," they are even kind enough to replenish the body's liquid supply with coffee, or if a person so desires, orange juice.

Using the Duke University card test, Kinsley was found to have the extraordinary score of 10 correct out of 25. The odds against this by mere chance are three million to one.

Mental telepathy and mind reading are the only explanations for this phenomenal score. At the moment Kinsley is hunting for a crystal ball (new or used). He intends to set up a tent on the west campus. Fortune Telling at Reasonable Rates.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

SITTING in the less populated end zone district at the St. Mary's-Nevada fiasco last Sunday afternoon, our intellectual viewing of the petite and definitely all-femining Nevada drill team during their halftime workout was interrupted by a "revealing revelation" on the part of the Kezar public addresser.

In listing the coming events to be featured at the Golden Gate Park oval, the man came forth with an announcement regarding this afternoon's City College-San Mateo tussle at 3 o'clock.

PURPOSE FORGOTTEN

No mention was made of the Damon Runyon tie-in, but from the general reaction about us, it would not have had too much effect on the highly disinterested Gael followers who were watching their charges being slowed down to a very meek trot.

The seemingly unheard words of the speaker did serve as a mental note for us though and also provided material for our ever ready meat chopper.

The Damon Runyon classic was brought into this Ram world last year when the Los Angeles City College met the resident eleven in an inaugural none too profitable from a hometown standpoint.

Today's tilt features the tenth meeting of the San Mateo Bulldogs and the Phelan Avenuers on the gridiron, with the horned beast holding an impressive 6-3 edge over the somewhat toothless canine.

BAND GOES BIG TIME

The band, looking first A class in their newly woven apparel, will add a touch of the bigtime to the festivities. Sammie the Ram, will be turned out to pasture on the lush Stanyan Street green. To top it all off the Rams are riding along on a victory streak which they don't intend to snap until absolutely necessary.

What say we make our return to Kezar a profitable one, off the field as well as on.

Symphony Forum In First Meeting Today

A reorganized Symphony Forum will hold its first meeting of the semester today at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

"All interested students are invited to attend," Jack Hulse, temporary president of the forum, announced, also revealing that the meeting would be for election of officers.

New Budget Plan Put Before Council

Possible plans for the revision of doling out of budget funds was presented by Councilman George Capanis, at Tuesday's Student Council meeting.

The new scheme, according to Capanis, will save valuable time of council meetings for it entails the allocation of money to the various campus organizations on the basis of a set ratio.

This means that if the budget is increased or decreased, the allotment will rise or drop accordingly. It is also significant because of the fact that the groups will know approximately how much money they will have to spend at the close of registration.

A three man committee was appointed, on Alice Tafara's suggestion, to look into the possibilities of the college participating in Saturday night's windup in the Portola festivities. A float may be entered for the mammoth parade.

Jim Fernhoff, reported that the French tandem bicycle, allegedly confiscated by College of Marin during half-time, will have to be paid for.

Bowling Club Invites Student Membership

Strikes and Spares college bowling club, leaves the door open to all interested men and women, John Wright, club president, announced yesterday.

The first meeting of the club, under faculty sponsorship of Roy Burdick track and field coach, will be in the student lounge, Monday October 25, at 8 p.m.

Wright said "Come and join, if you can't bowl, we'll teach you."

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

SITTING in the less populated end zone district at the St. Mary's-Nevada fiasco last Sunday afternoon, our intellectual viewing of the petite and definitely all feminine Nevada drill team during their halftime workout was interrupted by a "revealing revelation" on the part of the Kezar public addresser.

In listing the coming events to be featured at the Golden Gate Park oval the man connected with an announcement regarding this afternoon's City College-San Mateo tussle at 3 o'clock.

PURPOSE FORGOTTEN

No mention was made of the Patton Bunyon item, but from the general reaction about us it would not be cold to say much effort on the part of interested Gael followers who were wearing their chaps to the game Friday night.

RAND GOES BIG TIME

Symphony Forum In First Meeting Today

A reorganized Symphony Forum will hold its first meeting of the semester today at 3 p.m. in the auditorium.

"All interested students are invited to attend," Jack Hulse, temporary president of the forum, announced, also revealing that the meeting would be for election of officers.

New Budget Plan Put Before Council

Possible plans for the revision of doling out of budget funds was presented by Councilman George Capanis, at Tuesday's Student Council meeting.

The new scheme according to Capanis, will save valuable time at council meetings for it entails the allocation of money to the various campus organizations on the basis of a set ratio.

This means that if the budget is increased or decreased the allotment will increase or decrease accordingly. It is also anticipated because of the fact that the groups will know approximately how much money they will have to spend at the case of receiving help.

Everything Is Ready For The Hurley Village Playground! Needs A Push

MONEY for the project is appropriated, the individuals involved are all set to go, the early semester's activities are quieting down somewhat, and therefore The Guardsman urges action on the Hurley Village Playground program.

We realized that in order to complete a plan such as this, the time element is very pressing.

We further realize that occasionally such projects require just the right stimulus to get it underway.

It is reported that the area for the children's playground has been cleared and just waiting for the necessary work to commence.

The various departments have geared themselves to move in as soon as the minor obstacles are overcome.

William Mayo, engineering department head, reports that his students, who are to work on the playground, are anxiously waiting the word to go ahead.

Jules Fraden, of the recreational leadership program, has expressed his extreme willingness to put the schedule of his recreation program in operation.

The Guardsman feels strongly that this "operation playground" should not be allowed to bog down.

As soon as a little closer liaison is effected between the groups interested in putting this project over, we believe that the playground will be a reality in the very near future.

The appalling traffic situation in the vicinity of Hurley Village has not been lessened.

This means that the children of the veterans in attendance at the college do not have a safe place to play.

With everyone cooperating, this playground will be built, and built soon.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

NOW that all the hue and cry regarding "Golden Centennials" and "Portola Festivals" has subsided, we heartily support the claim that "you're lucky when you live in California."

Baffling to City Collegians were the number of activities over the week end, all supposing to commemorate something. Whether or not it was the Centennial, Portola Festival, Homecoming Day, or Damon Runyon Memorial Day is purely irrelevant—it was still good celebrating. The kiddes' carnival on West Portal Avenue attracted numbers of attendees at Thursday night's pre-game rally.

Asides . . . Kappa Phi sorority played to a full house last Tuesday eve with their version of the "New Look's" conversion to the "Neat Look." Garbed in Ilene Carroll Shoppe outfits, models paraded the stage and later stepped aside for entertainment supplied by the college and the San Francisco Center for the Blind. Proceeds from the benefit show were turned over to the center.

The excitement over "our boys" wanton destruction of the property at local colleges has been justified with the suggestion that all colleges have some sort of symbol purposely for such "celebrating." The Ram on the west campus is provided for just that.

Skid Row . . . or Dormitories Nos. 7 and 8 . . . all information directly from observation—yessir.

Straight from a dweller of the "Tune Mixers Paradise," commonly known as the men's dormitories, or the enchanting past-time abode of budding geniuses comes the story of their morning routine.

Curtain rises anywhere from 7 to 11 a.m. At 7 o'clock, the beehive starts buzzing, while the lads dash around attempting to, gain the time lost on that extra half-hour sleep, to make an 8 o'clock.

The rest of the immortal souls lie in a half-slumber, praying in their drowsy minds that the buzz-bombs will turn off those Remington buzz-saws, quit jigging the samba to the St. Louis Blues, slide down the banister, and head for the cafeteria, or just go somewhere, so they can gain a last snooze.

Eight o'clock comes, alarm clocks ring, the whole hull trembles, and the rest of the contingent starts the parade, interrupting once again the 11 o'clock dreamers. Troops disperse, the late morning dreamer sighs once again and continues with his snooze. So goes life.

Letters to the Editor

(Editor's Note: Letters to the editor may be left with the telephone operator in the main building or in The Guardsman office in Bldg. 12. Deadlines are noon on Monday and Wednesday. If so desired the author's name will be withheld but the author must be known to the editor.)

● Hagan Vs. Harmon

Editor, The Guardsman:

Who is this Miss Harmon to consider herself a "well bred woman" and pass judgment on such matters as whether the men of the City College want to foster their own fungus growth on dapple cheeks?

She speaks of "her society" putting the kibosh on facial foliage a number of years ago. Methinks Miss 109 would like an occasional escort, but cannot get one, has never come closer to good breeding than that seen at the livery stable, and is the prime factor against an "adamant feminine" populace ever coming into existence.

My advice: suffer with us men and attempt to enjoy a little college spirit. You, Miss Harmon, could at least have assisted Pete Isola in endeavoring to make the first Homecoming Day program as pleasant and as successful as possible. You were either too smug or craved a journalistic binge to satisfy your neglected "Id." I haven't much faith in Freud, Miss Harmon, nor have I in you, whoever you are.

Jack R. Hagan, SB Card 6

● More Harmon-ia

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have taken your advice (Ed's note: That of Betty Ann Harmon in Ram's Horn) pertaining to my beard which you, parallel with dirt, and naturally assumed that the well bred women of this college would find me more to their liking.

When I found that the well bred women, especially members of a "Society," have no more use for me than when I had an undergrowth of fuzz, I immediately shaved my head in order to eliminate all my unclean foliage.

Now I, having no hair, regard myself above the low female with hair, and, of course, will not be seen in their presence.

However, and you won't believe this, I now have less dates than before. I am, therefore, growing back all my hair, and that includes my beard.

Ray Rhine

● Regrets

Editor, The Guardsman:

To those people who expected to attend the debate between the Waterfront Employers and Maritime Union we wish to express our regrets that it can not be held. The Employers will neither discuss the issues of the strike, nor debate the issues in a free open debate. We, of course, will not draw any conclusions; the facts speak for themselves.

Diek Pearson
Chairman, Students for Wallace

● College Pique

Editor, The Guardsman:

From all this chatter in the paper about the great football team, I would like to make a complaint. The way the college played against Marin, you'd think they were a bunch of high school kids.

Some goofy editorial of a couple issues ago said that the Rams might go to the Little Rose Bowl. I never heard of it, but if they continue to play the way they did against Marin, they couldn't put up a good fight against Lowell Hi.

Another small item around here that irritates me is that the faculty is going to put on a show, that is called the College Daze. What are they going to do with the money they make?

It's bad enough with all the clubs around here trying to make some money on their week end dances, without having the faculty moving in.

The show will probably be a silly play, with the faculty looking down their noses at the students, who are paying good money to see it.

John Marino

Editor's Note: For Mr. Marino's edification, the money realized from College Daze will be placed in a fund to be used by students desiring a loan, so as to continue their collegiate endeavor.

● Clubs

Editor, The Guardsman:

In the October 15 edition of The Guardsman, the article on approved clubs on campus failed to include the Masonic Club. Since this has happened before I should appreciate that more care be taken in the future regarding clubs that have been reinstated.

Evelyn C. Martin,
President, Masonic Club

(Editor's Note: The list of approved campus organizations was printed in The Guardsman in its entirety as received from the chairman of the Club Advisory Board.)

Need An Aspirin, Band-Aid? Dr. Jones Dispenses All

By Palmer Cramer

One of the busiest men on the campus these days, Dr. Thomas P. Jones, City College physician, holds down a three man job.

Only one of his jobs, that of City College physician, includes giving physical examinations, administering to the sick, and counselling those who come to him for more or less personal information.

Always Room For More

Between the hours of 9 and 11:30 a.m. he interviews as many as 60 students. This would seem quite a few, but not enough for Dr. Jones who invites still more to seek his advice.

Funds are alloted by the Associated Students for medicines and bandages that might be required in administering first aid, one of the doctor's official duties.

"Things happen around here all the time," Dr. Jones remarked with a smile.

A few examples cited were injuries incurred in athletics, cuts from accidents in the chemistry laboratories, falls and many other similar happenings. Bruises and scrapes seem to be a dime a dozen, but none are too small for his attention.

Even married students and students about to be married come to him for advice and/or assurance.

"I do everything I can," he said, "to help these kids."

His college practice and his regular practice would ordinarily give him enough to do, but Dr. Jones is examining eligible foreign students for the Israeli Army too.

Vet Expert

Furthermore, rated by the government as an expert on Veterans affairs, he guides and assists those veterans who need his help. Many veterans on the campus know him already for his aid in times of stress.

It makes no difference what is required, Dr. Jones is always ready with his quick wit or sympathy.

A three man job indeed, but Dr. Jones takes care of all three capably and with admirable finesse.

ONE-MAN TEAM for a three-man job. Dr. Thomas Jones dispenses pills, prescriptions, and personal advice to local collegians.

Wear A Funny Hat? It's That Time Again

By Johnnie Dorris

Once in every semester, numerous normal humans revert back to a stage similar to early infancy, and this is that time.

These queer acting people do everything from wearing funny looking hats to imitating daisy pickers, to name a coupie.

They try to act as if they've been doing it all their life, but to a person capable of character reading, it is quite evident that the aforesaid persons feel rather foolish.

To the students of old, these goings on are looked on with understanding, but to the late comers, it is looked on more as a sign of insanity.

It makes no difference what is required, Dr. Jones is always ready with his quick wit or sympathy.

So it appears that some explanation is necessary to the new students in an effort to rationalize this activity.

They are pledges. And the queer activities in which they engage are just the bidding of "old" established "frat" men.

These pledges can he called upon to do everything from washing a car to swallowing a goldfish (it hasn't happened yet, but just wait), and in some cases other people's home-work.

After the male pledges complete their initiation period, another cycle will begin, and during this one, no man will feel safe in speaking to his girl, unless of course he wishes to endanger her "future."

Rams Tame Bulldogs In Benefit, 26-0

Toquinto, Toller, Matson Lead Locals To Fifth Straight

By Walt Roessing

City College's potent football eleven bulled over a weak, winless San Mateo Junior College team, 26-0, Friday afternoon at Kezar Stadium before 3,500 rabid, but freezing, grid fans in a game played for the benefit of the Damon Runyon Memorial Cancer Fund.

Coach Grover Klemmer's gridders racked up three fast touchdowns in the first half and were then content to coast the rest of the way, adding a solo score in the waning moments of the final stanza.

The Rams tallied the second time they handled the pigskin, midway in the opening period. Despite two 15 yard clipping penalties, the red-and-white contingent drove 89 yards in 16 plays to paydirt.

The payoff came on a beautiful 17 yard aerial from quarterback Bob Toquinto to end Don Stillwell. Toquinto's try for the extra point was no good.

During the scoring drive a 59 yard touchdown sprint by speedster Ollie Matson was called back because of a clipping infraction.

RAMS SCORE AGAIN

The Rams scored their next six-pointer early in the second quarter. Starting on their own 43 yard stripe, the local eleven racked up another tally in exactly 10 plays.

Toquinto was the spark in this drive, passing once to Roy Poznekoff for 31 yards, to Kenny Fochr for 8 yards, and then to Matson for 12 yards and a touchdown. Toquinto, with Kenny White holding, successively added the extra digit to make the score 13 to 0.

BALA RUNS WILD

Two minutes later the Rams had another six markers on the Kezar scoreboard. Julian Bala ran 56 yards to a score, twisting, turning, and ripping through the entire Bulldog defenses. Toquinto again added the conversion. Score at the half was 20-0.

Matson took the ball on the San Mateo 38 yard stripe, near the end of the contest, flashed around his own left end, faked two defenders out of position and then sped onward to City College's final TD. Toquinto missed the conversion. The most outstanding man on the field for the local eleven, though, was Earl Toller, the towering center.

College Daze Razzes Physical Education

Rumors from the directors of the faculty show, College Daze, indicate that physical education is given its just due.

Instructors Maurice Power, Russell Posner, and Mervin Slosberg are cast as three athletes benefited by physical education.

Instructors Laurine Bergin, Rose Kraft, Mary Jane Learnard, and Hilda Watson are horsewomen who demonstrate how to mount a horse.

Fighting Soccer Squad Ties USF In Crucial

Deadlocked for the second time this season, the City College soccer eleven held the University of San Francisco Dons to 1-1 tie at Beach Chalet last Saturday morning.

The game was see-saw affair with both teams threatening goals time after time.

The Ram attack was led by Antonio Reyes, who scored the only goal for the locals in the first half. Playing good defensive ball for the red and whites were Goalie Ilene Giron, Left Half Ben Granadino, and Center Half Marino Mangiola.

The most outstanding players for the Dons were Dick Baptista, who scored the only goal for the four-year college in the last half, Steve Negoescu, a potential all-Conference fullback, and Bob Lee, left half, who gained his soccer experience in England before becoming a student at the university.

Intra Event Deadline Friday, Hoopsters Vie In Full Swing

By Frank Galo

A recent communique from intramural headquarters reveals that positively no entries will be accepted for individual sports after Friday, October 29.

Meanwhile, Rudy Bertolozzi's Balboa Pirates clash with the highly-touted Loopsters quintet in a Bush League tilt in today's feature game at 3:10 o'clock.

The Loopsters, who have surprised the entire intramural league, are led by dynamic Larry Baldocchi and Marty Schneider. Other Bush League contests scheduled for the same hour are the Globe Trotters-No Names and the Tau Chi Sigma-Clams tilts.

At 4:10, the basketball scene shifts to the Pacific Coast League when Balboa Alumni AC meets the Just Us five, the Tilters entertain the Newman Club, and the Balboa Blues play the Waldorf Hisorians.

Tomorrow's top event finds the high-rolling Challenger aggregation matching its stars against the Islestones in an American League encounter.

The National League's choice fare will see Ralph Hillsman's feared Ram-Heads attempting to ram the Balboa Vandals' title hopes.

Tomorrow's intra schedule:

National League, 3:10
Links vs. Midgets
Gamma Phi Ypsilon vs. Hernits
Balboa Vandals vs. Ram Heads

American League, 4:10
Challengers vs. Isletones
Hotel-Restaurant vs. Tri Epsilon
Alpha Sigma Delta vs. Buccaneers

Thursday's schedule:

Pacific Coast League, 3:10
Tilters vs. Just Us
Newmans vs. Waldorf Historians
Balboa Alumni AC vs. Hawkeyes

Bush League, 4:10
Globe Trotters vs. Loopsters
No Names vs. Clams
Balboa Pirates vs. Chinese Club

Locals Clash With LAJC Friday Night

Seeking their sixth consecutive win of the season, City College's high-flying Rams will face their first intersectional opponent Friday night at Lake Merced's State Stadium when they clash with the East Los Angeles Junior College Huskies.

Kickoff time is at 8 o'clock.

Still hoping to get a "Little Rose Bowl" bid if they finish the season undefeated, the Rams will go all out to smother the southern eleven's football attack.

With Ollie Matson almost fully recovered from his previous injuries the red-and-white gridders are eager to make Friday night's game an impressive win.

Coach Grover Klemmer is doubtful about the outcome of this crucial and is sending the Rams through rugged scrimmages every day this week.

The Los Angeles eleven is led by Carl Manoogian, an outstanding quarterback in the "Southland's" Metro football league.

Another standout on the strong Huskies' eleven is halfback, Hal Hutchings, who last season cavorted for the University of New Mexico at that position.

EXPECTED TO menace local gridders come Friday is shifty scatback James Dyer, key man in the East L.A.J.C. attack.

Swat Mentor Summons Would-Be Pugilists . .

Card Tricks, Band And Sammy The Ram Add Color To Game

By Larry Baldocchi

"A job well done," that's what were on the lips of the City College students as they filed out of Kezar Stadium after the end of the San Mateo game Friday afternoon.

When the game was over every freezing student could well agree it was one of the best afternoons they had spent, not only because of the game, but also for the great half-time color display.

One of the many thrills that was seen during the afternoon was performed by Miss Ardele Healy, who astounded the fans with her marvelous handling of three batons at once in her "gay" costume.

While the band was playing and Miss Healy was flinging her batons, the City College rooting section was also busy performing card stunts. They formed the letters CCSF, then a salute to San Mateo with the letters SM and finally ended with the American flag waving in the breeze.

Then, of course, as always, there was Sammy the Ram—not walking, not on a bicycle, but on a genuine motor scooter.

Sammy rode his little vehicle all around the stadium, and was even buzzing in and out and around the City College band.

ON THE RECEIVING END of several of Ram's aerial drives this season as well as a dependable defender is end Bill Koenig.

WAA Plan Past President Reunion For November 5

Plans are now being completed for the past Presidents' Tea to be given on Friday, November 5, by the Women's Athletic Association, Shirley Austin, president, announced yesterday.

The tea will be given at 4 p.m. in the college's women's gymnasium, and the meeting will honor all of the former WAA presidents from 1935 until the present time.

Barbara Combs, last semester's WAA president, will be the hostess for the important get-together.

Many of the original faculty members of the organization will also attend the tea.

"Family Night," which will be of particular interest to the veterans, will be held on Wednesday, November 10, in the women's gymnasium, Miss Austin also announced.

Refreshments and games are planned for the gala affair and the young children of the veterans will be cared for by association members.

The WAA has also planned many other occasions for the semester, like Family Night, Miss Austin added.

RAMblings . .

By C. R. Hurlbert

PRIZED gem of all two-year institutions in the Far West and currently the storm center of criticism throughout the same, is participation in the Little Rose Bowl.

Inaugurated in '46, this annually adopted occasion, which is truly in fashion with the prime Pasadena New Year's Day football classic, has aroused considerable disagreement toward the foster fathers who contract the encounter and engage representative opponents.

Precedent has it that the theme of this fledgling affair is to match California's two-year college squad against an equally impressive eleven from the midwest or thereabouts.

Phoenix J.C. is the lone out-of-state school engaged as a member of the above league groupings.

Throughout this Golden State there are 37 competing schools of the above classification assigned to five conference divisions all told, three in the south and with branches in central and northern sectors.

In spite of local efforts to arrange for playoffs and thereby determine the undisputed host to the melee, the grid wheels from Zee Zouth have virtually refused to recognize this section as suitable locale from which to draw the Western entry.

Seems they consider it strictly their show and hands off to whomever it may concern.

Back in '46 when Lee Eisan came up with one of the best championship teams ever to perform in these parts, the robust Rams received naught for their splendid efforts.

Compton and Chaffey, no doubt, had top notch aggregations as their respective "bowl" triumphs over Kilgore of Texas, 19-0, in the initial titanic, and last autumn's 39-26 rout of the Cameron Aggies of Oklahoma will attest, but the mode of play is by no means superior in caliber in that area.

Needless to say, we would be among the local multitudes whooping it up with fervent joy, if, and when the current pigskin proceedings reach the climax stage, if Grover Klemmer's present steamroller is in any way extended a bid in the "run for the roses."

Quarterback on California's '29 Rose Bowl eleven which lost the frenzied 8-7 tussle to Georgia Tech in the fantastic Roy "Wrong Way" Riegel incident, was former Ram grid coach Lee Eisan.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

DON GASPAR de PORTOLA has shut the door behind his majestic following; most of the major politicos are putting the finishing touches on their going away speeches; and here at the college the prospective fraternity pledges have hung up their cute little beanies for another semester.

There is no better time than the present to capture a hopelessly confused freshman and settle down for a friendly little chit chat on "How I Like College Life."

Subject for this pleasant interview was a new arrival on the local scene, belonging to the fairer sex, of course.

Attired in a casual plaid suit, our informer sat across from us and poured out the joys and misfortunes which only a new recruit at CCSF can experience.

FREEDOM IS SELDOM

High on the little lady's list of joys in her first trip to Ramland was the contrast of student freedom found here in comparison with her days of toil at George Washington's namesake.

Riding with the punch, we relaxed and let out a necessary sigh. Let her learn the hard way and feel the lash of the "cutting" whip which prevalls on campus.

The modernistic main building drew a sizeable piece of nice comment, but our fair haired damsel couldn't understand why it was built so far up from the rest of its surrounding.

About there, of course, she daintily slipped in the perennial complaint about the billy-goat act one is required to perform in order to reach any heights around the local plant, but in her case we could see no grounds for suit.

In fact, the plaid job she featured was so new lookish it would make walking on even a horizontal plane semi-impossible.

Turning to the social set-up this obliging enlightener expressed delight in the manner with which the recent Frosh soft shoe affair was presented. Take a short but deep bow Mr. M. Hickman.

SPEAK UP LAD

At this point a fraternity pledge came into the office to do his daily setting up exercises or something. This provoked a remark along the lines that our friend thought the lads were very cute, but that it would be much more American if they were allowed to converse with the members of the opposite sex. How friendly can you get?

The amount of publicity about the spacious grounds here also came in for a bit of praise, and, as we turned to the educational side of things, the tempo became a little swifter.

The two-year vocational program got a couple of first place votes, mainly the Hotel and Restaurant Division and Opera Workshop deal, as did the classrooms on the main hill, but not so with the barracks.

The barracks stalls and the Phelan Avenue crossing drew a tie for top spot on the "It Shouldn't Be So" list. Not far behind were the lack of lockers and the absence of enough decent parking facilities.

Everything was going just dandy until we mentioned mid-terms. The least she could have done was close the door behind her.

"College Rally Best In History"—Hansen

Using only City College talent recruited by the Talent Placement Bureau, Bill Hansen, rally commissioner, claimed that the pre-game rally last Thursday night was "the greatest in college history."

In addition to various entertainers from the Talent Bureau, selections were sung by the A Cappella Choir under the direction of Tony Cuevas, choir manager.

Coupled with the two hours of entertainment, was a short impromptu talk by Ollie Matson, star left half.

Council Clarifies Use Of Equipment In Student Activities

Future use of the auditorium pianos for student activities will be supervised, Dean Jack Brady announced at Thursday's Student Council meeting.

"Student abuse to the instruments necessitated some action on the part of the administration," Brady said.

In the future, the organization holding a function in the auditorium will be held responsible for the Associated Student-owned piano.

A proposed plan to include a college float in the Portola parade was discarded because plans were made too late.

A resolution was passed stating that deserving alumni will be awarded a life time pass to student activities in compensation for services rendered to the college.

Bob McVey reported, in typical Gallup Poll fashion, that the survey taken by him indicated majority approval for the proposed year book.

Complete returns on the yearbook questionnaire circulated last week were withheld pending compilation of answers from the quota of 1500 students interviewed.

Totals are expected by the end of this week and will show interest, willingness to pay $4.50 with Associated Student membership, and willingness to produce the book, McVey said.

Mid-Term Exams Considered Unfair In Lower Slobovia

By Palmer Cramer

In a recent person to person interview with "Iron Curtain Ivan," it was learned yesterday that in lower Slobovia mid-term examinations are considered unfair to Associated Students of City College.

Speaking with a heavy lower-Slobovia accent, Ivan wheezed, "Hold out for finals. Egzept no subztitudes."

(Henceforth, we shall translate from the original Slobovian as Ivan became so warmed to his subject that he could no longer speak United States.)

"All this week students of City College will be knocking themselves out for 'the truth that makes them free.' In my country," Ivan continued, "everybody knows the truth so why have mid-term examinations?

"If you fail you are dropped." However, Ivan made no mention of how far one is dropped.

Pacing up and down through the heavy snow that had drifted in through a sniall crack in the iron curtain, Ivan continued. "Hah, who wants to know the truth anyway? I don't know the truth and look how smart I am."

Price Of Spirit Goes Up! Marin Give Bill

Late word received from College of Marin indicated that Marin purchased a megaphone, allegedly stolen by students of this college, with money taken from gate receipts destined for City College use.

It was reported that the College of Marin was in need of a megaphone for their football game last Saturday night. As no response for return of the megaphone was forthcoming, Marin apparently used City College gate receipt money.

Work On Lawns Starts

Working toward the completion of the green look about the college, a crew of six men started work on the lawn south of the main building, Wednesday, October 13.

Newman Hallowe'en Dance Set For Friday

Pumpkin Prance is the name of the Hallowe'en Dance to be presented by the Newman Club, Saturday, October 30, from 9 to 12 in the student lounge, Frances McCarthy, publicity manager, announced.

Tickets may be obtained at the door or from Newman Club members on the campus. Price will be 75 cents a couple or 40 cents for stags.

The dance is to be a stag or drag affair and is open to all students.

This dance is the first social dress, costume or sport event open to all students and sponsored by the Newman Club.

Downtown Displays Will Be Set Up By Hotel Division

Displaying three table setting creations at The Emporium after the Thanksgiving holidays, the college Hotel and Restaurant division will take part in a downtown store management exhibition of various buffet type table settings.

In a statement from Nina Tucker, member of the college hotel division staff, it was explained that the arrangements would be on display on the third floor.

Modes and Manners in Table Settings is the theme surrounding the Hotel and Restaurant entries.

The college division has been granted three prominent spaces in the Emporium Chinaware department.

Under the direction of Miss Tucker, the tables were set up by Mortimer Hall, Lee Eckert, William Mullin and Robert Smith.

A division spokesman said, "Some of the students in the college Hotel and Restaurant division are the sons of local hotel and restaurant men, and are learning the business and then they will be able to help their fathers."

Placement in outside jobs for graduates from the City College Hotel and Restaurant division is recognized as good.

This outside work is practical experience for the students.

Halloween Spooks To Act As Ticket Sellers For Dance

Apparitions wearing pumpkin heads and sheets floating around the west campus will be selling tickets to the Halloween dance to be presented tomorrow night in the student lounge from 9 to 12, Frances McCarthy, club secretary, announced today.

The dance, bearing the title, Pumpkin Prance, is open to all students, on campus. Invitations are also being sent to members of the Newman Clubs in all colleges in the bay area.

Tickets, priced at 75 cents a couple or 40 cents for a stag, may be obtained from members of the Newman Club on the campus, at the student bank, or bought at the door, Miss McCarthy said.

Students will be admitted in sport dress or in costume.

Colleges which have been invited to attend are San Francisco State, Dominican, St. Mary's, Santa Clara, College of Holy Names, University of San Francisco, and University of California.

Special College Hour For Mid-Term Grades

A special college hour is scheduled for next Thursday, November 4, so that City College students may get their mid-term grades, F. Grant Marsh, Coordinator of Counseling, disclosed this week.

To avoid the confusion that usually accompanies grade distribution, students will get their mid-term results in different rooms about the campus according to initials.

New Travel Movie On Screen Today

Along the Great Silk Route is the technicolor motion picture to be shown in Room 136 at 11:10 o'clock today, announced Madison Devlin, of the audio visual aids department.

This picture, released by General Motors, includes travel along the glamorous highway of commerce of the ancient world.

Students Support Bond Action

City College Volunteers Boost School Fund Issue

An added boost for the passage of the $48 million school bond proposal was made when City College students solicited endorsements from 91 civic and improvement organizations in San Francisco, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, revealed today.

The 16 volunteer student moderators established the record number of endorsements during a three week campaign, to acquaint voters with the dire need of improvements in San Francisco schools.

During the three week barnstorming tour throughout San Francisco, the college representatives voiced approval of the bill at 60 different engagements.

Should the amendment receive the necessary 60 per cent plurality of votes, two million dollars will be immediately allocated to City College for structural improvements.

Students who participated in the campaign under direction of instructors, Dr. Claude Shull, Michael Griffin, and Lucille Meredith, were as follows:

Barbara Andress, Rudy Bertolozzi, Michael Cohen, Andrew Ferrari, Samuel Goldman, Robert Gulfoyle, Robert Lansche, Ralph Mafras, Armand Magid, Malcolm Mitchell, John Mix, Donald A. Parker, John Petersen, Erwin Phillips, Lawrence Van Every, and Ernest Vicchio.

Campus Organizations Must Renew Charters

Eleven campus organizations must submit their applications to the Club Advisory Board by Monday, November 1, or be suspended for the semester, according to CAB rulings.

The organizations are Rum-Cum, Photographic Society, Ski Rams, Drama Society, Omicron Phi Pi, Mu Iota Psi, Alpha Delta Epsilon, Lambda Alpha, Latin-American Club, Phi Beta Delta, and Block SF.

At the last meeting of the CAB, four new clubs were approved, Jim Davis CAB president, announced.

Young Progressives of America, CCSF Chowder and Marching Society, Pi Delta Kappa, and Strikes and Spares are the four new groups among the 34 already approved.

'Pole Artiste' Adds Genius To Faculty Show, College Daze

By Charles Foge

Further talent was added to the cast of the faculty show College Daze today when the famous Polish pianist, I. Wisha Wuzhomski signed contracts to appear as a feature soloist, announced Thomas Porter, faculty association director.

Mr. Wuzhomski, who will long be remembered for secretly helping Khacharturian with his Sabre Dance, arrived in America from Poland only last week.

College Daze, which will be presented exclusively by the faculty in the west campus auditorium, Thursday, November 4, at 8:15 o'clock, was written and directed by Luther "Oscar Hammerstein" Lyon, fabulous writer of many unrecognized Broadway hits. He also finds time in his spare moments to tutor classes in business education.

"Not only will we be honored with Mr. Wuzhomski's presence," Lyon said, "but we will also hear a vocal rendition from the talented vocal chords of Marie 'Coloratura Contralto' Dyson, who gave her most celebrated performance as the barmaid in Verdi's 'La Traviata'."

Tickets are now on sale for the show in The Guardsman office and at the bank. Tickets are priced at 50 cents with an Associated Student card and 75 cents without. Children under 14 will also be admitted for 50 cents.

The proceeds from the show will go into a loan fund to enable students to continue their education at other colleges after graduation from here.

Mid-Terms To Cancel College Hour Today

Midterms will cancel all college hour activities today, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

Brady further declared that all club meetings will be postponed until next Friday, November 5. A rally is also on tap for that day.

By coincidence, Halloween night falls tomorrow, giving hard-working students a chance to ease the mental strain of midterm week.

Hurley Playground Awaits Slide For Final Completion

By Gene Ellison

What used to be a mud puddle in the middle of Hurley Village, is now a brand new playground for veterans' children.

Thanks to an idea by George Lajeunesse (Guardsman Editor last spring), and the production of The Vagabond King by the music and drama departments, six months ago, the playground project started.

After The Vagabond King production, the Student Council voted to give half of the proceeds to the village playground. Shortly afterward the council further voted to donate all proceeds to the safe recreation for village tots.

Several citizens donated money or equipment to the playground.

City College department heads who are lending a hand with construction are William Mayo, engineering department; Jules Fraden, recreation department; Raymond Peterson, floriculture department; George Hutchinson, architecture department, and Allan Maxwell, village manager.

The playground, which will keep the vets' kids off the streets and relieve worry of the wives, is near completion. "The only thing holding up finishing touches is a slide coming from Indiana," Arthur James, new student manager at Hurley Village, reported yesterday.

Rams Rated Edge Over Air Minded Angelenos Today

Thrown into high gear, the Little Rose Bowl express steams into Lake Merced (Cox Stadium) in an intersectional contest against East Los Angeles Junior College tonight at 8 p.m.

Not expecting a derailment of the Pasadena bound Rams, the Huskies, however, will undoubtedly prove more than just a breather.

Sparking the efforts of Carl Manoogian, sensational southland quarterback, who led the Angelenos to the championship of their league last season, the flashy passer is expected to give the Rams some trauble in the pass defense department.

Thus far this season, Coach Grover Klemmer's big headache is the inability of his defensive backs to stop an opponent's aerial game.

Last Friday, a weak San Mateo outfit completed seven pitches for a total of 124 yards against the flat-footed Rams.

Thus far this season, the Rams have piled up 119 points as against seven scored upon them.

(For the second consecutive week, City College of San Francisco has been listed in the United Press unbeaten team honor roll. In addition to the Rams, other western undefeated outfits are Cal., Nevada, East Washington, and Occidental.)

Reports from the practice field indicate that "silent" Klemmer has expressed deep concern over the Hartnell College game coming up Armistice Day at Salinas.

Hartnell, at present, is also undefeated in conference play, although they have lost to the Cal. Frosh.

Klemmer's main worry is Ed Brown, spectacular passer, who recently has gained national recognition for his feats on the gridiron.

Music Classes Hear New Longer Discs

A demonstration of the new long-playing phonograph records will be given to each music class throughout the day on Wednesday, November 3, in Room 1A of the auditorium.

The display will be presented by Kenneth Bartlett, representative of the Ferrara American Home Appliance Company. The type of music played will be adapted to whichever phase of the art the listening class is studying.

As a service to interested students not participating in a music course, a special showing will be given at 4 o'clock open to all, which will present both classical and popular music.

Co-Op Book Store Planned At College

Moving one step closer to an Associated Student owned cooperative, an administration spokesman yesterday said that a plan for such a project will be sent to Dr. Herbert C. Clish, superintendent of schools, in the near future.

At the administration meeting of two Wednesdays ago, this plan was given to Dr. A. J. Cloud, president, for the purpose of presenting it to Clish.

Plans tentatively call for either Building 6 or 7 to be used for this purpose, the spokesman added.

In a recent survey taken by Dean Jack Brady among the various two-year colleges in the state, it was found that 18 of 23 colleges operating under the same methods as City College, have cooperative book stores.

Well—Our Opera Is Pretty Good Too!

Today's College-in-the-Community story was to be about a rehearsal of the San Francisco Opera Company.

Gaetano Merola, famed opera director; Bidu Sayao, who belies the tradition that prima donnas lack beauty; Ferruccio Tagliavini, whose aria accomplished the unprecedented of stopping the show the following Monday night; Salvatore Baccaloni, Tito Gobbi—all these were present on stage one Saturday morning in October rehearsing Donizetti's Elixir of Love.

There too were Paul Brisach director of the orchestra; the ubiquitous prompter directing in brief and graphic pantomime from the prompter's box, the next on a high stool demonstrating his coaching; and Curran Swindt, opera publicity director.

In fact, everything was ready for Guardsman reporter and cameraman through rarely-given stagedoor entry arranged with Swindt by Flossita Badger, opera workshop director here, and former member of the San Francisco Opera Company.

(1. The reporter showed an hour late.

(2. The cameraman showed on time, but forgot his camera lens.

(3. Both now cover the waterfront and nurse their non-newsy noses.)

But, as redemption is sought and sometimes found, the reporter and cameraman did show last Monday afternoon to observe early rehearsals for a concert scheduled here Tuesday night, November 23. And they did get the pictures, thanks to Kenneth Howe, Press Photography 87a student.

The concert will introduce opera workshop students in selections from both light and grand opera.

BECAUSE THE REPORTERS, who are supposed to be covering the Opera House (now covering the Waterfront) and getting statements and whatnots from the Operatic Big Wheels downtown, but instead stood in bed, The Guardsman settled for the City College Opera Workshop.

Although these students are not quite as accomplished as the downtown Opera Company, we predict (predictions 1.7 per cent correct) that someday they will be accomplished, so there!

Let's See Now! There's Something To Do About A Slide From Indiana

ANTICIPATING The Guardsman's every editorial move, the Hurley Villager report that save for a slide that is due in from Indiana any day now, the playground is practically complete.

Save for sliding from a star while crystal gazing, The Guardsman of Tuesday last editorially urged that "closer liaison" be effected between groups connected with the playground undertaking.

Unbeknown to us, the playground workers have been slaving away over the summer and on week ends to whip the children's refuge into shape.

They even advanced to the point where the lawn has been planted.

So belatedly, perhaps, we wish to congratulate all those peoples who have donated their time and labor to making this project a reality.

The engineering students, it is reported, finally received the chance to use their instruments in a worthy endeavor.

Jules Fraden, of the recreation leadership program, has briefed his charges on how to handle the little "darlings."

As soon as the slide from Indiana arrives, perhaps, there will be a formal launching with someone breaking a bottle of something over somebody's noggin.

The Guardsman, with its slogan of vital, informative, and occasionally too timely news, will be there, when the slide from Indiana arrives.

In all fairness, we take off our somewhat crumpled fedora in "salude" to everyone and everything connected with the Hurley Village Playground project.

For the cast of The Vagabond-King that made such a thing posssible to the manufacturer of that slide in Indiana, we feel that this job is a job well done.

As Dean Brady once said . . . Let's see, what did he say?

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

LESSONS in community cooperation might well be on the agenda soon with several college departments typified as shining examples.

Quite recently the A Cappella Choir decided to add the chorus of Moussorgsky's Prince Igor to their repertoire. Obtaining a photostat copy (in Russian) from the Russian Opera Company, instructor Phyllis Badger sought some means of acquiring additional copies—in English—for her troupe.

Madison Devlin, of audio-visual aids, came to the rescue with his offer of making the desired photostat copies.

The next step was the translation from Russian to French, German, and English to be performed by the language department. The follow-up in this tale of community cooperation was the work of Devlin and George Mullany and his graphic arts department to produce the finished commodity—how helpful can one get?

WHERE LIGHTS BURN

Back home at work on her English and Shakespeare lessons is City College's contribution to Hollywood fame and fortune, Liana Giovannini, who made the trip October 14 as a representative of the North Beach Columbus Day celebration.

Miss Giovannini's schedule included trips to the Warner Studios to watch Danny Kaye in his shooting of the movie, "Happy Times;" and visits to famous Hollywood show-spots.

Additional in the realm of community cooperation is City College's own International House. Nathalio Kusminsky of Brazil, Artur Fonseca from Portugal, Joaquin Pereira of Macao, and Salomon Finkelstein and David Orzeeh both from Israel, all share their board and books in a real brotherhood of nations.

The class nobody cuts . . . or frustration ends in "College Daze" might well be appropriate epithets for the frolicking faculty's production of the same name.

Featuring Ceasor Soule, Napoleon Blair, the Duke of Ellison, and any number of other well-known individuals, the rollicking affair will hit the boards Thursday evening, November 4.

The production is by Wild Bill Culver, music by accident, and lyrics by Luther (Oscar Hammerstein) Lyon.

Tickets for the privilege of seeing the faculty tread the boards are available for .50—and student card—at the bank and in The Guardsman office, with proceeds for a student loan fund.

College Migration Hits All-Time High

By Ed Penebad

City College is extensive in educational influence to 26,000 miles.

Ordinarily, it was easy to assume that every vehicle within the College was an accepted "resident" of the Bay Area or at least the State of California.

This is no longer true today. Even an average of census taking in one week will show that 12 to 15 cars parked daily in the lot are from other states of the Union, including far-away Maine.

This would probably get somebody to thinking that either the college is having a migration comparable to the gold rush of old days, or that several students are having a heckuva time crossing the country to attend classes every day.

'Pale Face' Born As Wood Chips Fly

By Dick Brennan

Any resemblance between the west campus redwood ram and an Indian totem pole is purely intentional.

Carved eight years ago by Dudley C. Carter, this one-ton art statue is the work of a man who got his early training in Alaska copying the art work of the northern Indians.

It was while working as a student under the famous muralist Diego Rivera that Carter sculptured the Ram's head. The Art in Action exhibit on Treasure Island was the scene of his work, and the chips flew for 18 days until it was completed.

Carter's work is a long, drawn out process requiring infinite skill and patience. He is proud of the fact that all his work is done with only a double hiaded axe and several chisels.

Dedicated on November 10...1940, the Ram's head has served faithfully ever since. Old pale face, as he is known, has looked down on the City College campus for a long time.

Cards Go Up In Air As 'Spirit' Shown

City College card stunts are a toss-up at future football games.

Student rooters, after the completion of a complicated card trick, turned to throwing the colored cards in all directions.

Pieces of the cards were still to be seen floating around in the air several minutes after the half-time.

Collegiates Hit Big Time Through Talent Bureau

By Johnnie Dorris

"From little acorns, mighty oaks do grow."

And from college entertainers, grow big-time theatrical performers.

It seems wherever a group of people gather, a few of them are, in one way or another, born to entertain, and this gathering of people at City College is far from an exception.

One need look no further than a local play, opera, or rally to ascertain this fact, and the cost is usually small.

Now, contrary to popular belief, these talented men and women are slow in showing themselves, and in most cases they would stay under cover for years unless some agency were formed with the express purpose of digging them out.

The local form of this agency is the talent placement bureau, ever alert for any type of talent, and usually finding it.

This agency is not for the purpose of making money, although it saves the college hundreds of dollars a year, but is strictly for the profit of the entertainer and the entertained.

The man responsible for the great work done this semester by the talent bureau is Hewitt Kendall, who spends a large part of his extra time searching for new "laugh getters."

The bureau chief receives his pay every time a person claps his hands in appreciation of the bureau's work; nothing else is wanted.

Student Saves Dog On Market Street

Returning from the Associated Men Student barn dance last Friday night, Jerry A. Wiley, second semester math major here, heroically attempted to save the life of an unfortunate dog.

The dog, while trying to cross Market Street, was hit by two speeding cars before Wiley could stop traffic.

With the aid of an unidentified officer, Wiley carried the dog to the sidewalk where they waited for the S.P.C.A. to arrive.

In 1938, City College had more campuses than the University of London—18 to 17.

• Rally Moan

Editor, The Guardsman:

The rally held in the auditorium, during college hour, Friday, October 22, gives everyone (including the rally commission) the idea why there is no school spirit here at "dear ole CCSF." The comparison, by what the student expected and what actually happened, was like listening for the sound of a cannon and hearing a firecracker pop.

In plain words, it was a stinkeroo!

To quote from The Guardsman of the same date: "One of the biggest rallies in City College history is promised today during the college hour at 10:30." If that was one of the BIGGEST rallies, I certainly would like to see a small rally.

The number of students who were present at the rally showed that they were willing to cooperate and then the "supposed" rally commission lays a big egg. Let me be the first to give you a BIG HAW! HAW!

• Eating Spots

Editor, The Guardsman:

I have noticed that lately there has been a great deal of conversation about our eating facilities here on the campus. I have heard many a student say that he had never eaten at the fountain or cafeteria, and that he never intends to. I couldn't see why these places were so unpopular. What is the cause of all this aversion? Well, I found out, and here it is in a nut shell.

The cafeteria and fountain do put out good food, but at a price that the poor, economizing college student cannot afford. Many students go off the campus to eat. To me this seems like a disgrace to this school. Why should students be forced to eat on the outside when we supposedly have facilities for this purpose? Yes, there is plenty of room for improvement here.

Why not give us students a break?

Jack R. McColium

• Jayvee Plug

Editor, The Guardsman:

How about some support for the hard-working junior varsity football team? They aid the varsity weekly by scrimmaging against them, and have games, scheduled against Sacred Heart High School October 26, and a big game against the tough San Francisco State "Jayvees" on Friday, October 29.

A few of the ambitious players on the team are: Bender, hard hitting right guard; Boh Kaffke, a football and boxing enthusiast from the Greensboro AAF wartime teams, and Lord, the fast-stepping fullback.

E.K.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

COACH Grover Klemmer caused a mild uproar in the press box at Kezar Stadium last Friday by changing the suit numbers on many of the players on the Ram eleven.

Numbers on Kenny White, Al Nethercutt, Ray Gifford, and Ray Poznekoff differed from the program, and those announced over the stadium public address system.

Many players on the City College second string were sent into the contest and nobody, including the "peerless" Guardsman sportswriters, knew who they were.

One downtown newspaperman was heard to comment, "Sure it was a good game, but I'll probably never come to another City College football game because of the mix up in the program numbers."

Maybe Coach Klemmer doesn't fully realize the seriousness of the situation, but something should be done to identify correctly the players in the game to the students and interested press.

INTERESTING SIDELIGHTS

Leading scorer for the City College men is speedster Ollie Matson, with 30 markers, in four games.

No "toe" from our vaunted eleven will make conversion history in the nation this football season. To date the red-and-white gridders have only made five points after the touchdowns in 19 attempts. What a record!

Choulos, Jim Cooper, Dick Hallbeck, Jerry Herfield, Joe Kelchner, John Kristovich, Bill McGraw, Chuck Murphy, Bill Rosala, Jim Schumann, Anthony Severdia, Frank Sperisen, Dave Strauch, Pete Isola, Lon Loudermilk, Bill Watson, Harry Williams, Willie Wright, and Chuck Von Every.

Dick West is the lone lineman, not including the ends, who has tallied for the Rams, his six-pointer coming on a blocked kick against the Sacramento Panthers.

Following are the statistics of the San Mateo contest:

Sixth Win? Huskies Face Rams

KENNY FOEHR RAMBLES around left end down to the seven yard line in the first quarter against San Mateo last week, but the play was called back. Caught in the act of clipping Bulldog Roy Hunter was Ray Poznekoff, Ram end, as shown above. Other players in the photo are Ollie Matson 74, Bob Toquinto 48, and Mateo men Chuck Monuwai 34, and Hank Hightower 73.

'Forgotten' Men Set For ELAJC Tilt

By Walt Roessing

Riding the Little Rose Bowl Express, the Ram forward wall plays a strategic part in tonight's intersectional crucial against East Los Angeles Junior College at State College's Lake Merced oval. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Coached by Bill Fischer, himself an All-American guard while at St. Mary's College, the efficient but often "forgotten" seven of the first string line will be out to stop the southern Husky eleven.

Playing sensational ball at center is towering Burl Toler, rugged 190 pound bulwark in the line and one of the Ram defensive stars.

Holding down the left guard spot, Don Morretini, although light for a guard at only 170 pounds, is, nevertheless, a hard-working lineman.

Paul Olivier, weighing in at 195 pounds, is another standout in the Ram line.

Hot Tri Epsilon Quintet Sets Torrid Intra Pace

An inspired Tri Epsilon basketball five won their third game in three starts by upsetting the Balboa Buccaneers, 36-30, in last week's top game in the American League. The game was dominated by Roy Pasini's 17 points and Lloyd Fergurson's brilliant floor play.

Remaining in contention for the AL crown were the Challengers with an impressive 45-19 win over Alpha Sigma Delta.

The Hawkeyes and Balboa Alumni AC continued to go undefeated to lead the Pacific Coast League while the Bush League is wide open.

The Globe Trotters downed a fighting Balboa Pirates quintet, 38-35, in a thriller to share the Bush League leadership along with the Loopsters and the Chinese Club. Carl Semonian tallied 21 points for the losers.

WAA To Sponsor Family Night In Women's Gym

Student veterans and their wives will be specially honored guests of the Women's Athletic Association's Family Night, on Wednesday, November 10, at 8 o'clock in the women's gymnasium, according to Shirley Austin, president.

Plans are being made to care for all children present, Miss Austin said.

A special treat will be refreshments following a program of games and festivities.

Soccerites Tie USF, Favored To Scalp Stanford Tomorrow

Stalemated last Saturday for the second time this season, Coach Roy Diederichsen's soccer Rams meet the Stanford Indians tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock down on the farm at Palo Alto.

Goalie Rene Giron, Left Half Ben Granadino, and Fullback George Volkoff, who held the University of San Francisco Dons to one goal in their last encounter, bolster the Ram defense.

Because of their outstanding record, the red and white from the hilltop will be favored over the Indians, who have won two and lost two to hold down fourth place in the Northern California Intercollegiate standings.

Bettering the mediocre record compiled by last fall's hard working aggregation, Diederichsen looks forward to a championship team in his first season at the helm of the soccer eleven.

Throat specialists report on CAMEL MILDNESS

30-Day test of hundreds of Camel smokers revealed

NO THROAT IRRITATION DUE TO SMOKING CAMELS!

{Not a single case!}

From coast to coast, the reports were the same: Not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

These reports were based on a total of 2470 examinations by noted throat specialists of the throats of hundreds of men and women who smoked Camels—and only Camels—for 30 consecutive days.

And these men and women smoked on the average of one to two packages of Camels a day!

Yes, Camels are that mild! But prove it for yourself. In your own "T-Zone"—T for Taste and T for Throat. Smoke Camels—and only Camels—for 30 days. Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the full, rich flavor of Camel's choice, properly aged tobaccos. And let YOUR OWN THROAT tell you about that marvelously cool Camel mildness!

Prove it Yourself!

Make the Camel 30-Day Test in Your "T-Zone"

Money-Back Guarantee: Make the 30-day Camel test yourself. If, at any time during these 30 days, you are not convinced that Camels are the mildest cigarette you have ever smoked, return the package with the unused Camels and we will refund your full purchase price, plus postage. This offer is good for 90 days from this date.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

BECAUSE of an extremely competent business staff, we find our medium of expression somewhat limited today, so we decided to take a post mid-term rest and hack out our tidbit without leaving the safety of this trusty little meatchopper.

Glancing about The Gadsman office we see, besides plenty of live material for a psychoanalyst, many interesting sights.

A day never goes by without a "major crisis" arising. Typical of such a circumstance is the arrival of an emissary who feels his group has been slighted through lack of coverage and such.

IN OUR BACKYARD

Therefore, we take this opportunity to shine the spotlight on our own little happy family and hand out a few pats on the back.

In past years the local publication has been roughing it, but this semester four stalwarts rose to the front and created a genuine horseshoe shaped copy desk.

The brain behind the push was Nick Bishop, who had the constant help of his right hand man Bill Franklin. Turning in an assist on the project were Dale Butterfield and Dick Briggs, with the net result being a happier and more efficient job on the make-up for the timely, vital and informative.

LOTS OF POWER

Not connected with the office in a reportorial capacity, is Maurice Power, an English instructor turned business major in order to handle the somewhat time-consuming task of distributing tickets for various campus productions.

Way back in The Vagabond King days, the high-Power-ed fellow was given desk space in the office and promptly turned in a successful piece of ticket selling for the precedent setting affair.

Now, with the faculty show College Daze going on stage, the genial man is back at his ticket selling desk and just as busy as ever. All we have to say is—more Power to you.

Saturday Is Last Day To Take Crown Photo

Election time is rolling near for the Fall Sophomore Class King and Queen contest.

Contestants must have their pictures taken no later than tomorrow, October 30, Dick Featherstonehaugh, soph class head, warned today.

Deadline for entry in the semi-annual event is Monday, November 15. Three weeks later, Thursday and Friday, December 2 and 3, elections are to be held in the student lounge.

Student Cost For Football Trip Told

Students planning to make the trip south for the Los Angeles City College-Ram encounter, Saturday, November 6, were urged today, by head yell leader, Larry Weber, to make reservations soon with Southern Pacific.

The cost of the trip, which will be $19.53, will include the round trip on the Daylight, transportation on a chartered bus from Glendale station to the game and to the hotel after the game, and will cover lodging for Saturday evening at the hotel.

On the return trip from Los Angeles Sunday, rooters will leave on the noon Daylight, arriving in San Francisco at 9:55 p.m. the same evening.

Weber urged all who are interested to see him in the student office.

New Officers Elected To Music Honor Society

Lambda Alpha, college music honor society, announced its newly elected officers at the meeting held last week.

Those elected were David Arrillaga, to the presidential post; Patricia Fitzgerald, as vice-president; Blossom Wickstrom, as secretary-treasurer, and Emmet Murphy, as Club Advisory Board representative.

Robert Morton has assumed the role of faculty sponsor, at the request of former sponsor, Flossita Badger.

Arrillaga stated that an important business meeting to complete purchase plans of a box for the coming symphony season is scheduled Friday, November 5, in college hour.

Council Hears Appeal To Send Band South For Ram-Cub Gridiron Battle

In the hope of keeping pace with college progress, Mike Cahn, band instructor, at Tuesday's Student Council meeting, requested the council members to appropriate $300 to send the band to the Los Angeles City College-Ram game, Saturday, November 6.

"This trip is vital to the morale of the band," Cahn said.

The musical aggregation, desirous of progress, pointed out that if the trip is made, more musicians will have the incentive to participate in future band dates.

Concerning l'affaire the French tandem bicycle and the College of Marin amplifier, Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, stated that the amplifier was returned to Marin.

Slips For Vet Work Kits Due November 15

Back order slips for SKR or SKE kits must be turned in prior to November 15, 1948, if veterans wish to secure these kits, according to the veterans' counseling service here.

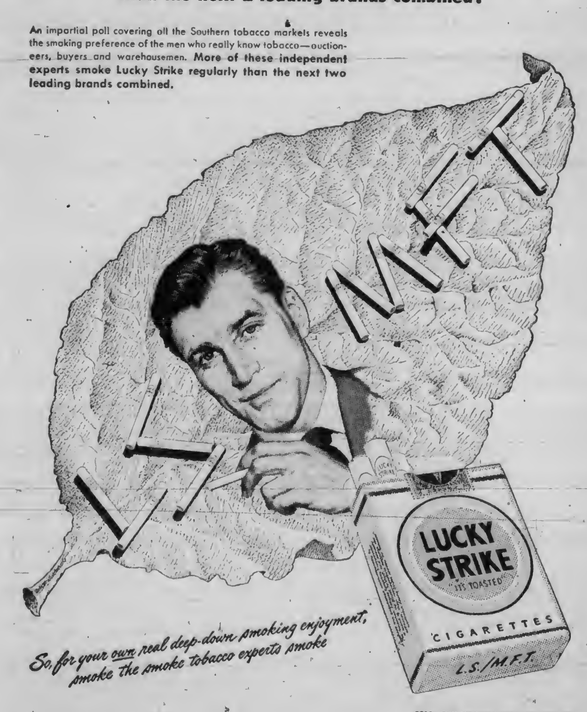
Veterans are urged to call for kits at Building 6 as soon as possible, since requisitions for them will be cancelled after November 15.

Entertainers Plan Show For Patients

City College talent bureau members will entertain patients at Letterman Hospital on Monday evening, November 1, according to Hewitt Kendall, bureau manager.

Many acts have been planned, top of which will be the magician performance by Kendall.

Other features of the night will be a vocal number by Roy Barnett, a dance act by Joanne Setlow, and a chalk talk by Stan Sadler.



This entertainment is a revival of similar shows given once every two weeks for Letterman Hospital patients in the past.

Voters To Decide Bond Issue Today

College Daze Hits Campus Thursday Night

Faculty Votes To Aid Band Trip To Los Angeles Game

Turnabout will occur Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the west campus auditorium when the faculty will change places with the students to act out their original production, College Daze.

Action taken Friday by the Faculty Association makes the turnabout doubly significant in that half the proceeds of tickets sold on the campus by band members will be used to send the band to the Ram-Los Angeles City College game, Saturday, November 6.

In announcing a large majority vote to this effect, Reg Porter, association president, urged that students wishing to insure the band's trip, be sure to purchase show tickets from band members.

The travesty, written by Luther "Oscar Hammerstein" Lyon, is produced, acted, written, and directed entirely by the faculty members. Notables on the cast include President A. J. Cloud, who will play himself, Henry D. Soulé, narrator, Mr. I. Wisha Wuzhomski, renowned Polish pianist, and many others.

Tickets are on sale in The Guardsman office on the west campus at 50 cents for members of the Associated Students and 75 cents for others. Children will be admitted for 50 cents.

DEPICTING THE typical atmosphere which will prevail at the College Faculty Association show, College Daze, to be staged Thursday night, November 4, is the above representation of the contrasting elements in the humorous affair.

Next College Hour To Stage Football Rally

A sendoff rally for the Los Angeles City College game will be held in the auditorium during college hour, 10:40 a.m., Friday, November 5, Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, said yesterday.

Hanson further stated that talent from the Dramatic Club, Talent Placement Bureau, and football team will be featured.

In a statement released by Bob Jones, chairman of the talent committee, Geraldine Smalley, Carolyn Herfield, and Art Chames will perform in a skit.

Alumni Association Presents Loan Fund

Presentation of a bronze plaque and a $500 student loan fund was made recently to Hilda Watson, chairman of the Hotel and Restaurant Division, by the division Alumni Association.

To commemorate the memory of three alumni who were killed during the last war, a loan fund for scholarships was opened to Hotel and Restaurant students who have completed one semester in the division. Contributions of alumni have made possible these loans without interest.

It is the first time in the history of the division that a memorial has existed.

The plaque is dedicated to the memory of Henri J. Carbonell, Lloyd F. Tilton and Sidney L. Sommer.

BEARDING THE LION seems to be the thought that is crossing the over-worked mind of the college's own Luther "Oscar Hammerstein" Lyon, the man who is responsible for the faculty farce, College Daze. The circus, with Lyon as chief trainer, will be shown on Thursday, November 4 at the west campus auditorium. The plot of the play will come as a surprise to the cast.

Employers, Union Heads To Discuss Work Program

A new program to offer students pay and college credit for retailing work at professional firms will be discussed by union officials, employer representatives, and the City College administration, at a special luncheon, Tuesday, November 9, in the cafeteria dining room.

This action is in answer to a plea that students should receive practical work experience with their academic college program.

Samuel Ziegler, retail division instructor, theorized the purpose of the luncheon, saying:

"At this meeting discussions" will be carried on to determine the best methods to develop this program, and to build mutual cooperation between unions, business and schools."

Among the various guests representing unions and employers, are Richard Lynden, secretary-treasurer CIO Warehousemen's Union; Harry Anderson, personnel director Lucky Stores; Earl Johnson, personnel director Owl Drug Company; H. B. Fogerson, personnel director Woolworth Company; Claude Jinkerson, personnel director Grocery Clerks' Union; Ray Watson, personnel director Safeway Stores; and Everett C. Smith, personnel director Union Oil Company.

Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president, Dr. J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president; William Marsh, James Hughes, Joseph Amori, Samuel Ziegler, and Virginia Cohn, will represent the faculty.

The luncheon will be served by the Hotel and Restaurant division.

CAB Names Semester's New Vice-President

Rosalie Abbott, ex-vice-president, will be replaced at next meeting of the Club Advisory Board, Friday, November 5, in Room 2B, by Svlatoslov Yasnitsky, according to board president, Jim Davis.

Under discussion at the next meeting will be the question of old "Junior College" charters received by organizations that came on the campus during the period of name change of the college.

Another problem confronting the CAB is the reorganization and modernizing of the club constitution, Davis stated.

The Man Who Came To Dinner Set For December Production

Kaufmann and Hart's hilarious comedy, The Man Who Came to Dinner is the first of two plays that the City College players directed by Lloyd Sisler, have scheduled for presentation this semester.

The play, which will run for three days starting Thursday, December 2, embraces Sheridan Whiteside, as "The Man" and the life he carries on when he falls and breaks his leg on the steps of his host's home, and is forced, because of his injury, to remain as "guest" in their home.

Playing Whiteside will be City College's master of dry wit and humor, John Lord.

Lord, who has acted under Maurice Evans and Jodelin Anderson in a G.I. version of Hamlet, is a natural for the part made famous on the stage and screen by Monty Wooley, a past master of sharp-tongued humor himself.

The love interest will be afforded by Mary Ann Stewart, as Maggie Cutler, Whiteside's secretary, and Jack Hulse and Tony McGrath, as Bert Jefferson, reporter sent to interview Whiteside.

College To Receive Two Million For Further Building

By Dick Briggs

An amendment of momentous consequence hangs in the balance today, as voters flock to the polls to determine passage of the vital $18,000,000 School Bond Issue.

A 60 per cent plurality of assenting votes means $2,000,000 will be allocated to City College, enabling construction and improvement plans to be resumed on campus. Should the proposal be defeated, indefinite curtailment of building and remodeling of the overcrowded college would be the serious result.

"I cannot stress too emphatically the importance of every eligible student to vote favorably today on the school bond bill, Proposition A," Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, said late yesterday. College Vice-President J. Paul Mohr commented recently that every eligible vote on campus is necessary to reach the required 60 per cent of votes.

Many students realizing the significance of the proposition volunteered earlier this month to speak in various locations throughout San Francisco, in an effort to introduce to the voters the growing pains that confront our local college and high schools.

The ultimate construction project at the college is to build an indoor tennis court near the women's gym, an adequate parking area, and a little theatre in the west campus, interspersed with numerous plazas and footpaths.

Unofficial estimates stipulate expenditure of over $10,000,000 for this program, and must therefore be pigeon-holed until appropriate funds are received.

A school bond proposition for $87,000,000 was defeated on June 1.

Southland Game Trip Signup Open Now

Students interested in procuring train and hotel reservations for the Los Angeles City College football game Saturday, should report at once to Larry Weber, in the Associated Student office.

Rates for the railroad tickets are $15.53 round trip per person and for rooms at $2.50 or $2.75 with three or four persons to a room. Approximate costs of taxis and meals will be $1.00 and $5.50, respectively. Total expenses for the trip is estimated at $24.53.

Reservations will be for the Morning Daylight leaving Saturday, November 6, at 8:15 and arriving at Los Angeles at 6 p.m. The return train will leave Los Angeles at 12:15 Sunday afternoon and will arrive in San Francisco at 9:55 p.m.

Honor Society Gives Member Pins Now

Membership pins for students in the Alpha Gamma Sigma, college honor society, will be distributed beginning today in Room 341, Bob Jonjock, Alpha Gamma Sigma president, said yesterday.

The money for these pins which are presented to members in recognition of their outstanding scholastic ability, is appropriated from the student treasury.

Pins, guards, and cards are being distributed from 1 to 2 o'clock daily Friday.

School Bond Issue Vital To Future Of Educational Facilities In City

ALONG with the national elections today, and also listed in the polling booths is a certain city bond issue that will have a direct bearing on the future of this college.

The bond issue of which we are speaking is the $48,890,000 proposal to be used for rehabilitating the antiquated San Francisco School system.

THE NECESSITY FOR THE PASSAGE OF THIS ISSUE IS APPARENT.

Examination of a great many schools in San Francisco brings to light a situation that is downright dangerous.

THROUGHOUT THE CITY, WHERE A MODERN SCHOOL SYSTEM SHOULD EXIST, IN ITS PLACE IS A SERIES OF FIRETRAPS AND ACTUALLY CONDEMNED BUILDINGS.

In the various situations, where the school buildings are in good shape, there is an inadequacy of space.

In this city, overcrowded condition in schools is appalling. FROM THIS NEAR FIFTY MILLION, $2,000,000 WILL BE APPROPRIATED FOR ADDITIONAL BUILDING AND RENOVATING OF THE COLLEGE'S CAMPUS.

But in order to get this sum in which to aid in the building progress of City College, a two-thirds vote is necessary for passage.

The School bond issue is known as Proposition A in the polling booths.

The Guardsman urges all students of voting age to get out and vote today.

REGARDLESS OF WHAT POLITICAL AFFILIATION THE STUDENT VOTERS MAY EMBRACE, THE ADVANTAGE OF THIS BOND ISSUE BECOMING A REALITY IS FOR THE BETTERMENT OF ALL.

It has been shown in the past, that a small organized group defeated the bond issue in the primary elections.

In order to overcome such selfish motives, each and every student, who is eligible to vote, must do so.

With a two-thirds required for passage, this means the vote for the proposal must be overwhelming.

EVERY SINGLE VOTE COUNTS. THE BOND ISSUE MUST PASS.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

WE take over from a local columnist's lead on his version of the typical "Mr. San Francisco" and follow with our interpretation of "typical Mr. City College."

There's one in every crowd . . . or, the fellow whose favorite sport is griping, yet contributes nothing to college affairs . . . not even his attendance at such affairs.

He's the fellow who claims that the college should undertake something ambitious in the way of social activities. The lad's wish comes true with a made-to-order setup all done up in a nifty package labeled Homecoming Day. Reaction: "Who's coming home, anyway?"

He participates in Homecoming Day just enough to take in the game . . . complaints from our lad in the form of "they don't impress me" might be just the thing to jinx a six-straight win season. .

Essentially a wolf, the Joe complains about the lack of women around the college, berating the fact that there's a three to one ratio of men . . . yet claims there's no place for silly women in such an overcrowded field as education. "They oughta get married," but, conversely, he asserts "that's all they're in school for—husbands."

This City Collegian gets his kicks by flaunting a cigarette beneath a sign saying "no smoking." The wag adds a "we" to the "no" in the sign, and thereby justifies himself.

Any sort of regulation bothers our boy—"can't be bothered." Parking regulations and permits aren't a source of woe to the lad he simply ignores them.

"Joe City College" spends his free time lounging around the fountain while the store takes up his card-playing time. No complaint there . . . that is until midterms come around. Then, it's the instructor's faults for his flunks.

The moral to this tale is, simply, don't be like this "Joe City College" . . . you'll be sorry!!

College Boasts Standout Floral Setup

Plants And Posies Serve For Local Testing Proofs

By Dick Briggs

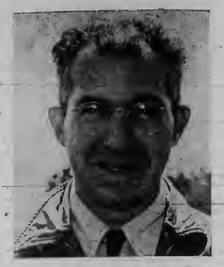
—Investigating the Floriculture department is like walking into a whirling propellor. The consequences aren't as dire, but the stimulation received by the dynamo activity there is as electrifying.

Intrusion is first precipitated through a maze of strange, twisting floral growths, and the facts compiled from an interview with Henry Nelson, chief instructor, are far more reaching in scope and importance than the longest creeping vine growing in any floriculture class.

Center and Host

Aside from being the center for testing floriculture conditions in San Francisco, City College also plays host to various other horticulture societies situated in San Francisco, Nelson said.

The Horticultural council, a segment of this group, was realized when Nelson took cognizance of the ideal that the founding of a committee from various floral establishments would not only increase knowledge of the field, but also aid interested students in job placement.



Other than being the executive horticultural unit in Central California, City College is one of two institutions in the United States which offers complete, diversified, and extensive training in floriculture.

Tasks Momentous

The distinction of being affiliated with agriculture stations in conducting surveys throughout the nation is evidente of professionalism, and justifiably the tasks are momentous.

Experimentation covering erosion control and wind breaks will soon begin on 1000 shrubs and trees, some of which have arrived from 18 different states. Trials at U.C.L.A. are also being supervised at the college.

Already 150 gardens are present within the campus, and with approval by the Board of Education of an $8,000 fund, more will be added.

HAVING BROUGHT the college's floriculture department through its infancy to its present fame, Harry Nelson, department head, can well afford a smile.

Falsified Permits Cut No Ice With Gateman Medlin

By Thermon Jones

Counterfeiting is not a good business at the west campus gate, according to gatekeeper John Medlin.

Medlin has been very busy checking the numbers and the inking on all automobile stickers and passes that come to the gate, taking away all of them that don't come up to the standard of legitimate west campus parking permits.

"No one has gotten tough yet, so I haven't had to go all the way in impressing the fact that parking isn't allowed with the wrong kind of permit," Medlin said.

While jumping up and chasing cars every minute or two in order to check the legality of their permits, Medlin still finds time to enjoy his job and City College.

"I can honestly say that I like my job very much," Medlin mused, "and after coming here and observing the splendid attitude of the students, the cooperation, and the cheerful smiles from everyone, it makes me feel proud to have the opportunity to be with an institution like this."

Medlin is also very concerned with the problem of adequate and safe parking on the west campus.

"The west campus is all wood. The buildings are all temporary, and we can't have any unfriendly people or too many people parking on the grounds as that would endanger persons and property," he said.

A southern gentleman from North Carolina, Medlin has been with the San Francisco school custodian staff for 23 years and is now the number one man, or the Dean, of the Civil Service custodians in the city's school department.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jim Baker

(Editor's Note: The deadlines for club news are Wednesday noon for Tuesday's paper and Monday noon for Friday's paper; material accepted at The Guardsman.)

• CAB: The Club Advisory Board will meet Friday, November 5, during college hour. There also will be a meeting of the membership committee tonight, in Building 2, room B.

• Delta Psi: The officers for the fall term of 1948 are: President, Barbara McBride; Vice President, Truddy Wulff; Recording Secretary, Thelma Wallar; Corresponding Secretary, Nadine Coakley; Pledge Mistress, Frances McCarthy.

• Gamma Phi Epsilon: Plans are being formulated for Hell-Week by the pledge committee under the leadership of pledge-master, Ray Williamson. The candidates for pledges are Herbert Brennan, Jim Chambers, Dean Fox, Clifford Micca, Arthur James, Edward Licko, Irving Marks, Pat O'Brien, Claus Schumacher, George Seregeff, and Frank Suega.

• Lambda Alpha: A very important business meeting to be held at college hour, November 5, in room 1A was announced by Dave Arrillaga to complete plans for the purchase of a box during the coming symphonic season.

• Phi Beta Rho: Will give their second affair dinner November 2, 1948, in the Guild Hall of the St. Francis Community Church. Virginia Markel athounced her engagement to Donald Grove at a sorority meeting by passing the traditional box of candy.

• Tau Chi Sigma: A joints meeting will be held with Delta Psi Sorority at Roy Barnett's residence Wednesday evening, November 3. All members will meet at Forest Hill Station at 7:00 p.m. and transportation will be furnished from there to the meeting in Oakland.

• XGI Society: There will be a meeting November 4, 8 p.m. in the Student Lounge. All XGI's are invited to attend.

Hey Lassie, Today Is Election Day

Today is the big day. Today is the day when all those individuals about the campus can put their pin-wearing activities in the poll booths.

The only drawback sems to be that most of the kiddies wearing pins that plug certain candidates, roughly run from 17 to 19 years of age.

A solution? Move to Georgia because in that "peachy" state, citizens, who are 18 years of age, have the right to vote.

Going along with a current pun, if Wallace's first name were Richard, then the people voting could vote for any Tom, Dick or Harry.

However, those who are over 21, or, in biology and head for the polls.

Waldorf Jumpin' From Stravinsky To Gillespie

By Gene Ellison

Record sessions are the current vogue at the Waldorf these days.

On the average of once per week, the boys at the Waldorf (music lovers) get together and have a record session in one of the more atmospherical rooms in the joint. If the surroundings aren't impressionistic enough, red and blue lights are added.

A session usually is divided into two parts—classics and progressive jazz. Art students get their kicks as well as the music enthusiast in such a session.

Example: Rachmaninoff's "Isle of the Dead" is seeping through the speaker, the artist picks up his pad, crayons, and gets carried away by the music and his abstract ideas.

Besides having a little diversion, it also gives the student an opportunity to educate himself both in listening and the discussion of the music played.

The "boys," as a whole, think that Stravinsky and Debussy are tops in contemporary classics, while Gillespie and Kenton are the greatest with progressive jazz.

"Let's have a session!" is the cry for diversion at the Waldorf.

Coed Disapproval Prompts Razor Trim

By Rose Hardie

It seems likely that City College will have to endure a yearly seige of hearded men students if the Portola Festival becomes an annual event.

Coeds probably breathed a sigh of relief at the close of last week's celebration, since it brought with it a glimmer of hope for the removal of numerous furry faces seen about the campus.

Clean shaven men have been rare lately, but one may be sure that many a feminine sighs of disapproval has brought the razor out of the closet.

Enrollment at City College ten years ago reached 1843, approximately one-quarter of the student body this fall.

Rams Crush Huskies In Wild Scoring Contest, 48-6

Guardsman SPORTS

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

OF great interest to Coach Grover Klemmer is the seasonal football record of Los Angeles City College, the Rams' next opponent.

It seems that the usually highrated Cubs lost two weeks ago to John Muir College 13-12. This may mean nothing to the average student around the campus who doesn't really follow the nation's pigskin parade.

But get this! John Muir is the same team that lost to San Mateo Junior College 18-12, in the Bulldogs' season opener.

We don't mean to confuse anyone with all of these statistics, but if we operated on a system as does the national prognosticator of grid games, Deke Houlgate, City College would be established as a 33 point favorite, by virtue of their 26-0 win over these same San Mateans.

Maybe the Cubs had an off night, but we're willing to bet that the Rams will really roll Saturday night against the Angelenos.

PANTHERS THREAT TO TITLE

Paced by "Slingshot" Ed Brown, the Hartnell Panthers loom as the Rams' chief obstacle in the race for Northern California Junior College Conference grid gonfalon.

Bob Robinette, the coach of the Salinas eleven, considers Brown one of the top passers in the nation today.

Just a week ago the Hartnell team rolled over Sacramento College 33-7.

The Rams had previously defeated the capital city eleven, 25-7, and this was done without the aid of speedster Ollie Matson.

A rip-roaring battle will occur on Armistice Day, November 11, when the two top teams in the conference clash at Salinas. Watch out for Brown, though!

Novice Tourney Swat Hopefuls Sought Now

Intended pugilists for the bi-annual intramural tournament are urged to sign-up with boxing head, Roy Diederichsen in order that they may prep for the three day session of slugfests which get underway on November 16.

All potential champs will be singled out in their respective weight brackets and will be directed by the capable guidance of their "pro" brothers of the varsity squad who will act as managers.

Last semester's elimination events produced nine division kingpins ranging from bantamweight to heavyweight and provided resident ring filberts with plenty of fast hard-hitting action.

Keyed Up Rams Await Southward Trek For Los Angeles City College Clash

Coach Grover Klemmer's confident gridders will don their traveling clothes Friday afternoon in preparation for their long trek to the deep "southland," where they will resume friendly relations with Los Angeles City College on Saturday night at Gilmore Stadium. Kickoff will be at 8 o'clock.

The undefeated Rams are eager to wipe out last year's 14-0 loss to the Angelenos, which was accomplished at Kezar Stadium.

The series between the two colleges stands at five wins and one tie.

Leaders of the local's attack as usual, are All-Conference candidates Bob Toquinto and Ollie Matson, while Burl Toler will direct the linemen from his center spot.

A sure threat to the "southland's" four year institution are the outstanding Ram ends.

Not only are the first stringers, Ray Poznekoff and Bill Koenig, playing good football, but their replacements, Don Stillwell and Frank Puckett, are also doing fine work on offense and defense.

Doug Wilson has recovered from his leg injury and will, no doubt, see plenty of action in Saturday night's important intersectional contest. The Rams are favored to win this game.

Intramural Play In Final Round; Loopsters Bush Favorites

As intramural basketball entered its final phases, Marty Schneider's Loopsters became a Bush League title favorite by virtue of their impressive 52-20 win over the Balboa Pirates last week.

Larry Baldocchi's 28 points was a new season high obscuring Rudy Pfister's 24. Teammate Schneider scored 18.

Don Fricke missed this record when he tallied 26 points in Balboa Alumni AC's 63-31 victory over the Newman Club.

Another impressive win was Dick La Mar's Balboa Vandals' 40-10 triumph over the Midgets.

Undefeated Tri Epsilon were near-victims of a big upset when the winless Latin American Club dropped a 23-34 verdict caused by the constant fouling of the Latins. As usual Lloyd Ferguson and Roy "Pomade" Pasini provided the scoring punch for the frat boys.

Co-Ed Volleyball Tops WAA Sports Activities

City College students were invited yesterday to attend the various co-educational activities planned for this semester by the Women's Athletic Association, Shirley Austin, president, declared yesterday.

Volleyball games are held in the women's gymnasium every Wednesday between 4 and 5 p.m. A large turnout is hoped for.

Varsity Cage Tryouts Set For November 8

Basketball mentor Ralph Hillsman has designated 3 p.m. Monday, November 8, at the men's gymnasium, as the time and place for the turnout of varsity cagers seeking berths on this season's squad.

Hillsman requests that anyone interested in playing varsity basketball this season be sure to be present.

Intra Football Next, Deadline October 5

Intramural director Tom Wilson set the intramural touch-tackle football deadline for Friday, November 5.

Teams will be limited to eight players plus two substitutes. Other regulations will be posted on the bulletin board in the men's gymnasium.

Balboa Alumni AC announced that they will enter four clubs.

Matson Throws Surprise TD Pass, Scores Two On Runs

By Walt Roessing

Unleashing a furious ground and air attack, City College's gridiron dynamo crushed the visiting East Los Angeles Junior College Huskies last Friday night in Cox Stadium 48-6, before 3500 spectators.

The Rams, thereby, extended their winning streak to six straight.

Again it was Ollie Matson leading the way to victory. The mercurial halfback scored two touchdowns, besides passing to another tally.

The Rams broke into the scoring column early in the opening quarter when a poor Los Angeles pass from center went into the end zone and then out of bounds for an automatic safety.

The touchdowns came like this. Matson scored from 20 yards out in the first period. Roy Georgi, Bob Toquinto, and Ray Gilford added six pointers in the second quarter, all on line bucks.

In the third stanza, Ray Poznekoff tallied on a pass from Toquinto, Matson scored on a run from seven yards out, and Bill Koenig took a 30 yard surprise aerial from Matson in the end zone.

Bob Toquinto made four out of seven conversion attempts.

The Huskies scored on a 40 yard pass play from Carl Manoogian to Al Lopez, in the opening period.

Rams Tie Indians In Soccer Deadlock

Deadlocked for the third time this season the Ram soccer squad was held to a 2-2 tie by the Stanford Indians last Saturday down on the farm at Palo Alto.

Neal Decker's 40 yard goal with only five minutes left in the game enabled the locals to gain half of an undisputed victory.

The first goal was made in the second half by the Indians' Antonio Ortega to put his team out in front by a one to nothing score.

Late in the same quarter it was the Rams' Pedro Maggiolo who tied the score at 1-1.

With only a few minutes left in the first half, Jarvis Slade put his Stanford squad out in front again by making a goal. The score at half time was 2-1 in favor of the Indians.

BEING connected with a non-partisan publication can prove to be very trying, especially around election time.

In order to play political editor in the true fashion of The Guardsman, a discussion in this column on today's election would have called for three different views.

One session would have been devoted to the pro issues, another the con, plus a winder upper where we would be allowed to run wild and draw a conclusion.

With election day here, it looks as though we don't get a chance to air our views on who would make a better this or that, but we can at least put in a plug for the School Bond Issue, which for some reason or other has met some opposition from various groups.

DOWNTOWN OPPOSITION

We haven't heard too much comment on the proposition from the local button wearers, but a stroll downtown makes for quite a different picture.

It seems as though the house builders and sellers aren't too eager about seeing some nice prospective resident spots billed for educational purposes. They can't seem to realize that this is one time when education doesn't begin in the home.

Should the voters back the proposal and pour the necessary funds into the academic treasury, who knows, with such a precedent, to what heights the Ocean and Phelan plant might rise?

Why, if the band members should get their uniforms soiled while marching about the gridiron or sitting in those dirty old bleachers, the Associated Students probably would even vote to foot a cleaning bill.

ALL FOR THE STUDENTS

New decks of cards would no doubt be in evidence in and about the densely populated student store, for we understand that any monetary appropriations realized by the students will be used to further student interests.

Speaking of student interest and digressing a bit, a representative from the student fountain on the west campus just informed us that a change of price in the line of confections has been inaugurated and will benefit all lovers of said goodies. Candy now sells for a nickel!

Phonograph Discs Of Tomorrow On Preview

City College students will be given a preview of the latest in phonograph records tomorrow when a demonstration of the new long-playing records takes place in Room A in the auditorium.

The display, which is under the auspices of Kenneth Bartlett of the Ferrara American Home Appliance Company, will be shown and played to each music class throughout the day.

Interested students not taking part in one of the music classes may attend a special showing which is open to all at 4 o'clock.

Students Set To Present College Problems At Meet

Delegates to the California two-year College Student Convention, which begins Thursday, November 4, seven have problems ready for presentation concerning the college.

These seven, which are in the interests of college betterment include, yearbook discussion, alumni associations, finances, students' right, athletics, college spirit, and athletic awards.

"Through these suggestions for improvement, a spirit of cooperation is expected to reign over all the colleges that attend the convention," Frank Ferguson, head delegate, stated yesterday.

College delegates in addition to Ferguson, are Bea Groger and George Capanis.

Yearbook Has No Name

Occurrence of three major developments speeded up activity on the proposed college yearbook this week, when (1) allocation of $3,000 was authorized by the student council as a working fund, (2) appointment of Fred Kelly, Guardsman business adviser, as faculty controller was made, and (3) selection of the name "Ramblers" for the annual became final.

Bob McVey is the editor.

College Sends $250 To Runyon Cancer Fund

Total receipts for the Damon Runyon Memorial game have been compiled, according to Oscar E. Anderson, controller.

Of the $1,000 taken in at the gate, $250 will be sent to the Runyon Committee in New York, Anderson added.

The Student Council previously had passed a resolution to the effect that 20 per cent of the gate would be donated to the cancer fund.

Lettermen Toss Block Hop For Friday Dance

Presentation of the Block Hop by the Block SF Society on Friday, November 5, in the west campus auditorium from 9 to 12, will introduce a semester of Block Society social activity.

Al "Frenchy" Athanasopulos, block president, in making this announcement, added that as a feature of the evening, two tickets will be given to the lucky winners for admission to the Cleveland Brown-San Francisco 49ers football game.

Evening attire for the semi-annual festivity should be sport dress, Athanasopulos contended, stating that the admission charge will be $1.25 for couples and 75 cents for stags.

Tickets may be purchased from any member of the Block SF Society on the campus.

Roy Stefani and his orchestra will be featured.

New Mid-Term Grade Distribution System To Be Initiated Thursday

Under a new plan originated by F. Grant Marsh, Coordinator of Counselling, City College students will get their mid-term grades this year in various rooms about the campus according to initials.

A special college hour is planned for Thursday, November 4, so that grades can be picked up at that time. This will not interefere with the regular Friday college hour.

The rooms where grades can be picked up in relation to initials are as follows:

Landscape Letters Pending In Council

College spirit ran rampant through Thursday's Student Council meeting as councilman Jack Hurley introduced two proposals that are meant to increase student interest for the forthcoming semesters.

The propositions consist of the construction of cement block letters on the front lawn and the re-introduction of the student orientation program.

"The lack of spirit and the need for tradition is evident on the campus," Hurley insisted.

The purpose of the letters is to provide an objective for rival colleges to paint. As it is now, the main building receives an annual daub of paint as evidence of other colleges' spirit.

The second proposal is the re-introduction of the student orientation program. This will enable administrative heads to tell new students the rules and regulations of the college at an introductory rally.

Bond Victory Starts Building Program

Two Million Dollars Goes To City College Expansion Project

The tumultuous importance of the near landslide school bond victory at the polls Wednesday reverberated throughout City College today, as educators and students visualized indivisibly their conception of additions and improvements to be made on campus. All other bond issues were defeated.

City College will be allotted $2,000,000 from the $48,000,000 approved appropriation.

Tenslon was eased as early voting returns indicated that a strong majority favored passage of the bill. When the gap between assenting and dissenting votes broadened, teachers and professors following up-to-the-minute reports calmly accepted the apparent victory of a bill that was similar to a proposition defeated on June 1.

Assistant to the president, Lloyd Luckmann, pleased with the final results, voiced that victory would not have been so assured without the ". . . splendid cooperation and initiative that was exhibited by those students who spoke publicly on behalf of city schools in supporting the bond amendment."

Specific details for the $2,000,000 expenditure on campus have not yet been outlined, but the administration will soon propose remodeling of certain areas throughout the college.

Opera Workshop Will Appear In Concert

Opera workshop singers, 20 in number, will appear in concert with the A Cappella Choir, Tuesday evening, November 23, in the campus auditorium.

Flossita Badger, workshop and choir director, said that admission to this introduction of the workshop to the college, will be by invitation only.

Selections listed on the program represent both light and grand opera, and Henry Leff, radio instructor, and Bob Sherratt, workshop student, will be narrators.

Members of Lambda Alpha, music honor society, and Mu Iota Psi, music club, will assist as ushers.

Semi-Annual Block SF Dance On Deck Tonight

Strains of sweet and fast music by Roy Stefani and his orchestra will serenade students tonight, at the traditional semi-annual presentation of the Block SF Dance. The dance is scheduled for the campus auditorium from 9 to 12, Al Athanasopulos, society president, announced late today.

Collegians were given added incentive to attend tonight's festivity when the announcement was made that two passes to the San Francisco-Cleveland professional football game would be awarded as door prizes.

Athanasopulos, who stated that proper attire for the dance would be sport dress, gave the admission prices as $1.25 for couples and 75 cents for stags.

The Block Hop, earmarked by many students here as one of the outstanding events on the college calendar this year, will initiate a semester of Block Society social activities.

Tickets may be purchased on campus from members of the Block Society, or at dance time when opening chords from Stefani's orchestra touch off the evening's entertainment.

The letterman sponsored Block Hop will be the fourth dance held on campus this semester.

Athanasopulos expressed conviction the dance will be one of the most successful thus far.

Yearbook Contest Open To All Students

Associated Student President Frank Ferguson today offered what he pronounces the ideal incentive for all-out student participation in a name choosing contest which will determine the name of the proposed 1949 yearbook here at the college.

The prize, going to the student who names the book, will consist of all the milkshakes the winner is able to devour at one sitting in one of the local fountains.

All entries must be submitted at the Associated Student office not later than Friday, November 19, Ferguson added.

Everyone on campus is eligible regardless of affiliations and all entries will become the property of the yearbook committee, who will be the sole judges. Ferguson also stated that duplicate awards will be given in case of ties.

Rooters' Train Off For L. A. Tomorrow

Late information received from Larry Weber, head cheer leader, indicates that a total of 30 students have signed up and paid for the trip to Los Angeles for the City College-Ram football game.

The train leaves the S.P. Depot at 8:15 tomorrow morning and arrives in Los Angeles at 6 p.m. Return trip starts at 12 noon Sunday, arriving in San Francisco at 9:55 the same evening.

Price of trip includes overnight reservations at Hotel Roslyn in downtown Los Angeles.

Football Rally Set For College Hour

With several college organizations providing the talent, a send-off rally for the Los Angeles City College game will be held in the auditorium, during college hour, 10:40 a.m. today.

Word from Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, indicated that talent from the Drama Club, Talent Placement Bureau, Rally Committee, and football team will participate.

Hauson further stated that Harry Williams, Dave Strauch, and Chuck Murphy, from the Rally Committee, are scheduled for a skit.

Meanwhile, a statement released by Bob Jones, chairman of the talent committee, indicated that Geraldine Smalley, Art Chames, and Carolyn Herfield are slated to put on a skit.

Dinner, Business Meeting Scheduled For College Alumni Association

With the addition of two members to the City College Alumni Association Board of Directors, a date change for the first group meeting was revealed today by Jack Hagan, alumni relations director.

The dinner-business meeting, originally scheduled for November 9, will be held a week later, Tuesday, November 16, at Hunters Point Officers' Club.

Added to the list of prominent ex-City College students on the Alumni Board of Directors were Max R. Call, former Associated Students president, now with the Eureka Chamber of Commerce, and Don Mix, also former president and Guardsman editor, now with Standard Brands Incorporated, Hagan announced.

"Matters of common interest with the college and alumni will be discussed," Hagan said, "and a tentative agenda planned for the purpose of discussing alumni election procedure.

Members are as follows: Len Gross, Tim Guiney, Gloria Swiegood, Ralph Hillsman, Charles Meyers, Trev Burrow, Don Burger, Don Jensen, and Joe Amori.

Soph King And Queen Contest Still Open

Extension of the time limit for Sophomore King and Queen pictures through tomorrow, November 6, was announced today by Dick Featherstonehaugh, Sophomore president.

Candidates may phone for an appointment at McMurray's Studio, 1407 Van Ness Avenue, PRospect 5-1551.

Applications for Sophomore King and Queen candidates must be entered by Monday, November 15, 1948, Featherstonehaugh said.

King and Queen election proceedings will take place Thursday and Friday, December 2 and 3, in the west campus student lounge. The winning couple will be presented at the Sophomore formal Saturday, January 29, at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium.

HILDA WATSON, Hotel and Restaurant division head, announces the sale of scrip books for the convenience of those campus residents who eat at the cafeteria. Sales will begin this week.

Cafeteria Scrip Books To Be Sold

For the first time in the history of the college cafeteria, scrip books will be sold to Hurley Village and campus residents.

Efforts of the cafeteria management to meet the needs of veterans and students residing on the campus have created a scrip book that contains $11 worth of food coupons for the price of $10. The book consists of scrip in 5, 10, 25, and 50 cent denominations that are usable only at breakfast and dinner.

Hilda Watson, chairman of the Hotel and Restaurant Division, stated that the books will go on sale beginning next week.

In order to purchase a scrip book, an authorization must be secured from Dean Edward E. Sandys.

Important Meetings Set For College Hour

Both the Alpha Gamma Sigma, the college honor society, and the Club Advisory Board have scheduled important meetings for today during college hour.

Alpha Gamma Sigma members will meet in Room 204, while the Club Advisory Board conference is slated to take place in Room 215.

Locals Favored To Cop Seventh Win

By Walt Heil

Striving to keep their unblemished record intact, the powerful City College Rams journey to the southland tomorrow to tangle with the oft-beaten Los Angeles City College eleven in Gilmore Stadium.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

The Rams leave aboard the Daylight early tomorrow morning and arrive in Los Angeles at 5:30 p.m. Ticket sales indicate that about two carloads of rooters will make the trek south to see the locals continue their Little Rose Bowl drive.

Not expecting an upset, the Angelenos, however, will provide more than just a scrimmage for the Rams.

With six winning efforts behind them, the Rams are heavy favorites to cop their seventh straight game and wipe out last year's loss to the Cubs.

In a statement released by Coach Grover Klemmer, the Rams have been working on their weak pass defense. The locals also have been polishing their downfield blocking.

The Los Angeles line is fairly solid, averaging 200 pounds. The Cubs also possess a pair of crashing ends, out to stop the locals end around plays.

With Doug Wilson returning to play after nursing a leg injury, the Rams will be at full strength.

Poor Behavior May Cost Stadium Rights

Possibilities of losing the San Francisco State field as a future site of City College football games, were voiced by Dean Jack Brady at Tuesday's Student Council meeting.

The potential loss of State's iceberg bowl is a result of unauthorized student activities that involve the City College.

As a result of illegal past student action, the council passed a resolution stating that the Associated Students will assume no responsibility for any entertainment that has not been cleared previously through Dean Brady's office.

Search for the vanished French tandem bicycle was pushed one step further as the car last seen carrying the bike has been tentatively identified as belonging to a Marin student.

Five Delegates At Fresno

The Fresno-bound delegation from City College entrained yesterday for the California Two-Year College Student Government Conference, which closes tomorrow.

Representing this college at the 55 college conference are Dean Edward Sandys, Dean Jack Brady, Associated Student President Frank Ferguson, Vice-president Bea Groger, and Councilman George Capanis.

The delegates will seek aid in matters concerning the operation of alumni organizations and the mechanics involved in publishing a yearbook, Miss Groger revealed.

Since the prime purpose of the gathering is to supply the two-year colleges of California with a source for alleviating any of their problems, the San Francisco representatives are prepared to offer help dealing with problems encountered by other colleges in drawing up a financial budget.

At the recent Northern California meet, much interest was displayed by other colleges in regard to City College's two-party political set-up, and according to Capanis, the local emissaries hope to provide all interested parties with the necessary information.

The Fresno Conference marks the fifth such meeting and Ferguson expressed hope that this affair will prove as beneficial as those in the past.

We Didn't Back Dewey Or Truman! We Back No One And Take Nothing Back

GOING along with the spirit of American Education Week, November 7 to 13, which is sponsored in part for the better understanding of world events by citizens throughout the nation. The Guardsman, herewith, will attempt to clarify a student publication's views on national elections.

The GUARDSMAN MAINTAINS AN EDITORIAL POLICY OF NON-PARTISANSHIP IN ALL ELECTIONS, WHETHER NATIONAL OR CAMPUS.

Primarily, the reason for this type of attitude is that it would be unfair to favor editorially either side in an election.

The Guardsman is the only official publication on the campus.

We have seen President Truman, and the Democratic slate, sweep into power, with the large majority of the newspapers of the nation backing editorially the Republican candidate.

In San Francisco, all four dailies had Dewey in the White House.

So, in effect, the election results cause the newspapers to appear rather ridiculous.

GRANTED, THE MORE ENLIGHTENED PAPERS ALLOWED THEIR COLUMNISTS TO BACK ANY CANDIDATE THEY CHOSE.

In the spirit of democracy, many so-called Republican papers had various columns appraising both the Democratic and Republican candidates.

SIMILARLY, THE GUARDSMAN GIVES THE COLUMNIST A FREE HAND, WHEN WRITING HIS ANALYSIS ON ANY ELECTION, CAMPUS OR NATIONAL, PROVIDING SUCH COLUMNS ARE FOR THE BETTERMENT OF THE COLLEGE.

However, we do not permit editorial policy to lean in the slightest manner toward one candidate or the other.

Generally, we think out all the possibilities before presenting an editorial policy. We wouldn't feel too happy sitting in the editorial chairs of the San Francisco dailies.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

WITH but one mid-term's end behind us and two more before us, we conclude that there is little justification in clouding the mind still further with news of the intellectual . . . therefore, we again treat that lightest of subjects . . . the college romances.

Regardless of the conicial atmosphere that summer sun and green lawns lend to the lovers' progress, the autumnal season also reaps in its harvests of flourishing affairs . . . often finding complete happiness via the altar.

Marriage overtook Marge Nelson early this Fall when a Reno elopement completed a "friendship" of a year with John Woodward. The Woodwards find marriage and education a favorable blend as "Woody" continues his book-larnin' at City College.

Unknown to anyone but the principals involved (now, you too) is news of bachelor Bob Selby's pending marriage to Ann Lehre. Unofficial soirees expect the date for sometime around the first of the year.

Al Athanasopulos of the Block SF put the sparkler on Marian Walker's third finger. "Frenchy" is the lad who crowned Homecoming Day queen Corrinne Lambert at the Damon Runyon Memorial game.

Miss Lambert of queen fame is, at the moment, finding steady companionship with Oliver Bascomb.

An October 29 ceremony united Tau Chi Sig Chrispino Amato to Louise Parker.

Bill Koenig relieves his hard-driving end position for the Rams with thoughts of Marvelle Schneider . . . as the "Greeks" would term it, the couple is "pinned."

Stepped up from the "pinned" to "ringed" stage are Lois Schroeder and Paul Ford.

Via the long-distance route, the romance of Nadia Lahbe and Bob Jennings has been called off . . . the mileage between Minnesota and New York to which localities Bob and Nadia adjourned, respectively, was not conducive to the flowering of love in bloom. Miss Lahbe's future plans include a trip to Paris in place of the trip to the altar.

CORRESPONDENCE CORNER . . . In answer to correspondent R.R.C. . . . . sir, if your warped mind will cease its searchings for smide innuendoes between the lines of "Accentuate" and carefully read the lines referring to barracks 7 and 8, you will find NO MENTION of the barracks' occupants imbibing the night before.

College Gridmen Show Missourian How It's Done

By Johnnie Dorris

A Missourian when told last Friday that City College had a champion football team, remarked, "I'm from Missouri, you'll have to show me."

City College did just that.

Although the Missourian, who was visiting in the Bay Area, was intent on seeing a "big" game over at Cal, he was beaten, begged, and finally dragged over to the Ram-Fast Los Angeles game last Friday night.

After the game was over and the blood had been washed from the field, the Missourian was again approached and asked his opinion of the champion "Rams" football team:

"I guess I can consider myself shown," the man from Missouri said, "and even though the score was enormously one-sided, I don't think a true conception of the difference in the two teams was evidenced.

"I believe that the City College football team was a good three more touchdowns better than the L. A. team.

"The only difference between this game and the one I saw Missouri U play," the man went on, "is that the football players and spectators in Missouri were not inconsiderate enough to stand up along the sidelines and block the view of many other people.

"Other than this," the Missourian wound up, "I feel sure that I have seen as good a football game as any Cal could show me."

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reference to the letter of R.F.G., R.B.C. 830, from last Friday. I would like to say that if this joker thinks he can do any better let him join the rally commission and improve our rallies.

Evidently he did not attend our last bonfire rally which many people said was one of the best rallies they have ever seen.

There are many people on the rally commission who give much of their time and energy to our school and until you are in a position to do better than they, let's have a little less criticism and a few more words of praise for their efforts.

• More Of Same

Editor, The Guardsman:

In reference to the Friday, October 22 rally, let me come to bat for our rally committee.

As to your thinking that this particular rally was billed as the biggest or that it was run by the rally committee, you're all wrong.

In the first place, had you taken the time to ride the crest of spirit to the Homecoming Rally Thursday night, October 21, you would have been entertained (I hope) for a little more than two hours by some of the school's most talented entertainers.

The rally October 22 at College Hour was an AMS rally, get that, and was for the purpose of awarding prizes to stuffed animals, (can see why you were there) and had no connection with the rally committee. While you were enjoying or suffering through college hour, the rally committee was out at Kezar putting up card stunts.

Bill Hansen,
Rally Commissioner

• We Regret

Editor, The Guardsman:

To those students who may have misrepresented their recent discussion on foreign policy, we certainly want to express our regrets that the Republicans' speaker did not attend. Mr. Kane of the Republican Party promised us that a speaker would be there.

Editor, The Guardsman:

This is in answer to Miss Loughlin's driveling dissertation of us liquid-reveling inmates in "Skid Row" (Dormitories 7 and 8). It was based on a communique given her by one of our fellow contemporaries who has revealed himself as an infamous informer with a feminine gab.

As most carousers usually find it irksome to arise in the wee hours of the morning-after-the-night-before," we "skidsters" were deeply perturbed when we embarrassingly noted its revelation in her article.

Therefore, we would appreciate it if she would permit us to continue merrily along in our Bacchanalia (skidding) sans comment.

Gloria Swicegood Cops Triple Honors At Women's Athletic Association Tea

Women's Athletic Association officers inaugurate what is expected to become an annual event when they honor 22 past presidents of the association at tea this afternoon in the women's gymnasium.

Scheduled for 4 p.m., the tea will be presided over by Barbara Combs, Spring '48 WAA president, with this semester's quartet of officers acting as hostesses.

The quartet is composed of Shirley Austin, president; Jean Sliter, vice-presidente Annette Warden, secretary, and Shirley Howard, treasurer.

Gloria Swicegood, WAA sponsor, is a triply-honored guest, since she is a past president of WAA, a member of the women's physical education department, and now the association sponsor.

Other faculty members invited in the capacity of hostesses are Dean Margaret Dougherty, Laurine Bergin, department chairman; Betty Breckman, Nancy Sparks, and Verrel Weber, former department member, and now recreational leadership instructor.

The 22 past presidents, who represent the association since its organization in Spring, 1936, the college's second semester, are listed as follows:

Arleen Trezieres, Ruth Johnson Marweg, Margaret Park Knight,

ACTIVE IN ALL women's activities, Shirley Austin, present WAA president, joins a list of 22 distinguished predecessors.

WHEN PAST PRESIDENTS of the Women's Athletic Association meet in their reunion this afternoon, Barbara Combs will preside.

Dorothy Canavan, Dorothy Sanderson, Lucille Jacks, Thirsa Scott, Barbara Smith, Jeanne Arnold, Dorothy Kranl, Janice Berch, Lorraine Johnson, Fran Weesner, Virginia Stone, Doris Repetto, Susan Miles, Janet Beanston, Wanda McKenzie, Frances Sellpott, Herminia Ross, and Miss Swicegood and Miss Combs.

A second highlight on the WAA agenda is Veterans Family Night,

Soccer Squad Holds Down Second Place

By Leo Buccilarelli

Mid-season finds the City College soccer team stalemated with the University of California for second place in the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference standings, behind the University of San Francisco.

In their first encounter of the season, the red-and-whites were deadlocked with the California Bears, by a 3-3 score.

Following this struggle, the Ram eleven traveled to Davis to subdue the California Aggies by a 6-2 count.

Led by Francis Granadino, who scored five goals in their next victory, the City College squad smothered the San Francisco State Gators, 7-0.

Closing the half-way mark with two deadlocks, one against the University of San Francisco and one against Stanford, Coach Roy Diederichsen's men seem to be at their weakest moment of the season.

Trackmen Meet Today

Cinder Coach Grover Klemmer announced that he would hold a special meeting today in the men's gymnasium, Room 107, to greet candidates for the Spring varsity track squad and all others interested in cross country racing.

Intra Semi-Final Cage Playoffs In Gym Today

By Frank Gaio

Basketball semi-final playoffs will be played this afternoon at 3:30 and 4:30, Intramural Director Tom Wilson announced yesterday. Managers of the Ram Heads, Balboa Alumni AC, Tri Epsilon, and the Loopsters drew for opponents late last night.

Balboa Alumni AC entered the semi-finals by downing the Balboa Blues, 100-60, in the highest scoring game of the season. Don Fricke tallied 32 points for the winners, thus obscuring Larry Baldocchi's old record of 28.

Before the largest crowd of the season, Tri Epsilon annexed the American League crown by defeating the previously undefeated Challengers, 35-32, through the fine work of Lloyd Ferguson and Roy Pasini.

Led by Marty Schneider and Baldocchi, the Loopsters triumphed over the Chinese Club, 40-28, for the Bush League title. The Ram Heads took the NL championship by virtue of a default win.

In a special announcement, Wilson stated that all participants in the individual sports are responsible for arranging competition with their opponents.

The schedules for tennis, badminton, horse shoes, and ping pong are now posted on the bulletin board.

All first round matches must be completed by Wednesday, November 10, or a default will be forthcoming to the offender, Wilson said.

Lambs Tackle Potent Poly Parrots Today

Roy Burkhead's junior varsity Lambs will meet the scourge of the local prep football league, Polytechnic High, Friday afternoon at the City College field. Kickoff time has been slated for 3:30.

Comparative scores make the Parrots the heavy favorites to win their 18th consecutive game. The Lambs were held by Sacred Heart to a 6-6 standoff while Poly ran over the Irish 33-6.

Rams, Hartnell In Loop Lead Tussle

Looming as the battle of the unbeatens, City College and Hartnell College collide next Thursday in a game that may make or break the Rams' chance for an NCJCC championship. As of today the teams are deadlocked for first place honors with five and four wins respectively. Following are the conference standings as compiled by The Guardsman sports staff.

Deadline Today For Intra Touch Football

No teams entered after 2 o'clock Friday, will be accepted for the forthcoming touch-football elimination tourney, Intramural Director Tom Wilson warned yesterday.

Among the early entries were the Newman Club, Vaut Kickers, Ten Men of Iron, Balboa Alumni AC, Balboa Wildcats, and last year's title holders, Bob Clark's Balboa Blues.

Intra Novice Bout Tourney Scheduled For November 15-17

By Clarence Hurlbert

With the accent on individuality and the stress on ability, all was in preparedness today for the college's biggest local athletic casting—the semi-annual intramural novice boxing tournament which gets under way on Monday, November 15, with a three-day session of slugfests.

Already greeted by an anxious gang of aspiring pugilists, Sports Director Tom Wilson expects that a hardy turnout of some 75 hopefuls for the affair will have announced their contention bids before the sign-up deadline next Thursday.

Strictly an amateur occasion, members of the varsity boxing squad and others professing outside advanced attainment will not be eligible to compete, although the former will also get into the act in the role of managers.

Roy Diederichsen's fistic charges who are awaiting the coming intercollegiate campaign will each "contract" a number of contenders into respective stables a la the practice of fistiana lending their prowess and instruction in piloting the newcomers.

Initial elimination pairings in the do or die preliminary stages will set the tempo for "main event" night during which turmoil nine division champs will be crowned and rewarded with tokens of victory.

Weight brackets open to fistic potentials are 120, 126, 133, 140, 147, 155, 165, 175 and heavyweight.

First place winners will receive flashy belt buckles while runner-ups will boast of bronze shield medals. As an added incentive the manager who fosters the most finalists will also be awarded for his guiding efforts.

All parties desirous of exhibiting their wares at the "punch party" are advised to make known the intention at the gym office, as soon as possible.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

COACH Grover Klemmer ventured into rival territory last Saturday night to watch the aerial-minded Hartnell Panthers whip the Santa Rosa gridders 31-21, on the latters' home field.

Klemmer was impressed with the ability of the former Salinas Junior College team. The long, accurate passes of Ed Brown and the comeback of the Rams' next opponent were the main things noted by the local football mentor.

Hartnell led at the half 18-0, fell behind in the third period 18-21, and came through to win on two aerial thrusts by the previously mentioned margin.

To date the Rams' passing defense hasn't been outstanding, and will have to be improved if they want to beat Hartnell.

The local eleven improved against East Los Angeles Junior College by intercepting six passes.

The Rams' chances for victory next Thursday at Salinas will depend on a much better pass defense and the usually brilliant offensive stands of speedsters Ollie Matson, Ray Gilford, Roy Georgi, and Kenny White.

CAMEL — TURKISH & DOMESTIC BLEND CIGARETTES

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

A CRY for help, heard 'round the campus, was issued today by the Yearbook Committee in an effort to find a suitable monicker for their 1949 annual which they hope will hit the street a few weeks before graduation time in June.

The committee, which has been functioning as a working body for one month, has gone democratic and decided to let the students pick the brand for their creation.

Keeping in line with the group's plans for a healthful atmosphere in regard to the book, Frank Ferguson, Associated Student head, has offered a winning prize of all the health giving milkshakes the talented name picker can handle in one trip to his favorite book store or fountain.

BERSERK WITH RESEARCH

The appeal sent us into the files for a little research on the outcome of previous contests.

The following quote appeared in The Guardsman September 20, 1940. "Entries should be original and unique, and chosen with an eye towards permaneney, for the title selected will become the official name of the publication."

After the deadline date for entries had been extended twice, the judges finally decided on the eye catching and appropriate "Rampages."

Yes, very appropriate in fact, because a couple of months later the entire staff went on a rampage. The editor threw in the towel as did her successor, after a staff revision had failed to bring about the expected changes.

Another quote, printed before the revolution, stated,

"To get an outstanding name for the annual is our present problem." Too bad they didn't have the title picker with all his foresight on their staff.

Another quote from a later issue of the same semester revealed that, "Lack of unity and cooperation has made it necessary to dismiss yearbook plans for this year."

No provision was made for the poor fellow who had turned prophet and selected the descriptive title. Maybe that's why Ferguson has offered a more established prize. This way the winner can't lose, or something.

Since the average campus goer does not spend much time reading back issues of this sheet (it's rumored some don't even scan the present product) the next quote could well apply to the present.

"This issue marks the inauguration of an annual which is to be a yearly publication of permanent standing. Only through full cooperation of the students can this be made possible."

PICKERS GET CHOOSY

The present name choosing session, which starts a two-week run today, offers the ideal opportunity for all students to show their interest in such a publication.

In all objectivity, it must be agreed that the recent interest poll taken in connection with the yearbook can not be used as a means of determining any amount of success or student participation which the staff may expect to encounter in their uphill battle.

Only through an active slap on the back, one not aimed too low, can the students prove that they are willing to back the effort all the way.

Yule Concert Plans Voiced By Producers

A three-chorus presentation of the Messiah by Handel will highlight the annual Christmas concert which will be given in the west campus auditorium on Friday, December 10, Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler, concert producers, said yesterday.

This annual affair, sponsored by the music department, music organizations, Faculty Association, and Associated Women Students, will feature soloists, the A Cappella Choir, the two choruses, as well as various selections by both groups.

Included in the musical repertoire will be selections typical of the Christmas spirit such as "Silent Night" and "We Wish You a Merry Christmas," of the more light and gay class. There is no admission fee.

Placement For Christmas Postoffice Work To Start

Post office work during the Christmas holidays will be available to students if they apply soon, Joseph Amori, placement director, declared today.

Christmas jobs in the San Francisco post office are not available yet, because of a general meeting of directors in relation to extra Christmas help.

The Oakland post office has already hired 2000 workers, but will employ a few more on the first come, first served basis.

Berkeley will hire 450 students, with veterans being given first preference; however, veterans must apply immediately. Final job sign-ups for all students will end soon, Amori warned.

Wednesday Last Day To Drop Courses

City College students must file petitions for dropping courses by Wednesday, November 10, according to the official calendar.

Petitions may be obtained from counsellors in Building 3, and must be filed at the registrar's office before the above date.

South America Film Preview Today

First of a two-part technicolor motion picture, This Is South America, will be shown today in Room 136 directly after college hour, according to Madison Devlin, audio visual aids director.

Because this picture, released by Pan American-Grace, is longer than the average, Part I will be shown today and Part II next week, Devlin said.

Devlin and his audio visual aids department present a different color show each week.

All students interested in seeing this film are invited to attend the showing.

Unbeaten Rams Face Unbeaten Panthers

Championship Hinges On Hartnell Game Armistice Day

By Walt Hell

With a possible Little Rose Bowl bid in the offing, the City College Rams meet the strongest foe on their schedule when they play mighty Hartnell College at Salinas Thursday. Kickoff is 11 a.m.

Stakes are high for this long awaited grid clash. Along with the possible Little Rose Bowl invitation, the A division championship hinges on the outcome of the tilt.

The winner will be in a comfortable position to grab both coveted honors.

Undefeated in conference play, Coach Bob Robinett's crew lost only to the California Frosh, early in October. Since then the Panthers have improved in each game.

The Panthers are fond of putting quarterback Ed Brown's famed arm to use for their long pass gainers.

(A report received from the Ram practice field indicates that the locals have been stressing pass defense in their daily workouts. Coach Grover Klemmer expressed worry over the feats demonstrated by Brown who has attracted nationwide attention.)

On the ground, the Hartnell outfit employs trap plays as a chief ground gaining weapon.

Leader of the Rams' attack is Bob Toquinto, nifty T quarterback.

In Ollie Matson the locals possess one of the conference's leading ground gainers as well as the high scorer for their own club. Both men are essential to a City College victory.

Hartnell has defeated Bakersfield, Stockton, Modesto, Sacramento, Santa Rosa, and San Mateo.

QUARTERBACK ED BROWN is heralded as one of the nation's top junior college aerial artists and mainstay of the Hartnell attack.

Club Advisory Board Approves Charters

Seven more club charters were approved last week by the Club Advisory Board membership committee.

The groups are Ski Rams, Photographic Society, Phi Beta Delta, Block SF Society, Mu Iota Psi, Drama, and the Latin-American clubs.

Other clubs that did not apply by the deadline—Lamba Alpha, music honor society; Alpha Delta Epsilon, art society; Pick and Hammer, geology club, and Omieron Phi Pi, economics honor society—are, however, still to be considered, Jim Davis, president of the board, announced yesterday.

Students Must File Drops By Tomorrow

City College students should file petitions for dropping courses now, a registrar's office spokesman advised today.

Petitions for dropping courses must be filed by 5 p.m. tomorrow in the registrar's office, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, emphasized. No excuses, Miss Learnard said, will be accepted after this time.

Students have had almost a week since they picked up their grades, Miss Learnard said, to make up their minds. This, she said, should be plenty of time.

Speech Students To Organize Debate Team

Organization of eight debate squads began last week under the direction of John Mix and Andrew Ferrari, speech students.

Coached by Michael Griffin, speech instructor, the squads will be divided equally into affirmative and negative teams.

From these squads two-man teams will be selected for intercollegiate debate, Griffin said.

Mix, a graduate of Sacred Heart High School, won the Native Daughters of the Golden West State Speech Contest last June. Both Mix and Ferrari have addressed speech 21A classes in search of prospective debaters.

A debate schedule is expected to begin after January next year.

Opera Workshop To Present Satire

Feature of the first Opera Workshop presentation Tuesday, November 23, in the campus auditorium, will be a satire on grand opera entitled An Operatic Extract, Flossita Badger, workshop director, declared yesterday.

Program selections will include numbers from well-known light and grand opera.

Among them will be the Spinning Quartette from Martha, by Von Flotow; a duet from Don Giovanni, entitled La Ci Darem la Mano, by Mozart; three numbers from Hansel and Gretel, by Humperdinck; a duet from The Marriage of Figaro, by Mozart, and a solo from Mademoiselle Modiste.

The A Cappella Choir will assist the workshop performers.

Admission is by invitation which may be obtained free of charge from the telephone operator in the main building, at the music department in Building 1, or at The Guardsman office, Miss Badger added.

Armistice Day Next Thursday Is Holiday

City College students and faculty will have a day off next Thursday, November 11, when the entire nation will observe the signing of armistice, which ended World War I.

The holiday will come as an advantage to football enthusiasts, giving students an opportunity to see the undefeated Rams clash with Hartnell College at Salinas that day.

Classes will be held here Friday, November 12, J. Paul Mohr, vice-president, said.

To keep within its budget, The Guardsman will not be published the following Tuesday, November 16.

College, Business, Labor Leaders To Discuss On-The-Job-Training Here

Administrators To Attend Convention

Climaxing the annually observed American Education Week, City College administrators are ready to entrain for Bakersfield to attend the California Association of Junior Colleges convention to be held November 10 through 13.

Members of the group planning attendance are Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president; Dr. J. Paul Mohr, college vice-president; Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, and Edward Sandys, dean of men.

Dr. Cloud is also chairman of the National Association of Junior Colleges which will meet in San Francisco at a later date.

This will be the second trip south in rapid succession for Dean Sandys, who attended the Student Government Conference in Fresno with the delegation of Associated Students from City College.

The Fresno conference is an affair designed as a mutual crying post for student problems. Delegates exchange troubles and try to offer solutions.

Suggested Program To Give Students Work Experience

Discussion to develop a program that will offer students pay and academic credit for retailing work will commence today, when labor and employer representatives meet with the college administration at a special luncheon in the cafeteria dining room.

The objective of the suggested program is to give retailing students a solid fundamental background in merchandising, and continue harmonious relations between union, management, and the college.

The problem being considered is concerned in the method whereby students may obtain pay, receive units toward college graduation, and comply with union regulations, in working with professional retailing firms.

Faculty members and administrators were hopeful early today, that a satisfactory agreement to all would result from the meeting.

Leader of the assemblage was Samuel Ziegler, retail department instructor, who expressed belief that through the direction of union and management the college could graduate men of greater value to the business world, and the community.

Endorsement of the idea to operate in close association with downtown firms was also made by Virginia Gohn, retail department instructor, who worked with Ziegler in planning the luncheon.

Representatives of the college include President A. J. Cloud, Vice-president J. Paul Mohr, William Marsh, James Hughes, Joseph Amori, Miss Gohn and Ziegler.

Special guests attending the luncheon are Richard Lynden, secretary-treasurer CIO "Warehousemen's Union, and personnel directors Harry Anderson, Lucky Stores; Earl Johnson, Owl Drug Company; H. B. Fogerson, Woolworth Company; Claude Jinkerson, Grocery Clerks' Union; Ray Watson, Safeway Stores; and Everett C. Smith, Union Oil Company.

College Daze Plays To Packed House

Before a packed house of 1100 well pleased onlookers, the faculty production of College Daze, a travesty in five acts, rang down its final curtain last Thursday.

Written and produced by Luther Lyon and William Culver, respectively, the instructors parodied five different phases of college life, featuring faculty members in the turnabout role of students.

Starting with the always humorous incident of the registration period, with the befuddled freshman student at the mercy of the administrators, the following episodes added to the hilarious theme, with the final touch being added with a satire on student government.

It would be difficult for anyone to single out standouts, for the faculty was never in a more joyous and efficient mood.

The City College band, featuring State champion baton twirler Ardele Healy, added a more serious note to the performance following the intermission when they marched to the front of the auditorium in their impressive uniforms.

Rehearsals Start For Comedy Production

Room 28 in the basement of the main building is the scene of shouts of mild profanity, laughter and sobs these days as Kaufmann and Hart's comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," goes into its first readings in preparation for performances set for December 2.

The actors and actresses, put through their paces by Lloyd Sisler, drama coach, who has at one time or another read the lines for all the forty-odd characters in the three-act play, will become, for a couple of hours, the characters made famous on the Broadway stage.

Outstanding in rehearsals was John Lord, as Sheridan Whiteside, quick-witted celebrity whom the play is built around.

Faculty Show Funds May Finance Band Trip

The City College band did not attend the LACC game last Saturday night in Los Angeles because the plan to obtain the necessary funds from the faculty show, College Daze, to finance the trip was arranged too late.

A portion of the proceeds from the show, however, will send the band to the Hartnell game in Salinas Thursday, November 11.

Reg Porter, President of the Associated Faculty, expressed his hope that in the future the band will be able to attend all the important games without the need of the faculty to produce a show every time.

New Budget Plan Submitted

George Capanis Presents Distribution System For Automatic Ratio Allotments

By Al Gamma

During a recent meeting of the Student Council a new plan for speeding distribution of the Associated Student budget was submitted by George Capanis.

Yesterday Capanis outlined the incidentals on the new proposal.

"As it is now," he began, "the council takes time to deliberate the size of each allotment. But the new plan calls for the establishment of a ratio which would automatically determine approximately how much of the budget each group would receive."

System Practical

"The actual ratio will be determined by subsequent investigation of the budget allotments of the last four years.

"The Guardsman may be used as an example," Capanis continued. "Last semester the budget totaled $24,000, of which The Guardsman received $6,000. Under this new plan, the official college paper would not receive a larger amount of a $28,000 budget, such as was allocated this semester, unless circulation increased."

Some members of the council may be in opposition to the plan, feeling that it will not work because of the instability costs needed by the various departments.

Capanis, along with the other supporters of the idea, claims that prices rise because of the abundance of money, and when the costs drop, the amount of money in circulation will drop proportionately.

Works by Proportion

"Another argument put forth by the opposition," explained Capanis, "is the possibility of the budget shrinking to as low as $10,000, at which time the departments would be unable to operate with their decreased allotments."

Capanis and his supporters of the new system refute this claim with statements from some of the group leaders, that the smaller amounts would be sufficient, because prices would go down proportionately.

THE MAN with the money plan, George Capanis, who is also a leading light in student government, has an idea for revamping future budget allocations.

Cooperation Makes The World Go Round—Let's Make It 100 Per Cent

THERE comes a time in the life of every editor when he must make the choice between the easy way of ignoring what might disturb surface harmony and the recognition that a fact that festers is better faced squarely.

For a long time now, The Guardsman has been urging more and closer cooperation among the various departments of this college.

Because all activities depend for success on news coverage, and because a newspaper depends on those activities for its very existence, cooperation between the official college publication and all activities within the college is one of the most necessary things about the campus.

THE GUARDSMAN CONSIDERS THAT ITS FIRST OBLIGATION IS TO THE ASSOCIATED STUDENTS AND ALL ACTIVITIES CONCERNED WITH THEM.

Such cooperation has been mutually and willingly given, and where it fails there usually is a basic lack of misunderstanding as the cause.

At this writing, what is apparently based on a misunderstanding, yet which has caused rumor and gossip to run rife throughout the campus, would indicate a lack of cooperation on the part of some in the Athletic Department with The Guardsman.

IN THE DESIRE TO CLARIFY THE SITUATION, AND HOPEFUL OF ACHIEVING COOPERATION AS IT HAS CONSISTENTLY EXISTED HERETOFORE, THE GUARDSMAN TAKES THIS OPPORTUNITY TO STATE THE CASE.

In the early days of the college, an arrangement was made whereby press coverage was afforded athletic contests out of San Francisco through expenses included in the athletic budget rather than in The Guardsman budget, which covers printing and photographic costs only.

During the war, athletic contests were restricted to a limited travel area. With the resumption of a full athletic program, the original policy was continued, through last spring semester.

Complete and worthy coverage of all information concerning the fine Ram football team has been published in The Guardsman, sometimes under difficulties. At all times, the Athletic Department included a reporter in the transportation budget, more than willing to do so because of the department's recognition of the interdependence of all activities and the newspaper.

UP TO LAST SATURDAY, THIS WAS THE CASE.

Because the reporter was not included on the traveling list for the Los Angeles game, a cooperative Student Council appropriated the necessary amount to enable The Guardsman reporter to make the trip.

We thank the Rally Commission for kindly allowing The Guardsman to use their $14.00 for this cause—even though a technicality held up the appropriation and the reporter was advanced the necessary funds privately.

WE FEEL SURE THAT THE ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT NOW UNDERSTANDS THE SITUATION AND WILL MAKE THE NECESSARY ADJUSTMENTS.

When the students back their winning (or losing) football team, that is cooperation.

WHEN ALL DEPARTMENTS WORK CLOSELY WITH EACH OTHER, THAT, TOO, IS COOPERATION.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

SINCE the function of any newspaper—college, community, or city—is to present news with universal appeal, The Guardsman, therefore, aims to meet its professional obligations.

Response to any issue of this sheet indicates the varied tastes it serves . . . for such evidence one might make the trek through the west campus and open the swinging door to the inner sanctum of the journalists' haven.

One would arrive at such an assortment of individuals (those journalistically-inclined and otherwise) to indicate the diverse phases of college life which find their representation in the college paper.

The festivities of Henry Wallace's entourage did not extend any notable influence on The Guardsman despite the melodious renderings drifting through the west campus at their pre-election rally of last week . . . however, the Young Progressives and Young Republicans (and the happy medium party) all found their sides represented in The Guardsman, through columnists' opinions and student reactions.

The promoters—student politicians, frat men, etc.—find outlets for their projects and opinions.

The intellectuals' interests are voiced throughout in printers' ink . . . literary and musical, activities, as well as the dahnce and the theatah, are given impetus through Guardsman publicity in the form of news stories and opinions . . . any oversight of such information usually starts a crusade to The Guardsman office to find and correct such an oversight.

Loss Of Bicycle RAMified Through Disappearance Of Marin Amplifier

Cherchez La Bike Bi-College Worry

By Arnold Solkov

Dark clouds of dissension loomed over the heretofore unclouded relations between College of Marin and City College.

It seems that a French tandem bicycle used by Sam the Ram, local mascot, for between half cavortings, was hegged (maybe), borrowed (perhaps) or stolen (never) by person, or persons unknown at the end of the Marin-Ram football fracas.

The effect of this alleged loss has reached catastrophic heights.

Frank Ferguson, local Associated Student president, called the president of the Marin students, Jack Ertola. That esteemed worthy spoke to his cohorts and decided that the two-piece contraption was nowhere on the Marin campus.

Ferguson again interviewed the student government president from across the Gate and urged, pleaded, and otherwise demanded immediate action.

FLOATING through the mists prevailing at the Ram-Marin game, Sammie the Ram, local mascot, coasts along on his tandem bike up to, in front of, behind (you tell us) yell leader Rita Fabri.

Just as mysterious as the ghostly figures of Sammie the Ram and the college yell leaders, is the disappearance of the French tandem bicycle which Sammie is pictured here astriding.

Action was forthcoming.

Officer Berstein, a member of the Kentfield police force, reported that he saw the vehicle in question leaving the premises in the back of an open car of popular make.

Marin called out the Kentfield navy and dragged the creek that runs in back of the college in hopes that someone might have deposited the bike there.

All in vain.

As the situation now stands, people are cherchezing the French tandem bicycle all over the Bay area.

(After the game person or persons known at THIS college absconded with an amplifier that was used by Marin. The score now stands Marin, one bicycle; City College, one amplifier.)

Champion Performer Lends Talents To City College

By Johnnie Dorris

Something new dressed in something colorful has been added to the things worth seeing at City College football games.

This makes spectacles three times worth seeing.

First, there is something great in the way of a football team.

Second, there is something beautiful in the way of a band.

And now, there is a champion, and this is not only local opinion, in the way of a drum majorette, by name, Ardelle Healy.

Miss Healy, aside from her natural beauty, has had the honor of winning the California American Legion drum major contest two years running, along with placing third in the national finals.

She was beaten out in the finals, however, by two men, which still leaves her in undisputed possession of the nation's best majorette title.

At the present time Miss Healy can be seen only while performing at local and nearby football games, as she performs for City College only for the fun of doing her act and not of any duties to an alma mater.

Her plans for the future are not clear, but she hopes to attend the college sometime in the near future.

She has many friends here from her high school days and enjoys seeing City College win football games almost as much as they do.

The 17 year old miss saves the college even the small cost of furnishing a uniform by having her mother make them, and from the male reactions it seems they are entirely happy with this situation.

Program Proves Hit At College Daze

By Jacquie Lassers

Not just a guide, but a part of the faculty show, were the College Daze programs cleverly designed by the Graphic Arts department.

A Foggy Day on the Campus, Episode I, depicted the fun of registration.

Episode II, entitled Class (un) Consciousness, showed how seven students convinced an instructor that it helps to be crazy.

In scene III, The Lost Chord (No Reward Offered) stressed murder of the high "C's".

Bodies by Fisher was not a new car, but a muscle building course, as shown in parody IV.

Episode V brought to a dazed audience the Thunder and Lightning of student government—of the students, for the students, and by the students.

Teddy Gin designed the cover of the program, and Graphic Arts students Ralph DeRango, Richard Briggs, Fred Mahrey, Walter Wong and John Saharoff were accredited with the very snappy typography and lithography.

Luther H. Lyon wrote the five episode travesty of campus life.

New Selections In At Record Library

City College's record library will soon experience an enlargement, Gertrude Norgard, music instructor, said today.

Music instructors had often reported that the space for the record library was entirely insufficient.

Some records have been received already and a flow of many more into the library is in order. When the entire shipment has been received the library will have a more complete collection of classical records ranging from Stravinsky to Debussy.

'Little Rose Bowl' Hopes Still High As Rams Edge By Los Angeles, 13-0

Matson's Long Gainers Give Locals Seventh Grid Win

By Walt Roessing

GILMORE STADIUM, Los Angeles, Nov. 6—City College's Rams kept their Little Rose Bowl hopes intact tonight by whipping a surprisingly rough Los Angeles City College football eleven, 13-0, before 5,000 grid fans.

Two vital factors kept the undefeated red-and-white gridders from rolling up a greater margin of victory, in their seventh win of the season.

First, the Rams were on the receiving end of very poor officiating. A total of 80 yards in rule infractions were marched off against the locals.

Secondly, the hilltop eleven was listless. After a 10-hour trip on the Daylight today, and without a sufficient warmup, the Rams were tired and a little cramped up.

The main thing, though, is that the college gridders continued on their winning streak by vanquishing the Cubs.

Pushed around in the opening period, the local eleven scored in the second stanza.

Fred Puckett started things rolling when he recovered Jim Sullivan's fumble on the Cub 44-yard stripe.

On the very next play, Ollie Matson gathered in the pigskin on a handoff, and sprinted around right end 44 yards to paydirt, a belated tackle by Dick Dwyer failing to stop his progress.

Toquinto's conversion try was wide. The Rams led at half, 6-0.

The red-and-white contingent drove 80 yards for the final touchdown in the closing minutes of the encounter. A six-yard aerial from Bob Toquinto to Puckett culminated the drive.

Julian Bala converted to make the score, 13-0.

Los Angeles had many scoring opportunities but could never get past the strong Ram defense when it counted.

California Whips Ram Soccer Squad

By Leo Bucciarelli

City College's soccer team went down to defeat for the first time this season Thursday afternoon at Berkeley, dropping a 7-2 verdict to the rough-playing California Bears.

Francis Granadino and Vic Solarzano were the men who tallied for the locals. The goals were racked up in the first and final quarters of play.

The Rams took an early lead in the first stanza on Granadino's setup. Coming back, Cal scored on a fluke play, when one of the local men accidentally kicked the ball in for the aggressive Bears' first goal.

Four goals were made by California in a heetic third period.

Leading scorer for the blue-and-gold Berkeley men was Jose Filloy, who kicked three goals from his left-wing position.

Varsity Basketball Holds Night Practice

Turning his attentions slightly away from football in the direction of the coming basketball season, Coach Ralph Hillsman has been holding night basketball practices in the men's gymnasium twice a week from 7 to 9 p.m. on Mondays and Wednesdays.

Hillsman only has certain prospective players attending these practices. They are not open to everyone.

BOB TOQUINTO, City College's NCJCC All-Conference candidate for quarterback, will lead the Rams against the highly touted Hartnell Panthers Thursday at Salinas.

'Rams Will Win,' Says Sport Staff

With seven games of football under the belts of the college squad, The Guardsman sports staff has had little trouble in predicting the outcomes with the local squad as favorites.

In the San Mateo game, Guardsman Editor Herb Levy even picked the exact score.

The Guardsman sports staff again climbs out on another long limb and picks the City College Rams to win another game Thursday.

Pugilists Train For Tourney Test; Deadline Thursday

By Clarence Hurlbert

Sweatin' and swatin' in advance of the feudin' and fussin' that will mark their unpredictable debuts come Monday next, local novice boxing diehards are in the midst of training grinds.

With the sign-up deadline two days away, indications have it that fewer applicants will contest the coveted intramural awards than was previously expected.

As of this writing noticeable by the absence of competitors are berths in the 120, 126, 140, 165, and heavyweight divisions.

Most popular with candidates are the middleweight and light-heavy rankings.

Men students still have the chance to cast their lot in fistic fashion and should do so immediately in order that they may get into shape.

Monday and Tuesday's punch proceedings will consist of elimination trials and will start promptly at 3:15 to be followed by the "battle of the survivors" at 8 p.m. on Wednesday.

WAA Sponsors Family Night Tomorrow

Family Night, sponsored by the Women's Athletic Association, will take place in the women's gymnasium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock.

According to Jean Sliter, vice-president, veterans and their wives will be honored guests, and plans are being made to care for all children present.

Members of the Women's Athletic Association have been invited to attend a Sports Day at San Mateo Junior College on Tuesday, November 16, Miss Sliter added.

The affair will last from 3:30 to 6:30, and games planned are badminton, tennis, and volleyball.

Those interested in attending should inform Gloria Swicegood, WAA sponsor, in the women's gymnasium.

RAMblings . .

By Bob Quinlan

THE refusal by Northern California two-year colleges to create a junior varsity football schedule has greatly hampered Coach Roy Burkhead's ability to obtain opponents for the Lambs.

Burkhead is compelled to pick up grid games with the j.v.'s of local colleges and two-year colleges along with bay area high schools.

So far this season, the Lambs have only played San Francisco State College, Sacred Heart, and Polytechnic High Schools. College of Marin and Balboa High are on the tentative list for future games.

The main difficulty in scheduling games with local high schools, Burkhead disclosed, is that the prep coaches are cautious about playing outside games which may result in injuries that would hamper their league play.

If the NCJC Conference would realize the importance of junior varsity football, the caliber of the sport would be greatly improved in the conference.

This year's junior varsity will probably be next year's varsity; therefore, they should play enough games to gain the necessary experience a good college player needs.

Turning to varsity football, it seems that two gridders have been chosen to act as captains for the remainder of the season. One is Burl Toler, hard fighting center, and the other Ben Albrecht, fast charging lineman.

Lamb Gridders Dump S.F. State J.V.'s, 12-0

Roy Burkhead's hardy troupe of junior varsity Lambs recently impressed with the 12-0 rout of San Francisco State's reserves.

Carrying the brunt of "up front" duty are ex-Lincolnites Dean Bender and Gene Gordon, respective end and tackle, while sturdy Johnny Hontalas is a bulwark at guard. In the ballototing department, Jim Augustine at quarter and hard running Bob Kaffke and Charlie Lord have come through with top notch performances.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

ALTHOUGH the sound of disillusioned bodies falling from political bandwagons is just beginning to subside and many persons are slowly overpowering the surprise element which left them feeling sheepish, the month of November isn't shaping up too badly in an academic sense.

Here it is, only the second week in the month of crysanthemums, and the local citizenry has witnessed a rarity in the way of national elections plus a repeat in stage productions by way of last week's faculty smash hit.

Now that things are beginning to return to a hopeful normal state, a glance at the rest of the month makes for much glee. Mid-terms are non-existent for at least a four week period, allowing for rehabilitation necessitated by over-indulgence in the book world.

REST IN PEACE

To top it all off, though, a look at the social calendar shows three beautiful blank spots which designate official and complete days of rest for the over-worked campus populace or in other words—holidays.

For the fairer sex, Saturday of this week packs a big punch. Yep, them thar gals what needs a feller real bad just gotta get them ole limbs flexed up and chase some poor guy 'til he drops daid from lack of wind.

Sadie Hawkins Day is always good for chuckles, and it looks as though the resident women are all set for the big push.

One thing for sure though. By the time the 27th rolls around, we'll all know whether or not to take our pom-poms south with our rambling gridders for the battle of the roses.

By now, the effects of receiving midterm-grades have worn off, and that state of book store and fountaineering is in full swing once more. Along with the intensified interest in the social realm comes the ever-ready King-Queen election campaigning.

PIN THEM DOWN

The pin wearers usually run hog wild in this affair. It works like this. The Tappa Kegs unite and poll their masculine vote in favor of a Gotta Getta Kuy gull. To carry the buddy-buddy theme through, the Gotta Getta Kuys throw their weight behind Tappa Kegs stalwart, thereby insuring each representative of a fairly good showing.

Of course, there comes along once in a great while some cat with about five semesters of social climbing who swings a ballot box full of verifiers to prove his popularity among the other sex. It's an oddity but it's happened.

Still, if the purpose of this farce is to select a representative royal coupfe from the Soph class, it seems as though the poor intellect who is a bonafide sophomore with only two previous semesters of toil, hasn't got a chance against a four to six semester socialite who just barely scraped up the needed 24 units in a real cute manner.

Rhumba Keynotes So. American Dance

Rhumbas and tangoes will be featured at A Tropical Night, Latin American Club dance, to be presented Friday, November 12, from 8 to 12 p.m. in the west campus auditorium, according to William Zamora, club president.

Tickets priced at 75 cents a couple may be purchased either at the college bank, in Room 4b, from any club member, or at the door.

Both American and Latin music will be played, but emphasis will be on Latin music with prizes being awarded to winners of Rhumba and tango contests, Zamora added.

Council Stages Money Bout At Thursday Meet

Financial bouts, refereed by acting President Pete Isola, substituting for President Frank Ferguson who is attending the Junior College student government conference, were the main events at Thursday's Student Council meeting.

The first money problem posed was whether the council could appropriate $20 to send a college press representative to cover the Los Angeles-Rams football game.

The second problem was the payment for the missing bicycle. This would cost the Associated Students $75 but would be returned when the bike is found.

Dedication Of Hurley Playground In Sight

Veterans' children will be swinging and sliding at Hurley Village Playground in approximately one month, Arthur James, new student manager at the village, revealed yesterday.

Official dedication day has not been set as yet, but it is believed the "big day" will occur in the latter part of the month.

Local Veteran Administration Hopes For Earlier Mailing Of Subsistence Checks

Because of the heavy veteran demand for subsistence checks, the Veterans Administration will procede to mail some 4500 checks out earlier this month, according to Robert P. Shields, Regional Manager of this section.

Those veterans who have already received a notice, notifying them they would receive their allowance on or before November 15, or December 5, will in the most part receive them at an earlier date—probably this week.

This week has been established as red letter week for many other veterans.

Those veterans who do not receive their checks by the date specified on the notifications which they have already received are asked to wait until they received the check.

However, Shields requested that any veterans who fail to receive the check by the date indicated, notify the veterans administration here on the campus immediately.

An estimated minority, one-half of one per cent, will be taken care of as promptly as possible though.

Floral Group Exhibits Display At Spring Show

City College Floriculture department will participate in the annual Garden and Flower Show which will be held in April-May, 1949, John Lawrence, head of the department, said yesterday.

At the flower show of 1947, which was the college's first post-war display, the Flower Shop and the Horticulture Society received a first award.

In spring, 1948, the floral classes were awarded two first awards and one third-place ribbon, plus $230.

This year the department, working hard to continue the tradition, has selected "Century of Gardens" as its theme, Lawrence added.

Turkey Strut Opens Masonic Club Season

Introducing its social season, the Masonic Club will hold its first annual dance, Turkey Strut, Saturday, November 13, in the student lounge, beginning at 9 p.m., Evelyn Martin, president, announced today.

The semi-formal affair is open to both couples and single persons, but 75 cents a person will be charged for tickets, which may be obtained at the door, the campus bank or from club members on campus.

Winners of the door prizes will be awarded denominations of ten, five, and one dollar bills, Miss Martin continued.

All students are invited to attend the dance and are urged to purchase tickets early.

Members of the dance committee are Larry Walwrath, Hal Eisert, and Floyd Parks.

New Classrooms Mark West Campus Expansion

Opening of eight class rooms on the west campus was announced yesterday by the college controller, Oscar E. Anderson.

"The new class rooms are on the second floor of building six. The first floor in that building will remain as the center for the distribution of veterans' supplies.

Headquarters for the college yearbook will be in building six also. Room 6R has been designated to house the yearbook activities.

An effort is being made to revamp the stage in the Little Theatre, Anderson added.

Triple Event Social Week

Wire Recorder To Provide Music At Turkey Strut Dance

Dancing to the music of a wire recorder will feature Turkey Strut, the first annual Masonic Club dance, presented tomorrow night in the student lounge from 9 to 12 o'clock.

Club President Evelyn Martin announced that bids, 75 cents a couple, are on sale at the college bank, in Room 4b, by club members, and will be sold at the door.

Contrary to a previous announcement, the door prizes will be five, three and one dollar denominations.

Dance committee members are Harry Walwrath, Hal Eisert and Floyd Parks. Douglas Atherton is the sponsor of the Masonic Club.

Attire for the semi-formal affair is casual, Miss Martin declared.

Music will be furnished by a home recorder machine, which is donated by one of the club members.

Masonic Club officers are Miss Martin, president; Bert Hale, vice-president; and Dorris Doyle, secretary.

Alumni Association Schedules Meeting

The use and privileges of Associated Students cards and an alumni monthly publication will be discussed at the City College Alumni Association Board of Directors' dinner-business meeting at the Hunters Point Officers' Club Tuesday night, November 16, Jack Hagan, alumni relations director, disclosed today.

Hagan said that "matters of common interest with the college and alumni and a tentative agenda planned for the purpose of discussing alumni election procedure" will also be considered.

A planned alumni page has been submitted by Hagan for the City College yearbook.

The dinner marks the formal organization of a permanently directed alumni association here.

Extend Yearbook Name Contest One Week

A one-week extension was added to the yearbook name contest to allow more time for submission of prospective titles, according to Editor Bob McVey, with deadline date set for November 30.

The contest, now entering its second week, is open to all students with the winner receiving all the milkshakes he can consume at one sitting at a local fountain.

Entries should be turned in at the Associated Student office, McVey added, and the decision of the yearbook staff will be final. A request for informal snaps about the campus was also issued by the staff.

Associated Women Students Plan Tea Here Thursday

High school seniors and their advisers will be honored guests at a traditional tea to be given here Thursday, November 18, Marilee Zimmerman, Associated Women Students president, stated today.

The semi-annual event, which will last from 2:45 to 4:15 p.m., will be held in the student lounge, Miss Zimmerman added.

The teas are held every semester in order to acquaint prospective students with City College instructors as well as women students. All present women students as well as faculty members are invited to attend the affair.

Officers of the AWS, as well as Dean of Women, Margaret Dougherty, are combining to make this tea a success. AWS officers for this semester are Miss Zimmerman, president; Corinne Lambert, vice-president; Claire Toth, recording secretary; and Florence Centararo, corresponding secretary.

Clubs Meet Today In College Hour

After an absence of three weeks, club meetings will again be featured during college hour, 10:40 a.m. today, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

Clubs will meet in rooms assigned them this semester.

Brady also disclosed that a rally for the City College-Stockton game is slated for the auditorium next Friday, November 19. It will be the Rams' first home game, following two road engagements.

College Daze Shows 400 Dollar Profit

The gross proceeds from the faculty show, College Daze, were estimated yesterday at 625 dollars by Thomas Porter, Faculty Association president.

Out of this total must come 125 dollars for taxes and approximately 100 dollars for other expenses, Porter announced that the final profit will be about 400 dollars.

The band received 125 dollars for its trip to Salinas yesterday for the Ram-Hartnell game and that still leaves 275 dollars in the treasury.

The Faculty Association will vote soon either to use some of the money to purchase a spotlight for rental by college organizations or to put the total into a loan fund, Porter said.

Requests by students for a repeat performance were being considered by the Faculty committee, Porter said, with possibilities of a second performance likely next spring.

Tangos, Rumbas On Schedule For Latin American Club Hop

Tangos, sambas, rumbas, and congas will be featured at A Tropical Night, a semi-formal dance presented by the Latin American Club tonight from 8 to 12 in the campus auditorium.

William Zamora, president of the club, announced that the American and Latin music will be played by Efren Jimenez and his music makers.

Tonight is the night for Latin-American dance fans to shine, for emphasis will be on Latin-American music.

Bids, 75 cents a couple, may be obtained at the door, at the college bank, and from club members, Zamora said.

Prizes will be awarded to the winning couples of the rumba and tango dance contests. Contest and door prizes will be kept secret until tonight.

During intermission a floor show will be staged. To give college students a chance to see the entertainment presented on Friday night, the show will be presented during the next college hour in the bonfire rally site on west campus.

Harvest Moon Ball Set For Next Friday

Featuring the harvest moon as a theme, the Associated Students will present a Harvest Moon ball in the campus auditorium on Friday, November 19, Ben Groger, Associated Student vice-president, announced today.

The dance, co-sponsored by faculty members Irene Mensing and Joseph Amori, will be a bi-building affair, utilizing the auditorium for the dance proper, and the student lounge for the serving of refreshments.

Members of the social committee responsible for the planning of the dance are Dick Fetherstonhaugh, Money Hickman, Marilee Zimmerman and Pete Isola. The committee is headed by Miss Groger.

Dancing is free to Associated Student members.

Four Clubs Fail To Apply For Charters

Four clubs have been denied advantages of the Club Advisory Board because of their failure to apply for charters at the last meeting of the council on November 1, Jim Davis, president, said today.

Clubs that were deprived of access to publicity or representation in college events include Alpha Delta Epsilon, Lambda Alpha, the Ski Rams, and Omicron Phi Pi, the economics honor society, Davis added.

Versatile John Lord To Star In The Man Who Came To Dinner

By Ross Price

When Kaufmann and Hart's laugh-provoking comedy, The Man Who Came to Dinner, starts its six day run Thursday night, December 2, it will star John Lord as Sheridan Whiteside.

Lord, who is starting his matriculation at City College this semester, intends to spend 18 years pursuing knowledge.

After 18 years at institutions of higher learning, he hopes to become a screen writer and director. He has had experience in this field, having been an "un-screened screen writer for six months."

The 33-year-old thespian spent a good deal of his Army career in Hawaii, where he acted with Maurice Evans and Judith Anderson in a G.I. version of Macbeth.

When Evans produced an Army hit called Hey, Mac! in Hawaii, Lord composed a song for it titled, It Raises Hell with Discipline. But It's Marvelous For Morale, which became the highlight of the show.

He has written eight unpublished novels and six unproduced plays, but stepped into the limelight when his book, Where To Sin In San Francisco, was published in November, 1939.

The book, which has had six printings to date, is a racy satire on night life in San Francisco, and was compiled while Lord was night life editor of Coast Magazine.

To add to his versatility, Lord has been, at one time or another, editor of the Midpacific an, war-time Army newspaper, which was second only to Stars and Stripes in circulation; editor of the Ie Shima Daily News, which was a mimeographed paper receiving its information by wireless, and was published in an old Indian tomb on Ie Shima, and a radio writer and advertising manager for coast to coast radio shows.

At present, Lord, who is raising a beard for his role as Whiteside, is living with his charming wife, Ruth, and two daughters Kathleen 5, and Rebecca 4, in Hurley Village.

AS THE GUARDSMAN goes to press just a wee bit too soon to get the results of the game played yesterday at Salinas by our brave heroes of the gridiron, we have decided to run a picture of last year's game.

In this contest, Hartnell dropped us by a 27 to 7 count, but we hoped we won yesterday. In case you are interested in who won, just drop into The Guardsman and someone will whisper the results to you.

Another reliable source would be Dean Jack Brady over in Building 2.

Anyway, happy Armistice Day, a day late.

Opera Workshop To Feature Melodrama At Concert

Amid tear jerkings and laughs, the Opera Workshop performers will present an old-fashioned melodrama entitled An Operatic Extract in a concert Tuesday, November 23, in the campus auditorium, according to Flossita Badger, workshop director.

Stars in this three-act operatic travesty by Frederick Root are Jean Welton as the princess with Bruce Millar as the faithful prince. Jack Aaroe will be the ever-present villain, and the good fairy is sung by Patricia Fitzgerald.

Chorus members giving support to the grand opera burlesque are Gladys Amburn, David Arrillaga, Richard Agee, Mildred Benninghoff, Irene Boullet, Tony Chevas, Eugene Dupuis, Nancy Durkee, Carolyn Herfield, Lillian Moeller, Eileen Scott, Joan Setlow, June Stigen, Margaret Steinhauser, Carolyn Reiss, Sarah Taft, Betty Tomkinson, Bob Sherratt, Robert Way, and Leon Wait.

A Russian folk tune, Song of the Volga Boatmen, to be sung by Aaroe, bass, will introduce the solo selections. Other soloists include Miss Amburn, soprano, who will sing Granada while attired in a Spanish costume, and a soprano solo entitled If I Were on the Stage will be sung by Miss Herfield. Wanting You, a duo from New Moon by Romberg, will feature Miss Boullet, soprano, and Sherratt, baritone.

Admission to the production is by invitation only, and tickets may be secured from the telephone operator in the main building, the music department in building one, or The Guardsman office.

Sale Of Cafe Script Books Starts Nov. 19

Cafeteria scrip books will go on sale next Friday from 8:15 to 9:45 every morning except Wednesday in the Hotel and Restaurant Division office.

To purchase a scrip book an authorization must be secured from Dean Edward E. Sandys stating that the student lives either in Hurley Village or on the campus.

The cafeteria management class announced that a scrip book costs $10 and has a purchase power of $11.

Subsequent books may be purchased when the previous book is presented. Coupons are not to be detached. Scrip books are non-transferable, and must be signed by the owner.

Midterms Available

Mid-term grades not picked up at the regular distribution Thursday, November 4, can be obtained at the counselling office, Building 3, E. Grant Marsh, coordinator of counselling, said today.

Students may pick them up during the hours of 8:30 to 9 a.m. and 4 to 5 p.m., Marsh said.

Earn As You Learn Plan For Students

By Dick Briggs

Voicing unanimous accord for a student earn-as-you-learn program, selected labor and employer representatives adjourned from a special luncheon with faculty members Tuesday, to plan specifications for a new system to be invoked in the Retail Department next semester.

A temporary committee was appointed from the faculty and guests to consider the best method of incorporating a workable procedure in allowing students academic credit for merchandising work in professional firms.

The new setup will be organized to give the student maximum professional experience, and still not cause inconvenience to the scheduled work routine of firms or unions. Those interested must enroll in the Retail Merchandising course.

Personnel directors and labor leaders present extended zealous encouragement to college administrators and sponsors of the plan for their efforts toward improving employee preparation.

Samuel Ziegler, retail department instructor and indoctrinator of the proposal, gave an overview talk in prescribing definite regulations which will later be voted for approval.

Ziegler advocated granting of college credit to students performing supervised outside work. Salaries paid to men on the part-time work program will be determined by prevailing union scales.

W. G. Desepte, Retail Grocery Clerks' Union, impressed by the potentialities the new system offered, stated emphatically, "We will give every student special preparation in assisting him to gain satisfactory employment."

As utmost cooperation from all unions is vital to success, Desepte's announcement was an indication how other unions may welcome the plan.

Earl Johnson, personnel director Cecil Drug Company, expressed the opinion of other representative when he concurred, "This program is an important step in promoting higher employee standards, and our firm will be pleased to aid your endeavors in any possible way."

A new approach to the subject was perceived when Joseph Amori, college placement director, stressed his opinion: "Considering the number of persons placed each semester, many are qualified for leadership. Employers are interested in procuring men who intend staying on the job after graduation."

Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president, welcomed the guests and turned the meeting over to the faculty, which included James Hughes and Grant Marsh.

What's This? Painting On The Campus Again! Ho-Hum

UPON entering the west campus Wednesday morning, there appeared neatly painted on the Ram a few inscriptions urging Hartnell College to defeat City College of San Francisco.

Also on the shack by the west campus gate, various other notices appeared that Hartnell was desirous of winning the game yesterday.

The Guardsman wishes to commend the artists for their fine job of lettering. In fact the job was so good, an impartial observer would quickly assume that there must have been a full moon shining Tuesday night.

(Or maybe some students were full of moon shine.)

In any event the painters were very considerate and did not travel up to the main building and slosh their brushes on the limestone exterior.

If our memory serves us correctly, in 1942 the Santa Rosa painting class ventured down from the sticks and proceeded to add moustaches and what-nots to the statues of Edison and Da Vinci at the back of the main building.

And in the Fall of 1946, Thomas Alva and Leonardo still possessed a slight moustache and what-nots.

In other words, it took four years to get most of the paint off the limestone of which the main building is constructed.

Therefore, we wish to thank the boys with the brushes for not defacing the main building.

In fact, the painting was done in such good, wholesome spirit and on such symbols as editorially urged in The Guardsman, that it seems that it just might possibly have been some students of City College.

To illuminate the situation further, we have information from an impeachable source that with the aid of a flashlight, certain members of this college actually did do the painting.

But what the heck. It raised spirit, got more people to the game, and it was fun!

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

FEATURING the return of the native, "A Travesty in Five Episodes" was the billing for the City College faculty's production of College Daze, presented last Thursday eve.

The return of the natives brought back to old, home territory — namely, the stage — three prominent college instructors, Flossita Badger, Lloyd Sisler, and Paul Ellison. Miss Badger is director of the music department while Mr. Sisler acts as drama department director.

Mr. Ellison, also, is prominent in the drama department as an instructor.

Miss Badger and Mr. Sisler, in their take-offs from the Vagabond King show, were brilliant in their burlesque of Katherine and Francois, respectively. Those with musically attuned ears found Miss Badger's high "C's" triumphantly turbulent. Actually, she can really handle the vocal cords!

Drama Instructor Ellison's role as the student-victimized prof in the "Class (un)Conscious" episode, proved him able both as actor and instructor of the course. Ellison's class of English students was played by prominent faculty members . . . all letting their hair down in roles of what the average prof contends with daily.

Our favorite "small men in gym suits," Maurice "Muscles" Power, Mervin Slosberg, and Russell Posner, represented the less rugged sophomore Physical Ed students in "Bodies by Fischer."

Roy Burkhead, Jack Gaddy, and Mr. Ellison characterized rough football stars, but had to bow down to diminutive Betty Heckman as the champion weight lifter.

Registration day woes were epitomized in "Foggy Day on Campus" with Waddington Blair and Mary Jane Learnard as counselor and head registrar, respectively.

The battle of the student budget was evinced in the student council scene. Placement director in official college life, Joe Amori, played the Associated Student President with faculty members parodying student leaders in their roles as council members.

The travesty's five episodes were held together with the narration by Douglas Soule while a men's quartette added to the general antics of the production.

Written and produced by Luther Lyon and William Culver, respectively, (and thrown together by the cast) the all-faculty production of College Daze played to an SRO audience.

No vestige of college life was omitted from the burlesque, nor were any chuckles omitted by the appreciative audience.

Bachelors! Head For The Hills!

"GAD, SADIE HAWKINS DAY... IS THAT WHAT THEY CALL IT?"

McGurgle Proclaims Sadie Hawkins Week

By Dick Brennan

This is Head For The Hills week for City College bachelors. Sadie Hawkins is the reason track shoes are in order, and if you don't know what Sadie Hawkins means you'd better find out.

A proclamation, straight from Mayor Prometheus, mayor of Dogpatch, warns all Ramland men what ain't married that doomsday is Saturday, November 13.

Whereas there be inside our campus limits a passel of gals what ain't married but craves something awful to be, and

Whereas these gals' pappies and mammies have been shouldering the burden of their board and keep for more years than is tolerable, and

Whereas there be in Rumland plenty of young men what could marry these gals but acts ornery and won't, and

Whereas we deems matrimony's joys and being sure of eating regular the birthright of our fair Ramland womanhood,

We hereby proclaims and decrees that it is every man for himself, and may the best man lose.

All unmarried gals may chase the unmarried men and if they ketch them, the men by law must marry the gals and no two ways about it. This is a terrible situation and no two ways about that either.

This all came about because of one Hekzebiah Hawkins, first mayor of Dogpatch, a man who had more power than Boulder Dam.

He was determined to get a husband for his homely daughter, Sadie, and not only resorted to law to do it but wrote the law himself. As any fool can plainly see, this is a dangerous situation.

Letters to the Editor

(Editor's Note: Letters to the editor may be left with the telephone operator in the main building or in The Guardsman office in Bldg. 12. Deadlines are noon on Monday and Wednesday. If so desired the author's name will be withheld but the author must be known to the editor.)

● 'Fine Faculty!'

Editor, The Guardsman:

This is a letter of lamentation for all the poor individuals who missed that spectacular production—College Daze! I was overwhelmed! By far, it was the best show of its type ever arranged and held on campus. The school spirit exhibited by the faculty was terrific. If the students had one iota of the faculty's spirit, as shown last night, this school would be what it should be. A Fine Faculty, all right!

In appreciation,
Pat Crowley

● Faculty: 'Fine!'

Editor, The Guardsman:

On behalf of the Faculty Association, I should like to express our appreciation of the valuable assistance rendered by many of our students in connection with our efforts to present College Daze.

Once again through their enterprise in selling tickets, their cooperation in attending our play, and their publicity work, the students as individuals and as members of organizations have made another dramatic success possible.

Yours very truly,
Maurice Power

● Thanks

Editor, The Guardsman:

The Block Society desires to extend its thanks to Dean Dougherty, Mr. Fraden, Mr. Culver, Mr. Paciotti, Dr. Porter and to the student body for making their dance a success.

Al Athanasopulos,
Block President

● What Mistake?

Editor, The Guardsman:

On your November 2 issue, on page three, you committed a mistake which does not only plague you, but also does to many a "credited newspaper." The fault: you subordinated the importance of the soccer game news to an ad by the Family Ice Cream Store. How? By simply cutting the news a goodly number of lines at least. Did our team tie the score 2-2, or lose it 2-1?

I think I could have given a better account of the game, that is, unless you explain to me how the first goal was made in the second half if five minutes before the end of the first half the score was in the Indians' favor by one goal.

Do not only give a break to football; soccer is a game just as rough and thrilling, that merits true press attention.

Ben Kerbel

Editor's Note: Kerbel pulled a barbel. Clearly stated in the lead paragraph was the final score of this contest. However, Reader Kerbel does have a good point. We do try to give soccer a break, and perhaps we have been donating too much space to football.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jim Baker

(Editor's Note: The deadlines for club news are Wednesday noon for Tuesday's paper and Monday noon for Friday's paper; material accepted at The Guardsman.)

● CCSF Band: There will be a meeting during college hour today and an executive meeting is scheduled every Tuesday at 1:30 p.m.

● Collegiate Christian Fellowship: Continues its study of John's gospel every Friday at college hour in Room 200. Next Tuesday afternoon there will be a meeting in Room 1A at 3 p.m. There will be a guest speaker.

● Engineering Society: During today's college hour a movie on the building of the Bay Bridge will be shown; before the movie there will be a short business meeting.

● Forum Club: A meeting will be held tonight at 8 p.m. at 723-38th Avenue. The topic for disscussion will be "Should the Un-American Activities Committee Be Discontinued?" Pro and con will be argued and the club invites all interested students to attend.

● Masonic Club: All members attend the meeting today during college hour in Room 113.

● Mu Iota Psi: Meeting today in Room 1A during college hour. A meeting is also scheduled for Monday evening at 7:30 p.m. at 260 San Fernando Way. There will be a musical program.

● Ski Rams: A pre-season social party will take place at the home of Hank Gumple, 2460 Lyon Street tomorrow.

'The Duke' Claims College Thespians

Grease paint and the lure of footlights reached into the campus this week.

Two promising City College thespians, Tony M'Grath and Robert Jones, head the cast of the latest San Francisco Municipal Theatre production, The Duke of Sacramento, now holding forth at the Bay Theatre.

Both M'Grath and Jones play gentlemen of leisure of the gold rush era in this humorous old melodrama. Costumed in the finest style of 1890, and acting in the over-exaggerated manner reminiscent of The Drunkard, both students prove a credit to the local drama department.

M'Grath plays what amounts to the lead as Charles Operator, a nefarious villain and the manager of the Ever-Flowing Gold Quartz Co. Jones plays a smaller supporting role but leaves no doubt that he is capable of much more.

Both students are speech majors and both will appear in the forthcoming City College production of The Man Who Came to Dinner.

Rams Should Have Own Bowl: Ira Blue

By Johnnie Dorris

Be it a Dust Bowl, Rose Bowl, or Finger Bowl, everybody has a bowl but City College.

Once a year bowl games have occurred for more than 20 years, and City College, not wanting to be different, now wants one too.

Not only does "Ramland" want one, but Ira Blue, local sports commentator on KGO, thinks it should have one.

It seems that Blue has been following the progress of the local gridiron boys pretty closely, and is now convinced that their record shows them deserving of something more than just a mere championship.

He has meanwhile noticed his readiness to support a move to establish a local bowl game in San Francisco.

By Walt Roessing

COMPTON now has the inside track to the Little Rose Bowl game, the southland reporters feel.

One reporter wrote in his daily column recently, "Compton is considered the California of the two-year colleges while City College of San Francisco is the Oregon."

Of course, these Los Angeles sports writers are more likely to vote for one of their own local colleges in the Pasadena classic.

Compton, where the football players are allegedly paid to play, isn't likely to lose a contest this season, but if they do, you can't tell who may get the nod to the Junior college bowl.

NEW BOWL OFFER

The Rams have received feelers from another bowl which will be played on the night of December 11, the same date as the Little Rose Bowl is being contested.

The new bowl is the "Gold Dust Bowl" and will be held at Corbus Field in Vallejo between a top southern California two-year college and an outstanding Northern California opponent.

A substantial guarantee is offered the participants, and the red-and-white locals have sent a letter of notification to Vallejo, that they will accept the bid to play there, if they don't go to the Little Rose Bowl.

200 ROOTERS

Almost 200 City College rooters were present at last week's grid encounter at Los Angeles, which clearly shows the interest by the local students in the football team, no matter where the contest is played.

Some faithful followers of the local gridiron express went down to the contest in cars and by plane.

A full carload of rooters went down of the Daylight Saturday morning with the team, and a good time was had by all.

Local Gridders Host Stockton Cub Threat

City College's gridiron powerhouse will attempt to add another victim to its long list this Friday, when it clashes with a strong Stockton Cub eleven at Kezar Stadium at 2:30 p.m.

The Rams will face a team with an outstanding passing attack for the third straight week.

All-Conference candidate Ollie Matson will again lead the locals in quest of an impressive triumph. Co-captains Ben Albrecht and Burl Toler will lead the defensive slants of the local gridders.

Stockton will attempt to stop the City College gridiron express from fattening its seasonal average in this Friday's contest.

The Rams and the Cubs played to a standoff last year at Stockton, the final score being 6-6.

Diederichsen Awaits Varsity Fight Opener

Varsity boxing coach Roy Diederichsen looked hopefully today toward City College's forthcoming fistic campaign which will be inaugurated with the locals hosting San Francisco State's squad of scrappers on December 7.

Doubly blessed with a tentative schedule that would do justice to any intercollegiate team, and bolstered by the enthusiastic turnout of virtually every member of last season's crack group, the former San Jose State lightheavyweight would appear to be justified.

Ram Heads Win Intra Cage Title

By Frank Galo

The heavily favored Ram Heads captured the intramural basketball championship by downing a stubborn Balboa Alumni Athletic Club, 32-28, in an overtime contest Monday afternoon, before the largest crowd of the season in the men's gymnasium.

Ralph Hillsman's much feared Ram Heads were composed of local All-City stars and potential varsity men.

Members include Bob Matheny and Doug Truehsen, Lowell; Les Brilliant, Lincoln; Milt Kaffen, Washington; Ray White, Poly; and Kevin Duggan, Commerce. This aggregation limited its opponents to 68 points in their six-game schedule.

Don Frieke was the star of the Balboa five in the title contest, scoring 18 of the team's 28 points. Other Balboans were Irv Thomas, Leo Buciarelli, Lou Pisani, Don Lakin, Rudy Pfister, and Harvey Roscelli.

Only a missed free throw with seconds to go in the game cost Balboa the upset of the year.

The Ram Heads, aided by Duggan's 13 points, entered the finals by virtue of their 41-37 win over the Loopsters. Marty Schneider tallied 18 digits for the losers. Bucciarelli's 17 points were enough for Balboa to down a fighting Tri Epsilon five, 44-28, in the semi-finals.

In the championship game, the score remained at 28-28 at the end of the regular time.

Duggan's hook shot and Matheny's two charity tosses in the overtime assured Hillsman's boys of championship buckles. Medals will go to the Balboa crew.

San Mateo Site For WAA Sports Day

Women interested in attending a Sports Day at San Mateo Junior College on Tuesday, November 16, are expected to inform Gloria Swiecgood, advisor, in the women's gymnasium. Jean Sliter, Women's Athletic Association vice-president, stated today.

Badminton, tennis, and volleyball will be featured games in the affair which will last from 3:30 to 6:30 p.m.

Ram Soccermen Favorites To Whip Cal Aggies Tomorrow

Favored to take their next game of the season, the local soccer team will tangle with the California Aggies from Davis tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Beach Chalet.

In their last contest with the Aggies, Coach Roy Diederichsen's men made a second half comeback after trailing 2-0 and came out a 7-2 victor.

To date the Rams are tied for third place with the Stanford Indians from Palo Alto while the Aggies recently upset USF, 2-1.

All-conference Potentialities Francis Granadino and Victor Solorzano will lead the City College eleven.

Center Forward Rudy Nevhaus spearheads the visitors' one-man attack.

Defensive stars for the red and white City College hilltoppers are centerhalf, Marino Mangiola; goalie, Rene Giron, and fullbacks, George Volkoff and Decker.

Gold Dust Invites Rams

Vallejo, Nov. 8— Invitations to participate in a Gold Dust Bowl game, Saturday, December 11, between a Southern and Northern California team, were sent last week to seven colleges including City College of San Francisco and Hartnell.

Novice Belters Set For Three Day Do Or Die Proceedings

With the anything can happen and usually does atmosphere hovering over the hostile but competitive premises, the "simon pures" will hold the spotlight as they trek ringward en masse in quest of intramural distinction commencing Monday at 3:15 p.m.

Location for the bouts is the men's gymnasium.

Throwing caution and all the other varieties of ring repertoire to the winds, an estimated 50 novice battlers will don the gloves in the Fall semester's version of the traditionally colorful and action packed clout contests which hold three-day priority in pugilism's tourney of the unpredictables.

Trial eliminations will be in process during Monday and Tuesday afternoon preliminary seedings which will be climaxed Wednesday night when the fortunate finalists will vie for the coveted division laurels.

Varsity managers are putting the finishing touches on their fistic charges with added zeal in the hope that their tutoring will be realized when their entries emerge on the victorious side.

Riotous antics, ranging from the crafty combat of belting bantams to the extreme awkwardness of the big guns of the rock 'em sock 'em heavyweight variety, should provide local fight tilterts with plenty of never say die entertainment.

Among the dark horses who as possible kingpins when the clamorous campaigning is concluded are 120-pounders Al Chappuis and Milt Wolf; lightweights Wayne Bartlett, John Droceo, and Jake Hernandez; welter hopefuls Jack Gelb, Kurt Eichold, and Dick Massei; Tom Panages, Bob Horn, Harry Burns, and Larry Schubert, 155-pound challengers.

In the heavier brackets, lightheavies Jerry Cepernich, Merrill Cummings, Bernard Kelly, and Dick Barry should be in the midst of the minglings, while Fred Curley, Herb Andrews, and towering Jim O'Hare stand out as heavyweight threats.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

AFTER hours on campus means very little to the average stroller of the local halls of knowledge, except for occasional social kicks, but to the domesticated barracks dwellers it's entirely another world.

Soon after the last of the horde of intellects has hoarded his "K" car and headed homeward, a squadron of monoplane type seagulls roars over the CCSF parade ground for a session of bombardment drills.

Along with this devastating attack comes an impromptu clean-up detail in the form of the same low flying birdies who swoop down on every morsel which has thoughtfully been left on the west campus for just such a purpose.

ANOTHER COLD WAR

With the departure of said visitors via the airways, the famous and never-to-be-denied fog of San Francisco, along with a sizable headwind as a chaser, arrives in full force.

Bending their brain invested brows to the blasting winds, the Barracksters head for one of the proving grounds for the culinary art which is found atong Ocean Avenue.

Among the obstacles encountered in this venture, other than the perennial lack of funds from a grateful government, is the dodging of neophyte auto drivers who take their afternoon rides around the campus highways. The local learn-as-you-go driving course is way ahead of similar downtown institutions which do not feature nice new Ford products.

Of course, some of the lesser campus set, without funds and at the mercy of Uncle Sam's discretion, take the shorter trek to the cafeteria for their daily vitamins.

Having had their fling at eating out for the week, the more eager type return to their homey cubicles where, with the best of intentions, they fall asleep after a fast chapter on "How To Do Your Weekly Wash."

But as life would have it, the arrival of a neighboring character in search of friendship rouses the sleepy one from his moment of relaxation and brings him back to the happy state of affairs in his little hacienda.

CUT UP CAPERS

Amid the current rage of football spirit a common occurrence among the bar-racketeers is a red hot detail drawing guard duty at various spots about the campus to repulse any attempted "invasions."

The Waldorfians have been in a state of mourning since their one outlet for physical education, a ping pong table, was wrested from its plush surroundings in order to make room for an extra classroom.

The blare of a nearby radio, the nightly record sessions, the weekly wash, and even the lure of intellectual conversation, all tend to make life in the barracks somewhat shinorackerish."

New Government Ideas Discussed At Fresno

Associated Student representatives returned Monday from the California Junior College Student Government Conference at Fresno with new ideas for the operation of student governments.

In a conference with other junior colleges the organization of an alumni association and the matter of yearbooks were discussed, George Capanis declared, to gain a better perspective of this college's problems in the development of these two projects.

"Our purpose in Fresno was not only to gather information, but also to outline our system of student government," Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, said.

King, Queen Candidates Number 14 As Sophomore Election Date Nears

Application deadline for the Sophomore King and Queen contest has been definitely set for Monday, November 15, and any entries handed in subsequent to this date will not be considered.

At last count, eight queen and six king aspirants were entered in competition.

The eight candidates for queen are Phyllis Ryan, Marvelle Sneider, Mary Ann Stewart, Gloria Beetz, Muriel Schumacher, Veronica Morrison, Inge Menders, and Elgene Wheeler.

The contestants for male honors are Bill Koenig, Oliver Bascom, Ben Clothier, Doug Wilson, Larry Wakefield, and Hank Schaffner.

Anyone entered in the contest whose name does not appear on the above list should notify Dick Fetherstonhaugh in the Associated Student office in Building 2 immediately.

To be eligible for this affair, a student must have at least 24 units to his credit.

Only one member from each college club is eligible for entry, but all other sophomores not connected with a campus organization are encouraged to participate, Fetherstonhaugh said.

The election of the king and queen will take place on Thursday and Friday, December 2 and 3, in the student lounge.

The winning couple will be presented at the Sophomore Formal on Saturday, January 29, at the Oakland Scottish Rite auditorium.

Pick And Hammer Club Hears Yeager

Members of the Pick and Hammer club, City College Geology Society, had as guest speaker at their monthly meeting, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Green, sponsor, Dodd Yeager, regional naturalist for the National Park Service.

Yeager spoke about Olympic National Park, in particular. After his discussion two reels of colored pictures, which were taken by the Park Service at Olympic National Park, were shown.

Discharge Needed For Vet Credit Evaluation

Veterans may have their military credits evaluated by going to Building 3, second floor south, in the Veterans Administration center, counseling officials said today.

Veterans are expected to report with a copy of their discharge, or form 553 if Navy, and form 100 if Army. The staff will be at the veterans disposal from Monday, November 15, to Friday, November 19.

Those who have attended other colleges are requested to bring along transcripts.

Potential Profs To Organize Club

Reformers and conservatives who find fallacies in the teaching profession may join an organization being formed at the college for those interested in becoming teachers.

The program consists of inviting prominent educators and speakers to participate in meetings where present education practices will be discussed.

Future meetings are being planned for college hour in Room 3E. Adolph Stoll may be located in Building 3 for further information.

Wild Drivers Plan Reform As Ten Policemen Join Campus Force

By Palmer Cramer

No marching steps, nor rattle of machine guns, nor screaming sirens announced the addition of 10 new campus police officers to the ranks of the City College constabulary, Monday, November 1.

Swelling to 16 the number of Special Police Officers on the campus, the ten new members bode ill for any offenders of campus regulations.

Fully armed with pencils and traffic citation books, these students in law enforcement are on the lookout for parking violators.

In the good old days it was possible to keep ahead of the campus police, but now it appears that the local "crime wave" is about to receive a working over.

No longer will a person be able to dodge behind masses of students and make his get-away. There will be too many representatives of law and order to surround and apprehend him in his life of crime.

To be realistic about it, the campus underworld is through. Peace loving campus citizens can now feel assured that their lives are secure.

Speedsters, dig-out artists and women drivers are warned that no breach of law will be disregarded.

By the way, does anyone know where a ticket may be "fixed?"

Rams Accept Bid To Gold Dust Bowl

By Herb Levy, Editor

Climaxing the most successful football season in City College history, the Ram grid team was selected yesterday as the Northern representative in the first annual Gold Dust Bowl.

At the same time, Chaffey Junior College was named the Southern representative and accepted the Gold Dust Bowl invitation.

Chaffey boasts a Little Rose Bowl record in 1947, and has suffered one defeat this year.

The intersectional contest, between the Northern and Southern two-year colleges, will be played at Corbus Field in Vallejo, Saturday night, December 11. Kickoff is at 8 p.m.

Official word was flashed from the game sponsors, the 20-30 Club of Vallejo, to Dr. J. Paul Mohr early last week that City College had been selected.

Signing of contracts, that will assure City College of a $1500 guarantee, were effected in Dr. Mohr's office late yesterday.

Final word as to the Southern choice is expected some time next week.

Plans for the selling of tickets were already being put into operation. It is expected that Corbus Field, with a seating capacity of 10,000, will be sold out far in advance.

(No definite word has been received as to the number or the price of tickets that will be available to City College students.)

From some quarters on the campus, there was a feeling of disappointment, that the Ram football team was not offered a bid to the Little Rose Bowl game, which is played in Pasadena the same day as the Gold Dust Bowl.

(However, it was pointed out that the Little Rose Bowl selections will be made November 26. It is generally conceded that Compton J.C. will receive the bid to represent the West.)

Clauses in the Gold Dust Bowl contract assure City College participation in the game, regardless of the outcome of the remaining three games on the schedule.

Today at 2:30, the Rams entertain Stockton at Kezar, and travel to Modesto next Saturday, and Menlo J.C., December 4.

Guardsman Executive Plays Reporter Role In Comedy 'The Man Who Came To Dinner'

An unusual event came to light here this week when Guardsman snoopers found that their Executive Editor (see staff-box) is playing the part of a reporter in Lloyd Sisler's coming production of The Man Who Came To Dinner.

We interviewed the young man as he sat polishing his cigarette holder during a lull in rehearsals. As he spoke haltingly to your reporter, we noticed that he looked more like a newsman than he ever did in the office of the campus press. The interview follows:

Q. "Mr. Hulse, how does it feel to be acting the part of a reporter?"

A. "Well—I can't put it into words."

Q. "Do you enjoy working with the rest of the cast?"

A. "Oh! Indeed I do. There's ever so many nice people in the cast. There's John Lord, an excellent actor and author of seven un-published novels, not to mention 'Where to Sin in San Francisco,' quite racy you know. There's Rita Fabri, Mary Ann Stewart, Charles Hulse . . ."

Q. "Any relation to you?"

A. "Well, it's hard to put into words—but, no he isn't, Tony McGrath also plays the part of the reporter, Bert Jefferson. All of these people are quite good, you know."

At this point Sisler, the able director, called Hulse on stage. "You must excuse me now," the pale-lipped boy confided, "the show must go on, you know. My plans? Why, even now I am working on my first un-published novel."

Associated Students Dance Tonight To Harvest Moon Theme

The harvest moon will be the featured theme when the Associated Students present their Harvest Moon Ball tonight at 9 o'clock in the west campus auditorium, Bea Groger, Associated Student vice-president, said yesterday.

Other than the Sophomore Formal and organization dances, this will be the last Associated Student dance of the semester.

"The dance will be in the auditorium with refreshments served in the student lounge," Miss Groger explained.

The only charge for admission is presentation of an Associated Student card per couple.

The dance will be strictly informal with music from Bob Emerson's ten-piece band provided from 9 o'clock to midnight.

Members of the Social Committee in charge of the dance are Miss Groger, chairman; Pete Isola, Marilee Zimmerman, Money Hickman, and Dick Fetherstonhaugh.

Isola Warns Of Mardi Gras Booth Deadline

Preparation for the Associate Men Student Mardi Gras was made yesterday, when AMS President Pete Isola named Tuesday, November 30, as the deadline for applications for club booths.

Petitions may be secured and filed in the Associated Student office, Isola said. The reason for this early application date is to prevent any last-minute confusion and duplication of concessions.

This semester's Mardi Gras will be held Friday, January 14, in the auditorium, the AMS head declared, and will attempt to be a bigger affair than its preceding successes.

Opera House Ushers See Concerts, Ballet

Opportunity for students to attend concerts and ballets in return for one night of ushering is now available at the Opera House, according to Margaret Dougherty, dean of women.

Students who are interested may obtain additional information from Dean Dougherty in building 2.

Tomorrow night's production will be a symphony. Future performances will include the Ballet Russe, starting November 29, Dean Dougherty added.

Candidates Await Soph King-Queen Elections

With the application deadline closed for the Sophomore King and Queen contest, 16 candidates will be up for voting Thursday and Friday, December 2 and 3.

The royal election is scheduled for the student lounge from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m., with men voting for the queen, and women voting for a king.

Nine queen and seven king contestants were in the running at application deadline time, last Monday. New entries are Lorraine Klimlau for queen, and Tony Bruno, king entry.

Poster regulations set an initial date of Monday, November 29, five per candidate, and none in the main building.

November 30 Set For Denman Applications

Applications for the Denman Scholarship awards are again offered to City College women graduates of San Francisco public high schools, Dean Margaret Dougherty announced today.

Dean Dougherty added that the two $125 awards will be for the furthering of education, and all applications should be made to her in building 2, by Tuesday, November 30.

The scholarship award, which is in honor of the late James Denman, former Superintendent of Schools and President of the Board of Education here, is based on the applicant's scholastic achievements and leadership in college activities. It is given by his children, United States Supreme Court Judge William Denman, and Mrs. Mary Cheatham.

Opera Workshop Introduces Top Talent To College In Tuesday Concert

By Eleanor Zals

Previewing their talents for possible roles in forthcoming musical productions next spring, Opera Workshop performers and the A Cappella Choir will appear in concert Tuesday evening, November 23, in the campus auditorium directed by Flossita Badger, Workshop head.

Selections will include the Spinning Quartette from Martha, featuring Nancy Durkee, Joann Setlow, Bruce Millar, and David Arrillaga; the Letter duet from Marriage of Figaro with June Stigen and Lillian Moeller; La Ci Darem La Mano from Don Giovanni, sung by Eileen Scott and Arrillaga; and three numbers with Velma Webster, soloist, with the A Cappella Choir.

Two excerpts from Hansel and Gretel will present Mildred Benninghoff, Carolyn Herfield, and Sarah Taff, and Ifea's Castle, a Czecho-Slovakian folk tune, and Clementine, an American tune, will be sung by the choir.

The long-awaited attraction of the concert will be a satire on old-fashioned melodrama, entitled An Operatic Travesty.

Committee members in charge of publicity and arrangements are Tony Cuevas, Jack Aaroe, Mrs. Scott and Bob Stratton; decorations, Jacqueline Deasy, Gerald Lustig, and Blossom Wickstrom; properties, Betty Tomlinson, Miss Taff, and Robert Tyson. Sound director is Mark Sheldon; make-up, Michael-Griffin; programs, Ruth Nelson; and tickets, Harold Cunningham and Robert Morton.

Tickets may be obtained free of charge from The Guardsman office, the music department in building 1, or the telephone operator in the main building.

Orchestra director will be Meyer Cahn, and concert accompanist, Gertrude Norgard.

MELODRAMA HITS THE CAMPUS. Tuesday night when Joan Walton, the princess, is wooed and won by Bruce Millar, the prince, with the blessings of the good fairy, Patricia Fitzgerald (those are wings). The travesty adds a light touch to the Opera Workshop concert which introduces 25 outstanding voices to City College.

Kaufmann-Hart Play Starts Six Night Run on December 2

By Ross Price

When Sheridan Whiteside comes to dine at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley, and breaks his hip when he falls on their ice-covered steps, the combination marks the start of many hilarious situations.

This Kaufmann and Hart three-act comedy will be presented, under the direction of Lloyd Sisler for City College students' appraisal on Thursday, December 2, and will run for six nights, closing December 8.

The Stanleys of the comedy are driven nearly crazy by Whiteside's numerous and rather odd antics which commence as soon as he is well enough to be in a wheel-chair.

The domineering Whiteside, unable to leave because of his injury, becomes the recipient of an octopus, a crate of penguins from the South Pole, and Donald Duck's voice by telephone from Hollywood.

Stanley becomes a trifle perturbed with Whiteside's constant prying into his affairs, and finally sends him packing, octopus, penguins, and all.

Whiteside has, among other things, given Stanley's daughter, June permission to leave home and get married.

Students Present Own Views At KQW Show

Radio station KQW will air Youth Looks to the Future from 3:30 to 4 tomorrow afternoon with five City College students as participants.

The foreign policy of the United States and the National Administration is the subject of the half hour round table discussion, Jerry Miller, producer, said.

Representing the college are Katherine Weber, Paul Guedet, Jack Hurley, Student Council member, and Richard Pearson, according to William Goss, social science instructor who is advising the quintet.

Frank McCue will act as moderator for the round table discussion. Students present their own views on the radio broadcast, Miller said.

Locals Battle In Kezar Today, Face Stockton Tiger-Cubs

By Walt Hell

City College's high geared Rams, seeking their ninth straight win, face a strong Stockton Cub eleven in Kezar Stadium today, with the kickoff slated for 2:30 p.m.

Fresh from a hard fought victory over the Hartnell College Panthers and riding the crest of an eight-game winning streak, the fast stepping locals are slight favorites to dunip the visitors from Stockton.

In the Cubs, the Rams meet a team with a bulky line and speedy backs. Up front, the Stockton outfit averages 200 pounds.

The leading ground gainer for the Stockton club is Ed Macon, swift right halfback, who is a quarter miler in the spring. Reports from Stockton claim that Macon is the equal of the Rams' Ollie Matson.

The Cubs' other chief ball carrier is Russ Overacker, booming fullback.

Word received from Coach Grover Klemmer indicates that the Rams will face the biggest and possibly the best line the locals have run up against all season.

With several key men out with injuries, Klemmer expressed worry that the Cubs may be harder to beat than Hartnell College.

Big All Star Rally Set For College Hour

An all-star rally for the Ram-Stockton game, is slated to be held in the auditorium during college hour, 10:40 a.m. today.

In a statement released by Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, yesterday, Hanson declared that entertainers, acclaimed by the students as the most popular in previous rallies will provide the talent for today's presentation.

Jack Mix will be the master of ceremonies — and KGO'S Ira Blue will speak.

Dave Irvine, Harry Williams, Bob McVey, Laine Curry, and Lou Londermilk, who performed at the last rally, will present a skit, entitled, Neil, The Farmer's Daughter.

The college hour, schedule follows:

8 o'clock classes— 8:10 to 8:50
9 o'clock classes— 9:00 to 9:40
10 o'clock classes— 9:50 to 10:30
College Hour—10:40 to 11:20
11 o'clock classes—11:30 to 12:10
12 o'clock classes—12:20 to 1:00

Club Advisory Board To Meet Wednesday

Club Advisory Board meetings will no longer be held during the college hour, Jim Davis, CAB president, said today.

The next meeting will take place in the student lounge on Wednesday, November 24, at 7:30 p.m., Davis added.

Clubs chartered at the last meeting were the Student League, Lambda Alpha, and the Ski Rams.

Only remaining clubs to be included for application of charters by the board are Omicron Phi Pi and Alpha Delta Epsilon.

The committee also made a recommendation to the council that there be a graduates' banquet each year between midterm and finals.

We Like The Bay Area, The Gold Dust Bowl—Southern Caiifornia, Ugh!

WITH the inking of the contracts yesterday, The City College football team found itself representing the Northern California area in the Gold Dust Bowl.

In addition to having one of the finest football outfits ever produced at City College, this will be the first time in history that the Rams have engaged in a Bowl Game.

This Gold Dust Bowl deal more strongly than ever elevates Northern California two-year football teams into a position of prominence.

It brings to mind the contrast between the smooth-working and non-prejudiced action of selecting teams from the North as opposed to those unruly methods used by the Los Angeles area selectors.

More emphatically, the Little Rose Bowl fiasco, torn by bitterness and vandalistic actions by the two-year colleges in the south, may cause the discontinuance of this project.

THE NOTORIOUS PRACTICE OF PAYING TWO-YEAR COLLEGE ATHLETES, AS IS COMMON KNOWLEDGE, AND GENERALLY ATTRIBUTED TO COMPTON IN PARTICULAR, AND THE VICIOUS DESTRUCTION OF PERSONAL PROPERTY OF A SPORTS WRITER, WHO VOTED AGAINST THAT COLLEGE FOR THE LITTLE ROSE BOWL BID LAST YEAR, TENDS TO DEMONSTRATE WHAT A ROTTEN MESS EXISTS IN TWO-YEAR COLLEGE FOOTBALL IN THE SOUTH.

Although at one time we urged participation in the Little Rose Bowl, on closer inspection of the sad situation existing down there, we now feel that we wouldn't want City College to be a party to anything connected with the existing situation in Southern California.

WE'RE NOT TALKING WITH A "SOUR GRAPE" OR AN "IVORY TOWER" ATTITUDE, BUT WE ARE ONLY TRYING TO EXPLAIN THAT IT IS BETTER TO STAY IN OUR OWN BACKYARD, AND NOT GET ENTANGLED WITH SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA'S UNHOLY WARS.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

THE limits to which a quiz program will go, or anyone for that matter, who has something to sell or give away, has become positively unnerving.

Quiz shows, which were thought to have reached the limit in the Truth or Consequences show's "Walking Man" contest, carry on an endless job of promotion in order to sell their sponsors' products.

This promotion process no longer involves only the clean, honest medium of advertising dog biscuits, soap flakes, or breakfast cereal, as the case might be.

It now reaches the trusting public with such a tempting array of prizes that they are tricked into believing that Crunchie Wunchie breakfast food is the best on the market because the Crunchie Wunchie people are offering ten million dollars in prizes to the winner of the Laughing Jackass contest.

Not making much sense, it tricks both consumer and producer with a lethal dose of the power of money.

The Truth or Consequences show has been outdone, however, by a program which still tempts the listener with the mazoola, but threatens to disrupt the serene confidence of the give-away boys.

Fred Allen, as irresistible too this. The man from Allen's Alley now offers to anyone listening to his show the equivalent of any money lost by the listener if he is called to the telephone by a quiz show during the Allen time.

Such a development! It is now possible for radio fans to absorb Allen's humor, and, at the same time, not run the risk of being ignorant of the question posed by a quiz-master who might chance to telephone . . . all this is offered to the tune of five thousand dollars.

Yessir . . . you can now have your cake and eat it too, through the courtesy of the Ford Motor Company.

It appears to us that the possible angles involved in an offer like this are endless if only they can be realized.

One bright star looms on the horizon, indicating that one concern is oblivious to the run-away inflation.

The Encyclopedia Brittanica, former sponsors of the Information, Please show, retained a staid conservatism with a set of the Encyclopedia Brittanica and a US Savings Bond to its winners.

A share in your country's future and a wealth of knowledge will prove more lasting than Duz soap flakes and General Motors' latest technological device, we're sure!

Since contest winners are afterwards besieged by a parade of income tax collectors, investing agents' get-rich-quick schemes, and dependent relatives, we conclude that money isn't everything . . . it still pays to be ignorant.

Manifold Duties Keep Business Instructor Goin'

By Dick Brennan

Amiable, cheerful Ruth Nelson, of the office training course here, qualifies as one of the busiest instructors on the City College campus. The obliging Mrs. Nelson endeavors to maintain a motto of efficiency, and quality under the pressure of an enormous amount of faculty work.

Accommodation of instructors and a general grooming course for advanced business students are the dual aims of the office training course, better known as Business 84.

Supervised by the able Mrs. Nelson and assisted by students Nadine Coakley and Carol Woodward, the busy department turns out more than a million copies of duplicates per year. This is approximately 3500 separate jobs or an average of 20 new jobs every day.

This tremendous volume of work is done by enterprising students learning the processes of cutting and running stencils, setting up multigraph type, running copy, and making addressograph plates and running them. Each student spends only one hour each day on this work—for the grand total of two units each semester.

A large quantity of supplies is needed by the department. More than 4000 stencils and 25 different kinds, colors and sizes of paper are required. Besides standard typewriters, 23 pieces of electrically operated equipment are used.

In her ninth year as an instructor with City College, Mrs. Nelson was formerly with Fullerton Jr. College and Columbia. She is also the author of a text book, Effective Secretarial Practice.

INSTRUCTOR RUTH NELSON, of the office training department, coaches assisting student Nadine Coakley in the use of an eddressograph machine.

Local Co-eds Discover Faults of The Open Road

Not all passes thrown at the Salinas game came from members of the football squad, and not all were as easily blocked as those on the football field.

Highway 101, on the day of the big City College-Hartnell game, witnessed college spirit at its peak in two young frosh, Lorry Aguirre and Helen Brew, who were seriously intent on seeing the said football game.

Not being capitalists and owning their own car, these two peasants set out on foot at 8:am. on that fateful day to cheer their team.

On reach the highway, they struck a graceful pose, teeth gleaming in the sun. Cars passed by for what seemed hours, with an overland stagecoach (really a '28 Ford) the first to offer them a ride.

Ten miles and forty minutes later, they thanked the man kindly and stated that they could walk faster, which would have been no feat at all.

As the "stagecoach" crawled away, a 1918 Plymouth with a City College sticker pulled over and offered the girls transportation all the way to the game. They jumped madly into the chariot and were off once again.

Post game they again hit the highway. Their advice to future hitchhikers:

"It's really fine if you have the urge to meet escaped lunatics, their half-brothers, and if you want to be out of the area of forward passes when hitching, sit next to the driver —providing he drives."

KHAKI-CLAD coeds Helen Brew (seated in despair) and Lorry Aguirre test their prospects for obtaining a ride to the City College-Hartnell game.

California defeated St. Mary's Gaelspeaking Gaels, 127-0 in 1920.

Letters to the Editor

• Orchids

Editor, The Guardsman:

To all those students who attended the Hartnell game on Armistice Day, we want to extend our thanks for your co-operation and spirit. Your backing of our team helped them to knock Hartnell's championship hopes out from under them. We want to see you all this afternoon at Kezar, when we play Stockton, backing our team to another victory.

—— The Yell Leaders

• "Tain't So"

Editor, The Guardsman:

In your column (Ramchops) in the November 9, 1948 issue of The Guardsman, you made some derogatory statements about the way the Sophomore King and Queen elections are being held. In the future, I and many other people on the City College of San Francisco campus would appreciate it if you would check into and verify your statements before you print them.

In the first place, you stated that the people who are running for the positions of Sophomore King and Queen have been in this school 5 and 6 terms and therefore have a better chance of election than those of 3 or 4 terms. If you had checked you would have discovered that ALL the people running this semester are in their 3rd or 4th terms.

Secondly, you stated that one fraternity will vote for one girl and another fraternity will vote for another and vice versa. Therefore the fraternity and sorority vote is completely split, and it is up to the students not in an organization to swing the vote in the election. Any student who has a student body card is eligible to vote just as in any other student body election.

The election committee for the sophomore class in previous semesters and in this semester have always tried to get ALL the students out to vote in Sophomore King and Queen elections and if the students do not vote, it is not the fault of the election committee, but the students themselves.

Dick Fetherstonhaugh

(Editor's Note: Columnist Pasini, through research of the back files, discovered that in the past elections of the Soph King and Queen contests, most of the entrants were of the five and six semester quality.

(If for some reason this semester's contestants are only three and four semester students, then congratulations Mr. Fetherstonhaugh. Columnist Pasini will even hand out Ram Chops, medium rare.)

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roessing

"WE want to go to the Gold Dust Bowl" was the unanimous cry of the Ram gridders this week when Coach Grover Klemmer asked them in what bowl they wanted to play.

Even if the gallant gladiators of the Ram grid turf fail to win all of their remaining games, they will still go to the Vallejo bowl contest!

Of course, with City College almost definitely going to the Vallejo bowl game, this football tilt will even outshine the "southland's" game, which is supposed to be played for the national championship of the two year colleges.

LOST AND FOUND!

Ralph Hillsman has entered a plea to this department.

It seems that a pair of basketball shorts, crimson with white trim, and a football jersey, with red numbers, was used in the faculty production of College Daze.

After the show the apparel was left in the dressing room and they [illegible] Hillsman would like to have the hard-to-get athletic suits returned as soon as possible to the men's gymnasium.

Writers' Predictions Still Favor Locals

With the powerful Ram gridders, winners of eight straight, the "peerless" Guardsman sport writers haven't missed a prediction yet, on a local encounter.

Frank Galo came closest on hitting the Hartnell score with a 19-6 effort, barely missing the 20-7 final margin.

Lambs Meet Balboa

Determined to follow the good record set by their bigger brothers, the junior varsity football team will take to the field against the varsity squad of Balboa High School, next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. on the home turf.

In the line-up for the Lambs will be Cleveland Thomas, playing fine ball at his left tackle position; Dean Bender, right guard, and hard running left half, Rudy Smith.

Nine Novice Boxing Champs Crowned

Gerich, Hamilton, Top Pugilists; Suega Pilots Four Bout Finalists

By Roy Hurlbert

Main Event Night's gold belt championships concluded intramural novice boxing's three-day sojourn Wednesday evening with an estimated throng of some 500 ring patrons viewing the punch proceedings.

Featherweights Al Chappuis and Rudy Vasconcelos initiated the nine-bout three-round program with a free swinging exchange, with the former finishing strong to outpoint his rival.

Classy southpaw Norman Ryan, 120, just had enough to outlast fast stepping Jim Gueld in their 120-round clash.

Bartlett Takes 133

Wayne Bartlett carried too many guns for Johnny Drocco, a shifty boxer, and won the nod in the 133 bracket.

Don Gerich, 140, impressed with an all round aggressive performance against the unorthodox offerings of George Harris to capture a well earned verdict.

Ben Kanae, 147, and Larry Schubert, his lanky welterweight adversary, engaged in a real slugfest, with the stocky Kanae on the receiving end of a nip and tuck decision.

Will Hamilton looked good in outslugging blond Harry Burns in the 155-pound free for all.

A darting left jab powered to the jaw of Carl Reynolds, sent Vince Holian to an early shower with 165-pound laurels.

Kelly, Bender Please

In the best match of the card, Bernard Kelly and Dean Bender staged a genuine donnybrook in quest of 175-pound honors much to the delight of the expectant onlookers, with Bender conceded a slim margin at the finish.

Jerry Cepernich and Jim O'Hare, heavyweights, calling their shots with caution, battled up and tuck to the wire with O'Hare a slight edge victor.

Varsity heavyweight Frank Suega managed four of the finalists and will therefore have his name inscribed on the handsome perpetual trophy henceforth to be used.

Entries Due Now For WAA Horse Show

Entry blanks for the annual co-educational horse show to be held January 8, 1949, are due now, Jean Sliter, Women's Athletic Association vice-president, said yesterday.

Those interested in signing up for the event should see Gloria Swiegood in the women's gymnasium, Miss Sliter added.

There will be a $2.00 entrance fee for the affair, which will take place at the St. Francis Riding Club, and participants will be limited to 50 riders.

Exhibition events will range from beginners to advanced horsemanship.

Baldocchi, Pasini Top Intra Scoring Race

By Frank Galo

Intramural Director Tom Wilson revealed yesterday that the Loopsters' Larry Baldocchi led the intramural basketball scoring race with 97 points.

Jim Augustine of the Balboa Blues had 31 digits to lead the PCL while Roy Pasini of Tri Epsilon has tops in the AL with 84 points, edging out teammate Lloyd Ferguson by one marker.

The National League leader was the Ram Heads' Doug Truelsen with 41 digits.

Other leaders were (including all four leagues):

Rams Whip Hartnell To Take Grid Lead

By virtue of their overwhelming 20-7 victory over Hartnell at Salinas on Armistice Day, City College's Rams are now in sole possession of first place in the A division of the NCJCC with six successive triumphs.

In the crucial encounter at Salinas, the Rams were forced to come from behind for the first time this season, trailing 0-7 in the second period, and then 6-7 at the half.

The battle of the forward walls proved to be the final margin of victory.

Hard charging and tackling men like sensational Don Morretini, Ray Poznekoff, Neil Gunn, Paul Olivier, Leo Camp, Don Stillwell, Frank Puckett, Bob Oberg, Al Myers, Bill Koenic, Ray Urbano, Dick West, and co-captains Ben Albrecht and Burl Toler changed the tide of battle.

A 34 yard dazzling punt return to a touchdown by reliable Ollie Matson clinched the game for the locals in the third period. Matson added a final tally in the last stanza on a nine yard sprint off tackle.

Ed Brown passed 14 yards to Erv Skreine for the lone Hartnell score.

Injuries Put Gilford, Shipp Out For Season

Jim Gilford, the Rams' fast-stepping right halfback, and Bill Shipp, an outstanding guard, are out for the season because of injuries.

Gilford was injured in the second period of the Hartnell game last week when he was hit hard, somersaulted through the air, and dislocated his shoulder upon hitting the turf.

The loss of this fine team player is a great blow to the Rams' title hopes.

Shipp wrenched his knee against the Los Angeles City College eleven. This red-headed lineman was a great asset to the spirit of the red-and-white forward wall.

Soccermen Engage Loop Leading USF

City College's rampaging soccer eleven will tangle with the league leading Dons from U.S.F. tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock at Beach Chalet.

The Dons, led by Steve Negoeseu, Bob Lee, Bob Toda, and Carl Heredia, are slight favorites to nod the bruising attack set up by the locals.

The Rams subdued the visiting California Aggies from Davis last Saturday morning by the score of 4-0 to retain second place in the Northern California Intercollegiate competition.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

READERS of a college journalistic product can prove to be very amusing people at times. Take the local situation as a "for instance."

Because we have been accused of overlooking facts while grinding out our tidbits each week, we serve notice that the following can be attributed to an established reference works (Levy and Hulse, An Opinion Poll On The Guardsman, San Francisco, 1948.)

Results of this informative missive show that the average scanner of these pages starts with page one and laboriously works his way right down the line to page four.

Regardless of the poll, we have noticed a distinct type of reader who seems to favor one page in particular and even some who favor no page at all; in fact they don't even read the vital, timely and informative.

A SPORTING GESTURE

Most popular among this group is the athletics interested person who whips his trusty Gadsman open to the sports page as soon as he has it safely resting in his palms.

He eagerly eases the muscle bound set up, and having satisfied his wants, he tosses the creation aside. But this season we've managed to fool him. Because of the grade A class of gridders sporting the Red and White this season, the Rams have been going places.

Football stories have been sneaking right up to page one for top billing. This means the sports have to take in a bit of page one in order to get the full scope of the sporting world.

Next on the list is the socialite who hurriedly turns to page two and a look at Club Cavalcade to check on any social obligations which must be met in the near future.

This cat also throws her eye around any pictures which may appear throughout the sheet before disregarding it for her deck of pasteboards.

The characters get their kicks from the feature page where they look over the staff's attempt at humor. Sad to say though, new arrivals to our portals from neighboring high schools miss the old "did you know that B.G. is that way about P.U." gossip stuff, but to you we say, bear with us. Wait 'til you take a crack at English 21.

Amori Sets Deadline Today For Veteran Holiday Work

Applications by veterans for Christmas work in the San Francisco Post Office must be filed not later than today, Joseph Amori, placement director, said Wednesday, adding that filing of applications by non-veterans 18 years of age and over will begin on Monday, November 22.

Openings for 30 husky, strong men to do freight handling are available in the East Bay. The pay is $1.43 per hour, but only persons living in the East Bay district need apply.

Men experienced in fancy wrapping are needed by San Francisco Department stores.

Faculty men desiring Christmas work in either the East Bay or San Francisco should inform Amori as soon as possible.

Adminstrators Back From Convention

With discussion ended on the centralized theme, Planning the Program of Post High School Education for California, City College administrators returned to the campus last Monday from the annual fall meeting of state junior colleges, held at Bakersfield.

President A. J. Cloud, planning ahead for the American Association of Junior Colleges meeting at the Fairmont Hotel in February where he will officiate as chairman, reported on the National Junior College Conference.

Annual Name Deadline Set For November 30

All entries for the yearbook name contest must be submitted by Tuesday, November 30, Bob McVey, editor, said today.

The winner of the entry is entitled to devour all the milk shakes he is able to consume at any local creamery.

FAITHFUL INTELLECTS

Then we gratefully find the group which reads both page one and four in search of what's new about the campus.

And finally, there is the student who "won't have anything to do with that rag." But just wait until The Gawdsman doesn't come out for a week or so (next issue will appear December 2) because of lack of funds, and he's the first one who comes into the office to see if we've missed a deadline or burnt the place down.

It feels great to see someone else getting it in the neck though, so we say Happy Thanksgiving to all and to the turkey—we know just how you feel.

Debaters To Judge Oakland Debate Meet

Debate team members have been invited to act as judges at a forthcoming debate tournament, according to a letter received from the Oakland Forensic League, Michael Griffin, team coach, stated today.

Representatives from the college were requested to attend the statewide tournament held at Oakland High School on Saturday, November 20.

Students To Receive Turkey Day Reprieve

Thanksgiving Day, Thursday, and Friday, November 25 and 26, are both holidays, a registrar's office spokesman stated today.

It was noted that a few misinformed students tried to attend classes on Armistice Day which was also a holiday.

This issue marks the last Guardsman until Thursday, December 2.

Election Dates Set For January 21, 22

Elections of the Spring semester Associated Student officers are set for January 20 and 21, Walt McRae, election committee chairman, announced today.

Campaigns will start on January 11 and a special election rally is dated for January 14.

Chinese Club Gives Dances Wednesday

To create a better understanding and fellowship among the students of the various nationalities on the campus, Gobblers Fling, a record dance, sponsored by the Chinese Students Club, is scheduled for the students lounge, Wednesday night, November 24.

Tickets are priced at 35 cents per Associated Student and 50 cents for non-Associated Students, Herbert Ho, Jr., president of the club, announced today. Tickets may be obtained at the door, the college bank, or from a member.

The dance is open to all students, and both couples and stags are invited.

Henry Hom is dance chairman.

Rams Battle Menlo For Title

The Man Who Came To Dinner Due Here Tonight At 8:15

Kaufman and Hart's humorous comedy, The Man Who Came To Dinner, starts a five-performance run here tonight. Room 28 of the main building is the place, 8:15 p.m. is the curtain time, and Lloyd Sisler's all-student cast will provide plenty of laughs for those who like their comedy fast and furious.

Performances are also scheduled tomorrow, Saturday, and Monday at 8:15 p.m., and Friday at 1:15 p.m.

Starring John Lord, the play represents two months of rehearsals. During this time members of the cast have been yelled at by Lord, playing Sheridan Whiteside, shut up in mummy cases, and in general subjected to sundry situations which could hardly be called normal.

Briefly, the play embraces the antics of Sheridan Whiteside, a "guest" in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley.

Guest is in quotes, because Whiteside is actually a prisoner in their home, forced to stay there because of a broken hip received when he slipped on their icy steps as he arrived at the Stanley home to sup with them.

Whiteside is a self-appointed king over all he surveys, and bellows his orders from a wheel chair throughout two and a half acts of the comedy.

Noted in final rehearsals was the superlative work of Lord, Mary Ann Stewart and Rita Cabul as Maggie Cutler, Jack Hulse as Bert Jefferson, and Jerry Lustig as Banjo.

The remainder of the cast includes Jack Jones, Royle Ehart, Carolyn Glasnow, Jack Gallisdorfer, John Noll and Chuck Hulse.

In summing up the embryo actors' portrayals, both serious and laughable, Sisler made the comment that they were "the most businesslike and capable cast I've ever worked with."

Soph Yearbook Pix Due By December 10

Sophomores, who plan to graduate in June, are expected to inform Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to President Cloud, in Room 123 before Friday, December 10, to have their pictures in the year book, Bob McVey, editor announced.

All students are urged to turn in candid snapshots of college life with their negatives if possible to Room 6ft. McVey added that a prize will be given to the winner of the best picture submitted.

The year book will be sold for $3.50 with Associated Student card and $5.00 without.

Candlebearers For Yule Concert Named

Kathleen Dunn and Jimmy Sisler joined a distinguished list of faculty children yesterday, when they were named 1948 candlebearers in the annual Christmas concert here Friday, December 10.

Kathleen, aged four and a half, is the daughter of mathematics instructor Robin Dunn, and Jimmy, aged five, is the son of drama instructor Lloyd Sisler.

The invitation, extended by Flossita Badger, director of the program, and the members of the music department, was reported accepted by the youngsters who are hard at work learning Adeste Fidelis.

Tradition Solid

The Yuletide concert, fourteenth of its kind, and thus the most solid of college traditions, is presented by the music department, and sponsored by the Associated Students, all music organizations, the Associated Women Students, and the Faculty Association.

The program features the A Cappella Choir, carols by the Men's and Women's Choruses, orchestra selections, dancers from Betty Beckman's dance classes, selected soloists from the music department and opera workshop, and tableaux staged by the drama department.

Under the specific direction of Miss Badger and Sisler, the concert draws community-type cooperation from college facilities and student groups, with decorations in the hands of William Eckert and his art students.

Auditorium Transformed

Because the coming concert marks the first slated for evening campus presentation, indications are that the auditorium will be transformed with all the color expected in the Christmas season.

Two Christmas songs composed especially for the A Cappella Choir by Composer Russell Garcia will be sung for the first time, Miss Badger said.

Gertrude Norgard and Harold Cunningham, chorus directors, Meyer Cahn, orchestra director, and Robert Morton, music instructor, will assist in the production.

Conference Winner Hinges On Game At Washington Field

With an unbeaten season behind them, the City College Rams will attempt to annex the Northern California Junior College Conference championship when they meet Menlo Junior College on the Washington High School field Saturday. Kickoff is 2:30 p.m.

Although beaten twice by non-conference foes, the Oaks boast an unbeaten record in "J" division play. Champions in the "A" division, the Rams are out to grab undisputed claims to the title.

Unbeaten in 10 consecutive games, the powerful Rams are favorite to down the Peninsula club and cop their eleventh straight.

Leader of the Rams' speedy ground attack is Ollie Matson, Ram, high scorer and leading candidate for all-conference left halfback honors.

Matson has scored more touchdowns than any other gridder in City College's history.

Coach Grover Klemmer has expressed concern over the big Menlo line. Center Burl Toler and Guard Ben Albrecht, co-captains, lead the local line.

College Tom-Tom In Vanishing Act

By Arnold Solkov

Students will have to beat a different drum come next San Mateo-Ram "big game," as the traditional symbol used in the intercollege rivalry turned up missing after this season's tussle.

No names were mentioned, but the party responsible for the safekeeping of the tom-tom reported that it has removed itself from his harness suite through devious and mysterious circumstances.

The department of missing persons-and-things reportedly reported that the Bulldog keepers were a bit peeved at the shellacking they received at the horns of the Rams.

It was also rumored that the powers that be in the Bulldog kennel did not want City College to have both the game and the boomboom, so they obligingly removed the animated wash tub.

Scrip Sale Changed

Time of sale of cafeteria scrip books has been changed, effective this week.

For convenience to the students, scrip books will be sold from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. and during dinner from 5 to 6:15 p.m. daily in the Hotel and Restaurant Division office.

What's On The College Menu Tonight?

The play opens tonight in Room 28 and will run for five performances.

Voting Ends Tomorrow For 15 In Soph King, Queen Election; Late Entrant Is Disqualified

City College Associated Students will go to the polls today and tomorrow to make their choice among 15 contestants, for the annual Sophomore King and Queen.

Lorraine Kim Lau, Chinese Club representative, was disqualified for not submitting her pictures on time, according to a decision made by the election committee, Dick Fetherstonhaugh, soph class president, said yesterday.

The royal election is scheduled for the student lounge, west campus, the polls being open from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Listed on the ballot are eight queen and seven king potentials. The winning couple will be presented at the annual Sophomore Ball, Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium, January 29, 1949.

The eight candidates for queen are Phyllis Ryan, Marvelle Sneider, Mary Ann Stewart, Gloria Beetz, Muriel Schumacher, Veronica Morrison, Inge Menders, and Elegne Wheeler.

Seven king contestants, whose names will appear on the ballot, are Bill Koenic, Oliver Bascop, Ben Clothier, Doug Wilson, Larry Wakefield, Hank Schaffner, and Tony Bruno.

Associated Men Students will vote for one of the nine queen nominees, while the Associated Women Students will choose one of the seven king hopefuls.

Sophomore class officers on the election and dance committee are Marin Wilson Walker, Bob McVey, George Caganis, and Bernie Davis.

These handsome men and lovely women are vying for the honor of Sophomore King and Queen. The winner will be announced at the semi-annual Soph Formal to be held Jan. 29.

Rally Not Scheduled For Ram-Menlo Game

Although the anticipated college hour rally tomorrow for the Ram-Menlo game failed to materialize club meetings are scheduled to be held during the college hour, 10:40 a.m., Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, said today.

Meetings will be held in rooms as signed earlier in the semester.

Reports from Brady's office indicate that it will be the last chance for clubs to hold meetings before the Christmas vacation.

Word from Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, indicates that a parade may be held Friday, December 10.

Inter-Sorority Dance Gives Way To Game

Cancellation of the inter-sorority dance planned for Saturday, December 11, was announced yesterday by Ben Groger, Associated Student vice-president.

This cancellation was made to avoid conflict of activities for those students who wish to attend the Ram versus Chaffey, Gold Dust Bowl game at Vallejo on that date.

Football will hold the supreme reign, and no additional activities will be planned for that evening. There are no plans for a future inter-sorority dance.

Students Get Special Discount To Hamlet

City College students will be given a 20 per cent discount to the performances of Hamlet showing at The Stage Door Theater, Edward Alexander, representative of the theater, announced this week.

This discount will be for matinees excepting Saturdays, beginning Monday, December 13. All students must present Associated Student cards or otherwise identify themselves as City College students.

2000 Gold Dust Tickets On Sale Now; Center Seats Reserved For Rooters

Information received from the Gold Dust Bowl committee in Vallejo indicates that City College will be allotted 2,000 tickets for sale to students for the game against Chaffey Junior College on Saturday night, December 11.

Price of the tickets will be $1.80. Tickets are now on sale at the student bank, first floor main building.

According to further information received by Dean John J. Brady, the section immediately below the press box in Corbus Field (Vallejo) will be reserved for students of this college.

Depending on the number of tickets sold, Brady explained, a section centering on the 50 yard line will be reserved for rooters.

Tickets will be available at the bank until Thursday, December 9 when unsold tickets, if any, will be sold at the gate.

With Corbus Field capacity estimated at 11,000, Brady said that the price of the student tickets will be the same price as the general admission price.

The Guardsman Wins All-American Rating Again! City College Is Tops

THERE comes a time in every newspaper's life when the local bugle feels that it should take a little editorial space to proclaim the paper's merits to the world.

More specifically, The Guardsman, that vital, timely and informative organ of the Associated Students, has once again won the All-American, a "superior" rating in the scope of collegiate publications.

For the edification of all, this is the 13th semester out of 15 semesters of membership that the Guardsman has won this coveted award.

It is also the 9th straight All-American award.

The two times The Guardsman did not win the top rating, it came in second best with First Class or "excellent" honors.

Believe it or not, The Guardsman has received these honors continually, without the use of a (1) Gossip column, (2) Joke column, (3) a "what cute little blonde was seen holding what cute little boy's hand at a certain football game between you know what and you know whom?".

In other words, The Associate Collegiate Press, sponsored by the Graduate School of Journalism at the University of Minnesota, which evaluates the various college papers from a professional newspaperman's standpoint, realizes and recognizes the fact that college students are a mature segment of the population.

(On occasion, however, we do like to disagree with the internationally famous journalism school at Minnesota.)

In any event, the winning of this high honor by the City College Guardsman reflects directly the overwhelming response of the students to the paper.

We feel that in continually keeping The Guardsman on a high level of journalistic standards, we are in turn helping to bring the college to its rightful place in the community.

An all-victorious football team for the 1948 season, and an All-American newspaper for the same year, tend to make the college the leading higher institution of learning in San Francisco.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

ASSUREDLY the most productive venture of the present avant-gardist movement is the influx of the "little literary magazines" to the scene of American culture.

Not on sale at the neighborhood drug store, these magazines are to be found where cultured tastes congregate (no slur intended to the glossy-covered mags gracing our newsstands).

Paul Elder's modern bookstore caters to avant-gardists and interested bystanders alike with a complete stock of such publications ranging from the progressive, Tiger's Eye to the more conservative Pacific Spectator.

Pacific Spectator, published by 23 leading Western colleges, does not belong to the school of radical literature.

Andre Gide, Stephen Spender, Robinson Jeffers, Henry Miller, and the younger devotees of experimental literature find these magazines the ideal medium to reach a public who, for some vague, perhaps psychological reason, is finding something in this avant-garde writing worth attention (anyone who understands some of it is better man than us!).

MODERN PESSIMISM

This reason might be a hangover from the pessimism of the modern age which these writers reflect in their studies of cosmology and the myths.

The Review magazines, Hudson, Partisan, and others, are useful not only to the avant-gardist, but to the discerning reader who recognizes the latest cultural trends, and fully understanding them or not, is aware of their value to American letters.

The Reviews are excellent sources for the segregation of the more noteworthy writings without wading through a steaming middle of some of the experimental works.

CIRCLE IN FAVOR

Circle, a successful production stemming from the University of California, is finding increasing favor in avant-garde circles.

Whereas some of Circle's contributors' tastes are too radical for a merely interested observer of the "latest," there is often a piece by a young writer which is worthy of thought. In our opinion, Mary Fabilli's The Boss is such a story.

Granted that these publications are radical in cultural and political import, there is little justice in the cursory readers' labeling of them as "yellow sheets."

Grid Fans' Spirit Improving

All Things Considered, Cheer Leaders Content

By Johnnie Dorris

Getting the proverbial blood out of the proverbial rock is easy compared to the job some people have to perform.

Of course with the one you only have to go against mother nature, but with the other you have to go against the character of City College students, and even the students agree that this is one whale of a job.

The job in question is the one attempted by four lively and vivacious young persons in trying to arouse followers of the local gridiron eleven to the height of enthusiasm.

They are Jeanne Vivaldi, Rita Fabri, Larry Weber, and Steve Norris.

When asked his opinion of the responsiveness of local students this year, Head Leader Weber had this to say:

"We've been getting more response out of the students this year than is normally expected, and the spirit at Salinas was sometimes great, but then with a team like the City College Rams what could you expect?

"It is a known fact that junior college students fail to show as much spirit as senior college students, so I guess we do pretty well under the circumstances."

Once in a while something happens to hinder the smooth-running machine of the cheer leaders.

The latest occurrence, which temporarily put the cheer leaders in an uproar, happened at the last Kezar football game.

It seems that numerous "pledges" from a local fraternity and sorority did a bang up job of holding the complete student attention to nigh on to 15 minutes.

The yell leaders, by resorting to begging and pleading, finally restored a semblance of order and returned to their regular duties of exhorting yells from an apparently immovable mass.

Technology Mural Theme In Someday Science Hall

By Dick Brennan

Science and Theory is the theme of the murals inside the main entrance of the College building. Painted in 1941 by one Fred Olmsted, the murals represent an artist's version of the world of science.

The murals depict work in the various branches of technology such as the study of the atom, the study of space, study of animals and organisms, geology, and the study of the earth and the evolution.

It was the same talented Mr. Olmsted who chiseled the bust of Leonardo da Vinci and Thomas Edison now posted at the rear of the main building.

Working every day with a large student audience, Olmsted finished the extensive project late in 1941. It is an outstanding example of the blending of art and science.

Because the main building will some day be devoted solely to science, all of the art work has a technological theme, with the murals a symbol of youth in the field of science.

Chinese, American Educations Differ

By Dick Briggs

Education in China has a western hemisphere twang if calculations by Irving Tang, recent arrival from the Orient, are correct.

The Western influence in Chinese schools is prevalent in the fact that both continents advocate the use of the examination, but there the parallel ends.

Tang, in China during the Japanese occupation, attended a relicious high school where exams were longer than new-look skirts and tougher than rare steak.

Some of the tests involved completing a two-page examination within an alloted time; usually four minutes. If an erasure mark was too pronounced, an instructor could deduct 25 per cent for neatness.

After learning of Tang's experiences, students will undoubtedly choose Chinese mid-terms in American colleges. Us? . . . we'll take vanilla.

Rams Again In Top Ten In Grid Poll

City College's football team was placed sixth among two-year colleges throughout the nation in a recent rating by Paul B. Williamson, football prediction expert.

Powerhouse of the Pacific Coast, Compton College is rated as the third best in the nation. Hartnell College is in ninth place; Chaffey in twelfth place; Duluth College, in Minnesota, in first place, and Perkinston College in second place.

According to Williamson, who predicts and rates university and college football teams throughout the country, most college teams in the upper brackets are bowl conscious, with many nursing ambitions regarding the Little Cotton Bowl (contemplated for Dallas).

The Rams have already defeated Hartnell and meet Chaffey in Vallejo, Saturday, December 11.

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jim Baker

(Editor's Note: The deadlines for club news are Wednesday noon for Tuesday's paper and Monday noon for Friday's paper; material accepted at The Guardsman.)

• Alpha Lambda Chi: Patt Pusey announced her engagement to Bob Hoffman at a recent meeting, by passing around the traditional box of candy. Plans are made by the pledges to give a dinner for the members.

Casaba Season Starts As Locals Meet Cal Frosh

By Bob Quinlan

Basketball, which shifted into high gear last night when the Rams met Armstrong Junior College on the local floor, will pick up momentum tomorrow afternoon when the varsity cagers play host to the University of California Frosh at 3:30 in the men's gymnasium.

These games are the first actual tests for the Ram cagers, although they have numerous scrimmages under their belts.

Coach Ralph Hillsman plans to maintain a squad of 15 men.

At this writing the roster consists of guards, Les Brilliant, Jim Caldwell, Bob Payne, Don Payne, and Bob Terling; forwards, Ed Kahn, Milt Kaffen, Bob Metheny, Marty Snyder, and Doug Truelson; centers, Bill Kahn, Kevin Duggan, and Terry McKeon.

Promising newcomers who have a good chance in moving up to the squad are Maurie Griffen, Al Anthanasopoulos, Jack Carnegie, Irving Rivers, and Don Dietz.

City College will play its first Cow Palace game at 12:15 p.m. on December 27, against College of Marin in a preliminary for the Pacific Coast Conference Tourney.

The winner of this encounter will meet the winner of the Menlo-San Mateo game, December 30, in the preliminary for the PCC Tourney title tilt.

The Rams will enter the Modesto Cage Tourney at Modesto, January 5-6-7-8. The locals emerged victorious in this tourney two years ago.

Hillsman plans to enter his squad in another invitational tourney in Sacramento the week of March 7-12.

Entry Slips Now Due For WAA Horse Show

Women students interested in competing in the annual Women's Athletic Association horse show to be held Saturday, January 8, 1949, are expected to submit their applications now, Shirley Austin, president, said yesterday.

Applications should be given to Gloria Swiecgood, adviser, in the women's gymnasium. As yet City College has a poor showing with one of the smallest groups of contestants participating.

There will be a $2.00 entrance fee for the affair, which will take place at the St. Francis Riding Club.

Locals Again Favored By Guardsman Writers

With the championship of the Northern California Junior College Conference football title at stake, The Guardsman sports writers continue to place the local gridiron express on a winning schedule with no derailment in its quest of victory number eleven.

Varsity Boxers In Debut With Gators

City College's varsity boxing squad will officially take off the wraps in their '48-'49 intercollegiate debut next Tuesday as hosts to San Francisco State's scrappers at 7 p.m. in the men's gymnasium.

Some 16 bouts will highlight the evening's entertainment.

Fistic pilot Roy Diederichsen will use the inaugural test as a proving ground to determine his top division campaigners for the ensuing season, which holds major priority in the approaching Spring months.

Four outstanding returnee battlers form the backbone of a formidable group dominant in up and coming pugilists from the intramural finalist ranks.

Johnny Fisher, 127, crafty featherweight; Len Garcia, 127, lightweight phenom; Roy Damas, 140, crowd-pleasing welter; and hard slugging heavyweight walloper Frank Sueuga, are back to swell local fortunes.

Pirates, Cubs Fall As Rams Capture 'A' Division Gonfalon

By Walt Roessing

City College's gridiron express kept on schedule during the last two weeks by successfully disposing of Stockton Junior College 27-7, and Modesto 25-19, in NCJC conference grid contests.

With these two wins added to their other long string of victories, the Rams have now captured ten straight triumphs and the conference A division titles.

Again it was Ollie Matson providing the spark!

The gliding left halfback racked up all four touchdowns against the Stockton football eleven, and scored three of the tallies in the Modesto fracas, to up his season TD total to 17 and 102 points.

Matson ran 89 and 60 yards to touchdowns against the Cubs at Kezar, and then took passes from Bob Toquinto for 10 yards, and Al Nethercutt for 22, to complete the scoring for the day.

At Modesto the mercurial speedster went 69, 67, and 50 yards to paydirt, scoring the winning six markers in a fourth period dash.

Julian Bala and Toquinto added the conversions in the two encounters while Roy Georgi plunged six yards for the only other score made against the Modesto team.

In the Stockton game Coach Grover Klemmer only used the starting gridders sparingly, the reserves getting in plenty of playing time.

At Modesto, the line played fine ball, as usual, but the backfield was very weak in pass defense.

Otis Williams, one of the best backs in the conference, paced the Modesto attack, passing to all their scores. This was the first time during the season that a grid team tallied more than once against the undefeated Rams.

Ed Macon, Stockton's flashy right half, dented the coveted end zone from 20 yards out for the Cubs' only score against the Rams at Kezar, two weeks ago.

Ram Soccerites Tackle Stanford In Season Climax Tussle On Saturday

Coach Roy Diederichsen's soccer team closes the season against the Stanford Indians this Saturday at 10 o'clock at Beach Chalet.

The red and white from the hilltop are bolstered by Francis Granadino, Marino Mangiola, Neil Decker, George Volkoff, and Vic Solorzaro.

Balboa Alumni Intra Eleven Down Knights

Balboa Alumni Athletic Club continued its monopoly in intramural sports when Harvey Roscelli's Ramblers went to a 20-12 decision over the Black Knights in last week's intra football opener.

At the same time, the Falcons edged out a fighting Gamma Phi Ypsilon club, 19-6.

The Black Knights jumped to a 12-0 half-time lead with Carlo Cornejo tossing two touchdown passes, but the Ramblers came from behind with Roscelli tallying two third quarter TD's.

Jim Leaskou intercepted a pass and ran 43 yards to the final TD.

Scoring for the Falcon winners were Bob Parenti, Bob Orr, and Bob Quinlan, while John Wright tallied the loser's touchdown.

In individual sports, the horse shoes doubles championship went to Rudy Pfister and Bob Clark.

Coach John Seigal's Indians are highlighted by such stalwart men as Lawrence Peterson, John Ahrens, and Edwin Belnap, who held the locals to a 2-2 deadlock in their first contest.

In their last two encounters, the Rams held the league leading Dons from the University of San Francisco to a 0-0 standstill and won a decisive victory over the San Francisco State Gators by a 1-1 verdict.

Sparking the City College attack against the Gators, Francis Granadino accounted for three goals, and Ed Eschevarria tallied once.

Fullback Tom Albrecht, and Right Half Jack Keropian, played heads-up ball for the Gators.

An upset by the Cal Aggies over the California Bears will cinch second place for the Rams in the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Conference Standings.

The Brooklyn Dodgers have never won a world series. They represented the National League four times but lost on each occasion.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

FROM the looks of stories which have been running in various downtown dailies, it seems as though comic books are no longer a laughing matter.

According to the news items, committees are currently peeking under the covers of the kiddy thrillers in an effort to determine just how strongly the books are contributing to the degeneration of the Bay Area's youth.

One investigator was quoted as saying that he felt the sale of the color books was definitely corrupting the morals of the younger generation.

No doubt the man must have been referring to the typical comic book heroine who just never seems capable of keeping herself completely clothed in a conventional dress.

STRIP, YOU SAY?

Even if the queen should start out in the latest fashion plate, it isn't long before the right things have fallen or been torn from the wrong place. Maybe that's why they call them comic strips.

By the time the cartoonist has put paper and pencil aside, even a Math 51 student can appreciate the figure the heroine presents.

So, in order to keep the kiddies in their own backyard, the Board of Supervisors in this hamlet and City Counellors in neighboring burgs, have come up with a proposal to weed out the less constructive products.

A board will be formed for the sole purpose of reviewing the complete line of dime thrillers, with an eye toward eliminating the sale of the missives which rely upon "l'amour" to attract their readers. Something like a book reviewer for comic books with a touch of Boston.

Once the revie wing board has drawn up its "index" local distributors, such as drug stores, will be requested to ban them from their magazine racks.

If the younger set does not follow the example set by their elders and seek out the banned editions to satisfy their reading appetites, the idea might work.

FLICKERS MOVE IN

Even the flicker industry has turned its cameras on the comic book tussle. In the entertaining cinema "Pitfall," there is a scene where Dick Powell's offspring is having a nightmare.

Upon entering the bedroom, Powell spots a stack of the funny books and promptly puts the blame on the infamous creations depicting monsters in their best form.

He leaves the onlooker with the impression that in the future he will not allow his namesake to devour the contents of said nightmare-rofusing trash.

With both the H'wood and local guns aimed at the "story books," it doesn't seem possible that the life span of the animated jobs will be prolonged any more than necessary.

Denman Scholarship Deadline December 7

Applications for Denman Scholarships, open to City College women graduates of San Francisco public high schools, will be accepted in the office of the dean of women, Building 2, until Tuesday, December 7, Dean Margaret Dougherty said today.

An additional extension of the deadline date willl not be possible, Dean Dougherty added.

All women interested in one of the two $125 awards for the furthering of their education should report to the dean's offiee as soon as possible to allow ample time for the evaluation of their applications.

CAB Changes Meeting Date To Wednesdays

To promote better attendance of representatives at Club Advisory Board meetings, the schedule for sessions has been changed from college hour Fridays to Wednesdays, Jim Davis, president, declared recently.

"This way, the 50 per cent of our members who are regularly absent," David added, "will have a chance to attend the meetings."

Want Student Ushers At City Opera House

Students are now belng used for ushering jobs at the Opera House, according to Margaret Dougherty, dean of women.

Those interested may obtain additional information from Dean Dougherty in Building 2, west campus.

Opportunity to view performances at the Opera House in exchange for one night of ushering will continue during the present series of concert and ballet.

AMS Sets New Deadline For Booth Application In January Mardi Gras

Petition deadline for booths at the Associated Men Student Mardi Gras, Friday, January 14, has been extended from November 30 until tomorrow, Pete Isola, AMS president declared.

Organizations were requested to file their petitions early this semester to avoid any duplication in the matter of entertainment and concession booths for the Mardi Gras, Isola announced.

Contrary to previous extravaganzas, a smaller group of musicians will be presented at this year's affair than in the past for the entertainment of the masqueraders. Quality, not quantity, will be the order of the day for the music at the event, Isola inferred.

Several skits will be put on by campus clubs.

Junior Statesmen To Meet This Weekend

With 600 high school delegates attending, the Junior Statesman Convention of California is scheduled to be held tomorrow and Saturday in the Veterans Auditorium, Dean Edward Sandys said yesterday.

Sandy also declared that it will be a legislative session with 80 chapters of various high schools present. City College has an application to join the organization.

Rosenthal Judge In Kansas Contest

Prestige of City College and Pulitzer prize winning Joe Rosenthal spanned the nation today, as appointment of the Chronicle ace cameraman to the Kansas University School of Journalism Board of Judges, was received today by the administration.

Reputed as an example of greatness for cameramen, the former Pacific war correspondent holds six photography awards, gained through 18 years of competent and persistent press-experience.

The highly prominent lensman was appointed to the faculty this semester, and is instructing a course in Press Photography, course 87a.

Student Committee Announces Dates For Spring Election

Organization of the Associated Student elections for the Spring semester offices stepped into high gear today when Walt McRae, Election Committee chairman, announced Wednesday, January 19, and Thursday, January 20, as voting days.

Monday, January 3, through January 7, is designated as the dates for the issuance and submission of petitions for candidacy, and Tuesday, January 11, is appointed as the day to begin campaigns.

"This semester the candidates must hold to the letter of the regulations," McRae emphasized. "Any deviation will be reason enough for complete disqualification from the elections."

Regulations that McRae referred to include stipulations that no campaigning will be permitted in the main building and no campaign expenditure can exceed the $15 limit set by the committee.

McRae further said that handbills will be permitted, along with minor parades and speeches. However, literature and demonstrations must be first approved by the Deans of Men and Women as well as the Election Committee.

A new feature added to this semester's elections is that any person who endorses a candidate must do so on the official petition submitted to the committee.

The usual posters will be permitted this semester, as always. The rules governing the posting provide for a total of ten posters, five to be placed on or about the campus, five in the off-campus stores, one in each store.

Candidates must place their own posters, and remove them the day following elections.

Students who thought that a grade of "C—" (.5) would suffice are mistaken. A "C" (1.0) average must be maintained for eligibility to run, McRae said.

Statistics Indicate Insurance Field Best

Better salaries and commissions are earned in the insurance field than in any other, according to the statistics on City College graduates, recently released by the college insurance department.

Insurance, which is this city's largest business, has offered many graduates good jobs through the college's relations with the present active insurance companies.

"These companies, of course, want trained men," William Marsh, insurance department head, declared, "and we have been able to provide them at all times in the past. All our men have secured good salaries."

Extra Bowl Game Issue Will Appear On Friday

Because the Ram football team made the Gold Dust Bowl, and because the Student Council voted enough money, The Guardsman although not originally scheduled, will appear on Friday, December 10, Herbert M. Levy, Guardsman editor, announced today.

The extra edition will be a six-page affair, the added pages carrying Christmas concert pictures and stories, and exploiting the successfull Ram football team's bid to the newly formed bowl.

Earn-As-You-Learn Signup Begins

Focal point of the highly acclaimed Earn-As-You-Learn Retail Management Program captured widespread campus attention today, as a special report announeing immediate sign-up for the spring semester was made by department head, Sam Ziegler.

Possibility for an early fulfillment of the maximum 50 student limit was stressed by Ziegler, who emphasized that students should enroll immediately before the pre-arranged total is filled.

Special plans formulated for an advisory board meeting in January were blue-printed recently, in which business, union, and college representatives will appear to determine future policy and departmental procedures.

Significance to the importance of the newly innovated curriculum was mentioned in a letter by R. O. Watson, Safeway Stores executive, who hinted that the inability of present employees to qualify for executive positions brightened prospects for promotion of students participating in this program.

City College is the first institution in San Francisco to inaugurate a Retail-Management course of this type, and the only other parallel course is offered by a Los Angeles college.

Ziegler, in considering the advantages offered the student, surmised, "Promotional advantages are excellent in this field, with better than average salaries being offered to men and women who show aptitude for their jobs.

"An important feature of this plan is the fact that students have the opportunity to work part-time, while at school, on a job that will ultimately lead to a full-time position."

Student Ushers Needed

Ushers are needed for the Opera House performance of Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, Margaret Dougherty, dean of women, said today.

Students interested are urged to see Dean Dougherty in Building 2.

Tonight's performance which will include Swan Lake, Nuteracker Suite and Scheherazade will also present Giselle, and Pas de Quatre.

Rams Meet Panthers In Dust Bowl Saturday

Aiming for the best seasonal record ever compiled by a Ram grid team, the undefeated City College eleven collides with powerful Chaffey Junior College in the first annual Gold Dust Bowl game at Vallejo's Corbus Field Saturday night.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m.

Coach Grover Klemmer's Rams enter this tilt with 11 straight victories and are wearers of the Northern California Junior College Conference crown. The invaders from Ontario, California, however, have been installed as slight favorites to hand the Rams their initial loss.

The big Panthers use the single wing, with a solid line opening holes for a quartet of swift backs.

Austin Snyder and Orland DiCiccio, who scored ten touchdowns last season, spearhead the Panther attack. In eight games the high scoring Southerners have racked up 236 digits to their opponents' 96.

Sporting a bulky line, with Gino Bertolussi and Clyde Francisco, tough on defense, Chaffey's forwards have been instrumental in the Panthers' successful year. Only Santa Ana managed to eke out a 7 to 6 triumph over the Panthers.

In Francisco, the visitors possess a point after toughdown kicker who sports a 900 average on the placement kicks.

The only common opponent both clubs have met is East Los Angeles Junior College, Chaffey smacked the Huskies 20 to 6, while the Rams soundly thrashed them 48 to 6.

In his first year as coach, George Hobbs inherited an outfit that drubbed Kilgore Junior College 39 to 26 in the Little Rose Bowl last January 1.

Annual Christmas Concert Set For Next Friday Night

A Cappella Choir, Dance, Art And Drama Featured

FOUR PARTICIPANTS in the Christmas Concert pose prettily for the photographer while demonstrating their vocal adeptness in Adeste Fidelis. They are smiling little Kathleen Dunn, Barbara Wittrich, A Cappella Choir secretary, soloist Joan Welton, and earnest little Jimmy Sisler. Kathleen and Jimmy are candlebearers.

Dancers from Betty Heckman's dance classes will be an added feature of the 14th annual college Christmas Concert this Friday evening, December 10, in the campus auditorium, Flossita Badger, director, declared yesterday.

Dance participants include Olivia Clement, Frances Gomez, Edith Lankeneau, Doris Olsen and Lucie Wilson.

Ten Groups Assist

The Yuletide Concert, presented by the music department with the assistance of the drama, art, and dance departments, and sponsored by the Associated Women Students and the Faculty Association, will present selections by the A Cappella Choir, the Women's and Men's Choruses, as well as soloists from these groups and the Opera Workshop.

Feature of the concert are two holiday carols composed especially for the A Cappella Choir by Russell Garcia, modern composer and arranger, to be sung with the support of Jack Arroe, David Arrillaga, Anthony Cuevas, and Bob Sherratt, choir baritones.

Two Tableaux Included

Drama department students cast in the two tableaux, directed by Lloyd Sisler, and entitled The Medieval Christmas and The Holy Family, are Jack Gallisdorfer, Barbara Andress, Andrew Vangelates, Ian Jackson, Art Chimes, John Armstrong, Frank Eskelson, Ollie Matson, Bill Armstrong, Don Landers, Ed Edwards, Robert O'Rourke, Bill Sea, Charles Hulse, and Mary Cook.

A shorter preview of the concert is scheduled this afternoon for the Portalhurst Women's Club in the Portalhurst Church, Miss Badger said.

Members of the Associated Women Students who will usher are Maridee Zimmerman, AWS president, and Phyllis Allen, Janet Cox, Teddy Deckert, Darid Derito, Elvone Geeter, Beatrice Groger, and Eloise Harris. Others are Josephine Keh, Corrine Lambert, Andriana Litras, Barbara McBride, Phyllis Ryan, Marvelle Sneider, Claire Toth and Marilyn Wardlaw.

Midterms To Cancel Next College Hour

Midterm examinations, scheduled throughout the week, will cancel all college hour activities Friday, December 10, John J. Brady, assistant dean of men, announced yesterday.

The last day of classes before Christmas vacation is Friday, December 10, according to the official college calendar. Classes will start again Monday, December 27, the Monday following Christmas.

As Friday, December 10, will also terminate midterm week, the midterm grades will not be distributed until next year, Monday, January 3.

Denman Committee To Name Winners

Members of the Denman Scholarship committee will meet today to select the two women who will receive the $125 awards to aid in furthering their education, according to Margaret Dougherty, dean of women.

The committee is composed of Dr A J. Cloud, college president, Marcus Skarstedt, librarian, and Dean Dougherty.

The scholarship, based on scholastic achievements and leadership in college activities, is awarded to two women, attending City College, who have been graduated from San Francisco public high schools.

Honoring the late James Denman, former superintendent of schools and president of the Board of Education, the scholarship is perpetuated by Judge William Denman of United States Superior Court, and Mrs. Mary Denman Cheatham.

Santa Claus To Visit West Campus Thursday

Santa Claus is coming to the college cafeteria, and the children of City College students living in Hurley Village are invited to attend his second annual Christmas party on Thursday, December 9, at 2 p.m. in the cafeteria.

The party, under the auspices of the Associated Students, will have all the traditional trimmings, a decorated tree and ice cream and cake, donated by local merchants, college sororities, and Santa.

Colorful Booths Set For Mardi Gras

Permanent booths at the semi-annual Mardi Gras festival, Friday, January 14, in the auditorium, will share the spotlight with costumes, decorations, and music, Associated Men Student President Pete Isola, announced yesterday.

The AMS group will construct the booths for the campus organizations, returning money not spent from the five dollar cost price, to make it a profitless project, Isola declared.

Helping with the finance of the operation, Mardi Gras Kangaroo Court will contribute its proceeds to the campus organization fund, the Student Council decided.

Eighteen permanent booths for the event have been ordered, and concessions include photography booths, a dart game, a fortune teller, and a side show, Isola said.

What's This? Is Mike Angelo Still Here?

Retaliation apparently was wrought on City College by San Mateo last week with painted inscription on the Ram and the sidewalk in front of the main building.

Earlier last week painting on San Mateo's campus by unidentified students was reported to this college.

Seemingly the purpose, according to a Student Council member (name withheld), of the raid on San Mateo was to urge that college to return a drum, symbolic of the two colleges' rivalry.

Inscriptions at San Mateo read, "We won the game 26 to 0, so how about returning the drum?"

San Mateo's reply, in the form of whitewash on the sidewalk, stated "To hell with you and the drum too," or words to that effect.

"Such antics by either student body tend to demonstrate that there are still many juvenile minds in college," Dean Jack Brady commented.

Gold Dust Bowl Tickets Going Fast

With 60 sold the first day, tickets for the first annual Gold Dust Bowl game between Chaffey Junior College and City College are going fast.

The $1.80 ducats are on sale at the bank from 9:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. until Thursday, December 9.

Augmenting the Gold Dust Bowl contest, a full day's program of entertainment will be staged at Vallejo on Saturday, December 11.

Dancing at the popular Hotel Casa de Vallejo will continue from game's end until early morning. Highlight of the dance will be the presentation of a 31-inch trophy to the winning team, and a matching but slightly smaller one to its victim.

The outstanding player, picked by the attending sports writers, is to receive a 27-inch trophy, while each participating gridder will be awarded a similar 12-inch model.

City College's band, featuring State Champion baton twirler Ardele Healy, along with numerous Vallejo bandsmen are scheduled to parade during a 30 minute half-time period.

A Vallejo Junior College co-ed will be chosen half-time queen.

Beta Tau Announces Dance December 13

Local holiday spirit will reach its climax in campus activities when Beta Tau presents its fraternity dance of the semester Monday evening, December 13, in the Colonial Room of the St. Francis Hotel. Frank Coppel, dance committee member, announced yesterday.

Entitled Mistletoe Mingle, the affair has been traditional in the ranks of Christmas functions, Coppel said.

Wally Heider's orchestra will provide music for informally-garbed couples from 9 to midnight, with the Christmas spirit being the keynote of the affair.

No Quiz Program Here But If You Have No Ticket, You'll Be Sorry!

THIS Saturday night, as every student is obviously aware, the unbeaten City College Rams clash with Chaffey Junior College in the Gold Dust Bowl at Vallejo.

Thus far the response to the purchase of tickets has been only luke warm.

Selling price for admission to the game is $1.80 per student, with a rooting section reserved for this college centering on the 50-yard line.

The Guardsman urges all students to buy their tickets now, because only 2000 ducats are reserved for this college.

As in the past, undoubtedly a last minute rush for tickets will occur, and many students will raise the cry of "poor policy," or what have you, when they find that they are unable to get a ticket.

In Vallejo, the general admission tickets are completely sold out.

Reports from the 20-30 club of Vallejo, sponsors of the game, indicate that the 2000 tickets allotted to Chaffey Junior College have been sold out for a week.

A special train has been reserved to carry the 2000 fans from Southern California to Vallejo.

Tickets here unsold by Thursday will be taken immediately to Vallejo, where they will be put on general sale.

The Vallejo interests don't give a hoot if this college buys any tickets at all, because the demand for tickets in Vallejo has far exceeded the seating capacity of the stadium.

So again we urge the students of City College, if they wish to see their championship team in action, as well as support the team with Ram spirit, by all means to get their tickets now and avoid the rush that will inevitably occur.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

MIRACLES of the Atomic Age . . . according to a bulletin on the third floor of the main building, the medical society, Pi Mu Gamma will present "The Birth of Quadruplets." April 13, 1949, at 7:30 p.m. in Room 136 . . . better timing than Britain's prince had, no less.

Holiday Spirit . . . For evidence that local yuletide spirit is hitting a new high, one might make note of the following lessons in community cooperation.

Any two of the most diverse organizations on this campus might be the music department and the football team.

However, the team, with its ever-ready supply of husky men, is all set to aid the music and drama departments' production of the annual Christmas Concert, and none less than Ollie Matson, star Ram halfback, and Al Meyers, center, members of the team, will take part in the program.

Party Time . . . for Hurley Village children is coming up with the Associated Students sponsoring a gala kiddie affair come Thursday.

With the hope of getting outside publicity for the affair equaling that of the Hurley Village playground project of last semester, a publicity committee, headed by Nelson Jones, is pushing the affair.

An added attraction and a departure from previous semesters' handling of the affair is that the six campus sororities are providing the gifts for the children of City College vets.

By no means a charity affair, the party is merely designed for fun.

Incidentally, anyone wishing to do something nice might folllow the lead of the sororities in their lesson in community benefit by making with the Santa Claus . . . that is; drop a Christmas gift in Dean Margaret Dougherty's box in her office provided for just this purpose.

Benefit Continued . . . Just to show that their hearts are in the right places, each sorority on the campus is carrying on some sort of project this semester.

Following the benefit fashion show staged by Kappa Phi, and the card party sponsored by Phi Beta Rho, Theta Tau sorority will give its annual Christmas party for the little girls of St. John's orphanage.

Complete with Christmas tree and carols, the party will also feature one of the more over-stuffed members of Beta Tau as Santa Claus.

Two Year Students Dodge Four Hour Tyros—For Practical Reasons Only

By Johnnie Dorris

Two types of students now inhabit the City College campus.

One type makes up his mind when he enters to stay for two years, while the other "endures" a total of exactly four class hours.

Since such a great time difference exists between these two types, higher authority has taken steps to see that no fraternizing occurs. This is the reason that as one group leaves for the day the other arrives.

Some two year students are inclined to ignore these four-hour students or to label them as interlopers or fly-by-nights.

But the San Francisco School Department would hasten to correct this opinion, and if asked, would assuredly classify them as bonafide students.

To substantiate this claim, the four-hour students could point to the fact that the school department even furnishes them transportation, a claim which two year students would have a hard time equaling.

These four-hour students arrive on the campus between 3:30 and 4 o'clock every day, and can be observed after this time engaging in their "lab" work—with considerable stalling.

They are undoubtedly one of the happiest bunch of students in the city and proceed with their home work with zest uncommon to most students.

There is only one trouble surrounding the appearance of these four-hour students on the City College campus. Two-year students must be overly cautious when crossing the streets, because the four-hour students are in the start and stop stage of learning.

These fortunate few are members of the adult training driving classes which use the campus for practice.

Constituting their only City College work, the course is preparing them for better driving. Soon, they, too, will be able to function on four wheels even among the pedestrians of City College.

AGS Members Pull Grades And Remain Human

By Darlean Gordon

Four-eyed grinds? This, some bitter minds believe, is the label for Alpha Gamma Sigma members, Alpha Gamma Sigma being, the scholastic honor society of two-year colleges in the state.

"We're not monsters, we're just as 'human' as anyone else at this college," Bob Jonjock, AGS president, said recently.

And there are many active members in AGS who are in social societies at City College. Jonjock, himself, for instance, is a member of Beta Tau.

He stressed the fact that AGS is not a fraternal society. It is, instead, an honor organization with membership depending on scholastic ability and, naturally, both men and women are members.

Out of the some 5700 students at City College, about 65 are eligible for membership, yet there are only 30 active students in this society, probably because some are unaware of their eligibility.

Don Jensen, math instructor, will become the regular adviser of AGS replacing Edwin Cranston, who is now on leave. Jensen, while attending City College, was president of AGS and also of the Associated Students. Marjorie Ballbache is the social adviser.

AGS meets during college hour and is currently searching for a means of acquiring funds for the club. Either the members will offer donations, or the club will present a social event open to City College students.

Meetings are also for the purpose of distributing membership cards and silver pins or gold pins to those members who have not as yet received them.

The silver pins are temporary, representing semester membership, while the gold pins represent sufficient semester membership for permanent recognition.

Also to be determined is the traditional tea held each semester for high school honor students. The purpose of this tea is to attract the higher caliber students to City College, and this semester's is scheduled for the latter part of January.

For additional information regarding AGS, there is a bulletin board between the two doors of the registrar's office in the main building, where notices are posted regularly — and where new lights were recently installed.

Industrial Color Scheme Prevents Machine Mishaps

By Dick Brennan

Color Conditioning, a new industrial safety technique, can now be seen in the progressive City College machine shop. Designed to promote safety through increased visibility, the new system was developed by the Du Pont Chemical Company.

The background of all machine equipment is painted horizon grey. All moving parts are painted spot light buff, and the mechanical and electrical controls are painted a bright blue. For all but the color blind students, this is a big improvement.

Well equipped with all the latest tools and machines, the shop serves as a laboratory for both the terminal students and the engineering majors.

Altogether 250 students are receiving valuable training under the able direction of instructors Wilbur Russell and Frank Fermer.

(Anyone calling the new color system cute or referring to the colors as powder blue and cheerful buff has to stand in the corner for the rest of the hour.)

Club Cavalcade . . .

By Jim Baker

(Editor's Note: The deadlines for club news are Wednesday noon for Tuesday's paper and Monday noon for Friday's paper; material accepted at The Guardsman.)

• Cosmopolitan Society: The social meeting held recently was managed by Bettye La Vasser.

• Pick and Hammer Society: Members journeyed to Mount Diablo and vicinity recently to study the stratigraphy of the area and collect fossils.

• Strikes and Spares: Meetings scheduled every Tuesday and Thursday at the west campus gate at 3:15 p.m. for a trek to bowling alleys, where matches end at 5:15 p.m.

• Tau Chi Sigma: Plans are being made for the semi-annual dinner to be held at the end of this semester.

• Theta Tau: Pledges for the semester are Lois Arfsten, Maureen Carolla, Nancy Curry, Margaret Hitchcock, Margaret Hoppe, Dorothy Jordan, Kay Kelly, Dolores Mahoney, Jeanne Marsh, Ann McBride, Dolly McDonald, Barbara Meyer, Sally Prosser, Elizabeth Scheutman, Shirley Swanson, Janet Wood.

• Tri Epsilon: Lloyd Ferguson, Bud Baumgartner, Peter Krenkel, Bill MacGuern, were formally initiated at Gray's Hall on November 26.

'Man Who Came To Dinner' Success

Lord, Plus Convincing Cast, Great In Three Act Comedy

By Bud Price

Climaxing a five performance run, Kaufman and Hart's hilarious comedy, "The Man Who Came to Dinner," directed by Lloyd Sisler, came to a close last night. The three-act play, presented in Room 28, played to capacity crowds all four nights, as well as the Friday matinee.

Particularly noted in performances was the work of John Lord as Sheridan Whiteside, who undoubtedly put on one of the most convincing portrayals seen in a long time by City College play-goers.

The hectic atmosphere of the play commenced immediately after the first curtain rose, and continued for three side-splitting hours.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley is the setting of the play, and the cast, in order of appearance included:

Geraldine Schmale, as Mrs. Ernest W. Stanley, Carolyn Riese as Miss Preen, Jack Gallisdorfer as Richard Stanley, Royle Ebert and Shirley Wingate as June Stanley, Pat Paulsen, replete with Swedish accent, as John, Barbara Combs as Sarah.

Jo Ann Setlow as Mrs. Dexter, Gladys Ausburn as Mrs. McCutcheon, John Noll and John Mix as Mr. Stanley, Mary Ann Stewart and Rita Fabri as Maggie Cutler, and Jack Jones as Dr. Bradley.

Lord, as Whiteside, makes his first appearance five minutes into the first act, brought in by Nurse Preen in a wheel chair, and the fun starts.

The reason for the wheel chair is that Whiteside is suffering a broken hip, sustained when he slipped on the Stanley's ice-laden steps as he came to dine with them.

Carolyn Glasnow, as Harriet Stanley, put on a convincing performance as Stanley's slightly insane sister, who was referred to by Whiteside as "something out of The Hound of the Baskervilles."

Jack Hulse as Bert Jefferson, reporter for the Mesalia Journal was believable in his portrayal, as was Art Chames as Professor Metz, collector of beetles.

Van Dietz, Roman Rhine and Wilburn Aston, sporting striped prisoners' suits, were led in during the middle of the first act as Whiteside's luncheon guests.

Lorraine Sheldon was played by Joan Anderson very commendably, and the climax of the play started as she was shut up in a mummy case by Whiteside and Banjo, portrayed by Jerry Lustig and Dick Totaro.

Beverly Carlton, played by Chuck Hulse and Dave Irvine, was veddy British and veddy good.

The play had a slightly personal touch to it, as the players acted their parts surrounded on three sides by the audience.

JOHN LORD as Sheridan Whiteside.

Three City College Men Make All-Conference Soccer Eleven

By Leo Buccarelli

Three men from City College's third place soccer team captured first string All-Conference honors as the Northern California Intercollegiate Soccer Season draws to a close this Saturday.

The league champions from the University of San Francisco also placed three men on the squad, while second place California contributed two, Stanford two, and the U. C. Aggies one.

Captain of the All-Conference team is Steve Negoescu of USF.

Capable of holding down any front line position adequately, the Rams' league leading scorer, Francis Granadino, was moved from center forward to inside right to make room for Rudy Nevhaus of the U. C. Aggies.

Aggressive George Volkoff spark-plugged the Ram defense with his long 60 to 70 yard kicks.

This is the first Northern California Intercollegiate All-Conference soccer team picked with the assistance of all coaches in the league.

RAM SOCCER SQUAD WINS

City College's soccer eleven closed the season with a 5-1 verdict over the Stanford Indians Saturday morning at Brach Chalet.

Rams Host Gators In Boxing Opener

City College's varsity boxing team, fired to the nth degree with enthusiasm, receives its initial test tonight when they swap blows with San Francisco State.

Admittance to the 16 bout program in the men's gymnasium, which commences promptly at 7 p.m., is free to the public.

His last season's charges accorded national ranking among the top five two-year school competitors, fistic coach Roy Diederichsen is outwardly optimistic for the coming campaign.

Among the sure fire contenders for regular berths after the holidays are several pugilists expected to prove their claim in this evening's "square dance" with the Gators.

Veterans Johnny Fisher, crafty featherweight; Len Garcia, 127 pound specialist; Nelson Yee, lightweight standout; Roy Damas, tops in the 140 bracket; crafty Nick Canuli, welterweight; Joe Veaucasavic, middleweight swifty; and hard hitting Frank Suega, will highlight tonight's card along with other entrants from the intramural ranks.

Ram Cagers Face Santa Rosa Today, Whip Armstrong College, Cal Frosh

By Bob Quinlan

Victorious in their first two outings, the Ram cagers tangle with a stronger foe today, Santa Rosa Junior College. Tipoff time for the non-conference game on the local hardwoods is 4:30 p.m.

A preliminary encounter between the junior varsities of the two colleges is on tap for 3:00 o'clock.

The locals routed Armstrong College, 66-35, last Tuesday night, and, after a slow start, overran the University of California Frosh, 62-45, Friday afternoon, both games being played in the men's gymnasium.

Doug Truelson and Kev Duggan paced the Rams' attack with 13 and 10 points respectively in the Armstrong encounter. The game's high scoring laurels went, however, to Bob Hudinen of the losers with 17 digits.

The scoring sprees of Bob Payne and Truelson, plus the floor play of Bob Metheny and Les Brilliant, proved too much for the Cal Frosh as the locals took their second straight game. Al Rose of the Cubs and Truelson shared point honors with 15 markers.

Jim Caldwell injured his ankle and was forced to refire for the remainder of the game Friday.

Volleyball Entries Due

Deadline for intramural volleyball entries is Thursday, December 9, intramural director Tom Wilson announced yesterday. Teams are limited to ten players, and playing time is tentatively scheduled for 4 o'clock.

Liniment Brigade Consoles, Counsels

By Roy Hurlbert

Unheralded for their timely tasks, the towel and tape toters of Ram varsity football managers are nevertheless vital cogs in grid boss Grover Klemmer's unbeaten juggernaut.

Led by headman of the water bucket brigade, burly Armand "Gabby" Garbarino, this dependable corps de liniment, including Tom Policita, George Chappino, and Don Morrison, perform their various duties ranging from lending a consoling ear to the woes and whims of their "boys" of the gridiron to barking their unofficial counsel to the Klemmermen at unpredictable intervals.

And if you're of mind to doubt the enthusiasm of these all-purpose handymen, just take a look see in the direction of the bench come tomorrow night.

They'll be on the job. As if any squad could get along without 'em.

Locals Behind At Half, But Emerge To Win 24-9

By Walt Roessing

Ollie Matson sprinted to two clinching third period scores against the Menlo Oaks Saturday afternoon at George Washington Stadium to win the game for City College 24-9, and capture the championship of the NCJC conference.

Playing lackadaisical ball in the first half, the Rams were pushed up and down the field by the power-laden Oaks, and left the turf trailing 6-7, at the intermission.

Matson ran 54 yards on the first scrimmage play in the third stanza for a touchdown to put the locals ahead 12-7. Late in the same period, he took a punt on the dead run, on the City College 32, and with beautiful blocking, the mercurial flash loped 68 yards into the end zone.

These two TD's upped Matson's seasonal total of 114 markers.

City College drove 43 yards in the final period for a tally. Julian Bala diving over for the score from the one-foot line, in the Rams' eleventh straight win.

The red-and-white gridiron express had tallied their first six-pointer in the second quarter on a 58-yard pass play, Bob Toquinto to Don Stillwell. Bala missed all of his conversion tries during the afternoon.

Menlo had scored in the opening period on a 67-yard aerial and run from Lowell Barkett to Tom McCormick, Dave Rosenkranz kicked the extra digit.

WAA Members Attend Badminton Tourney

Members of the Women's Athletic Association co-educational badminton club took part in the Northern California Junior College Badminton Tournament in Sacramento, last Saturday, December 4, Shirley Austin, president, said yesterday.

The group that attended the affair was coached by Nancy Sparks and Tom Wilson, instructors.

Some members of the WAA also attended a Sports Day at Santa Rosa December 4. Miss Austin added, where games played were badminton, tennis, and volleyball.

NO THROAT IRRITATION due to smoking CAMELS!

MAKE YOUR OWN 30-DAY CAMEL MILDNESS TEST. Smoke Camels, and only Camels, for 30 days. Prove for yourself just how mild Camels are!

Hundreds of men and women, from coast to coast, recently made a similar test. They smoked an average of one to two packs of Camels a day for 30 days. Their throats were examined by noted throat specialists. After a total of 2470 examinations—these throat specialists reported not one single case of throat irritation due to smoking Camels!

But prove it yourself . . . in your "T-Zone." Let YOUR OWN TASTE tell you about the rich, full flavor of Camel's choice tobaccos. Let YOUR OWN THROAT give the good news of Camel's cool, cool mildness.

According to a Nationwide survey:

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

FOLLOWING a few semesters of watching all types of campus organizations come and go, it's gratifying to see a few groups finally trying to organize for purely social reasons with all the members of the organization benefitting from the activities.

The main purpose of the outfits we have in mind is simply to form an association of persons for the promotion of some object, in this case, bowling, radio, and astronomy, respectively.

But, before we are trampled under by conscience-troubled individuals, let us add that this tidbit is not aimed at rectifying any existing evils, but rather to say "more power to you" to the collection of collegians who are out to enjoy college life.

SET 'EM UP AGAIN

First among these fun-lovers is the Strikes and Spares aggregation. Passed the embryonic stage, the club is currently bowling them over at the Mission Sport Center every Tuesday and Wednesday afternoon.

King pin in the outfit is President John Wrieht with the physical education department affording sponsorship via Gloria Swiegood and Roy Burkhead.

All inhabitants of alleys, preferably the hardwood variety, are invited to join the ranks of keglers. Transportation is provided by the club for all interested students with ears leaving from the west campus gate at 3:15 p.m. each bowling day.

The novice need have no fear of looking like a clown in his initial attempts, for instruction is also provided. Movies and lectures on how to improve one's game are offered to members during college hours while practical lessons are conducted on the alleys under the tutelage of Rowena Nichols.

The other group which has stated desires of becoming full grown pin wearers are under the fathering wing of Louis Berman, astronomy instructor, who is the source for information concerning proposed astronomy and radio clubs.

CALLING ALL HAMS

Taking the hams first, because they're closer to home and in more abundance, Berman is out to find at least 15 radio operators, including dot and dash men, who are interested in matching wave lengths.

The club would also give the hams the necessary experience, without baking in their own juice, to obtain an FCC operator's license to operate a radio station.

Also on Berman's list of hopefuls is an astronomy society. This is the ideal spot for anyone interested in a little company for star gazing sessions. Such a group would be able to secure outstanding astronomers for lecture purposes with the members benefitting also from field trips which would be arranged to nearby observatories.

Anyone possessed with a desire to meet with others interested in participating in above mentioned activities should hustle up to Room 100 and make their intentions known to Dr. Berman.

New Annual Format Called Ram-Pages

Ram-Pages, selected as the official name of the year book, will be advertised by posters placed around the campus, Bob McVey, editor, announced.

Sophomores planning to graduate in June and wishing to have their picture in Ram-Pages must see McVey in Room 6R before December 10.

Students who have handed in their petitions for graduation, will receive envelopes containing information about pictures and are requested to return the enclosed blanks as soon as possible. Appointments for taking pictures will be made between December 27 and January 3, and scheduled on campus, McVey added.

The price of the pictures, 75 cents, will aid in financing the yearbook.

William Bush, another sponsor of the project, has had experience with publishing yearbooks before and is a photography technician.

The point was stressed that picture appointments not kept on campus would result in greater inconvenience and expense by rescheduling a seating at the studio.

The present year-book staff was released as follows: Bob McVey, editor; Stanley Sadler, art editor; Bob Nussbaum, business manager; Jean Marsh, graduate editor; Jim Davis, photographer; Alice Tatam, Charlett Jacks, Jack Hagan, Jo Ann Cox, and Hal Eisert are assistants.

Post Office Openings Available To Students

In addition to its regular allotment, City College has received an additional 250 job openings for post office work during the Christmas season. These jobs were made possible through the efforts of John F. Fixa, acting postmaster for the San Francisco Post Office.

Students desiring Christmas jobs and who have not as yet been placed should keep in contact with the placement office daily, since there is a possibility that there will be job openings in other fields within the next two or three weeks, Joseph Amori, placement director, said.

The placement office reports that this year's sign up for Christmas jobs is the largest since the college began.

Traffic Group Enlists Help To Enforce Laws

All students are called to co-operate in the enforcement of the traffic laws around the campus and two blocks adjoining.

A traffic committee has enlisted students to see that necessary measures be taken to enforce the laws. All member officers are associated with the San Francisco Police Department.

Floral Groups Plans New Garden Designs

The Association of Landscape Architects, now preparing for next spring's Garden Show in Oakland, called upon City College's floral classes and other interested groups, today, to work full speed ahead on their respective designs.

In the same message addressed to Jack Edminster, chairman of the College's Flower Show committee, the advisory board, selected from the Association of Landscape Architects, indicated that the floral display will have considerably more space this year than in the past.

The board believes that the theme chosen, A Century of Gardens, offers a wide range of possibilities for an excellent show in several respects. "The intention is," reads their message, "that the theme picture in the Exposition Building shall be that of the locale and scenery first seen by the pioneers as they crossed the Sierras. Every attempt will be made to keep this picture authentic."

The Flower Show will be held April 26 to May 1, inclusive.

Musty Books, Lost Items Guarded By Instructor

Securely locked away in a vault in Building 2 are dozens of books, colorful bandanas, women's gloves, wallets of all description, binders and sundry other college supplies.

Custodian of all these choice items and many more is Fred MacFarland, supervisor of the Lost and Found department.

Some of the articles turned in at the switchboard in the main building and brought down to Building 2 daily, have been around for a long time, MacFarland said.

Important items are usually claimed the same day or the day following.

Although there are many daily claimants, the shelves of the big cupboard is still well filled and probably will stay that way, MacFarland added.

Club Advisory Board Discuss Banquet Plans

Revision of the Associated Student constitution as it relates to the Club Advisory Board, was offered to the board at a recent meeting.

After introduction of essential new items—details for the club's future banquet and emblems for fraternity pins—Dean Jack Brady said that no organization, under any circumstances, would be allowed to hold dances, or any social event, on campus that is not properly approved by the Student Council.

The CAB functions as a coordinating agency for chartered organizations within the college.

Unable to vote until next meeting when its constitution is duly passed, the CAB closed its session by approving the Omicron Phi Pi activities.

Concert Heralds Yuletide Season Tonight

Auditorium Scene Of Traditional All College Festival

By Eleanor Zais

Christmas songs will usher in the Yuletide season tonight with the presentation of the 14th annual Christmas Concert at 8:15 p.m. in the campus auditorium.

Presented on the campus for the first time in many years, the concert will feature the A Cappella Choir, Men's Chorus, Women's Chorus, and soloists from the Opera Workshop, according to Flossita Badger, choir and program director.

Under the direction of Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, two tableaux, The Holy Family and The Medieval Christmas, will be staged by the drama classes.

Young Candlebearers

Leading the processional as candlebearers will be the concert's youngest participants, Kathleen Dunn and Sisler.

Included on the program are soprano soloist Eileen Scott, who will sing Jesus, Jesus, Rest Your Head, and Bring a Torch Jeannette, Isabella, supported by the Women's Chorus.

Rise Up, Shepherd, and Follow will be sung by Velma Webster with the support of the choir.

Selections from Messiah

Four selections from Handel's Messiah will be presented with Bruce Millar, Sherril Alver, and Mrs. Scott as soloists, and the combined choruses singing the Hallelujah Chorus.

Two Christmas numbers composed especially for the choir by Russell Garcia will be sung for the first time, and Soprano Joan Welton will join the choir as soloist in the traditional favorite, Silent Night.

New addition to the concert are dancers from Betty Heckman's dance classes.

Gertrude Norgard and Harold Cunningham direct the Women's and Men's Choruses, respectively, and Meyer M. Cahn is orchestra director. Concert narrator is Frank McCue.

Two Week Christmas Break Starts Today

A welcome two weeks' Christmas holiday vacation was anticipated today, the last day of instruction until classes resume on Monday, December 27.

Because of midterm formalities no college hour is scheduled but F. Grant Marsh has indicated that a special session will be called for Monday, January 3, when grade results will be made available.

Guardsman scribes will take a brief sojourn resuming their labors to rattle off the next issue Friday, December 31.

College Rally Group Does Much For Many

City College's first organized rah rah committee headed by chief Bill Hansen, performs the proverbial job of a few doing much for many.

Reference is cast upon the 21 unnoticeables whose tasks are essential toward providing local go-getters with rally entertainment, half time activities, card stunts, and their like.

Steve Mayfield, Harry Williams, and Dave Strauch direct this group as division heads.

Assisting these tub-thumpers are "staff men" Larry Webber, Robert Kirk, Bill Emree, Dave Irvine, Steve Norris, Chuck Murphy, Frank Rivers, Bob Fuery, Bill McGraw, Dave Morgan, Tony Cuevas, Lane Currie, Hewitt Kendall, Wes Wynn, Hal Eisert, Jack Mix, and Bob McVey.

Rams Clash With Panthers Tomorrow Night

Locals Favored By One Touchdown For Vallejo Bowl Game

By Walt Heil

It's a bowl game for City College tomorrow night.

Climaxing their most successful grid season, the unbeaten Rams, for the first time in the college's history, will play in a bowl game when they meet powerful Chaffey Junior College in the Gold Dust Bowl at Corhus Field in Vallejo tomorrow evening.

By virtue of an undefeated season, the latest odds have swung over and now favor the locals by the narrow margin of one touchdown. However, by the time the two clubs take to the field for the 8 p.m. kickoff, the odds may be even.

Line Averages 200

The invaders from Ontario, California, boast a solid line that hovers around the 200-pound mark. Gino Bertolussi, Clyde Franciseo, and Fred Tomaseck are the Panthers' top forwards. Aurelio Pruneri, 240, and Jerry Bell, 208, are the heaviest men in the starting line.

Reports from the southland indicate that Chaffey has a quartet of versatile backs. A devastating passing attack coupled with a fast moving ground game make the Panthers a high scoring team. In eight games, the visitors have rung up 236 points.

Coach George Hobbs advocates the single wing variations. His best backs are Orland DiCiccio, Austin Snyder, and Frank Merrick, 190-pound fullback. DiCiccio, the quarterback, ran to 10 touchdowns last year.

If the game is close, the Panthers hope the toe of Clyde Francisco, with his .900 average on conversions, can win for them.

Matson, Toquinto Spark Team

Not a team to grind out long drives, the Rams must rely on the breakaway threat of Ollie Matson and the passing of Bob Toquinto for their touchdowns. So far this season Matson has exploded for 114 points in 11 games.

Although outweighed by the bigger Chaffey forwards, the Ram front rank should give the Panthers plenty of trouble. Led by All-American junior college center Burl Toler, the Ram line has allowed only 55 digits in 11 games.

Game To Be Broadcast

Radio stations KVON in Napa and station KOCS in Ontario, California, will broadcast the Gold Dust Bowl tomorrow night from Vallejo.

Ontario, California, is the home town of Chaffey Junior College, the Rams' opponent for the intersection grid classic.

Ten Departments Aid Christmas Production

Ten college departments and organizations are aiding in the production of tonight's annual Christmas Concert.

For the first time, dancers under the direction of Betty Heckman, will appear in the music festival.

From the music department comes singers, furnished by the A Cappella Choir, the Women's Chorus, and the Men's Chorus. Five college organizations, Mu Iota Psi, Lambda Alpha, the Band Association, Drama Society and choir officers are assisting.

Ushering for the concert is by the Associated Women Students.

Decorations in the campus auditorium are by the art department, under the direction of William Eckert.

Matson, Toler On All-American

By Herbert M. Levy, Editor

Ollie Matson, Ram left halfback, and Burl Toler, center, were named All-Americans on the official Junior College selections yesterday.

According to a United Press release in San Francisco, the National Junior College Conference headquarters in Phoenix, Arizona, named the two City College gridsters as All-Americans this week.

Fabulous Ollie Matson, the Grey Ghost of the City College eleven, has rambled for 19 touchdowns scoring 114 points. Matson has also passed for one score.

In addition to cracking all existing junior college scoring records, Matson is recognized as a valuable defensive man.

Burl Toler, defensive backbone of the City College line, statistically is accredited with making or aiding on 80 per cent of the tackles through the Ram line.

Toler is the co-captain of the City College eleven.

Toler, also in his first season of varsity play, reputedly has never previously played football on an organized grid team.

Coach Grover Klemmer, on receiving word of their selection, said, "I am very glad to hear it, naturally, and if any members should have made it, it should have been they." Klemmer added, "In addition, it pleases me in that they are good football players plus the fact that they are both team leaders."

Bill Fischer, line coach, said, "Burl, surprisingly, is equally capable on offense as well as defense," adding, "usually line men are only good at one or the other." Fischer also reaffirmed the statement that Toler has all the qualities of leadership.

Denman Scholarship Winners Chosen

Selected as the winners of the Denman scholarships, Joyce Anderson and Marian Chin have received their awards of $125 each, Dr. A. J. Cloud, college president, announced this week.

The awards are given to two women attending this college who have graduated from San Francisco's public high schools, to aid them in furthering their education.

Selection is based on scholastic achievements and leadership in college activities.

The scholarship is offered by Judge William Denman of the United States Superior Court and his sister, Mrs. Mary Cheatham, in memory of their father, the late James Denman, former Superintendent of Schools and President of the Board of Education. Denman Junior High School was named in his honor.

Members of the committee selecting the two women were Dr. Cloud; Marcus Skarstedt, librarian; and Margaret Dougherty, dean of women.

Harry James Arranger Composes Choir Songs

Russell Garcia, composer of two Christmas songs dedicated to the college A Cappella Choir, is currently music arranger for Harry James' and Mark Warnow's bands.

This Californian has been writing symphonies, string quartets and other compositions since his junior high school days.

Garcia toured the country as trumpeter and arranger for Ran Wilde's band, and has also composed musical scores for Warner Bros., Paramount and the Selznick Studios.

Faculty To Get Treat; Smorgasbord Is Menu

A Smorgasbord dinner for the college faculty and their families in the student lounge tonight at 6 p.m. will precede the Christmas Concert, Thomas R. Porter, Faculty Association president, said yesterday.

This Smorgasbord dinner will be the first preparation of its kind for the Hotel and Restaurant Division. Buffet suppers were held before.

A group of choral singers will provide entertainment for the dinner, Mildred Bernard, committee chairman, disclosed.

'Impromptu' Rally To Follow Concert

As part of one of the biggest weekends in City College's history, an "impromptu" rally for the Ram-Chaffey game will be held in the student lounge immediately after the Christmas Concert tonight.

Although midterm examinations eliminated any chance for a day rally, Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, said that the rally should be one of the best of the semester.

Hanson further said that players from The Man Who Came To Dinner and talent from the rally committee will participate.

Bands to spark the Gold Dust Bowl game will be those of Chaffey College, Vallejo Junior College, and City College.

Tentative plans are being made to combine the Vallejo band with that of City College, possibly 100 pieces in combination, to play in pre-game ceremony The Star-Spangled Banner.

At halftime the Vallejo band will present a pageant, Walt McRae, Ram band leader, said.

City College Goes On Display Before The Fans; We Thank The Local Press

TOMORROW night City College goes before the public as a college that has earned sufficient merit in the academic field as well as the football field.

Because of the college's athletic prowess, which is usually the first sign of recognition among educational plants around the nation, the academic side of the college, generally, follows. Then a college is truly recognized for its merits, pertaining to all phases of collegiate endeavor.

THUS, AT VALLEJO TOMORROW, IN ADDITION TO THE METROPOLITAN PRESS BEING REPRESENTED, THE GOLD DUST BOWL GAME WILL BE AIRED OVER AT LEAST TWO RADIO STATIONS WITHIN CALIFORNIA.

This college has come a long way in its wish to be recognized as THE College in San Francisco.

As stated, the first recognition usually comes in the athletic world.

TO THE 1948 CHAMPIONSHIP CITY COLLEGE FOOTBALL TEAM GOES THE HONOR OF OPENING THE WAY FOR HAVING THIS COLLEGE REALLY ESTABLISHED IN THE MINDS OF THE BAY AREA CITIZENRY.

Perhaps the best medium for conveying to the world that City College of San Francisco does exist, is the daily newspapers.

The Guardsman wishes to thank, very humbly in fact, the write-ups and other general publicity afforded to this college by the San Francisco Chronicle, Examiner, Call-Bulletin, and News.

PERHAPS MORE THAN ANYONE, WE WISH TO EXPRESS OUR GRATITUDE TO JOE HAUGHEY, SPORTS WRITER FOR THE NEWS, FOR HIS CONSTANT INTEREST AND UNDERSTANDING OF THIS COLLEGE AND OF THIS COLLEGE'S DESIRE TO BE RECOGNIZED FOR WHAT IT IS.

We think City College is hovering on the threshold of something great.

—AGAIN THE GUARDSMAN SAYS "THANK YOU." CHRONICLE, EXAMINER, CALL-BULLETIN AND TO JOE HAUGHEY OF THE SAN FRANCISCO NEWS.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

MORALIZING is not the duty of a newspaper column; but in this case Accentuate can't help but say "we told you so"!

The "we told you so" in this instance being The Guardsman's advice to take in the little theater off Phelan Avenue's production of The Man Who Came to Dinner. We are proud for picking such a winner.

Running for five consecutive performances, The Man Who Came to Dinner played to a standing room only audience. Many were turned away at the door.

Probably the main drawing card for the show was the allure of bearded John Lord as the hero of the piece, Sheridan Whiteside.

There is no need to recount the attractions of Mr. Lord, among them that he is the author of a racy little satire and a former colleague of Maurice Evans in the GI version of Hamlet.

Of main concern to us now is Lord's performance at this end, which is Guardsman readers had the privilege of seeing, was truly, "a thing of joy." Lord's biting wit, his voice inflections so reminiscent of Monty Wooley, and his perfect appearance all added up to a characterization which positively makes us humble.

Any critic who could have seen the show would have left with a lack of anything to say in the way of criticism, for by their preparation the drama department coached by Lloyd Sisler, "overlooked" possible weaknesses.

Although there is scarcely room or need to call attention to all the outstanding performances, we feel we must mention a role which while keeping with the theme of the comedy, added a touch of very real sadness. This role was Carolyn Glashow's characterization of the axe-murderess, Harriet Stanley.

Mary Ann Stewart, Jack Hulse, Jack Jones, Chuck Hulse, Rita Fabri, and John Noll—all were outstanding.

Of added import to City College lies regarding this show is that the production, or any other, could be such a success regardless of a number of die-hards on this campus.

To clarify—a die-hard is common in this locale as the type who moans continuously about a so-called small-time college life.

But with a small-scale production such as this turning crowds away and rating acclaim reviews, it appears that the college is not so lacking in the nebulous quality termed spirit as some might purport.

"DON'T TELL ME, I KNOW WHAT YOU WANT FOR CHRISTMAS, BUT YOU'RE GETTING SOMETHING TO WEAR."

Choir Manager T. Cuevas Began Career In Othello

By Roy Pasini

Hidden among the ranks of the A Cappella Choir, which climaxes a semester of musical work at tonight's Christmas Concert, is Tony Cuevas, as genial a person as one would care to meet.

Serving his third semester as a member of the college's choral group, the efficient choir manager first went on the stage, grand opera at that, at the impressive age of 11 when he played in Othello, the same opera which featured Lawrence Tibbett in the lead role.

Because of his age, Cuevas had to be content with a minor role, that of a child in a mob scene, but it was this performance which started him on the road of song.

Cuevas began his vocal career at Lowell High where he was a member of the Glee Club.

Although he has no burning desire to make choir singing his vocation he feels that the experience which he has gained from this work will prove beneficial in later life.

A business major here, Cuevas plans to go on to San Jose State in the Fall, from where he hopes to enter his chosen field in some capacity connected with personnel.

A very capable fellow, Cuevas does not confine his talents to the vocal end of choir work. Besides his duties as choir manager, which entail everything from handling business arrangements to folding gowns worn by the group, the role of a director is also listed among his accomplishments.

His biggest moment along this line came last Spring at the NCJC Musical Festival in San Jose. The day before the CCSF Men's Glee Club was to perform, Harold Cunningham, director, was confined to his bed, so with but 24 hours notice, Cuevas filled in for the ailing faculty director with pleasing results.

Not one to grab the spotlight, Cuevas gives ample credit for a job well done to his assistant manager, Margie Steinhauser, to Barbara Wittrich, secretary, and to chairman of properties, Dave Arrillaga, a fellow Cuevas tabs as chief trouble shooter.

Of his own position the self-made pianist says, "I just talked loud enough and long enough until they were used to having me around."

MARGARET STEINHAUSER and Tony Cuevas, assistant choir manager and manager, respectively, look over the program for the annual Christmas Concert scheduled this evening at 8:15 in the auditorium.

Men Out-Vote Women In Soph Election For King-Queen

By Gene Ellison

With the elections of the Sophomore King and Queen contest completed, 15 contestants await coronation of the winning couple at the Sophomore Formal, January 29, 1949, Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium.

Final vote tabulation revealed that 149 Associated Women Students voted for king, and 264 Associated Men Students voted for the queen, giving a total of 413 votes cast in the royal election, much higher than was expected, according to Dick Featherstonhaugh, Sophomore class president.

Arrangements are being made for the coronation night, which includes the dance, coronation of king and queen, and various other entertainment, Featherstonhaugh added.

Emporium Hires Guardsman Artist

Lloyd Cunningham, Guardsman cartoonist with only one year experience in his field, has gone beyond his City College duties and has landed a challenging position with the Emporium Company downtown.

As an artist for the company, Cunningham has done a series of cartoons advertising the charg-a-plate, used by all departments in the huge store.

Cunningham is a graduate of Lowell High School, where he was president of the Student body, and since in his cartoons has established himself in the eyes of City College students as the creator of the perennial freshman.

Red-And-White On Ram Again; Color Completed

By Arnold Solkov

Just as the swallows return to Capistrano in the spring, spirited students from enemy colleges return to City College in football season to regale the west campus Ram with a polychromatic color scheme.

Knowing this fact full well, certain men-about-campus last week restored the Ram to its original red-and-white in preparation for the next onslaught of spirit-filled college students.

However, not all art work is restricted to the redwood-hewn Ram. Sometimes, unintentionally of course, a few minor buildings receive their share of daubings.

Naturally, no lively City College student will take this colored insult lying abed. Some have ventured into enemy campuses to practice the instruction they received in Art 21A, as is evidenced on the San Mateo campus.

(A few local joiners travelled there to do a Picasso on the Bulldog kennel in retaliation for the "liberation" of the tom-tom.

(San Mateo popped right back to place on City College's well worn steps a slogan which ran to the effect, "We don't care what the score was, but to hell with you and the tom-tom, too.")

Letters to the Editor

• Blocks

Editor, The Guardsman:

It has been brought to my attention that there are a number of athletes wearing unauthorized block letters on the campus.

If this practice is not stopped immediately, these persons will not be admitted to membership in the Block Society next year.

In addition, if these persons continue to wear their unauthorized letters, any legitimate letters or awards coming to them will be withheld at the time that they should be issued.

I also ask any persons wearing high school letters to please refrain from wearing them on the campus.

• Slight Rebuke

Editor, The Guardsman:

All who have seen the play, The Man Who Came to Dinner, have, by this date, praised and congratulated all concerned from Mr. Sisler on down to "Tiny Tim," such praise and congratulations they well deserve.

Couldn't the college radio engineers do something about adapting the acoustics of the auditorium for a play? If large drapes were hung from the ceiling dividing the auditorium in half, it would impart the intimacy that the players seem to like and make the audience more comfortable.

College Boasts Large Nurse Training Course

By Dick Brennan

Seven local hospitals, cooperating with the college natural science department, have made City College the largest nursing school in San Francisco.

Approximately 200 beginning nursing students are receiving instruction in physiology, human anatomy, and psychology.

As the course is an apprenticeship program, most of the students are resident student nurses at the following hospitals; Franklin, Mt. Zion, Children's, French, St. Luke's, St. Francis, and Mary's Help.

Requiring close cooperation with the various hospitals, the course boasts a large and competent staff headed by coordinating director Kenneth Hobbs.

"Interested students," Hobbs said, "should inquire at the hospital of their choice for information about nursing courses."

Is there a doctor in the house? Maybe not, but the college is well supplied with nurses.

Mohr Heads Compton Bowl Selection

Ramland Nears First Grid Season Without Defeat

Wrapping up Modesto Saturday night, November 27, to the tune of 25-19, the City College football team finished its first undefeated season in Ram grid history.

This marks the second uncontested Northern California Junior College Championship that City College has won since the inception of football at the college in 1935.

Previous to this season, the Rams have won the title in 1946, tied in 1940 and in 1937.

In the 13 years of collegiate competition, the Rams have maintained a somewhat enviable record among the various Bay Area colleges.

Rams Drop Cal Ramblers

The greatest triumph occurred in 1944, when the locals raced over the California Ramblers by a 13-0 count.

Likewise, the worst defeat in City College annals was administered by another University of California outfit. In the Fall of 1939, Lee Eisan, then Ram mentor, took his mediocre squad across the bay and was humbled by a five-touchdown onslaught.

On that cold Autumn day, the Cal Frosh slaughtered City College, 35-0.

However, that was not the worst season that the local gridmen experienced. A short two years later, the Balboa Strand boys romped through the season with exactly one tie, as the best they could offer. In 1941, City College lost eight football games and won none.

Big Score, Awful Loss

On the affirmative record ledger, this season against East Los Angeles Junior College out at the Lake Merced Stadium, the Klemmermen rolled up the largest Ram margin, by crushing the Angelenos 48-6.

The largest score up to that game was the 35-12 defeat handed the San Francisco State 'Gators back in the mid-thirties.

(A humiliating loss, as well as one not recorded because of the informal nature of the grid team, is accredited to George Washington High School. From all reports, it seems that the team out on 33rd Avenue dropped the Rams by a two-touchdown margin. This game was played at the height of the war.)

"Honest Effort Made In Team Selection"

Acting as chairman of the nine-man board that selected the Little Rose Bowl contestants, Dr. J. Paul Mohr yesterday announced his retirement as Commissioner of Athletics of the Northern California Junior College Conference.

Dr. Mohr, vice-president of the college and commissioner of the conference for the past 15 years, feels that he has done his part in assisting the growth of the NCJCC.

Selection of a new commissioner was made last Saturday, December 4 when Paul Clymer, College of Marin vice-president and former Golden Bear halfback, was elected to the post.

Dr. Mohr, who still holds the position of Chairman of the State Athletic Committee, claimed that the selection of Compton as the Western Representative for the Little Rose Bowl was accomplished without prejudice.

"Honest Effort by Board"

He further explained that the board of selectors, composed of four members of the Pasadena Junior Chamber of Commerce and four members of the Junior College State Athletic Committee, "made an honest effort to choose the most worthy two-year colleges in the nation to play in the Little Rose Bowl."

(The Eastern representative chosen was Duluth Junior College of Minnesota, who has a seasonal record of nine wins and one tie.

(Bergen Junior College of Bergen, New Jersey, was prompted to withdraw from the National Junior College Conference because of this selection, contending that they had won 10 straight games with no defeats and had only two touchdowns scored against them.

(Bergen's coach stated that his team had scored 139 points more than Duluth, and had defeated four-year colleges up and down the Atlantic coast.

(He further claimed that Duluth's games were confined to colleges in their own region.)

Compton Impresses

Dr. Mohr said that in the final selection for the Western representative, there were only two undefeated colleges in the running, Compton and City College of San Francisco.

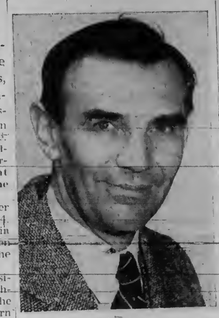
When it became apparent that City College was to play in the Gold Dust Bowl on December 11, the same day as the Little Rose Bowl game, Compton reputedly was the shoo-in candidate.

The results of Compton's victory over Los Angeles City College by a 49 to 7 score, Dr. Mohr pointed out, was the climaxing feature in the selection of Compton.

(City College of San Francisco barely squeaked by Los Angeles City College with a 13-to 0-victory.)

Matson Is Better

"However, should Compton and City College of San Francisco have been available, Compton would have been the choice," Dr. Mohr said.



"In comparing the two teams, I believe Matson is the equal, if not superior to Bud Macelhenny, Compton's star back; however, Compton's line, because of superior depth, would be stronger.

"The backfields for Compton and City College would be about even, with City College having a slight edge, because of a superior passing attack," Mohr added.

(It is rumored that Macelhenny will play for the Los Angeles Dons in the All-American professional football conference next season.

(Joe Perry and Bev Wallace, 49er backfield men, played for Compton.)

— By H. M. L.

DR. J. PAUL MOHR, City College vice-president and retiring Commissioner of the Northern California Junior College Conference, headed the nine-man board that selected contestants for the Little Rose Bowl game.

Locals Grab Second Grid Flag In 3 Years

Eliminating the 1947 grid season as just one of those things, the post-war era has produced two football championships for the City College swineskinners.

Way back in 1946, after dropping the opening encounter to Long Beach City College by a 13-7 score, the high flying Rams knocked off the next eight opponents in a row.

Featuring the efforts of Staten Webster, presently the understudy of Jack Swaner of the mighty Golden Bears, the local collegians under the able tutoring of "mighty-mite" Lee Eisan swept to their first undisputed conference title.

Following the 1947 mediocre season, under the guidance of "gloomy" Grover Klemmer, the Rams came roaring back this season to trample ten straight opponents, amassing 252 points as against 46 for the opposition.

Sammie The Ram To Unmask For College Grid Rooters

By Roy Pasini

An impromptu coming out party, the first in City College's history, will highlight the pre-Gold Dust Bowl festivities with a local gridiron favorite to be presented to the assembled throng of rooters.

Better known to Ram followers as Sammie the Ram, the symbol of Ramland's spirit will flip aside his layers of pancake make-up, in the form of a papier mache ram's head, and expose his heretofore unknown self.

Born in the mind of Jim Fernhoff and his Phi Beta Delta brothers late last semester, Sammie has become a popular sight upon the grid scene.

Reaching maturity at the beginning of this season, Sammie was allowed to roam and graze upon such well known pastures as Kezar and Cox Stadiums, where he was greeted with open arms by appreciative fans.

Sam confined his activities mainly to rallies and halftime periods, and during his reign his horns have graced many noodes of transportation. His initial appearance was on the College of Marin's Kentfield stadium, where he pedalled onto the scene astride a bicycle built for two.

Next on the list of vehicles employed by Sammie was an English built motor scooter at the San Mateo and Hartnell clashes, followed by a short stint behind the wheel of a "hot rod" at the East Los Angeles tangle.

During his highly spirited campaign, Sammie has met with many an interesting time, but uppermost on the list is his appearance in Los Angeles.

Sammie arrived early, in plenty of time to meet the rooters' train at the depot, but then disaster struck.

On the way to Gilmore Stadium fate stepped in and left Sammie's chariot minus a transmission and halfway to the scene of battle. The net result was that Sammie arrived too late for action and had to be content with playing the role of a common spectator.

Yep, Sammie gets the axe today, but he's promised to keep his head until Chaffey bites the Gold Dust.

Sweet, Eisan And Klemmer Only Coaches Since '35

Exactly one month after the opening of City College on August 28, 1935, the Rams threw together a football team for the first game in Ramland's annals.

Guiding the team was head coach the late Russell Sweet, former All American from Montana and hero of late '20's East-West Game, with Lee Eisan and "Dutch" Conlan as his assistants.

In 1937, the Sweet boys managed to grab a tie for the title.

Following Sweet's gridpath, All American Lee Eisan assumed the helm of head coach in 1939. The Little quarterback of the Golden Bears' Rose Bowl team of 1929, piloted the Rams to a tie for the conference title one year after becoming chief mentor.

Eisan had the top reigns of City College's grid destinies, when the Rams suffered their worst season in history. Rebounding from the horrible 1941 season (one tie and eight losses), diminutive Eisan led the rest of the college lay off for two years during the war and continued their grid efforts to the wartime effort.

Finally in 1946, after leading the Rams to the conference championship, and having the team recognized as the fifth best of two-year colleges in the nation, Lee Eisan retired from active coaching.

Eisan is still an instructor in economics and hygiene at the college.

Grover Klemmer, former Cal three letter man, became head coach in 1947 and this year has led the Rams through their first undefeated season.

Matson's Long Runs Put Ram Grid Squad On Top

By Walt Hell

Not since City College first opened in 1935 with classrooms scattered throughout the city, has a member of the Ram football team scored so often and so spectacularly as Ollie Matson has for the locals this season.

Not only has Matson by-passed the scoring record of Staten Webster, University of California scatback, who played for the Rams in 1945-'46, but he has displayed exceptional talent on defense.

Despite the fact that Matson was injured twice during the regular season and missed the Sacramento game, he cascaded into the end zone 19 times for a total of 114 points.

Matson Injured Early

In the Vallejo game when a chest injury put him out of action for almost two weeks, Matson rambled 52 yards with a punt and scored the second touchdown.

The former Washington High Flyer has sprinted for touchdown runs of 89, 69, 67, 60, 50, 52, 44, 38, 34 yards.

His longest jaunt was an 89-yard dash off tackle in the Stockton tilt, while his shortest TD journey was a one-yard plunge in the Marin game.

To add variation to the Ram attack, Coach Grover Klemmer even had Matson pass, and one of his tosses to end Bill Koenig was good for thirty yards and six markers.

Georgi Second

Roy Georgi with 36 points and Bob Toquinto with 26 markers finished second and third respectively.

Even the Ram team went wild this season. The previous high for team scoring was achieved in 1946 when the Rams were fifth in the junior college standings throughout the nation and rolled up 144 points in seven games. This season, in 11 encounters, the Rams have piled up 276 digits.

MAINSTAYS in the college offensive maneuvers and responsible in the main for the Rams' unbeaten status are Bob Toquinto, left, and Ollie Matson.

Many Deserve Credit In Ram Grid Success

CITY COLLEGE of San Francisco climaxes its most successful football season tomorrow night when the local gridders tangle with the Chaffey Junior College Panthers in the Gold Dust Bowl at Vallejo's Corous Field.

Everyone having something to do with the eleven-times victorious City College squad deserves equal credit for a wonderful job. This includes the coaches, the players, the publicity men, the writers, and last, but not least, the faithful managers.

STUDENTS FAITHFUL

The students who have supported the team throughout the season also deserve a pat on the back . . . for their faithful support at home and at out-of-town contests.

Outstanding performers like Ollie Matson, Burl Toler, Bob Toquinto, Don Morretini, and Roy Georgi, have gotten their names in print week after week, but all of the reserve gridders worked and played just as hard for the red-and-white bowl bound eleven.

In the line Merv Fauss, Dewey Guerra, Ray Urbano, Dick West, Frank Puckett, Bill Shipp, Leo Camp, Don Stillwell, Joe Wallack, Al Myers, Bob Clark, Bob Oberg, Gene Rodiger, Morey Koch, Bob Cook, and numerous others have been playing heads-up ball.

BACKFIELD MEN SHINE

Distinguishing themselves in the backfield have been Jim Fordon, Doug Wilson, Julian Bala, Walt Jourdan, Al Nethercutt, Kenny White, and Kenny Foehr.

The local gridiron express opened the throttle in their season opener and rolled over a weak Monterey Peninsula team 38-7, with Matson, Toquinto, and Georgi sparkling.

Next victim was Vallejo, which suffered its first league loss in three years, succumbing to Matson, Paul Olivier, Neil Gunn, Jim Gilford and Company 18-0.

Sacramento College was the third whistle stop for the rolling Ram express, and the locals took advantage of the breaks to record a 25-7 victory. Matson sat out the game while Toquinto and Georgi starred.

MARINERS TOUGH FOE

College of Marin proved to be one of the toughest foes of the season, but the City College eleven could not be stopped. White, Ray Poznekoff, and Ben Albrecht rose from the ranks and were the big guns for the locall collegians in a 13-0 thriller.

With Toler and Matson providing the punch, the San Mateo Bulldogs bowed to the Rams at Kezar, 26-0.

HUSKIES MUZZLED

East Los Angeles proved to be just a scrimmage for the red-and-white reserves as the whole team, including end Bill Koenig, starred in a 48-6 onslaught.

Next stop was Los Angeles! A

RAMblings . . .

By Walt Roessing

Football Season Ends; Jensen Visits Campus

tired City College team made a one-night stand in the southland, whipping the Los Angeles City College Cubs 13-0. Puckett, Toler, Morretini, and Matson shone for the Rams.

Hartnell's powerful dynamo fizzled and then bowed to their undefeated visitors 20-7, with Matson, Morretini, Poznekoff, and Bala playing good football. It was clearly a team victory, though.

Stockton was just a breather, and with Matson scoring four TD's, the locals were content with a 27-7 margin of victory.

Modesto surprised the Rams and almost pulled the junior college upset of the year. With Matson again running wild, by tallying three times, the visitors barely edged by their hard playing opponents 25-19.

That ends the regular season games, but; oh yes, tomorrow in the "Little" Rose Bowl an amateur football team called Compton meets Duluth JC in a minor grid clash.

JENSEN VISITS CAMPUS

Jim Jensen, the Rams' former track and swimming mentor, visited the local campus last week.

Jensen is now the track coach at Cal Poly. The likeable mentor had a good deal of comment to make about his new position.

Of course, he mentioned that he likes his new position at the San Luis Obispo four-year college very much. Jensen added that he misses the local campus and Bay Area though.

ARE YOU QUALIFIED FOR an Officer's Commission

IN ONE OF THESE FOUR CHALLENGING CAREERS?

Women like you keep our Army and our Air Force in the best physical condition in the world. Graduate nurses, dietitians, physical and occupational therapists are tremendously important to our Army and Air Force at home or overseas, for it would be impossible to operate efficiently without the helpful care of women skilled in those fields.

As a Medical Department dietitian, you will probably first be assigned to a large station hospital to assist with the hospital food service. There, and everywhere in the Services, you will find rotation of assignments. Physical and occupational therapists will work with the most modern equipment in treating a wide range of patients, gradually helping them regain physical and mental health. Army nurses and Flight nurses are trained to handle a great variety of cases, and are given opportunity to specialize according to their interests.

But whatever your specialty, you will have the prestige of a highly respected profession and the excitement which goes with a military career. Wherever you go, your uniform and insignia will be the mark of a noble and rewarding position. You will have the income, privileges, and friendship of officers everywhere. You will be recognized as one of a chosen few in the Army Nurse Corps or the Women's Medical Specialist Corps.

Cal Blues Tangle With Locals At Berkeley Tonight

By Bob Quintan

Memories of last year's heartbreaking defeat at the hands of the University of California Blues should provide the Ram cagers with the necessary moral support tonight when they encounter the Blues in Berkeley.

Tipoff time for the Rams' first road game of the youthful season has been slated for 6 p.m.

In last season's thriller, the Blues salvaged a hard earned victory with a basket in the dying moments of the game. It was the most outstanding encounter of last year.

Starts Great Weekend

This game commences City College's greatest sport weekend, which features the Gold Dust Bowl in Vallejo tomorrow night.

Kezar Pavilion is the setting, and 7 p.m. Saturday, December 11, is the time for the varsity quintet's second holiday tilt. Their opponents in this non-conference game will be El Camino Junior College.

This will be the first and only Ram appearance in the pavilion this season.

College of Marin is next on the City College schedule. The locals meet the Tars on the hardwoods of the spacious Cow Palace at 12:15 p.m., Monday, December 27, in a preliminary to the Pacific Coast Conference Tourney.

A victory over the Tars enables the Rams to play the winner of the Menlo-San Mateo tilt on the following Thursday, December 30.

Spearhead of the Ram attack is all-conference guard, Bob Payne. Payne, along with his twin brother Don, is a product of Roy Diederichsen out of Lincoln High.

Caldwell Is Mainstay

Mainstay of the squad is Jim Caldwell, who formerly starred for Poly High and John Borlo Athletic Club.

Les Brilliant, all-city star from Lincoln High, and Bob Terling, who received his tutoring from Benny Neff at Lowell High, provide the guard position with adequate depth.

The speed of Bob Metheny from Lowell will make the locals a constant fast-breaking threat. Another excellent forward from Lowell is deadly Doug Truelson.

Marty Schnieder and Ed Kahn, Washington High proteges, efficiently round out the forward positions.

Kevin Duggan, former Commerce star, establishes the center position as a main factor in the Ram attack. Bill Kahn and Terry McKeon, towers of rebounding strength, make the center position a very strong one.

Line Coach Bill Fischer — Bob Gilford, half — Roy Giorgi, fullback — Bob Toquinto, quarter — Ollie Matson, half — Coach Grover Klemmer

Boxers Meet Bears Today At Berkeley

City College's belligerent Rams — the fighting furies of Roy Diederichsen's varsity boxing contingent — hit the road today for a transbay swat session with the University of California.

The first of a series of bouts is slated for 3 p.m.

Some 20 strong, the Red-and-White fisticuffers will invade the lair of the Golden Bears intent on repeating last year's sound lacing administered the Berkeley mittmen by virtually the same local squad.

Fresh from a warm-up with San Francisco State, Diederichsen will give all of his charges the chance to display their wares in the second outing of their intercollegiate campaign.

Several newcomers in the initial eight divisions have impressed to date with promising stints in gymnasium drills and against the Gators.

Among the comers are diminutive Ed Sato, 120; intramural 127-pound kingpin, Al Chappius; Johnny Droeco and Wayne Bartlett, lightweights; sharp-punching Don Gerich, 136; experienced Joey Karp, crafty 140-pounder; welterweights Larry Schubert and dependable Jerry Stern; and tourney finalist Will Hamilton, who weighs in at 155.

In the heavier brackets, middleweight Vince Holian, and light heavy Dean Bender are top job contenders.

Soph-Faculty Softball Game Set For January

When all the college students have returned from their Christmas vacation and begin to study again, the organization of the traditional Soph-Faculty softball game will also begin. It is to be held on Friday, January 21, of the new 1949 year, during the college hour.

The faculty squad will be represented by such potential ball stars as Grover Klemmer, Ralph Hillsman, Roy Burkhead, and John Selig.

As for the fighting soph team, any student that is in the soph class may enter to play, though any student with an athletic block is disqualified.

Three Rams Named For All Star Soccer Tilt

Three of Coach Roy Diederichsen's soccermen have made the 16-man All-Star team which tangles with the championship University of San Francisco Dons tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock at the USF Field.

Representing the City College Rams in this All-Star fray are left wing, Vic Solorzano; fullback, George Volkoff; and center forward, Francis Granadino.

This game should be quite a contest, and a crowd of two thousand is expected to witness the encounter.

WAA Picks Judges For Horse Show

By Rose Hardie

Judges for the Women's Athletic Association horse show to be held January 8, 1949, have been chosen, Shirley Austin, president, said yesterday.

Those invited to judge the event are Cornelia Van Ness Cross of Mills College, Alma Rieker of San Francisco, and Fred McMillan of the Con Car Ranch, Miss Austin added.

Colleges participating in the affair include the University of California, Stanford University, Mills College, San Francisco State College, San Jose State College, San Mateo Junior College, and City College of San Francisco.

The long awaited event will take place at the St. Francis Ridding Club, and exhibitions will range from beginners to advance horsemanship.

City College players placed high in the Northern California Junior College Badminton Tournament held Saturday, December 4, Miss Austin declared.

Charlene Burgess won the women's singles, and Jackie Wilson came out second.

City College came in second for the day with 25 points to Sacramento's 26 points.

The tournament lasted from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. and refreshments were served following the games.

Lambs Edge Poly In Pigskin Finale

Unheralded, but thrice victorious in their four-game schedule this season, City College's Junior Varsity football team ended the year with a 19-13 win over the Polytechnic High School varsity squad.

Nearly every player of the 35-man Lamb team saw action in the last game of the season. Two weeks previously the J.V.'s trounced Polytechnic for the first time, 24 to 6.

In their first contest, the Sacred Heart Irish held the locals to a 6-6 tie.

It was a much improved squad that met S.F. State the following week however, defeating the Gators 12-0 to continue their winning streak.

Contributing much to the success of the team was hard running left halfback Rudy Smith, who scored a touchdown in every game, and quarterback Lou Pisani.

Other outstanding probable varsity men for next year are Dean Bender Booker Anderson, Elmer Golleges and Jack Bettencourt.

All credit for the steady improvement of the junior varsity squad should be given to Coach Roy Burkhead, who, although he was faced with an unusually large squad, did a fine job.

Cagers Win 58-45 In Tilt With Santa Rosa

Despite the loss of regular guards Bob Payne and Jim Caldwell, the City College cagers overwhelmed Santa Rosa Junior College 58-45 on the local floor last Tuesday afternoon.

Again it was the deadly shooting of forward Doug Truelson that paced the Rams to their third straight win. Truilson racked up 17 points to take the game's scoring honors, while Tom Taylor was high for the losers with 12.

In the preliminary, the Lambs defeated the Santa Rosa JV's in a thriller 38-36. The locals' Ed Kahn was high scorer with 13 points.

Last Grid Prediction By Guardsman Writers

With the Rams' grid season drawing to a close, The Guardsman Sport Staff makes its last prediction for the Gold Dust Bowl tilt between the local eleven and Chaffey Junior College.

The predictions thus far made by the members of The Guardsman Sport Staff were very close to the ending scores of many games.

Predictions for the Gold Dust Bowl between Chaffey Junior College and the Rams are as follows:

	CCSF	Chaffey
Herb Levy	25	13
Roy Hurlbert	13	20
Larry Baldocchi	12	20
Walt Helt	14	27

Six Rams Hold Spots On First Two Elevens

By Walt Roessing

The Guardsman herein presents the Official Northern California Junior College All-Conference football elevens, chosen by the league's head football coaches and sports writers.

Six Rams gained places on the first two strings while Bill Koenig, Frank Puckett, Don Morretini, Ray Urbano, Roy Georgi, and Ray Gilford all gained Honorable Mention positions.

Chosen as Captains for the two division elevens were Ed Brown and Fred Delaca. These outstanding backs gained the most votes in their respective sections and were, therefore, designated as the Captains.

All-American Ollie Matson was the leading City College man on the mythical conference eleven and was barely edged out by Brown for the Captain post.

The official dedication of Hurley Village was made October 2, 1946 by Mayor Roger D. Lapham and William A. Wyatt, Federal Housing Administrator.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

ALONG with the flood of Christmas requests headed for the North Pole, we would like to submit this, our last missive before the Yuletide holidays, to Santa in hopes of making things a bit more cheerful at CCSF.

We toured the campus in search of needy recipients and, although some departments may feel slighted, this is what we didn't find.

DRAMA DEPT.: A nice little theatre, with proper acoustics and such would fit in just fine and allow the cast to portray their entertaining roles on a real stage.

This would eliminate the casts' milling around the area in which the patrons are seated and also allow more room for a larger audience. The performances presented in Room 28, such as the recent success, The Man Who Came To Dinner, are much more deserving of a larger following and a more professional atmosphere.

How the local thespians can emote as well as they do with the audience at arms length is beyond us. Whoever tagged Room 28 as The Little Theatre is guilty of a gross understatement. The casts' families, if they all decided to attend the same performance, would fill up all available seats and call for an SRO situation. Then even "Tiny Tim" wouldn't fit into the act.

BARRACKS DWELLERS: The return of the once very popular Hostess Club affairs, via the Home Economics department and part of every future housewife's training, which featured a dinner followed by a dance or such. In the good old days these dinners proved very successful, especially near the end of the month, and left everyone in a happy state.

The students living in the barracks would no doubt jump at an invite to tie on the feed bag with a group of petite Ramettes.

DOWN AT THE GYM: Besides a win in the Vallejo classic tomorrow night, the next best thing Santa could bestow hereabouts would be a nice private bowl the boys could call their own.

Through the years much has been said in regard to building a stadium on the local campus but, it looks as though it will take something ringing on the borderline of a miracle to make this dream a reality.

In the last three years, two championship outfits have graced the non-existent Ram gridiron. How deserving can an outfit be?

FOR THE STUDENTS EN MASSE: A student co-op like all the other colleges have on campus. Such a money saving device could be instrumental in providing the necessary student pocket change for the purchase of a $1.80 ducat the next time the locals hit the big time again.

The life of a student is not always a profitable one, intellectually as well as financially, so anything a college can do to add its knowledge seekers would make campus life just that much more mellow.

We have no intentions of treading on congenial Jack Brady's hallowed ground but, we have one more student problem at hand.

Before the enrollment of this institution is drastically decreased, through the unpleasant medium of traffic casualties, something should be done about the Phelan Avenue death pit.

IN THE FAMILY: Just a feeble bid, Santa old boy, for a telephone for the office of The Guardsman business staff. It would "add" up to a tingling and jingling Christmas for all.

In closing let us wish one and all a Merry Christmas.

Alumni Association Passes Constitution

Adoption of a Constitution for the City College Alumni Association was passed at a meeting held by the Association November 30, Jack Hagan, Alumni Relations officer, announced yesterday.

The model constitution submitted by Hagan was adopted by the constitution committee, which also includes Don Burger, University of California, and Trev Burrow; Stanford University, and has been sent to Sacramento for state incorporation passage.

Adeste Fideles . . .

A LOOK OF CRITICAL APPRAISAL is given by Kathleen Dunn to Jimmy Sisler during a dress rehearsal of the processional which plays a prominent part of the traditional Christmas Concert tonight. Although Jimmy is the bigger of the two, Kathleen seems to be holding her own, as well as her candle. The two children of City College instructors will lead the procession in the auditorium which will mark the beginning of this yule season's concert.

Young Thespians In Spotlight At Christmas Concert

Interviewing two lively young children can be the roughest of indoor sports, but sometimes it can be an agreeable surprise.

Vivacious little Kathleen Dunn, daughter of Robin Dunn, mathematics instructor, and blond Jimmy Sisler, son of Lloyd Sisler, drama instructor, proved an exception to the rule about children being seen and not heard.

Both have been busily learning the words and music to Adeste Fideles for the Christmas concert tonight. Attired in maroon robes and carrying tall candles, the youngsters will lead the processional.

Brown-haired Kathleen has been an enthusiastic worker at the concert rehearsals.

She thinks her robes would make an excellent Trick or Treat costume for Hallowe'en. This four-year-old miss revealed that her future ambition is to be a "mother", which shows that she is thinking — just like a woman.

Five-year-old Jimmy, who possesses a delightful voice for such a young man, was not quite as enthusiastic about his role at first.

Yet now he is anticipating this evening as much as his candlebearing partner. He has even learned all the words for Adeste Fideles.

Asked about his future grown-up plans, serious young Jimmy said, "I'd like to be a big electrical engineer."

These two youngsters will certainly be seen and heard tonight.

Mistletoe Mingle Provides Dance Time For Holiday Season

Dancing shares the spotlight for the coming holiday season, as Beta Tau Fraternity presents its annual Mistletoe Mingle, Monday, December 13, at the St. Francis Colonial Room, between 9 and 12 o'clock.

Wally Heider and his orchestra, well known to City College dance goers, will provide music at the Monday night affair, Frank Coppel of the Beta Tau dance committee, announced yesterday.

Tickets for the informal event are $1.80 per couple and can be obtained by any member of Beta Tau, or at the student bank in the main building, according to Coppel.

Beta Tau furthered its promotion of holiday spirit by placing a decorated Christmas tree in the entrance of the main building.

Yearbook Photos Of Grads Planned Soon

Yearbook picture deadline for graduating students is set between December 27 and January 3, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, disclosed early today.

Students whose petitions are on file pending graduation this semester, have been notified by mail. Others expecting to qualify for graduation next June are urged to inform Luckmann, Room 126, immediately for picture appointment.

Rams Favored Over Hollister In Cage Tourney Wednesday

By Bob Quinlan

Sporting a clean slate in their initial six encounters, Ralph Hillsman's City College cagers trek to Modesto Wednesday as pre-tourney favorites to cop the Eleventh Annual State Junior College Basketball Tournament.

Hollister Junior College will be the Rams' first opponent. Tipoff time for the fourth tilt of the 31-game meet has been set for 3:30 p.m.

If victorious, the Rams will meet Visalia Junior College, who receives a bye in the first round, at 1 p.m. Thursday.

Strong Ram Team

Decisive victories over Armstrong College, Cal Frosh, Santa Rosa, Cal Blues, El Camino, and College of Marin establish the Rams as one of the strongest two-year college quints in the state.

The toughest opposition the locals have faced this season was offered by the Cal Blues, who lost by a nine-point margin, 49-58.

The Rams have a one-two scoring punch in Doug Truelson and Kev Duggan, operating out of the forward and center positions respectively.

Truelson is the squad's leading scorer, with 81 points averaging 13 tallies per game, while Duggan has racked up 60 digits with a 10-point average.

Teamwork Is Excellent

The key to the Rams' success, however, is the tight man-to-man defense devised by Hillsman. The quint's diminutive captain, Jim Caldwell, has yet to be equaled in this phase of the sport.

The cagey guard, along with forward Bob Metheny, has been the main factor in City College's reluctance to allow their foe many points.

Metheny and Caldwell, however, are not merely defensive standouts. The former has garnered 48 points, an eight-point average, while the latter is used for setting up plays.

Injuries Hurt Team

An infected foot has kept regular guard Boy Payne out of three games, but his brother Don has more than filled in for him.

Reserves-Les Brilliant, Marty Schneider, Bob Mingee, Bill Kahn, and Al Athanasopollos' exceptional play has kept the Rams' scores high. There is no letdown in the locals' attack when Hillsman inserts his reserves.

Mardi Gras Student Council Settles Dispute Over Booths

Construction Starts

Construction of permanent booths for the Mardi Gras, Friday, January 14, in the auditorium, will be completed this week for display, Associated Men Student head Pete Isola declared yesterday.

A total of 30 petitions have been accepted for the affair, including a puppet show, a turtle race game, and a French pastry booth by the Hotel and Restaurant Division. These presentations will be new to the masked extravaganza, Isola said.

Jurisdictional dispute arising over the governing authority at the semi-annual Associated Men Students' Mardi Gras was settled at the Thursday-before-Christmas-vacation-meeting of the Student Council.

At the previous Tuesday meeting, Pete Isola, AMS president, brought before the council a proposal to erect permanent booths for future Mardi Gras functions.

Although 17 of the 28 campus organizations who are participating in the Mardi Gras approved the idea of an initial cost of $5 to cover the cost of the building of the booths, the dissenting vote of the minority bloc in the council defeated the proposal.

"The plan would benefit many of the smaller groups who had neither the time, money, nor experience to build the booths each semester," Isola said.

The dissenting groups' plea was that through standardization of the booths, the Mardi Gras would lose the individual touch that added so much to previous affairs.

However, at Thursday's meeting the plan was again brought to the attention of the councilmen.

The vote set a precedent as it was the first time this semester that Associated Student President Frank Ferguson cast a marker.

As it was, the motion to allow the AMS to build the booths for all the organizations carried, when Ferguson broke the deadlock with his initial vote.

The new ruling will allow organizations equal space for the Mardi Gras booths. Individuality, the bone of contention at the previous meeting, is still permissible since the booths are so constructed as to permit decorations to be hung from the apertures, supports, and roof.

HERE'S THE BEFORE SHOT of Hurley Village way back in early 1948, and the after shot appears in the upper right-hand corner. Thanks to the efforts of a great many, the playground is a reality.

Novel New Year's Eve Rally Set For Friday

Something new and novel is promised today for the New Year's rally scheduled for the auditorium during college hour at 10:40 a.m.

According to Bill Hanson, rally commissioner, the theme of the rally is to show students how the rallies originate. "In other words, it will be an outside looking inside affair," Hanson said.

The rally commissioner further disclosed that varied entertainment featuring talent from the rally committee will be presented.

Led by student bandleader Walt McRae, the Ram band will be present to help spark the rally.

Jack Mix will be the master of ceremonies.

Yearbook Pictures Must Be Scheduled

Any sophomore anticipating a June graduation and desirous of having his picture in the college yearbook, RAM-Pages, is expected to make an appointment for a "sitting" before Wednesday, January 5.

Lloyd Luckmann, sponsor, announced that a special desk has been placed by the silver pole in the main corridor for this purpose.

Photographs of the students attired in traditional cap and gown will be taken in Building 2, Room B, during the week of January 10. An earlier deadline was originally announced for this week.

Students whose pictures were scheduled to be taken this week and who have not yet made new appointments will be notified by mail, Luckmann said.

Men are requested to wear white shirts and ties, and a charge of 75 cents will be made before the picture is taken.

The price of the yearbook is $2.50 with ar Associated Student card and $5.00 without.

Oops! We Made A Mistake!—Guardsman

Selected as co-winner with Marian Chin of the Deanna Scholarship is Joan Howard, not Joyce Anderson as erroneously reported in The Guardsman.

We have no idea who Miss Anderson is, but we are sorry to have used her name incorrectly. To Miss Howard, our sincere apologies for not reporting the facts straight.

The reporter, who covered the story, is at present learning how to write proper names, while the copy reader has inscribed 500 times on the blackboard the name of Joan Howard.

The copy reader, by the way, would like to know the 'phone number of Miss Howard. He feels as if he knows her by now.

Forum Club To Start Foreign Exchange Plan

Ideas of American democracy will be carried overseas to Germany by an exchange program, now being formulated by the Forum Club, according to Paul Schwabacher, president.

Discussions carried on in Forum Club meetings will be typewritten and sent to a college in Germany. The college is still to be selected.

In exchange that college will send to the Forum Club similar discussion material.

Ex-Ram Plays For UC

Mike O'Neil, presently starring for the mighty Golden Bear quintet, played for City College last season under the tutoring of Coach Ralph Hillsman.

Hats Due In Ring By Next Friday

As the Spring semester Associated Student elections neared the hat-in-the-ring sign-up of Friday, January 7, Walt McRae, Election Committee Chairman, announced that stipulated regulations governing candidacy must be adhered to strictly.

Though the deadline is set for next Friday, McRae urged all candidates to file their petitions on the first day, January 3. Election dates are set for Wednesday, January 19, and Thursday, January 20, in student lounge.

Regulations adopted by the committee require each candidate to be a registered student of the college, to be an Associated Student member, and to declare his intention to run for one office specifically.

He must also have maintained a "C" (1.0) average during the semester—a "C—" (.5) will not suffice.

The student offices which will appear on the election ballot will be that of Associated Student President, Vice-President, Sophonore President, Freshman President, Associated Men Student President, Associated Women Student President, and Freshman and Sophomore candidates for the council.

McRae warned that any student running for a Freshman office must be of Freshman standing, having fewer than 30 units at the close of this semester, and a candidate for a Sophomore office must be of Sophomore standing, having 30 or more units with the required average, at the close of the present semester.

Any padding of petitions will automatically disqualify the candidate, McRae added.

Posters may be submitted for approval to the Chairman of the Publications board in The Guardsman office January 11, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m.

IN THE SWING, in the sand-box and in the slide are Mrs. Kathy McCarthy and daughter, Elaine; a couple of redheads, Mike Meserve and Gene (Butter) Ellison of The Guardsman; Allen Maxwell Jr., son of the former Hurley Village manager and David Schofield, hallway down the slide.

The playground is now in full operation thanks to the proceeds from The Vagabond King, which was presented last semester by the music and drama departments of the college.

Through the combined efforts of a great many persons, including George Lajeunesse, spring '48 Guardsman editor, who formulated the idea, the playground is a success.

Children Enjoy Playground Slide, Swings, Sand Box Prove Great Success

By Gene Ellison

An informal poll taken at Hurley Village recently, revealed that the veteran's children are having a whale of a time with the new playground equipment, showing preference for the slide and swings.

In a visit to the playground, this reporter was practically swept off his feet, literally and figuratively, by the enthusiasm shown by the playful kids.

The playground, which consists of a slide (from Indiana), small and large swings, sand boxes, a monkey bar, and climbing bar, is what the kids have been waiting for, and they're really making full use of it.

To kids who know playgrounds best, it's slides 2 to 1 ! !

Showing off their daring abilities, five boys said they liked the large orange slide the best, and a blond boy, Rodney, had this comment, "I won't tell you!"

The girls, who were minding their own business for a change, seemed to prefer the swings — along with the boys. Judith Maxwell, 6-year-old daughter of the village manager, said blushingly, "Everything is swell, especially the slide."

Robin Hood of the playground seems to be Jeffrey Mullins, a brown-haired 5-year-old, who goes down the slide backwards, winds up the swing (with himself in it) and unwinds, chases the girls, and tackles the reporter.

Mothers of the children all seem to think the playground is wonderful for the children. (They like the slide, too!)

Overshadowing everyone who enjoys the playground facilities, of course, are the dads. They want to install a large electric train!

Give Credit Where Credit Is Due — Levy

In a short statement released last week, Herbert M. Levy, Guardsman Editor, stated that a great deal of credit should be given to George Lajeunesse, Guardsman editor for Spring '48, for his work in bringing the playground to the children of Hurley Village.

Levy stated that through the initial effort of formulating the idea of the playground by Lajeunesse editorially, and of presenting various additional plans to further aid in construction, "he should be credited with helping the kids of Hurley Village."

Lajeunesse is now a journalism major at San Jose State College.

Let Us Not Have Darkness, Students! Aid The March Of The Light Brigade

WITH campus election time nearing, the famous Battle of Balaclava is brought to mind. As explained by Al Tennyson, apparently there was a charge by a noble half-a-league onward in the valley of something or other.

And in the end, they were so rewarded for their valor.

As they drove through cannons, City College's counterpart 600 (or half-a-league) drove into the booths—neither pamphlet—nor speech—nor sense could deter the noble 600. (Or is it 400?)

On examination of the historical 600, it seems their charge was caused by a couple of groups squabbling over the rights of a third group who had nothing to say about what was going to happen to them.

When into the booths rode the 600, immediately thereafter were planted their generals, colonels, captains etc. and quarters in the top spots in the ruler's circle.

The innocents, who were trampled beneath the glittering hooves, occasionally rose and placed one of their sergeants amidst the reding class, of course, at all times being no less than one, and never more than half.

Unlike Tennyson's charge, this noble charge has been running rampant on Balboa's fertile strand for nigh on to 12 years, exactly twice as long as F. E. Boone has been smoking Luckies.

And as things are bound to change with the coming of the New Year, which is tomorrow, there apparently seems to be no change due here.

In a short while the hooves will again be shining brightly in the Ocean Avenue fog, and the clattering beats shall again be heard, whipping the air in a frenzied swirl.

Watered and haved, the steeds wait for their stalwart riders to jump aboard, and prepare for the swoop on the booths.

With Tennyson's verse propped against the saddle horn, the light brigade again will answer the call of battle.

"Into the Valley ride the 600."

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

WITH the yuletide spirit climaxing two weeks of loafing (or you might have been one of the money-minded fiends who sought redemption via the post office route) the prevailing lethargy in local circles is understandable.

Disregarding one heckuva time scheduled for tonight, local reports indicate that the average campusite surveys the future with misgivings.

Little looms ahead for him other than final exams and that tense period of the year when collegiate intrigue abounds on the campus—election time, to clarify.

A further study of campusology indicates that the average student sees past the immediate future and ponders his post-college days with something less than anticipation.

Visions of breadlines, future wars, and a general pessimism warrant such an attitude.

In rare moments of clear-eyed foresight, when the answer to his existence hangs on a word and truth rests on education (remember, the truth shall make you free), the complacent soul is satisfied with his lot. At such a time he might state in a clear, decided voice, "I am educated—therefore, my debt to humanity is great—I have a purpose!"

Such moments are rare, however, and are paralleled by the type of student who is wandering in a maze of vocational study through psychology 10. Such a character seldom knows what the future holds.

In the middle of these two extremes is the majority of the college populace who alternately views the future with misgivings and with anticipation.

Such is often the case of the veteran, who, when funds are sufficient, hits the proverbial all-time high. Conversely, in times of depression, the outlook is dark.

In wild rash moments he ponders such drastic action as going to work.

...The non-vet is not without financial problems, for he lacks such subsistence as Uncle Sam's monthly $75. Such a lack occasionally warrants part-time employment.

Does this situation worry us? Not at all. We fold up our typewriter, unecrease our furrowed brow, and anticipate a New Year's Eve that should erase all misgivings of the future.

The men in white coats can take us away tomorrow . . school can't last forever.

Smorgasbord Tempts Gourmets

H & R Student Serves Faculty New Luncheon

By Jackie Lassers

Three times a week the college faculty turns gourmet when the Hotel Division luncheon served is a smorgasbord of delectable variety.

They owe this treat to one James Denton, Hotel and Restaurant major, who originated the smorgasbord as his fourth semester training project.

On the days the smorgasbord is served, preparation begins at 8 a.m. each morning for Denton.

Denton must set up the table, plan the arrangement of the luncheon, and keep the dishes filled during the serving hours.

Besides planning the menus in advance for each day, Denton must order the food, taking into consideration the quantity and variation necessary. Desserts and bread must also be ordered in advance from the division bake shop.

Denton explained that at each setting he tries to have two different meat dishes; three varieties of salads; hors d'oeuvres, such as pickled beets, olives, radishes, stuffed celery, bread and butter, desserts, and coffee. The price of the luncheon is 65 cents.

Service is in the faculty dining room from 11 a.m. to 12:45 p.m. every Monday, Wednesday and Friday. The project requires much time and initiative on Denton's part.

Since it is Denton's term project, he is directly responsible to the cafeteria for the success of each smorgasbord plan.

IF READERS CAN TAKE THEIR EYES off the tasty array of Swedenborgian dishes, they will note the white-clad gentlemen who is responsible for the thrice-weekly smorgasbord luncheons which are for the benefit of the City College faculty. (Such treats are not available to students, unfortunately.)

- Collegiate Christian Fellowship: Dr. T. Christie Innes spoke on the subject, Evolution and the Bible, in the City College auditorium on Tuesday, December 28, at 3 o'clock.
- Kappa Phi: At a recent meeting, Maria Wilson-Walker announced her engagement to Dick Fetherstonaugh; a tentative date of the wedding has been set for June 10, 1949.
- Newman Club: All members are asked to be present on Monday, January 3, 1949, to have pictures taken for the yearbook at 7 o'clock in the Student Lounge.
- Ski Rams: There will be a special meeting during college hour, today. Future ski trips will be discussed and planned.

8 o'clockers Benefit From Time Change

By Rose Hardie

Unlucky City College students with 8 o'clock classes may not have to grope about in the dark after tomorrow.

Daylight saving time will end officially at 2 a.m. on New Year's Day, and at this time all clocks in California will be set back an hour.

This news will come as a relief to the unfortunate group of men and women who have had to crawl out of their warm beds only to have to go out into blackness—and classes.

Artist Employs Abstract Themes In Poster Art

By Ed Peanbad

Actual proof of the ancient Chinese rule that art is essentially a graphic art can be seen in the work of Walter Wong, a graduate student of City College, whose work is on display in the main building.

Students, who are compelled by winter weather to congregate in the hall of the main building, have found Wong's esthetic work heart warming, to say the least.

Wong is presently doing post-graduate work in the advertising art class in the hope of improving his already outstanding technique.

Credit for many posters about the campus and for collaboration with other students in the decorations for several college plays can be placed at Wong's feet.

He attempts to induce taste and flavor into attractive drawings of geometric patterns and symbolic, motionless Oriental figures.

His artistic technique is most convincing, and his work culminates in the complicated finish of off-set plate making, which is necessary to the presentation of such posters and pancils as the ones displayed in the main building.

Wong has earned for himself a reputation as a hard and persistent worker and is respected by his instructors as a serious and capable student. As for himself, he is modest to the point of shunning all publicity.

Resolutions To Keep Or Break; Take Your Pick

By Roy Pasini

Along with the arrival of the New Year comes another batch of resolutions, some old, some new, some to be used, some to be abused, but Lancelot Q. Janetsky has drawn up the ideal list of guides-to-a-better-way for CCSF students.

1. No more crib notes written on cuffs; the laundry bill is mounting.
2. No more stacking the deck at the book store; too many other people have the same idea.
3. No more meeting of friends at the silver pole; it's starting to look like a May pole.
4. Show a little more tolerance toward the faculty; they're people too.
5. Resolve not to talk about former dates while on a date; the 'phone doesn't ring so often anymore.
6. Wait until I've read The Guardsman before I wrap my lunch in it; they don't use fast drying ink anymore.

Dali-esque Patterns Current In Neckware

By Dick Brennan

Dark glasses are in order this week for all Ramland men and women.

Christmas ties are the reason, and some of the worst monstrosities outside of a Salvador Dali nightmare are in evidence on the City College campus.

Once every year the poor helpless males are subjected to what the weaker sex fondly thinks is pretty in the line of neckwear.

Everything is thrust at him from a combination of robins-egg blue and hang-over-green to flamingo red and morning-after blue with stripes.

Even old Tyless Tie Tyler himself would be proud of some of the specimens being sported by the college's braver males.

Strong stomachs are needed when one begins to examine the bow-tie division of post-Christmas headaches. Most of these look as if they had been designed by a cross-eyed abstract artist recovering from a three-week binge.

(Have courage, men: There are only 360 days until Christmas!)

College Officials Investigate Men's Dormitory Family

Wanton disregard of campus residence regulations, reported to college officials, brought investigation and, finally paternal blessing last week to a homeless San Francisco family.

The family, unable to find suitable living accommodations in Hurley Village, moved into Building 13, better known as the Waldorf, thereby violating two heretofore strictly enforced residence regulations.

The first provides that no women shall be admitted to the Waldorf, and the second requires payment of rent on the first day of each month.

An investigation by college officials, following report of the violations, revealed that the family, of foreign extraction, had been adopted by the male residents of The Waldorf.

(Strictly speaking, the family does not live IN the dormitory, but, UNDER the building and is well able to support itself.)

The children reflect a mixed ancestry, the mother bearing some Persian and Siamese characteristics, and the father obviously a TOM CAT.

The "children" (strictly speaking, again, kittens), are reported still in the cute stage, which may account for their residence continued on "forbidden territory"—and rent free.

Gym Class Losers In Dan Cupid's Game

By Palmer Cramer

A large, but replaceable, loss of City College property was discovered recently in one of the co-educational athletic activities.

Nancy Sparks, archery instructor, disclosed today.

Following an intense investigation, Miss Sparks solved the mystery of the disappearance of a large amount of equipment allocated to the athletic department here.

"I discovered the loss just a few days ago," Miss Sparks said. "It boils down to the fact that the co-educational archery students have become too efficient in hitting the targets. Consequently, a great deal of money has gone into replacing the target faces.

"I thought it was strange," Miss Sparks continued, "we hadn't noticed the deficit at the beginning of semester. It apparently developed in the last few weeks."

Miss Sparks "hopes" that the coming of winter rains will discourage the college's budding Robin Hoods, and the "loss" will resume its normal proportions in a manner befitting Dan Cupid.

Miss Sparks' genial personality did not permit her remarking on the loss of equipment occasioned by the competition in the co-educational classes.

(Word from the women archery students indicates, however, that they might be responsible for some of the losses.)

The Pocahontases who abound on the target-covered slopes in the morning archery classes often exhibit such muscular prowess that 30-pound bows cannot sustain the weight exerted on them.

Ancient Profs Challenge Soph Youths To Basketball Game, Claim Series Championship

By Larry Baldocchi

"Since we are already 'undisputed' champs in the art of playing softball, why not play the 'kids' in a faster game to show them up? Why not play them in a game of basketball?"

This is probably what the college professors had in mind when they challenged the sophomore class to a basketball game to be held on Friday, January 21, at the men's gymnasium. (The challenge was issued before the holidays!)

As everyone knows, basketball is a fast game. To play this game a player needs a lot of extra drive and needs to be in good shape.

The profs, who are referred to by many students as "that ancient crowd," are more than willing to show that they still have the old fight.

One of the reasons that the profs are so confident that they will win, is because in their line-up will be that fast-stepping ball handler, "The Kid," Ralph Hillsman.

Coach Hillsman was not always just a coach, for in his younger days he was a big star on the hardwoods at this college and U.C. (So beware, sophs, for that one little reason.)

This game will be the third in the current series of the traditional Soph-Faculty rivalry.

The first game was way back in 1943, when the "aging profs" outlasted the over-rated Sophs in a softball game 16-15.

Shaw Announcer In WAA Horse Show

Announcer for the Women's Athletic Association inter-collegiate horse show to be held Saturday, January 8, will be James Shaw, local polo game announcer, Shirley Austin, WAA president, said yesterday.

Shaw is a member of the San Francisco Polo Association and an expert in this announcing field, Miss Austin added.

The traditional affair will be held at the St. Francis Riding Club, and there will be many exhibitions of horsemanship varying from beginners to advanced.

A total of 51 contestants will take part in this long planned show. Participants entered in the affair, which is open to both men and women, will be from City College as well as six other Northern California colleges.

Colleges taking part include the University of California, Stanford University, Mills College, San Francisco State College, San Jose State College, and San Mateo Junior College.

Judges chosen are Cornelia Van Ness Crees of Mills College, Alma Ricker of San Francisco, and Fred McMillan of the Con Car Ranch.

It has been announced that a perpetual trophy will be presented by the WAA to the winner of the day.

A large turnout is expected for the event as it is the highlight of WAA fall semester activities, and WAA officers have been working hard to make it a success.

Baseball Meeting To Be Held January 5

A meeting for all students who are interested in trying out for the college baseball team will be held Wednesday, January 5, in the men's gymnasium.

Baseball Mentor Bill Fischer is calling the meeting this early in order to discuss the eligibility, method of selecting the team, and other factors, and still have time to meet any difficulties that might arise when the season opens.

Rams Dump Chaffey In Gold Dust Bowl Game, 20 to 7

By Walt Bell

City College wound up the most successful football season in its history by dumping Chaffey Junior College 20 to 7 in the first annual Gold Dust Bowl game at Vallejo, Saturday night, December 11, before 9,500 grid spectators.

Burt Toler, All-American center, was awarded the Most Valuable Player cup for his outstanding line play during the course of the tilt.

Toler was exceptionally brilliant on defense, often nailing Panther ball carriers behind the line of scrimmage.

The victory gave the Rams their twelfth straight win and brought the season point total to 294 digits.

Although Ollie Matson was stopped somewhat by the Chaffey line, he averaged 5 yards per carry and was used mainly as a decoy.

All of the scoring was done in the first half, with the Rams dominating. Bob Toquinto's pass to end Ray Poznekoff opened the scoring. Julian Bala converted.

A twisting, squirming 70-yard punt return by Kenny White set up the second local tally. Jim Gilford cracked over from the two-yard line, and Bala again booted the extra marker.

In the second period Toquinto tossed an aerial to Don Stillwell who galloped into the end zone for the final touchdown of the encounter.

Trophies were awarded to players of both teams by the Vallejo 20-30 Club.

BURL TOLER, All-American center for the Rams, was voted the outstanding player in the recent Gold Dust Bowl encounter.

Undefeated Ram Cagers Post Yule Wins Over Cal Blues, El Camino And Marin

Doug Truelson and Kev Duggan Pace Locals In Six Game Winning Streak

By Bob Quinlan

Ralph Hillman's City College cagers rolled over the Cal Blues, El Camino Junior College, and College of Marin during the holiday season to rack up their fourth, fifth, and sixth consecutive wins, respectively.

For Shame! Samtheram Exposed As Campus Kid

By Arnold Solkov

Samtheram emerged from his papier mache mask today and revealed the countenance of Urban Cummings, local man about campus and member of the Phi Beta Delta fraternity, as the man who volunteered his all for the task of half-time entertainment of the City College football fans.

Credit for the conception of the idea belongs to conclman Jim Fernoff and the illustrious, if not mysterious, Oskle-wowe-wow of the University of California. Emulation of Oskie was not intended so the two dreamed up the physical form and name of Samtheram.

Cummings, an ex-paratrooper, used an English paratrooper's motor scooter to scoot around his field of action. Contrary to popular opinion, the French tandem bicycle that figured prominently in his one downfall—his only defeat in twelve starts—was not his major form of conveyance.

The bike incident referred to occurred in the Marin-Ram grid contest in which Sam was overpowered by the Marin mascot on his put-put bike.

As the best laid plans of rally commissioners oft go astray, Sam's planned antics did not always pan out as expected.

A case in point was the annual Gold Dust Bowl game. Sam was supposed to make his entrance in a helicopter, somewhat on the order of an early day Santa Claus. The plan was snafued by local aviation authorities and Sam was forced to enter in the conventional manner.

College of Marin, showing no signs of last year's national championship squad, was an easy prey for the high rolling Rams last Monday afternoon on the spacious Cow Palace floor, as they fell 54-39.

The early scoring sprees of Bob Metheny, Doug Truelson, and Kev Duggan gave the Rams a decisive 20-8 first quarter lead, which was enlarged to 33-16 at the half. The Mariners never threatened the locals' lead. Truelson and Ted Bell from Marin were high scorers with 15 digits.

El Camino gave the local quint a first half score before succumbing 57-39, December 18, on the home court.

The little, fast-breaking quintet led 13-11 at the end of the first period, and maintained a 20-20 tie at the half.

A second half scoring spree by Truelson, Duggan, and Jim Caldwell, however, proved too much for the tiring visitors.

Playing perhaps their greatest game of the season, the Rams defeated the Cal Blues in Berkeley, December 10, 58-49.

The outstanding feature of the game was the inability of the Blues to penetrate City College's defenses. The Cubs were forced to shoot from far out. Ken Cameron and Duggan shared high point honors with 15 apiece.

Boxers To Trade Blows With Cal January 11

City College's boxing Rams are in the midst of a brief layoff period of conditioning before they resume their resin labors with an informal meet with California's Golden Bears on January 11.

Previous commitments forced the postponement of a scheduled pre-holiday fight session between the locals and the Bearlegities.

In their initial unveiling test of the season, Roy Diederichsen's robust lads all but massacred their hopelessly outclassed cross town rivals, S. F. State, landsliding to a 13-1 bout score fiasco.

Ken Sato, Al Chappuis, Lenny Garcia, Don Gerich, Jerry Stern, Joey Karp, Roy Damas, and free swinging Nick Canuli turned in creditable jobs in the Gator "warm up."

Intramural Volleyball Entries Are Due Today

Intramural mentor Tom Wilson has extended the original volleyball entry deadline until this afternoon. All applications will be accepted in the men's gymnasium by Wilson before 3 o'clock.

Captain Don Mallen's touchdown sprint gave the Balboa Wildcats a 6-0 overtime victory over the Falcons in the intramural championship football thriller.

A hard charging line led by Frank Monte of the Wildcats slowed down Tom Jocz's aerial thrusts. Irv Thomas halted two Falcon drives by intercepting passes deep in Wildcat territory.

RAMblings . .

By Walt Roesling

WE are winding up the past football season with just a few closing notes that should be brought to light before we get hooped in by the local casaba fiends.

Paul Olivier and Don Morretini were two Ram linemen who played outstanding football consistently during the pigskin schedule but were badly neglected when the All-Conference elevens were chosen. Maybe the reason was because these two men were on the bottom of every pileup on the field, where their flashy numerals weren't so distinguishable. Morretini played his finest ball in the Hartnell crucial, while Olivier never did play a poor contest. . . .

Ray Poznekoff, besides making All-NCJCC end, made the United Press third string junior college All-American at-that post. . . .

Kenny White's return to the gridiron this departing season helped the Rams considerably, especially on defense. White made many long punt returns during the season for the City College eleven, the most noticeable being for 70 yards against Chaffey in the Gold Dust Bowl. This scintillating sprint set up one of the Ram TD's. . . .

Dewey Guerra's long punting in the final games for City College helped the locals keep their undefeated slate clean. Sometimes you can win with a Dewey. . . .

FUTURE GRID HOPES

Bob Toquinto hopes that he will be quarterbacking for the Santa Clara Broncos next season. . . . Roy Georgi, along with a few other local gridders, may be cavorting for the USF Dons in the future. . . . Don Stillwell may—eventually wind up at USC where his brother Bob has gained fame as an All-Coast end. . . .

A few of the local gridders, nine to be exact, recently journeyed down to San Jose State to look over the campus. Among the possible Spartans-to-be are Burl Toler, Poznekoff, and Ollie Matson. . . .

POOR YULE GREETINGS

Gene Gorden, starting end for the junior varsity football squad, was seriously injured during the holidays working for the Post Office. Gorden is in Marine Hospital, and he would appreciate some visitors or a few letters. . . .

Dolph Pippus, a forward on last year's cage team, was killed Christmas eve, while driving a mail truck for the Post Office.

Ram CHOPS

By Roy Pasini

NOW that the local halls are once again bulging with eager and smiling faces, it's just about time to roll up our sleeves and get set for tonight's celebrash.

No doubt the entire populace hereabouts is likewise preparing to climax this past week of "protest education" with something in the way of a gay and flowing New Year's Eve.

Along with the coming of each New Year though, an inevitable evil always seems to sneak into the act. Yep, it's time for making New Year's resolutions.

Up to last Sunday morning we have also been a devout follower of the sport but, after reading a little spiel in the magazine section, This Week, we have thrown in the towel.

Gloomy January

According to the informative gem which was entitled You Can Graph Your Life, more people wind up in a depressed mood near the end of January than at any other time throughout the year.

And what was a reason given for this annual letdown? Sorry, Buster, but a prolonged hangover wasn't even mentioned. The best they could do was to lay the blame on those nasty little resolutions.

Briefly, this is what the man said. The average American starts off in great shape during the first part of the month. The effects of New Year's Eve are gone, he has made some wonderful resolutions, and he is all set for a good year.

Then, as life would have it, he begins to break his resolutions, and with each successive loss of will power he becomes more and more discouraged and disappointed with himself. Result—a depressed mood near the end of January.

Although the above is cited as only a hypothesis in regard to what causes the January slump, it seems worthy of consideration. Why run the risk of starting the year off on the wrong foot?

Make 'Em and Break 'Em

The argument that some people have more will power than others doesn't hold up too well either. Look at all the characters who keep making and breaking the same list of resolutions year after year.

Local intellects should take particular notice of this fact. A state of mental anguish always exists prior to finals, so why heap more coal upon the fire?

With finals scheduled from January 31 to February 4, a session of mental turmoil caused by dissipated resolutions could well be the final straw for many brain trusts..

So play it safe and resolve not to make any resolutions, thereby insuring yourself of a happy mental state before finals and subsequent academic success, or something.

Floral Group Prepares For Oak. Annual Show

Students of the Horticulture class are making preparations for the Oakland Annual Garden Show next spring, John Lawrence, Flower Shop instructor, said today.

Actual work on the display will begin next week.

The Floriculture and Flower Shop students will combine their efforts in an attempt to win the first prize for the third time.

Rosenthal To Help Select Photo Of Year

Joseph Rosenthal, instructor of press photography, was recently named to the committee to select the picture of the year for the yearbook published by Encyclopedia Britannica.

Together with the new equipment received, this honorary position for one of its members, brings the college's photography department to an equal basis with other institutions on the West Coast.

The equipment consists of general photography materials, along with additional cameras that are being distributed among students, furnishing adequate equipment for everyone, department representatives said.

Child Development Class To Open Here

Child Development, a study of the physical and mental processes through prenatal and adolescent life, will be offered by the Home Economics department during Spring semester, Lloyd Luckmann, assistant to the president, disclosed today.

Rose Allen Kraft, instructor who proposed formulating the course to be catalogued as Home Economics 9, will teach the class. A prerequisite is not required for enrollment, Luckmann said.

Students majoring in this field will derive a knowledge of a child's physical growth and development not paralleled by any course at this college, Miss Kraft believes.

She further explained that although sociology and psychology are primarily concerned with studying the child, these courses approach the subject from opposite tangents.

Sociologists emphasize the family as an institution, and psychologists investigate emotional behavior.

Miss Kraft agreed, however, that "there will probably be some overlapping, but I do not expect too much of this. This course will be invaluable to Home Economics majors, and will aid greatly in building up our department."

College Grid Group Plays At Lake Merced

Coached by All-American Johnny Shield, formerly of Santa Clara, the San Francisco Wildcats, composed of exclusively City College personnel, will entertain the Hood Creamery grid team at Lake Merced, Sunday at 2:00 p.m. Admission is free.

The Wildcat lineup is as follows: L.E., West; L.T., Monte; L.G., Kaffke; C., Litvinov; R.G., Sahagian; R.T., Dawson; R.E., Bender; L.H., Smith, R.; R.H., Myers; Q., Bettencourt, and F., Crouch.

The Wildcat starting lineup includes members of the City College varsity as well as members of the junior varsity.

Club Advisory Board Elects Officers Today

Club Advisory Board will hold nominations for election of officers for next semester during its meeting today during college hour, 10:40 a.m., according to Jim Davis, board president.

The board will also be expected to vote on amendments to its constitution, one clause of which provides that the name of Club Advisory Board be changed to Club Activities Board, Davis said.

Ceramic Art Work On Display Now

Ceramic art and hand pottery will be the feature attraction of the main building showcase for the next two weeks.

Illustrating the work of the ceramics class, all of the pottery on exhibit was made by students. The dishes, cooking ware, salt and pepper shakers, and pots in the display were made by molding, glazing, and baking clay.

Instructor Ray Walker thinks that both his advanced class and the beginning students are turning out some colorful and professional looking work.

The showcase was set up by the display class and is one of a series acquainting students with work done throughout the college.

JADE SNOW WONG, salutatorian of the 1940 class of City College, was given the distinction as one of the Ten Young Women of the Year by Mademoiselle magazine for her pottery and ceramics exhibits in New York museum and art galleries.

Jade Snow Wong Was Salutatorian, Honor Student Here

Jade Snow Wong, City College graduate in 1940, yesterday was named one of the ten Young Women of the Year by Mademoiselle Magazine.

The San Francisco craftswoman, whose pottery has won museum exhibition throughout the United States, received one of the magazine's ten 1948 Merit Awards for Signal Achievement in a ceremony in New York City's Hampshire House.

The awards, sterling silver medallions, were presented by Betsy Talbot Blackwell, Mademoiselle's Editor-in-Chief.

Outstanding Student

Miss Wong, known to City College students as Constance, was graduated from City College in 1940, and delivered the salutatory address at the commencement exercises. She was named the winner of the Women's State award because of her high grade average while attending City College.

The young woman artist was also named the highest ranking student of Mills College, class of 1942.

Her pottery has been exhibited by the Museum of Modern Art and the Metropolitan, in New York City, and Harper's magazine will publish her autobiography.

The attractive craftswoman is an author and a model as well, and has written several magazine articles.

Working Women

Miss Wong is probably the only Chinese-American woman to run a ceramics business in the United States, and she was interviewed with other winners as to the problems faced by women who work.

She feels that "there is a great respect for the woman who is an artist, and there is no prejudice against her advancement or financial return so long as she is also a good businesswoman."

She began her ceramics business in 1945, won second prize in earthenware at the 1947 California exhibit, and third prize in enamels at the Los Angeles County Fair this year.

Grade Distribution Slated Next Monday In College Hour Ceremony

Distribution of mid-term grades will take place Monday, January 3, during a special college hour, F. Grant Marsh, coordinator of counseling, said last week.

Following the form that was originated for the first mid-term distribution, grades will be given out in various rooms about the campus, according to surname initials.

The rooms where grades can be picked up in relation to initials are as follows:

INITIALS	ROOM	INITIALS	ROOM

"Students will have difficulty getting their grades after the distribution date," Dr. Marsh said. "In fact," he added, "some students will miss out altogether if they do not pick up their grades at that time."

Setting a new mark for the annual classic, Michigan's Jim Brieske "toed" seven consecutive point after touchdowns in the 49-0 route of Southern California's Trojans in the '48 Rose Bowl.

Last Day For Leave Of Absences Friday

Students planning to take a leave of absence must file petitions in the registrar's office no later than Friday, January 7, Mary Jane Learnard, registrar, said today.

No leaves of absence will be authorized after this date, Miss Learnard warned, and those students who drop out without filing petitions in the registrar's office by this date will receive a final grade of F in the courses they are undertaking.

Since mid-term grades will be distributed Monday, January 3, Miss Learnard said, students should be aware of their plans well before the leave deadline.

Gold Dust Bowl Game Receipts Clear $1000

A guarantee of $1000 and five per cent of the net gate will be the proceeds from the Gold Dust Bowl game, according to Controller Oscar Anderson.

Of the 2000 tickets allotted to City College of San Francisco, 644 were sold, bringing the amount turned over to the Gold Dust Bowl Committee to $1,594, bank figures indicate.

Clubs Will Meet Once Again Today—Brady

Club meetings, absent from the college schedule for several weeks are to be held during college hour at 10:40 a.m. today, Jack Brady, assistant dean of men, said yesterday.

Clubs will meet in rooms assigned earlier in the semester.

Brady also declared that the following Friday, January 14, will be for an election candidates' rally, held in the auditorium. Club meetings will be resumed the following Friday, January 21.

Opera Auditions Start Next Week

Auditions for next spring's college musical productions of The Marriage of Figaro, by Mozart, and Naughty Marietta, by Victor Herbert, will take place daily next week, starting Tuesday, January 11, Co-directors Flossita Badger and Lloyd Sisler announced.

Eager for an early start in casting, since this will be the first time two large musical productions are planned for the same semester, the directors urged all music and drama enthusiasts to try their talents for possible roles.

Auditions will be held at 3 o'clock in the college auditorium.

The Marriage of Figaro, first full scale production of the Opera Workshop, will have a few openings for students outside the workshop, Miss Badger said.

Naughty Marietta, which will feature a large cast of singers, actors, and dancing groups, offers opportunity to approximately 100 students.

Tentative plans schedule campus presentation of The Marriage of Figaro before the Easter vacation in April, while Naughty Marietta will be produced late in May.

Stan Sadler, college artist, is already designing stage sets for The Marriage of Figaro.

A Cappella Concert Slated January 18

Both serious and light opera selections will be presented by the college A Cappella Choir in a concert slated for the Scottish Rite organizations January 28, Flossita Badger, music director, said today.

Featured soloists for the program, to be held in the Scottish Rite auditorium, are David Arrillaga, Irene Boullet, Carolyn Herfield, Eileen Scott and Bob Sherratt.

Orchestra Issues Cry For More Musicians

Students wanting to play in the college orchestra need not be music majors, Meyer M. Cahn, orchestra director, said this week.

Many of the orchestra members are not music majors but students who enjoy playing an instrument. "More orchestra participants, especially string and woodwind musicians, are needed and should try out now for participation in spring opera production," Cahn added.

Officers for the orchestra group include Bill Murray, orchestra manager; Christine Di Silio, librarian; and Robert Tefft, acting student director.

Flower Shop Begins Ming Tree Project

Construction of Dwarf trees, better known as Ming trees, will be the project of The Flower Shop during the next few weeks, according to John Lawrence, shop director.

The idea of these display trees originated and has been most developed in the Orient.

Ming trees have become a fad in the home, and are very expensive because of the delicate and creative construction, Lawrence said.

Dwarf trees resemble ancient trees except for their size.

Vote-Seekers' Petitions Due

Tuesday Initial Day For Election Candidates To Begin Campaigning

Candidates for Associated Student offices, whose petitions to run are due today, will begin their election campaigns on Tuesday, January 11, according to Walt McRae, Election Committee chairman.

A rigid set of rules has been set for the coming elections, and any violation will result in the disqualification of the candidate, McRae said.

Campaign posters will be used as usual but all must be approved by the Publications Board before being hung. Posters will be accepted for consideration by the board chairman next Tuesday, between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. in The Guardsman office.

Only ten placards of 22" x 28" size will be allowed for each candidate, five on or about the campus and five in the off-campus stores.

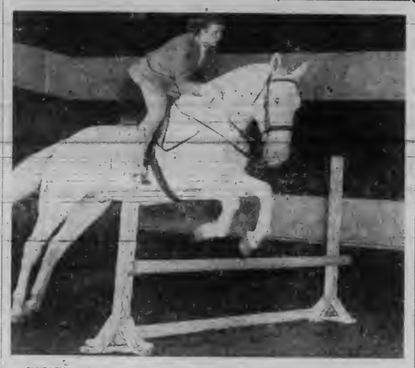
No campaigning will be permitted in the student lounge during the elections, and all posters must be removed from the voting area before the elections take place, the rules provide.

A $15 limit has been placed on campaign expenditures, and this includes the candidate's own funds and also donations from other persons and organizations. McRae placed emphasis on the latter statement.

All handbills, minor parades and other publicity stunts must have the approval of the Dean of Men or Women, McRae added.

Elections will take place on Wednesday and Thursday, January 19 and 20, in the student lounge between 9:30 and 3 o'clock.

The Election Committee anticipates the use of the voting machines again this semester.



Student Council Agree On Election Rules

Acceptance of instructors' letters of recommendations in lieu of the stipulated 1.0 grade average for eligibility of candidacy in the coming Associated Student elections was agreed upon by the councilmen at Tuesday's Student Council meeting.

The debate that precipitated the ruling was sparkplugged by Councilman Jim Fernhoff who took to task last semester's council policy of accepting the letters from instructors of candidates who were carrying less than the required 1.0 point average.

Commented Dean Jack Brady: "Last semester 13 students brought to the council letters stating that the recorded mid-term grades were either a typographical error on the part of the instructor or that the recorded mid-term grade did not show the true scholastic ability of the candidate in question."

The council was moved to action by Election Committee Chairman Walt McRae's suggestion that either the council accepts any grade average below the legal limit, with the letters as qualifications, or that the standard 1.0 be used as the criterion.

SHIRLEY AUSTIN, crack equestrienne and WAA president, goes over the top as she makes with a Lone Ranger in preparation for the WAA Horse Show to be held at the St. Francis Riding Academy tomorrow night, January 8. Miss Austin will take an active part in the show.

WAA Presents Horse Show At Riding Club Tomorrow Night

By Rose Hardle

Climaxing months of preparation, the Woman's Athletic Association presents its annual inter-collegiate horse show tomorrow night at the St. Francis Riding Club, Shirley Austin, president, said yesterday.

The traditional event, featuring both men and women riders from City College as well as six other Northern California colleges, will be held at 7:30 p.m., and admission will be free.

24 Rams Compete

A total of 31 contestants will take part in the show, 24 of whom are representing City College. Participants from this college are Mary Allison, Jean Sliter, Joe Glickman, Nora Thompson, Hank Gumpel, advanced riders; Bob Ott, Annette Low, Dorothy Hayes, Carolyn Reiss, Shirley Austin, Jaequeline Miller, Diane Beach, Helen Glassner, intermediates; and Pat Simmons, Margaret Vaughan, Merritt Olds, Bob Vehlow, Jeanann Kaeppe, Laura Insigne, Roberta Reams, Maureen Carolla, Jean Sommer, and Allyn Shter, beginners.

Other colleges taking part include the University of California, Stanford University, Mills College, San Francisco State College, San Jose State College, and San Mateo Junior College.

Three Judges Named

Judges chosen for the show are Cornelia Van Ness Cress of Mills College, Alma Ricker of San Francisco, and Fred McMillan of the Con Car Ranch.

James Shaw, famous for his work in announcing local polo games, will be the announcer for the show.

Exhibitions will range from beginners to advanced horsemanship, and it has been announced that a perpetual trophy will be presented by the WAA to the winner of the day.

Yearbook Staff Remind Grads Of Picture Date

Graduation pictures for Ram-Pages, the college yearbook, are scheduled to be taken during next week, January 10 to 14, according to a statement released by Jeanne Marsh, managing editor.

All sophomores who are scheduled for a "sitting" are urged to be prompt for their appointments. They have been asked to come to Building 2, Room B, where the pictures will be taken, at least five minutes early in order to don cap and gown.

Men should wear white shirts and ties. There are no other dress requirements. Seventy-five cents must be paid before the picture is taken.

Sophomore Class To Present Formal

One of the biggest social events of the new year hits City College Saturday, January 29, when the Sophomore class presents its annual Sophomore Formal at the Oakland Scottish Rite Auditorium between 9 and 10 o'clock.

Highlight of the evening will be the coronation of the winning king and queen by the Sophomore class, each being presented with a personal loving cup.

Jackson Terry and his orchestra from Oakland will offer an evening of musical entertainment, Dick Featherstonhaugh, Sophomore class president, announced.

This being the formal event of the year, dress for the evening will be tuxedoes or dark suits for men, and formals for women. Corsages will also be in order.

Bids for the affair are being sold at $1.80 per couple.

Members of the dance committee who are making preparations for the annual event are Maria Wilson-Walker, Bob McVey, George Capanis, and Bernie Davis.

Living Accommodations Available On Campus

Living accommodations for 35 male students are now available in campus dormitories, according to Fred McFarland, campus housing counselor.

Because of a new policy, these accommodations are now open to non-veterans, as well as veterans, on a "first come-first served" basis. Applications should be made to McFarland at his office in Building 2.

To students now feeling the pinch of the housing shortage, McFarland announced that space for approximately 50 additional students would be available in another month with the ending of the current semester.

Calendar Shows Today Last Day For Leaves

College officials again warned that today is the last day for filing petitions for leaves of absence.

The petitions must be in the registrar's office by 5:30 p.m. today.

Students who may be required to drop out of college after today will receive a final grade of F for the dropped courses.

Sorority Pledges Aid Library Staff

By Mabel Davis

Recognizing the large load now being handled by the college library staff, Delta Psi sorority pledges have volunteered to assist the library staff one hour a week, Katharine Pedley, cataloging librarian, disclosed.

The work is being done as a service to the college and no monetary reward is being given.

Although a few pledges work on the main floor, doing such jobs as typing notices for overdue books, most women aid Mrs. Pedley upstairs.

Their assistance is used for the typing of pockets, pasting pockets, and typing book lists.

The sorority undertaking, which is to relieve mounting tasks of the librarians, was highly commended by Mrs. Pedley.

"Without their help," she said, "I would have a dilluent, if not impossible, job of clearing the records for this semester."

Many other colleges have profited with volunteer students. Pasadena Junior College is typical of one where volunteers number forty assisting the staff.

Talent Placement Show Set For Next Semester

Love Again, a musical originally scheduled for Saturday, February 5 presentation, has been postponed to the spring semester, since it comes too close to the end of the semester, Hewitt Kendall, Talent Placement Bureau director, announced yesterday.

The bureau program, when presented, will feature as its theme song, "Can It Be Love Again?", from which the title was taken.

Cast members include Roy Barnett, Dave Irvine, Stan Sadler, Hewitt Kendall, Jo Ann Seslow, Joan Anderson, Carolyn Herfield, Michael Cohen, Tony Cuevas, and Barney Howell.

Outstanding Student Receives Service Award

Unsung heroes behind the scene of campus activities will be considered for special recognition, when a committee of student leaders meet in February to select an outstanding student for a Superior Service Award.

Frank Ferguson, Associated Student president, who made the announcement, stated the award would be presented to the person who attains an acceptable academic record while contributing most to the welfare of the college during the fall semester.

The honor, initiated this semester by Ferguson, will be accorded to the student selected by a specific five-man committee. The special choosing staff consists of Ferguson, John Pfeffer, Walt MacRae, Jim Fernhoff, and Jack Hurley.

Students performing outstanding service in the many diversified fields of campus life, will be considered by their capacity and efficiency in contributing eminently to the well-being of the college, Ferguson said.

"This meritorious distinction is being offered," Ferguson volunteered, "with the intention of promoting greater student interest in the college, and also with the purpose of stimulating extensive student participation in student functions."

Campus Politics Take A New Twist; Student "Cross Filing" Is Utilized

REFLECTING the common gossip of the politically interested students about the campus, we find that an unusual situation has arisen in respect to the candidacy for certain offices.

The student opinion expressed seemed to possess a tinge of wonderment as to why the candidates for the presidency and vice-presidency are all members of fraternities and sororities.

This, under pre-war circumstances, would not seem the least unusual. But since the organization of The Student League in the Fall of 1947, the concept of the voting students appeared to be sharpened.

For here at last, they thought, were two political parties. One sponsored and supported by the fraternities and sororities, and another sponsored and supported by the campus clubs and any independent interested student.

Some student quarters think that such a situation means that The Student League is defeated as a political force. They reason that with Student League candidates as members of the opposing group, then obviously, regardless of the outcome of the election, the fraternity party will emerge victorious.

On the other hand, students reason, such a situation is indicative of the decline of the fraternities as a political force on the campus.

Through study, these students are of the belief that should the Student League candidates be elected, even though they are members of fraternities and sororities, the candidates' general idea of representative government will be a reality.

They further feel that although The Student League candidates are members of a social-invitational group, it will in no way affect their political ability within campus government.

Again, the fraternity political supporters feel, that the continuation of fraternity dominated polities will be apparent, because they have been in control for years.

The Guardsman feels that this situation of "cross filing" will at least cause some added interest at the polls—if nothing else.

Accentuate The Positive

By Nancy Loughlin

THROUGH the courtesy of the Call-Bulletin, a lively little gem entitled Office Orchids recently featured two ex-City College students.

The students in discussion, the Misses June Schammel and Lucille Kanister, had no such luck, however, when they were students at this college. It took them some two or three years out in the wide world before their merits were extolled to the public.

It all tends to indicate the injustices of the mass education system when two such lovely women (a blonde and a brunette, respectively) are not given attention when in the bloom of youth.

Presently "old women" in their early twenties, the Misses Schammel and Kanister are working respectively, as a secretary in the office of the City Assessor in the City Hall, and as a TWA hostess (thanks to their superior educations at the City College, natch).

This edifying article hails Miss Schammel as a blue-eyed blonde with domestic tendencies (can an interest in cooking when there is someone else to wash the dishes?)

She also has literary ambitions (hard at work on her first unwritten novel, maybe?).

Miss Kanister, in Office Orchids of the previous issue, is pictured as a charming TWA hostess. A petite brunette with figure to match, she is also a graduate of the City College, and an ex-member of Kappa Phi sorority, to boot.

We remember a party of some months previous at which the young woman in question was present. At this time she had not, as yet, experienced the hardships of the cold world beyond the student store.

The irony of the whole situation is that these two young ladies should not be hailed when they were young, happy, and still capable of party-enjoying.

But with the advent of careers, domestic interests, and writing ambitions, they are pictured as mediocre young women with little vestige of their former vitality remaining. Such a condition is not fitting to such charming women, however.

Courage the Call-Bulletin may get a new writer for Office Orchids we may get a new writer for this column, too.
